It is expected that at least twenty-five nations will compete in the III. Olympic Winter Games at Lake Placid. Provisions are being made for 600 contestants, 150 officials, and a daily attendance of 8,000 spectators during the games. Of this number 6,000 will be resident in Lake Placid and nearby villages, and an additional 2,000 is expected to visit the games for the day, making an overnight trip from New York, Boston, Albany, by special trains, or motoring or flying in from Montreal and other nearby cities. Plans are being made to accommodate approximately 150 newspaper and magazine correspondents from all continents, radio broadcasters, and still, motion, and sound picture photographers and engineers.

TOLMIE CABINET ASKED TO RESIGN

Drastic Portfolio Changes Expected By British Columbia Premier.

NEW FINANCE MINISTER.

VICTORIA, B.C., Oct. 29 (C.P.).—Premier S. F. Tolmie has called for the resignations of his Ministers and prepared to reorganize his entire Cabinet by the end of the week.

The Premier declined to announce the changes which he planned to effect until he could advise the Lieutenant-Governor.

Hon. F. P. Burden, Minister of Lands, will go to London as Agent-General, succeeding F. A. Pauline, whose voluntary resignation has been in the hands of the Premier for some days.

H. D. Twigg, M.P.P., of Victoria, is expected to succeed Mr. Jones as Speaker of the Legislature. He is now Deputy Speaker.

The big changes in the Cabinet slate are the appointment of J. W. Jones to the Finance portfolio, the elevation of B. W. Bruhn to the Public Works department, and J. S. Lougheed's transfer to the Lands department, succeeding Mr. Burden. It is understood that it is possible some further changes may be made at a later date.

The extension and improvement of the road system in Jalsico, Mexico, is due in large measure to the enthusiasm of the provisional governor, who is conducting a promotional campaign among the people of the province.

Illegal Touchdown Scored Proved By Motion Pictures

NEW YORK, October 29.—Football students had the problem, "When is a touchdown not a touchdown?' before them yesterday, as well as the growing speculation that all is not as well as it might be in the football relations of Yale and Army.

Pigskin officials at Old Eli announced yesterday after a review of motion pictures of Saturday's Army-Yale game that Tom Kilday, cadet halfback, had scored an illegal touchdown in putting Army in a position to gain a 7-7 tie. They claim that the pictures, viewed in private by Head Coach Mal Stevens, Line Coach Adam Walsh, Tad Jones, Dean Clarence Mendell, and Harold F. Woodcock, general manager of the Yale Athletic Association, showed that Kilday was knocked over the goal line from behind by Stecker, a halfback mate, after he had been stopped short of the goal in a charge from the Yale one-yard line.

MOTOR LEAGUE DEFENDS DRIVER

20 MILES PER HOUR.

As an instance of the protection which the Ontario Motor League is continually affording to its members, the case of a local motorist who was recently summoned for travelling at more than 20 m.p.h. through Scarboro township, is of peculiar interest.

The case has not yet been disposed of in the magistrate's court and Phelan and Richardson, solicitors of Toronto are battling away in the hope of getting the case dismissed and if there is a conviction will appeal on behalf of their client on the grounds that on this particular stretch of highway which is unmarked as to any village limits, the speed limit is 35 m.p.h.

The offending motorist, a member of the Peterborough branch of the O.M.L. says, that he is accused of going more than 20 m.p.h. in the township of Scarboro'. He does not know where the Toronto city limits are and has heard of many other motorists who say the same thing.

He is of the opinion that there must be a speed trap somewhere on this highway and thinks that at least there should be some identification mark to tell when one has passed the city limits.

He has been driving a car for the past twenty-five years and this is the first time he has ever been summoned, for any infraction of the law in this country or any other of the several countries he has been driving in, and is at a loss to know how the township has the authority to summon a man for driving 20 m.p.h. when the limit is supposed to be 35 m.p.h.

NEW DECISION IS REACHED BY CUP OFFICIALS

Bluenose to Meet Gertrude L. Thebaud on November 8.

OFF HALIFAX.

Series Will Consist of Two Victories Out of Three Races For Dennis Trophy.

HALIFAX, Oct. 29.—The veteran schooner Bluenose of Lunenburg, which won the championship of the North Atlantic fishing fleets from Gloucester schooner Elsie in 1921, will meet her recent conqueror in the Lipton exhibition series, Gertrude L. Thebaud of Gloucester, off Halifax on Saturday, Nov. 8, in the first of a two out of three series for championship honors and the Dennis Cup. This decision, arrived at yesterday by the trustees of the trophy, was announced yesterday afternoon, after proposals setting the date of the first race and stipulating prizes of $1,500 to the winner and $1,000 to the loser, had been wired to the vessel owners and accepted.

The trustees, at Monday's meeting, had decided that a series this fall would be inadvisable, but reconsidered their decision on request of the Gloucester Committee.

Following the exhibition series off Gloucester, work was at once commenced on the Thebaud, her foremast being moved back two feet, three inches, and her mainmast three feet six inches, necessitating removal of two feet from the bowsprit. It is understood this work will be completed this week, and that the Gloucester challenger will be ready to sail for Halifax in plenty of time.

Bluenose, since her return from Gloucester, has been in process of overhauling and refitting in preparation for the series.

McLARNIN TANGLE RECEIVES SANCTION

NEW YORK, Oct. 29—The New York State Athletic Commission yesterday approved the match between Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver, B.C., welter, and Billy Petroll of Fargo, N.D., schduled for Madison Square Garden the night of Nov. 24.

This match will take the place of the Justo Suarez-Jimmy McLarnin bout recently called off because of Suarez's 60-day suspension by the commission. Suarez, suspended for hitting low in his bout with Louis Kid Kaplan, expects to visit his home in Argentina and return here in the spring.

The commission also put the O.K. stamp on a match between Bud Taylor and the winner of the Kid Chocolate-La Barba bout scheduled for Nov. 28.

The following have been suspended for disorderly conduct: Johnny and Elmer Giccone, who met at Schenectady, and Italian Joe Gans and Joey Ambramo, who were ruled out for their parts in separate fracases in Brooklyn.

RODDEN DETERMINED TO HAVE TIGERS IN PINK OF CONDITION FOR TANGLE WITH SENATORS

Coach Determined to Take No Chances Despite Weakness of Ottawa Squad.

BOADWAY IN UNIFORM.

Win For Western Over Queen's Will Give Mustangs Chance at Title.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 29 (C.P.) — After limbering up yesterday in light practices, practically every team in Eastern Canada's major football unions settle down to strenuous work to-day in preparation for Saturday's important games.

Hamilton Tigers were about the only team to be put through a stiff workout last night. Coach Mike Rodden is determined to have his charges in the pink of condition for the game against the Senators at Ottawa. The Tigers were drilled for 90 minutes and a new set of rules gone over. These will likely be used against the Ottawans.

Three regulars were absent from the practice due to injuries received in the game against Montreal A.A.A., last Saturday. Ernie Rohmer, husky middle wing; Alex. Denman, inside; and Ernie Sox, snap, were the absentees. The trio are expected to be ready for the Senator game, and it is likely Ray Boadway, who has been on the sidelines since the team returned from its pre-season prowl in Western Canada, will also get into action.

Much entrusiasm was shown about the Toronto Argonaut camp last night as the team commenced training for "Big Four" feature with the Montreal Winged Wheelers. Defeat means practically elimination from the race for the losing team. The Montrealers are tied with Hamilton in the point column but have played an extra game. Argos are one point behind the two leaders and have a game in hand as far as the Winged Wheelers are concerned.

Like the Wheelers at Montreal, Argos last night merely breezed through light conditioning exercises. They will start heavy training tonight.

The arc lights are being installed at the Stadium in London so that Coach Joe Breen can put his Western Mustangs through longer drills during the late afternoon. The Mustangs are confident they can lower the colors of Queen's University in the game at Kingston on Saturday. A victory for the Western Ontario University representatives would place them right in the running for the title as most critics believe they have a splendid chance to trounce University of Toronto, leaders of the Intercollegiate Union, when the blue and white clad rugbyists travel to the Forest City for the return game next month.

Western, with one victory over McGill University to their credit, lost at London to Queen's through tough "breaks" and at Toronto against Varsity through unfortunate misplays. Both defeats were by narrow margins, so that there is a possibility the Mustangs may sweep through to win every remaining game on their schedule.

Varsity journey to Montreal for their return game with McGill, and are expected to keep their winning record intact. The local students have won all three games played to date, due to Jack Sinclair's powerful kicking. Realizing this Major Stuart Forbes, the McGill mentor, is planning his line of attack with a view to stopping Sinclair, but it looks like a difficult assignment considering the fact that McGill line has yet to show prominent strength.

Football under the arc lights will be tried for the first time here tonight when Balmy Beach, leaders of the Eastern group of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, play an exhibition game with Oshawa Blue Devils, a strong intermediate team. The game will serve a two-fold purpose for in addition to giving the Beaches a workout for their game with Varsity Orpnans, it will also show the feasibility of playing gridiron tilts at night.

Representatives of the University of Toronto, Balmy Beach, and Argonauts saw the first soccer game played under the flood lights here last night, and all were favorably impressed.

RELATIONS TOLD OF DEPORTATIONS MITCHELL SAYS

Immigration Superintendent Emphatic in Statement Regarding Epileptics.

HOSPITALS OVERCROWDED.

Claims Countries Notified of Action and Patients Cared For on Arrival.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 28 (C.P.) — Denial that epileptics were deported from Ontario mental hospitals without their families being notified, was made to-day by J. C. Mitchell, Dominion Government Immigration Superintendent for Toronto district.

Epileptics and other cases who come under the compulsory deportation clauses of the Immigration Law," according to Mr. Mitchell are being deported from the Mimico, Queen Street and Whitby Hospitals for the insane practically every week. Approximately 800 deportation orders were made out for this district, although all of these were not pressed.

Not "Dumped" Abroad

In no case is it possible, Mr. Mitchell insisted, that relatives of these people have not been notified, and in no case likewise, is it possible that they are "dumped" into other countries without any place to go. In all cases, he said, the authorities of other countries are notified that the deportation is being made and the patients are cared for. In England, usually, they are kept in some temporary institutions until it is ascertained what municipality of the British Isles is responsible for the patient.

In every case, Mr. Mitchell pointed out, the municipality or the Ontario Government through the Provincial Secretary, who has control of the public institutions where these patients usually are housed, is responsible for the preliminary action.

Mr. Mitchell explained that as far as he knew there had not been any deportation this week, but that there had been four last week. He agreed with the Ontario authorities that the hospitals were overcrowded.

COMPETITION KEEN FOR REGULAR BERTHS ON THE MONTREAL TEAMS

CHARITY GAME PLANNED.

MONTREAL, Oct. 29.—An answer to the much-discussed problem as to how a first-class amateur team would show up against professionals may be given here Saturday night, when Montreal Maroons divide into two camps for their annual pre-season charity game. On one side will be last year's world amateur champions, Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, who turned pro. with the Maroons almost as a body this spring; and on the other the regular Maroon team. Previous efforts to stage a contest of this kind have been blocked by the amateur authorities, but this contest will be permissible, as all the players will be professional, although many of them have never played in a professional game.

Except for Dinny Dinsmore, member of last year's Maroons, the whole opposing team consists of the Allan Cup-holders. Arrangements have been made to give some of the older players to the "amateur" team if the contest is too one-sided, but the "amateurs" insist that this will not be necessary.

The older members of the Maroons have learned that they will have to fight for their places on the team for the coming season. At the present time there are 24 players trying for the 15 regular berths and considerable rivalry has developed for the positions. Several combinations, both for defensive and offensive plays, have been made up by Manager Dunc Munro, all of which will be tried out before any of the players are sent to the bulldogs.

Cecil Hart's Canadiens will take to the Forum ice on Thursday, instead of waiting until next week, it was decided yesterday. The advance in dates was deemed necessary owing to the practice games with the Providence Reds set for Nov. 5 and 7 at the Forum. Most of the members of the Providence team were in town to-day.

STRIBLING MATCHED WITH JACK SHARKEY

Boston Heavyweight Guaranteed $50,000 For Bout in Atlanta.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 29—The Constitution says that W. L. ("Young") Stribling, heavyweight contender, has agreed to meet Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, here in January and that a guaranteed offer of $50,000 has been made to Sharkey for the bout by the Atlanta Baseball and Amusement Company.

The promoters already have booked a Stribling-De Kuh bout here on Armistice Day.

Stribling, The Constitution says, has agreed to a percentage cut.

VESSELS HEADING TO WINTER DOCKS

Next Few Weeks Busy For Lake Mariners in Overhauling Ships.

MOVE 6 WEEKS EARLY.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 29.—(CP)—Six weeks before the "official" close of navigation many vessels on the Great Lakes have headed into winter quarters, either to be laid up for lack of cargo, or else to store their winter load of grain, for which there is no room in elevators. And while the early cessation has added to the ranks of unemployed, so far as the crews of many vessels are concerned, indirectly it has helped Canadian business. This paradox may seem a strange one, but yet it is true.

Costly Operation

It costs money, and lots of it, to operate a steamship through the summer months, but it also costs money to lay it up. Engines have to be overhauled, extra supplies taken on board for watchmen, heavy oil and grease bought to cover brightwork, and extra lines to hold it to the dock. And, too, it takes extra men to perform all this work, even though the work takes but two or three weeks.

"Laying up" a lake boat is quite a job. Decks are cleared of anything removable, doors tightly closed and the majority of the port holes and windows covered with whitening. The interior is swept bare and clean. Lifeboats are taken ashore, turned upside down and covered; davits are lashed securely so they cannot swing in the wildest winds. Side and masthead lights are taken down. Ventilators are plugged and canvassed. Even the heel ropes used to raise the wooden fenders when the ship is on the lake are removed, and the baulks of timber left hanging. In order to stop the rudder from swinging, preventer chains are run from each side.

The engine room is a scene of activity, of course. The tops are taken from the huge cylinders and the walls of the latter smeared with thick grease. Those shining cranks and crankshafts, pride of the engineer, are so covered with the rust-preventive that they are hardly recognizable. All pumps, motors, generators and extra machinery also receives the same treatment.

Special Moorings

And, usually last of all, the vessel is made fast to the dock. No matter how sheltered the harbor, or how snug the slip, extra precautions are always taken. Bow, breast and stern lines of three-inch Manila, doubled and trebled, and with wire hawsers enforcing them, are taken ashore. And then, to make assurance doubly sure, the anchor chain is usually stretched from ship to shore and back again.

When the crew finally leaves, with the lonely watchman waving adieu, everything is ship shape and the vessel may be safely left until the opening of navigation in spring.

Hockey Rumors Float Around City as Ole' King Winter Makes Himself Known.

MUCH MATERIAL.

Lindsay Club Wants to Enter Southern Group—Activity in T.V.L.

A severe attack of hockey fever is already gripping many local performers of the ice game. With the professional teams already on the ice and players being groomed for the long season, the winter game is again the main topic of conversation.

Managers are being quizzed as to what plan they intend following for the coming O.H.A. season, since the players are anxious to line-up with an active organization. Many of the players have made several trips to Oshawa to try out their flying blades on the artificial sheet of the Motor City stadium, which recently opened for its second year. Others are taking regular work in the "Y" gymnasium.

No definite word has been given out by either the Peterborough Hockey Club or the St. John's Club as to their intentions, but a casual survey is being made to learn the material at hand.

Bert Austin, hustling manager of St. John's, will likely call a meeting this week merely to learn the extent of the players' enthusiasm and lay plans for the season. He may enter his team again in the S.P.A. series for an early starter.

Trouble In Lindsay.

Meanwhile the boys at Lakefield have just started on a hectic softball season. Lindsay is looking over the field and expressing the desire not to be grouped with Fenelon Falls and Bobcaygeon, preferring rather to get into the group south of them.

Activity too of a more extensive nature is gripping the teams in the hardy Trent Valley League. Some of last year's stars have lit out for a go in pro. circles, and the managers are hard put to it to replace their loss. Indications are, however, that the Trent League will dish up just as keen competition as ever.

DOUG. BRENNAN SIGNS WITH VANCOUVER CLUB FOR ANOTHER SEASON

Former Local O.H.A. Defense Player Will Act as Captain and Coach for the Lions This Year—Has Played on Several Teams in District Since First Entering the Game.

WORKS AS BRAKIE DUR ING SUMMER MONTHS.

By J. R. Bedford

HAVELOCK, Oct. 29.—(Special to Examiner)—Douglas Brennan, the local professional hockey player, has signed up for the coming season with Manager Patrick of the Vancouver Lions, for the past two years champions of the Pacific Coast League. "Doug" will be coach and Captain of the club again this year, as last. He stated today that he got a satisfactory contract. Brennan, the ex-Havelock-Peterborough-Kenora defence man, was going so big for Patrick's Vancouver Lions in the Coast League last season that the Vancouver Star devoted a big double column sketch to him and his hockey adventures and activities. Sy Meyer the sports scribe acclaimed him to be the fastest defense man in the league last season. Big burly, and brawny, Irish too, sturdy of frame, with more than his share of courage, always smiling—that's Brennan, defence man of the Vancouver Lions.

This year Detroit was bidding for Brennan, but Patrick held out a very attractive contract, and Doug finally signed on the dotted line. Doug has been in training these last two months, as some early risers can testify, who have seen him doing his daily dozen at the local park track. But as far as that goes, he is never really out of training, as in the pursuit of his duties as brakeman with the C. P. R. it is nothing for him to run the greater part of a mile to turn a switch. His is not training for a few weeks only, but a steady year round affair.

His home garden in which he takes a great delight is also a training ground for this remarkable athlete. Doug is not only a hockey player of marked ability and courage but was also an excellent lacrosse player in the days when Havelock held her own in this game.

Started Early

Doug started playing hockey at a very tender age. His first venture outside Havelock was with the Peterborough Holy Name society in the junior league. He was one of the Havelock players in some of the long to be remembered games between Havelock and Tweed, which finished with a free-for-all, with every one on the ice. This probably accounts for his ability to withstand the knocks and bumps attendant on his career as a hockey player.

Last year he was said by sports writers to be the hard luck man of the Lions. He received a fractured toe in one game, injured his knee and cut his lip in another, a strained ligament in the shoulder, a poke in the mouth with a hockey stick, and a number of other minor injuries. Through it all he missed only one full game.

He played with Kenora Thistles the season of 1926 and 27. During the latter part of the season 1927 he went to the Winnipeg Maroons, and remained with them for a season and a half. In the year 1928 and 29 he signed up with Patrick of the Vancouver Lions. The following year he returned as captain, this year he is to be coach and captain. Doug is now twenty-five years old. Most players last until about thirty-five, but Brennan bids fair to stand the pace much better than the average player.

Brennan leaves for the coast on Sunday next. He will be accompanied this season by his wife and little daughter.

He covered the distance in 2.23 3-5, beating by 2 1-5 seconds the previous mark established by the German racer, Dr. Peltzer. The performance in the 1,000 metres marked his second world's record in two weeks. On October 5 he ran 1,500 metres in 3.49 1-5 to break Peltzer's record.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETIES OF THE LINDSAY PRESBYTERY GATHER IN OMEMEE CHURCH

Representatives From Every Charge Take Part in Three Sessions.

NEED FUNDS FOR WORK

Dr. Agnew Stresses Great Need for Qualified Workers in Foreign Fields.

OMEMEE, Oct. 29 (Examiner Correspondence)—The Young People's Societies of the Lindsay Presbytery met in convention at Trinity United Church on Thursday with three sessions. The weather being ideal the attendance was splendid almost every charge being represented by the pastors of the different circuits accompanied by delegates from the different appointments.

The morning session opened with the able president, Harry Jackson in the chair. The Rev. J. T. E. Blanchard pastor of Trinity United Church extended greetings to the visitors after which E. P. Stewart, of Ontario Prohibition Union delivered an address. This was followed by a solo by Dr. Agnew a returned missionary from China who took the place of Dr. Stephenson, of Toronto who was unable to be present owing to illness. The remainder of the morning was spent in transacting the business of the Unions.

Help and Funds Needed

Dr. Agnew speaking at the afternoon session on the subject young people's special objectives, stressed the great need of qualified workers in the foreign field. Hospitals and schools have been forced to close their doors to patients and pupils owing to the lack of helpers. The great need of funds to advance the work was also emphasized.

The Rev. C. C. Washington, of Fenelon Falls, chairman of the Presbytery gave a few instructive remarks to the delegates and the Rev. W. A. E. Doe, of Woodville spoke on the fourth commandment dealing chiefly with the present day conditions on the Sabbath.

A vocal solo entitled, "Others," was rendered by the Rev. Mr. Blanchard to the pleasure of the convention after which the roll call was responded to by the various churches. "The Early Church," was the subject selected by the Rev. R. M. Patterson, of Janetville who outlined and enlarged on the subject to the benefit of his hearers.

A round table conference was conducted by the Rev. H. A. Mellow, of Manilla and the afternoon session was brought to a close by a familiar hymn.

Evening Service

The evening service was opened with a song service conducted by the Omemee Young People's Society with the president, Miss M. Faulkner in charge and the scriptural lesson was read by Mi ssChristina Connell. An anthem by the choir of Omemee church was well received after which the reports of the various committees were heard.

It was decided between sessions by the committee that the Lindsay Presbytery raised $500 over and aboe the regular amount, the same to be spread over the Young People's Societies.

The installation of officers was conducted by the Rev. W. A. E. Doe, of Woodville and was very impressive. Miss Margaret Werry favored the gathering with a vocal solo. The Rev. Roy Rickard, of Oakwood, spoke on the relation of young people to the Sunday School, and brought out his points by questions and answers by the delegates.

The Rev. Dr. Agnew was heard in a beautiful vocal solo after which he addressed the congregation dealing with the present day conditions of China with her dense population of 400 millions. He spoke briefly of the chaos through which the country is passing, which looks very discouraging but the speaker believes there is a bright future for her. 'It isn't Christianity, it is Christ she needs, and it is too bad she cannot look to the Western countries." Dr. Agnew had many curios with him which were viewed with pleasure at the close of the session.

The Young People's Union of Trinity Church served dinner and tea to the visiting delegates.

Church Society Holds Jolly Hallowe'en Party

Mrs. R. Payne, Ware Street, was the hostess on Tuesday evening, when more than sixty guests participated in a Hallowe'en party, under the auspices of the Cheerful Workers' Class of St. James' United Church. The costumes were masterpieces, ranging from the grotesque to the beautiful. Ghosts welcomed the guests and ushered them into the dimly lighted rooms, decorated in black and orange in true Hallowe'en spirit. Glimpses into the future, with very suggestive hints regarding the present and the past, afforded a merry period, and heralded in a very ghostly ghost walk, which every one survived. An apple paring contest tested the agility of many nimble fingers and was finally won by Mesdames Porter and Close. The lucky chair prize was won by Miss Alice Winterbottom. Partners were chosen and unique packages of delicacies were served by the refreshment committee, when a delightful social half-hour was enjoyed by the class members. Mrs. A. Brumwell, on behalf of the Cheerful Workers, tendered a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Payne for lending her home for the occasion, which everyone endorsed in the usual way. "God Save the King" brought to a happy conclusion the successful party. Another and very real ghost walk was commenced amid peals of thunder and electric illumination as the Cheerful Workers started on their homeward way.

Jimmy Bottomley May Replace Grimm As Regular First Sacker for Cubs

CHICAGO, Ills., October 29 (C.P.). — Long awaited developments and changes in the Cub baseball family are expected to start to morrow when Manager Rogers Hornsby returns to establish his winter headquarters.

Since his elevation to the managership on September 26, Hornsby has refused to affirm or deny rumors of wholesale changes in the team's personnel, but from to-morrow on, announcements of changes are expected to be numerous, if not shocking to the baseball world.

The status of Captain Charlie Grimm, regular Cub first baseman for the past six seasons, is one of the big question marks in the minds of Cub fans. Rumor has it that Grimm is to be traded or sold and that Jim Bottomley of the St. Louis Cardinals will succeed him.

Another report involves Leo "Gabby" Hartnett, the big Cub catcher. It is known that Hornsby thinks well of the ability of Al Epohrer, backstop for the Boston Braves, and that he wants him to become a Cub, especially with a lot of new pitching talent coming to the Cubs next spring. However, it is improbable that Hartnett will be traded in such a deal, although the Cubs still want Third Baseman Arthur Carter Whitney of the Philadelphia Nationals, and are willing to pay considerable cash and part with a player or two for him.

NEW PRESIDENT WELL GUARDED

Vargas Taking No Chances of Assassination By Political Enemies.

HEADS FOR CAPITAL.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Oct. 29. (AP) — Extreme precautions were taken to-day to safeguard the life of Dr. Getulio Vargas, proceeding to Ciudad Saopaulo and Rio Janeiro to assume control of the Brazilian Government.

Despite victory of the revolution and almost phenomenal popularity of the man it was felt by revolutionary leaders that there still are elements which question his designation by the Military, Junta which deposed President Washington Luis as the Logical figure for the presidency.

All that is known here of the Rio Grande do Sul leader's plans is that he has ordered a special train which he is boarding at Itarare proceeding first through the state of Sao Paulo to its capital, and thence to Rio de Janeiro. There are widespread reports that he will arrive here to-day, prepared to outline future policies of the revolution and new Government, but there has been no word here of definite departure from Itarare. He is expected to bring with him a force of caugho or cowboy rebel cavalry.

Captain Juarez Tavora, leader of the victorious revolutionary army of the north, arrived here yesterday afternoon by airplane from Bahia, and was given a tumultuous greeting by the populace. The youthful military leader, asking that no military men enter the new government, has effaced himself gracefully from a situation in which at least one section of the country would have considered him as having equal rights with Dr. Vargas for the Presidency.

CHURCH CONFIRMS RUMORS.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 29.—Rumors that T. L. Church, K.C., former member of the House of Commons for Toronto Centre West, had been invited to contest a seat as a Conservative candidate in the next British election have been confirmed by Mr. Church, who declared, however, he had not seriously considered the invitation yet. The name of the constituency has not been disclosed.

ANNUAL MEETING LACKS QUORUM

Second Unsuccessful Attempt Made to Hold C.G.E. Club Meeting.

MAY CHANGE RULES.

For the second time this season an unsuccessful effort has been made to hold the annual meeting of the C.G.E. Social and Athletic Club, due in both cases to a clause in the existing constitution which calls for a quorum of 50 members to be present at an annual meeting before business can be transacted.

The first attempt was made two weeks ago, but this meeting was postponed when only fifteen members appeared. The second session, scheduled for last night at the Canadian Legion Hall, drew an attendance of 27 members which, although not enough to carry on with, encouraged the chairman to call the gathering to order.

Business progressed in an orderly and efficient manner for over an hour, when S. J. Hayes started the fireworks when he went on record as stating that he doubted the legality of the proceedings.

Order was restored when a motion was passed stating that the members present carry on the business of the Association. Those present, however, seemed to have become inbued with a feeling that the proceedings were not constitutional and continually hurled questions at the chair regarding this issue. Mr. Hayes then asked permission of the chairman to withdraw from the meeting, and when the request was granted, four others accompanied him from the room.

The remaining members, after discussing the situation from every angle decided that it would be advisable to discontinue the meeting until such time as a quorum could be assembled, C. C. Mowry making a motion, seconded by N. E. Crowe, that all previous motions passed at this meeting be rescinded and that John Barns remain chairman until a meeting be called and his successor elected.

The governing body of this organization have invariably encountered difficulties in assembling enough members at an annual meeting to transact business despite the fact that the club at present has a membership of 984.

Last season the problem was solved after an unsuccessful attempt when the officers advertised a meeting offering three geese as door prizes. There was 87 present, and it seems altogether likely that this system or something similar will have to be used as an inducement this year.

The chairman has a notice of motion suggesting the introduction of a new constitution, which reduces the quorum to 25 and has several other new features. This proposed constitution has already been drafted and was circulated among the members at the meeting last night.

The Chamber of Commerce preaches a creed of belief in ourselves without which outsiders will not believe in us.

TEXAS GUNMAN LOSES MANAGER

Officers Pay Visit to Night Club Hostess' Party and Make Arrests.

200 GUESTS WATCH.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Texas Guinan had another embarrassing moment today when she discovered she had been entertaining cops unawares again.

The blow-off came early this morning while about 200 guests were watching the floor show which Miss Guinan directs at the Club Argonaut in West 54th Street.

Two men in proper evening clothes, who had visited the place frequently enough recently to be classed as "regulars" approached the mistress of ceremonies and confided to her that they weren't patrons at all, but just two detectives bent on doing their duty.

"Boys, I thought you were here as guests", exclaimed Miss Guinan, more in sorrow than in anger and added, "I hope you are not going to arrest me."

"Not you, but we're going to make some other arrests", the detectives told her.

Suiting the action to the word, they arrested Bernardi Tann, Assistant Manager and Bernard Altman, captain of waiters, charging them with maintaining a nuisance under a state law and with furnishing "pet ups" (or liquor, an offense under the Federal Prohibition law.

The detectives then gathered up partly filled bottles from several tables where guests were seated.

Miss Guinan's last official contact with the police before today was in April 1929 when they raided the club where she was hostess. That was only a few days after she had been acquitted in Federal Court of maintaining a nuisance at the Salon Royale which was raided by Federal prohibition agents.

IN POLICE COURT

Clive Edwards, truck driver of Keene, was charged in Police Court this morning with failing to return to the scene of an accident G. N. Gordon, K.C., represented the accused, who did not plead or elect, and the trial was adjourned for one week.

The accident occurred on the Havelock-Marmora road on October 14. Edwards, it is alleged, collided with B. R. Stranos fruit truck, forcing it into the ditch, where it rolled over, causing slight injuries to the driver. It is further alleged that Edwards did not stop, but Strano's driver later identified his truck.

Raymond Leonard was fined $10.00 for driving a truck without a chauffeur's license, and Ben McCoy was fined $5.00 for making a left-hand turn in the city without drawing first to the centre of the road and giving warning of his intention to turn.

For speeding on the Port Hope Highway, Jack Jennings was fined $15.00, and H. C. VanAllen paid a $3.00 fine for driving without a tail light.

THEATRES

JOE COOK IN "RAIN OR SHINE."

The turning wheel of theatrical amusement brings to the forefront many new stars. In a recent article about Hollywood, the author remarked that every train arriving in the city brought its quota of new performers to replace those who had already attained distinction. He pictured the regulars as shivering in their shoes at the constant round of changes in the studios.

So Joe Cook comes as a fresh arrival to the talkies. He is the type of comedian who might be nowhere at all in the deaf and dumb drama. In the talking pictures, he is a scream. It is his line of gab that enchants the attention of the audience and brings a constant succession of laughs. Just to listen to him hypnotize verbally the bemused Amos Shrewbury, the lanky, bespectacled gentleman who has tons of language poured into his ears in rapid tempo by the voluble "Smiley" Johnson, is to enjoy a barrel of fun that only the conversational screen could present.

The action revolves about that popular adjunct of modern and old-time life: a circus. The tanbark ring, the sawdust circle, the big top, the band and calliope and cavorting clowns of the circus form the atmosphere. The owner of the Greater John Rainely Shows is the heroine and "Smiley" is the manager. The pathos that lurks behind the fun and joy of the circus is in this picture and the ending is quite unsatisfactory, because it takes away from the screen that little, plain man 'Smiley' Johnson, far too soon. Why can't they spin these likeable tales out a little longer? He must have had plenty of funny conversation left in him when they flashed him out and strung "The End" across the silver sheet.

Romance and struggle against financial difficulty, the wiles of a couple of deep-dyed villains trying to wrest the show from Mary Grainger, and the undaunted courage of "Smiley" make the picture, "Rain or Shine." It is one of those comfortable, homey performances that takes the audience right into its confidence and makes the listeners feel as if they were living with the actors. It has plenty of real, honest humour and is peppered with laughs and chuckles. It is here for four days.

The opening reel is a lovely bit of harp and violin music called "Chords of Memory" with a blind man listening to strains of long ago, that concludes with Dvorak's exquisite composition "Goin' Home."

The short accompanying comedy shows a pair of "chumps" putting it all over a gang of big-city card sharps.

LARGE CONGREGATIONS ATTEND LAKEFIELD CHURCH ANNIVERSARY

Rev. H. A. Kent, D.D., of Queen's University is Speaker at Services.

SPECIAL MUSIC.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 29. (Examiner Correspondence)—The anniversary services of Knox United Church held on Sunday, October 26th, were marked with large congregations and exceptionally good services. The choir, under the direction of Mrs. J. R. Hull, directoress and Miss Etta Garbutt, organist, had prepared special music which was very pleasing. Rev. H. A. Kent, D.D., of Queen's University, Kingston, was the special preacher at both services. Announcement was made of the anniversary dinner and concert on Tuesday night and of the visit to Peterborough on Thursday of this week of Rev. Dr. Oliver, moderator of the United Church of Canada.

The evening services opened with a stirring anthem, "Soldiers of Christ Arise," a familiar hymn with a new setting, Rev. S. A. Kemp of Regent St. United Church, assisted Rev T. M. Wesley, with the services.

Mr. Watson of Peterborough, contributed two solos "Beautiful Land on High" and "Come Unto Me". Miss Black of Peterborough, sang a solo also, very acceptably.

Another rousing hymn with a pretty new setting was sung by the choir, "Oh, Worship the King", the solo part being taken by Mrs. Hull's pleasing soprano.

Dr. Kent prefaced his scholarly sermon by expressing a wish that all parents of students at Queen's could have heard the inaugural address of Dr. Fyfe, the new principal. His aim is that every young man should graduate for the University, a Christian gentleman. He has the ideals of the great English public schools and is a great friend of the theological students. He is of Scottish parentage and has all the traditions of the Scottish church. He also has the advantage or disadvantage of being an Anglican.

Dr. Kent took his text for the 2nd verse of the 32nd chapter of the book of Isaiah —"And a man shall be as an hiding place from the wind and a covert from the tempest, as rivers of waters in a dry place, as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land." These words have come out of the long ago for a man of another country who belonged to a world long since dead. People ask why we go back to the old Testament for advice when people know so much more now than at that period, we ought to disabuse our minds of that conceit that we are more learned than these men for what they knew, they knew better than we do and they did things better. Are any modern philosophers considered as great as Plato and Aristotle, are any modern orators considered as fine as Cicero and Demosthenes, or is any modern preacher the equal of Hosea? These men of the long ago knew more about religion than we do in many respects, they said things about God's treatment of mankind that we are only trying to understand. In that great desert of Palestine there are no trees and the great rocks are the only shelter as a traveller said it looked as if it was stoned for its sins.

What he is trying to tell us is about what God's idea of an ideal man might be. In the history of the world, the ideals of mankind have changed with the changing ages. As we read the book of Judges, we see Samson, the powerful man of large bones and who boasted of the power of his great strength and then when he was trapped by his enemies, he slew more in his death than in his life. In the Psalms we read of the ideal as "He that hath clean hands and a pure heart, Samson had neither. In the Greek Empire Hercules, with his immense physical strength was the ideal for a time, but later that was superseded by the intellectual and the sculptor. The ideal of the Roman Empire was the arrogant man who would open any door with the words: "I am a Roman citizen," a man who won rings on his fingers, rich clothing and whose hands touched no implement save the hilt of the Roman sword. In the middle ages of which Sir Walter Scott writes so much, there were two ideals, the knight whose aim was to protect the weak and redress their wrongs, and the monk with his shaven head, living a solitary life for fear of contamination. These ideals have passed as the ages have flowed on and there are some to-day who think all fine ideals are dead and speak of the good old times, which never existed save in their imagination. In the 40's there was a fight at the induction of a minister in Cape Breton from the effects of which two men died and in 1820, in Nova Scotia, at an election, two church of Scotland ministers with Glengarry bonnets on their heads and clubs in their hands, stood in the poling booth and they told the officials: "So what you see us do" and when the Liberals came to vote they clubbed them.

If there is less of piety to-day than fifty or sixty years ago there is also less bitterness. In 1770 the first Presbyterian minister ever called to a Canadian church was called to Truro, N.S., where the speaker was born, and where his great grandfather was one of the elders. The minister, Rev. Daniel Copp, of Greenock, Scotland, was a pioneer missionary and is influence is still felt in Nova Scotia, but in his manse were two black slave women, one was useless and he sold her, the other was useful and he kept her. To-day, his great grandson, who bears the same name, is a missionary among the dark skinned people far across the sea.

We speak of things going to the dogs and as that saying has come down for past ages, we can only say that the dogs have had an awful long wait.

What are the ideals of the English race? Perhaps they are best expressed by Charles Dickens, that great author, who personally knew poverty, hunger and want. In his book 'Bleak House" and in his powerful book, "The Tale of Two Cities" he expresses much of the ideals of his day. Since 1914, we have been strangly blind; in the days before the war we had great notions of what we would like, but they all failed to save us in the days of terror. Some wise men were the worst traitors and we depended on the lads from the farms, the falling and the field as savours of our country.

This old man, Isaiah, of these far away days had a vision of a kingdom; there are two props to every nation: viz: righteous government and unselfish character. The lack of these sent all the great Empires of the past into the discard; our own is only a thing of yesterday and what guarantee have we that we are better than they?

It is always possible that our motors, ships and aeroplanes will lie under the sod too, unless we build better than they. As we read the history of England there are some pages we are not proud of and some we are very proud of. There is a song which was very popular during the South African war and which has these words: "And when we say we've always won and when they ask us how it done." We have not always won, years ago the English Kings sent their armies into Scotland and while sometimes they were victorious, the English foot was never on the Scottish neck. An English King in the middle ages claimed the throne of France and English troops overran that fair land, but they were finally driven out by a woman. Our Empire will not endure unless we build better than those others.

At a convention of manufacturers held in Ottawa some years ago, one man said: "My mills don't run for the glory of God, but to make profits", and a man who could not make profits out of the war was no good. A prominent man in Cape Breton sent this telegram to a prominent communist man in Winnipeg: "Whether right or wrong, we stand behind you."

Unless we do away with the communist and those who regard their country's agony as an opportunity for getting rich, we will be numbered among the wrecks of the past, we with Ninevah and Tyre.

Isaiah also had a vision of the gospel, he saw deep into the ways of God with man.

In the 5th chapter of the gospel according to St. Mark, there is a picture of human misery, first we have a lunatic who came to Christ to be healed, then an aristocrat, who in his agony of losing his daughter, was willing to rub shoulders with those he despised Sometimes we are inclined to think ourselves better than others, but in trouble it is all forgotten.

Then we have the story of the Divine redeeming love of Him, who came not to be ministered unto, but to minister.

Probably the greatest novel ever written is "Le Miserables" by Victor Hugo, the story tells of a man put in goal for thieving and who escaped and was re-captured and who served nineteen years imprisonment for stealing a loaf of bread, and when at last he was free, he was resolved in his bitterness to have revenge for what the world had done to him and after being turned away by several people, he sought the house of the priest who gave him a seat at his table and a bed to sleep on but could not sleep and he rose and robbed his benefactor, but was caught and brought back by a gendarme, but the good bishop said: "I have brought back your soul", and from then on this man gave his life to helping others, such is the power of the gospel. In spite of all his mistakes, the Christian church since the early days, has cared for the poor and wretched.

It is an honor laid upon us, that we may be saviours of mankind as we have the opportunity for none so small that some soul may not find protection in their love and kindness.

For Hard Coughs That Call For Super-Help

Creomulsion is made for coughs from colds that hang on. For coughs deep and difficult—coughs where you dare not risk a less effective help.

But careful people use it for coughs which seem milder—use it to do the utmost and be safe. For nobody knows where a cough may lead.

Creomulsion combines seven major helps in one. Some coughs yield best to one help, some to another. Doctors often differ on the best help, for coughs are not alike. So here we combine all the best—to be sure.

Creosote stands first. Here it is blended, emulsified and made palatable. For soothing membranes and combating germs, it is considered the supreme help in this type of cough. But other helps are sometimes needed—pine tar, wild cherry, menthol, ipecac and others. Nobody can tell to which help your cough will soonest yield. So experts have combined in Creomulsion all best helps in one. No narcotic, nothing harmful to a child, but a seven-way help to deal with all conditions.

The price is $1.25—a little higher than a lesser help. But your druggist guarantees it. Your money is returned if it fails to bring the quick, complete help you desire. Don't you think it worth that little extra to be sure that you are doing the utmost for a cough?

MILLBROOK LODGE INSTALS OFFICERS

MILLBROOK, Oct. 29.—(Examiner Correspondence)—The regular meeting of Millbrook Lodge I.O.O.F., No. 308, had as its special feature this week the annual installation of officers, the District Deputy Grand Master, Brother J. C. Price, of Peterborough, and staff, the members of the latter being drawn from the Oddfellows Lodges of the district, being present to conduct the ceremony.

There was a good attendance, and interest in the work of Oddfellowship is evidently well sustained. The retiring Noble Grand, Brother C. B. Sutton, presided until Brother Price D.D.G.M., and his installing staff took charge of the ritual, the work being put on in a very creditable manner, the list of officers for the ensuing year including:

P.N.G.—Brother C. B. Sutton.
N.G.—Brother C. C. Garside.
V.G.—Brother W. O'Brian.
R.S.—Brother J. A Vance. P.G.
F.S.—Brother P. I. Bentley. P.G.
Treasurer—Brother G. E. Burnham. P.G.
Chaplain—Brother V. R. Hunter, P.G.
Warden—Brother H. J. Armstrong.
Conductor—Brother W. H. Jordan.
R.S.N.G.—Brother D. Sheppard, P.G.
L.S.N.G.—Brother E. Armstrong, P.G.
R.S.V.G.—Brother T. H. Bradley, P.G.
L.S.V.G.—Brother L. W. Smith, P.G.
A.S.S.—Brother A. Fallis.
L.S.S.—Brother Wesley Wragg.
I.G.—Brother (Dr.) L. J. Stuart.
O.G.—Brother Ivan L. H. Gray.

At the conclusion of the installation ceremony after the address by the District Deputy Grand Master, others who spoke briefly included Brothers McLean of Beaverton, Harper of Bailieboro, Rev. W. W. Jones, whose membership is in the Bowmanville Lodge, J. Payne and E. Youngman of Pontypool, A. Ford, who is connected with the Havelock Lodge, H. A. Fallis, P.D.D.G.M., and W. W. O'Brian.

When the closing ritual had been carried out adjournment was made to the dining hall where, through the courtesy of the social committee of Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge No. 176, tables were attractively laid, and a hot fowl dinner was in readiness and thoroughly enjoyed.

The installation of officers for the local Rebekah Lodge is scheduled to take place at the next regular meeting on Thursday, October 28, at 8 p.m. when the District-Deputy President, Sister Lonsdale, of Peterborough, and staff, will be present to take charge of the ceremony.

The social committee of the Oddfellows Lodge will take charge of the supper arrangements, this exchange of courtesies between the two Lodges having been tried out now for the past two or three years, and found entirely satisfactory.

W. J. Madill of Cramahe Suffers Heavy Fire Loss

WARKWORTH, Oct. 29 (Examiner Correspondence)—The barn and entire contents owned by W. J. Madill, Cramahe Township, was totally destroyed by fire on Friday evening which was caused from a lantern which Mr. Madill knocked over when he stumbled.

The loss is partially covered by insurance

QUEENSBORO

QUEENSBORO, Oct. 28 (Examiner Correspondence)—The Young People of the United Church held their meeting in the church on Friday with a large attendance. The meeting opened with "I Hear Thy Welcome Voice" and the Lord's Prayer in unison. The scripture lesson from St. Matthew, chapter twelve and verses 22-30 was read by Earl Rollins. Mr. Everson announced that the Path finders sent for had been received and also stated that he had received a communication from Rev. Manson Doyle, of Toronto, saying he could come to Queensboro for the last Sunday in November. It was unanimously agreed to have Mr. Doyle on that date. A public meeting on Saturday evening, November 29, will be addressed by Mr. Doyle and Sunday will be in the Young People's Day with Young People taking a prominent part in the services.

John Thompson then took charge of the service and called on Mr. William Glover for a guitar and mouth organ duet playing his own accompaniment. Misses Marion Hamm and Jenny Sager sang sweetly "Jesus loves even the waifs of the street." Mr. Everson who had previously pointed out two lessons from the scripture, gave a five-minute talk on "The purpose of life."

Mrs. Everson conducted a contest which was much enjoyed. The meeting closed with singing hymn 141, "The Son of God Goes forth to War," and the Mizpah benediction.

FEEL MEAN?

Don't be helpless when you suddenly get a headache. Reach in your pocket for immediate relief. If you haven't any Aspirin with you, get some at the first drugstore you come to. Take a tablet or two and be rid of the pain. Take promptly. Nothing is gained by waiting to see if the pain will leave of its own accord. It may grow worse! Why postpone relief?

There are many times when Aspirin tablets will "save the day." They will always ease a throbbing head. Quiet a grumbling tooth. Relieve nagging pains of neuralgia or neuritis. Or check a sudden cold. Even rheumatism has lost its terrors for those who have learned to depend on these tablets.

Gargle with Aspirin tablets at the first suspicion of sore throat, and reduce the infection. Look for Aspirin on the box—and the word Genuine in red. Genuine Aspirin tablets do not depress the heart.

TENDER baby skins cried out for a mild soap that would cleanse without irritating—but would assist in the healing of incipient chafe.

Soap experts reasoned that if only the purest ingredients were combined in a soap it would be harmless.

Because it was for baby's use, they added boracic to Infant's Delight—so disappeared, chafe and irritation.

This soap has been used by mothers for generations. It has a mild, healing, antiseptic effect and soothes chafed little bodies. Isn't it reasonable that such a soap is the proper one for tender, temperamental, adult skins? WHY NOT SHARE BABY'S GOOD FORTUNE?

FORMOSAN HEAD-HUNTING TRIBES SLAY 190 JAPANESE IN INTERIOR

Artillery and Reinforcements Sent to Aid 600 Soldiers Fighting Aborigines.

IN WILD DISTRICT

By GLENN BABB

TOKYO, Japan, Oct. 29—A strong detachment of mountain artillery and a signal corps unit left Taihoku, Formosa, last night to reinforce a Japanese expedition of six hundred soldiers and policemen attempting to quell an aborigine uprising in Central Formosa. Unconfirmed dispatches from Taihoku to the Osaka Asahi asserted 190 Japanese peaceable Formosans perished at Musha.

Attack Launched

The Japanese expedition attacked aborigine positions yesterday and were expected to occupy Musha early to-day. Until then the fate of 142 Japanese at Musha Monday cannot be learned.

A fortnight ago Japanese dispatches from Formosa announced the process of subjugation of aborigines which had persisted for a quarter century finally was completed. Therefore, military contingents remaining in the last two danger spots in interior mountain districts were about to be withdrawn.

Subjugation evidently was less conclusive than Japanese administrator believed, for at least 1,500 braves of the savage Taiyal head hunting tribes again are on the war path.

The Taiyal folk occupy a mountainous area between Mount Morrison and Mount Sylvia, parts of which still are unexplored and represent one of the few remaining strongholds of savage society on the globe.

Subjugation Started 1905

Japanese military effort to subjugate Formosan aborigines was begun in 1905 and has continued until to-day, despite occasional Japanese official announcements of its successful completion, the campaign cost Japan scores of millions of yen. Forces engaged sometimes reached 10,000 men and airplanes occasionally were used to bomb savage concentrations.

Since about 1910 the principal Japanese weapon has been a gradually contracting barbed wire fence enclosing the savage area. This fence recently was 360 miles long, of which the greater extent was electrified. How the tribesmen passed this barrier Monday was not explained.

Japanese records show savages killed more than 7,000 persons during the twenty-five year conflict. While other aboriginal tribes easily submitted Japanese rule, the Taiyals desperately resisted alike military subjugation and peaceable penetration.

DEVELOPMENTS OF AVIATION HAVE OPENED WIDER PROSPECTING AREA

Nation - Wide Development Which Has Taken Place in Canada is Summarized at Tokyo Meeting.

RICH IN OILS

TOKYO, Japan, Oct. 29.—(By the Canadian Press.)—The nation-wide development which has taken place in Canada since 1925 was summarized before the Canadian Association of Japan in an address here yesterday by John M. Imrie, chairman of the Trade Commission to the Orient of the Canadian Chambers of Commerce, and managing director of the Edmonton Journal.

Events which have been the contemporary history of the past half decade, recorded from day to day in the daily press, were fitted by the speaker into one great picture so that Canada's emissaries across the Pacific might see their country as it is to-day. He took them, in his visualization, from the Maritime Provinces where, he said, 'business is better to-day than in any other part of Canada, through Quebec and Ontario with their tremendous industrial developments, across the prairies where mineral production was fast overtaking agricultural wealth, and into British Columbia, the gateway to the Pacific.

Especially, Mr. Imrie dealt with the movement "extended from Northern frontier which he had viewed as the most remarkable development of the five year period. And referring to the present world depression, which had temporarily halted the stride of advance, he declared that Canada faced the present and the future calmly and hopefully, confident in her ability to withstand the reverses of the moment.

Of the rolling back of the northern frontier, Mr. Imrie said, the omvement "extended from Northern Quebec to Northern British Columbia, and still farther north in the districts of Keewatin and Mackenzie." Canada's pre-Cambrian shield had become for east and west, a common source of vast mineral, forest and water power wealth.

In Quebec, Arvida and Noranda had developed almost overnight into cities. In Ontario there had been spectacular enlargement of nickel operations. At least another score of points in Northern Ontario and Quebec had developed as location of new pulp and paper plants.' The two central provinces had experienced a large expansion of their Hydro-Electric industry.

But from the standpoint of new frontiers and changing conditions Western Canada presented a contrast with five years ago that was even more striking.

Exceed Wheat Crop.

Premier Bracken had predicted that by 1934 Manitoba's mineral wealth would exceed in value her wheat crop. Saskatchewan had more than half of the immense wealth area at Flin-Flon, and areas promising wealth further north. Alberta, with 14 per cent. of the worlds coal reserves, had quickly jumped into first place as an oil producer.

And in the still farther north, in the barren lands around Great Slave Lake and in the watershed of the Mackenzie, hundreds of engineers and prospectors were at work.

The developments of aviation had opened up overnight Western Canada's pre-Cambrian shield.

The great bulk of new Hydro development in 1929 was in Western Canada. Alberta had increased her industrial population 60 per cent. these last five years. During this period at least 18,000 new farm locations had been taken up in Alberta's portion of the Peace River. The Premier of Alberta had predicted that within his own lifetime it would provide farm homes for 1,000,000 people and have an agricultural production equaling that of all Western Canada to-day.

During the past two years Canada's two great railways had made new commitments north of the North Saskatchewan exceeding in length a new transcontinental line from Toronto to Vancouver.

British Columbia had also pushed back her northern frontiers. Its portion of the Peace River country had a population of 10,000, a five-fold increase since 1925. Between that country and Stewart, on the Portland canal, at tide-water, a succession of mineral areas had been discovered, Consolidated Smelters had secured a charter for a 400-mile railway connecting these on a still longer railroad that would afford a direct outlet from Peace River to Vancouver.

Concurrently there had been a great expansion of manufacturing and trade in the old settled portions of Canada.

Of the Maritime Provinces Mr. Imrie said: 'The change in sentiment and business in the Maritime Provinces has been so great as to be almost remarkable. Emphasis on the disappointments and handicaps of Confederation has given place to emphasis on the assets and potentialties of the Maritime Provinces. There has been a great revival of individual enterprise. Industry has been expanded, trade and commerce has been enlarged. To-day business is better in the Maritime Provinces than in any other part of Canada."

Mr. Imrie told of the growth of Canada's foreign trade in which she ranked fifth among the nations of the world. He outlined the objects of the mission to the Orient and the possibilities for increased trade between Canada and Japan. And in conclusion he declared Canada's ability to rise out of the present depression to fulfill her destiny among the nations.

RATE REFUSAL STIRS HALIFAX

Grain Commissioners Withhold Grain Rate Given City of Quebec.

APPEAL TO OTTAWA

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 29 (C.P.).—Surprise approaching consternation was expressed in official circles here yesterday when it was learned that the Board of Railway Commissioners had refused the application by the Halifax Harbor Commission for an extention to Halifax of the grain rate given to the City of Quebec, plus one cent.

A declaration that Halifax would carry its case to the Governor-in-Council at Ottawa was voiced by Mayor L. A. Gastonguay.

If the decision of the railway commissioners was correct as reported, said Colonel E. C. Phinney, chairman of the Halifax Harbor Commission, the port of Halifax would have to look elsewhere than to the commission to see that the transcontinental railway was operated for the purpose for which it was constructed.

"The matter should be taken to a higher court, and the case pressed to the utmost," declared C. H. Wright, President of the Halifax Board of Trade.

Then Tarzan arose, shaking himself like a lion, and placed his foot upon the prostrate body of his antagonist. He raised his voice in the wild cry of victory of the apes. The mad priest of the sun-worshippers lay unconscious. La tried to escape, but with a quick leap the ape-man was by her side.

"What do you intend to do with me?" she asked. "Nothing," he replied, "but you can lead me out of this place to freedom." "I am the High Priestess of the Sun Temple," she said. "But you have been chosen by the Flaming God as his own. Not even my power can save you if the people find you. But you saved my life. I will try to save yours

"Though it makes me false to my god, I will hide you. Come! For if we are found together we shall both be killed." Tarzan protested, saying she must not take the risk. He would fight his way to freedom. She would not have it so and finally persuaded him to follow her, for already they had remained too long to prevent suspicion falling upon her.

She led him through long corridors of gloom. At last they came to a small chamber into which a little light filtered. "None will think of searching for you here," she said. "They would not dare! I will return after it is dark." She was gone. And Tarzan of the Apes was left alone in the Chamber of the Dead, beneath the long-dead city of Opar.

BLAST VICTIMS ARE LAID TO REST

Impressive Ceremony Held in Tiny Maybach Estate For 95 Miners.

THOUSANDS STAND IN RAIN.

SAARBRUCKEN, Germany, Oct. 29 (A.P.)—Impressive funeral services were held to-day in the little black-draped Catholic Chapel on the Maybach mining estate for the 95 victims of the mine disaster there last Saturday.

The chapel was so small it accommodated only near relatives. Thousands of others stood outside bareheaded in a light rain. The Bishop Bornewasser of Treves officiated.

George Pernot, French Labor Minister, was present at the ceremony and spoke a few feeling words in his own language. Theodor Von Guerard, German Minister of Transportation, was present for the Reich Government. It was the first meeting of French and German Ministers in the Saar territory, held by France until 1935 under the Treaty of Versailles.

The bodies, twelve of which were mutilated beyond recognition, were buried in one grave.

GREAT PREACHER TO VISIT CITY

Dr. W. G. Poole, London, England, Will be Heard in Murray St. Church.

NOTED LECTURER

Dull indeed must be the mind that does not marvel at the most modern of all popular inventions, the radio! By its aid, in the quietness and among the familiar surroundings of your own home, you can hear the thunderous waves of gorgeous music from a majestic pipe organ—or you can hear some great orchestra filling the house not just with music but weaving a pattern of divine fire that lifts you to hitherto unscaled heights of musical enjoyment. Velvet voices crooning soft melodies, the plaintive rhythm of singing guitars, the sublime symphonies of voice and orchestration brought to you from afar.

While you have listened to some internationally known speaker haven't you wished that you might have been able to have been in the very place where he was speaking, to catch the language of his gestures as well as by his tones? Well, you can realize such a wish on November 4th. To have heard him on the radio is good, but to hear him face to face is an intellectual and inspirational treat of the highest order. Such a privilege is presented to Peterborough and the surrounding district in the Murray Street Baptist Church on the afternoon and evening of that date.

In the forthcoming visit of Dr. W. G. Poole, minister of Christ Church, London, England, we have the chance to hear one of the most brilliantly forceful speakers of our time. He is a former President of the World's Sunday School Association and a former President of the Christian Endeavor Union of Great Britain.

While in the city he will deliver two addresses—one at three o'clock in the afternoon, and the other at eight o'clock in the evening. Full particulars will be found in our advertising columns.

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

A FREAK TURNIP.

Nature worked overtime to produce the freak turnip, now on view in the Examiner show windows. Grown on the farm of B Q. Dench of Lakefield, this vegetable is firmly bound around the middle by the link of a harrow chain. There are no prizes being awared, but the puzzle is: How to get the chain off the turnip without breaking either.

RIGHT FOREARM INJURED.

Edward Payne, 516 Cambridge street, was admitted to Nicholls Hospital this forenoon, suffering from a severe laceration of the right forearm, sustained while following his employment in a local factory. He was attended by Dr. H. M. Yelland.

WEDDING BELLS

HALL—YORK.

The marriage was solemnized very quietly last evening at the parsonage of St. James' United Church, by the Rev. A. E. Moorhouse, of Beatrice Lillian York, of 275 Lake Street, and Clarence Roland Hall, of 314 Dalhousie Street.

Attendants were Miss Dorothy O Copping, of North Monaghan, and Joseph Robertson of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall will reside at 275 Lake Street.

Warsaw

WARSAW, Oct. 29 (Examiner Correspondence)—In several homes in and around Warsaw there are treasured family possessions of various kinds, linens, work baskets, samplers, jewelry, books, furniture, china and other things. The early settlers brought many of their possessions from the home land.

In one home is the great grandfather's prayer book dated 1801 in which are forms of prayer and thanksgiving on the Gunpowder plot; prayer and fasting for King Charles the Martyr; prayer and thanksgiving for the Restoration.

Two prized volumes on the beauties of Scotland dated 1806 are there too as well as an atlas of the world, unfortunately minus both covers, dated 1817 which was her paternal grandfathers. Each plate is protected by tissue paper and the ocean seas are outlined by fine lines running straight cut from the coast line, instead of parallel to it. N. America and Australia (New Holland) are little more than outlined; Mountains of the Moon stretch right across Africa.

There is also a set of six volumes giving the history of Scotland dated 1827, a good many books including Anthon's classical dictionary, Locke's essay on the understand ing. The Early Choice dated in the fifties.

A lady in North Dummer has a beautiful bowl and pitcher in copper lustre ware.

Many families in Douro can boast treasured heirlooms. At the fair held in 1925 there was a room devoted to them and there was not much empty space.

It will be one hundred years next June since the first settlers came to Dummer.

$10,000,000 Loss Likely In Pool Guarantees

WINNIPEG, Man., October 29 (C. P.). — Unless the price of wheat improves the losses to the Western Governments in the wheat pool guarantees may exceed $10,000,000, according to Premier John Bracken of Manitoba, who returned from Edmonton where he had attended an Interprovincial Conference.

The Government of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta guaranteed payments by the banks to the Pool in financing the 1929 crop.

Premier Bracken made his declaration when questioned concerning a despatch emanating from Winnipeg last Saturday, which said the Wheat Pool guarantee losses for the three Provincial Governments might run to $10,000,000.

DRIVER POSITIVE OF HOLD-UP PAIR

Despite Confession By Two Others, Milkman Picks Out Two Released From Jail.

OTTAWA TRIAL CONTINUES.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 29 (C.P.).—Despite the fact that two other men have confessed to robbing him of $300 in a hold-up last year, Austin Simpson, milk driver of Ottawa, declared from the witness stand in County Criminal Court yesterday that Lionel Fontaine and Ernest Lacasse were the men who committed the crime. Fontaine and Lacasse were originally arrested for the hold-up and had served some four months of the four-year sentences imposed on them when Eugene Barnabe and Duncan Larocque confessed to the crime. The first pair subsequently were released from the penitentiary and the confessed robbers sent to the reformatory under sentences of two years definite and two years indeterminate.

The present court hearing was opened at the request of Fontaine and Lacasse, on the ground that only by such procedure can they completely clear their names. They were sent to prison largely on the evidence of Simpson, who originally declared his identification of them as the masked men who held him up early on the morning of Nov. 2, 1929, was positive.

The case continues to-day.

DISTRICT NOTES from Villages and Towns in District

(BY CORRESPONDENTS OF THE EXAMINER)

MILLBROOK

Misses Jean and Francis Macnamara, of Toronto, who are moving to Montreal to reside, were dinner guests of Mrs. C. M. Westmacott and Miss Rose Macnamara on Thursday, while motoring to their new home in Quebec province.

The anniversary services of Grace Presbyterian Church, Millbrook, will be held on Sunday, November 16, with Rev. Mr. Sanderson of Beaches church, Toronto, as the special preacher. The choir, now in training under Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, will render special music for the occasion.

Mrs. Morley Black of Dunbarton was the guest of her mother, Mrs. S. Donnelly, last week.

The anniversary services of the Centreville Presbyterian church will be held on Sunday, November 2, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., with Rev. Mr. Vesey of Toronto, as the special preacher at both services. The annual fowl supper will take place the following Tuesday, November 4, in the S.S. Hall, from 5 p.m. and onward until all are served. Program by the orchestra of George Street United Church, Peterborough, under Mr. W. H. Cunningham. Mrs. W. McKee Bingham will be the soloist at the anniversary Sunday services.

The annual church parade of the Third Prince of Wales Dragoons, "B" Company, will be held on Sunday, November 2, following a short service at the Cenotaph in the Town Hall square, when prominent speakers will address the gathering. Adjournment will then be made to St. Thomas' Anglican church for divine worship. Millbrook Cadet Corps No. 403, will join with the troops for the service; the Peterborough Rangers' Band will be present and provide music. This will give opportunity for commuuity Armistice Day service.

R. S. Penrose is the new manager of the local Haboco store, and with Mrs. Penrose has come to the community to reside.

Carmel church will observe its diamond jubilee on Sunday, November 2, at 2.30 p.m., with Rev. G. S. Sisco, of Port Hope, chairman of the Cobourg Presbytery, as the special preacher. The history of the appointment will be read at the service, and the Men's Bible Class of St. Andrew's United church, Millbrook, will lead in the worship of song.

A feature of peculiar significance and spiritual impressiveness took place during morning worship at St. Andrew's United church on Sunday, October 26, when James H. Might and J. H. George were, on recommendation of the official board, and by the unanimous desire of the congregation, elected as members of the session, and elders of the church. Mr. Might has served for over a year as president of the Men's Bible Class, and is now acting superintendent of the Sunday school. Mr. George, as superintendent of the Home Department of the Sunday school, has been doing excellent service particularly in connection with the shut-in and elderly members of the congregation; at the last meeting of the officials of the church it was felt that some special recognition should be made of the service rendered by these two men, and a resolution was passed recommending their election as elders and session members. The formal induction into the office of elders will take place at an early date.

E. L. Burnham of Toronto spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burnham, motoring from the city with Russell Howe whose wife and family have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Nattress. The party motored back to Toronto on Sunday evening.

Mrs. A. B. Lefroy and son, Aylmer, who have been guests of Mr. W. T. and Miss Margaret Wood, returned to their home in Toronto on Sunday.

The contract for the complete renovation of the Sunday school auditrium of St. Andrew's Untied church has been let to W. Thomas of Peterborough and the work will begin in the early part of this week, with the expectation that ten days, or possibly two weeks will be required for the completion of the undertaking. Grace Presbyterian Sunday school auditorium was recently given thorough renovation, the firm in charge being Gardiner and Sayles, of Paris, Ontario.

The play, "It Pays to Advertise", which was to have been given here last fall under A.Y.P.A. auspices, by the Dramatic Club, of Orono, and which was unavoidably postponed on account of illness among those taking part, will be presented in the Town Hall, Millbrook, on Thursday, October 30, at 8.00 p.m. Tickets previously purchased last fall, may be exchanged for new ones for the entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Parker and Miss Jane Seaton, who have spent the summer with Mrs. Reid Lowery, Fallis Line, and in touring by motor throughout Eastern Ontario, left last week for their home in Los Angeles, California.

LAKEFIELD

On Thursday evening the A.Y.P.A. held the first card party of the season with fifteen tables played. Prizes were won by Miss Annie Coughlin and Mr. Thomas Simpson, while Mrs. M. Smith and Mr. Douglas Dench won the consolation prizes.

The weekly euchre of the ladies of St. Paul's church was held on Friday evening. Miss Annie Coughlin and Mr. J. Sullivan won the first prizes and Mrs. M. Allen and Mr. G. O'Neill won the consolation prizes.

Mrs. G. Craig Bell's talent as an exponent of Scottish music and musical history has been recognized by the Peterboorugh Caledonian Society and she was the guest artist at a recent musical evening held in the W.O.W. hall.

The members of the Northern Light Lodge L.O.B.A. entertained their friends to the number of more than two hundred at a dance in the town hall on Friday evening.

Liberals Gain Seat in Ontario House

THREE RIDINGS HELD BY TORIES IN BY-ELECTION

160 MAJORITY.

Nipissing and Lanark Return Large Conservative Majorities—Perth 241.

TORONTO, Ont., October 30 (C.P.).—Premier G. Howard Ferguson's supporting phalanx of 89 Conservatives in the Ontario Legislature of 112 seats was reduced by one at the by-elections yesterday when Waterloo South was won over by the Liberal Party. Three other constituencies, Lanark South, Perth South, and Nipissing were retained in the Conservative column as the result of the balloting. The voting was generally lighter than in the same constituencies in the provincial elections of 1929.

New Members.

New members of the Ontario Legislature as the result of the by-elections are as follows:

E. R. Stedman, Conservative, Lanark South—majority 1,100.

N. O. Hipel, Liberal, Waterloo South—majority 160.

C. E. Richardson, Conservative, Perth South—majority 241.

There was little doubt as to which way Nipissing and Lanark south were going when first reports trickled in after polling had closed. The Conservative candidates started piling up a lead right from the start and never appeared in danger of being defeated. In the two Western Ontario ridings of Perth south and Waterloo

CHICAGO OFFICER SHOT ON TROLLEY

Was to Have Been Witness at Murder Trial of Notorious Gunman.

OPENING OF OLD SCORE.

CHICAGO, Ills., Oct. 30 (C.P.) — Three gunmen cruised past a Maywood street car to-day and sent a volley of bullets crashing through its windows, seriously wounding a policeman who was to be a witness at the murder trial of "three fingered" Jack White, notorious gunman and "public enemy."

The wounded officer was Sergeant James McBride of the Bellwood police. Five years ago he was wounded in a revolver battle with White and his gang when the police encountered them in a Mannheim Road tavern. A companion officer, Ed. P. Flaume, and James Johnstone, one of White's confederates, were killed.

"Three-fingered" Jack was captured weeks later and eventually sentenced to prison for life, but the Supreme Court reversed his conviction and the case was never brought to trial again.

Two weeks ago White wa sarrested in the vagrancy campaign of the police, and Chief Justice John P. McGoorty reinstated the murder charge and ordered White held without bail.

The police are convinced that the attack was a deliberate attempt to put the witness out of the way.

Four "Pro." Players From This District

The news from Havelock that Doug. Brennan is returning to Vancouver for the hockey season, is another reminder that this district contributes four men to the professional leagues. Three of them are already on their way for the coming season. They are Dit Clapper of Hastings, with the Boston Bruins and one of the outstanding players in the National League; Wilfrid Ranger of Peterborough, who left with his wife by motor a short time ago for Kansas City, champions of the American Hockey Association last season; Doug. Brennan of Havelock, who starts for the Coast Sunday night; and Bert McLeod, captain of the Kansas City team last winter, who expects to be with them again for the approaching season.

Going to Whitby

Rev. E. Ralph Adye, L.Th., assistant rector of St. Peter's Anglican church, Cobourg, news of whose appointment as rector of All Saints' Anglican church, Whitby, is received from Toronto today. Mr. Adye will take charge of the new parish on Sunday, November 30.

DAIRY PRODUCT QUOTA BUYING OUTLOOK DARK

Difficulty of Controlling Purchases Over Scattered Areas, a Snag.

BRITISH TREATIES ANOTHER

Britain Asked to Figure on Getting 55 Per Cent. of Wheat From Empire.

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 30 (By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Correspondent).—Rejection of the proposal for quota purchasing of dairy products by Great Britain, a system which would grant the Dominions a larger share of the British market, is said to be indicated by the draft reports which have just been presented to a committee of the Imperial Conference.

Rejection Highly Probable

The committee under Rt. Hon. William Graham, President of the Board of Trade, to-day received draft reports on the applications of the quota to British purchases of butter, cheese, eggs, canned fruit and canned fish. These drafts are still under consideration in committee and they are liable to some modification. But they are said to indicate so many difficulties lie in the way of quota purchasing of dairy products as to amount to virtual rejection.

The two principal difficulties cited by the experts in regard to dairy products are firstly, the difficulty of controlling purchases made over a scattered area, and secondly provisions in the existing trade treaties between Great Britain and foreign powers.

A sub-committee which is preparing a report on the question of British buying of wheat by quotas, is continuing its task this afternoon. The prevailing view among the experts, it is understood, is that application of a wheat quota is technically practicable, because purchasing of wheat is more easily controlled than that of dairy products. One difficulty in this matter, however, is in ensuring that wheat shipped to the United Kingdom under the quota provisions would not subsequently be diverted elsewhere.

Quota Figures Boosted

The discussions on the statistical aspects of the wheat quota plan have resulted in an increase in the suggested quota percentage for British purchases of Empire wheat. The original figure discussed was 48 per cent. Now the figure laid down as the basis of discussion is 55 per cent; in other words, Britain is asked to figure on purchasing 55 per cent of her wheat requirements from other parts of the Empire. The remaining 45 per cent would be divided between British wheat growers and foreign countries.

Madman Being Blamed For Brutal Slaying

PARRY SOUND, Ont., Oct. 30. — (Special to The Examiner.)—Murder of the most ghastly and savage character in which two Finlanders were slain on a lonely section of the C.P.R. main line a quarter of a mile from Pickerel Station, on Sunday, Oct. 12 has developed startling suggestion that lurking somewhere between Parry Sound and Sudbury there is a madman slayer, a brutal being with an unhinged mind who batters in the heads of his victims, neatly arranges the body and flees the scene of his crime without leaving the fleetest clue as to his identity. Nearby half deserted Pickerel, a ghost town, once a busy centre of lumbering industry, two Finlanders, K. Koivila, 30, and Zeiza Vilhelm Elomca, 22, were picked up with their heads horribly splintered and crushed, by Engineer King, driving Number Four train from Sudbury to Toronto, 1.30 Sunday morning of October 12.

Due to the steady increase in construction activities in Lithuania, companies connected in any way with the construction of railways, drainage works and the building and equipment of houses are prospering.

AUBURN MILLS ARE TO REMAIN IN PETERBORO

Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Rescind Previous Move to Go to Hespeler.

HEAD OFFICE STAYS.

It Is Understood All Weaving Looms For Woolen Goods Will Be Retained.

Orders to move the looms, dye-house, and head offices of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Company from Peterborough to Hespeler have been rescinded, The Examiner was reliably informed this morning.

Division in Directorate

This direct change in the company's plans follows a division among the directorate of the company on the policy of consolidating manufacturing at Hespeler and leaving Peterborough, it was said. This week a meeting of the directors was held in Montreal, but the decision to cancel orders dealing with the moving of the looms, dye-house and head office from Peterborough was made yesterday at Toronto.

Head Office Stays

The head office, according to earlier plans, was to be moved this Saturday. Now it will remain here. Also the orders called for the movement of all weaving looms and weaving equipment from the Auburn plant to Hespeler. All weaving looms for woollen goods will be retained here now and their number, according to the new plans, will be increased.

A few worsted looms, but comparatively few, number in all, some twenty-four, will be moved to Hespeler, and this is the full extent of the equipment to be moved from Peterborough to Hespeler.

On the other hand it is probable, The Examiner's informant said, that almost at once many woollen weaving looms will be moved from Hespeler here, because the company's intention is to make the Auburn mill their woollen mill and the Hespeler plant the worsted mill.

Inquiring as to the effect on employment at Auburn, The Examiner was assured that as many or more men would be employed at the mill as previously.

Never Gave Up

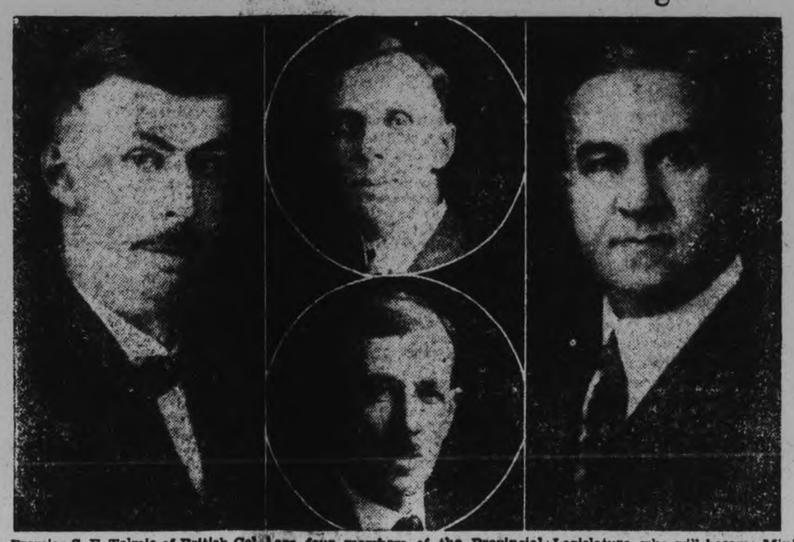
Mayor Roland Denne and City Clerk Armstrong never gave up hope of retaining the Auburn plant here, and they brought every argument to bear upon A. O. Dawson, president of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds at Montreal. Besides taking a deputation from the City Council and interviewing Mr. Dawson, Mayor Denne has been in communication with him almost continuously since pressing Peterborough's interests in the matter. The Examiner was told that the Mayor's efforts had kept the subject before the directors and greatly aided the decision to remain in Peterborough.

Employees of the dye-house at the Bonner-Worth plant were dismissed last week, but The Examiner was told that now they have been called back to work. This dye-house along with the dye-house at the Auburn will remain here.

TORONTO, October 30. — "Prospects for the woollen industry in Canada are brighter right now than they have been for 33 years," A. O. Dawson, president of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds, Ltd., told a meeting of 50 key men of that organization in the Royal York Hotel last night. With the encouragement given by recent changes in the tariff on woollens, he foresaw greatly increased production to supply the enlarged demands of the home market.

Charles E. Whitten was appointed assistant to the president, and Thomas Mix becomes assistant general manager in charge of sales. John Campbell take charge of production. W. K. Trower, vice-president of the company, and William Hanson G. E. Perry, C. M. Heddle, directors attended from Montreal

Prominent in Pacific Coast Cabinet Changes



Premier S. F. Tolmie of British Columbia has commenced to reconstruct his Cabinet by asking for resignation of all his Ministers. He has made no announcement of the moves to be made but it is authoritatively stated that they involve four changes. Above are four members of the Provincial Legislature who are mentioned in the report. (Left) Hon. R. W. Bruhn, former President of the Council, who will take the portfolio of Public Works. (Top, centre) Hon. J. W. Jones, the present Speaker of the Legislature, who will become Minister of Finance. (Lower, centre) Hon. F. E. Burden, Minister of Lands, who will go to London as Agent-General for British Columbia; and (right) Hon. W. C. Shelly, Minister of Finance, who will become President of the Council.

DEPOSED LEADER REFUSES TO SIGN AUTHORITY AWAY

TERM EXPIRES NOV. 15.

Brazilian President-Designate Hurries Into Conference With Insurgent Leaders.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Oct. 30. (AP)—Refusal of Washington Luis, ousted President of Brazil, to resign his office has made difficult foreign recognition of the provisional Government which grew out of the recent successful revolution.

Washington Luis, although held a prisoner in Copacabana fortress by the temporary Government, has refused to sign away his authority.

In diplomatic circles it was said to-day that recognition desired by the Military Junta probably could not be had much before Nov. 15.

The deposed President is said to have told persons who have been permitted to visit him in his prison quarters that he is the head of the only legal Government in Brazil and will remain so until his term expires the middle of next month. The recent Brazilian revolution was accentuated by dissatisfaction over the election of Dr. Julio Prestes, now in flight, who was to have been inaugurated to succeed Luis.

Vargos on Way

Dr. Getulio Vargas, hero of the Brazilian hinterland and cow country, was acclaimed to-day by the Metropolitan sections which almost alone opposed the attempts to unseat the administration of President Washington Luis.

Arriving late yesterday at Sao Paulo from the former battlefront along the Parana, Sao Paulo border, Dr. Vargas, who is president-designate of the Brazilian Union, avoided crowds which had gathered to greet him and hurried to conferences with other insurgent leaders.

The crowds cheated of all but a glimpse of the new strong man of Brazil, ranged the streets cheering him.

Warm Reception.

A similar reception is expected when Dr. Vargas arrives here, possibly to-day, although probably not for a day or two later. It was believed to-day that he would be named president immediately to fill out the unexpired term of Dr. Washington Luis, who is still confined, a nominal prisoner, in the officers' quarters of the Fortaleza Copacabana.

Enthusiasm of the cities for Dr. Vargas and other revolutionary leaders is regarded as all the more phenomental since in some of its phases at least the successful insurgent movement represented the clash of urban and rural interests, with the cattle raising State of Rio Grande Do Sul leading in the movement revolt. Sao Paulo papers, during the fighting, published reports that the rebel troops had been promised opportunity to loot and sack the city.

Hallowe'en Parade

The Hallowe'en Parade in which all those in costume are invited to take part, will start at 8 o'clock from in front of the Armouries and will be headed by the band of the Peterborough Rangers and a fine addition will be the appearance at the end of the parade of the McDonald Tobacco Company calliope. The route will be down George street to King street, over to Water street, to Charlotte street, and then to the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte street where music will be provided for community dancing.

Provision is being made at The Examiner office for the receipt of gifts for distribution to those in need of them.

Boys and girls are also reminded that they are expected to refrain from rough behaviour and the damaging of property. The only complaint in recent years has been from Ashburnham and it is hoped that the trouble caused other years will not be in evidence tomorrow night.

BOYS ARE CHOSEN FOR WINTER FAIR

Ten Boys Will Make Up Peterborough's Deputation to the Royal.

INTER COUNTY TEAM.

Peterborough's representatives to the Royal Winter Fair have been selected by J. B. Nelson, agricultural representative. In all 500 boys from farms throughout the province will attend the big show as the guests of the Department of Agriculture. Peterborough's deputation will be made up of ten boys, who carried on certain farm operations during the summer and who made the greatest score in the judging competition. They will spend four days in Toronto with all expenses paid.

The boys making the trip are: Stuart Tedford, Indian River; Harry McIntyre, R.R. No. 3, Keene; Howard Hamilton, R.R. No. 2, Lakefield; Boyd Rennick, R.R. No. 3, Keene; Ormond McCarthy, Keene; Roy McCarther, Havelock; Trevor Little, R.R. No. 2, Lakefield; Eddie O'Toole, R.R. No. 8, Peterborough; Norman Lemay, R.R. No. 4, Peterborough, and Ivan Drain, Warsaw.

Inter-County Team.

The following boys have been selected also to represent Peterborough County in the Inter-county judging competition at the Royal: Harry Fowler, R.R. No. 2, Peterborough; Arthur Hancock, R.R. No. 2, Peterborough; Ralph Garbutt, R.R. No. 2, Lakefield.

The boys representing the county in the Eastern Ontario judging competition at Ottawa are: Stuart Tedford, Indian River; Hugh Buchanan, Havelock; Nelson Coons, Lakefield This competition is for young boys.

Five girls will also attend the Royal Winter Fair as guests of the Department. They won high standing in the county competition in household science. They have not been chosen as yet.

EDMONTON MAN IS NAMED SLAYER IN SHOOTING CASE

Coroner's Jury Requires But Half Hour to Return Verdict.

5 KILLED AT SMOKY LAKE.

Son and Daughter Relate How Killer Shot Victims Without Mercy.

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 30. —In a crowded court room, George Dwernychuk, of Edmonton, alleged slayer of five persons, on a farm near Smoky Lake, Alta., on October 22, came up for preliminary hearing on charges of murder today.

At the inquest which concluded at Smoky Lake last night, Dwernychuk was named as the slayer. Five hundred persons crowded the town hall, scene of the hearing. The Coroner's Jury took just 30 minutes to return a verdict, naming Dwernychuk as the murderer of John, Mary and Helen Walanski, Helen Huchaluk, and Wasyl Darichuk, who were shot to death on the evening of Oct. 22.

Saw His Father Killed.

Witnesses included Alexander Walanski, 19, who told of seeing his father killed, and Jennie, 14, his sister, who related how the killer stalked through the tiny farm home and how she and her sister Annie escaped by hiding behind old clothing hanging on a wall. Jennie also testified to seeing her mother shot down in cold blood and of looking on as her sister, Mary, was slain as she rested upon a bed.

Alexander Feschuk told the jury George Dwernychuk told him he would kill some of the Walanski family and of how the alleged killer had said he had "something for some of my other friends, too."

Dwernychuk was not in Smoky Lake on Wednesday, it being decided not to take him there for the inquest but he was present when the preliminary hearing commenced today.

Big Airliner Crashes Three Feared Killed

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 30. — Word has been received from Croydon that three persons were killed and three injured this afternoon in the crash of an Imperial Airways liner near Boulogne.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 30 (C.P.) — The Provincial Government's fiscal year ends to-morrow and it is expected a surplus will result. The official statement by Hon. E. A. Dunlop, Provincial Treasurer, will not however, be available for some weeks. The budget of last session estimated a surplus of $196,000 and it is stated at Parliament Buildings that while expenditures have been increased by about $2,000,000, a similar increase is shown in estimated revenue.

Court of Revision Scheduled to Hear Eighty-Five Cases

Fourteen Stores and One Bank on George Street Enter An Appeal Against the Assessment of Their Lands, Claiming an Overcharge—Court is Adjourned.

W. J. HENRY, CITY ASSESSOR, HAS ENTERED AN APPEAL AGAINST 1931 ASSESSMENT CLAIMING IT IS TOO LOW

Recent Purchases of Land on West Side of George Street Between Charlotte and Hunter Are Blamed By Many for the Increase in the Local Assessment.

Fourteen stores and one bank in the city have entered appeals to the Court of Revision against the 1931 assessment of their lands, claiming an overcharge. The bank and all the stores are located on the west side of George street between Charlotte and Hunter streets.

On the other hand W. J. Henry, city assessor, has entered appeals against the 1931 assessment of every place of business located between Charlotte and Hunter streets on the west side of George Street claiming under assessment.

These cases and many more to the total number of 85 came up before the Court of Revision sitting in the Council Chamber of the City Hall last evening. The gallery of the council room was crowded and it was shown at once that all present had a direct interest in the cases to be considered.

Only one of the cases dealing with the businesses on George street was heard. It was the appeal of the Bank of Nova Scotia and J. Wells Fraser, manager of the branch, pressed the claim. It was intimated that failing satisfaction from the Court of Revision the bank will carry its appeal before Judge Huycke. The others were adjourned until Tuesday, November 4, at 2 p.m.

It is evident that recent purchases of lands between these two blocks by large chain store companies have caused the assessor to increase the valuation of all the land neighboring. This increased assessment seems to be based on the amount paid recently by Eaton's, Kresge's, and Metropolitan Stores for sites on the west side of George street.

The other merchants claim that the amounts paid by these companies for sites were "fabulous" and that if the city desires to increase the tax revenue the raise in assessment should be spread out more. These were the arguments advanced by Mr. Fraser.

BALDWIN STAYS AS TORY CHIEF BY 4 TO 1 VOTE

Conservative Peers Down Change in Leadership Motion 462 to 116.

TEMPORARY TRIUMPH

Baldwin Defends His Policies—Demands Free Hand in Fiscal Matters.

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 30. — (AP)—Former Premier Stanley Baldwin, triumphed today, temporarily at least, over a turbulent opposition which was trying to oust him from leadership of the Conservaitve party.

Some 600 Conservative peers, members of the commons and ex-members of commons who will be candidates in the next general election met in private at Caxton Hall and sat in judgment of the man who has piloted them through stormy seas since the late Bonarlaw resigned the leadership in 1923.

Vote 462 to 116

By a vote of about 4 to 1—462 to 116—a motion for a change in leadership of the party was defeated.

Mr. Baldwin thus weathered one of the worst storms to beset the Conservative party in many years. Before the vote the former Premier had stalked into the crowded hall with his bulky shoulders square and wearing a grim expression, to face his adversaries who had demanded that this meeting be held.

His opponents charged him with being unable to adapt himself to changing conditions, with indecision and with lack of inspiration in leadership.

Baldwin's grimness melted into a wistful smile when a large portion of the throng, which included all of the great Conservatives of England, rose

BRUENING EVADES REICHSTAG FIGHT

MEASURES REJECTED.

BERLIN, Germany, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Chancellor Bruening and his Government have evaded for the time being at least a battle on the Reichstag floor over opposition measures moving a moratorium on German national debts and suspension of revision of reparation payments.

The Foreign Affairs Committee of te Reichstag, reporting back on five Fascist, Communist and Nationalist measures of this character, rejected all. But at the same time Rightis and Bougeois members of the committee passed a resolution urging the Government to end 'the perilous situation" in Europe in which "a disarmed Germany is surrounded by ever-increasing preparations for war."

The resolution expressed "greatest disillusionment" at the present status of the disarmament movement, and stated the committee's expectation that the Government would work to correct the situation, and establish clearly whether foreign powers were willing to "fulfill the stipulated obligations in the Versailles Treaty."

FOUL PLAY SEEN IN DEATH OF TWO

Foreigners' Bodies Indicate Murderous Assault Coroner's Jury Says.

FOUND ON TRACKS.

PARRY SOUND, Ont., Oct. 30. — (C.P.)—The mystery surrounding the death of two men near Picorel on October 12 will probably be investigated by Provincial Police as a result of a Coroner's jury last night returning a verdict which, in effect, said that fatal injuries had been inflicted as "a result of a murderous assault by persons unknown."

On one of the men was found a passport bearing the name of Kija Wilhelm Elomaa. A letter in the pocket of the other man bore the name of Topi Kuntilla, Sudbury. Search for the latter resulted in the identification of the body as that of Vaino Aktbarh.

The bodies of the two men were discovered early in the morning of October 12 by Engineer Charles King of the Canadian Pacific Winnipeg to Toronto train.

At first it was believed the men had fallen from a freight train, but this theory was later discounted as it was believed if such had been the case further injuries than fractured skulls would have resulted.

Young Married Woman Asphyxiated By Gas

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 30.—(C.P.)— Illuminating gas escaping from the open jets of a kitchen stove early to-day asphyxiated Mrs. Olive Lemee, aged 27. Mrs. Kennedy, a sub-tenant of Mrs. Lemee, notified the police that she could smell gas escaping from Mrs. Lemee's kitchen. Two police officers forced the door of the kitchen and found Mrs. Lemee lying on the floor unconscious. She expired a few minutes after their arrival.

R-101 LOG SHEET REVEALS MOTORS O K BEFORE CRASH

FOUND NEAR WRECKAGE.

Imperfect Entry at 2 O'clock Shows Officer Had No Time to Finish Task.

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 30. (CP)—A page from the log of the British dirigible R-101 was introduced into the Government's inquiry to-day to show that the engines of the ill-fated ship were working smoothly nine minutes before it crashed at Beauvais France, October 5 with the loss of 48 lives.

Sir William Jowitt, Attorney-General conducting examination of testimony, sprang a sensation in the public court of inquiry by announcing that a sheet from one of the engine logs of the big craft, kept while she was on her last flight had been found near the scene of the disaster and forwarded to London.

Document Very Important

The Attorney General said this document had proven of the utmost importance in the investigation since it showed the engine revolutions and cruising speed of the craft right up to two o'clock on the morning of the catastrophe. The dirigible crashed nine minutes later.

Sir William said everything appeared normal aboard the R-101 up to 2 o'clock. Then an imperfect entry in the log regarding oil pressure indicated that the officer had not time to finish his entry.

Examination of witnesses was begun this morning. Sir John Simon presiding, outlined the scope of the inquiry. He indicated that he intended to "handle the investigation without gloves."

MINISTERS PLAN SPECIAL RETREAT

HEAR FIVE LECTURES.

(Special to The Examiner)

COBOURG, Oct. 30.—Headed by Rev. Gordon A. Sisco, B.A., B.D., of Port Hope, vice president of the Theological Alumni Association of Queen's University, Kingston, with Rev. Andrew McLauchlin, B.A., B.D., Grafton, and Rev. J. J. David, B.A., B.D., of Baltimore, numbers of ministers from the Cobourg Presbytery of the United Church of Canada will spend next week in church sessions at Kingston.

The feature of the sessions will be five lectures on "Palestine, Past and Present," to be delivered as "The Chancellor's Lectures" by Rev. Prof. W. R. Taylor, Pn. D., University of Toronto, who has been engaged in important archaeological work in the Holy Land since the establishment of the British mandate.

Some of the finding are of startling interest to Bible students. Confirmation of historical incidents, as related in the Bible, have been strikingly brought to light.

That Jericho's walls did fall down, and that there were "Cities of the Plain" engulfed in some overwhelming disaster can no longer be gainsaid by the most captious critic.

Thomas Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, will give an important address on "The Church Labor".

ACTION LOOMING ON TORY DEMAND

Explanation Sent to Baldwin By Alleged Signatories of Statement.

LORD HAILSHAM EXPLAINS.

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 30. — The members of the Conservative party, who are alleged to have signed a statement calling for the resignation of Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin from the party leadership met again last night under the chairmanship of Colonel John Gretton. They drew up an explanation, or elucidation, which was sent to the Leader.

During the day several members of the 44 whose names appeared on the manifesto which was published by the morning newspapers denied placing their signatures on it. Legal action, it was intimated, might grow out of the affair.

Colonel Gretton admitted there had been a meeting of members who discussed the leadership. "On behalf of the members who attended that meeting', he said. "I am authorized that publication of the alleged proceedings and list of names is inaccurate and was made without authority."

Lord Hailsham said those who honestly believed in a change in leadership were quite right in saying so to their friends and colleagues in the party, but were not entitled to make public their attitude."

5-Cent Cut In Barley Announced By Pool

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 30. (CP) A 5-cent-per-bushel reduction in the initial payment on barley was announced yesterday by the central selling agency of the Canadian Wheat Pool. Initial payment on the basis of No. 3 C.W. barley at Fort William will thus amount to 20 cents a bushel on and after Friday, Oct. 31.

The Pool's initial payment was appreciably higher than the street prices paid by the trade for barley, it is pointed out by the coarse grains committee of the Central Board, on explaining the reduction.

Fumes Ignite When Two Mechanics Repair Gas Tank Near Stove.

FIRE SPREADS TO INN.

Brigades Rush From Nearby Towns But Run in Vain.

MILTON, Ont., Oct. 30 (C.P.) — While Robert Early and his mechanic, William McDonald, were repairing a leaking gas tank on an automobile, near a coal stove in Mr. Early's garage at Campbellville, six miles west of Milton yesterday, the gasoline fumes ignited from the heat of the stove, causing an explosion, and instantaneously the whole building was in flames. Both men were badly burned.

The fire, fanned by a brisk wind, soon leaped to the Campbellville Inn nearby, and in an instant this well-known landmark was also in flames. Calls for help were sent to Milton, Acton and Burlington fire brigades, which were soon on the scene.

Milton's brigade with its fire truck arrived first on a record run, and although unable to save the two buildings, was successful in saving several stores and many houses from falling prey to the flames which destroyed the garage and the hotel. Two cars were also destroyed in the garage.

Virtually all the contents of the Inn, which contained 30 rooms and the garage, were destroyed. Total loss to both buildings and contents is estimated at $15,000.

PROTECTION SURE TO HELP CANADA

Manufacturers in Session Urge That Disturbing Changes Be Avoided.

PROVIDE FOR FUTURE.

TORONTO, Ont., October 30 (C. P.). — "Protection is, and will be, on trial in Canada, and the benefit certain to accrue to the country as a whole from its proper application must not be impaired in any degree through improper use by individuals, of a system intended and planned for the national welfare," says a statement issued here by Elmer Davis, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, following two days' meetings of the Association's executive council.

The executive met to consider the present tariff position of Canada in the light of the announced general revision of the customs rates which is due to take place at the next sitting of Parliament.

"The revision," says the statement issued by the president of the C. M. A., "places a grave responsibility on the Association in view of the importance and extent of the work involved."

No Revision Since 1907.

The statement points out there has been no general revision of the Canadian tariff since 1907, when the schedules were readjusted under the direction of the late Hon. W. S. Fielding, then Minister of Finance. Through the many changes in the use of machinery and electricity and in the increasing general application of science to production the tariff of 1907 has not kept pace with national developments, adds Mr. Davis.

The C.M.A. executive stresses the importance of a revision as through that the tariff structure can be left alone for years afterwards, so that disturbing changes may be avoided. Protective systems, it is pointed out, can survive in Canada only if it benefits the majority of Canadians and the support of consumers must be sought to produce quality articles for sale at reasonable prices.

"So far as it lies within their power,' concludes the statement, "the members of this Association will endeavor to co-operate with others in establishing customs tariff rates which will be to the general advantage of the Dominion."

SOVIET-CHINESE TROUBLE BREWS

Negotiations Over Chinese Eastern Railway Break Down in Moscow.

BORDER PATROLLED.

SHANGHAI, China, Oct. 30.— The breakdown of negotiations at Moscow for settlement of the dispute over the Chinese Eastern Railway has resulted in armed demonstrations by China and Russia along the Manchurian-Siberian border.

These were similar to demonstrations which caused fighting and invasion of Manchuria by Russian soldiers in November and December last year, Chinese despatches from Harbin said.

Two battalions of infantry and one of artillery were reported ordered by Manchuria to patrol the Siberian border near Manchuli, Northwestern Manchuria.

The movement was said to have been ordered because "for several days Soviet troops, with bombing aeroplanes, have been demonstrating, and new barracks are being erected in border towns."

TORONTO OFFICER SHOT IN SCUFFLE WITH 2 SUSPECTS

Youth Arrested After Chase and Fight in West End Lane.

CITIZENS JOIN SCRAP.

Constable Hit in Mouth By Bullet Fired Point Blank—Lad Escapes.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 30 (C.P.) — Two youths were arrested here last night following a brisk fight in a back yard in which citizens joined and which followed the shooting of Plainclothesman Joseph Shields. The latter and P. C. Bob McArthur noticed three suspicious looking youths in a West-end lane and when the officers tried to capture them, the fun commenced.

Fire When Cornered

One of the trio fired point blank when cornered. The bullet struck Shields in the upper lip. By this time residents living nearby had come to the assistance of the officers, and a merry battle waged before two of the alleged would-be housebreakers were overpowered.

The youths captured, and believed members of a gang responsible for an epidemic of housebreaking throughout the district recently, were Donald Unwin, 23, married, and Mike Covus, 16. Lorne Anderson, 16, who is alleged to have done the shooting, escaped.

Officer Shields refused to accept medical treatment until the two boys had been conveyed to the police station and locked up. He then was taken to a hospital where the bullet was removed.

Defence League Announces Protest Meeting When Literature Seized.

NO ARRESTS.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Oct. 30 (C.P.)—Following a quietly executed raid on Bay street buildings in which police secured a quantity of papers and literature said to be the property of Communist agents, the Canadian Labor Defense League announced a protest meeting would be held.

Printed posters, appearing in downtown Port Arthur, described police actions as follows: "Police of the town, with the aid of the Provincial Police, raided the home of private citizens and the office of the Agricultural Workers' Industrial Union of Canada and took away all the books and papers of the unemployed organization of Port Arthur, and the books and papers of the Canadian Labor Defense League. They smashed and broke the locks and ransacked the office in the most brutal manner."

No Arrests

City Police were accompanied by Provincial Police and one member of the detachment of the Royal Mounted Police, which arrived here Monday to stand by in case of further Communist and unemployed demonstrations. No arrests were made, Chief of Police George Taylor said.

"We got quite a pile of stuff, but I haven't had a chance yet to go through it all," the Chief remarked.

The search was made, said Chief Taylor, on the strength of reports that Communist agents in the city were carrying on their activities in offices and residences on Bay street.

ONE CRIMINAL CASE FOR FALL ASSIZES

Lloyd Ames of Murray Township is Charged With Committing Serious Offense.

COBOURG, Oct. 30 (Special to The Examiner. — There will be no white gloves for Mr. Justice McEvoy who will preside at the Fall Assizes of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, which open at the County Court Chambers on Monday, November 3. The one criminal case scheduled is the trial of Lloyd Ames, of Murray Township, charged with a serious offence at Codrington. He will be prosecuted by F. L. Ward, of Picton, who is named Crown counsel, and will be defended by Archie Cochrane, of Cobourg. Col. F. D. Boggs, K.C., Crown Attorney, is preparing the prosecution.

Dr. Wood To Speak At Supper Club

At this week's meeting of the Y.M.C.A. Friday night supper club, Dr. E. H. Wood is scheduled to speak on "My Trip to the Old Country." It is confidently expected that a large crowd of young men will be on hand to hear, the address, which promises to be both instructive and entertaining.

These Friday night supper meetings, which have found favor in past years, are now an established feature of the Y.M.C.A.'s local activity, and have been the means of enlisting the co-operation of numerous outstanding speakers of this district, who always have some worthwhile message to leave with their listeners.

south, however, the tide of battle swayed back and forth favoring first the Conservative candidates and then the Liberals with the ultimate victor being in doubt until hours after the polls had closed.

Sinclair Pleased

W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., leader of the Provincial Liberal Party, expressed pleasure at the result in Waterloo south when learning of the results. "Most wonderful" he commented. "The result goes far to show what can be done when the principles of Liebralism are thoroughly enunciated."

Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways and acting Premier while admitting disappointment at the loss of the Waterloo south seat, expressed gratification at the results in the other three ridings.

The result in Lanark south was never in doubt, he thought. The large maority in Nipissing "is an indication of New Ontario's recognition of the Government's forward development policies there" he said, "while the winning of Perth south by a straight majority shows the older part of the Province is steadfast in its endorsation of our work."

Ferguson Sent Results

Premier Ferguson was kept informed by cable of the progress of the Government candidates in the four ridings and knew before retiring for the night that his Government held eight of the nine seats which were opened by the recent elevation to his Cabinet of five members and deaths and resignations of four.

The other five seats were opened as the result of the re-organization of the Ontario Cabinet and the by-elections resulted in the five Ministers being elected by acclamation. The Ministers were: Hon. W. G. Martin, Minister of Public Welfare; Hon. J. M. Robb, Minister of Health; Hon. E. A. Dunlop, Provincial Treasurer; Hon. Leopold MacAulay, Provincial Secretary, and Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture.

TRUE LOVER OF CANADA

NORTH BAY, Ont., Oct. 30.—Seventy-six years of residence in Canada has proved to Mrs. Mary Edwards of this city that the dominion is a great country in which to live. She is celebrating her ninety-seventh birthday, and with a broad smile told her friends she hoped to live many more years. Since coming to Canada from Devonshire, England, at the age of 21 years, Mrs. Edwards has lived in Brantford, Guelph, Stratford and North Bay.

HASTINGS, Oct. 30.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The annual at home of the Dramatic Club of Our Lary of Mount Carmel Church was held on Monday night and was largely attended by local people and the surrounding towns.

The members of the club had the hall very prettily decorated in orange and black. They also wore crepe paper dresses of orange and black. The club put on something new in a novel dance during a moon waltz when a spook appeared and caused some excitement during the fair sex.

Music was supplied by Marshall's Orchestra of Peterborough. The young ladies served a sumptuous lunch.

CAMPBELLFORD CHEESE MAKERS ELECT W. V. DREWRY AS 1931 HEAD

GROUP HOLDING ITS OWN.

CAMPBELLFORD, October 30 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — For the last time this season the Campbellford Cheese Makers' Association met in open business session last evening at the Public Library, Campbellford, when the feature of the evening was the election of officers for the 1931 season.

This business was carried through very promptly by the vote of the whole gathering electing the present slate of officials to head the association of the coming year. The officers are as follows: president, W. V. Drewry; vice-president, Wesley Remington; secretary, W. D. Turney; Board of Directors, Fred Remington, Alex Johnson, James Shillinglaw.

Mr. Drewry, when speaking to the makers, stated that he had enjoyed every meeting of the association and the work that he as president had been able to do. He thought that one of the big benefits of the gatherings was the spirit of fellowship that they had created among the makers. They had all become better acquainted and through that fact were able to understand each other to a far greater extent. One of the very encouraging features of the year, the speaker said, was the fact that the association had a one hundred per cent membership.

In reference to the meetings for another year, Mr. Drewry said that he thought the association should try and meet more often at the factories. He thought that more good could be accomplished in this way and because of this accomplishment the effort would be worth while.

In regard to the annual banquet he thought that it would be advisable to leave the matter in the hands of the executive. With reference to the program advertising that the annual session to be held at Belleville on November 3rd, the speaker said that the local association would run a full page advertisement which should be for the whole district.

As far as the prizes for the local association were concerned they would be handled as far as possible this year as they were last season.

Nine Meetings

Mr. Turney, secretary, in giving his report stated that there had been in all nine meetings held. Exclusive of the present gathering, six meetings had been held at the Campbellford Grading Station with an average attendance of twenty-two, and two meetings had been held at district factories with an average attendance of sixty. This he thought was very satisfactory and encouraging.

J. A. Murray, in giving the report of the central board for October 8th to 18th, stated that there had been 23 undergrades. These were vats. Two were not clean, one slightly rancid, one rancid, one fruity and one weak. In reference to the last class the speaker stated that it was always charged to workmanship. He said however that in the previous report the Campbellford group was the only one that had no fault with workmanship in Central Ontario, declaring that the association should take credit unto itself when it was due.

In regard to the situation generally, Mr. Murray said that despite the fact that the cheese were not all graded yet it looked as if the local group would do better this year than last. Up to date they were one per cent. better than the previous season. As far as boxes of cheese were concerned they were only 300 at the grading station behind last year's count, and this should easily be made up and advanced upon. Of the total grading in Central Ontario this year, it was 65 above last year.

In reference to the Bank of Montreal cup, which goes to the maker with the highest percentage of specials, Mr. Murray stated that the bank had informed him that it should be a three year trophy, becoming the property of the maker who won it three years in succession.

Of the herd and dairy competition the speaker said that it would be advisable to get all makers to enter and forward the entries. In this way each man would be able to know his standing.

On motion the meeting adjourned, the next gathering to be held in April of 1931.

MAGNESIA BEST FOR YOUR INDIGESTION

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestants.

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestants, and instead take a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful antiacid and food corrective which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

HOME TOWNERS

Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous CAMPBELLFORD

Reports from the local grading station show that 603 boxes of cheese were graded last week as compared with the same week last year which totaled 597 boxes. There were two out from Victoria factory with red rust. This is the first case of red rust on white cheese for some time.

Mr. John Hall was a visitor to Belleville on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John MacKenzie of Seymour have as their guest their granddaughter, Miss L. McKenzie of Bancroft.

Mr. W. M. Stephens is visiting in the United States for a short while.

Something of a record has been established by St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Burnbrae, which is reported to have swelled their treasury to the extent of about $1,400 from the proceeds of their anniversary and fowl supper.

The Messrs. Howard Dickson and Denzil, of Kingston, were recent visitors of Mr. Roy Fry, Seymour.

Pretty Toronto Bride

Miss Betty Cample, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles and niece of Mrs. Brefney O'Rielly of Toronto, whose marriage to Mr. Malcolm Ewart Gladstone will take place in the Church of St. Margaret's, Westminster, London. Rev. E. A. Welch of Southchurch, Essex, for many years rector of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, will be one of the officiating clergymen. The bride will be attended by Miss Yvonne Denison, Miss Eva McMurrich, Miss Betty Elkington, Miss Joan Staker, Miss Joy Butterworth and Miss Peggy Cample, sister of the bride. The Misses Felicity and Irene Peacock and the Misses Bridget and Ann Hancock, will be flower girls.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Oct. 30. — Receipts of fresh eggs have dropped off to such an extent in this city that many of the larger buyers have stopped quoting on supplies from shippers and have confined themselves to moving storage holdings. Yesterday several of the large buyers were not inclined to furnish any prices for fresh eggs and gave as their reason insufficient shipments. In other words there were not enough new-laid eggs in their shippers' hands to command attention, from a business standpoint.

Nevertheless the few fresh eggs that were received locally found a ready market at prices of 46c to 48c for extras, 40c to 44c for firsts, 26c for seconds and 29c to 30c for pullet extras, delivered, ungraded, cases returned. These prices were much higher than Monday's quotations and a few cents better than on Tuesday, especially on firsts.

Egg Prices

Retailers were asked 50c for extras in cartons, 48c for extras loose, 44c for firsts loose, and 30c to 32c for seconds loose. Brokers were marketing fresh supplies at 50c for extras, 45c for firsts and 27c to 28c for seconds, graded, in free cases.

Storage Eggs

The larger wholesalers were dealing mostly in storage supplies, to the retail trade, and asked 38c for extras, candled, out of storage, and 36c for firsts. But brokers did not find too keen a demand from the wholesalers for storage supplies, though they are offering them at 35c to 36c for extras and 33c to 34c for firsts. Wholesalers seemed well supplied with short holdings, but the jobbing business is expected to increase in the near future.

Butter

The butter market just dragged along at steady prices, with brokers working hard to try and clear even small-sized lots, which by, the way, have been easier to move lately than the usually preferred large quantities. Prices asked were 30½c to 31c for No. 1 and 29½c to 30c for No. 2. Buyers were not interested unless they thought they could get bargains, and were drawing on storage supplies, as usual, to fill in any gaps in stocks on hand.

Cheese

Cheese continued to bring the prices quoted yesterday, which were 15½c to 15¾c for new large, 15¾c to 16c for twins and 16c to 16¼c for triplets, Government graded, paraffined.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Oct. 30.—Receipts at the Union Stock yards yesterday were: 381 cattle, 168 calves, 923 hogs, 996 sheep and lambs. Including hold-overs from yesterday there were 2,300 cattle for sale at the opening of the market yesterday morning. Trade continued dull with most classes of killers selling 25c to 50c a cwt. lower for the week. A few good butcher steers crossed the scales at 7c to 7¼c a pound with plain selling downward to 4c a pound. Good butcher cows brought 4½c to 5c a pound, in the early sales.

Store cattle sold steady at 4½ to 6¼c a pound, according to quality. Trade in milkers and springers is a little more active with the best selling up to $110. The calf market is steady on a light offering with good to choice veals selling from 12 to 13c a pound. Medium to heavy veals are 6½ to 11½c a pound and grassers from 3½ to 4 ½c a pound.

The lamb market opened from steady to a shade easier than Monday at 8 ¼ to 8½c a pound for good ewes and wethers. Sheep were a weak trade at from 1 to 4½c a pound. The hog market is unsettled with salesman holding for 10½c f.o.b. and 11¼c w.o.c. for bacon.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, October 30. — Wheat values dropped ⅝c to ¼c on yesterday's market. Fractional advances were recorded in the first part of trading session due to firmness at Liverpool, but selling near the close shoved prices lower.

Trading in the cash wheat and coarse grains sections of the market failed to show any life, and prices were unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Indications of at least a seasonal broadening of the movement of corn to market centers had a bearish effect on all grain prices yesterday. The influence of downturns of corn values was simultaneous, too, with general speculative consequences evoked by lower quotations on securities. Moreover, reports were current that farmers Northwest were disposing of corn and replacing it with cheaper rye, and that a considerable amount of American barley in Canada was being brought back to the United States.

The corn market closed weak at the day's bottom level, 1¼c to 2¼c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Wheat closed heavy, ⅞c to 1⅝c down; oats, ¼c to ⅜c off; and provisions, unchanged to a rise of 15c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Oct. 30.—There were 6,325 cases of eggs received here yesterday, of which over 5,000 cases were American eggs going through Montreal for export. The egg market was steady with less than car-lot prices for fresh extras quoted at 48c to 50c; fresh firsts, 42c to 43c, and fresh seconds, 30c a dozen.

The butter market was unchanged. Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery butter in car-lots was quoted at 29¾c to 30c a pound. Solids were 32c and prints 33c a pound to retailers. Receipts were 73 boxes.

Prices were lower on the cheese market. Ontario was quoted at 14¼c to 14½c a pound and Quebec at 13¾c to 14c. Receipts totalled 2,000 boxes.

The potato market was unchanged.

Search Shows Traces Of Indian Villages

Buried Settlements on Grand River Brought to Light by Recent Excavations.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Oct. 30.—(By the Canadian Press)—Four ashbeds have been uncovered by excavators on the Grand River reserve of the Six Nations Indians near Brantford, during a search for the site of an ancient town of the early Indians, and as the four ashbeds were one above the other it is thought no less than four different encampments of Indians have been revealed and it is surmised that possibly a period of about 60 or 90 years elapsed between encampments. W. J. Wintemberg, of the Archaeological Department of the Government at Ottawa, is authority for the statement of the recent find which is regarded as important from an archaeological point of view.

The site of the find is about a mile below Chiefswood, one-time home of the late Pauline Johnson, the noted Indian poetess, and it has been reported to the Brant Historical Society. It is known that there were attiwandaron, or neutral Indian settlements in this area centuries ago, and Mr. Wintemberg is quoted as expressing the belief that their identity might be established. He has suggested the placing of markers indicating the location of the settlements or villages in question.

Mr. Wintemberg states that the attiwandaron, or neutral, Indians occupied this district some hundreds of years ago when Father La Roche Daillon, a Recollect missionary, in 1626 visited what is now the Grand River Valley, and he left a diary recording the fact that such villages existed hereabouts. The articles unearthed in the excavations include pottery, stone awls, flints, the bones of such animals as deer, racoon, wild dog and bear, also wild turkey, wild ducks, orange and pigeons, fish vertebrae, turtle and clam shells, besides numerous burned limestones which had been used in fireplaces.

One of the ashbeds is about 40 feet in width and about 75 feet long. The beds in some cases were palisaded with stakes or saplings driven into the ground two feet or more apart and interwoven with willows, thus forming a wicker work and constituting a sort of retaining wall.

Visitors from Australia, China, India, the United States and Canada attended the one thousandth annual fair at Barnstaple, England.

"...be particular which soap you choose

We specify Palmolive"

A view of the modern salon of Maison Henri Limited, which employs a skilful staff and the latest scientific methods.

says G. HENRI

well known Vancouver Beauty Specialist

"It doesn't pay to experiment, when beauty is at stake... use Palmolive. Nothing equals the stimulating, soothing cosmetic oils in this famous complexion soap.

Your beauty specialist cannot work on an irritated skin. Every woman should aid the work of her beauty shop by using Palmolive. Its vegetable oils are penetrating, yet safe for the most sensitive skin."

Maison Henri Limited
Vancouver

23,720 Beauty Specialists advise Palmolive

"SOAP and water? Of course, every skin needs them. But be particular which soap you choose. We specify Palmolive." So says this beauty shop. And 23,720 beauty specialists of distinction, here and abroad, also specify Palmolive.

Why Vegetable Oils are Best

There is a soothing, penetrating quality about a vegetable oil soap lather that searches down into the tiniest pores and frees them of the day's accumulation without hurting the fabric of the skin. As you know, the skin is very sensitive, and must be very carefully handled. Palmolive Soap lather cleanses without irritation. It leaves the skin soft and smooth, and in wonderful condition for your beauty expert's treatment.

Dangers to Skin Beauty

Unless the skin is thoroughly cleansed twice a day, dirt, dust, cream and make-up gather in the pores of your face and soon become hard little accumulations which develop into blackheads and pimples. These unsightly blemishes are a sign of neglect on your own part. Use the right soap, use the right cleansing method, and you are taking the best steps toward complexion beauty.

Palmolive is a pure vegetable oil soap. Its color is the natural color of palm and olive oils. The delicate natural odor of these vegetable oils makes the addition of heavy perfume unnecessary.

Here is the recommended treatment: massage a smooth lather of Palmolive Soap gently into the skin. Rinse, first with warm water, then with cold. Now... and not before... you are ready for make-up.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1930.

REVIVE THE OLD HALLOWE'EN SPIRIT.

The suggestion of Ald. Fred. Tuggey that a collection for the relief of acute cases of distress among those suffering because of unemployment should form part of this year's celebration of Hallowe'en will, The Examiner is sure, be generally approved.

We are glad to co-operate in this feature of the community observance of this occasion, the more so because it is right in line with the old-time idea of Hallowe'en as a night of hospitality, good fellowship, roaring fireplaces, good things to eat and drink, and delightful superstitions.

If in the midst of Peterborough's fun-making we stop long enough to do something for the less fortunate this Hallowe'en we will at the same time be reviving the hospitality and good fellowship of the bygone days.

And there's not enough of that sort of thing in the bustling, hustling, breathless pace of the world of today.

The Examiner is asking, therefore, its good friends who have so cheerfully assisted in making other Hallowe'en celebrations a success to make this one more enjoyable than ever by bringing in a donation of cash or milk or bread tickets or orders for goods, food, clothing—something that will help a family in need.

General compliance with this invitation, we are sure, will make this observance of Hallowe'en the most notable in Peterborough's history.

SHOULD BE REPRESENTED.

Canadian manufacturers in particular and the Canadian people generally should be interested in the Trade Commission to Latin America which is being organized by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and which, it is hoped, will be composed of at least two hundred representative manufacturers from this country.

There is reason to believe that the markets of Latin America offer wide opportunities for the sale of Canadian goods, particularly of manufactured articles.

Recent tariff changes made by the United States have not increased the popularity of that country among the South American peoples, and they are in a receptive mood for friendly overtures from Canada.

This is evidenced by the fact that the Canadian Chamber of Commerce has received most cordial invitations from Latin American countries to visit and confer with their representative business men, and that the Argentine Chamber of Commerce has already established an official trade delegate in Canada.

The possibilities of opening up a large trade—for we can profitably import many articles from South America—with the people of Latin American countries are bright enough to justify enthusiastic hopes for the success of the trade mission which is to visit Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Uruguay and Cuban next March and April.

Peterborough, as an industrial centre, should have representation on this most important body, which promises to accomplish a great deal in the development of Canadian industry.

A SENSIBLE ORDER.

The Liquor Control Board has issued instructions to its sales staffs throughout the Province that persons who are in the ranks of the unemployed and whose circumstances are such that the purchase of liquor would deprive their families of the necessities of life are not to be allowed to buy liquor, beer or wine in Government stores.

Some people may resent that order as discrimatory, but certainly public opinion as a whole will support the board in its decision that families who have been hit by the unemployment situation are not to be furthered injured by liquor purchases that cannot be afforded under present conditions.

Surely it cannot be argued that in cases where a man's wife and children are going short of food and clothing that the Government-owned liquor stores should add to the distress by allowing the head of the family to waste money in liquor when it is urgently needed for worthier purposes.

Some municipalities have already decided that men who want work under the relief scheme must turn in their liquor permits, it being regarded as absurd that people for whom work had to be provided should use the money so earned in buying alcoholic refreshments.

The new order will mean more responsibility for Liquor Control Board vendors, who are expected at all times to exercise a vigilant supervision over their sales, but it would seem to be in the public interest.

TO LICENSE TOURIST STOPS.

Once more there is a report that the licensing of all tourist camps and tourist stops is to be undertaken by the Ontario Government with a view to ensuring better health and sanitary conditions, and that legislation to this effect will be introduced at the next session.

We are not suffering from any lack of licenses or legislation, but nevertheless it is regarded by those who have given any attention to the matter that it has become necessary for the Government to have some control over places of accommodation for tourists.

At present these places are under no supervision.

Anybody who wants to engage in the business can stick up a sign, "Tourists Accommodated," and commence operations.

There are thousands of such tourist stops in Ontario competing with the standard hotels and having an absolutely free hand.

The proprietors are under no regulation whatever as to the nature of the accommodation they can provide, their guests do not have to register as the patrons of regular hotels are required to do, and there is no guarantee to the patron that he will find healthful or sanitary conditions.

If the licensing system is adopted it will drive the dirty, unsuitable places out of business, and because of that certain development the nominal fee that is to be charged will likely be cheerfully paid by the proprietors of legitimate tourist stops who are endeavoring to provide decent accommodation at reasonable rates for motoring tourists.

A RAY OF HOPE.

The difficulties which surround the marketing of our agricultural production and the bitterly disappointing grain prices which continue to obtain are, perhaps, upsetting the peace of mind of business men as much as any other factor. Present estimates on world supply of and demand for wheat, coupled with the carry-over on this continent and Russia's tactics, depress the outlook. Whether looked for improvements will come to pass is a matter so speculative that one hesitates to take a definite stand one way or another. It is to be hoped that next August will see our stocks of grain at a more satisfactory level than they have been at similar periods during the past four years. Broomhall's estimate that world consumption of wheat will be about 110 million bushels in excess of last year (625 million as compared with 736 million) is significant in this connection. The authoritative statement that wheat should soon be grown profitably at 65 cents per bushel, due to improved methods of production and distribution and the decrease in the number of marginal wheat growers, both serve to brighten agriculture's horizon.

As a ray of hope for Canada, the crops of the Southern Hemisphere are not yet made and have about another forty days of growing weather with which to contend. As of the end of September, dry conditions exist in many of the winter wheat States of the U. S. A., while the Federal Farm Board advocates acreage reduction and the heads of the farm co-operatives, reporting on a survey of their agents, indicate the possibility of the United States consuming their wheat surplus owing to the small corn crop, short hay crop and poor pastures. It has also been reported from Liverpool that Russia so far has only planted about 42½ per cent. of the acreage set by Government for winter sowing. There is, therefore, "hope" even though it be deferred.—The Commerce of the Nation.

COMPLETE THE CANAL.

The campaign for the completion of the Trent Waterway has gained valuable newspaper support in a quarter that was not always friendly to the enterprise.

The Toronto Globe, which at one time was inclined to ridicule the Trent Waterway and refer to it as a political football of no great general value, is now convinced that the completion of the Severn section is desirable, because of the impetus to tourist trade that would be brought about.

The Globe says:

In the good old fin de siecle days—the overstuffed period in which politics was politics—the Trent Waterway loomed as a major issue in public affairs every four years. The Trent Valley Canal, it was termed then; and it bore a more or less intimate relationship to party fortunes in some twenty constituencies running across Ontario between Trenton and Midland. Through shifting fashions in nomenclature and progress in construction it has attained in recent years the more impressive status of waterway.

While the future of the Trent route as an artery for water-borne commerce remains somewhat problematical, the waterway is fast assuming an importance as a factor in tourist traffic which promises more than to fulfil the visions of those who for years worked unremittingly for the completion of section after section. Last summer large cruising craft, both Canadian and American, plied up and down the waterway in greater numbers than ever before, giving to it a new air of cosmopolitanism. It seems, indeed, to be assuming rapidly the character foreseen by the late Senator W. H. Bennett, of Midland, who so long championed its interests. More and more it becomes a summer playground, easily accessible to a class of tourists who do not make heavy demands on the fish and game resources of the Province, and whose expenditures call for relatively little in return.

At the annual meeting in Midland of the Waterway Association, representing interests all along its route, it was decided to urge upon the Dominion Government the completion of the small remaining stretch. At the rapids on the Severn a "carry-over" railway is employed to transport boats of the larger type. Notwithstanding this difficulty, craft as long as sixty-five feet have found it possible to cruise from Georgian Bay to Trenton. With the completion of the channel at one or two spots which now cause delay or annoyance, vessels up to 130 feet will be enabled to traverse easily the full length of the well-charted scenic waterway, which, roughly speaking, follows the route of the explorer Champlain.

Since the passage of larger cruisers, some from such inland United States ports as Cincinnati, has been met with obstructions which are trifling compared with what has already been accomplished, the argument for the early completion of the work would seem to be logical if, as has been estimated, it could be carried through within a year or so.

Already in full operation from Trenton up through the Kawartha chain of lakes and on past Lake Simcoe, the waterway when finished will assume increasing importance in the tourist traffic of the Province, even if it is difficult to measure yet its future as a factor in commercial carrying operations.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Having been taken for a political ride, Tommy Church may be now taken for a boat ride. He has been asked to become a candidate in the next British election.

And now, as the Globe is not likely to say, "There goes the 'blasted' conference."

There is hope for Amos n' Andy. Ben Smith, former London taxi-driver, walked in the Royal procession at the opening of the British Parliament on Tuesday.

Some of the people who have to take a jail sentence because they cannot pay the small fine inflicted for a minor offence would doubtless like to know how it felt to be able to plank down a $200,000 fine.

When honey is used in the making of Ontario wine the morning-afters will probably imagine those noises they hear are the buzzing of the bees.

Oshawa Gliding Club has had its first try-out, the sensation, it is said, being something like a flyer in the stock market. You soar for a while and then come down flat.

Ready For Heavy Conference

On Thursday, October 30, Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin (above), the Leader of the Conservative Party in Great Britain and former Prime Minister, will meet all the members of his party, including those Conservative candidates who were defeated in the last general election, to state where he stands in the matter of policy. The Conference is expected to be a warm one, but while some of the English Conservatives will undoubtedly move a vote of non-confidence in Mr. Baldwin, it is expected that he will retain his position as Leader of the Official Opposition in the House of Commons.

THE SILVER HAWK

By

WILLIAM BYRON MOWERY

When the noon hour passed and nothing happened, he decided it was high time to act. Switching on ignition, he idled the motor a few minutes, drew in the anchor, skittered down the inlet to warm the engine thoroughly, gave it the gun, bounded into the air and headed for Edmonton.

It was his intention to inquire around in the capital city; and if he found no trace of Dorn, to ask help from the police.

All that long morning, while he waited and worried at Lake Lobstick, Kansas had been thinking back over his six years of partnership with Jim Dorn; of their first barnstorming tour in a rickety old Army "Jenny" which finally demonstrated the law of gravity against an alkali hill at Austin, Texas; of their season together spotting lightning fires in Oregon, where they got in much good practice at aerobatics, and imaginary letter-writing and aerial combat manoeuvres; of the acres and acres of boll weevils they had murdered in Mississippi; of that time in California when Dorn deliberately hired out to an unprincipled air-transport company in order to crack up their dangerous old crates, and was so smooth about it that he cracked up five before the company discharged him. Of their term in the Foreign Legion, and their subsequent vagabondage up and down the airways of Europe in an old war-time Sopwith.

Looking back across those years, Kansas several times had thought morning: "I owe Jim Dorn my life a couple dozen times over. And here I sit like a stuffed owl when maybe he's in trouble bad." In his anxiety he was particularly prodded by the memory of an incident so fresh that it was still a nightmare in his mind. Just six weeks ago, before the cartographing season began, he and Dorn, the two crack pilots of the Force had been testing forestry planes down near Victoria. They were flying twin machines that morning when Kansas's engine konked and died and his plane crashed on a mountain mesa, pinioning him, bruised and battered, in the wreckage. Roaring overhead four hundred feet up, Dorn made a valiant pack-chute jump, and though his own machine cracked up against a mountain nine miles away, he landed almost on top of Kansas's wrecked ship before that ominous tongue of fire reached the gas tank. Pulling his partner out of the snarl of wire and wing and matchstick timber he carried him through the smoke and flame of the fire spreading over the mesa, and toted him five miles down the mountain to the C.P. grade, where a section gang finally picked them up in a gasoline go-devil.

Whirling on full throttle toward Edmonton, Kansas fervently hoped he could find Dorn and give him a hand, whatever his trouble; and pay back a part of the debt incurred that morning down in the lonely Lillooets.

As he flew east he kept watching the brown ribbon of road beneath him, still faintly hoping Dorn might be coming; and so it came about that thirty miles east of Lake Lobstick he noticed an automobile creeping westward like a little bug along an ant run. Because a car was a rarity in that thinly settled country, he throttled down and paid particular attention to the automobile. From dead overhead he saw it stop, saw a man jump out, face up-turned, and wave arms and hat.

Dropping down, banking on vertical wing, Kansas flew back over—low enough this time to recognize the tall rangy figure of Jim Dorn.

In a duck pond a mile west he "sat down" and waited. The car came bumping along the rutty road hitting on two cylinders. It stopped where the pond curved closest to the road, and Kansas paddled ashore.

Dorn and a sawed-off, bow-legged individual named Jerry already were pulling out a pile of packages that completely filled the tonneau of the ancient sedan.

"Took a lot of patience," Dorn greeted, as they shook hands—"patience and two good mechanics and fourteen hours to coax this bus out here over these wagon ruts, Kansas, but here we are. I was afraid you'd be gone, son. Where in the world were you headed for?"

"Edmonton! I figured you was in a mix-up, Jim. If I couldn't find you myself I expected to ask the police——"

Dorn paled. "You were going to ask the police!" Then he laughed in his silent way. "Some day you'll appreciate that joke. Don't ask questions. Help get this baggage out to the plane. Couple boats load, pretty bulky; that's why I wired to bring the D-H crate. Jerry, here's a hundred dollars. Hope you get home all right. Next Christmas I'll remember you with something substantial."

While Dorn was fetching the second canoe load, Kansas stood on a pontoon and re-stowed the packages in the fuselage cubby. He would have given a leg to know what was in them; and when he saw that the paper was already torn a bit on one, he did not think it very treacherous to probe a little with his finger. He came upon some garment of fine blue corduroy, and probing further he discovered it was a girl's skirt; and with still another twist of his fingers he disclosed a pair of tiny lace-boots.

"For God's sake!" He drew breath like a cow on a frosty morning. "For God's sake! What's Jim Doran doing with those things?"

He recovered from the shock before Dorn came back, and tactfully said nothing, but he was busy adding up that strange girl at Titan Pass, plus this wagon-load of packages, plus Dorn's unexplained trip to Edmonton, and he arrived at the conclusion:

"It's that girl! He met up with her somehow, Jim did. He's taking her these things to set her up in housekeeping. A whole crateful like this—means she's away inside the bush. He, Jim Dorn, the fellow that's been lecturing me for six years about women—he's got her, somewhere, in that howling wilderness. Lord! she was pretty, that night . . ."

He had thought of the girl a hundred times; of her haunting, wistful beauty as she stood in the lighted vestibule, and of her wraith-like elusiveness when he hunted for her in the cedar shadows; and he had almost come to believe that she was a creature of his own imagination. But here was proof of her actuality, and proof that Dorn had met her and in some way was bound up with her and the mystery of her.

The individual called Jerry waved his cap as the plane took off and headed west. A few minutes later Kansas glanced back to the rear seat. With pack-chute for a pillow, Dorn had eased himself into a comfortable position and was sound asleep.

It seemed to Kansas that his partner's stern face had lost something of its sternness and that he looked happier than in many moons.

"That girl's the cause of it!" he swore to a passing mallard. "She'll cure him of being melancholy. Funny he won't tell me anything about her. Guess I'm just a partner. Maybe he'll tell me if he needs help; but now two is sompany—" And he suddenly sobered at the thought that here might be the beginning of the end to partnership between Jim Dorn and himself.

Then he noticed the lines under Dorn's eyes, the weariness of his features, the crusted blood on his knuckles; and he shrewdly reasoned:

"Jim's mixed up in some bad trouble! He used an automobile to get away from Edmonton because he didn't dare come by train! That girl was scared the night I saw her, and whatever she ran away from, that's what Jim is fighting." He looked meditatively at the plain outline of the Silver Wings Valiant which Dorn always kept hidden beneath his jacket; and he reflected: "Well, if there's fighting to be done, she picked a man who can do it. Jim's had a skirmish with her enemies already. They caught a Tartar when they jumped on him."

He flew on, over the ever-rising foot hills, west toward Eagle Nest, so lost in thought that he nearly hit the first snow-capped mountain.

CHAPTER XIII.

A BATTLE AHEAD

Over the nose of his swift monoplane Dorn looked away into the northwest across a wilderness of evergreen valley and rocky spikes and beautiful white neves, and far ahead sighted Goat Mesa, lit to fire by the early morning sun, and on farther saw a glint of blue from the upper end of the lake, Aurore's lake, the Lake of the Dawn. Unconsciously he pushed the throttle a notch wider.

He had left Eagle Nest three hours ago; and alone in the night sky, he had nothing to do but watch the needles of his instruments and try to arrange the strange happenings of the last five days into some understandable story.

Several things stood out clear to him. Aurore was being hunted, and there was money and power and a relentless purpose behind the search for her. She had fled from the Transcontinental into this wilderness for sanctuary; had fled out of civilization to escape pursuit of her This H.C.S. to whom she sent the telegram was probably the chief one of her enemies. But what did he mean in her life, and what did he want of her, and why was he hounding her? What was the particular and great value on her head?

WHAT THEN?

(By J. H. Burnham)

We see that the British government has rejected Mr. Bennett's plan. There will be a general election in Britain soon and we shall then see if the people of Britain will reject it, too. If so what will Canada do? Mr. Bennett will then have to back down or go to the people of Canada again, and under those conditions that would mean that the people of Canada will have to do one thing or the other, that is, back up Mr. Bennett again and thus declare that they refuse to form an empire, or stand taut. There is no getting rid of this fact. Either Britain or Canada must back down and if neither will then the bond is cut and Canadians have declared their independence.

It was to forestall this impasse that supported the policy already agreed upon by the whole conference in 1926. The system of 'voluntary preference' seemed so to fit in with the spirit of empire (which is the whole thing) and at the same time with the issue of each part of it to manage its own affairs without interference from the rest so perfectly that not to adopt it would mean disaster and here we are face to face with the disaster. If Britain or Canada cannot or will not back down the empire is dead, still born.

The quota offered by Britain is a form of voluntary preference. It seemed to me at the time and seems even more so now, that insistence by any part of the empire upon altering the policy of any other part of the empire, that is the tariff policy in Britain in this case, would be regarded as undue interference and that is just what it is and that is why Mr. Bennett's policy so unyielding and dictatorial may mean not the building up but the pulling down of the Empire.

What To-day Means To You

"SCORPIO."

If October 30th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. to 11:15 a.m., from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 9 p.m. to 10 p.m. The danger periods are from 6:30 a.m. to 8 a.m and from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Interests or undertakings dating from some time back are again to the fore on this date. A surprise, probably through a letter from the distance. No advance happenings of importance are indicated. Fate will leave you pretty well to yourself.

The child born on this Octobre 30th will be reserved, sensitive, thoughtful and not very confident. It will win esteem for its trustworthiness and common sense, and will win success through honesty and merit. It will suffer slightly from nerves, but will overcome any hysterical tendencies as it grows older. It will be exceedingly loyal and affectionate.

You are not an outstanding figure, not the one in a thousand, but are a normal being with normal desires, emotions, opportunities and capabilities. You might be called a typical suburbanite or "mainstreeter". In your smug way you are content with the narrow limitations of your horizon, and the sun traverses the tiny orb which encircles your environment. You feel no urge to seek your fortunes in distant lands, and should you travel, you will never cease to sing the praise of home in detrimental comparison to the places you visit. You are a hundred per cent loyal to your community, but you do not feel yourself a citizen of the world, nor are you interested in foreign missions.

You are capable of becoming a big frog in a very small puddle, and you will greatly enjoy the kingship or queenship of your self-appointed monarchy. Position and power quickly go to your head, and you soon try to "lord it over" your so-called inferiors. You have considerable self-confidence and are almost too cock-sure of yourself. You have no decided talents, but are naturally capable, and do many things averaging well. You are slightly original and ingenious, and you are nearly always able to get yourself out of any muddle without assistance. You allow yourself to be carried away by envy, and to let jealousy prompt you to do things which are silly.

CANADIANS GUESTS OF KING

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 30. — (By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Correspondent)—The entire Canadian delegation to the Imperial Conference were guests of His Majesty at a reception at Buckingham Palace yesterday afternoon

Very Itchy Pimples on Face For Years. Healed by Cuticura.

"For years I was troubled with pimples and blackheads. The pimples were hard, large and red and affected my face. Some of them festered and caused eruptions, and at times were very itchy.

"I tried all kinds of remedies without success. I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using it purchased more. In about a month I could see that it was helping me, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Lola Love, Ridgedale, Saskatchewan.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address Canadian Depot: J. T. Wait Company Limited, Montreal.

J. F. LASH REPLACES DENISON ON TECK HUGHES EXECUTIVE

BUILD ELK LAKE ROAD.

TORONTO, Oct. 30 (Special to The Examiner).—Appointment of John F. Lash, of Blake, Lash, Anglin and Cassels to the Teck Hughes board to fill the vacancy created by the death of President Denison is announced. Mr. Lash, who recently became a fairly large shareholder, should prove a valuable addition to the directorate. While it was expected the company's annual meeting would be held Nov. 19 unsettled conditions resulting from the president's decease may cause postponement until the last week of the month. It is not definitely decided yet whether the gathering will be held here or in Buffalo.

J. C. Dallas, well-known western oil operator and managing director of Calmont Oils, passed through town yesterday on his way to England where he hopes to interest additional British capital in western development. Mr. Dallas was largely instrumental in attracting attention of interests behind the recently formed Anglo Western oils organization, reported to hold very large acreage on several structures in Alberta.

With regard to affairs of Calmont oil, Mr. Dallas reported the No. 4 well drilling in porous formation at 5,015 feet. Slightly improved production is being secured from the No. 2 well, though the enormous gas flow is still providing difficulties. The heavy pressure made efficient operation of the well a problem, he explained, as it could not be allowed to flow free due to danger of freezing and was hard to regulate.

The company now has 12 wells in various stages of development. A gang of men are to start shortly fixing up the road from Elk Lake to Matachewan district, according to word received from W. J. Shields, of Bloom Lake Consolidated mines with holdings in Powell township. This road, except for a distance of eight or nine miles, is reported to be in fair shape and work will be carried out on the uncompleted section. With this built it would be possible to motor directly from Toronto to the district and it is likely the road will be carried on to Fort Matachewan.

SHARE PRICES SINK LOWER AT NEW YORK

Little Stock Offered For Sale in Languid Market To-day.

COCA-COLA SOFT.

Drops 13 Points While Canada Dry and White Rock Are Also Lower.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Oct. 30 (CP).—Share prices again sank lower in a languid stock market to-day as Wall Street was inclined to restrained bearishness.

Little stock was offered for sale but after the meagre success on the bull side earlier in the week, traders were willing to turn bearish on almost any pretext. An abrupt decline in some of the beverage stocks was attributed by Financial News tickers to the belief that they would be adversely influenced should the campaign for the return of legalized beer prove successful.

Coca-Cola was an outstanding soft spot, dropping 13 points, and Canada Dry and White Rock were also carried lower. It was pointed out in brokerage circles that Coca-Cola had not declined proportionately with the rest of the list, and had thus been left in a vulnerable position. Eastman Kodak was again under pressure, losing more than 6. National Biscuit, Atchison, American Telephone, and American and Foreign Power lost 3 or more, while issues declining 2 or more included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, International Harvester, and Union Carbide. Some of the independent steels, including Crucible, Ludlum and Newton, reached new lows, as did United Aircraft, Gillette and Checker Cab. Radio sagged to its previous low at 20.

Winnipeg Review

The wheat market was a dull, narrow affair yesterday, with prices holding within a narrow range of around 1¼ cents. Liverpool, while firm, did not fully follow our late upturn of yesterday, and export sales overnight were very small, being confined to around 100,000 bushels worked by the pool. Offerings were light throughout the day and these appeared to be absorbed by local houses, but at the same time a little foreign business was coming in the scale down from top levels, which probably accounted for 250,000 bushels. The cash market was quiet with no demand from any quarter except for the low grades which are very difficult to buy in any fair quantity.

Millers and shippers were taking whatever was being offered at card prices but the offerings were limited and buyers somewhat indifferent. Over night sales were confined to durums, Germany taking whatever was sold. There was no change in the flour situation, which is dull. Liverpool closed ½ higher outside of the cash month and Buenos Aires at mid-day was ½ to 1¼ lower. Chicago was weaker than Winnipeg, and professionals were reported as pressing the market. Trade volume was small to-day and so far as could be learned there was very little outside interest being shown outside of the foreign buying mentioned above which was only small. Winnipeg futures closed ½ to ¼ lower.

Coarse Grains.—These markets were very dull and featureless with very little doing as far as consumptive demand was concerned. Oats held steady while barley received a little local support. There was no feature to these markets.

Liverpool cables due ¼ lower to unchanged on Winnipeg.

OILS PROVIDE MARKET ACTION

Nordon Corporation Advances to New High at 90 in Early Trading.

NICKEL FIRMER.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 30.—Oils provided the only feature on the mining market in the forenoon to-day, balance of the list showing only small changed from last night in light trading.

Continuing yesterday's advance, Nordon Corp., went to a high on the present movement of 90 in early trade and at noon was selling steady at 86, up 11 from last night. Reports of a new deal in connection with the company's acreage and progress in the button willow California, drilling were given credit for the strength. Home Oil and Ajax were slightly firmer while Calmont and East Crest showed minor recessions and rest of the group was unchanged.

International Nickel firmed a half to $19, but Noranda held unchanged as did most of the Base Metal issues. Hudson Bay recovered 10 to $5.10. Base Metals Mining was down 10 to $1.25 and Amulet lost a point.

Golds were mixed and confined in their movements. Lake Shore regained 15 to $21.25, Hollinger 5 to $5.85 and Howey a point or so to 20. Dome receded 10 to $8.50 and Kirkland Lake Gold was off 4 to 41. Balance of the section was quiet.

LOTTERY PRIZE TURNS OUT HOAX

TELEGRAM ROUSED HOPES.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 30 (C.P.).—Suspicion that someone has played a cruel hoax on unsuspecting Toronto people in connection with the big Cambridgeshire Sweepstakes were strengthened last night when a cheque by wire at St. John's, Newfoundland, brought definite word that Mrs. Bronistaure Dziarmaga was not named with the holders of lucky tickets in the $600,000 gamble.

Mrs. Dziarmaga was just clearing the breakfast table yesterday morning when a telegraph boy rang the doorbell and presented her with a telegram that was said to read as follows:

"You are second prize-winner. Send your ticket to St. John's registered mail and a cheque will be sent you."

The woman digested the astounding news and then rushed down to the C.N.R. freight sheds to tell her husband. Friends gathered around, and they figured their winnings up at $22,609.

A trip to the house last evening revealed a household sparkling with happiness. Visions of a trip back to Poland were conjured up. Plans were discussed for the purchase of property, a motor car perhaps, and some of the winnings in the bank against a rainy day.

And then came the woeful news late last night that there must be some mistake.

SEARCH CONTINUES FOR LOST HUNTER

Relief Parties Doubtful Whether Youth Lost in Forest Will Be Found Alive.

MASONVILLE, Que., Oct. 31.—(CP)—With hope practically abandoned that he will be found alive, search parties today were still combing the forest here for John Page, twenty-two years old, whose mysterious disappearance has been the cause of much anxiety and consternation in this neighborhood.

Page was last seen on Sunday morning when he left his home here to go deer hunting, taking no lunch with him and stating that he would be away only a short time. When he failed to return that evening it was feared that he had lost himself in the wide forest and on Monday morning some one hundred men oranized themselves into a search party and started to comb the wood sector.

STOCK DELIVERED TO ALL CLIENTS

ASSETS THEN $1,500,000

TORONTO, Ont., October 30 (C.P.). — That the firm had a net surplus of $658,429 on February 2 the testimony given by Roderick L. Wright, controller of the firm of D. S. Pateron & Company, when trial continued in Criminal Assize, to-day of D. S. Paterson, Austen Campbell, and Edgar McLean on charges of conspiracy to defraud. Mr. Justice Jeffrey presided.

Witness said the firm's "short" position on that date was $1,365,933. But there was $1,194,842 due from clients, and there were assets of about $1,500,000. Yesterday the same witness testified the firm was short over $8,000,000 on February 28, 1929.

Witness said the firm's "short" position had been wholly corrected and to the best of his knowledge every client who offered balance due on his account, had received his stock or had it arranged for. The urplus had practically vanished since January, 1930, he said. While the trading profit in 1929 was more than $700,000, there was a net loss of $7,000 brought about by "operating expenses."

Convict Has Short Slice of Freedom

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Oct. 30.—(CP)—John Baird who escaped from the Grey County jail here Wednesday morning, was recaptured Wednesday evening and was formally committeed for trial when he appeared before Police Magistrate E. C. Sphereman here Thursday morning.

The recapture came as the result of information received by the police Wednesday evening when Baird had been seen in a taxi going south. He was found by local police at 10 o'clock Wednesday evening at the home of Jas. Henderson, and accompanied them to Owen Sound without causing any trouble.

FIGHT CONTINUES WITH FORMOSANS

Eighty-six Bodies Found in Ruins of Lonely Village in Interior.

TROOPS ADVANCING.

TOKIO, Japan, Oct. 30—Reports to the War Office indicate the Formosa savages who went on the warpath on Monday, killing scores of men, women and children, were concentrating heavily eastward of the village of Musha.

A despatch from Taihoku, Formosa, said 86 bodies, including 38 children, were found in the ruins of Musha.

Fears that scores of other Japanese in isolated police stations and small settlements north and east of Musha had met a similar fate, were expressed in official and newspaper despatches from Taihoku.

Effective search for them must await further military advance into the savages' territory in the mountainous interior.

REEVE McINTYRE SCORES COUNCIL

TOWNSHIPS DISAPPOINTED.

With $56,000 to spend on work which might not be considered an absolute necessity, the city might have undertaken as an unemployment relief scheme the completion of its sewage disposal plant, according to the contention of Reeve Fred McIntyre of Otonabee, who believes the City Council is not making any special effort to carry out its promises and also the order from the Provincial Board of Health.

"I know the Council's attitude," Mr. McIntyre said. "They say there is no type of disposal plant that is efficient enough to warrant building here. At the same time the whole country is not simply stalling or marking time on sewage disposal plant construction. Other communities are building plants and they must be satisfied with the effectiveness of the work that is being done. This would have been a good time for the city to get their plant completed at half the final cost, and if the Council declines to consider the matter, they are missing an opportunity in economy that doesn't come around very often. Many of the residents in the townships would like to see a few more signs of earnestness on the part of the city in its responsibility of completing the sewage disposal plant.

"Those of us who are interested in the relations between the city and the townships feel somewhat disappointed that the Council passed up this chance to get a large grant toward the cost of the sewage disposal plant."

Better Days — Better Ways

MAN'S ingenuity has turned the dreams of yesterday into realities of to-day.

A marked contribution to modern progress has been made by Life Insurance. Among the advantages it affords is that it enables a person to "create an estate immediately and pay for it later."

For example: If you desire a $25,000 estate you can guarantee it by depositing 2% per year. (Age 33, London Life Jubilee Annual Dividend Policy). Even if you lived to make only one deposit the London Life would deliver to your heirs the entire $25,000.

Thus Life insurance makes it possible for you to set up an estate sufficient to provide a life income for your wife—a fund for your later years—a monthly cheque if you are disabled—or money for whatever other needs you may have.

The benefits of life insurance can be secured only while you are in good health. For this reason the agent is your friend when he advises you to take life insurance NOW.

TORONTO LIST HOLDS STEADY

Nickel Sells Up to 19 With Oils Generally Firm and Unchanged.

WALKERS LESS ACTIVE.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 30.—(CP)—The Toronto Stock Exchange market this morning held to the level attained on this week's recovery from the low of the year. Trading was inclined to drag.

Massey-Harris further extended the gain made this week to sell as high as 16 this morning, which contrasts strongly with 13. The level at which the stock appeared stabilized. Nickel sold up to 19 again this morning and the oils generally were firm and unchanged, although McColl registered a further reaction from yesterday's high.

Both Walkers and Distillers were less active and both eased slightly under moderate profit-taking, no attempt being made to boost these stocks higher at the opening.

Brazilian and Bell Telephone were easier and C.P.R. lost less than a point. Changes elsewhere through out the list were only fractional in nature and of no special significance.

35 S.P.S. Students Visit C.G.E. Factory

Thirty-five students of the graduating class of the School of Practical Science of Toronto University were to-day visitors to the Canadian General Electric Company's plant. They were accompanied by Professor Zimmer, of the University staff, who arranged the trip as an opportunity for the S.P.S. seniors to spend a profitable day observing the various processes and equipment of Peterborough's big electrical plant.

The students motored down in a chartered bus, arriving here about ten o'clock, met the heads of the C.G.E. factory, and were taken in charge by W. M. Cruthers. After luncheon at the Empress they returned to the factory, resuming the objective experience offered by the day's trip.

Winnipeg Drug Stores Robbed By Bandits

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 30.—(By the Canadian Press.)—Two drug stores in residential districts of Winnipeg were held up last night. Three armed thugs marched into Berry-Hills store on the fringe of the downtown area, trussed up a clerk who was closing for the night, and fled with $60. Amount obtained in another raid on Jenkin's store in the south end of the city was not immediately known.

TEACHERS' TRAINING SCHOOL IN SESSION

Being Held This Week in Campbellford Under Auspices of O.E.C.

CAMPBELLFORD, October 30 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent)—Under the auspices of the Ontario Religious Education Council, a Standard Teachers Training School is being held this week in St. John's United Church, at which many people interested in the work of the Sunday Schools are in attendance and taking a keen interest.

The course, which is interdenominational, is under splendid leadership. These sessions, which are held in the evenings are divided into four study groups. These are, primary, teen age, young people and adults. Mrs. Norman White is leader of the primary group, the Rev. A. Poulter of Wooler heads the teen age class, the Rev. D. McLennan is teacher of the young people's division and the Rev. R. C. Tait of Campbellford is the efficient head of the adult class.

These four departments of work, covering as they do the whole of the work of the Christian church, are being strongly emphasized and fine results are expected from the training school.

YOUNG FARMERS ARE GUESTS OF FRANK O'CONNOR

Group of Boys From Peterborough District Visit Merry Vale Farm.

SECOND FARM VISITED.

Special Interest Taken in Fine Herds of Ayrshire Cattle.

Through the kindness of Frank O'Connor, president of the Laura Secord Candy Company, a group of Peterborough County's future farmers on Tuesday visited and studied the methods used on two of Canada's foremost cattle and horse-breeding farms.

At the invitation of Mr. O'Connor the group of boys were assembled by Mayor Roland Denne with the assistance of J. B. Nelson, agricultural representative, and conveyed to Merry Vale farm, Mr. O'Connor's stock farm near Toronto.

They were entertained at the lodge by Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor and enjoyed a splendid dinner. In the afternoon the boys were taken on a tour of the farm. Special interest by the boys was shown in Mr. O'Connor's champion herd of Ayrshire cattle and Clyde horses.

Later they visited Dun Alda, the Dunlop farm a neighbour to Merry Vale, where they met the manager of the Prince of Wales' farm, who is visiting there from England. Dun Alda is the cattle show place of Canada and the fame of its stable has spread over two continents.

The practical manner in which Mr. O'Connor's farm is carried on impressed the visitors and they returned with a new opinion as to the importance of farming.

BISHOP O'CONNOR VISITS HASTINGS

33 CANDIDATES.

HASTINGS, Oct. 30.—(Examiner Correspondence).—There was a very large crowd out on Tuesday night at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church for the first official visit of Bishop O'Connor of Peterborough.

Father McGuire, parish priest of Hastings, spoke a few words of welcome to Bishop O'Connor assuring him that the people of the parish of Hastings would always remember him in their prayers and would also be with him in all his undertakings.

His Lordship in replying to Father McGuire's words of welcome thanked him for his warm welcome, on this his first official visit, although he had been to Hastings on two other occasions to visit Father Bretherton, who is confined to the house. His Lordship addressed the confirmation class of twenty girls and thirteen boys on the Sacrament of confirmation. After a review of the Catechism the class was confirmed.

Rev. Father McGuire and the Misses Johnson and Meagher are to be congratulated on the training they have given the children.

MANY SUCCESSES AT THE FALL FAIR

ROSENEATH, Oct. 27.—Now that the fall fairs are over for this year, and everyone back to their general routine of living, it may be of interest to know a few of the many successes that have taken place at the fairs throughout the country. Alnwick township can boast of having some of the best products, poultry, livestock, etc., in the Province of Ontario.

All increased wealth comes from natural resources of which agriculture is the chief. These men who have brought fame and honor to our community are deserving great credit for their activities and interest taken in attending the fairs. The fall fairs bring to every individual, irrespective of creed or circumstances, information and assistance in practically everything in which he or she might or should be interested and receive a benefit. The critic is usually the onlooker. If one goes only as a listener one is apt to become uncharitable toward those who are shouldering responsibility. Were everyone to come as guests to the fair, there wouldn't be any. Members should all be enthusiastic and act their parts, never letting their enthusiasm waver.

The people of Alnwick township come out strong with exhibits for the Roseneath fair, but those who attended other fairs and bringing home the best prizes possible and have been leading Alnwick township to a higher standard along agricultural lines.

Harold George is one of our prominent farmers in winning handsome prizes on his single driving horse, and also specials for it being the best groomed horse shown in its class.

Marcena Davey hit a high record with his matched team of bay roadsters. They are beauties, neat and clean and can pick up their feet and show speed that was surprising to many. Mr. Davey has raised both his horses and is, no doubt, very proud of them, which any one would be to own such a pair of choice animals. Showing them at Peterborough, Colborne, Port Hope, Campbellford, Warkworth, Norwood and Roseneath, Mr. Davey brought home a fine display of ribbons that means great success, having won six firsts, one second and nine specials. One of these specials was a beautiful rug donated by Ackerman of Peterborough, and was secured by M. D. Brown of Roseneath. At Norwood the team won a pair of bridles, which is an A-1 prize, for best matched team. At Peterborough fair the team was defeated by Col. Earchman's roadsters, Mr. Davey coming second.

Nevertheless, this was the first fair of the season for them and later they showed what was in them for winning prizes.

Charlton Grigg and Harry Coyle, representing this township with their Durham cattle, did splendid in securing highest awards at fairs away from home.

John T. Drope, another prominent farmer, made an outstanding record in Jersey cattle, not only in Ontario but met with great success in Quebec Province, winning championships on several of his herd and retained this record throughout Ontario. Mr. Drope has one of the best Jersey herd of cattle in Canada and is now widely known by stock breeders.

It is men like these that build up our country and may enthusiasm still flourish that others may take part and join them in keeping this high standard in the lead, that other townships or countries will learn they must produce something special to compete with exhibitors from Alnwick township.

USES OF VOLCANIC DUST.

Volcanic dust is mainly used in the manufacture of cleansers, scouring powders, and abrasive soaps, but latterly, outside Canada, there has been an increasing demand for its use as an admixture in cement and plasters. Volcanic dust beds up to thirty feet thick are being worked near Swift Current, Saskatchewan. There are other beds in British Columbia.

In Bachelor Quarters!

OBITUARY

ANDREW LUMSDEN

WEST VANCOUVER, Oct. 30.—Andrew Lumsden, a resident of Hollyburn since 1919, died at North Vancouver General Hospital recently.

The deceased was in his 94th year and until his last illness, when he was stricken with paralysis three years ago, enjoyed remarkably good health. Until past his 90th year it was his daily practice to take long walks, frequently walking from Hollyburn across Second Narrows bridge to Kitsilano, Vancouver.

He was born at Keene, Ont., and resided at Lindsay for many years. He was an enthusiastic curler and a member of the first curling club established in Lindsay, probably the best-known organization of its character on the continent. He was a member of the Presbyterian church until the advent of church union, when he joined the United church. A man of sterling character and kindly disposition, Mr. Lumsden was highly respected by all who knew him.

The deceased comes of a family noted for longevity of its members, and is survived by five sisters, Mrs. H. Garbutt and Mrs. T. Fitzgerald of Lakefield, Ont., and Mrs. Hannah Marr, Miss Agnes Lumsden and Miss Alice Lumsden of Keene. Mrs. Margaret McSweyn of the staff of the Dominion income tax office, Vancouver, is a daughter and Mr. C. A. Sutherland of 1921 Collingwood street, Vancouver, is a grandson.

M. W. SINE, V.S.

STIRLING, Oct. 30.—The funeral of the late M. W. Sine, V.S., was held from his late residence on Monday afternoon, the service being conducted by his pastor, Rev. A. N. Reid, assisted by Rev. F. J. Joblin and Rev. E. W. Rowland.

Rev. Mr. Joblin read the scriptural text and led in a prayer of comfort, Rev. Mr. Reid took as his text, "I am the Resurrection and the Life" showing that the deceased is not dead but simply gone into another room and so friendship and fellowship go on. He also repeated the hymn, "Blest be the Tie That Binds" and Rev. E. W. Rowland pronounced the benediction.

Pall bearers were A. Pargey, A. Hammond, L. Meiklejohn, J. M. Magee, James Saries and F. T. Ward.

The Oddfellows being in charge at the Stirling Cemetery, the burial service was conducted by Bros. F. T. Hulin and Ashley.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have catarrhal deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

NORWOOD COUNCIL SEEKS $2,000 FOR UNEMPLOYED

The village of Norwood is also seeking some of the Dominion and Provincial grant for unemployment relief. T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P., was in Toronto recently with a deputation from Norwood, who waited upon J. A. Ellis, secretary of the Government committee in charge of the unemployment relief scheme. The deputation asked for $2,000 and outlined complete plans whereby that amount could be expended at once in drainage, giving work to Norwood's unemployed.

20,735 PERSONS ENTER C. D. STORE

Two Are Tied For First Place and Both Are Given Fine Radios.

OTHER PRIZES AWARDED

The number of persons entering The Canadian Department store at George and Simcoe streets, during their "Harvest Festival" sale week, which concluded on Saturday last at 6 p.m. was 20,735.

To the persons giving the correct or nearest estimate of the number of people entering the store, the prize winning honors went to Mrs. F. Gandy, 550 Water street and Miss Blair, 25 Lafayette avenue, who both put in the identical estimate of 20,750.

With their characteristic generosity, and in conforming with their ideals of big business, the management of the Canadian Department Stores Limited, presented an additional first prize exactly the same as the prize announced in their advertisements, namely a magnificant 1930-31 Minerva Radio, valued at $187.50 each.

The radios, in tall elegant walnut cases, stood on the fourth floor at the store yesterday afternoon and provided interludes of music, during the presentation of the prizes which were awarded by W. H. Hemphill, supervisor of the Canadian Department Stores, who had come to this city from Toronto for the occasion, and by W. F. Butcher, general manager of the local stores.

In a brief address, Mr. Hemphill informed the lucky contestants, that the prizes would be delivered right to their homes, while giving the winners of the second and third nearest estimates, the choice of various other valuable articles of merchandise.

To Miss Stenner of 190 Charlotte street who estimated 20,754 was given the choice of a dress or a coat, while Gordon Powell of 396 McDonnel street, chose a suit. His estimate being 20,763.

In all 8,043 persons participated in the unique contest, which was absolutely free. Two employees, one at each door, were on duty throughout the week with automatic counters with which they took count of every person who entered the store from Monday October 20th at 9 a.m. to Saturday October 25th at 6 p.m.

YOUNG PLOWMEN GIVEN AWARDS

Neil Tully and Olan Leahy Win First Place in Respective Classes.

LEAHY WINS TROPHY.

Neil Tully, R.R. 4, Peterborough, and Olan Leahy, R.R. 4, Lakefield, are the winners of the Home Plowing Competition, for Peterborough County. Both will receive seven dollars in prize money, each having won first place in separate classes.

Olan Leahy won the trophy for the highest scoring land. This boy is one of the county's newest plowmen, and this is the first year he has ever competed in a match. He also won first place at the County Plowing Match in the same class for those under twenty-one years of age.

DEATH KNELL OF PULP EMBARGO

Angus McLean of Bathurst So Interprets Recent Importation of Russian Material.

TO UNITED STATES.

BATHURST, N.B., Oct. 30—Angus McLean, past president of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association, for many years a member of the executive of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, former president of the Bathurst Co., Ltd., paper manufacturers, and generally recognized as one of the best informed men in the forest industry, in a statement touching the recent importation of more than 250,000 cords of Russian pulpwood by U.S. mills, said:

"It must now be clear to every reasonable person that an embargo on the export of Canadian pulpwood will neither compel U.S. mills to move to Canada nor deprive them of the proportion of their business which has been based on Canadian pulpwood, because these U.S. mills are already importing Russian pulpwood in increasing quantity and cutting down on their Canadian imports.

"Moreover, the price of Russian pulpwood landed at the mills is about the same as Canadian wood, and the quality is high. When it is remembered that Russia has the largest pulpwood forests in the world, is eager for an outlet for her forest products and has command of cheap labor, it will be understood how great a menace to the timber business of Canada she is becoming.

"In view of what is now happening it looks to me as if the question of an embargo on Canadian pulpwood has received a death blow. In the light of developments of the last year it seems ridiculous to think it was ever seriously considered, and certainly there can now be nobody well informed on world conditions who would give it support.

"It would be a good thing for employment, for stability in the pulpwood industry and for Canada as a whole, if the new Federal Government announced that there would be no interference with export of our forest products. We might then be able to restore confidence which would enable us to retain at least some of the business which has been lost to us by reason of mistaken propaganda."

So Easy to Make

Tempting Pancakes with Aunt Jemima are ready in a few minutes

"I'se in Town, Honey"

It seems like magic that pancakes, so toothsome, so delicious, can be made so quickly. Just stir milk or water with an equal quantity of Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour, cook on a moderate fire, and presto! golden brown pancakes that make your mouth water.

In plantation days, Aunt Jemima's pancakes were famous throughout the Old South, a land of epicures. Today, in Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour the identical rare flours come to you ready mixed. You get the same appetizing flavor but require only a few minutes to make.

Buckwheats, with their satisfying tang, can be made just as easily with Aunt Jemima prepared Buckwheat Flour, or, for variety, try waffles, muffins, or pancakes rolled in jelly. Keep both kinds of Aunt Jemima in the pantry and be ready for any demand.

PLANS DISCUSSED BY W.C.T.U. FOR ADVANCEMENT OF SOCIETY

Report of 53rd Convention at Belleville Read By Mrs. J. A. Plunkett.

OCTOBER MEETING.

The Green Room at the Y.W.C.A., with its cosy warmth, was the setting for the interesting October meeting of the local W.C.T.U. Mrs. C. H. Edwards, the president, was in the chair, with a splendid attendance of members. The meeting opened with singing "Some glad day" and the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison. Business was the first item on the program and was dealt with in prompt and efficient manner. The minutes were read by the secretary, and a detailed report was given by the treasurer, showing finances in good standing. Discussion resulted in many plans being made for the advancement of the society and the co-operation of the members in all the activities under way speaks well for the spirit existing. The Scripture lesson from I. Corinthians, chapter 13, was read by Mrs. Bookhout, who closed the beautiful story with a poem following out its theme "Love,' "My Lord walked in my garden" and Miss McCamus offered prayer.

An unusually interesting feature of these meetings is the use of the "clip-sheet," which is a sort of questionaire, the answers to which bring out some startling facts and figures along the line of work being done by the W.C.T.U. Mrs. Lorne Cunningham led the exercise and was assisted by Mesdames Rowe, Micks, Seymour, Bookhout, Cunningham, Wand, Lundy, Graham, and Misses McCamus and Might. The report of the 53rd annual convention of the Provincial W.C.T.U. held in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, on October 6 to 10, was given in a most interesting record by the delegate, Mrs. J. G. Plunkett. All the sessions were crowded with enthusiastic audiences and distinguished speakers brought stirring messages. Among those speakers was noted Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington of Washington, general secretary of the World's League Against Alcoholism. The Provincial president, Mrs. Asa Gordon, Ottawa, presided throughout. The visitors, numbering over 300, were given a fine welcome to Belleville and to the convention church. Greetings were brought by Mrs. W. C Mikel from the Woman's Association, who wished the W.C.T.U. all progress in their great work for humanity. Mrs. W. H. Merry, of the Baptist Church, also conveyed greetings from her church, while Mrs. Morris represented St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Mrs. S. G. E. McKee, North Bay, responded to the greetings in her usual able manner. "We accept the mission" she said, "of educating and lead all church and civic workers in the warfare against liquor." The pastor of the church in opening his convention address said that the only cure for the evils of prohibition is more prohibition not license. Dr. Cherrington among many pertinent statements remarked that he was not present to discuss the policy of dealing with liquor traffic in vogue in Canada or any other nation, but to discuss the basic principles induced in the sale and consequences of the liquor traffic. The mitigation of these evils under any system is always traceable to prohibitory features of that system. The first major step in the eradication of any great social evil is depriving that evil of the sanction of the law, and the protection of the government. It doesn't solve the problem, but that evil stands alone from that time, and must defend itself. To-day we are up against the second step. Our friends, the enemy, have learned the power of suggestion. How far you can go with the minds of people by suggesting something over and over. They present many evils as the result of prohibition. This fight will not be won in a day. One of the greatest evidences of progress is that temperance fanaticism of yesterday has become the common sense of today and some of us will live to see the day that this fanaticism of today will be the common sense of tomorrow.

The delegates were entertained at a delightful banquet on Wednesday evening, when the president, Mrs. Gordon, proved herself a witty and versatile toasmistress. Alderman Kinnear, in the absence of Mayor Reid, conveyed the welcome of the city, which he claimed to be an ideal city for conventions, and speaking on the temperance question said: "No legislation in advance of the times can be effective. There must be education for a majority. Education must be the deciding factor."

The youth program of the W.C.T.U. drew a large crowd when Mrs Knapp spoke on "Youth's Ideal Hero Jesus Christ." A pageant, "Who Cares?" was given by the White Riboners of Belleville with fine effect, while members of the Belleville W.C.T.U. took part in a play which portrayed the evils of moderate drinking on home life. Shields and banners were presented to the young people's organizations for increased membership for essays and posters showing splendid work done. The gold medal was won in provincial elocution contest by Miss Laura Wilcox of Ottawa, who is now eligible for world honors. Keen ability was shown by the competing young ladies, their expression and delivery being of a very high standard. A beautiful "In Memoriam" service was held for the numbers called into the presence of the King.

The music during the whole convention was of a high order and appropriate. Much time was given over to reports of the various departments, all of which were found most encouraging. The following is the personnel of the Ontario W.C.T.U. executive for 1930-31:

Hon. Presidents, Mrs. S. G. E. McKee, North Bay; Mrs. E. A. Stevens, Toronto. President, Mrs. Asa Gordon, Ottawa. Vice-president, Mrs E. T. Kerr. Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. J. S. McLean, Ottawa. Recording Secretary, Mrs. C. W. Hillock, Toronto. Treasurer, Mrs. John Wright, Brantford. "Y" Secretary, Mrs. Rowe Seymour, Cataraqui. L. T.L. Secretary, Mrs. Lancefield of Hamilton. The gracious president was presented with flowers in honor of her long and efficient service. At the close of the above report, Mrs A. I. Brown moved a vote of thanks to the delegate, Mrs. Plunkett, for the splendid way in which she had fulfilled her duties and for the comprehensive report so carefully prepared. The meeting closed with a hymn and prayer by the president, Mrs. Edwards.

ASSOCIATION HOLDS MUSICAL EVENING

Lives of Great Composers Are Outlined By Miss Rannie at Prince of Wales Meeting.

The October meeting of the Prince of Wales Home and School Association took the form of a musical evening. The president, Mrs. G. Davis presided. Miss Snyder, the public school music teacher demonstrated her methods of giving class instructions in music with piano solos.

"Pussy Cat", by Dorothy Dummitt; Olive's Waltz, Donna White; 'If I was A Sailor", Wilton Hillier; Evening Prayer, Walter Dunford; song, Betty Irwin; Miss Snyder then gave a demonstration of theory; piano, Kenneth Laidley and Madeline Gilgour; song, "Jack O'Lantern" accompanied by Eleanor Taylor.

Mrs. N. Todd delighted the audience with a vocal solo; Miss Rannie, Supervisor of Music for the Peterborough schools, gave a splendid talk on the lives of three great musical composers, Schubert, Sebastian Bach and Charles Gounod, showing their pictures and illustrating their music by records; Betty Irwin the little 4-year-old prodigy captivated all with her songs "Sweetness" and "If I Had a Talking Picture of You". She was accompanied by Isobel Middleton. Dorothy Cunningham played two violin solo's; piano solo, Gordon Shearer; trio, Dorothy Dummitt, Madeline Gilgour, Donna White; "Summer Days", Phyllis Simpson; "Juanita", Billy Shosenberg.

The program concluded by singing God Save the King with chimes by Eleanor Taylor and Phyllis Simpson. The president thanked Miss Snyder and Miss Rannie and all ho had assisted with the program.

Why Good-bye?

"Good-bye" is a word which no one likes to say. There is something too solemn, too final, about it. Nowadays people are more and more growing to say, "So long! I'll telephone soon." They conserve their friendship by long distance telephone.

SUCCESSFUL BAZAAR IS HELD BY MOOSE

First Venture of This Kind Ever Attempted By Members of Ladies' Chapter.

The bazaar held in the Loyal Order of Moose rooms yesterday was very succeseful. It was the first venture of the women who are members of the Ladies' Chapter of the organization, and everything was sold, with the exception of a few small articles, which were later dispensed with at a bingo game.

Ladies who had charge of the various sections of the sale included the convenor, Mrs. F. Roberts, Mrs. J. C. Poolman, Mrs. Sands, Mrs. E. Long, Mrs. Duke, Mrs. R. Hesmond, Mrs. J. Bell, Mrs. J. Chambers, Mrs. B. Gash, Mrs. J. Middleton, Mrs. N. Fullbrooke.

The draw for the two hand-worked bedspreads took place last evening, also the draw for the doll. Miss Betty Irwin of 143 Rubidge Street drew the lucky numbers, the first spread going to W. J. Smith, of 306 Mark Street, Dictator of the Loyal Order of Moose, with ticket No. 96, and the second spread to Mrs. E. Long of 226 Murray Street, with ticket No. 115.

The winning ticket drawn for the doll was No. 81. The owner was not present. If this is not claimed within three days at 549 Romaine Street, the doll goes to Mr. Garside, Senior, owner of the second ticket drawn, No. 83.

At the conclusion of the program, refreshments were served by the ladies.

MARATHON

331 GEORGE STREET - - Next Door to Bank of Nova Scotia

COURT OF REVISION SCHEDULED TO HEAR

the court, and several local lawyers represented most of the merchants.

Bank of Nova Scotia.

The Bank of Nova Scotia's was the first called. In addressing the court, Mr. Fraser said that the bank's land assessment in 1930 was $16,000 and for 1931, $19,570. There was, he claimed, a corresponding increase in the business tax from $12,600 in 1930 to $14,078 for 1931. He said that he had studied the assessment of other banks in the city and learned that they had not been increased for 1931. "If you want to increase the city's revenue by increasing the assessment why not spread it over the whole city rather than limiting it to two blocks, and that all on one side," he declared.

Improvements, he affirmed, was often an excuse for raising the assessment, but it could not be given in his case since the building was not new and had not been improved in ten years. He urged an equal increase in assessment and maintained that one firm should not be penalized as against other business of a similar nature in the city.

Chairman Johnston asked Mr. Fraser to state where he thought the assessor has over-valued his land. "Some evidence must be submitted as to the value of the land," he said.

Mr. Fraser replied: "Because some organization comes along and pays a fabulous amount for a lot is not necessary that neighboring sites should be so valued. I am informed that the person who paid that fabulous price for a certain lot in question is no longer with the company."

Later he said: "If we can't get anywhere in this court we will appeal to the judge."

"Right," replied Mr. Johnston, "and you'll require evidence as to the value of the land."

"If we have to furnish it to the judge we will furnish it to him. There's no use giving it twice," said Mr. Fraser when asked again to submit evidence as to the value of the bank property.

The list of stores appealing the increased assessment is: J. P. Bond Dickson's store, G. N. Gordon, S. Warne, Woolworth Company Grafton Company, Richard Hall and Company, Metropolitan Corporation, McDermid Drug Company, McDermid & Jury, H. B. Routly, Tip Top Tailors, United Cigar Stores and Louis Yeates. All these were adjourned until next Tuesday.

Appeal Adjourned.

City Assessor Henry's appeals against the assessment of all the business places on the west side of George street between Hunter and Charlotte streets were also adjourned until Tuesday. It is likely that some of these appeals will be withdrawn.

An appeal against a business tax being charged on the Grand Opera House was entered by Amusement Enterprises Limited, who have the property leased. F. D. Kerr, K.C., appeared for the amusement company, claimed that the firm had not carried on the theatre as a place of amusement and therefore should not be charged the business tax. In every case but that of the Dumbells, which paid a two-day engagement, the theatre has opened only to local organizations merely as a convenience to organizations.

City Solicitor John R. Corkery argued that if the theatre had been opened only once as an amusement place, and it had been opened more than that, business was being carried and the business tax could be legally collected.

Smoke nuisance from Campbell's Creamery was the basis of appeals on assessment brought by Mrs. J. D. Deyell, F. O. Goodfellow, and several other residents in the neighborhood of the creamery. They claimed that the presence of the smoke had reduced the value of their property. It was pointed out to them, however, that the Court had no jurisdiction over such claims and a civil suit against the creamery company would right the wrong if any existed.

The other cases were merely the usual run of complaints against assessment on residences and for poll tax.

One was brought by G. N. Gordon, K.C., against the assessment of the Barnardo Home property. He said the property had been offered the Salvation Army but had not been accepted, and that its sale as a woollen factory had never succeeded after many attempts. He affirmed that it had deteriorated greatly because it had been left vacant. Judgment was reserved.

DUMPING DUTY ON USED CARS BEING PROPOSED

INTEREST ON REFUNDS.

Dumping Duty on Imported Used Cars into Canada is Suggested.

At a well-attended joint meeting of the executive of the Chamber of Commerce and the local branch of the Ontario Motor League, held this forenoon under the chairmanship of J. Wells-Fraser, proposals brought forward by James R. Dixon of Ottawa, respecting the payment of interest on all refunds made from time to time by the Federal Government, received the unanimous endorsation of the meeting, at which were represented many of the city's most prominent business men.

J. A. McKone, in moving the resolution, said it seemed to be a very feasible proposition and thought the proposals should be endorsed by the meeting. The motion was seconded by J. R. Marshall.

Another matter of extreme national importance was then broached by Mr. Dixon, namely the question of a dumping duty on imported used cars.

Further Discussion Needed

After the principles of the proposal had been fully expounded and the matter had been discussed at some length, it was felt by the meeting that the matter was of too much importance to make any hasty decision regarding its endorsation. It was decided that the matter would be brought forward at a meeting of the O.M.L. of which many local dealers are members, and would again be submitted at a further joint meeting.

Mr. Dixon has for some years been engaged in a movement which is of interest to every person liable for income tax. He pointed out that at the present time if payment of this tax is allowed to lapse, the person liable must pay interest on all overdue amounts. If, however, a mistake is made in making out a return or for any other reason overpayment is made, and a refund is granted, the Government does not pay interest on the amount refunded.

The speaker was of the opinion that if the Government charges interest on overdue payments which may be the result of unintentional error on the part of the taxpayer, they should also pay interest when refunds are made of excessive amounts which have been paid.

He dealt fully with the question of reparation claims, and added that Commissioner Freel, who is one of the several commissioners, who have been appointed by the Government in past years to hear such claims, recommended the payment of interest.

The speaker could not see why the reparations claim dollar should be paid interest and not the dollar on other forms of taxation, on money which had been held by the Government for an indefinite time.

Used Cars

The speaker dwelt on the point of the differential in the price of used cars in the United States and used cars in Canada, saying that we have been asking that an additional duty of 15 per cent be levied on all used cars brought into Canada and sold within one year.

It is a measure, he contended, which will discourage the importation into Canada of used cars, and will at the same time adequately protect that industry here—which is one of Canada's largest industries—without penalizing the purchaser or dealer.

It was on the foregoing point which Mr. Marshall did not see eye to eye with the speaker. He was of the opinion that a danger lay in making a difference between two users of one commodity, contending that iff additional duties were going to be put on used cars which made a distinction between the dealer and the private purchaser, it would possibly lead to dishonest practices.

It was at this point that the meeting was adjourn.

The speaker left a favorable impression on his listeners. The questions he discussed, while of vital national importance were in no sense political, but went right to the heart of the economic situation.

UNCOMFORTABLE, ill-fitting underwear is a handicap. You can't feel right in a shrunken, irritating suit of underwear that seems to be cutting you in half—and you won't look your best either. For being well dressed starts from the skin out.

Perhaps that's why so many successful salesmen insist upon Stanfield's. They know, from experience, that this unshrinkable underwear always keeps its shape—that it is comfortable, easy, every day of its long life. They know that because it is tailored to exact measurements it fits perfectly. And they know that no matter how often it goes to the laundry, it comes back soft and warm. Little betterments, too, are important to them. They appreciate the way the four-hole buttons are put on—each backed so that you can't pull it off. And they value the amazingly longer wear Stanfield's gives.

If you are not now wearing this famous underwear—the largest selling in Canada—try one suit. Let it prove to you how much better underwear really can be.

Go to your favorite store today. Select the style and weight that suits you best. And remember Stanfield's costs you little or no more than ordinary underwear.

"John is going to be comfortable this trip"

A word to the wives—if you are entrusted with the buying of your husband's underwear, get him a suit of Stanfield's and put it in his bag before he goes on his next trip. We'll warrant you'll get a letter of thanks.

CANNY CAPTAIN SAVES EXPENSE

Lumber Schooner Loses Rudder — Crew Cuts Timber, Makes Another and Place in Position.

MAKE WOODEN MOLDS.

BOSTON, Oct. 30—The men who follow the sea must not only be brave and hardy but they must be resourceful enough to outwit it when it threatens by one of its caprices to carry away the profit of the trip. From this follows the story of Captain William Kelson of the timber carrier Adams.

Last summer the Adams sailed from Portland, Maine, for Gaspe, P. Q. Including her captain and cook the schooner's crew numbered six men. She ran into heavy weather and while she was still far away from her loading port, an ugly cross sea swept away her rudder leaving her wallowing helplessly in the trough of the sea. Anchors were dropped overboard and the next day when the blow had abated a little her crew was able to manoeuvre by means of her canvas to a dock at Port Daniel.

Port Daniel was formerly the site of extensive lumber mills which have passed and the town is now populated by a few farmers and fishermen. There were no facilities there for making the needed repairs and the nearest dry dock was 230 miles distant in Pictou, N.S.

The situation which confronted the men of the Adams was that of making the necessary repairs as quickly and as cheaply as possible. Had it been necessary to tow the schooner to Pictou where the work would have been done by competent shipwrights, the job probably would have cost $500.

Captain Kelson canvassed the town and finally inveigled a farmer into contracting for cutting and shaping the necessary timbers. Hardwood was necessary for a part of the construction and spruce sufficed for the rest. In order to get the wood the men had to go five miles back in the hills and on one of the return trips a team of horses fell off the side of a mountain and was killed. No broadaxes could be found in the town and the men were cutting and shaping the timber had to do it with ordinary axes.

Yellow birch was used for the hardwood section of the rudder and each timber had to measure twenty-inches square on each end.

When the original rudder was carried away by the sea the heavy "irons" also held the rudder to the eyes fastened to the stern of the boat.

The captain made a sketch of the rudder he was constructing and had his men make a wooden molds of metal work he needed to complete the job. He then took his models and "flivered" thirty miles down the coast to a pulp company mill where he was able to get his three bronze castings made.

Meanwhile the timbers had been hewed into shape. The metal fasteners were applied after careful measurements had been made by thrusting a pole down the rudder well. Then the schooner was hauled to a point off the breakwater where there was twenty-five feet of water. This was hardly enough water to handle the massive rudder but it had to suffice under the circumstances. By driving staples into the top and bottom of the rudder and reeving lines through them, Captain Kelson and hin men were able to lash heavy stones to the bottom of the well beneath the ships counter. Once this was accomplished the lashings were cut so that the stones would fall off. Working from small boats the men were able to get the foot of the rudder into its socket in the shoe which runs from the keel.

The next task was to put in place the heavy metal collars on the rudder to which the tiller is connected. This was quickly accomplished, the wheel and housing replaced and on the same day the casting had been received the Adams was ready to sail for Gaspe where she arrived after a total of thirteen days.

Gay colors and varied costumes were prominent at the A.Y.P.A. masquerade party which was held in the basement of the church Monday evening, October 27. There was a large attendance and the grand march by way of opening tested the judges' ability to decide the winners. The ladies' prize was awarded to Miss E. Chatten who impersonated a sedate lady of declining years, whose life was apparently one of ups and downs as she hobbled around on the arm of her escort. The Spanish onion man ran off with the gentleman's prize, which was portrayed by Mr. George Woodhead. This gentleman wandered around with his onions prying his wares to the amusement of all. An object contest proved a brain teaser to most participants while a game of musical chairs mixed up the gathering in good A.Y.P.A. style. Groups were then formed for a nut contest after which the best part of the program was introduced. Refreshments were served in the form of sandwiches, pumpkin pie and coffee, which ended a decidedly happy evening. Mr. J. Bent, Mr. N. Burgmaster were judges in the grand march.

Would-Be Authors Urged To Try Luck

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 30 (C.P.)—Strong encouragement to those who felt the urge to express themselves by writing fiction was given to the members of Dominion Douglas Ladies' Literary Circle by Dr. Lloyd D. Douglas, of St. James United Church. "Everybody has one story," he said.

Dr. Douglas pointed out that many of the difficulties which deter an aspirant for literary honors from trying his luck really do not exist except in the mind of the too timid. The chief requirements were a fertile imagination, an ability to express oneself in ordinary and understandable language, and a sense of the fitness of things. By the latter was meant that the chances for success were much increased if the would-be author dealt with people and places with which he was fairly familiar. Above all things, the speaker stressed the necessity for the writer to be natural. He felt that the percentage of authors who have achieved success by writing of either characters or scenes of which they knew nothing was too small for that plan to be recommended.

The oldest twins in England are thought to be William and John Cooper of Hasey, Lincolnshire, who are 90 years of age.

Handbags in the shape of sedans in various attractive colors are being featuredе in Paris, the "window blinds" of the car concealing a dainty mirror.

NEW RADIUM FIND IN HALIBURTON

Dr. Nesbitt Reports New Area Which is 300 Acres in Extent.

SENDING OUT SAMPLES.

LINDSAY, Oct. 29.—Dr. Nesbitt, who has for years been associated with Charles Earl in prospecting for radium, in the Haliburton district, reports a new find of the precious metal near the Richardson property, in Wilberfore township.

The area in which the new find has been made is, according to Dr. Nesbitt, some 300 acres in extent and the radium ore that the exploration of the past week has revealed is, he adds, worth "pretty near a million dollars."

Samples of the new discovery are being forwarded to the Dominion and the Provincial Departments of Mines for analysis.

OBITUARY

MRS. JAMES MAHOOD

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—Mrs. James Mahood passed away yesterday at her residence on William street, Lakefield, at the age of 80 years following an illness of some months.

Her husband predeceased her two years ago. Surviving are: one daughter, May of Lakefield; one son, John, of St. Catharines; also three sisters, Mrs. Freeburn of Buffalo, Mrs. Gilbert McIlmoyle of Smith, Mrs. Fairburn of Napanee; and four brothers, George of Kenora, Cephus in the West, Ernest and Fred of Buffalo.

Mrs. Mahood was a member of St. John's Church, and took an active part in the church's organization.

The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence to Hillside cemetery.

TWENTY-SEVEN DEAD IN ITALIAN EARTHQUAKE

BUILDINGS BADLY DEMOLISHED AND ENTIRE DISTRICT ROCKED, GREAT BOOMING NOISE IS HEARD

Many Villages and Towns Are Completely Cut Off By Quake.

TROOPS SENT OUT.

Twenty-seven Reported Dead—More Are Expected to be Added to Death List.

ANCONA, Italy, Oct. 30.—(C.P.)—Twenty-seven persons were known to have lost their lives in heavy earthquake shocks which caused damages in thirteen towns in the Provinces of Ancona, Pesaro and Macerata early to-day. Great property damage was caused throughout the area.

The marble front of the Provincial Headquarters Palace fell into the Piazza Roma. The tower of the chursch of the Holy Sacrament partly collapsed; many villages in the Marche Province suffered from the quake and communications with several places were interrupted. Injured persons were taken to hospitals. The authorities immedaitely organized relief measures.

The earthquake was felt all the way from Ravenna to the coasts of Marche. Fabriano, famous for its paper manufacturing experienced a severe tremor, but there were no victims.

Communications Disrupted

Telephone and telegraph lines from Ancona, Fano and Macerata to Rome were brought down.

The Mayor of Fano, in a telephone conversation, said that ten persons, one of them a soldier, were injured there and that the Church of the Madonna Del Ponte Netauro had been damaged. Ten persons also were injured in the village of Mondalfo.

The Mayor believed the epicenter of the quake to be between Morozzo and Senigallia. Senigallia was cut off entirely from the rest of the stricken area, but was reported to have suffered heavily. Troops were sent from Ancona and Pesaro.

The earth shock extended far to the south along the Adriatic; Grottamare, on the border of Abruzzi, reporting a heavy shock. In the north both Ravenna and Faenza were shaken slightly.

The authorities immediately sent motorcycles, police and army trucks to the isolated villages and towns. They had in mind the Ultrue region earthquake on July 23, when the death list, at first believed small, increased enormously with reports from small villages which had been cut off.

FIVE MEN ASPHYXIATED

CHARLEROI, Belgium, Oct. 30.—(CP)—Five men to-day were asphyxiated by sulphur fumes following an explosion in the Fortenaille coal mine at Montigny Les Tilleus, near here.

The men previously had been reported missing, but rescue workers reaching them found them dead.

Mayhem Neatly Done All In Childish Fun

A boxer leads a rugged life;
His trade is harsh and rough.
He earns his bread by brutal strife,
And all that sort of stuff.
But when he takes one on the glim
And stretches on the mat
Nobody puts the boots to him
While he is cold and flat.

A half-back, when he falls to earth,
Is rended limb from limb.
Impelled by clean and wholesome mirth,
His rivals mangle him.
They beat their victim black and blue,
They trample on his lip.
It seems a cruel thing to do,
But that is sportsmanship.

LONGE'S TRIAL IS ADJOURNED

Constable Tells of Finding Blood-stained Stone Near Scene of Fight.

WOMAN TESTIFIES.

WALKERTON, Ont., Oct. 30 (C.P.)—How he found a bloodstained stone in the snow shortly after Harry Longe of Southampton had been arrested on a charge of murdering Earl Yeomans also of Southampton, near that village on April 10, was described from the witness stand by Provincial Constable Nelson at the opening of Longe's trial here. Longe is charged with slaying Yeomans with a stone.

The constable testified that the stone he found was bloodstained and dry, compared with other stones, which were wet, indicating that the one marked had been used recently. He testified further that he found blood a short distance away.

Lillie Longe, Harry's sister-in-law, described how she saw Harry Longe approach Yeomans when she was talking with the latter, and that both men were about to fight, when she turned away to call for help. Then she heard some one fall, and saw Yeomans on the ground. Harry's mother also testified. The trial was adjourned by Mr. Justice Wright following their testimony.

2 BANDITS ROB BRUSSELS BANK OF OVER $5,000

Pair Heavily Armed Enter Just as Staff Are Closing For Day.

BOUND, LOCKED IN VAULT.

Escape Calmly Made in Car Parked Outside—No Clues Left.

BRUSSELS, Ont., Oct. 30 (C.P.).—Two bandits, of distinctly foreign appearance, obtained between $5,000 and $8,000 in a quick swoop on the Bank of Nova Scotia's branch here yesterday. The hold-up took place just as the bank was preparing to close its doors for the day.

Lock Door Behind Them.

The two robbers entered the bank by way of the front door, locking it immediately. They covered with revolvers three members of the bank staff and a customer. The manager, Fred A. Wilmot; the accountant, James A. White, and the teller, Carl M. Carroll, were ordered to lie on the floor, face downward, while the robbers tied their arms behind their backs with hay wire. Before doing this, however, the teller was made to open the safe and the door of his cage, while all the available cash in the bank save a few cents, was scooped into a bag. The three members of the bank staff were then marched into the safe, along with the customer, Allan Lamont, manager of the Brussels Creamery, who is a cripple. The inside door of the safe was closed by the robbers, but not the outside door.

License Not Obtained.

The marauders then left the bank by way of the rear door. Unaware that a hold-up had taken place, citizens noticed the men crossing the street carrying the loot in a bag, and saw them enter a coupe car. The auto was very muddy, and the license number was not obtained by any person. The car is believed to have headed toward Seaforth. But up to this morning no trace of the men has been found. Several minutes elapsed after the robbers left the bank before the staff were able to free themselves from their shackles and give the alarm. It is stated the bandits each had two guns.

BIRTH CONTROL AS VIEWED BY BISHOP MATSUI

Japanese Bishop Interprets Recent Action of Lambeth Conference.

VISITS COBOURG.

Noted Divine Addresses Two Meetings in St. Peter's Parish.

COBOURG, October 30 (Special to The Examiner). — A discussion of the subject of birth control, which proved vexatious at the Lambeth Conference of the Bishops of the Church of England throughout the world, was given The Examiner yesterday afternoon by Rt. Rev. Peter Yonetaro Matsui, D.D., Bishop of Tokio, Japan, one of the two independent Dioceses of the Church of England in Japan.

"The Bishops at the Lambeth Conference," Bishop Matsui said, "considered the subject in this light: That the object of the marriage relation was two-fold, one to bring children into the world and the other the fulfillment of mutual love.

Health of Mother.

"However, if the health of the mother is affected either physically or spiritually by child bearing, and if it were shown that the children were weak in body themselves or that their birth weakened the mother, childbirth is in such cases, for the sake of the mother and the child, not to be encouraged, nor is it of benefit to society.

"But at the same time, another problem must be considered for those marrying. The relation may still be a fulfillment of mutual love and without the necessity of sacrificing its sacred objects. One would say, however, that if children are not to be born, the principle of abstinence would be the better plan.

"However, the Church recognizes that at times this abstinence affects the bodily and spiritual health of those directly and of many who are indirectly concerned. In such cases only may contraceptive methods be considered or applied," Bishop Matsui explained.

"On this point I was quite in agreement at the Conference, but the abuse of this method in any particular is always wrong.

Permissible Under Regulation.

"Regarded from such viewpoints, such as the economic, or the eugenic, suhc as a family having too many children, it seems that birth control should be made permissible under regulation. But where the object is merely gratification, birth control is unalterably opposed to by the church.

"In Japan, in some quarters, birth control is practised, but it is of a form entirely at variance from the resolutions adopted at the Lambeth Conference. The Japanese as a whole do not approve of birth control, and this applied particularly to the unmarried,' the distinguished native Episcopal head explained.

Rt. Rev. Dr. Matsui expressed to The Examiner his entire approval of the frankness displayed at the Lambeth Conference in the discussion of the subject, a condition which, in his opinion, indicated a development which will make for a more sane general attitude toward sex questions and problems.

Bishop Matsui, who arrived in Canada on Sunday night, is a guest of Rev. Dr Boyle, rector of St Peter's Anglican Church, Cobourg, whence he leaves to-day for San Francisco there to board a boat for his native Japan. He addressed a women's meeting here in the afternoon, and a St. Peter's Men's meeting at night, making his only Canadian appearance in Cobourg because of the long friendship held with the St. Peter's Church rector.

TELLS STORY OF DISASTER

Relative of Thomas Nice of This City is One of Survivors.

SERVED WITH R.A.F.

Echoes of the disaster which befell Britains giant dirigible R-101, still continue to reverberate around the world. Word recently received from England by Thomas Nice of 22 Brown Street, Monaghan, brings him news of a relative of his, who was among the pitifully small number of survivors.

That relative A. V. Bell, was one of three survivors who walked immediately behind the coffins of the victims as they left Beauvais for the journey to England. He has now returned to his home at Shortstown.

Mr. Bell served during the war with the R.A.F. and has been engaged in connection with the construction of airships at Pulham, Cardington and other places, since being demobilised.

Interviewed in hospital, by the press, Mr. Bell told a dramatic story, which was in part as follows:

"I was on watch in the aft engine car," he said. "I had just been relieved by Binks," another engineer, who also escaped with his life, "and before going up out of the car I stopped talking with him for a few minutes. That conversation undoubtedly saved my life, for had I gone out of the car I should have been with the other dead.

"While I was talking to Binks suddenly the signal came to slow down engines. We had got a terrific angle on us at that moment, the nose pointing downwards. Then we struck the hill. There was a deafening crash, and fire broke out immediately. Binks and I were huddled in the car when the water ballast tank, which is situated above the car, bust, and the water came drenching down on us. This was our salvation. The water drenched us through to the skin, and we were thus saved from being burnt.

"We wrapped wet rags round our faces and fought our way through the twisted girders and wreckage and got clear.

"The accident, so far as I am concerned, is a complete mystery. We had a little trouble earlier in the morning, with the oil pressure in one of the engines, but we had put that aright. All the engines were running at cruising speed when we crashed. I had not the signal to slow down until a second before the disaster.

"Shortly before we struck the hill, which is about seven hundred feet high, we had a bad angle, but we had righted that, and it was the second time that we got into an angle that we crashed.

"There was a strong wind and rain at the time, but we seemed to have been making good progress."

STILL FAITH IN AIRSHIPS.

Mr. Bell, who is stated to have made good progress towards recovery, was visited in hospital at Beauvais by the British Ambassador to France, Lord Tyrrell, who was accompanied by representatives of the French Government. As already mentioned Mr. Bell has previously had another escape from death in an airship disaster, but he is quite ready to go on serving with them. With other survivors, he was asked on Monday whether the fate of R-101 had shaken their faith in airships and they all replied that it had not. "So long as there are airships," Mr. Bell declared, "I shall be in them."

Medal is Awarded To R-101 Survivor

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 30 (C.P.).—Arthur Disley, wireless operator of the British dirigible R-101, who survived the disaster, has been awarded the "Medal for Meritorious Services of the Order of the British Empire, Civil Division," for his bravery in remaining on duty after the crash despite his injuries.

It was Disley who first informed the Air Ministry by telephone of the R-101 calamity.

MAD DOG BITES SIX CHILDREN

POLICE SEEK ANIMAL.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 30 (C.P.) — A serious turn having occurred in the condition of two of six children bitten by a small brown mongrel dog believed afflicted with rabies, police and civic health workers of Ottawa to-day intensified their search for the animal.

One of the child victims, a boy of six years, was reported to have dug his teeth into the hand of a nurse attending him in hospital. This symptom that hydrophobia is developing in this case is considered particularly serious in view of the fact that the bites, suffered about the legs and lower lip, were inflicted only 24 hours previous.

A young girl victim of the diseased-ridden animal was said to have developed an alarming temperature overnight.

In all, six children have been bitten by the dog since Wednesday last.

PARLIAMENT ON EQUAL FOOTING.

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 30.—(C.P.)—Premier Scullin of Australia last night declared that when the tasks of the Imperial Conference are completed the present theoretical limitations on the powers of the Dominion Legislatures will disappear and the British Parliament at Westminster will definitely recognize and place on a legal footing the equal status of parliaments and governments of the United Kingdom and the Dominions.

What you eat for breakfast determines what you do before noon

YOU will start the day wrong if your breakfast is poor, nutritionists say. Statistics show that into the four hours that follow the first meal, 70 per cent. of the entire day's work is crowded. Breakfast is important...it should furnish sufficient energy to last the morning through.

Quaker Oats is the breakfast unsurpassed for lasting food energy. The famous Quaker process retains every vital part of the oat—proteins for growth, carbohydrates for energy, abundant body building minerals and the important vitamines. Roughage, too, so that laxatives are less needful.

And what delicious flavor you find in Quaker Oats! Richer... more zestful...more satisfying than ordinary oats. This is because Quaker bakes choice whole oats to a delicious nut-sweet tenderness. This pre-cooking not only gives the wonderful Quaker flavor, but makes long home cooking unnecessary. Quaker Oats is the fastest cooking of all hot breakfasts, ready 2½ minutes after the water boils.

Your grocer has the large household package and the small 10 cent size. Quaker Oats are never sold in bulk. All Quaker packages contain coupons with which you can get useful articles for personal and household use.

GRATITUDE.

As after music comes an interlude
Of barren silence where no joy has part,
So is the life which, lacking gratitude,
Sends forth no praise from out its brooding heart.
And like the petals of a scentless flower,
Though lovely, frail and exquisite of line,
Is every life without the priceless dower
Of thankfulness for each day's gifts divine.

How blest are they who find in little things—
A birds clear note, a newly budded rose—
Some cause for thanks to soar on lifted wings
For all the bounties that the hours disclose!
How every joy grows richer, sweeter viewed
Through the wise eyes of humble gratitude!

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG,
That old and antique song we heard, last night.

'THE MULLIGAN GUARD"

(Contributed by Beatrice)

We have your condescension,
We'll tell you what we know,
Of marching in the Mulligan Guard
from Sligo ward below;
Our Captain's name was Hussey, a
Tipperary man,
He carried his sword like a Russian
Duke
Whenever he took command.

Chorus:
We shouldered guns, and march'd away,
From Baxter street we march'd to Avenue A;
With drums and fife, how sweetly
they did play
As we march'd, march'd, in the Mulligan Guard.

When the band play'd Garry Owen,
Or the Connamara Pet;
With a rub a dub, dub, we'd march
In the mud, to the military step;
With the green above the red, boys,
To show where we come from,
Our guns we'd lift, with the right shoulder shift,
As we marched to the bate of the drum.

Whin we got home at night, boys,
The divil a bit we'd ate,
We'd all sit up and drink and sup
Of whiskey, strong and nate;
Thin we'd all march home togither,
As slippery as lard,
The solid min would all fall in,
And march with the Mulligan Guard

Our Mail

Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

Dear Anne Wilcox—

Thank you for receiving my letter so graciously and for the kind invitation to write again.

I really do not know what to write about. This has been an awfully busy season on the farm—at least I have found it so. There is so much garden and orchard stuff to be cared for and put away for winter use. I am thinking I am rather like Sandy McTavish in that I don't want a thing to go to waste if I can help it. I have most every bottle and jar about the place filled with some conserve or other.

I really feel that we have been poured out a blessing that there is not room to receive it. I try to be truly thankful and often think we do not thank God enough for the abundance at hand and so fall short of His glory.

I expect many of the neighbors are thinking about something for pastime during the coming long evenings. Patching quilts has become a very fashionable one, and there are so many interesting and pretty patterns. I wonder if we could start a pattern exchange through "Our Mail?" I think a little reading too, would pass the time pleasantly. Suppose we took up some of the standard authors and all read the same and then commented on it through our letters? You, Anne, would suggest which author and work we should take.

I said I would send you some recipes but I won't this time. I will wait until I know whether this one's fate is the W.P.B. or not. I am sorry Ad Nauseam has been so ill, but I think the name would make anyone ill and really wish she would change it. Thank you, Esma, for your information about fixing the oven of the stove. Mine needs fixing too.

More power to your elbow, Anne. I enjoy your articles and feel you have only touched the edge of your ability, so plug away. Achieve! Achieve!

Much, much love,
Vionnet.

Thank you Vionnet for your letter, we'll see what can be done about book reading, but just now everything seems to be piled up. Possibly some neighbors will suggest some authors which they would like to take up.

Dear Anne—

It was not my plan to write so soon; I really feel ashamed at appearing so often, but I would like to extend my sincere sympathy to "Ad Nauseam."

Poor little woman, I can sympathize with her. Do I not know what it is to lie in an isolation ward and see absolutely no one but my nurse, darling that she was, and a doctor who, rightly, kept me in bed when I felt well; to lie in bed in a hospital for nearly three months and almost have to learn to walk, unable even to spell my own name, again; to be four hours in an operating room and felt it was just a chance and again to have two of them after the other?

Oh yes, my sympathies are all for the sick and I am glad, so glad, she has found so many friends and trust she may soon be well. But, oh, life holds a lot for us. We may feel like old derelicts but a stiff upper lip, a patient, unmurmuring submission to God's will, prayers for His guidance, thankfulness for friends and all they mean, a willingness to go full half way for friends and to see friendship beneath the surface, a smile and a 'thank you' for little attentions, make life worth living, and kindnesses come back to us ten fold.

We should be better for suffering. It may be hard to see the bright side, but we should just do it. There is no joy in being an invalid, except that sometimes in the home we may be spoiled. That is apt to make us cranky sick people do not stand so good a chance.

Please tell Ad Nauseam to forget she is tired of being sick and think of the good things that have happened and like Pollyanna, hunt for something to be thankful for and get some other name. Names really do help or hinder. Some nice bright name for her to dwell upon will buoy her up. I have better reason than even my most intimate friends realize to know what I am talking about.

Anne, may I cross words with you? You said recently that a good homemaker is always a good housekeeper. The most delightful homemaker I ever knew was very far from being a good housekeeper. She was a charming hostess, etiquette was delightful, food was clean, we knew that, because she was particular there, but her house was not well kept. I am very far from perfect, but could not have stood things as she let them go.

Another dear maiden lady, kept young men boarders. Her house was generally upside down, yet they adored her and she did them good—those lads had a Christian home.

Generally, however, a good homemaker is a good housekeeper. I do think it is becoming more so. Some of the best housekeepers at least those whose houses are always clean and neat, are not homemakers at all. It all depends. Is the house before the loved ones? There is no home. Is the house of no consideration where loved ones are concerned? It is probably a home but not a perfect one and the children, though adoring the mother and feeling they have a home, as they grow up will see the difference but realizing the home part will endeavor quietly to bring the house up to what it should be. They will want to learn what is lacking and act upon it. They will be homemakers and housekeepers. Where love and understanding are, there is a home.

Please Anne, do not think I am criticising you unkindly. I am not, only I have stumbled upon several delightful homemakers who have sent such splendid sons and daughters into the world, but who could not be called good housekeepers as I have tried to explain.

Very sincerely yours,
Quid Est.

Thank you Quid Est for your letter to Ad Nauseam. I'm hoping to hear from her soon saying she is feeling better. I like criticism, Quid Est, and still better when it comes from friends, thank you for yours.

PAWNSHOP URGED FOR UNEMPLOYED

Civic Institution Suggested at Meeting of Legislative Committee.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 30. — A municipal pawnshop for 'white collar' unemployed was proposed at a recent meeting of the Legislative Committee of the City Council. It will be considered by that body.

Mayor Houde stated that though he was opposed to such institutions he thought that there might be a way out of the difficulty for unemployed, who were too proud to ask for civic assistance.

GREAT POWER SEEN IN WOMEN'S CLUBS

Mrs. A. A. Packard Speaks of Widespread Influence Exerted To-day.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 30 (C.P.) —Women's clubs are an invincible power for health, happiness and humanity, Mrs. A. A. Packard, of Springfield, Mass., past president of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs, and director for her State in the General Federation of Women's Clubs, stated in an address on Women's Club" at the opening meeting of the American Women's Club lately.

"It is a difficult thing for us women to realize how great we have become," Mrs. Packard declared, in discussing the present position enjoyed by women's clubs. Quite a far cry, she pointed out, from the limited scope of the early culture clubs that devoted themselves to the study of Tennyson's "In Memoriam," or the civic clubs that were content with the many theoretical considerations of social questions. The present-day club had combined the interests of these two pioneers and had introduced the new element of the intelligent woman into international affairs, she felt.

HONEY ALL-BRAN DATE BARS

2 cups dates, seeded and chopped fine
½ cup nut meats, cut fine
2 eggs, beaten light
¾ cup honey
½ cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ cup Kelloggs All-Bran.

Mix well, bake 20 minutes in moderate oven (375 deg. F.). Cut in 3-inch bars. Roll in powdered sugar and serve.

Note: These bars will keep in a closely covered jar for as long as six months if the nuts are left whole.

"Rinso is really economical" says Mrs. B. McCarthy

"Talk about white! Those creamy Rinso suds work magic. The clothes are much whiter now than when I used to scrub and boil them!

"After a good soaking the clothes are so sweet and clean, I never use my washboard any more.

"Rinso is really economical, too. It goes much farther than other soaps. For dishes, woodwork, floors—nothing beats Rinso!"

Much easier on the clothes

Rinso saves the clothes because it gently soaks out the dirt. There's no scrubbing or boiling.

Cupful for cupful, Rinso gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps... because it's granulated, compact. And such creamy suds! Recommended by the makers of 37 washers for safety and whiter clothes. Get the BIG package.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

The use of cold water when washing dishes should not be overlooked by the young housekeeper. It takes both hot and cold water to lighten the labor of washing and cleaning. If one is used instead of the other at the wrong time, the trouble begins.

• • • • • • •

For instance whenever flour and water have been combined, the contents should be first washed in cold water and then hot.

• • • • • • •

If hot water is put immediately into the container it forms an adhesive paste of the particles in it. These have to be scoured away, and this is unnecessary work.

• • • • • • •

If cold water is allowed to stand in the container for a little while, and then the dish is washed in the same water, or other cold water, the particles will dissolve and float away when the water is drained out. Then the hot water is used to cleanse the container and to make it easy to dry.

• • • • • • •

Cold water should be so used when uncooked eggs or soft boiled eggs have been in a dish. Hot water coagulates the egg and makes it cling to the sides of the container.

• • • • • • •

It takes real scrubbing to clean some containers of such egg particles. All the bother could be prevented by soaking the container in cold water. Afterwards wash the dish in cold water and then in hot, and everything is simplified.

• • • • • • •

It is well too, to remember the use of cold water if flour and water or egg is spilt on an apron or frock. If hot water is used, the ingredients are set.

• • • • • • •

They should be allowed to dry again, and then be washed in cold water. This will not be as easy as if the cold water was applied at first, but it is the next best thing to do.

• • • • • • •

Whenever oil, grease or fat is in a container cold water will not clean it! Hot water will dissolve the grease, and remove it from the container or textile.

• • • • • • •

Cold water further hardens the grease, and makes it more difficult to get out. A substance that stiffens or hardens when hot water is used requires cold!

• • • • • • •

Some of you may think this is rather a light article, but have you not noticed some when washing dishes seems always to get cold water when it should have been hot and hot when it should have been cold.

• • • • • • •

We all have to do dishes sometime and it saves a great deal of time to know these few hints about doing them!

RINGWORM OF THE FEET.

One of the conditions that many people think is eczema of the feet is really ringworm, and so the usual remedies that help to cure eczema are not of much help.

As you and I remember ringworm it was upon the forehead or head.

However, that was formerly called marginal eczema of the feet is now known to be ringworm and is caused by a fungus or sort of vegetable parasite.

"This fungus infects the flat skin surface at almost any point, but the most interesting at the present time, owing to the great number of cases, is the infection of the feet."

Now you have seen the eczema of the feet with its reddish patches, and may be wondering how to tell ringworm from eczema.

You may remember in ringworm of scalp or forehead, there is always a well defined border very sharply outlined against the surrounding skin. And this is what is found in ringworm of the feet, there are no outlying little pimples or blisters.

In eczema, however, in addition to the patch or patches, there are often little pimples or blisters near the large patch of inflammation. The inflammation has not a well defined border.

Ringworm of the feet usually affects the space between the toes, sometimes the soles of the feet.

It is thought that infection is distributed by means of bath mats or the surfaces adjoining swimming pools or baths.

Research men, scraping scales from the skin in these cases, have found that the fungus remains alive for more than a year and this explains how new infections and reinfections are so easily acquired. It is easily understood then how discouraged some patients become.

In the treatment of this obstinate ailment, Dr. Stewart MacArthur, Los Angeles, California, states that Whitfield's ointment is the best remedy. This originated in the Northern Hospital, London, England.

However, some of the wholesale drug manufacturers are getting out preparations that are giving excellent results, and your doctor will likely know about them.

Now as you know how eruption occurs, its appearance, how it gets its start between the toes and on the soles of the feet, and that it is not eczema, you will know what to do should you have an attack.

Tweed Church Services Mark 38th Anniversary

TWEED, Oct. 30 (Examiner Correspondence). — Anniversary services, marking the thirty-eighth anniversary of the erection of the present edifice, were held in Tweed United Church on Sunday.

The choir, under the leadership of Mrs. Cook, contributed special music, Mrs. Frost acting as organist. Mrs. Grier and Mrs. Fawcett took the solo parts.

Rev. Mr. Gandier, of Emmanuel College, Toronto, was the special speaker for the day. During the services Miss Dorothy Sager sang very sweetly, "I shall not pass again this way."

Rev. Mr. Johnston, who was minister of the church at the time of its erection, was present at both services. The thankoffering amounted to $500.

Play Presented.

The play, entitled "Smart Shop Sally," was successfully staged on Thursday evening under the auspices of Tweed Community Park Board.

The play was a four-act comedy, and A. Perrin, who is responsible for the play, together with the Community Park Board and the members of the cast are deserving of the highest commendation.

3,000-Acre Fur Farm Planned In Hastings

Work has been started this week on construction of dams on a 3,000 acre muskrat and beaver fur farm in the Township of Elzevir, County of Hastings. When a number of small dams are completed this will control the water level on a network of some 25 marshes running in size from 25 to 200 acres each where at present a large number of muskrats now inhabit the place.

This large amount of land was quietly procured from a number of deeded land owners during the past two years by Herbert McKnight, now of Toronto, who previously resided in the vicinity of the farm until 1900, from where he moved with the family to New Ontario for green fields, being discouraged with farming, when oats commanded a price of 15c per bushel and eggs 10c a dozen. After a period, however, of 28 years, he and friends (two brothers-in-law) returned to the old homestead on a hunting trip. They discovered that if the land could all be secured, it could be dammed and when flooded would be ideal feeding ground for muskrats and beaver, also a game reserve for ducks, etc., when rice had been sown for food. All animals will be protected and allowed to feed for at least two years.

SUCCESSFUL ANNUAL SERVICES HELD IN LIFFORD LINE CHURCH

Large Choir Under Leadership of Miss Ida Shea Renders Music.

SPECIAL SPEAKER.

LIFFORD LINE, Oct. 30. Examiner CORRESPONDENCE.—The anniversary services in connection with Fleetwood United Church, which were held on Sunday, were most successful in every way.

At both morning and evening service large crowds taxed the seating capacity of the church while in the evening a number were unable to gain even standing admittance.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion. A wreath of maple leaves entwined the altar, which was surrounded by flowers of many varieties. The church walls were decorated with bunches of wheat grain and branches with red berries.

The large choir with Miss Ida Shea as organist, contributed an important part in the services by rendering musical numbers. Both morning and evening, Miss Marjorie Werry sang very touching solos, while the entire choir joined in well chosen anthems.

Rev. Mr. Lane

The special speaker for the day was Rev. Mr. Lane, of Canton, a brother in-law of the pastor of the church. In the morning, Mr. Lane read for his scriptural lesson, the first chapter of Corinthians, substituting the word love for charity and chose the fourth verse "Charity suffereth long and is kind" for the text of his sermon. He stated that love is necessary for a fruitful and successful life—not sentimental love but love as it is in God.

He besought all present to examine themselves to see if they possessed that love which bears certain marks wherever it dwells. "The marks of Jesus for Paul were marks of the lash brands of Jesus. The first mark of this love Paul brings to us, is patience of love. One strong characteristic is that it is long suffering. This same love examplified by the Master, is so often unreturned. 'He came unto his own and His own received Him not'.

The love of Jesus never fails. He loves on in spite of its lack of return. If he were swift to mark iniquity, how often we should fall. Even our own friends despair of us, but God's love is long-suffering.

A spark of Divine love is shown in love of parents for rebellious children. Christian workers need this wonderful love. We so often find those ready to criticize in church work and that patient kindly love should be our response. Persecuted criticized missionaries are heroic examples of divine love, though often unrecognized.

Ministers of the gospel and school teachers are disappointed when they look for the patient, kindly love in the various fields of labor.

In our attitude to sinning men and women, do we possess this patient kindly love? The speaker admonished all to follow the example of Jesus Christ in this respect. He said things kindly meant often left a sting by look or tone, and until we can feel with and not for others, we cannot practise divine love.

Fowl Supper.

The annual fowl supper under the auspices of the Women's Association of Fleetwood United Church was held on Monday evening with three hundred people attending and the highly satisfactory sum of $140 was realized. Carloads arrived from Lindsay, Nestleton, Pottypool and other distant points.

The school house was attractively arranged for the service of supper and from there all adjourned to the near by church to enjoy a varied program of music and elocution, the Fleetwood orchestra contributing many pleasing numbers.

The autograph quilt which had been prepared by the Ladies Association, was sold by auction for $7. T. E. Shea was the lucky buyer and A. Monk of Bethany acted as auctioneer.

The Rev. Mr. Scott, pastor of the church, acted as chairman for the evening and the hearty encore following the various numbers were evidences of a highly appreciative audience.

Norham

NORHAM.

Mrs. David Evans was hostess for the meeting of the Ladies' Aid on Thursday. Mrs. Curtis had charge of the program which consisted of a piano solo by Miss Edna Evans and a duet by the Misses Lucille Lean and Edna Evans. NEWS AND REVUE OF MOTORDOM

(Special to the Examiner, Copyright, 1930.)

IT HAPPENS THAT wherever there are automobile, there are automobile mashers. Denver, Col., police have declared war on them. Police Chief Reed has issued orders to halt and question every man seen to drive his auto to the curb near a woman. His action followed numerous complaints made by young girls and women. The assistant crown attorney of Denver has announced that every sidewalk or automobile Lothario who is arrested will be prosecuted. Previously, the difficulty in prosecuting alleged offenders, he said, lay in the reluctance of their victims to testify at court. Toronto has been wonderfully free from curb-cruising, police report, thanks to a determination of magistrates that such activities are not allowed free reign here.

A considerable decrease in the number of automobile fatalities has been noted by several of the United States, and credit for the decrease is placed to the regulations insisting that drivers of cars possess a license only obtained after passing an examination in driving. Canadian automobile club officials pointed out to the Star that Canada, and particularly Ontario, has led the van by many years in the development of automobile safety regulations. There are still states in America where they have no license laws. Figures were recently compiled in nine states that have enforced drivers license laws for an average of eight years. They were compared with states that have no license laws. The report states that at least 22,000 lives have been saved in those nine states as a result of the enforcement of this law.

With a number of car manufacturers decreasing prices this fall, the news from Butler, Pa., to the effect that the price of Bantam Austin coupes were advanced $20, as at October 15, comes as a surprise. More than 2,500,000 people were drawn to the display of this new car when it made its debut on this side of the water. Within the first few months after it first appeared, 200,000 cars were contracted for. Normal schedules provide for 60,000 cars a year at the Butler plant, maximum capacity. It is expected that a new Bantam sports roadster will be placed on the market during November, by the American Austin Car Co. Price is said to be around $445, F.O.B. Butler. The official estimate of operating cost of this small car is three-quarters of a cent per mile.

When your car engine refuses to start, there are a number of probable causes which should be analyzed. If after cranking the engine five or six times it does not start, stop cranking and locate the cause, or you will discharge your battery and possibly cause it to overheat, thus ruining it. Ninety per cent of the starting trouble is caused by mixture. Both the cold and slow-cranking will affect the carburetor action. It takes a certain amount of heat to vaporize gasoline, and, like steam, when the vaporized gasoline strikes a cold surface, it will condense. Due to the suction a certain amount of gasoline will be sprayed out of the carburetor nozzle and with some air will travel toward the cylinders. On the way it will strike the cold manifold and much of it will condense so that practically nothing but air goes into the cylinders and the engine will not start.

Here's something new. It comes from Detroit. It concerns the announcement of a combination of two of the latest trends in motor car design, a twelve-cylinder engine with front-wheel drive. Report has it that this car, embodying French design ideas, is now definitely in prospect. The company behind the new car, located just outside Detroit, is known to have been dickering for some time with a French concern for the American rights to the front-drive type in question. It is pointed out that the V-ing of the cylinders will make an engine actually shorter than the eights.

Sir Dennistoun Burney's "Streamline", a car he has designed along some of the principles used in the construction of the R-100, is creating much comment in the British press. Sir Dennistoun's object was to reduce air resistence. In addition to the design of its body, the new car also includes a number of novel mechanical features. It is predicted in motor circles that the Burney car will gradually affect, rather than suddenly revolutionize the design and construction of automobiles. Sir Dennistoun has apparently proven that scientific streamlining can promote efficiency in the land vehicle almost as much as in the air. He has also by means of adapting a once-tried and abandoned idea of mounting the engine at the rear, shown another means of obtaining independent suspension of the wheels and freedom from noise.

They're asking for a new highway up in Alaska. Don Carlos Brownell, a business man, is urging abandonment of the United States owned Alaskan railroad, and construction of a modern highway to replace it. He believes that a good highway would do more toward developing Alaska than the present railroad. It would provide a means of rapid inter-communication that would stimulate development and increase population along the route, he claims. The railroad has been having a million dollar deficit quite regularly, and Brownell's recommendations have impressed the committee which has the task of submitting proposals concerning Alaska to the United States senate.

There aren't many places left where the American-built automobile hasn't penetrated. Now it is Paraquay, little South American republic sandwiched in between Argentina, Bolivia and Brazil. They are making a strong bid for big automobile trade, accordiig to reports which come from that country. At the beginning of 1930—865 automobiles and 772 trucks and busses were registered in Paraquay, which has a population estimated at between 700,000 and 800,000. The trade commissioner of Paraguay says that the automobile will play an important part in the economic advancement of the republic.

Law Gives Tony Last Trip Leave

BROCTON, Mass., Oct. 30.—(CP)—When the sea calls, mere trifles, like courts, fines, probation and what not means nothing to Antonio Merandes, a fisherman from Scituate.

It seems that Tony, during one of his periods ashore, incurred the displeasure of the town authorities by keeping and exposing a beverage slightly stronger than sea water. For this little breach of etiquette the court here assessed him $50 and costs. The court tempered justice with mercy however and put Tony on probation until the next term of Superior Court. Also it warned him to be sure to be on hand when the court opened or he would have to take the consequences.

The district attorney, who had prosecuted, was therefore rather surprised the other day when his office door opened and in walked the defendant. The second surprise came when Tony took $50 and costs from his pocket and calmly explained that he was off to the Grand Banks and did not know when he would return.

"It is the last time, Mr. District Attorney" Tony said. "My last trip to the fishing banks, and I wouldn't miss it for anything. Won't you fix it up with the judge."

The District Attorney decided he would, so when the court convened he told the judge the story and was informed that as long as the fine was paid Tony could break his parole and go fishing as often as he wished.

ANNUAL SUPPER MADOC CHURCH

About Four Hundred Guests Sit Down at Well Laden Tables.

PROGRAM FOLLOWS.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, October 29.—The Anniversary Supper and Thankoffering at Trinity United Church on Sunday and Monday last was a most decided success. About four hundred guests were seated at the well laden tables on Monday evening and a children's dinner was served on Tuesday at noon. Total proceeds of the dinner and thankoffering about fourteen hundred dollars.

The special speaker for the Sunday services was Rev. C. S. Reddick, B.A., B.D., of Bloomfield, Chairman of the the Belleville Presbytery. Special music was furnished by the Choir for both services.

The Church was beautifully decorated with large potted ferns and flowering begonias. The morning service was opened with "Holy, Holy, Holy," as the Choir took their places, followed by the Invocation and the hymn, "Come, Holy Spirit." Psalm 51 was read responsively, followed by a quartette "The Old Rugged Cross," by Mrs. Hulin, Mrs. C. Whytock, R. Wellman and Wm. Hawthorne. The offertory followed with special offertory music, and the anthem by the choir, "How Manifold Thy Works, O Lord."

After the hymn, "O Thou That Camest From Above," Rev. C. S. Reddick gave the Anniversary message, using as his text, Acts 4: 2—"And they were all filled with the Holy Spirit." After dwelling on the theme as given in the Acts of the Apostles by the writer, St. Luke, Rev. Mr. Reddick spent some time earnestly impressing on his audience the results viable and lasting, in these apostles of this filling with the Holy Spirit, namely, love for each other, courage, unselfishness, confidence, and unconquerable zeal; these, he said, would be good tests of any body of Christians or of any Church. The distinguishing marks of any Christian Community should be that they be of one mind and one spirit, unselfish, courageous and unconquerable. They should enjoy the confidence and respect of others, and that from time to time, should be added to them, such as are being saved from sin Fellowship with each other and with their Lord, were always marks of the bright ages of the Church, and are the essential marks of Christianity. May it be said of this Church and of all the Churches that its members are all "filled with the Holy Spirit."

A beautiful Trio was given by Mrs. George White, Mrs. C. N. Whytock, and Mrs. W. Hulin, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," followed by the hymn, "Spirit of God, descend upon my Heart," and the Benediction.

The pastor, Rev. G. W. Rivers, was present also at the evening services, and opened the service with invocation and hymn, and prayer was offered by Rev. T. G. Marshall, of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, whose evening service had been withdrawn that all might unite with the Trinity Congregation in the Anniversary Land." Lessons were read by Rev. services. A duet was given by Mr and Mrs. Bedford, "There's a Beautiful Land". Lessons were read by Rev. Mr. Rivers, followed by offertory and anthem by the choir, "O Come, Let Us Worship."

The sermon followed by Rev. Mr. Reddick, "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?" Acts 9:6. Mrs. Hulin and Miss Ramsay sang as a duet, "Hold Thou My Hand."

Solo, J. R. Baker; reading, Garnet Brookes; piano solo, Miss McCoy; address, Rev. T. G. Marshall; solo, Mrs. Wooten; chorus, Junior Choir; reading Garnet Brookes; solo, Mr. Baker; chairman's address; reading, Garnet Brookes; solo, Mrs. Wooten; God Save The King.

Vestry Meeting

At a vestry meeting of St. John's Anglican Church, Madoc, last week, followed by a congregational meeting, it was decided to install a new furnace in the Rectory, also to make extensive repairs to the roof, and such other repairs to Rectory and Church as are needed. These matters have been put into the hands of competent workmen, and the needed improvements are being made that will make for comfortable living in the Rectory this winter.

Six Monarchs of South African Jungles Take Temporary Control of Baggage

ACORN HOCK Transvaal, South Africa Oct. 30. (CP)—A party of tourists consisting of two men and their wives and a third man had a remarkable adventure in the Kruger National Park one evening recently. The party motored to No 1 Hippo Pool, and there unloaded most of their baggage, intending to take a drive along the road towards the reserve headquarters to see the game then to return to the Hippo Pool and collect their baggage and camp for the night.

Returning to where they had left their kit, they found six lions in possession. Everything was scattered over the veld and the blankets were being torn in threads. The party shouted, sounded the hooter and raced the engine, but were unable to scare the lions off. One of the lions was only a yard or so from all the foodstuffs, and refused to move.

One of the men fired several times into the air with his gun, without result. Then he aimed at a tree beside the big male. As the bullet struck the tree the lion turned his head to see what it was, otherwise it did not move. After a while the party decided to return to the police picket at Dorspan, where they found a native boy and returned with him to the camp. They found the lions still in possession busy chewing up a suitcase. They laid a petrol flare with a piece of sacking and threw it among the lions. This had the desired effect and the lions retreated a little way, enabling them to collect a certain amount of their food and remnants of blankets, suitcases, clothing etc., with an audience of six lions not more than 20 yards away. The party returned to Dorspan and spent the night at the police picket. On the following morning they reported the matter to the ranger in charge.

These lions are all over the park and have learned in three years that the motor car is not an enemy, therefore they are not afraid of it. The Board of Trustees and the Warden do not approve of tourists camping out away from the proper rest camps.

Daughter Is Stronger Now

"My daughter Catherine is fifteen years old. She was very irregular, often sick at her stomach and had to stay in bed two or three days at a time. One of your booklets was sent to us by mail so I got her a bottle of Vegetable Compound. Catherine has been taking it regularly and she is gaining in weight and every way. I told the neighbors and four other girls are taking it with good results."—Mrs. Clarence Jenkinson, Box 14, Thomloe, Ontario.

700 ARE PRESENT AT FOWL SUPPER

TOTAL RECEIPTS $1,400.

BURNBRAE, Oct. 30. (Examiner Correspondence.)—Anyone who had the good fortune to see the food-laden tables at St. Andrew's nintieth anniversary supper on Tuesday evening, would find it hard to believe stories of want in the land. Over seven hundred very hungry persons were fed. There were chickens in abundance, with everything else that goes to make up the famous Burnbrae fowl suppers and so great was the supply of edibles that after the multitudes had been fed, the fragments, consisting of several chickens and pies, were put on sale. The receipts for the evening were $325.60 while that of the Sunday thank offering amounted to $1070.33 making a total of nearly $1400.00. The congregation and cemetery fund recently received a legacy of $50.000 so that the finances are indeed in a healthy condition.

During the latter part of the supper hours, those waiting in the auditorium of the church were entertained with motion picture comics by Mr. Wilson of Stirling.

Rev. D. A. McKenzie, minister of St. Andrew's, acted as chairman for the evening and the following program was well received by the audience which overflowed the seating capacity by about one hundred persons.

Violin solos were given by Mr. Nimmo of Belleville, musical readings by Miss Clara Parry of Warkworth, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. E. C. Pollock, solos by Mrs. Frank De Carroll, Albert Gifford, Mrs. Charles Milne, former choir leader of the congregation, piano solo by Mr. Newcourt of Campbellford who also accompanied most of the singers, and Mr. Nimmo, music, violin and piano, Misses Fern Wetherill and Dorothy Watson.

Addresses were given by Rev. Mr. Reid of Stirling, Moderator of Kingston Presbytery; Rev. Mr. Marshall, of Madoc; Rev. R. G. MacTavish, of Seymour charge, who spoke on "Automobile Religion" and Mr. C. U. Clancy, of Wellman's, who brought the regrests of Rev. Mr. Joblin, in his inability to attend.

Messages were read from Revs. John Moore, Strathroy; J. J. Black, Barrie and Robt. Fry, Amherst Island, former ministers who were unable to attend the anniversary celebration.

Among those present at the supper were visitors from Belleville, Foxboro, Stirling, Madoc, Campbellford, Warkworth, West Seymour and St. Catharines.

DEANERY MEETING HELD AT TRENTON

All Branches of Anglican Church in Hastings and Prince Edward Hold Rally.

MARMORA, Oct. 30.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—The annual conference of the laity of the Rural Deaneries of Hastings and Prince Edward was held at Trenton on Wednesday. Rev. W. W. Craig, D.D., Dean of Ontario, was the preacher at the morning celebration of Holy Communion. In the afternoon a mens meeting was held, presided over by Judge McClean, of Picton, when problems relative to the Laymen's association were discussed. The Bishop of the Diocese spoke at this gathering. The work of the W. A. was also under intensive consideration at a women's meeting convened at the same time. A mass meeting was held in the evening when S. B. Wright of Deloro presided. The work of the A.Y.P.A. and desired co-operation of every parish in the two Deaneries in this work, was ably dealt with in an address given by Rev. W. L. Wright, of Tweed. Bishop Seager spoke on his impressions of the recent Lambeth Conference confining his remarks to four portions of the report as published. 1. The message of the Anglican episcopacy on the Christian doctrine of God.

2. The witness of the Christian community to God's will among men.

3. The necessity of the witness of a United Christendom.

4. The greatness of the opportunity of the Anglican Communion with regard to the task of world service. The sessions of the day proved most instructive and inspiring on Thursday the clergy of the two Deaneries assemble in conference.

Madoc Chapter of Freemasons held a meeting in the Masonic Hall on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Lummiss and family of Belleville visited relatives in town on Sunday.

Those attending the Anglican conference at Trenton on Wednesday included Rev. and Mrs. A. B. Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bonter, Mr. and Mrs. M. Lavender, Messrs. J. Rice, W. J. Cottrell and W. C. Pearce. Mesdames H. R. Pearce, F. S. Pearse, H. Crawford and C. Nichol and Misses H. Phillips and E. Rice.

Money and natural resources mean much in the making of a municipality; but of paramount importance is the consistent co-operation of the citizens through the CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, of course.

CAMPBELLFORD Y.P. VISIT WARKWORTH

Delightful Program is Provided By Visitors—Basement is Decorated.

WARKWORTH, Oct. 30.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—St. Andrews young people spent a most enjoyable evening on Monday night when they entertained the Y.P.S. of Campbellford to a Hallowe'en party. The basement was decorated suitably for the occasion and a large number was there to enjoy it.

The evening's program was opened by a few words of welcome from the president Gordon McCubbin, to the visitors. After the devotional exercises, Mr. Campbell was called upon to take charge of the meeting. The program opened by an instrumental duet by the Misses Blue, piano solos were given by Mr. Newcourt and Mr.Rutherford,vocal solos were given by Miss Reynolds and Mrs. Millan and a violin solo by Mr. Collinson accompanied by Mr. Newcourt at the piano. Mrs. Newcourt's reading was a humorous type and greatly appreciated Recalled again and again, Mr. Storie sang in splendid voice. The Campbellford society has an abundance of talent and their visits are much enjoyed by the Warkworth society.

Short addresses were given by Mr. Anderson, Mr. Newcourt and Rev. Mr. Duncan, after which the ladies served lunch and a social hour spent together.

The friends of Mrs. Wiggins are sorry to hear of her illness.

Mrs. Emmett Kelly of Picton, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Wiggins.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Zufelt spent Tuesday with friends in Codrington.

HASTINGS TEACHERS VISIT AT OTTAWA

TWEED, Oct. 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—The teachers of Centre Hastings departed this year from the established custom of holding the annual convention in their own inspectorate and visited Ottawa.

More than seventy teachers availed themselves of the opportunity to visit the schools there. At a session held in the Normal school there the officers of the Institute were re-elected and are as follows: Miss M. Carey, president; James Irwin, vice-president; S. H. Connor, secretary-treasurer; Misses G. M. Moran, E. McGrath and Mr. L. Fraser, executive; delegates to O.E.A.: Miss G. Houston, Miss H. Phillips.

A. W. McGuire, inspector of Centre Hastings, spoke briefly to the teachers of the plan for the following day. The teachers were also addressed by A. E. Bryson, Toronto general secretary of the O.E.A., who spoke in the interests of that body, urging the teachers to become members.

Through the kindness of W. E. Tummon, M.P., the teachers were able to enjoy a visit to the Royal Mint, Archives and Parliament Buildings.

This year Canadian radio buyers have paid the supreme tribute to DeForest Crosley. More people are buying DeForest Crosley than any other radio.

Sales The Acid Test of Success

And there is the surest test of the success of any product. No radio development in years has contributed so much to radio entertainment and radio values as the new De Forest Crosley models. That is why they have shattered every former radio sales record.

No Radio Is Modern Without Harmonic Amplification

For here DC engineers have achieved the industry's greatest advance in musical quality—Harmonic Amplification. For the first time all the colour of the essential Harmonic overtones are added to radio and phonograph reproduction. It will change all your ideas of radio music.

Demand Is Exceeding Production

This Canadian Company anticipated record sales during 1930. But record demands swamped all expectations. In spite of greatly increased production facilities in the vast DeForest Crosley factory it has already been impossible to keep pace with orders.

COACH RODDEN EXPECTS HEAVY OPPOSITION FROM SENATORS ON SATURDAY

New Plays and Signals By All the Major Teams in Preparation For Important Week-en d Fixtures — Tigers Paying Particular Attention to Interference, Timing and Passing Work.

ARGO-WINGED WHEELER TANGLE IN FEATURE TILT.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 30 (C.P.) — Several teams in the runnning for the various championships of Eastern Canada's major football unions are undergoing the most rigid training of the season this week. Coaches of the squads are determined the players will be at the top of their form for Saturday's important matches. In addition, new plays and signals are being tried out, all of which makes hard work for the rugbyists.

Hamilton Tigers, preparing for their invasion of Ottawa, are clashing daily with the Tiger Cubs, leaders of the western group of the Ontario Rugby Football Union. Coach Mike Rodden has not said much about the showing of the Dominion champions against Montreal A. A. A. last Saturday when the Winged Wheelers held the vaunted Bengals to a tie, but he has intimated the champions will be drilled more strenuously from now on. After a 90-minute practice Tuesday, Coach Rodden put the Tigers through another lengthy and gruelling workout last night. The entire repertoire was carried through several times, with particular attention being paid to interference, timing and passing.

Even though the Senators have yet to win a game this season, Tigers felt they will receive stout opposition on Saturday. Every regular will make the trip, although Ernie Rohmer and Alex Denman are on the hospital list yet. It is expected they will be ready to leave with the team.

Preparing for their all-important tilt with Montreal here, Toronto Argonauts held a strenuous training session with University of Toronto's Intercollegiate team and Varsity Orphans of the O.R.F.U. All three teams are scheduled to go into action Saturday, and in the practices the coaches specialized on defensive and offensive work in the 10-yard zone.

Practically every Oarsman was on hand at yesterday's workout, and Coach Buck McKenna smiled broadly when the Double Blue displayed plenty of strength on the line, offensively and defensively. Argos have already beaten the Wheelers once this season and are confident of "taking" them again. To-day the local Interprovincial Union representatives will case up somewhat on their training.

Wheelers Training

Down at Montreal the Wheelers have been training every bit as diligently as Argos for this game. Defeat means practical elimination from the race for the losing team and as Montreal is tied in the point column with Tigers while Argos are a point behind with an extra game to play, a capacity crowd will probably see a thrilling clash at Varsity Stadium.

The Toronto collegians will be at full strength for the first time this season. Johnny Fitzpatrick, of sprinting fame, who was injured in a pre-season exhibition game, will be available. He has attended this weeks' training sessions and will likely start at one of the tackling positions.

"Stop Sinclair," is McGill's motto, for he has scored every point for the Blue and White clad students in their three winning games to date. If the Montrealers succeed in this there is little doubt but what they will win the game, but this was something even the strong line of Western University failed to do.

Having a wholesome respect for the London Mustang's great line, Coach Harry Batstone has been trying out a new kick formation to be used in the game at Kingston when Western invade the Tri-color stronghold. Determined to keep up their winning habit started last Saturday against McGill, the Mustangs have been adhering to a strict training program.

CLAYTON AND GRANT GO TO CHICAGO TEAM

Toronto Amateurs Trying Out With Rangers Join Ralph Taylor's Club.

TORONTO, Oct. 30.—Bert Clayton and Gordon Grant, two local amateur hockey players who have been trying out with the New York Rangers, are leaving for Chicago this week to join Ralph Taylor's Chicago Shamrocks. Clayton and Grant, both former team-mates of Taylor's in the latter's amateur days, were members of the C. C. M. Mercantile League team which toured Europe last winter under the name of "Canadas." It was expected they would be found with the Springfield team in the Canadian-American League this winter, Springfield being a farm for the Rangers. However, they were sought by scouts of the American Hockey League and decided to go with the Shamrocks. A number of other local amateur players are said to be lined up by the Chicago team in addition to Clayton and Grant.

Queen's Turn Tables By Beating R.M.C. 10-5

KINGSTON, Oct. 30. — Queen's juniors turned the tables on R.M.C. here yesterday afternoon in the Intercollegiate series, taking the game by 10 to 5, after R.M.C. had won the first game by 9 to 6, the Tricolor thereby winning the round by 16 to 14.

Fine all-round work by McNichol, kicking star of the Tricolor, and fast work in recovering fumbles, gave the Queen's team their victory, after R. M.C. had scored a touchdown following a fumble in the second quarter. The game was featured with plenty of fumbling on both sides but the brand of Rugby was good.

The Chamber of Commerce works to make Peterborough, Ontario, the best city in the province in which to earn a living, operate business and own property.

Goldsworthy Purchased By London Tecumsehs

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Leroy Goldsworthy, right winger of the New York Rangers, has been purchased outright by the London Tecumsehs of the International Professional Hockey League, according to an announcement made last night by Manager Roy Brothers. The London leader visited Toronto yesterday to see Goldsworthy in action, and following the workout completed the outright purchase.

Goldsworthy is a speedy skater and has size. He is but 23 years of age and formerly played with Reinikka, Reise and Quenneville, now members of the London team. These three players highly recommended Goldsworthy.

With the season opening on Wednesday, Nov. 5, with an exhibition game against the Toronto Maple Leafs, the Tecumsehs will make the best possible use of every practice period, and it appears as if London's team will be stronger this year than ever.

ARSENAL TANGLE IS FEATURE TILT

Londoners Now Hold Two Point Lead Over Aston Villa and Sheffield Wednesday.

IN ENGLISH SOCCER.

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 30. (Canadian Press Cable).—The feature game of the fixtures of the English soccer league on Saturday will be the meeting between Arsenal and Huddersfield Town at Huddersfield. The Londoners have now pulled out into a clear two point lead over Aston Villa and Sheffield Wednesday, who are bracketed in second place. The Villa meets Blackburn Rovers at Birmingham, while the Wednesday lock turns with Sunderland at Sheffield.

In the second division Everton Leading the pack, meet Reading, who are the tailenders and of course, should win. Preston north end runners-up will be hosts to Barnsley and look like grabbing off a couple of points, which will leave the situation at the top of the table as it is now.

While Notts County, leaders in the southern section of the third division are travellers on Saturday, they should not meet defeat at Exeter city and in any event are so far out in front that their lead is in no danger. In the northern section Lincoln, the pacesetters, visit Rochdale and the worst that should happen to them is a division of the points.

In the Scottish first division two matches are outstanding. Celtic entertain the present league leaders, Partick Thistle, at Parkhill and a great struggle should result. Rangers battle with Aberdeen and Unless the former are definitely on the downgrade, as has been suggested by defeats they have suffered this season, should garner a couple of points.

Amateur Stars Enter Coast Golf Tourney

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 30.— Entries of several noted amateur golfers, along with those of leading professionals, were received to-day by officials of the first national match play open championship, to be played here Dec. 4 to 7.

The amateurs sending in entries were: Francis Brown of Honolulu, 1930 California champion; Ray Coleman, Los Angeles, runner-up to Brown, and Bon Stein, Seattle, former Western and Washington State champion.

Professionals, for whom a $7,500 purse in money will be cut up, will include Walter Hagen, Tommy Armour, Gene Sarazen, Horton Smith, Leo Diegel, Johnny Farrell, Harry Cooper and others. George Von Elm, former national amateur titleholder, who recently turned "business man golfer,' also will be included in the cash competition.

KING GEORGE BEATS CENTRAL

East City School Are Winners 3 to 2 in Juvenile League.

MEET KING EDWARD.

King George will now meet the King Edward School in the final of the Public School Soccer Championship for the possession of the Alex Kay trophy. They defeated Central by three goals to two last evening, at Nicholls Oval which gives them a five point count in the league standing and with a game to be played. The losers will not participate any further in the schedule because they couldn't win the A series with the three point count against the winners five.

The final date has not been settled but in all probability the deciding game will be played on King Edward Park at an early date. The winners will receive an Eversharp pencil which is presented by the P. and D.F.A. through the generosity of J. Ford Strickland, M.P.P.

FIRST HALF

The spin of the coin fell in favor of the Central boys. Williamson set the ball arolling towards the opposition goal to miss the mark with a long punt. Both goals were visited in rotation to find the defence giving no scope around the citadel. After five minutes play, the outside right of King George rattled a shot across the goal where Williamson, at centre connected with a rising shot that beat the custodian all the way. Working like a busy bee, Wardle Wright beat the half backs in every tackle as he made progress toward the goal but he surprised the King George goalie with a drop ball that he failed to hold and got the equalizer. He came back again to harass the King George defence to get flag kicks aplenty. Then he demonstrated his worth by sending perfect centres in between the sticks that missed the mark by inches. Just before the interval, Central peppered shot after shot into the goal where the custodian cleared in the scrimmages that ensued. Central 1, King George 1.

HALF TIME

On resuming, the Central boys took up the attack in real earnest to have the better of the argument in every department. They made a mistake in not carrying their half back line down with them so as to assist the forwards. While the full backs stuck up the field in an isolated position when they should have followed the play right down the centre line and one back left to take care of the surprise attacks. The outstanding man on the run of the play was undoubtedly Burton, of the King George team, who played his position perfectly and rapped a lightning drive whenever in possession of the ball. From one of his efforts Johnny Hill slipped a low grounder past the Central goalie. Quick as a flash, the Central boys were at the other end to level up the count again through Wright, at centre, who passed out to Pink right in front of the goal. A battle to the finish continued with the boys giving all they had. The King George front rank moving with more precision in the locality of the Central goal. The deciding tally was the splendid work of Burton on the King George right who picked the inside of the upright with a low grounder thereby giving the East City boys the right to meet the King Edward boys in the final. King George 3, Central 2.

Feeling Blue?

Mrs. Dale was the kind of person who is always cheerful. "Aren't you ever blue?" suggested a friend. "Oh, yes, often. But I don't stay that way long. I take telephone trips to my out-of-town friends. It's the best way I know to keep smiling!"

When's a Champion Not a Champion

Al Foreman's successful defence of his British lightweight championship title against George Rose in Manchester last week has the fight fans asking about a Foreman-Berg meeting. Foreman has stopped about 70 aspirants and now is the champion of "Kid" Berg's own back yard. Rumour has it that Al is all set to take on the windmill Berg but Berg says it will take $25,000 to get him into the ring and that the champion will have to be content with half that amount. He can get away with it too. In the United States "Kid" Berg, through publicity has become the people's idol and the promoter is sure getting sugar without the razzberry out of any of the "Kid's" bouts Foreman thinks that is may be good business to make concessions and if he wins to cash in on his victory. I have seen both men in action. Berg against Jackie Phillips and Foreman against Pete Vivic and Hackett. Berg seems to be the more scientific and Foreman is a harder hitter.

With no reflection on the English boxing officials, I would pick the Whitechapel Windmill to take the decision should he and Foreman meet.

DENNIS CUP SCHOONER RACES OFF IS THE FINAL DECISION

Thebaud Owners Accept the Statement of Fisherman Trophy Trustees.

NOT ADVISABLE.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 30.—Plans for the international racing series to settle North Atlantic fishing-schooner supremacy, which have been on and off and on during the past few days, last were off agan. This was announced here by the Board of Trustees of the Dennis Cup. Following receipt of a telegram from W. W. Lufkin, Chairman of the American Fisherman race committee. The Gloucester message did not refer to the terms of Tuesday's proposal of the local committee for a proposal of the local committee for a series to start Nov. 8, which had been made following Gloucester's request for reconsideration of Monday's decision not to hold the races, but agreed that this decision of Monday was "absolutely sound."

It was apparent last night that Bluenose of Lunenburg, present holder of the international title, and Gertrude L. Thebaud of Gloucester victor in the Lipton exhibition series, would not meet again this year.

On Monday, H. R. Silver, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the international trophy, wired the United States representatives at Gloucester, stating that, in view of economic and other factors the view was held that a race this fall would be inadvisable. The United States committee replied with a request that this decision be reconsidered.

"To the Chairman of the American Fishermen's Race Committee, Gloucester:

"Replying to your message. So far as my knowledge goes, nobody has had authority to commit this committee to race this year. Irrespective of this we gladly agree to do anything possible to meet your views, even though our decision of yesterday was cound in principle."

DETROIT'S NATIONAL LEAGUE CLUB IS RENAMED THE FALCONS

No Senior Hockey Teams In Porcupine District

HAILEYBURY, Oct. 30.— No senior teams will operate under the auspices of the N.O.H.A. in the Porcupine district this winter, according to E. N. Jamieson, coach of the South Porcupine seniors last winter. Mr. Jamieson expects that local leagues will be conducted in Porcupine, Iroquois Falls, Kirkland Lake and possibly Kapuskasing, and the winners of these organizations would play off at the end of the regular schedule for the N.O.H.A. intermediate championship. In this connection, a three-team intermediate league may be run in this area, with Cobalt, New Liskeard and Haileybury participating, and the victor there together with any other league of similar calibre that might be organized in the southern end of the N.O.H.A. territory, also would take part in the playdowns. The ultimate winner would represent the N.O.H.A. in the annual battle with the O.H.A. teams.

Seven Promising New Players Brought Up From International League.

REGULARS RETURN.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 30.—(CP)—Seven promising newcomers to National League hockey, a new captain, and a new name for his club are giving "Smiling Jack" Adams, manager of Detroit's ice squad, renewed confidence in his ability to land the team in 1931 playoffs.

Because fans found it difficult to pronounce correctly the old title—the Cougars—officials of Olympia arena, the club owners, have renamed the team. Henceforth it will be known as the Falcons.

Adams has drawn heavily from the Detroit Olympics, International League team, for his squad this season, seven players, all new to the big league, have been brought up from the minor league club.

Herb Stuart, who guarded the nets for the Olympics during the past three years, is the new Falcon goalie, Tommy Filmore, Bert McInenly and Stan McCabe, wingmen with the minor league club last year, and Jimmy Creighton, center ice man, have been elevated. Two years ago Creighton was an amateur at Brandon, Manitoba.

From London International League Adams has obtained John Sorrel, a wingman with a reputation as a stellar stickhandler, Stewart Evans, with the Olympics last season, is being considered for a Falcon defense position.

Six members of last year's squad have returned. George Hay, vetern center, has replaced Reg. Noble as captain of the team, although Noble has returned to take up his defense position. Ebbie Goodfellow, another center, is back, as is Larry Aurie and Herbie Lewis, wingmen. Harvey Rockburn, one of the bad men, of the league last year, will be at the right defense post.

VICTORY FOR LEGON'S SQUAD ON SATURDAY WILL GIVE THEM CENTRAL ONTARIO CHAMPIONSHIP

Inability of Cobourg to Cope With P.C.I.'s Speed Accounts For Last Week's Win.

TEAM COMPARISONS.

Lakeshore Squad Masters in Strong Defensive Play—Jack Richardson Will Take Regular Berth With Group Leaders.

The local Collegiate senior gridders got back into harness Tuesday and are at the week's grind in preparation for their invasion of Cobourg this Saturday.

The Garnet and Grey squad were slow in getting started last Saturday but when their plays began to function and the line hit its stride, the Cobourg entry faded out of the picture.

It wasn't so much the reversal of form shown by P.C.I. after half-time than Cobourg's inability to keep pace with the speed of the locals, that turned the tide in favor of the "Petes" and enabled them to run up the highest score they have made this year.

The much touted Cobourg squad, while not penetrating the P.C.I. line to any extent, presented a strong defence and it was not till the Lakeshore team tired badly in the third quarter that the locals ran up their score.

Saturday's contest in Cobourg should be one of the outstanding games of the season in as much as the group championship depends on the result. A win for the Garnet and Grey will give them the group while a loss will create a tie, with Cobourg and Oshawa crowding the top run with the Legon clan.

Richardson Back

Jack Richardson, speedy half man who was forced out of last week's game with an injured ankle, has been kept out of scrimmages this week and it is expected that he will be able to take his customary position by the end of the week.

Coach Legon has been spending a lot of time coaching the line and it is no secret that he expects his line men to open big gaps in the opposition line Saturday, thus giving the plungers that added bit of protection.

In their daily scrimmage with coach Graham's Intermediate squad which has been offering stout opposition, the plays have all been working well and the team gives promise that they will be hard to beat for the honors.

"Pete" Gordon, husky inside man, received an elbow injury during yesterday's scrimmage but will be ready for duty Saturday. The rest of the boys are in good shape and have high hopes that the Cobourg tussle will give them the right to play off with the Eastern winners.

Has Strong Team

Coach Legon has a crew this year that could match speed and playing ability against any P.C.I. team of the past and he feels confident that this year's squad will go some distance in the Ontario playdowns.

The half-line duties are looked after by Gordie Young, an experienced backfield star from last season's team and Jack Richardson, a star half on last year's Intermediate squad who is playing his first year in senior company.

Wilf. Preston, quarter and clever secondary defence man is the real veteran of the gang in point of service, having been with the senior aggregation for four years and his directing of the plays being all that could be desired.

Probably the team's greatest threat is in its wing line which is the strongest in some years. The boys are all experienced live men and with the exception of Gordon, Breckenridge and Sloane have been with the senior crowd for one or more years.

New York Rangers Sign Wilf Starr

WINNIPEG, Oct. 30 (C.P.)—Wilf Starr, youthful forward of the Winnipeg senior hockey team, last night completed negotiations with New York Rangers of the National Hockey League and will join the pro team at Toronto on Saturday. The speedy left-winger, not yet two years out of junior company, signed up with Lester Patrick by long distance phone.

The Rangers leave Toronto on Saturday for Springfield to get down to serious training, Patrick stated.

HOMESTERS WIN SOFTBALL GAME

Lakefield Scores Six Runs in Final Frame to Defeat Sugar Bowl 7-6.

HARRISONS VICTORS.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—The third game in the Softball League, played on Tuesday night brought out a bumper crowd and they were rewarded with two good games. The first game between the Sugar Bowl and Lakefield was won by the home team who scored six runs in the last inning which made what seemed like defeat into victory, 7-7.

The line-up was as follows:

Sugar Bowl.—L. Forsythe, pitcher; Mahood and Maudsley, 1st base; Gillespie, 2nd base; Bradshaw, 3rd base; G. Dormer, shortstop; Nicholls, shortstop; McWilliams, field; Dallin, field.

Lakefield.—E. H. Northey, pitcher; R. P. Payne, 1st base; H. Stabler, 2nd base; H. Hamblin, 3rd base; J. Gibson, shortstop; J. Langley, shortstop; N. W Kyle, field; L. Lawless, F. Payne, field.

Chittick and Elliott were umpires. Subs. for Sugar Bowl, Simmons and Cose.

The second game saw the locals defeated but not whitewashed by Harrison's snappy bunch, which had witnessed and borne with chastened holy joy the defeat of their old rivals, the Sugar Bowl aggregation, by the Lakefield boys. It ended with a score of 13-8 in favor of Harrison's team. Chittick and Kyle were umpires.

The line-up was as follows:

Cement Co.—F. Elliott, pitcher; E. Briant, catcher; E. Wannamaker, 1st base; W. Wingett, 2nd base; J. Sabatino, 3rd base; L. Sabatino, shortstop; B. Blewett, K. Junkin, R. Mott, field.

Harrisons. — Montgomery, pitcher; White, catcher; Calladine, 1st base; Sturgeon, 2nd base; Dorrington, 3rd base; Wilshaw, shortstop; Smith, Playford, Corbett, field.

FARMER LOSES SEASON'S CROP

LIVESTOCK OUT AT TIME.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 30 (Examiner Staff Correspondent).—Fire of unknown origin broke out yesterday afternoon, destroying the barn containing the season's crop on the farm of Herbert Tinney, concession 2, Seymour.

The first intimation of the disaster was when Mr. Tinney heard an explosion from the house, where he was at the time. Going out he discovered his barn in flames. Fortunately the cattle and horses were not in the barn at the time, the only stock being five pigs, which Mr. Tinney was able to get to safety. He had expected to commence threshing on his farm to-day. The loss, which is substantial, is partly covered by insurance.

WRESTLER INJURED IN CHICAGO BOUT

Wagner Has Liver Punctured By a Rib—Removed to Hospital.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 30 (CP).—Wagner, of Providence, R.I., a heavyweight wrestler, to-day was in a Chicago hospital with a punctured liver, suffered in a match with Joe Malcewicz of Utica, N.Y., last night.

Malcewicz threw Wagner to the mat, falling on him, fracturing a rib which punctured the liver. Wagner got up and within a few seconds, won the only fall of the match, but was forced to forfeit when he collapsed after he left the ring.

The match was the feature bout of the first wrestling show to be offered in Chicago in more than a year, the Illinois State Athletic Commission only recently having lifted its ban against the game.

YOUNG OTTAWANS ACQUITTED.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 30.— Lionel Fontaine and Ernest Lacasee, who served half a year in penitentiary for a hold-up now confessed to by two other youthful Ottawans, were formally acquitted of the charge in county court yesterday. In erasing the conviction from the records of the wronged youths, Judge A. Constantineau declared it had been a clear case of mistaken identity.

TORONTO HORSE WINS AT BOSTON

Military Mounts From Four Countries Take Part in Millwood Cup Event.

HUB CITY HORSE SHOW.

BOSTON, Oct. 30 (By The Canadian Press).—Major R. S. Timmis, of Stanley Barracks, Toronto, last night rode Pericles, owned by the Department of National Defense for a third prize in the Millwood hunt challenge trophy competition, feature of the Boston horse show's second day program.

This class was decided only after the United State's army's Aged Huron Girl and the German army's Elan jumped off four times, the last two trips over twice spreaded triple bars. The German army's Derby won fourth prize. This class attracted military mounts from four countries, Canada, United States, Irish Free State and Germany, as well as a score of civilian-owned jumpers.

Three Canadian mounts, Bachelor's Gold, Mother Bertha and Buecephalus failed to place in the officers' charger class, which was won by the United States army's Proctor with the German army's Elan second, the U. S. army's Advocate third, and the Irish Free State army's Craobh Ruadh fourth.

INCREASE RAILWAY FARES

MOSCOW, Russia, Oct. 30. —(CP)—The Commissariat for Communications announce a 25 per cent. increase in all railway passenger fares.

The increase was understood to be not for the purpose of obtaining additional revenue, but to discourage the present apparently excessive travel inclinations of the Soviet public, the government hoping to relieve congestion on the main lines.

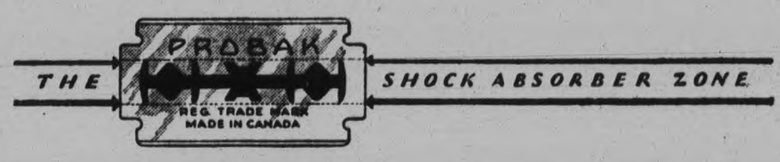
Bending can't distort your blade . . . if it's a PROBAK



Probak blades are for Probak razor and other razors of this type.

Special Introductory Offer

PROBAK RAZOR and 8 BLADES for $1

To introduce the new Probak razor we offer a matched shaving set consisting of one Probak razor and 8 Probak blades for $1. If your dealer cannot supply you, order direct.

THE Probak shock-absorbing blade is built to prevent edge-distortion — to keep its shaving edges as straight, true and keen in the razor as in the package. It does this by means of two patented features — butterfly channeling and duo-tempered steel—which absorb all bending shock and strain.

The scientifically-shaped perforations in the Probak blade are carefully designed to disperse the bending pressure—to provide channels for its escape. Special steel in the middle of the blade absorbs what little strain is left. No distortion ever reaches the highly tempered shaving edges.

Buy a package of guaranteed Probaks today. Use two in your double-edge razor (old or new model). Shave with a butterfly touch. Probak glides over your face—wipes off every wiry hair. If you don't get quicker, cooler, smoother shaves — return the package and your dealer will refund every cent—$1 for 10, 50c for 5.

CANADA BIDS FAIR TO BECOME WORLD'S LARGEST PRODUCERS OF RADIOACTIVE MINERALS

New Radium Find in Ontario Hailed as a Great Discovery.

$70,000 A GRAIN

(Special to The Examiner. Copyright 1930.)

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 (SNS).—Long has Canada, in particular the Province of Ontario, been famed as a producer of minerals. Already she as much as leads the world in the production of nickel and silver, and is fast becoming the leading producer of gold. But not content at these triumphs of engineering and industrial effort, she now bids fair to lead the world in the production of a far more valuable, a much more sought after, and rarer metal—radium.

The world's present supply of radium, a mere 300 grams, is valued at close to $22,000,000. Some seem to have had an idea that because radium treatments for cancer are available in nearly every large city in the world, it must be plentiful. But 300 grams is only a very small amount. Even Madame Currie to whom the world owes the discovery of this and other rare metals, has difficulty in getting a sufficient supply to carry on her experiments.

Previous to the recent discovery in Ontario, there has only been one producing radium mine in the world—in the Belgian Congo. Other deposits have been found in various other countries, but quantities were too small to be of any value. In the United States ardium has been found in salts form, in Utah and Colorado.

But now, in Canada, the richest mining country in the world, a radium mine which, according to its owners, is large enough to supply the needs of the whole British Empire, has been discovered. A tribute is owed to that small group of Canadians who have worked and waited for years to substantiate their theory—that there was radium in Ontario.

The new mine is located on 456 acres of barren land in Haliburton county, near Wilberforce, Ontario. It is owned by the Ontario Radium Corporation of which Dr. G. W. Ross is president, and of which W. M. Richardson, founder, is a director.

That there is actually radium there, has been proven beyond a doubt. Samples of the ore have been tested by the Dominion Government and other mining experts. The big question, however, is whether there is enough there to make it commercially profitable to mine.

Years of Experiment.

In an interview, Dr. G. E. Richards, head of the X-ray Department, Toronto General Hospital, and a director of the new radium corporation, said:

"We have been working quietly for four years in an effort to uncover suitable quantities of the uraninite, and our results so far have been more than satisfactory. We have already uncovered a deposit which appears to be quite extensive and which averages 186 milligrams of radium per ton of ore treated."

If this average can be kept up, it will be greater by 26 milligrams than the average Belgian Congo production.

186 Milligrams Per Ton.

The present market price of radium is $70 dollars a milligram. If that doesn't sound much, just remember that a milligram is the thousandth part of a gram, and the latter is about one twenty-eighth part of an ounce. And a big nickel weighs close to five grams.

Figuring at 186 milligrams of radium per ton of ore, each ton would bring in $13,020, to say nothing of the by-products produced in the process of extracting the radium. Sounds like a profitable business. But other things must be taken into consideration.

In the first place, the country is wild and barren—a mass of rock and undergrowth. So barren, in fact, that the three original owners of the land were glad to sell out at going farm prices.

Water is Valuable.

The property is about two miles from a railway station. Transportation from the mine will be difficult, due to the roughness of the country. The mine is about 140 miles from Ottawa, and 134 miles from Toronto, and is accessible by automobile.

There is a lake of clear cold water, fed by springs, which is in itself an asset to the corporation due to its radioactive qualities. Already, in Ontario, water of a similar nature was discovered in an attempt to find oil. This water has been found to be of great medical value in the treatment of arthritic and rheumatic diseases.

Discovered in 1922.

The deposit of uraninite was discovered by W. M. Richardson in 1922 whilst he was in search of fluorspar, commonly used as a flux to make molten metals flow more easily. Mr. Richardson sent samples of the ore to the Dominion Government assayist, who reported considerable quantities of radium present in the uraninite or pitchblende. For the past eight years experiments have been carried out until the directors of the Ontario Radium Corporation feel that already, there is enough radium present to more than enough supply the needs of Ontario. This fact alone will ably back up provincial Premier Ferguson in his recently announced plan to erect a million dollar radium institute for the treatment of cancer.

Directors' Report.

The directors' report reads in part:

"The directors hope and expect to be in a position at an early date to supply radium at a price considerably lower than now prevails and thus remove a restriction on its use and the present dependence for supply on foreign producers, who, it is thought, are deriving unreasonable profits on the sale of a product, the more extensive use of which promises great benefit to suffering humanity."

The study of the chemical peculiarities of radium is most interesting. Comparable in many respects to the more common barium, it has certain radioactive qualities which make it invaluable in the treatment of cancer. By radioactive is meant that the metal continuously emits energy in the form of light, heat, and radioactions which are powerful enough in some instances to pierce a thick sheet of lead. Lead, by the way, cannot be penetrated by X-rays.

It is used, of course, principally for treatment of cancer, but is also used, in various forms of salts, on watch dials. This use, however, is dying out.

Used With X-Rays.

It has been thought the X-rays would take the place of radium for cancer treatments, due to the danger and inaccessibility of the metal. But Dr. Richards, X-ray director of the Toronto General Hospital, and also director of the new radium corporation, says:

"The whole trend of results up to the present seems to indicate the necessity of continuing both treatments. Figures showing the results of treatments using these two agents combined show a 5 to 15 per cent. increase over those cases where either X-ray or radium has been used singly.

"Theoretically," he continued, "it would seem possible that X-rays might supplant radium. But we have not nough information to indicate any such probable developments."

Ottawa Oct. 30 (SNS).—Word has just been received that only a few weeks ago, whilst in search of copper in Northern Ontario, in the region of Bear Lake, a party of prospectors, claim to have discovered radium. Their discovery is now in the hands of Dominion assayists.

By being a member of the Chamber of Commerce you will keep in touch with the progressive program of work, which of interest to all business but also, with the best thought of the province and nation in all lines of constructive effort.

Reichsbank Ex-President

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, until recently president of the Reichsbank, has declared, in a New York address, that Germany will at some future date stop all reparations payments and defy the treaty of Versailles' disarmament provisions if other countries don't help her extend her foreign trade and if the allied nations don't disarm.—Photograph copyright, 1930, by Pacific and Atlantic Photos Inc.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S FUNNY TAIL.

Once upon a time Red Fox went to visit his cousin, Fuzzy Fox, in the country where Uncle Wiggily lived in his hollow stump bungalow.

"Oh, I am so glad you are going to stay with me!" barked Fuzzy Fox as he let his cousin, Red Fox, into the den. "We shall have great sport together and something good to eat."

"What do you call something good to eat?" asked Red Fox.

"Rabbits!" whispered Fuzzy Fox. "There is an old rabbit gentleman named Uncle Wiggily who lives not far from my den. He is very good to eat."

"How do you know?" asked Red Fox. "Did you ever eat him?"

"No," Fuzzy Fox had to say, "I never did. So far he has always been too smart for me. He fools me and he fools the Wolf and he fools the Bob Cat and always gets away. But, now you are here, we shall catch him. Don't you just love rabbits?"

"I don't know," answered Red Fox. "I never ate any. What is a rabbit, anyhow? I don't know that I ever saw one."

"Oh, you surprise me!" exclaimed Fuzzy Fox. "I thought you had rabbits down in the part of the country where you live."

"It may seem strange to you, but we don't," answered cousin Red Fox. "I have never seen a rabbit. So I wouldn't know this Uncle Wiggily chap if I met him."

"That's too bad," barked Fuzzy Fox. "I know him very well. He has slipped through my paws many a time. But if you don't know how a rabbit looks I must tell you. Then you will know Uncle Wiggily when you happen to meet him, if I am not with you, and you can catch him."

"I'll try," promised Red Fox, running his red tongue over his sharp, white teeth.

"A rabbit," explained Fuzzy Fox, "is a small animal, covered with fur. He has long ears, a pink, twinkling nose and a very short stubby little tail. Uncle Wiggily sometimes wears red trousers and a black coat and a tall, silk hat."

"He must be very stylish," snickered the Red Fox, impolitely.

"Oh, yes," agreed the Fuzzy Fox. "You often see his name in the newspapers. Now we must try to catch him."

"But I don't understand about his little short tail," said Red Fox. "I can't believe there are any animals without long, big tails like ours."

"Oh, yes," explained Fuzzy Fox. "Uncle Wiggily has a very funny tail, short and stubby, like a boy's thumb. Why, the Bob Cat has a tail almost like Uncle Wiggily's. Come, I'll show you the Bob Cat's tail and then you will know Uncle Wiggily when you meet him."

Fuzzy Fox and Red Fox went to the Bob Cat's den.

"Show my cousin your silly little tail, Mr. Bob Cat," said Fuzzy Fox.

"Have you come here to make fun of me?" mewed the Bob Cat.

"No, indeed," answered Fuzzy Fox. "But my cousin has never seen a rabbit, and I was telling him how Uncle Wiggily looked. My cousin didn't believe any animal had a short tail. But I said rabbits had tails like yours. So I had to show him."

"Well, if you catch Uncle Wiggily it's all right," growled the Bob Cat. "Yes, I am sorry to say his tail is like mine," and he showed his stumpy little jigger to the Red Fox.

"I shall surely know Uncle Wiggily now," Red Fox said.

"Then we can start now and look for him," said the Bob Cat. "We can go three different ways and whoever first catches that rabbit can holler and the others will come and help eat him."

"Very good," barked Red Fox. So, after talking it over back of a bush, the three Bad Chaps started out to catch the rabbit gentleman.

Now, as it happened, Uncle Wiggily was just then coming home from the store, where he had gone to buy a new feather duster for Nurse Jane. Mr. Longears had the feather duster with him as, hiding back of a bush, he heard what the Bad Chaps said.

"I hope Red Fox chases me and not Fuzzy Fox or Bob Cat," said the rabbit gentleman with a smile. "For I know a way to fool that fellow who has never seen a rabbit. Oh, yes, I can fool him all right. So they are making fun of my little tail; are they? Well, we shall see what happens!"

Uncle Wiggily watched which way each Bad Chap went and when he saw Red Fox, who had never seen a rabbit, starting toward his hollow stump bungalow, Mr. Longears said, "Now something is going to happen!"

BALDWIN STAYS

and cheered him for two minutes. He made a speech defending his policies and dramatically demanded that he be given a free hand in dealing with fiscal matters.

No Beating About the Bush.

The Conservative leader came to the point dramatically within the very first sentences. "There is nothing more damaging to a party than internal dissension," he said, "nor thing more damaging to the politics of a country than such an election as in South Paddington to-day, nothing more damaging to a party than the communication sent to the press the night before last."

His statements brought cheers, which were renewed when he said he made on these points an appeal that everything at the present meeting should be done decently and in order. His reference to South Paddington was understood as condemning the Lord Beaverbrook and Rothermere forces for their separate fight for Empire trade. The communication to the press was of course the statement demanding his resignation, signed by 44 members of Parliament, some of whom later denied signing the document.

Mr. Baldwin continued he had no objection to the requisition he had received for a meeting of the party to be called. "I have always felt it would be rash to declare the policy too early, or too long before a general election, and there are many points which will not be touched upon until an election is upon us" he said.

Hand Been Forced

"But through events which are familiar to all here, my hand has been forced through the year and in the early spring I was placed in a very difficult position. We were standing on a policy of very thorough safeguarding, but I declined to commit the party then either by using the term Empire free trade or committing the party to the taxation of food until I was in a position to say the electorate was going to get something back for it.

"On Imperial policy I have always held the view it would have been rash for the leader of a party to make any pronouncement before waiting to see what came of the Imperial Conference. For the first time we have learnt the Prime Ministers were willing to talk business. That was a great point. The details which have so far been put out do not matter. I had already decided in view of the position of industry in the preceding months, nothing short of a tariff on foreign goods would meet the case and I pledged myself to introduce one immediately.

Railway service is being cut down in many areas of Northern Ireland and bus service is being substituted as a measure of economy by the railroad companies.

THE RETURN OF TARZAN No. 40 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

All day long Tarzan crouched in the Chamber of the Dead's gruesome shadows—waiting! And waiting, hopelessly too, on the lonely beach where they had been shipwrecked, the three castaways managed to live a month. The two men built a crude shelter in the branches of a tree, gathering fruits and trapping small animals.

Savage denizens of the jungle made hideous the hours after darkness. Jane's thoughts often reverted to her former experience on this wild shore. Ah, if the invincible forest-god of that dead past were but with them now! No longer would there be cause to fear the prowling beasts or the bestial, sinisted attitude of the diguised Russian.

A scant five miles north of their jungle shelter, all unknown to them, lay the snug cabin of Tarzan of the Apes. Still farther up the coast lived in comparative comfort a little party of eighteen souls. These were the occupants of the other three lifeboats saved from Lord Tennington's sunken yacht. None of them now as much the worse for the experience.

Nearly two months of desolate existence had slowly passed for the ragged, fear-haunted trio, when the great calamity befell. Jane sat looking out to sea, always hoping a vessel might be sighted. She did not hear the jungle grasses part behind her nor see the grotesque creeping form. A filthy paw stifled her screams and she was borne swiftly into the jungle.

BIG GAME HUNTING.

Although the deer hunting season does not commence for a few weeks yet, the inhabitants of the West-end were aroused yesterday morning by the exploits of an over-anxious neighbor. It is understood that a West-end school teacher has been somewhat disturbed by the visits of big game to his home. Accordingly, yesterday morning he called into play the firearms of the police force. The party of three—the neighbor, Sergt. Wigg, and a youngster—surrounded the sturdy pine tree in that section of the city, and prepared to bombard the plot. Finally, the worthy police officer ran out of shot, and would not have been able to complete the attack had not another of the neighbors produced another shell to end the beast's misery. With this shot the officer brought to the ground his game and departed, leaving a small squirrel behind.

GOING TO DUFFERIN TRACK.

Local horsemen are still using the track at the Exhibition Grounds. Thirteen horses are stabled in the western barn, and are working out daily. Most of them will likely be entered in the meet next month at the Dufferin track, Toronto.

READY FOR HALLOWE'EN.

The Capitol Theatre is all dressed up for Hallowe'en. The gay note of the season is struck in the black and orange streamers in the entrance and the little dancing men pendant from chandeliers, in the entrance, and the stage has its footlights covered by a canopy of maple leaves, while the wings sport plenty of grain sheaves and large golden pumpkins.

PRESENTING PLAY.

The choir of Knox United Church is presenting "H.M.S. Pinafore" in the Regent Theatre, Campbellford, this evening, under the auspices of the choir of St. John's United Church. It is anticipated that a large audience will be present to see this well-known opera.

OBITUARY

FLORENCE AULTHOUSE.

HAVELOCK, Oct. 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—The death occurred on Thursday last, at Weston Sanitarium, of Floris E. Aulthouse, beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Aulthouse, of Healey Falls, formerly of Havelock, and Oak Lake.

The dead girl, who was in her twenty-first year, had been ill for the past two years. The funeral services were conducted at the United Church, Havelock, through the courtesy of Rev. Mr. Archer, on Saturday afternoon, and was under the auspices of the Plymouth Brethren, Toronto. Rev. Mr. Gilchrist, Toronto, was in charge of the service at the church and graveside, and spoke feelingly of the great influence for good, exercised by the young woman, on all those with whom she came in contact in the hospital where she had been confined for so long. He cited instances of the splendid example she had given. Her favorite hymn, "Some day the silver cord will break," was one of those sung at the funeral. Interment was made in Maple Grove cemetery. Colin Aulthouse, of Havelock, is a brother of the deceased.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

WEDDING BELLS

STILLMAN—KENNEDY.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized last evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Kennedy, 469 Albert Street, by the Rev. A. E. Moorhouse of St. James' United Church, when their eldest daughter, Vera Lillian (Babe) was united in marriage to G. C. Stillman, only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stillman of North Monaghan.

The bride was given away by her father, and looked charming in a gown of wine and rose beige, with shoes and hose to match.

Miss Queenie Bonner, as bridesmaid, wore a gown of brown and sand, with shoes and hose to match. The groom was attended by Dawson Kennedy, brother of the bride.

During the ceremony and signing of the register, Ketelbey's "Monastry Garden" was rendered by Leslie Church, pianist of the evening.

After a buffet lunch the happy couple departed on a motor trip to points West.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing and music, and was greatly enjoyed by all present.

GRAFSTEIN—RUBENSTEIN

The wedding of Mr. and Mrs Grafstein, proprietors of the Uptown Silk and Wool Shoppe, was an interesting recent event in Toronto.

At the McColl street Synagogue, Toronto, the wedding was solemnized by Rabbi L. Grobart, of Minnie, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ruenstein of Toronto, to Robert Grafstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Grafstein of Toronto.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother, Mrs. J. Rubenstein, who wore a gown of rose beige lace with corsage bouquet of roses.

The bride wore white satin, made with long, tight-fitting sleeves and tierel skirt. Her tulle veil was bordered with lace and had a wreath of orange blossoms and lily of the valley. Her brocaded white slippers were banded with gold and she wore white silk hose. Her bouquet was of white carnations and lily of the valley, the maid of honor, Miss E. Bloom, was in green georgette with matching hat, slippers and hose. The bridesmaids were Miss M Lenchner, Miss E. Bleemen, Miss Julia Woolfson, Miss H. Nisker, and Miss G. Rubenstein. They wore harmonizing gowns of light tints, with matching hats, shoes and hose, and carried bouquets of American Beauty roses.

The bridegroom, who was given in marriage by his mother, was supported by A. Kellerman. Mrs. Grafstein was in black lace with corsage bouquet of roses.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the Synagogue hall, where decorations were carried out with blue and white ribbon streamers and a profusion of flowers. A large number of relatives and friends were present, including fifty people from out of town; New York, Buffalo and London, Ontario. A speech was made by the uncle of the bridegroom, Mr. Max Grafstein of London, Ontario.

On their trip to Peterborough, the bride wore a green ensemble with accessories to match.

DEPUTY MINISTER OF LABOR IS SUSPENDED

Paddington Elects Empire Crusader

TAYLOR DEFEATS TORY OPPONENT BY LEAD OF 941

Result Marks Big Victory For Beaverbrook in His Duel With Baldwin.

LABORITES DISAPPOINTED

Riding Returned Conservative in 1924 and 1929 Elections Without Opposition.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—(C. P. Cable) — Vice-Admiral E. A. Taylor, Empire crusader running with the support of Lord Beaverbrook and Lord Rothermere, was elected in the South Paddington by-election today with a majority of 941 over Sir Herbert Lidiard, official Conservative.

Beaverbrook Victory

The result marked a big victory for Lord Beaverbrook in his duel with Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, for South Paddington had returned a Conservative without opposition in 1924 and 1929.

The vote today: Vice Admiral E. B. Taylor, Empire Crusader, 11,209; Sir Herbert Lidiard, Conservative, 10,260; Miss Dorothy Evans, Labor, 7,944 and Mrs. Neil Stewart-Richardson, United Empire Party, 494. Mrs. Stewart-Richardson lost her deposit.

The result was as great a disappointment to Labor as to the official Conservatives, for Labor hoped to profit by the split in the Conservative voting.

But the by-election's dominant result is the victory of the press magnates over the Conservative Leader. When Stanley Baldwin was sustained in the party leadership yesterday, Lord Beaverbrook was the only man at the party gathering who failed to approve the fiscal policy enunciated by Mr. Baldwin, before the vote on the leadership.

Empire Free Trade First.

"I am not concerned about the party leadership, but I am prepared to support any one who will carry out Empire free trade," Lord Beaverbrook said.

"This is a great blow to opponents of Empire free trade, and to those wobblers who, while not opposing it, are afraid to adopt it," said Vice-Admiral Taylor to-day.

BENNETT WAITS FOR PARTICULARS

No Action Considered Regarding Deportation of English Woman as Yet.

ONE ON WAY OVER.

LONDON, Oct. 31 (By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent).—Premier R. B. Bennett of Canada is awaiting particulars of the reported deportation orders against two Englishwomen who had resided in Canada for 16 and 18 years respectively. Until particulars are received, the Prime Minister is not considering any action.

The women concerned are Miss Alice Barton, who is believed to be on her way to England, and Mrs. Alice Almsworth, who is now in a Lancashire infirmary.

It is pointed out at headquarters of the Canadian delegation to the Imperial Conference that deportation from Canada of persons born in other countries, who subsequently become a public charge upon Canadian authorities, is regulated by statutory provision, following a request from the Provincial authorities concerned.

RUMOR FRANCE WOULD EXTEND CANADIAN TRADE

Conversations Opened Probably Lead to Revision of Present Treaty.

HIT BY U. S. TARIFF.

Canada's Stand is an Assured Market For Agreed Proportion of Wheat.

LONDON, October 31 (By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent). — Canada is casting around for new markets for her wheat. Conversations have been opened, it was learned to-day, which will probably lead to revision of the trade treaty between France and Canada.

Hit By U.S. Tariff.

France, hard hit by high United States tariffs, is anxious to retain and, if possible, extend her markets in Canada. While offic al circles preserve the strictest silence, it is understood that France has made an approach to the Canadian delegation to the Imperial Conference, with a view to opening formal trading negotiations.

The Canadian position in the preliminary conversations, it is understood, is firstly, that the existing France-Canadian trade treaty should be revised, and secondly, that France

Young Peterboro To Aid Unemployed

A lady telephoned to The Examiner this morning stating that if a large box was placed out in front and every boy and girl down town to-night was invited to bring a potato and deposit it in the box, that here would be a fine response. So the box will be out and everyone will be pleased to see it full by twelve o'clock to-night.

DEMAND FOR HORSE MEAT FROM CANADA IS GROWING

Temporary Abattoir Has Already Been Provided at Calgary to Meet Demand.

SHIPPED TO EUROPE.

OTTAWA, Ont., October 31 (C. P.). — Horse meat has never been considered a delicacy among Canadians, but frequent inquiries have come from Europe as to Canada's ability to provide such food. Already a temporary abattoir has been provided in Calgary. If the demand which comes from Rotterdam continues, it is expected that permanent plants will be built and an effort made to completely supply it.

In his report for the Health of Animals Branch of the Department of Agriculture, for the last fiscal year, which has just been issued, Dr. George Hilton, Veterinary Director-General, writes:

Not Permitted in Meat Plant.

"As the slaughter of horses and the preparation of their carcasses for food purposes cannot be permitted in establishments under inspection engaged in the preparation of other meats and meat food products, interested firms are now engaged in the erection of suitable plants and facilities for horse meat packing. They have received suitable advice concerning our requirements, and when the plants are completed and equipped, they will be inspected and, if found to be satisfactory, will be promptly placed under inspection."

THE WHEAT POOL AND WHY FORMED ABLY EXPLAINED

Dr. Martin Crough Addresses Members of the Kinsmen Club.

PLANNING PLAY.

All Farmer is Asking is Fair Profit on His Labors, Speaker Says.

Giving to his hearers a most intimate knowledge of the Canadian Wheat Pool why it was formed and under what conditions the farmers of the Canadian West were forced to do something so that they might realize on their product a fair profit. Dr. Martin Crough continued the short addresses to the members of the Peterborough Kinsmen Club at their regular dinner held in the Empress hotel last night. Dr. Crough spoke from a wealth of experience which he had gained in the prairie provinces during those troubled days after the great war when the world markets suddenly dropped, money was scarce and the farmer was being called upon to make payments on lands and implements which he had bought at war prices.

In 1900 the speaker said Canada produced 55 millions of bushels of wheat and by 1928 this had grown to 500 millions of bushels. In the same year the United States produced 700 millions of bushels. From these figures there arises two principal factors. United States produces very little more than what meets her home consumption while Canada has 450 millions of bushels to export. Then again price levels in Canada depend on world production while United States on domestic use.

The speaker went on to show that wheat was the main spring on Canadian life for wheat dollars meant new doHars. During the war there was one seller and one buyer of Canadian wheat but in 1919 to help overcome post war conditions the Canada Wheat Board was formed. Things went along very satisfactorily for a few years but in 1922 this board was disbanded throwing 236,000 wheat producing farmers on their own regards marketing. Prices dropped as the farmer was forced to throw his whole seasons crop on the market early to meet his expeinses; then later on in the year the markets would rise and the farmer would see other men making the profit out of his wheat which so often he had sold at a loss.

In 1923 there came into being the what pool first in Alberta and soon Saskatchewan and Manitoba followed suit. Each province formed its own wheat pool with a central selling agency in Winnipeg. Fifty-five per cent of the Western farmers signed up with the result that the middleman was done away with to some extent. The farmer was given an initial payment when he marketed the wheat to hold his debts and then later on in the year as the central board gradually sold its wheat the farmer received other payments.

The speaker made it quite plain that it was not the intention of the farmer to hold up the price of wheat but what he wanted was a fair return for his labors so that he in return might be able to pay the retailer for the implements and merchandise which he required to carry on his industry.

Newton Staples rendered a fine vocal number which was loudly applauded by those present and reports were made on the play which the club expects to present during the winter.

P. M. Harris, of Acton, England, has grown a flower of vivid blue, resembling a small sweat pea, from a seed 3,500 years old, taken from the tomb of an Egyptian Pharaoh.

Hallowe'en Parade

Through the kindness of the McDonald Tobacco Company, their fine electrical calliope will be in the Hallowe'en parade which leaves the front of the Armouries at 8 o'clock sharp, to-night.

It will be headed by the Peterborough Rangers Band. There will be no classes and as soon as the Band starts off, masqueraders are asked to follow in any order. The route of the parade will be down George to King, over to Water to Charlotte street, then to the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer streets, where there will be community dancing if the evening is favorable, with music supplied.

The McDonald electric calliope parade and supply an excellent parade and suply an excellent brand of music of considerable volume.

Days of English Chivlary to Revive In Re-Opening of St. George's Chapel

LONDON, England, October 31 (By Thomas T. Champion, C.P. Staff Correspondent). — A partial revival for a day of the old-time spectacular glories of English chivalry will be witnessed next Tuesday when the King and Queen will attend the re-opening of St. George's Chapel, Windsor. Their Majesties, with other members of the Royal Family, will be surrounded by the Knights of the Garter, the Military Knights of Windsor, and all the principal state and court officials.

The clergy at the service will include the Bishop of Winchester (Prelate of the Order of the Garter), the Bishop of Oxford (Chancellor), the Dean of Windsor, Rev. Dr. Baillie, Canons J. N. Dalton, A. Nairne, and A. C. Dean, and Minor Canons B. C. S. Everett and S. G. B. Exham.

The historic place of worship, always called St. George's Chapel, is in reality of cathedral-like proportions, with its origin back in the days of the Plantagenet kings, or even earlier. Ten years ago it was slowly crumbling, but a great work of restoration was undertaken and the completion of this is now being celebrated.

RT. REV. DR. OLIVER PLEADS CAUSE OF WESTERN CANADA AT BIG RALLY

ELOQUENT ADDRESS.

"I would like to do a little to help the East to understand the West and the West understand the East. We are not only the United Church of Canada, but we are the United Church of a united Canada. And there is no institution that has done more to keep this Dominion united and independent in its several parts. Just as Dean S. Stanley, writing about Richard Baxter, remarked that Kidderminster without Baxter would be nothing but a carcase, so Canada without the United Church would be spiritually impoverished."

"Dreams are evanescent things. There is not a man in this church who could tell me what he dreamt last night, although every woman could. But there was a dream that Paul dreamt at Ephesus, when he said: 'His servants shall serve him and they shall reign forever and ever.' I stood once in Ephesus, the only living person, as far as I knew, in that place. The long-legged storks were building their nests on top of pillars that once were marble, now crumbling, like the Temple of Diana, to ruin and decay. It was a jumble of marble ruins, of desolation and of death. And yet that dream of that old man of eighty years of age, laboring there under the lash of the Roman master, the little flocks of Christians scattered up and down a ragged coastline, has persisted. It was stronger than marble, it outlasted the pride and pomp of the Caesars."

Eloquent Address

Basing his eloquent address on that saying of St. Paul in Ephesus, "His servants shall serve him and they shall reign forever and ever," the Rt. Rev. Dr. Oliver, M.A., B.D., LL.D., of Saskatoon newly-appointed Moderator of the United Church of Canada, spoke to a congregation of over six hundred people in George Street United Church last night, under the auspices of the Peterborough Presbytery of the Bay of Quinte Conference.

It was a noble and inspirational address that held the rapt attention of his listeners for well over an hour, as the Moderator spoke. Possessing all the mechanical attributes of the orator; the friendly pleasing personality, the meticulous and cultured ututerance, the eloquence of a man inspired in his thoughts and words, and also the mellow, musical voice that had in its tones many flexible cadences, the Rev. Dr. Oliver made a strong and lasting impression on his hearers. He is a tall man whose dignity was enchanced by the Moderator's long black robe with its crimson scapular scarf over the shoulders.

Dr. J. E. Middleton, secretary of the Missionary and Maintainance Fund of the Conference, acted as chairman and spoke briefly at the

Hespeler Office Is Coming to City

MONTREAL, Oct. 31 (Special to The Examiner).—"The head office will remain in Peterborough. We are removing our Hespeler office to your city," W. K. Trower, vice-president Dominion Woollens and Worsteds, told The Examiner yesterday on his return to Montreal from the meeting of the company in Toronto. "All that is being taken away from Peterborough is twenty-four worsted looms which are being installed in Hespeler. Bonnerworth will be maintained as a dyeing plant, and there will be a complete woollen plant at Auburn Mills, engaged in cloth weaving, finishing and dyeing.

BOYD MAY JOIN DO-X IN FLIGHT OVER ATLANTIC

Flyers Piloting Columbia Arrive in Berlin From Amsterdam.

PLANE'S SECOND VISIT.

Will Continue to Freidrichshafen to Confer With Officials of Flying Boat.

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Captain J. Errol Boyd and Lieutenant Harry P. Connor, Trans-Atlantic aviators, intend to join the projected flight of the flying boat DO-X to the United States if possible.

Arrive In Columbia

The Canadian and United States airmen, who recently flew from Montreal to England in the monoplane Columbia, arrived here today in the veteran trans-oceanic craft and announced they were going on the Freidrichshafen to confer on participating in the DO-X expedition.

Boyd and Connor left England yesterday morning and spent last night at Amsterdam. When they took off from Croydon they announced that they were going to make a tour of Europe.

The last time the Columbia came here was in 1927 when Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine crossed the Atlantic and landed some distance from Berlin, continuing on to the German capital later.

Followed Mail Plane.

Captain Boyd and Lieutenant Connor, leaving Amsterdam at 1.36 p.m., experienced no difficulty in finding their way to Berlin. When they landed at Kottbus instead of the German capital, they simply rose into the air in the wake of the regular passenger plane and kept behind it all the way to the city. The weather was clear, so they never lost sight of their guide.

At the Templehof Airdrome the Lufthansa director met the fliers and took them to tea in the airdrome restaurant. Only a few spectators besides newspapermen, saw the Columbia land. Two British women were passengers in the veteran trans-Atlantic plane on this flight.

Captain Boyd said he would stay only one day in Berlin, for he wanted to go down to Friedrichshafen for a conference with Dr. Dornier, designer of the giant DO-X. He intimated also that he might take the Columbia up to Kottbus "for sentimental reasons."

NEW RECTOR FOR KINGSTON.

KINGSTON, Ont., October 30 (C P.). — Announcement was made this afternoon by Bishop C. A. Seager that Rev. J. D. Mackenzie Naughton, of St John's Church, St Jonn, N.B., has been appointed rector of St James' Church here, succeeding Canon T. W. Savary, who three months ago accepted the call to St. John's Church, Halifax. Rev. Dr. Naughton will take charge of the parish here on January 1.

OFF MICHIPICOTEN ISLAND.

Last Seen With Decks Awash —No Trace Found By Coastguards.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Oct. 31. (CP)—With her decks away, and her superstructure alone showing, an unidentified barge or steamer is drifting in the vicinity of Michipicoten Island, according to information reaching the Soo from Light Keeper Miller, of Michipicoten, who has reported the incident to the wireless station here.

Waves Foil Rescue

According to information, brought to the Soo by the steamers Youngstown and Martin Mullen, which locked down this morning on the Michigan side, attempted to put out to the disabled vessel in a small boat, but the sea was running so high that he was compelled to abandon the attempt to reach her. Both the Youngstown and Mullen attempted to locate the vessel later without success.

The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Seminole of the Michigan Soo was sent to the spot immediately, but can find no trace of the vessel, according to latest reports. When last seen the vessel was heading toward Quebec Harbor, on Michipicoten Island, apparently in an attempt to seek refuge there.

"It is believe, from the reports given here by the Steamers Youngstown and Mullem, that the craft foundered before she could reach the place.

FRENCH PEOPLE ARE FOUND BUSY

Emil Baumer Returns From a Trip to His Home Town, Strasburg.

WATCHING ITALY.

Emil Baumer, home from Strasburg, confirms the reports of the high-pitched industrial activity throughout France which has attracted the world's wonder and possibly its envy.

"Every where I went I found that the people were busy" Mr. Baumer said. "There was no talk of unemployment such as there has been in Canada and the United States this year."

Mr. Baumer spent ten weeks in Europe, and returned with his wife and daughter who were nearly four months on the continent. He was impressed with the popular cynical opinion which many of the French people manifested in regard to the League of Nations.

Watching Italy Closely

"While I was there the fall manoeuvres of the French was almost like mobilization, and I understood that this was really caused by similar action on the Italian side of the Alps. Everybody is aware of the tension that exists between the two countries, and there seemed to be a feeling that the League of Nations was not actually having much effect. People said that the officials were simply drawing salaries from the countries they represented, and on the other hand there always had been wars and apparently always would be."

Mr. Baumer had been away from his old home in Strasburg seventeen years. When he left there at that time his province of Alsace-Lorraine was under German rule with no signs of the four years' war that would return the province to France.

In the French theatres the talkies predominate almost as generally as in this country.

RIOTER ARRESTED

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Oct. 31.—CP)—Police last night took into custody Axel Pantaja, alleged to have been prominent in disturbances of last week when city officers were mauled by alleged Communist rioters. He was booked on a charge of vagrancy and before Magistrate O'Brien this morning remanded for eight days.

J. H. H. Ballantyne Granted Remand Until November

Hon. J. D. Montieth This Morning Suspended His Deputy Minister of Labor Following His Arrest Last Night on a Charge of Theft of a Woman's Dress.

BALLANTYNE WAS APPOINTED IN 1921
CONTESTED EAST TORONTO IN 1917

Man Confesses to Taking the Dress But is Unable to Explain What Caused Him to Do the Rash Act—Appears in Police Court and is Granted Remand.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 31.—(CP)—Hon. J. D. Monteith, Minister of Labor, announced this morning that James H. H. Ballantyne, Deputy Minister of Labor, arrested last night on a charge of theft in connection with the removal of a dress valued at $15 from a local lingerie store, had been suspended from his post. Mr. Ballantyne was released on bail of $200 pending his appearance in court today when he was remanded until November 3 at the same bail.

"The truth is I did take a dress," said the Deputy Minister. "I cannot explain why the impulse came on me. The thing was done in a few seconds. Evidently the store clerk saw me do it and telephoned the police, and when they came to interview me I stated I took the dress. I had more than $300 in my possession at the time. Some kind of mental aberration which is not explainable prompted me to do this. It is regrettable but true."

Woman Accompanied Him.

It is alleged Mr. Ballantyne entered a shop that sold women's apparel exclusively. Police say a woman companion accompanied him, and that the pair were inspecting some silk dresses with a view to buying.

While the woman was trying on a dress, the store clerk, Miss Shirley Ross, informed police she noticed Ballantyne leave the store with a dress which he placed in his automobile parked outside.

The clerk told her employer, Samuel Ross, of what had occurred and he immediately notified police.

Detective-Sergeant Albert Johns took the case, and interviewing Ross in the shop, found the dress in Ballantyne's car. It was identified by the storekeeper, and the Deputy Minister was taken to the police station. He was released on his own bail of $300, to appear in Police Court this morning.

"That is terrible, said Hon. Dr. J. D. Monteith, Minister of Labor this morning. "I do not know Ballantyne very intimately, but in my dealings with him I have always considered him a very straight and decent fellow. His activities in the Department have always been regular. This is a ghastly business and I simply cannot credit it."

Mr. Ballantyne was appointed Deputy Minister of Labor on Oct. 11, 1921. Previous to that he had been a claims adjuster with an accident assurance company. He was a Labor candidate for East Toronto in the 1917 Dominion elections but was defeated. He also unsuccessfully ran for mayor in 1919.

SURVIVOR GIVES GRAPHIC ACCOUNT OF R-101 CRASH

Control Room Called For Reduced Speed After First Slight Dive.

AT LONDON INQUIRY.

Engineer, While Lying in Bed, Noticed Gas Bags Surging About.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—(AP) —Engineer A. J. Cook, injured survivor of the R-101 disaster, today presented a graphic picture of the fated airship's last moments to a commission inquiring into the loss of the huge dirigible.

His arm in a sling and still under hospital treatment, Cook told how the ship went into a steep dive and struck the ground with terrific force. A second crash came and then a mighty explosion which rent the great air liner from stem to stern and took 48 lives.

Cook told the Commission that he was in charge of the fourth unit engine from eight to eleven on the night of the fatal flight and had resumed duty at two o'clock in the morning a few minutes before the crash.

Reduced Speed

He said he first noticed that something was wrong when the ship took a "slight dive" and the engine room control rang for reduced speed.

"As I turned the engine to slow," he said, "the ship took a steep div-

Pleasure In Giving

That people get a good deal of pleasure out of giving to others is evidenced by the fact that so many have already contributed and will contribute to the Hallowe'en Fund suggested by Alderman Fred Tuggey.

In addition to what has been previously acknowledged we have six dozen heads of cabbage from Mrs. Cuthbertson, corner of Braidwood and Monaghan Road; milk tickets from Campbell's Dairy and from Alderman Fred Tuggey: two friends have left in one dollar each in cash: Mrs. Fred Tuggey, 40 pounds of sugar in packages: bread, sandwiches, and clothing, names not mentioned: two 5-pound cans of syrup, name not obtained: Miss Lancaster, $5.00.

Citizens are giving what they can. It is unsolicited, and is helping out some cases of need when it will be greatly appreciated.

BLOCK DESTROYED IN MIDLAND FIRE

Damages to Buildings and Contents Estimated at $40,000.

MIDLAND, Ont., Oct. 31. (CP)—An early morning fire here to-day caused damage to several business places, including a beauty parlor, apartments above the store, the Sons of England hall, a gent's furnishing and a candy ship. The damage is estimated at about $40,000. All the stores were in the C.P.R. block which is part of the Queen's Hotel premises' Mr. and Mrs. Byrne, owners of the beauty parlor were forced to jump from second storey roof and in the jump Mrs. Byrne had a rib broken.

BOOTLEGGERS ARRESTED FOLLOWING POLICE RUN

TRUCK DRIVER ALSO HELD

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Oct. 31.—(C P)—After an exciting chase, provincial police last evening seized two passenger automobiles near Athens containing Quebec liquor and arrested Adolphe Dupuis, William Jackson, Alex Desjardins and Armand Montfortin, all giving Windsor addresses, who are said to have been accompanying the shipment. The cars were found to contain 900 bottles of Quebec whiskey valued at $3,000. One of the cars was filled with compartments under the seats, the floor and the hood in which the liquor was carried.

Later last night provincial police seized 50 bags, each containing 24 quart bottles of Quebec beer, in a truck said to have been driven by Victor G. Friel, Ottawa, the seizure being made near Phillipsville. The liquor was camouflaged as potatoes. Friel, who was dismissed in police court here on October 14 on a similar charge, was arrested and remanded in police court today, as were also the four Windsor men concerned in the other seizure.

TOY PISTOL FAILS TO SCARE VICTIM IN TORONTO SHOP

Thug Escapes From Storekeeper's Clutches and Flees Into Cemetery.

WOMAN ROBBED.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 31. (CP)—One successful holdup and another frustrated marked the activities of thugs here last night.

Two pop bottles, thrown by Mrs. Mary Ostuk in her little grocery store routed a Chinese gunman who attempted to hold up the place. Frightened by the two missiles, one of which struck him on the shoulder while the other crashed through the shop window, the desperado took time to lean across the counter and snatch $25 from the cash register, then dashed out with Mrs. Ostuk behind him.

Used Sawed-off Rifle

The Chinese gunman was armed with a sawed off rifle and threatened the woman's life twice before he was chased off.

"I used to sell guns so I know one when I see it," said Isaac Segal, 64-year-old clothing store proprietor, when describing his experiences with a would-be bandit who entered his ship.

It was worth $30 to Isaac to know a gun when he saw it, for the thug entered and pointed a toy pistol and demanded the contents of the till. Recognizing the gun was a toy one Segal grappled with the gunman at the same time calling for help. The thug, however, broke away from the aged man, who is a cripple, and raced out of the store. Citizens attracted by the storekeeper's cries chased after the thug but he escaped by running through a large cemetery.

BARN BURNS.

Building Near Woodville Razed —Spark From Train Blamed.

LINDSAY, Oct. 31.—A serious fire occurred on Tuesday on the farm of Mr. Albert Parliament, who resides near the village of Woodville, when the barn and contents were completely destroyed. The loss is estimated at $2,300. It is thought that the fire started from a spark from a passing train, as the barn is only a short distance from the railway track. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Lindsay To Have New Skating Rink

LINDSAY, October 31 (Special to The Examiner). — Lindsay's antiquated skating rink, which has been facetiously referred to for years as a match box, is to be replaced by a new and modern one during the coming year. F. J. Carew is the man behind the new arena. Some days ago Mr. Carew, in company with Fred Martin, inspected some of the skating arenas in Western Ontario, and was very favorably impressed with the rink in the town of Preston. The new structure will be ready for the opening of the 1931-32 hockey season.

C. N. R. SPEEDS UP LARGE PROGRAM BY MANY MONTHS

Works in Central Region Entail Expenditure Close to $4,000,000.

START THIS WINTER.

Change in Plans Expected to Aid Unemployment Across Province.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 31 (C.P.).—Speeding its program of capital expenditures ahead many months in order to lighten the load of unemployment looming up this winter, the central region of the Canadian National Railways has now under way, or will commence shortly, construction works whose expenditure will aggregate close to $4,000,000.

To Give Employment.

W. A. Kingsland, general manager of the central region, stated yesterday that the commencement of many works had been anticipated in order to give employment. These affect practically every section of his region, stretching from Northern Ontario through to Levis, Que. Apart from giving employment to those actually engaged in the work, the quantity of construction material involved will spread its effects into many industries and aid in sustaining their volume of production.

Work which might ordinarily be left until the opening up of spring will be carried on through the winter months, stated Mr. Kingsland, and the program was planned to carry through to spring or early summer. Some pieces of the work will have a duration as long as two years. Several items concern works in which the railway company is jointly interested with the municipality or Province. To these works, the Canadian National Railways had consented in the interests of economic welfare.

In this connection, Mr. Kingsland pointed out that while the railway's own expenditures, including its portion of the expenses in joint works, totalled almost $4,000,000, the gross total would reach a figure many thousands of dollars more than this.

The program includes work at Oshawa where contractors will commence work almost immediately to contruct a subway at Simcoe street. The work will carry on for four months and is designed to prevent pedestrian and vehicular delays.

Three New Stations

Three station constructions are planned for the central region. All three are proceeding now. Stations are going up at Owen Sound and Parry Sound and involve an expenditure of some $70,000.

The third is at Levis, Que., where rebuilding and extending is taking place, a $75,000 work.

At Sudbury, falsework is already being prepared for the replacement of a wooden trestle structure with a new concrete viaduct. The job is of fair-sized proportions as the construction is quite massive.

Near Ostrom, in Northern Ontario preparations are being made for construction of a concrete bridge consisting of two abutments and precast concrete deck slabs. The falsework is now being driven. The bridge is over the Oshannagana River.

Jointly with the Department of Highways of the Ontario Government, the Canadian National Railways is building a bridge at Trenton, Ont., on the Toronto-Montreal highway The gross cost of the work is approximately $200,000. Two overhead crossings are also being built on the Ferguson Highway near Scotia Jct. The approaches are already being graded.

SOFIA WELCOMES ITS KING HOME WITH HIS BRIDE

QUEEN BECOMES "IOANNA."

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 31 (A.P.) — Czar Boris III, who until last Saturday was Europe's bachelor king, brought his bride, Giovanna of Italy, home to Sofia to-day to the plaudits of thousands of his subjects gathered at the railroad station. Their train arrived at about 10 a.m. from Bourgas, where they debarked from the royal yacht, Czar Ferdinand, yesterday afternoon.

The royal pair, after a triumphal march through the city, were received in the Sofia Cathedral for the ceremony which was to confirm their marriage at Assisi, according to Bulgarian law.

Overhead airplanes performed evolutions.

From early morning to-day the crowds congregated at the railway station, which was richly decorated for the occasion. The entire city was hung with Bulgarian and Italian flags.

Queen Changes Name

It was not as Giovanna that the new Queen came to her new home. An announcement was made that she had taken the Bulgarian form of her name and henceforth would be known as Ioanna, a declaration which has greatly endeared her to her future subjects here.

After a triumphal ride through the city the royal couple expecetd to undergo a new ceremony, variously reported as registration of their marriage according to Roman Catholic rites at Assisi, and as a new marriage according to the rite of the Greek Orthodox Catholic or Bulgarian National Church.

Czar Boris said that their voyage from Brindisi to Bourgas was the stormiest he had ever experienced. Ioanna was compelled to remain below deck the entire time. Because of the storm and fog the two spent both of their first nights out ashore, one at the Island of Fani and the second at Samos.

He said that he had requested an Italian escort squadron containing torpedo boats to return to their home port after he had seen them take a bad battering from mountainous waves in the Adriatic. They complied with his request. He himself remained on his yacht's bridge throughout the storm.

LT.-COL. McCRAE DIES IN GUELPH

Father of "In Flanders Fields" Author Had Fine Military Career.

GUELPH, Ont., October 31 (C.P.). —Lieut.-Colonel David McCrae, father of the late Lieut.-Col. John McCrae, author of "In Flanders Fields," died at his residence here last night in his 86th year.

Colonel McCrae was born in Lauristown, Scotland, and came with his parents to Guelph, when four years old. He received his early education at the Guelph Public Schools and Grammar School. In 1862 he entered the Ontario Veterinary College, and after graduating he was associated with his father in the lumber and woollen mills business.

For years he held the distinction of being one of the leading breeders in the Dominion of Galloway cattle, and was also widely known as an agricultural journalist.

He retired from farming in 1910, and since has been actively engaged in local municipal politics.

Colonel McCrae's military career was a distinguished one. He organized the first garrison battery here to repel the Fenian raiders, and served with it until the invaders were driven out of the country. At the outbreak of the Great War he recruited the 43rd Battery, and accompanied the unit to England in 1916, only to be disappointed when not allowed to accompany it to France.

Survivors are one son, Dr. Thomas McCrae, president of the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, and one daughter, wife of Chief Justice J. F. Kilgour, Winnipeg.

ONE SHOT IN ARM ON PHEASANT DAY

Many Hunters Get Summonses and Lose Guns For Shooting Hens.

LESS PROPERTY DAMAGE.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., October 31 (C.P.). — Only one serious casualty occurred when more than 1,000 skilled and less skilled marksmen hunted through Welland and Lincoln Counties in search of the elusive cock pheasant.

The victim of one of the numerous displays of indiscriminate shooting was David McMillan, 68, Dorchester, Ontario. He was struck in the arm by a discharge of birdshot, and hospital authorities at Niagara-on-the-Lake, state amputation of the arm may be necesary.

While shooting of pheasants was limited to cocks many hunters received summonses and had their guns and licenses confiscated for shooting hens. Farmers reported less property damage than in other years.

The wheat market displayed a firmer undertone yesterday, and while business was small, prices were mostly higher throughout the day. There was no pressure from offerings and local sentiment appeared to be friendly, while at times there appeared to buying that had all the indications of being for foreign account. On the extreme bulge, prices were fully 1¼ above the previous close, but this was practically all lost in the late trade. The southern market only partially following our upturn and finally getting under the previous close. Export business was small overnight and yesterday morning probably around 250,000 bushels or a little larger.

Cables from abroad stated that the demand for wheat was quiet and neglected, but other cables stated there was a better demand for Manitobas, owing to the danger of rust developments in the Argentine crop. However, cables from Argentine yesterday morning stated there was a very small amount of black rust in northern areas only, which was considered as unimportant, while the weather was not unfavorable to rust development. The local cash market was very dull with just a little shipping demand for the top grades and spreads were unchanged to ¼ lower. Argentine shipments this week were estimated at only 662,000 bushels. Very little of the unfinished threshing is being done.

Coarse Grains.—These markets continued dull with only a very small trade passing. Oats continue to act tight and firm with very little being offered for sale. The cash markets are quiet for sale. The cash markets are with only a small business passing, Eastern Canada taking the odd car of oats and barley.

Liverpool cables due unchanged to ⅜ lower based on Winnipeg.

MINING BRIEFS.

Lake Shore is reported to have put as much as 2,0000 tons of ore through the mill in one day though it is doubtful whether tonnage has been regularly established at that figure. This increase should become noticeable in figures for the current quarter. Gossip around, states that on comparatively short notice and with only a small quantity of additional equipment the plant can be stepped up to handle 3,000 tons per day. Engineers who have visited Lake Shore recently are satisfied the present plant will result in a paring of costs to an extraordinarily low level per ton. Lake Shore's average costs have appeared high but this is due to the enormous amount expended in development and equipment. Plant additions alone in the last two years have entailed an expenditure of about $2,000,000 all out of operations. Of interest to deep mining properties is the recent interim dividend declared by St. John Del Rey in Brazil, out of profits to the end of June last. The payment is 1, s per share, tax free, on th 10 per cent preference stock, and 9d, less tax, on the ordinary shares. The dividend on the latter for the corresponding period last year was 6d. St. John Del Rey has been operating continuously for ove a century, paying dividends most of the time, and now the bulk of thei ore is coming from depths below 7,000 feet.

"Jake" Davidson, well known prospector of the Matachewan district, is an unintentional breaker of local traffic regulations, he insists on crossing the street in the middle of the block, claiming the cars can only come at him from two directions there, whereas they have four directions to strike from at an intersection. It was reported around the stre t to-day that Newbec had encountered some particularly important mineralization in diamond drilling. Location of the development and other details were not available. At last night's meeting of the Toronto Branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, T. W. Gibson, deputy minister of mines, reported the mining congress in South Africa had gone on record as favoring a general survey of the mineral resources of the British Empire. This, he thought would serve to keep the question of competition as much as possible out of inter-Empir metal trade. Referring to the efforts being made to find mineral resources in out of the way districts, one well known mining man stated: I don't believe in this business of trying to rob posterity of its rights. Something should be left for the coming generations of prospectors to find."

A tendency has already been noticed among old timers to adjust their classes to fields closer to home.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

Watson, Wallace and Company, members Toronto Stock Exchange have published a booklet relating to stock market operations entitled "buy-sell-hold", which will provide profitable study for both the seasoned operator and the amateur in the market. The booklet is of handy inside pocket size, is written in an easy, yet pithy style. Purchasers of securities are divided into three groups, 1—the investor, 2—the long pull speculator, 3—the trader. Each plays a different game and therefore each is governed by a different set of rules. There are "does" and "don'ts" for each group. Booklet is but another example of the constructive criticism and more thorough examination applied to stocks since the crash of a year ago suddenly awakened the public from a dangerous dream of opulence and optimism, it is provocative of thought and suggests that self-analysis is pre-requisite to corporation or market analysis.

Value Depreciates.

First mortgage bonds of Detroit International Bridge, due 1952, have greatly depreciated in market valuation, being currently quoted less than fifty per cent of par while the debentures are regarded as a highly speculative venture with practically no market. Two main factors have contributed to the decline in these securities. Traffic since the opening of the bridge has not been up to expectations and the use of the tunnel under the Detroit river within a few da furnish fresh competition. However, consulting engineers estimate that the bridge secure only 50 per cent of the cross river traffic, earnings during 1931 should be more than sufficient to cover interest on the first mortgage bonds while should 1932 witness a return to normal conditions, earnings that year should be in excess of interest requirements on both the first mortgage bonds and the debentures. In some quarters it is estimated that 1930 earnings will amount to only about 25 per cent of fixed charges and that it is doubtful if returns the next couple of years will meet interest requirements. This, if true, suggests possibilities of reconstruction of the capital structure. the Detroit bridge is not in a class by itself. The market record of the large majority of the toll bridge bonds floated within the past few years has been anything but satisfactory, to those who purchased these issues at their original offering prices. Generally speaking, "politics" and "political dollar" as well as speculative profits arising out of franchises, leases, etc., have added substantially to capital costs and caused these later difficulties.

Canadian Canners.

It is anticipated at this time that earning of Canadian Canners for the fiscal year ending February 28, 1931, will closely approximate those of the preceding period officials of the company points out there still remains three months of the heavy sales season and will not hazard an opinion as to the complete year's profit but intimate that in the first six months of the fiscal period, ending with August, earnings were somewhat above those of the corresponding months of the 1928-1929 year. In the fourteen months period ended February 28, 1930, Canadian canners had earnings available for distribution on the first preferred equal to $27.38 a share against the annual dividend requirement of $6 and the balance was equal to $1.94 a share on the combined convertible preferred and ordinary stock outstanding, against current dividends at the annual rate of $1 a share. Under the participating clause attached to the convertible preferred the maximum dividend that may be paid is $1 in any one year and as this limit has been reached it is possible for the board to increase the rate on the junior stock without a corresponding increase, on the convertible issue. In the event of the dividend on the ordinary shares being raised above $1 annually holders of the convertible preferred can participate by exercising heir privilege of converting their holdings.

Laura Secord Candy Shops, Limited, is expected to show profits this year of $6 or more a share, practically on a par with earnings of last year. The annual report is expected to be ready for shareholders within a short time and it is understood will compare favorably when consideration is given to business conditions of the past year. Sales will show a decline, but economics on effected in the management and greater plant efficiciency have resulted in a higher ratio of profits. The report is expected to show substantial increases in the holdings of government, municipal and public utility securities resulting in a comfortable increase in working capital. Dividends amount to $3 a share and thus should in no wise be endangered.

Bell Telephone Growth.

Growth of long distance service of the Bell Telephone Company is evidence d by the intention of the company to spend $10,000,000 this year in Ontario and Quebec on this branch of activiity. Seventy two cycles will be equipped with telephone repeater paraphenalia before the close of the current year. J. E. Macpherson vice president in commenting upon the astounding growth of the let-up on industry in Canada point to the fact that the Bell has connecting lines with 83 independent telephone systems in Ontario and Quebec. These in turn, have over 140,000 telephones connected with the Bell long distance lines, and act as feeders for an additional source of income.

Brantford Cordage.

Annual report of Brantford Cordage shows that the first preferred dividend has been earned by a comfortable margin and that the second preferred dividend could also have been covered. No dividends were paid on the second preferred however, which likely common is hold practically entirely by the Messecar interests. The president has pursued a policty of conserving cash, maintining a strong working capital position and gradually building up surplus account. The first preferred is an 8 per cent stock of $25 par value, thus pdividends amount to $2 per share annually. At the current market price of $20 share, the yield is 10 per cent.

The financial statement of the Alberta Pacific Grain Company will hardly make interesting reading for shareholders. For some time it has been known the company had extraordinary losses in the period ended June 30, 1930, and unfortunately the printed report confirms this. Surplus account has been reduced by over a million dollars working capital is been substantially and bank advances increased materially. Directors find it necessary to reduce capital account over a million dollars and the position this company finds itself in to-day is quite similar to that of the Maple Leaf Milling Company. Unauthorized speculation and advances are the root of the trouble and the present management in completely writing off these losses has taken the only course open.

Grocery Merchant Takes Own Life

FORT WILLIAM, October 31 (C.P.). — Police are dragging the river in front of the city docks, searching for the body of A. A. Black, Fort William grocery merchant, who is believed to have drowned himself this morning... He left two notes, one at home and the other on the dock, stating he was about to commit suicide. No one was on the docks at the time.

Mr. Black was seen walking towards the city subway about 8.30 a.m., and it is believed the suicide occurred after that hour. No one has any idea of where he jumped in, this adding to the difficulties of locating the body.

RUMOR FRANCE

should be prepared to give an assured market for an agreed proportion of Canadian wheat.

France now imposes on her millers a quota of 90 per cent. home-grown.

Wheat Crops Poor.

Wheat to be used in the manufacture of bread for use in France. Owing to her poor crops, however, France has recently been forced to import more foreign wheat than she expected. She claims to be buying $20,000,000 worth of Canadian wheat on the British market annually, but this figure is regarded by Canadian authorities as doubtful.

Meanwhile the Imperial Conference sub-committees are continuing their study of the quota scheme as applied to British purchases. Their explorations tend to show that the quota scheme is so difficult to control as to prove almost impracticable, except in the case of imports of wheat and flour. This view, if confirmed, would rule out suggested quota purchase of dairy products, fresh fruit and canned fruit, and canned fish.

Wheat in Different Class.

Wheat, however, is in a different category. The wheat trade passes along more defined and centralized channels than the other classes of goods. The application of a quota would be controlled through the British millers; there is not therefore thought to be the same difficulty in applying a wheat quota as to such products as butter and eggs. The attitude of the Canadian delegation towards the wheat qouta is one of desire to study and co-operate in any scheme which is likely to promote Empire trade. While Canada considers reciprocal tariff preferences are the most practical means, Canada will not turn down any reasonable alternative.

UNSATISFACTORY YEAR.

LUBEC, Me., Oct. 31.—The sardine season of 1930 comes to an end this week after a particularly satisfactory year. Unsuitable fish interferred with continuous operation of the large factories and the extra care necessary to avoid packing any but perfect stock has slowed up work.

Sardines are selling better, but no large orders are coming in. In the smoked herring business there is not a good outlook, as raw material is scarce and few large herring have been running. Prices for the boneless are steady, with a demand somewhat less than is looked for during the months of October, but the order appear to be increasing. At the present time most of the shipments are going to the middle west.

Packers are somewhat doubtful about filling their houses with herring for boning during the winter and prices are expected to go higher in consequence of the stock shortage.

NEW YORK DROPS STILL FURTHER

TRADING SLUGGISH.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (Associated Press Financial Editor).—The Stock Market slipped still lower to-day, bumping the bottom levels recorded ten days ago.

The decline appeared to meet resistance around the recent lows, but trading was too sluggish to give a clear indication as to the character of the resistance offered. Bears seemed to confine their activity to seeking out individual soft spots.

Bethlehem Steel actually broke into new low ground with a 2-point drop. Radio did likewise, selling off 1 1-20 to 19¼. It had previously held firmly at 20. Other shares reaching new bottom levels ncluded Dupont, Kennecott, Childs, and Missouri Kansas Texas, off about 2, and Gillette, American Metals, Auburn, General American Tank, Crucible steel, and Canada Dry, off 3 to 5. U. S. Steel sagged 2 to within a point of its low. Coca Cola was again heavy, losing 5, and Corn Products dropped 4. Ingersoll Rand, an erratic issue, broke 11.

Call money held at 2 per cent. having set a record by remaining stationary at that level for the entire month. Although call money has averaged lower, as recently as February, 1916, this seems to be the first time the official rate has remained unchangd for so long a period. Last October the average was above 6 per cent. The official rate has been somewhat artificial, however, with outside offerings of funds as low as 1 per cent.

TORONTO LIST SLIGHTLY LOWER

Nickel, Noranda, Brazilian and Most of Oils Ease Fractionally.

MASSEY-HARRIS DROPS.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 31.—(CP)—After having pursued a generally upward course this week, stocks on Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, were inclined to settle below last night's close. Trading, in to-day's session, was slow and uninteresting.

Price changes were small, for less than a point for the most part. Nickel, Noranda, Brazilian, Standard Paving and most of the oils eased fractionally. Massey Harris dropped back a point from its recent high. Walkers and Distillers both were slightly lower. Service Stations turned over actively but at midday was unchanged from last night. Ford of Canada, Bell Telephone, C.P.R. were firm. F. N. Burt advanced one point.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 31 (A.P.) — Reports published in Bucharest that seven shots had been fired at the royal train carrying Czar Boris and his bride to Sofia, were denied here to-day.

PASTOR RECOVERING.

The wheat market displayed a firmer undertone yesterday, and while business was small, prices were mostly higher throughout the day. There was no pressure from offerings and local sentiment appeared to be friendly, while at times there appeared to buying that had all the indications of being for foreign account. On the extreme bulge, prices were fully 1¼ above the previous close, but this was practically all lost in the late trade. The southern market only partially following our upturn and finally getting under the previous close. Export business was small overnight and yesterday morning probably around 250,000 bushels or a little larger.

Cables from abroad stated that the demand for wheat was quiet and neglected, but other cables stated there was a better demand for Manitobas, owing to the danger of rust developments in the Argentine crop. However, cables from Argentine yesterday morning stated there was a very small amount of black rust in northern areas only, which was considered as unimportant, while the weather was not unfavorable to rust development. The local cash market was very dull with just a little shipping demand for the top grades and spreads were unchanged to ¼ lower. Argentine shipments this week were estimated at only 662,000 bushels. Very little of the unfinished threshing is being done.

Coarse Grains.—These markets continued dull with only a very small trade passing. Oats continue to act tight and firm with very little being offered for sale. The cash markets are quiet for sale. The cash markets are with only a small business passing. Eastern Canada taking the odd car of oats and barley.

Liverpool cables due unchanged to ⅜ lower based on Winnipeg.

MINING BRIEFS.

Lake Shore is reported to have put as much as 2,0000 tons of ore through the mill in one day though it is doubtful whether tonnage has been regularly established at that figure. This increase should become noticeable in figures for the current quarter. Gossip around, states that on comparatively short notice and with only a small quantity of additional equipment the plant can be stepped up to handle 3,000 tons per day. Engineers who have visited Lake Shore recently are satisfied the present plant will result in a paring of costs to an extraordinarily low level per ton. Lake Shore's average costs have appeared high but this is due to the enormous amount expended in development and equipment. Plant additions alone in the last two years have entailed an expenditure of about $2,000,000 all out of operations. Of interest to deep mining properties is the recent interim dividend declared by St. John Del Rey in Brazil, out of profits to the end of June last. The payment is 1, s per share, tax free, on th 10 per cent preference stock, and 9d, less tax, on the ordinary shares. The dividend on the latter for the corresponding period last year was 6d. St. John Del Rey has been operating continuously for ove a century, paying dividends most of the time, and now the bulk of thei ore is coming from depths below 7,000 feet.

"Jake" Davidson, well known prospector of the Matachewan district, is an unintentional breaker of local traffic regulations, he insists on crossing the street in the middle of the block, claiming the cars can only come at him from two directions there, whereas they have four directions to strike from at an intersection. It was reported around the stre t to-day that Newbec had encountered some particularly important mineralization in diamond drilling. Location of the development and other details were not available. At last night's meeting of the Toronto Branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, T. W. Gibson, deputy minister of mines, reported the mining congress in South Africa had gone on record as favoring a general survey of the mineral resources of the British Empire. This, he thought would serve to keep the question of competition as much as possible out of inter-Empir metal trade. Referring to the efforts being made to find mineral resources in out of the way districts, one well known mining man stated: I don't believe in this business of trying to rob posterity of its rights. Something should be left for the coming generations of prospectors to find."

A tendency has already been noticed among old timers to adjust their classes to fields closer to home.

FIRMER TONE IN LINDSLEYS

Falconbridge Gains 10 to $1.80 While Sudbury Basin Advances 12 ot 72.

NORANDA EASIER.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 31.—(CP)—Continued strength in certain of the Lindsley stocks was the only outstanding point in a dull forenoon session on the mining market to-day.

Falconbridge, gained another 10 to $1.80 and Sudbury Basin recovered 12 to 72.

International Nickel and Noranda were both easier, former softening early in the day, losing over three quarter to $18.25 and the latter a half to $16.50. Hudson Bay back to $5, off ten, and Amulet receded a cent or so to 29. Abana and Mining Corp., were up a couple each.

Golds were mixed and confined in their movements. McIntyre firmed five to $18, Sylvanite a couple to 62 and Sicoe and Kirkland Lake gold a point each. Howey, Vipond and Big Missouri all sold a cent lower and other members of the group were unchanged.

Profit-taking in Nordon carried the price to 78, off eight from last night's close. Chemical Research dropped a quarter to $3.50 and East Crest a point to 73. Other oils were holding.

NEW POSTCARDS.

JOHANNESBURG, S. Africa, Oct. 31—(By the Canadian Press)—Picure postcards depicting the wild life of South Africa have been placed on sale and are proving popular. It is an unique serie from photographs taken in various parts of the country, mainly in the game reserves, and the pictures range over a great variety of subject.

A point of particular interest about the cards is that they are the first postcards to be issued in South Africa of enlarged size now allowed by the International Postal Union. This permits of the actual pictures being nearly 5½ by 3¾ inches, which is appreciably larger than the space obtainable on an ordinary-sized card. Each card carries a bilingual appeal to protect South Africa's wild life.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

Watson, Wallace and Company, members Toronto Stock Exchange have published a booklet relating to stock market operations entitled "buy-sell-hold", which will provide profitable study for both the seasoned operator and the amateur in the market. The booklet is of handy inside pocket size, is written in an easy, yet pithy style. Purchasers of securities are divided into three groups, 1—the investor, 2—the long pull speculator, 3—the trader. Each plays a different game and therefore each is governed by a different set of rules. There are "does" and "don'ts" for each group. Booklet is but another example of the constructive criticism and more thorough examination applied to stocks since the crash of a year ago suddenly awakened the public from a dangerous dream of opulence and optimism, it is provocative of thought and suggests that self-analysis is pre-requisite to corporation or market analysis.

Value Depreciates.

First mortgage bonds of Detroit International Bridge, due 1952, have greatly depreciated in market valuation, being currently quoted less than fifty per cent of par while the debentures are regarded as a highly speculative venture with practically no market. Two main factors have contributed to the decline in these securities. Traffic since the opening of the bridge has not been up to expectations and the use of the tunnel under the Detroit river within a few days will furnish fresh competition. However the consulting engineers estimate that should the bridge secure only 50 per cent of the cross river traffic, earnings during 1931 should be more than sufficient to cover interest on the first mortgage bonds while should 1932 witness a return to normal conditions, earnings that year should be in excess of interest requirements on both the first mortgage bonds and the debentures. In some quarters it is estimated that 1930 earnings will amount to only about 25 per cent of fixed charges and that it is doubtful if returns the next couple of years will meet interest requirements. This, if true, suggests possibilities of reconstruction of the capital structure. the Detroit bridge is not in a class by itself. The market record of the large majority of the toll bridge bonds floated within the past few years has been anything but satisfactory, to those who purchased these issues at their original offering prices. Generally speaking, "politics" and "political dollar" as well as speculative profits arising out of franchises, leases, etc., have added substantially to capital costs and caused these later difficulties.

Canadian Canners.

It is anticipated at this time that earning of Canadian Canners for the fiscal year ending February 28, 1931, will closely approximate those of the preceding period officials of the company points out there still remains three months of the heavy sales season and will not hazard an opinion as to the complete year's profit but intimate that in the first six months of the fiscal period, ending with August, earnings were somewhat above those of the corresponding months of the 1928-1929 year. In the fourteen months period ended February 28, 1930, Canadian canners had earnings available for distribution on the first preferred equal to $27.38 a share against the annual dividend requirement of $6 and the balance was equal to $1.94 a share on the combined convertible preferred and ordinary stock outstanding, against current dividends at the annual rate of $1 a share. Under the participating clause attached to the convertible preferred the maximum dividend that may be paid is $1 in any one year and as this limit has been reached it is possible for the board to increase the rate on the junior stock without a corresponding increase, on the convertible issue. In the event of the dividend on the ordinary shares being raised above $1 annually holders of the convertible preferred can participate by exercising their privilege of converting their holdings.

Laura Secord Candy Shops, Limited, is expected to show profits this year of $6 or more a share, practically on a par with earnings of last year. The annual report is expected to be ready for shareholders within a short time and it is understood will compare favorably when consideration is given to business conditions of the past year. Sales will show a decline, but economics on effected in the management and greater plant efficicieny have resulted in a higher ratio of profits. The report is expected to show substantial increases in the holdings of government, municipal and public utility securities resulting in a comfortable increase in working capital Dividends amount to $3 a share and thus should in no wise be endangered.

Bell Telephone Growth.

Growth of long distance service of the Bell Telephone Company is evidence d by the intention of the company to spend $10,000,000 this year in Ontario and Quebec on this branch of activiity. Seventy two cycles will be equipped with telephone repeater paraphenalia before the close of the current year. J. E. Macpherson vice president in commenting upon the astounding growth of the let-up on industry in Canada point to the fact that the Bell has connecting lines with 83 independent telephone systems in Ontario and Quebec. These in turn, have over 140,000 telephones connected with the Bell long distance lines, and act as feeders for an additional source of income.

Brantford Cordage.

Annual report of Brantford Cordage shows that the first preferred dividend has been earned by a comfortable margin and that the second preferred dividend could also have been covered. No dividends were paid on the second preferred however, which likely common is hold practically entirely by the Messecar interests. The president has pursued a policy of conserving cash, maintining a strong working capital position and gradually building up surplus account. The first preferred is an 8 per cent stock of $25 par value, thus pdividends amount to $2 per share annually. At the current market price of $20 share, the yield is 10 per cent.

The financial statement of the Alberta Pacific Grain Company will hardly make interesting reading for shareholders. For some time it has been known the company had extraordinary losses in the period ended June 30, 1930, and unfortunately the printed report confirms this. Surplus account has been reduced by over a million dollars working capital is been substantially and bank advances increased materially. Directors find it necessary to reduce capital account over a million dollars and the position this company finds itself in to-day is quite similar to that of the Maple Leaf Milling Company. Unauthorized speculation and advances are the root of the trouble and the present management in completely writing off these losses has taken the only course open.

Grocery Merchant Takes Own Life

FORT WILLIAM, October 31 (C.P.). — Police are dragging the river in front of the city docks, searching for the body of A. A. Black, Fort William grocery merchant, who is believed to have drowned himself this morning... He left two notes, one at home and the other on the dock, stating he was about to commit suicide. No one was on the docks at the time.

Mr. Black was seen walking towards the city subway about 8.30 a.m., and it is believed the suicide occurred after that hour. No one has any idea of where he jumped in, this adding to the difficulties of locating the body.

RUMOR FRANCE

should be prepared to give an assured market for an agreed proportion of Canadian wheat.

France now imposes on her millers a quota of 90 per cent. home-grown.

Wheat Crops Poor.

Wheat to be used in the manufacture of bread for use it. France. Owing to her poor crops, however, France has recently been forced to import more foreign wheat than she expected. She claims to be buying $20,000,000 worth of Canadian wheat on the British market annually, but this figure is regarded by Canadian authorities as doubtful.

Meanwhile the Imperial Conference sub-committees are continuing their study of the quota scheme as applied to British purchases. Their explorations tend to show that the quota scheme is so difficult to control as to prove almost impracticable, except in the case of imports of wheat and flour. This view, if confirmed, would rule out suggested quota purchase of dairy products, fresh fruit and canned fruit, and canned fish.

Wheat in Different Class.

Wheat, however, is in a different category. The wheat trade passes along more defined and centralized channels than the other classes of goods. The application of a quota would be controlled through the British millers; there is not therefore thought to be the same difficulty in applying a wheat quota as to such products as butter and eggs. The attitude of the Canadian delegation towards the wheat qouta is one of desire to study and co-operate in any scheme which is likely to promote Empire trade. While Canada considers reciprocal tariff preferences are the most practical means, Canada will not turn down any reasonable alternative.

UNSATISFACTORY YEAR.

LUBEC, Me., Oct. 31.—The sardine season of 1930 comes to an end this week after a particularly satisfactory year. Unsuitable fish interferred with continuous operation of the large factories and the extra care necessary to avoid packing any but perfect stock has slowed up work.

Sardines are selling better, but no large orders are coming in. In the smoked herring business there is not a good outlook, as raw material is scarce and few large herring have been running. Prices for the boneless are steady, with a demand somewhat less than is looked for during the months of October, but the orders appear to be increasing. At the present time most of the shipments are going to the middle west.

Packers are somewhat doubtful about filling their houses with herring for boning during the winter and prices are expected to go higher in consequence of the stock shortage.

NEW YORK DROPS STILL FURTHER

Bethlehem Steel Breaks Into New Low Ground With 2-point Decline.

TRADING SLUGGISH.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (Associated Press Financial Editor).—The Stock Market slipped still lower to-day, bumping the bottom levels recorded ten days ago.

The decline appeared to meet resistance around the recent lows, but trading was too sluggish to give a clear indication as to the character of the resistance offered. Bears seemed to confine their activity to seeking out individual soft spots.

Bethlehem Steel actually broke into new low ground with a 2-point drop. Radio did likewise, selling off 1 1-29 to 19¼. It had previously held firmly at 20. Other shares reaching new bottom levels ncluded Dupont, Kennecott, Childs, and Missouri Kansas Texas, off about 2, and Gllette, American Metals, Auburn, General American Tank, Crucible steel, and Canada Dry, off 3 to 5. U. S. Steel sagged 2 to within a point of its low. Coca Cola was again heavy, losing 5, and Corn Products dropped 4. Ingersoll Rand, an erratic issue, broke 11.

Call money held at 2 per cent. having set a record by remaining stationary at that level for the entire month. Although call money has averaged lower, as recently as February, 1916, this seems to be the first time the official rate has remained unchangd for so long a period. Last October the average was above 6 per cent. The official rate has been somewhat artificial, however, with outside offerings of funds as low as 1 per cent.

STOCK GRADING.

PORT HOPE, Oct. 31.—The Annual Seed and Stock Judging Competition of Durham County was held at Canton, Friday, October 24th, with forty-nine boys taking part; twenty-one of whom were trying for a Free trip to the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto.

The high scoring boy in the competition was James Brown, Orono, but as this same standing was won by Mr. Brown last year, the award which is a two weeks' Short Course at the A.O.C., Guelph, is to be given to the second high boy, Ralph Staples, Cavan.

The coach of the team of three boys scoring the highest aggregate also gets a two weeks' course, Ralph Staples won his honor but the second high coach Anson Balson of Hampton gets the award.

The cup donated by the Junior Farmers' Club, Bethany, for the high boy in the Live Stock class was won by James Brown.

Emery Smith of Cavan, won the cup donated by the Durham County Holstein Club for the highest score in Dairy Cattle.

The Canadian National Exhibition Shield for the highest scoring novice judge was won by Arthur Pollard of Canton.

Dairy Cattle—1st, Emery Smith, Cavan; 2nd, George McKnight, Millbrook.

Hogs—1st, John Moon, Port Hope; 2nd, Bruce Beer, Bethany.

Horses—1st, Jim Tamblyn, Orono; 2nd, J. Whittington, South Monaghan.

Beef Cattle — 1st, Jim Brown, Orono; 2nd, Stanley Theobald, Fraserville.

Poultry—1st, Earl Smith, Bethany; 2nd, Carllus Tamblyn, Orono.

The Competition was in charge of E. A. Summers, Port Hope, with the following acting as judges:

Wm. Croskery, Agricultural Representative of Ontario County; J. Baker, Hampton; D. M. McKinnon, Dominion Hog Grader, Peterborough; E. P. Bradt, Agricultural Supervisor, Boys' Training School, Bowmanville; W. Beynolds, Port Hope; Mr. Webster, Assistant Agricultural Representative, Northumberland County.

In the evening a banquet catered to by the Ladies' Aid of Canton, was held in the basement of the Canton Community Hall. Each of the judges gave his placing and reasons on the classes he had judged, after which the results of the Competition were announced.

THREE HUNDRED ATTEND SUPPER

Annual Affair Held Under Auspices of Ladies' Aid of Trent River United Church.

GOOD PROGRAM.

TRENT RIVER, Oct. 31 (Examiner Correspondence)—The annual fowl supper which was held on Wednesday night under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the United Church was a great success, with about three hundred people in attendance.

The tables were prettily decorated with cut flowers and foliage.

Following the supper a program was given in the auditorium with the Rev. W. R. Archer as chairman. The program commenced with a hymn and prayer by the Rev. Mr. Howard of Marmora. Vocal solos by J. Storey, of Campbellford, 'I never see Maggie Alone' and 'Ten Little Niggers,' were much enjoyed and readings by Mrs. Wragg, of Campbellford and Milton Hawley entitled, "The Minister's Sermon Last Sunday," and "My Financial Success," by Gerald Buchanan were well received.

The Rev. Mr. Bell, of Hastings gave a short address as did the Rev. Mr. Howard, of Marmora.

The thankoffering at the anniversary services held on Sunday afternoon and evening amounted to $130.

Tweed Participates In the Relief Fund

TWEED, Oct. 31—Through the efforts of W. E. Tummon M.P., and J. F. Hill, M.P.P., Tweed will participate to the extent of $15,000 in unemployment relief assistance. The grant has been approved by J. A. Ellis, Secretary of the Dominion and Provincial Relief Fund. A resolution requesting relief was passed by the local council a few days ago.

This money, or a considerable portion of it, will be used in extending the waterworks system from D. Morrison's Corner North on Victoria St., and the work will be commenced in the near future and continued perhaps until Christmas.

WHEAT POOL PLANS TO ABSORB CROP LOSS BY NEW BOND ISSUE

Prairie Governments Will Take No Loss, But Will Guarantee Securities.

WILL WEATHER STORM

(Special to Examiner, Copyright 1930.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 31.—Western provincial governments do not expect to lose one cent of the $10,000,000 to $12,000,000 losses incurred in the 1928-29 and 29-30 wheat pool guarantees.

The expectation her is that the pools will themselves issue bonds of identical nature, pledged by their own $30,000,000 assets. Of course, the provinces will guarantee these bonds as to principal and interest. In this manner one of the most tempting bond issues of recent years will be offered the public.

The plan for retiring these bonds, if it is decided to issue them, has not been worked out. It is likely that each bushel of wheat sold, will be assessed one cent and each bushel of coarse grains ½ cent. This plan is expected to yield about $2,000,000 a year, enough to wipe out principal and interest charges in less than eight years, even on the larger $12,000,000 principal sum.

There is just one objection. With the crop of 1933, the pool contract expires. If pool farmers refuse to sign up again in sufficiently large numbers to prevent hardship to those who remain loyal to the organization, the government would face a very serious loss indeed. It is likely that, to protect themselves, the governments would require the pools to sign up their contracts a year ahead, taking the full remaining indebtedness off the 1933 crop of farmers who refused to renew their contracts but carrying on with amortized charges against continuing pool farmers.

There is nothing definite as to amounts which each province will be called on to pay. Manitoba was a huge close in the barley price debacle, and so will have almost as much loss as Alberta. These two provinces will have perhaps $1,900,000 and $2,300,000 loss respectively with Saskatchewan losing more, being required to guarantee bonds to the amount of $5,800,000,000 on the expected minimum loss of $10,000,000. But nobody here really thinks the province will lose any actual cash though provincial credit will be pledged to that amount.

Pool farmers are taking what comfort they can find from the fact that the non-pool trade is in an even worse situation than the pool for the most part, with some of the finest reputations on the exchange utterly ruined in the 1929-30 market debacle.

Ask Federal Guarantee.

Hon. E. B. Ryckman, minister of national revenue, was approached here by a deputation representing the United Farmers of Alberta, with a proposal for a federal government guarantee of a minimum price for No. 1 northern wheat of $1.15 per bushel, as a means of temporarily aiding western farmers.

Mr. Ryckman said that it was very difficult to give any assurance that a proposal of this kind would be adopted. The delegation consisted of H. E. G. M. Scholefield, vice-president of the United Farmers of Alberta; Robert Gardiner, M.P., E. J. Garland, M.P.; Alfred Speakman M.P.; W. Norman Smith and J. K. Sutherland.

The remedies suggested by the U.F.A. included: That the cost of direct relief be borne by the Dominion Government in cases where this cannot be met by taxes of a municipality. That free transportation of coal to necessitous districts be provided under proper regulations; that manufacturers who benefit by the tariff be compelled to sell their products to independent distributors, such as farmers' co-operatives, at prices not greater than those charged to any other retailers; that a general reduction be made in grain and commodity freight rates to meet the present conditions of emergency; that interest rates in so far as these are under control of the Dominion government be substantially reduced; that a general investigation be instituted to determine the relative costs of agricultural production and the costs of other goods and services, prices to be stabilized thereafter at a level ensuring fair exchange of three classes of products and services on the basis of the relative costs of protuction.

NEW FEAR OF REVOLT IN GERMANY SAYS ENVOY TO UNITED STATES

Baron Von Prittwitz Back From Berlin Declares State Firmly Entrenched.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Baron Frederich Wilhelm von Prittwitz, Ambassador from Germany to the United States, returned recently on the North German Lloyd liner Europa from his two-months' vacation, accompanied by the Baroness and their daughter. He said he had spent his holiday chiefly at his home near Munich, Bavaria, and the last three weeks in Berlin. He said the government had the political situation well in hand.

"If the laws can be enacted," the Ambassador said, "things will be normalized. Under the economic strain the German people may get excited and vote for radicals at an election, but they always have been shown to have common sense in any great emergency, and in my opinion common sense will prevail. The only dictator in Germany is necessity, and we must cut expenses as much as we can.

"There will be no revolution. The recent events concerning the elections have been considerably exaggerated in the press. There are radicals and Communists on the extreme left and right wings of the Reichstag. The economic situation is bad, but nothing has happened in Germany pointing toward a revolution, despite Ritler's statements to the press. He was born in Austria and I understand is likely to be a German citizen as he fought in the German Army. The Soviet has no influence with the Government party as has been rumored."

Asked if the Jews would get protection in Germany, the Baron replied that every German citizen was entitled to protection and would get it while the present administration is in power. He added that if Germany was given a fair chance she would pull through the difficulties that surround her to-day.

INCREASE BRITISH PREMIER'S SALARY

Former Premiers Join in Argument Salary Does Not Cover Expenses.

LONDON, Oct. 31 (By The Canadian Press).—The special house of commons committee heard very interesting testimony from persons high in public life, including Prime Minister MacDonald, before it decided to recommend an increase in the salary of the prime minister from $25,000 to $35,000, it is revealed in a White Paper just issued. The leader of the opposition in the house of commons will also receive a salary on account of that position, if the recommendations are acted upon.

Testifying before the commission, Premier MacDonald, Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George and Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin all made it clear that the cost of living at No. 10 Downing Street is so great the salary of $25,000 is insufficient.

Speaking of the suggestion that the Leader of the Opposition should have a salary, Mr. Baldwin said: "I regard it as of the first importance that a man who has been Prime Minister should be independent afterwards."

With regard to residence at Downing Street, Mr. Baldwin said that, as to entertainment expenses, "If one had super-generous desires one could find an outlet for much more than $15,000 a year." It would, he added, be extraordinarily difficult for a Prime Minister to live in Downing-street on $25,000 a year. Mr. Lloyd George, who agreed that the pay of the various Ministries should be equalised, said he would exclude the Prime Minister from that arrangement.

It was preposterous, he added, that a Lord Chancellor should be getting $50,000, while a Prime Minister was only getting $25,000. It was outrageous that the Attorney-General and the Solicitor-General should be getting something like $200,000 a year, one $125,000 and the other $75,000. The Prime Minister's salary of $25,000 was ludicrously inadequate, and was equal to $12,500 before the war.

He thought that the cost of private hospitality to a Prime Minister would be $5,000 a year, but said: "My wife could tell you much better than I can. How she managed to do it I don't know," he added.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald was against every member of the Cabinet receiving $25,000. With regard to the question of the payment of the leader of the Opposition, Mr. MacDonald said: "I think more and more that a Prime Minister who has perhaps got tired of party squabbling, and rather gets a little bit away from it, and yet remains active in the service of the State, could be treated very much like a Lord Chancellor."

As to the upkeep of No. 10, Downing-street, Mr. MacDonald said that "any Prime Minister without a private income would be on the Poor Law in two years after he left office unless he was an extremely careful person and unless he was supported by friends."

LEADERS CONFER

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 30 (C.P.) — Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, and Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railways, were in conference this morning. A general discussion of matters relative to the railway system took place. Sir Henry expected to return to Montreal late this afternoon.

FINE TABLE LAMP FOR BEST ESSAY

Brown's Hardware is Conducting Essay Contest For Aladdin Lamp.

OPEN TO ALL.

A free table lamp that ordinarily sells for $15.50 is the prize offered in an interesting contest sponsored by Brown's Hardware at 171 Simcoe street.

To the prize-winner in a contest that includes the writing of a fifty-word paragraph on the subject "Why the Aladdin Lamp is the Ideal Home Light" goes a handsome Alladin table lamp. Although the lamp has not been guaranteed to have the magic properties ascribed to the original Aladdin's lamp, it has other advantages that will appeal to the modern possessor. It is described as a very attractive clear white light that saves the eyesight, is safe, reliable and economical.

The contest is open to anyone, man, woman, boy or girl, who calls at Brown's Hardware Store for an entry blank and writes the fifty-word paragraph between now and the closing date, November 27th. The winner will be announced on Saturday, November 29th. The judge will be Miss Cathleen McCarthy of The Examiner editorial staff.

The contestant does not require to be a regular customer of the store and needs only to write fifty words on the subject as above noted: "Why the Aladdin Lamp is the Ideal Home Light." Anyone can have a demonstration of the properties of the lamp in the store, before entering the contest, with no strings attached. None connected with the store will participate in the contest. The paragraphs will be judged on the orgiginality of the composition and only in case of a tie will such factors as penmanship, correctness of spelling or neatness be taken into consideration.

Drop into Brown's Hardware store and get a blank. See how original you can be, after noting the lamp in operation.

Predicts Motor Cars With Rear Engines

LONDON, Oct. 31.—(By the Canadian Press)—Motor cars of the future will have fewer part—hundreds of fewer part—while taxicabs and buses may have their engines at the rear, according to a prediction made here recently by Sir Herbert Austin, prominent manufacturer, while addressing the Institution of Automobile Engineers. He added that all transport would increase in speed, comfort, safety and cheapness.

"Why we put up with the present archaic type of vehicle in London streets,' Sir Herbert said, "is difficult to understand." The weight of road vehicles could be reduced with advantage, Sir Herbert declared, and a design was wanted for a 15 horse power closed car to weight not more than 14 hundred weight.

Canadian Crafts Revival Is Urged

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 31—The revival of lost Canadian crafts, such as pottery making, was urged by C. Marius Barbeau, F.R.S.C., ethnologist of the National Museum of Canada, in an address in which he declared the annual exhibition of the work of the Canadian Handicrafts Guild formally open at the Galleries of the Art Association of Montreal. M. Barbeau suggested that the Guild might do well to sponsor such a revival.

As for the hooked rug industry which has sprung up throughout the province in response to tourist demand, Mr. Barbeau declared that it would be a blessing if it went out of existence. It was a bastard art, he said, with its bad days, its poor materials and its uninteresting designs selected from the mail order catalogues of the big department stores.

WELLAND FAIR STABLES BURN.

WELLAND, Ont., October 30 (C.P.). — Stables on the Welland Fair Grounds, the property of the Welland County Agricultural Society, were destroyed by fire early this morning. The loss, estimated at $1,000. Three horses in the building at the time were rescued.

MANY MATTERS TO COME BEFORE NEXT SESSION OF QUEBEC HOUSE

Revision of Succession Duties Under Study—Protestant-Jewish School Question.

WILL BE LONG SESSION.

QUEBEC, Que., Oct. 31—The last session of the present Quebec Legislature will start on December 2nd, and advance information is to the effect that it will be one of the longest and the least contentious on record. A mass of minor legislation is expected to be dealt with by the legislature, thus clearing the decks for a provincial by-election which is expected to take place either in the spring or the following autumn.

Radical changes in the Succession Duties Act may be before the members. Last session this Act was revised so as to lighten the burden on estates up to $50,000.00, property valued up to $25,000.00 being entirely exempt. The rates on estates over $50,000.00 were increased, in some instances running as high as 35%. It is thought that there may be a scaling down on the higher rates on the ground that too heavy taxation has a tendency to discourage accumulation of large fortunes and no matter what precautions have been taken, means have been found whereby the principles of the law have not always been observed.

The knotty problems which arose last session over the Jewish school question in Montreal and was met by the passing of an act setting up a Jewish school commission is in process of adjustment, it is believed. Conferences between the Montreal Board of School Commissioners and representative Jews looking to the retention of the Jewish pupils in Protestant schools are now going on and are expected to be successful. If an agreement is reached, the Jewish School Commission Act will be repealed.

Legislation is expected to give effect to the results of study on the question of helping farmers in matters of bovine tuberculosis. At the present time, the Federal Government, when condemning a cow in a protected area, grants the farmer a small compensation for each cow which is destroyed when found to answer the tuberculin test. Complaints have been frequent that the compensation is inadequate and the Provincial Government may make a supplementary grant.

The vexed problem of the exact legal status of hotels for taxation purposes will be brought before the legislature. There is a conflict of opinion between the municipalities in the province and the hotel-keepers claim their premises cannot be taxed except as realty, while municipalities contend they have the right to levy business taxes on hotels.

Premier Taschereau will lead the government forces. He has now been Quebec Premier for 11 years. There has been some gossip in papers in the province suggesting that Camillion Houde, Opposition leader, may retire from his office in order to devote all his time to his duties as Mayor of Montreal. Mr. Houde, himself, has denied this and has promised that when the legislature opens he will again be found as chief critic of the government.

outset. The Rev. W. R. Archer of Havelock, chairman of the Peterborough Presbytery, led in prayer, and the Rev. D. Wren of Trinity Church made a pleasing introduction of the speaker. Seated on the pulpit platform were the Rev. J. E. J. Millyard and H. Ackerman of Belleville, who is chairman of the Missionary and Maintainance Fund, and who accompanied the Rt. Rev. Dr. Oliver to the city.

The address of the evening was preluded by an organ voluntary by David R. Howatt, the singing of the choir and of a quartette composed of W. H. Cunningham, A. V. Lillow, S. H. Mitchell and G. D. Carlisle, and a vocal solo by Mrs. H. F. Doig. The congregation sang "The Church's One Foundation" and joined in the Doxology at the close.

Nineteen Banquets in a Week

The Moderator, who is making a tour of Canada and visiting the various Presbyteries, as far as possible, before returning to resume his duties as a professor in the University of Saskatoon, made a few humorous references to his experiences while on his itinerary. He has enjoyed nineteen banquets within one week, was "pinched for speeding" while on his way here from Cobourg and was rather taken aback in his home town of Chatham when an old lady who knew him as a boy growing up in that town, asked him if he possessed a flanelette night-gown to guard against the rigors of touring jumps.

Speaking of his Western home, he of Peterborough as the town where he spent his honeymoon, many years ago, the reverend speaker justified his choice at that time by labelling Peterborough as a town where he knew nobody and therefore had a chance to honeymoon in peace.

Turning to serious mood, he referred to the night, just six weeks ago, in London, Ontario, when the mantle of office as Moderator fell from the shoulders of the late Dr. William Gunn to rest on him.

"I have prayed," he said, alluding to the sudden death of the late Moderator, "that as I catch from those drooping hands the torch and take up his work, as I salute his spirit and his memory, that I may be blessed with a double share of the Christ-like spirit that animated my predecessor."

Speaking of his Western home, he said: "I love the West with all the passion and the fibre of my being. There can only be one place in the world for me, and that is the West. But the West is built upon the East. From the East it has received the choicest of its population and a large share of religious leadership and financial support. From the East has come the inspiration for our social and political institutions.

"The West is dynamic and progressive, a bit incalculable, somewhat uncalculating, and often a bit noisy and obstreperous. But I want to tell you that the West is grateful and that it loves the East. To the eyes of the Westerner will often come tears as he hears of the old home and the people of the East."

The Stuffed Fowl.

The Moderator told the little story of Lord Bacon and the stuffed fowl. Reminding his hearers that they would not now be present if it had not been for the problem that baffled the world for many centuries, the puzzle as to how to keep meat from putrefying. He said that the application of pepper in large quantities was the ancient solution for this problem, and that it was on the search for more pepper that Columbus discovered the New World. So Lord Bacon, journeying by horseback one day from Highgate to his home, and puzzling over this same problem, hit on the idea of applying snow to meat to keep it from putrefying. He dismounted, purchased a fowl from a peasant, stuffed it with snow, and so caught the idea that was transmitted to posterity, and the cold that killed him, at the one time.

"But it was an experiment that succeeded excellently well, and so has this idea of the United Church of Canada, now in operation for the past five years, succeeded excellently well.

"But we are handling here the eternal and spiritual things. It will not matter tuppence a century from now whether you ever achieved a large bank account or attained to fame and position. Christian friends, it will matter always whether your life was linked with God, and whether your soul was given to the work of the church of Jesus Christ.

"There is work for the Christian church to do. We are too often moved by appearance and fancy that it is only the big bank and the large manufacturing concern that matter. And we forget the greatest of all things in the world — the changes that may be wrought in men's lives by lifting their motives up to God. That is the work of the Christian church.

Alluding to the hardships suffered often in the West, the speaker cited several instances; of the man who had fifty bushels of wheat from his season's crop. "He bought a coffee grinder. They will eat their wheat in that household this year." Or of the man who took a load of barley to be threshed and after paying elevator and threshing charges, had fifty cents left. Or of the third case worst of all, the man with a crop of low-grade Number 4 wheat, who, after paying similar charges, found that he owed $3.50.

To the woman of the West who doubted God's friendliness toward them, he himself had replied that God was not interested in making well-to-do farmers or rich merchants. He was only interested in making men Christ-like and often had a hard job to do it.

Harking back to the pages of history, Rt. Rev. Dr. Oliver spoke of Jacques Cartier, the sea-captain of St. Malo, waiting in his caravel for friendly winds, and saying: "I believe that by God's help we will sail further." "That would make a fine motto for Canada," declared the Moderator, going on to describe the fleur-de-lis decked cross with which Cartier took the land of Canada for the King of Heaven as well as for the King of France.

"It was God's will that this land of Canada should be taken in His name and down through the ages, one of the achievements of the Dominion has been the conquest of the wilderness in His name.

"It would make a wonderful theme for a symphony; this history of ours, a national epic set to music, with the boat-songs of the voyageurs, the staccato note of the axe, the song of the lonely wife of the immigrant on the prairies and the creaking of the old Red River carts, the dorne of the engine as the plane wings its way over the tundras of the North Land, the pick of the prospector ringing on the pre-Cambrian strata of Hudson Bay, and, as a constant motif, the sound of the churchbells throughout the wide Dominion."

Missionary Heritage

In eloquent phrases, the speaker pictured the struggles and sufferings of those early missionaries of many faiths: The tortured Jesuit priests from France who were lately canonized by the Pope ("I think of the words of Broebeuf when he said that this land would never be won for Christ without the shedding of martyred blood"); the courageous Isaac Jogues, who, when he was mutilated beyond the remembrance of his friends by the savage Iroquois and returned to France, only came back once more to fall by the hand of a murderous servant; that noble Anglican missionary who spent forty years of his life in the far Arctic wastes, to die finally and be buried in that bleak land, where his only distraction had been the study of Syriac in the cold evening hours; the Wesleyan missionary, James Evans, who went to Norway House and created there the Cree syllabic for use among the Indians, who took soot for ink, birch-bark for paper, and the wrappings of tea chests for lead; the noted missionary, Robert Rendell, for whose return an Indian prayed loudly in his tepee many years later and for whom Mount Rendell, near Calgary, is named; the Presbyterian missionary from Oakville, James Nesbitt, who went out to Prince Albert when it was called a foreign missionary station, who established the Presbyterian church on the prairies, built the first school house there, founded Prince Albert and pioneered agriculture in the west, to die in 1873, two weeks after his wife had passed away, in the district of old Kildonan, after a six weeks' journey from Prince Albert.

The contribution of Nesbitt to the life of the province may be judged by the fact that in 1869, the western crop of grain was 600 bushels while in 1915, the total grain crop of Saskatchewan was greater than that of all the rest of Canada combined.

Then the Moderator passed to a comparison of present-day efforts as compared with those pioneer missionary endeavors. He said that in the west, in the southern part of his own province of Saskatchewan, 29 manses were untenanted, 19 churches were closed, there were 15 fewer students in the field than two years ago, and 52 preaching stations had been closed within the past two years.

Student preachers were often discouraged in their work, in their little mission stations and their tiny manses.

"There has to be a larger service and a large conception of our duty. We would have gone over the top if each of us had given per day the price of a Toronto Globe. We go riding about with our gasoline. We have not yet learned to dedicate to Christ the frivolities of life. It won't do to pitch as a dole to God some of our chicken feed. What He requires is the finest of the wheat. It is not congratulation but repentance that we need.

"I am thinking too, of our rescue work at Vancouver, Calgary, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal and the Maritimes, where girls who have gone down the way of shame are being helped back to hope and purity and Christ. Would not any one of you give the equivalent of the price of a newspaper or a chocolate bar or chewing gum per week, to win some poor soul back to Christ?

"And I am thinking of the 600,000 little children in our Sabbath schools and the boys in our theological colleges who are training to go out and replace the war-scarred veterans in the fight for Christ.

"If you falter, the chord in the music will fail. We will not then be servants who shall serve Him and then reign forever and ever."

U. S. Resident Given 5 Year Prison Term

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 31 (C.P.) — Five years in Portsmouth Penitentiary at Kingston, was the sentence passed on Albert Kurtinitis to-day by Magistrate W. A. Smith. He recently pleaded guilty to a charge of being in possession of a dangerous weapon.

Kurtinitis was arrested when he visited Essex County jail at Sandwich to see Charles Jankauskas, a prisoner. Turkeys, working on a tip, found a revolver and a package of ammunition in his possession. Kurtinitis and Jenkauskas were tried at the Assizes on charges of conspiracy to break jail and conspiracy to do bodily harm, and received concurrent terms of seven years on each count. The five-year term is to be concurrent with the Supreme Court sentence. The two men were residents of United States and Jenkauskas is reported to have a lengthy police record there.

TORONTO MINISTER CLAIMS BIBLE MEANINGLESS ASIDE FROM CHURCH

Father Stewart States Old Testament Was Holy Book of Jewish People.

AT CHURCH CONGRESS

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 31 — The Bible, according to Rev. C. Cecil Stuart of Toronto, "is meaningless apart from the Church."

Speaking on "the scriptures of the body of Christ" before the fifth Catholic Congress of the Episcopal Church here yesterday, Father Stuart differentiated between the Old and New Testaments, pointing out that the Old Testament was the holy book of the Jewish people, but that "The scriptures of the body of Christ are the New Testament."

Members of Ancient Church.

"The writers of the Old Testament," he said, "were men who were members of God's ancient church of Israel, inspired by the Holy Ghost to set down God's relevation of himself and his nature to his children, and the record of God's dealings with his sons both in prosperity and in adversity.

"Similarly, the New Testament is a collection of books written by men who were members of the church of Christ and who, under the inspiration of the same holy spirit, were led to record for prosperity the salient points in the life and teaching of their Divine Master and subsequent history of the growth of his church in the world, both in its labors for the salvation of souls and also in its conflict with heathenism and the powers of evil."

The gospels, the speaker said, were written in response to a natural desire to have an authoritative record of the contents of Christ's life and work. The epistles were letters written by the early leaders of the church to deal with some special emergency.

"The church then comes before the bible," he continued. "The New Testament bears witness to the already existing life of the church."

Disappointments

Pointing out that the writers of the New Testament had no idea that they were writing for posterity and saw no necessity for elucidating certain points which have since become problems of the church, Father Stuart continued, "Those of us then who turn to the New Testament in the expectation that we shall find in its pages full authority and full directions for public worship or the ministry or the sacramental life are doomed beforehand to a complete disappointment. We are approaching the sacred writings without an intelligent understanding as to the circumstances under which they were written. The purpose of the New Testament is not primarily apologetical, but rather it is essentially pastoral, the work of many shepherds who desire to lead their sheep to the fountain of living water and the pastures of the blessed."

COAL FREIGHT DOWN TO $6.75 PER TON.

OTTAWA, Oct. 31 (C.P.).—Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Mines, announces that as a special measure to assist unemployment in the coal fields of Alberta, the Board of Railway Commissioners had authorized the movement of Alberta coal to Ontario at a freight rate of $6.75 per ton, to be effective from October 25 to December 1 of this year.

Assailant Fires on Czar Boris' Train

BUCHAREST, Roumania, October 31 (C.P.). — A Sofia despatch published here to-day reported that the royal train with Boris and his bride aboard, was fired on last night at the Manole Station between Bourgas and Sofia.

An unidentified man fired seven shots, one of which slightly wounded a soldier of Boris' bodyguard, while another bullet struck the rifle of a second soldier. The assailant escaped in the darkness.

RUSSIAN WHEAT CAUSES LOSES

Proves Dearer in England Than Canadian Wheat When Cleaned.

PARLIAMENTARY DEBATE.

(By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The dumping of Russian wheat had a prominent part in the Parliamentary debate at Westminster yesterday.

The Conservatives pointed to the heavy loss occasioned on the part of the agricultural community by the dumping of wheat in British ports regardless of price and asked whether the President of the Board of Trade would not take steps to regulate importations in accordance with requirements.

G. M. Gillett, M.P., one of the Parliamentary Secretaries of the Board, replied that the Government had no power to prohibit or restrict the importation of cereals into Great Britain by reason of the prices at which they were offered and, he added, the Government did not contemplate taking any such power.

A member suggested that Russian exports competed directly, in type, with British wheat and that was why the British price had declined so rapidly.

"The suggestion is quite wrong," replied Rt. Hon. Christopher Addison, Minister of Agriculture. "Russian wheat does not compete with British wheat, but it does compete with Grade 2 or Grade 3 Manitoba Hard. The Minister of Agriculture here told the experience of one British miller who bought Manitoba wheat and so-called good Russian wheat and found that, when the dirt and seeds, etc., were taken out of the Russian, this wheat proved dearer than the Canadian.

OIL NEAR HAMILTON

7-YEAR SENTENCE FOR HARRY LONGE

Jury Out Two Hours Before Returning Guilty of Manslaughter Verdict.

KILLED E. YEOMANS.

WALKERTON, Oct. 31. — Harry Longe, fishermen of Southampton, last night was found guilty of manslaughter, and sentenced to serve seven years in Portsmouth Penitentiary for the death of Earl Yeomans, also of Southampton, near that village last April.

After deliberating two hours, the jury returned a verdict of manslaughter, with a strong recommendation for mercy. Mr. Justice Wright then sentenced Longe for slaying Yeomans with a stone on a lonely road near the village.

Lillie Longe, his sister-in-law, closed her evidence, after telling the court how she had been at the spot where the fatal meeting had taken place, but testified she did not see the blow struck.

NEW QUAKE HITS CITY OF ANCONA

TROOPS SURROUND DISTRICT

ANCONA, Italy, Oct. 31. —(AP)— This region was shaken again today by an earthquake, almost 24 hours after the tremors which took a number of lives and did considerable property damage. Today the damage was less. A few bricks and chimneys fell at Senigallia.

It appeared today that the total number of dead in yesterday's quake would approach 50. The police chief at Senigallia stated there were 35 dead persons there and nearly 300 injured. In Ancona several persons seriously injured died during the night. It was expected that other casualties would be found in the villages lying around the two cities.

Senigallia has all the appearance of a war zone town. Carabinieri and Black shirt Fascist militia have surrounded it and are keeping out all persons except inhabitants and rescue workers.

Attempted Kidnapping Is Foiled at Montreal

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 30. (CP) A daring attempt to kidnap a wealthy Montreal doctor was foiled last night, it was stated at detective headquarters to-day. Four men were arrested at the time and another taken into custody to-day. It was stated that the intended victim Dr. Paul E. Lalannen was to have been held for ransom.

Liquor Store Profits Decrease $500,000

REGINA, Sask., Oct. 31.—(CP)— Government liquor store profits during the six month period ending Sept. 30 decreased more than $500,000 dollars from profits of the same period in 1929, figures issued today revealed. Profits for the period this year totalled $79,479.33, compared with $1,326,328.42 for the six months ending Sept. 30, 1929, and $1,072,089.36 for the intervening period ending March 31, 1930.

NO DEPORTATION FOR LONDON GIRL

Miss Ellen Naylor Ordered Sent Back to Woodstock Hospital.

INVESTIGATION PENDING.

OTTAWA, Ont., October 31 (C.P.). —Orders have been issued by Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Immigration, to return Miss Ellen Naylor of London to the Ontario Hospital at Woodstock. Miss Naylor, whose deportation was ordered by the Ontario Department of Health, some days ago, has been held at Montreal pending final disposition of her case.

In a brief statement to the press the Minister of Immigration said the latest development was taken at the request of Dr. John M. Robb, Provincial Minister of Health. Miss Naylor, the statement declared, will remain at the Woodstock Institution "pending further investigation."

Mr. Gordon refrained from making any statement on either the case of Alice Ainsworth or Alice Barton, both of whom were deported from Hamilton by order of the Federal Department, and who have since reached England.

TRY NEW METHOD IN EMIGRATION

Yorkshire Will Send Groups of Young Men to Embark on Genuine Mixed Farming.

IN WESTERN CANADA.

LONDON, Oct. 31. —(CP)— Lord Middleton, who recently toured Canada as Chairman of the Yorkshire Voluntary Migration Committee, says the scheme for a co-operative effort for settling young men in large groups to embark on genuine mixed farming was received in Canada with warm approval. One well-known head of an organization which has settled some thousands of young immigrants on the land, said: "The scheme strikes exactly the right note; (a) proper supervision; (b) community life; (c) opportunity of ownership under the most favorable circumstances; (d) a chance of matrimony reasonably soon; (e) a right sort of farming rather than a gamble and land starvation."

"If the first try-out meets with the success that we confidently expect," said Lord Middleton, "then there is no reason why it should not be expanded to any extent. A substantial area in Canada would come into cultivation, and we would have a first-rate outlet for the best of the youth of our country whose prospects in England are moderate in the extreme.

"Let it not be thought that I am decrying existing schemes of land settlement. I am satisfied that the great majority of those whom we have sent out in the last few years are happy and prosperous, and in far better case than they would have been at home." Lord Middleton expresses the opinion that the prestige of British settlers has risen considerably in Canada in recent years.

Commander J. B. Adams, and Mr. Charlesworth, a coal owner, both of whom have interested themselves in the scheme for emigrating boys from Yorkshire to Canada, made an interesting joint talk which was broadcast. Mr. Charlesworth paid a tribute to the type of Ontario farmer with whom most of the boys made their homes. In almost every case he found the boys treated as members of the family, and being well taught in practical farming.

He could not help reflecting on the physical improvement of North Country boys after sometimes only a few months of Canadian fare. He mentioned the case of a Yorkshire mining family who had previously lived in a dilapidated cottage, with two boys and a girl out of work, and the father on short time, and contrasted that life with the happy state in which they were living now at Ivanhoe, Ont. Another point mentioned was the interest shown by all sorts of Canadian people that the boys on their farms should save money, and so qualify for a Government loan by the aid of which they could buy their own farms.

Maritimes Resent Treatment Received

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Oct. 31. — Would the Maritime provinces be better out of confederation. This was the question which Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, Premier of New Brunswick said he had been forced to ask himself, in view of the treatment which Central Canada was meting out to the three eastern Provinces. Premier Baxter was voicing his protest against the attitude of A. O. Dawson, Montreal, President of Canadian Cottons, Limited, in closing the Cornwall mill in Saint John, at a conference between city officials and business men and Canadian Cottons representatives. The stand of Premier Baxter was endorsed at a meeting of the Council of the Saint John Board of Trade.

CONFIDENCE IN NEAR FUTURE OF CANADA'S INDUSTRIAL LIFE EXPRESSED BY GUEST SPEAKER

M. J. McHenry, Head of Toronto Sales Office, Addresses C.G.E. Foremen.

HONOR A. E. METHERELL.

Fine Note of Optimism is Expressed By C. A. Salmonsen.

Strong conviction of confidence in the immediate future of Canada's industrial and economic life, especially as it applies to the electrical industry, was the feature of an instructive and inspiring address delivered last evening before members of the Foremen's Association of the Canadian General Electric Company Limited, by M. J. McHenry, manager of the Company's Toronto district sales office.

The meeting held in the club dining room at the Empress Hotel, drew a large attendance, the majority of those present being superintendents and foreman of the plant.

J. M. G. Wilson, assistant general foreman presided, and in welcoming the large number of guests made special mention of several men who had recently been accepted into the association. He stated that this was the inaugural meeting of the winter season, and the committee have drawn up a schedule which he felt would meet with general approval.

A pleasing item on the program was the presentation of a handsome cabinet smokers' stand to A. E. Metherel, foreman of the blacksmith shop, who is shortly retiring on superannuation, after having served with the C.G.E. Company for a period of thirty-seven years.

Presentation Made.

J. F. Morris of the annealing department was called upon to read the address, which paid tribute to the sterling quality of Mr. Metherel. It read in part as follows: "The Foremen's Association of the C.G.E. Company Limited have assembled here to-night, not only to eat, drink and be merry, but to do honor to one of our most illustrious members in the person of Mr. A. E. Metherel .....You, sir, are one of our charter members and no function of the association seems complete without your presence. We all admire the way you have stuck to your little corner; nothing seemed to budge you from that spot except it was in the interests of the Company. We ask you to accept on behalf of our association this small token of our regard and with it our best wishes for your future happiness and contentment." Signed on behalf of the Association: J. G. M. Wilson."

Mr. Metherel somewhat overwhelmed by the sincerity of his colleagues, made a brief and fitting reply.

Further presentations of waffle irons were then made to R. E. Knox and A. E. Jagger. There was also a waffle iron for P. B. Munro who was not present. These gifts were made to mark the enlistment of these three men in "the ranks of the benedicts", to use the chairman's phrase, and with the congratulations and good wishes of all members of the association.

C. A. Salmonsen, general superintendent of the C.G.E. Company, in the course of a short address, which was marked by an underlying note of optimism and sincerity stated: "Our sales force has been working hard and has obtained a larger percentage of available business than ever before. This can be reflected,, he said, "in our good service and quality products."

He spoke of the many changes in the plant, of how the concrete road had recently been laid in the grounds, and running water placed throughout the buildings. Such improvements are going to benefit each worker in the plant. He wondered how many people realise the amount of money the Company is putting into such improvements, and gave some idea when he mentioned that the sum runs up into six figures.

Department Almost Ready.

"The new switchboard department is now almost complete and we should have steam in there by next week", he explained, incidentally mentioning the fire hazards which face the plant each year at this

Oklahoma Oil Gusher Is Threatening City

OKLAHOMA City, Okla., Oct. 31. —Increasing its flow of oil to an estimated 110,000 barrels daily, a wild gush threatened Oklahoma City to-day. Hundreds of families in the south-eastern part of the city went without breakfast, as fire authorities enforced strict no-fire rules from Seventh street south.

The well, No. 1 C. E. Stout of the Morgan Petroleum Company, on the Canadian river just east of the city limits, also was making an estimated 100,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily. It had blown wild for 12 hours.

JAMES DYER AND HIS FAMILY FIRST SETTLERS AT GARDEN HILL

Interesting Facts Concerning History of Cavan Township Revealed.

ONE INDUSTRY ESTABLISHED

Jubilee services in connection with the fiftieth anniversary of the erection and dedication of the former Methodist, now United Church, at Garden Hill, which were held recently, bring to light some interesting history concerning the founding of Garden Hill village.

In the year 1818 James Dyer and family, consisting of his wife, three sons and two daughters, came from Orono and settled there, and all became worthy citizens. One son—William Pirritte—in after years became Rev. Dr. W. P. Dyer, principal of Albert College, Belleville.

Following the building of Hope Woollen Mills and the establishment of industry, the village of Garden Hill, came into being. Mr. Dyer, a zealous church worker, soon became active in organising a branch of the Methodist Episcopal church with which the family had been associated in Orono. In his work he was assisted by N. E. Scott, Richard Thornton, Richard Beer and others. A building formerly used as an Orange hall was secured. It was remodelled and enlarged, and made fit for the purpose intended, and served that purpose for several year.

As time passed and the congregation became larger the need for a new church became apparent. During the summer and fall of 1878 this matter was fully discussed and finally decided in favor of a new church. Early in 1879 plans were drawn and preparations made for active building operations in the spring following.

Contract Let.

A building committee was appointed and the contract for the building was let to McGimsie Brothers, of Oakwood. They were former Port Hope boys, who soon got busy and with a staff of competent workmen rushed the work to completion in the early fall, when the opening and dedicatory services were held, conducted by Bishop Carman of the M. E. Church. At the opening service, one Dr. Ives was engaged to solicit subscriptions, who made such a convincing and compelling appeal to the people that they responded nobly with cash and "promises to pay" that the church was opened nominally free from debt.

Many and various changes have taken place since then. "Men have come and men have gone, but still the work is going on."

The early history of Presbyterianism is to some extent an unwritten record in the district. It is known to many of the older inhabitants that more than ninety years ago services were conducted at Perrytown and other places by Rev. Mr. Thornton of Whitby, Dr. Ormiston of Newcastle district, and others. Some years later Dr. Ormiston went to New York City and became one of the foremost preachers there.

Regular Services.

About 1842 more regular services were established by Rev. John Cassie of Port Hope. Mr. Cassie continued in the work until the close of the fifties when Mr. Stuart took charge. In 1860 Rev. R. J. Scott came and remained till 1865, followed by Rev. Wm. Lockhead, who resigned in 1869. In 1870 Rev. Alexander Urquhart was called and remained until 1872. Rev. William Hodnet was the next minister. He continued in charge until August, 1880, when, in consequence of his appointment to a mission field in Manitoba, his resignation was, with some regret, accepted.

During the summer days of 1879 the question of a new church building was fully talked over. On November 16, 1879, a congregational meeting was called and met in the church at Perrytown. During that meeting it was resolved, on the motion of Dr. R. A. Corbett, "That in the opinion of this congregation the time has come when we should proceed to erect a new church." It was further moved by James Hamill and seconded by Wm. Davidson, "That we build the new church in the vicinity of Garden Hill."

At a subsequent meeting a building committee was appointed with James Hamill, chairman; William Seaton, secretary, and Robert Hamill, treasurer. Of this committee two are still alive. One in the person of William Little, of Boisevain, Manitoba, now 83 years of age; the other, Samuel J. Waddell, now residing in the town of Simcoe, Ontario, and who was present at jubilee services.

Through the generosity of the late William Seaton, a building lot was secured. The excavation of the basement was done by voluntary labor, and, through the kindness and liberality of the whole people, 102,000 bricks were brought to the place where they could be used when needed.

A building contract was let to McGimsie Brothers, of Oakwood, who built the M. E. Church in 1879. Two members of the firm, Thomas and George, took an active part in the work of the building, "Tom" having charge of the construction.

The brick laying was done by McGill and McCurdy of Port Hope. Of all the artizans engaged in the building of the church, three are left, who worked together just fifty years ago, namely: Richard Beer, now 82 years of age, who was present at the jubilee service. He assisted as carpenter. Of the painters, two remain, John Little, of Port Hope, and T. M. Little, now postmaster at Garden Hill, who commenced his career as a painter and decorator. On several occasions he has had charge of redecoration and painting of the church.

During September, 1880, it was thought well to hold a banquet in the unfinished building to do honor to the departing minister, Rev. Mr. Hodnet, and family, who were leaving for Birtle, Manitoba.

The proper opening and dedication of the church was successfully carried out at Christmas by Rev. Dr. Armstrong, of Ottawa, an old Millbrook boy.

During a vacancy of two years the pulpit was supplied by many probationers and students from Knox and Queen's colleges, and, in 1882, Rev. W. H. Jamieson was inducted. He remained for eight years and was followed by Mr. Bloodsworth, who in turn gave way to Rev. Mr. Johnston who remained for twenty years, followed by Dr. W. D. Lee, for about six years. Then came Rev. Mr. Gervan, during whose ministry church union was accomplished. In June, 1925, the present efficient and esteemed pastor, Rev. J. F. Lane, was placed in charge.

Time has failed to tell of the many good men and women, who, through faith, patience and hard work, established the church in the community, but it stands flourishing to-day as a monument to their indomitable Christian spirit.

RELEGATED WAR TO SCRAPHEAPS

In International Habits and Mutual Trust Lies Abolition of Strife.

SAYS PRINCE OF WALES.

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 30 (C.P.). — The Prince of Wales to-day told delegates to the Imperial Conference that in the establishment of international habits of co-operation and mutual trust lies the way to the abolition of war. He spoke at a banquet to the delegates in the Guild Hall.

"Britain and her Dominions," he said, "have solved the problem of disarmament among themselves and relegated war to the scrap heap. Is it too much to hope that the other three-quarters of the world, despite differences in language, ancient enmities and mistrust, may tread the same path?"

The approach of Amistice Day, he said, recalls that awful period when the British Empire demonstrated to the world its own complete solidarity as the greatest brotherhood the world has ever known, and its readiness to help in the creation of a similar brotherhood among all the nations.

"There remain those who profess a disbelief in the ability of the League of Nations to prevent war, but what," he asked, "have they to offer as an alternative for the establishment of peace and the rebuilding of world prosperity?"

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Alice Michaelis

GUIDANCE

This much I know, each day I have been led Through calm or tempest, triumph or defeat,
And after clouds and cruel winds have sped,
I have found tranquil skies and gardens sweet.
Not mine to plan my course, not mine to ask
For favors which to others are denied;
But I am grateful for each humble task
Which keeps me still serene and satisfied.

And I am happy for the common ways
Which I with all my fellow-creatures tread,
As side by side we travel through the days
Each to a goal he knows not, safely led.
Through hidden paths, and plans none understand,
I go, secure, my hand within His hand.

MILLBROOK LODGE INSTALS OFFICERS

District Deputy I.O.O.F. President From Peterborough Has Charge of Ceremonies.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 31 (Examiner Correspondence).—The regular meeting of Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, held in the I.O.O.F. hall on Tuesday, October 28, had as a feature of special interest the annual installation of officers, the ceremony being conducted by District Deputy President Sister Gertrude Londerville, of Peterborough, and her staff, the District Deputy Marshal's office being filled by Sister B. Watt, Past President of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario.

The business part of the meeting was completed before the visiting officials from Golden Link Lodge, No. 81, Peterborough, arrived, and the ritual in connection with the installation, with its strenuous demands upon memory work so far as the District Deputy President is concerned, was admirably carried through in every detail, the list of officers filling the various chairs for the ensuing year including:

J.P.N.G., Sister M. Armstrong; N.G., Sister Isabel Thorndyke; V.G., Sister Lila Whyte; Chaplain, Sister Annie Earle; Warden, Sister Thelma Ball; Conductor, Sister Lillian Syer; R.S.N.G., Sister Mabel Fallis, P.N.G.; L.S.N.G., Sister Irene Fallis, P.N.G.; R.S.V.G., Sister Caroline Harkness, P.N.G.; L.S.V.G., Sister Jean Syer; I.G., Sister Annie Ball; O.G., Sister Annie Larmer.

Following installation, brief addresses were made by Sister Londerville, D.D.P.; Sister Bertha Watt and Sister Elena Booth, both of whom are Past Presidents of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario; and by a number of other visiting sisters from Golden Link Rebekah Lodge, as well as Brothers H. A. Fallis, Past D.D.G.M.; P. I. Bentley, P.G., and local members.

An event of peculiar interest was the presentation of the Past Noble Grand's jewel to Sister Maud Armstrong, the District Deputy President, making an appropriate address, and expressing her personal pleasure and honor in pinning on the beautiful emblem of office.

Adjournment was made to the dining-hall, after the formal closing of the lodge, the tables being most attractive, centred with runners of the Rebekah colors, pink and green, with floral decorations of rosebuds in bolders of clear crystal, lighted candles in the lodge colors, and the serviettes also carrying out the shades peculiar to the organization.

A pleasant hour about the supper tables, with the social committee from Millbrook Lodge, No. 308, I.O.O.F., serving, was followed by progressive euchre in the hall upstairs, the prizes going to Miss Lila Whyte for the lady's first, and to Mrs. C. Thorndyke, who played in a gentleman's place and headed the score; the consolations went to Mrs. Arthur and Mrs. H. A. Fallis, one of these also acting as partner for a lady, the gentlemen being in the minority among the players.

There were at least two car-loads from Peterborough among the guests of the evening, and another visitor who also received hearty welcome was Sister Rhea Thorne, P.N.G., of Raeboro, who still retains her membership in Golden Sheaf Lodge.

Keene Fowl Supper Proves Big Success

KEENE, Oct. 31.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—On Wednesday evening, October 29th, the United church held their annual fowl supper. It was a perfect moonlight night and consequently the attendance was very large, over 700 popele being served. The tables were decorated in Halloween colors of black and orange with button chrysanthemums of all colors as centrepieces. The men of the congregation were most active and lent their loyal support to the ladies in every way.

The supper was in the basement of the church and was followed by a concert in the town hall. A humorous play entitled "All a Mistake" was presented by the young people of the church and was most entertaining. Ivan Fletcher did extraordinarily well as the law-de-dah English dude, Dorothy Gainor, as usual, brought down the house in her characterization of the simpering old maid, while Stuart Lang quite dominated the scene, not only by his huge presence but by the extreme naturalness of his acting. Besides these the cast included Misses Mabel McIntyre, Isabel Davis, Kathleen Nelson, Messrs. Arnold Nelson and Dick Davis.

Between acts, Miss Margaret Bryce sang Danny Boy and Miss Edith Elmhirst recited the woes of an impatient stenographer, both of which numbers were heartily applauded.

The Lovable Fragrance

In what more perfect way can the vivacity of youthful beauty find expression than in the winsome breath of the Yardley Lavender? In all the hundred and sixty years since the good Mr. Yardley first rejoiced Society with it, there has not come another perfume of such gay young charm—a fragrance of such soothing solace to the weary and the sorry and the sick.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY HELD AT LAKEFIELD

Members of Anglican Young People's Association Enjoy Jolly Social Evening.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 31 (Examiner Correspondence). — The Hallowe'en party of the A.Y.P.A. held on Monday evening in the Parish Hall was a great success in spite of wind and weather. Those not in fancy or comic costume were fined and those in costume were, of course in the majority. Mrs. Walter Chappell and Laurence Charlton won the prizes for the best costumes.

The evening was spent in games and contests with the daintiest of refreshments served during the evening. Novelty bowling was a feature with Miss Colleen Junkin and Jack Woodhouse winners. Fortune telling was also a feature with lots of fun accompanying.

Anniversary Services

The anniversary services of Regent Street United Church are being held on Sunday, Nov. 9th with the Rev. A. E. Moorhouse, of St. James' Church Peterborough as the guest speaker. The Ladies' Aid is holding the annual dinner on Thanksgiving night with a concert following. The ladies are also holding a bazaar on December 5th.

MRS. WILLIAM ALLAN WILL GIVE ADDRESS

Presbyterian Church W. M. S. Will Hold Thanksgiving Service on November 6.

WARSAW, Oct. 31 (Examiner Correspondence)—Mrs. William Allan, of St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, will address the members of the Warsaw Presbyterian W.M.S. at its thanksgiving service held in the Presbyterian Church on Thursday afternoon, November 6th.

Mrs. Allan is a very interesting speaker and a cordial invitation has been extended to members of other organization and the community to be present at the meeting.

Held First Meeting

The members of the Union Y.P.S. of Warsaw held their first meeting on Tuesday evening in the Presbyterian Church, the president, Ivan Drain, being in the chair.

After the business was transacted, the report of the convention in Lakefield was given by Miss Cora Drain and Bryan Thomas. Miss Mary Rose gave a paper on the topic "The Young People and the Church."

Games were enjoyed later and the meeting concluded in the usual manner. The evening's program was arranged by Miss Della Tucker and Gerald Crowe.

The next meeting of the Y.P.S. will be held on Tuesday evening, November 11, in the United Church.

To Give Address

Mrs. Sargent will give a report of the Temperance Convention held in Lakefield at a special meeting of the W.M.S. and all women interested in the cause are urged to attend.

The Warsaw W.M.S. ladies have been invited by the members of the Zion Women's Association to hold a meeting in Zion Church on Wednesday, Nov. 12th, afterwards attending the bazaar to be held in the Hall.

Preparing Program

The members of the Women's Institute are preparing a good program of local talent in connection with the box social to be held next Friday.

More delicious...more healthful...Muffets better-toasted whole wheat biscuits

THE golden ribbon of whole wheat that is a Muffet, is baked through and through and toasted to a tempting crispness. It gives a more delicious natural flavour. No other whole wheat biscuit like it.

Nourishing as well as delicious, because the whole grain of the wheat is used to make Muffets... nothing removed.

Muffets bring you proteins, carbohydrates, minerals and bran, so essential to health. Study the Health Facts printed here.

And now by a patented scientific process, there is stored up in every Muffet the health effect of 20 minutes' exposure of the body to noonday summer sun, or to 3 hours of winter sunshine.

You can have the health-building values of sunshine just by eating a Muffet. Serve now, when the ultra-violet rays of natural sunshine are only 1/9 as strong as in summer. Keep the good health you got from summer sunshine by getting the sun vitamin D in Muffets.

Health Facts About Muffets

1. For growth—The proteins in Muffets are far more efficient than the proteins of ordinary fine cereals.
2. For bones and teeth—4 times as much phosphorus in Muffets as in white flour. 50% more lime than even in ordinary whole wheat bread.
3. For your blood—6 times as much iron in Muffets as in cornmeal or rice.
4. For well-being—Roughage—in the exact proportion intended by nature is in every Muffet.
5. Vitamins—4 important vitamins, one being the new "Sunshine" vitamin never before obtainable in cereal.

Muffets are irradiated under the Steenbock Process of which The Quaker Oats Company is sole licensee for cereals.

Under the auspices of the Literary Society of the Catholic Women's League, a very successful Hallowe'en bridge party was held last evening in the hall of the Conservatory of Music. Forty-seven tables of cards were played, the prize winners being determined by a concealed score of 2540. Those nearest to the total were Miss Bernardine MacPherson and Mr. E. Foley. Consolation prizes went to Miss Genevieve Murray and Mr. Don McKinnon. Mrs. W. Hickey was general convenor of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. J. W. Geraghty, Mrs. J. Bowen, Mrs. F. J. Overend, Mrs. J. F. O'Brien, Mrs. J. Rutherford, Mrs. E. Riley, Mrs. L. Picard, Mrs. J. McDonald, Mrs. J. J. Southern, Mrs. R. Irwin, Mrs. J. A. Stewart, Mrs. A. C. Wolff, Mrs. J. V. McIntyre, Mrs. S. Fitzpatrick. The Catholic Women's League was represented by the president, Mrs Myles Henry, and Mrs. W. J. Young. Decorations were in the capable hands of Miss Annie Simons and were carried out with Hallowe'en novelty cutouts and pumpkins holding lighted candles. During the evening, Mr. E. V. Morphet sang, accompanied by Miss Agnes Grant, and Mr. J. H. Primeau gave a humorous monologue.

The Catholic Woman's League was represented by President Mrs. M. Henry and Vice-President Mrs. William Young.

In charge of the members of the Intermediate Class at Nicholls Hospital, the Hallowe'en party held last night in the Nurses' Residence was a very jolly affair. Given for the nurses in training and their friends, the evening was a very pleasant one taking the form of a costume dance, which is an annual event, to which each pupil nurse invites a friend. Judges of the outfits were members of the house staff and prizes were awarded to Miss Anna McDonagh and Mr. Harold Coleman, in the fancy section, the former representing a Colonial lady and the latter a Spanish Cavalier. Prizes in the comic section went to Miss Vera Gilroy, as an Old Lady, and Mr. Gordon Morrison, representing "Oft in the Stilly Night." Excellent music for dancing was provided by Mowry-Steer and Their Silver Collegians. The prize for the lucky number dance went to Miss Nora Smith and Mr Roy Taylor. The decorations were very effective, in the Hallowe'en fashion, and the table, presided over by Mrs. E. M. Leeson and Miss Ellela Walsh, was done in orange and black with novelty paper baskets, yellow candles, and a centrepiece of marigolds bedded in an orange and crepe paper basket.

The Big gymnasium at the Young Women's Christian Association echoed with laughter and fun last night on the occasion of the annual Senior party of the Association. Attended by over two hundred members and friends of the "Y," the affair was jolly and wholesome from start to finish. It began with a ghost walk through the subterranean passages of the house, where the visitors were led by ghostly attendants and finally were ushered into the gymnasium, where a program of music and dancing and races was enjoyed. A broomstick dance was a highlight of the program, also a caterpillar and apple race. Music was provided by Miss Mildred Hetherington at the piano. Fortunes were told by Mrs. M. Fitzsimmons, who also recounted a creepy ghost story with lowered lights. The Junior dancing class members came in to give a very effective witch dance, and supper was served in the Domestic Science room on the lower floor, cards of admission dividing the guests into three groups, with cutouts representing pumpkins, pixies and goblins. Refreshments took the form of doughnuts and coffee and the table was arranged with Hallowe'en novelties and yellow candles in black satin glass holders. Decorations were also in the seasonal mode. The big entrance hall had a large clown over the doorway with a pumpkin head and streamers for limbs. Over the lights in the hall were huge square yellow boxes with cutout faces, while the gymnasium lights were shaded with ghosts made from white sheets, with black features. On the walls were panels of orange and black crepe paper. The judging of the costumes was an interesting section of the program, with Mrs. J. F. Allan, Mrs. H. Beal, and Miss Annie Wood as adjudicators. Prizes went to the following: Prettiest, Katherine Millard as Lady in Pink; comic, Miss Edith Stinson as Hard Times; original, Olive Rowe as a Pirate, Gertrude Fry as a Green Lady, Gertrude Crawford as a Quaker. Honorable mention was accorded Mrs. M. Fitzsimmons as a Gypsy, Margaret Pearson as a Checkerboard, Marjorie Simmons as Hallowe'en, Eleanor Smith as a Chef, Miriam Gardner as pierrot, and Leone Magee as a Cowboy.

"Skinny" Sick Father Gains 15 Lbs. in 3 Weeks, New Pep

ANSELMO, ALTA.—Mr. E. Kother says: "I was so run-down, weak, nervous, couldn't work. Then tried Ironized Yeast. Gained 15 lbs. in 3 weeks. Regained my health."

"Skinny," weak, nervous people amazed at gains of 5 to 15 lbs in 3 weeks. Ugly hollows, bony limbs fill out. Blemished skin clears. New pep first day. Constipation, indigestion, "nerves" go overnight. Avoids danger of serious ills.

Ironized Yeast is two great tonics in one. Weight-building brewer's yeast plus strengthening, blood-enriching iron. Many times more effective than unmedicated yeast. Results in half the time.

Don't be "skinny," weak, nervous. Take these pleasant little tablets. No yeasty taste; no gas. If not delighted with quick gains, manufacturer refunds money. Get Ironized Yeast from druggist today. Feel great tomorrow. New pounds quick.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Do you think it is well for a person to always be on the winning side—whether it be in connection with a game, an argument, or a contest of some sort?

• • • • • • •

No, I don't think it is. It is much better to be on the losing side sometimes. It teaches us to be good sports.

• • • • • • •

There are some people who have been on the winning side so often that when defeat comes to them they cannot meet it—it breaks them.

• • • • • • •

When you are defeated, have the courage to acknowledge the fact. It is no disgrace. I admire the person who admits his defeat or his mistake, in a sportsmanlike way.

• • • • • • •

And it is no disgrace to make a mistake. I remember when I went to school one of my teachers said: "The only person who never makes a mistake is the one who never does anything" and that has stayed with me ever since.

• • • • • • •

We cannot always ride on the crest of a wave. There are times when we will be far from the top and it is good for us that we are.

• • • • • • •

But there is a supreme moment for us all. There is a time when we achieve something we have been striving for and at this time our supreme moment comes.

• • • • • • •

This is very well illustrated by watching a wave. No doubt you have watched the waves of the sea or the waves in a large lake, as they come, piling up their force on the shore.

• • • • • • •

You know the moment the height of the breaker is reached because it culminates in a crest of beauty and force. And so it is with life.

• • • • • • •

In life there are periods of accumulated energy that are evidenced by power and a certain elation. There is joy and satisfaction in it and we wish it could last. But it doesn't and it is better for us that is doesn't last.

• • • • • • •

We cannot any more than a wave continue to keep the crest. We will fall back and then we make up our minds to gain the crest again. This helps to build character.

• • • • • • •

Then there is another point. In home life there are times of supreme happiness. There are times, too, when these hours of happiness ebb and the crest is past of one wave of joy.

• • • • • • •

But it is not for us to give up. There is another wave coming, so why not keep in mind our past happiness while working toward another wave?

• • • • • • •

You can help the members of your family in the rise and fall or ebb and flow in family life. You can help them to enjoy to the fullest the moments of their successes.

• • • • • • •

Make this part of your life. When the crest of the wave has passed, encourage those who with reluctance gradually sink into another trough of woe in order to rise again to future successes.

Mother and Daughter Relieved of Skin Disease

As Good For Eczema as For Simple Injuries

"We have used Zam-Buk for over 25 years; in fact, ever since my girlhood days in Lancashire. Recently my little girl's scalp was all broken out in eczema—it was a dreadful sight. With her head being so sore and painful I had to melt the Zam-Buk and then gently apply it to her hair with a soft brush. The result was marvellous. In two or three days time it began to show big improvement and further use of Zam-Buk removed the disease entirely. Last season my arms and legs were swollen up to twice their normal size, and the skin all a purplish red. Again Zam-Buk proved a real friend in need and soon rid me of the trouble. I always have Zam-Buk by me in the house."—Mrs. A. Bentley, 2270 Joliette Street, Montreal.

"Living on a farm, where nasty accidents are quite common, we always keep Zam-Buk handy. We often get cut and gashed in the barbed wire, but Zam-Buk is always swiftly soothing and healing."—Mrs. C. Barnett, Fareham P.O., Alberta.

The unparalleled success of Zam-Buk as a healer of skin troubles lies in its original and valuable formula. Zam-Buk is compounded from certain extracts of herbal origin. These, scientifically blended, attain the maximum of soothing, healing, and antiseptic power.

Zam-Buk is so refined that it soaks through the tiny pores into underlying tissues. It heals from below as well as on the surface. It kills poisonous germs, stops pain and itching, and grows new skin. Zam-Buk gets at the root of such troubles as eczema, salt rheum, bad legs, ulcers, scalp disease, poisoned sores, etc. It is also a splendid remedy for piles, and a fine all-round first-aid for injuries. CONFIDENCE IN NEAR FUTURE period. Every one here must assume responsibility for those hazards, he reminded his hearers, and urged them to cooperate in this respect that the plant may face the coming winter under the best possible circumstances.

Mr. Salmonsen suggested to the association, that they have a ladies' night during the current season—a suggestion which appeared to meet with the general approval of all present.

F. M. Somerville, supervisor at the plant and secretary-treasurer of the association in introducing the speaker of the evening, said that Mr. McHenry who was bringing an important message to the meeting dealing with some phase of the commercial activity of the Company, was particularly well satisfied to do so. Mr. McHenry was for many years with the C.G.E. Company before leaving to take charge of the Public Utilities of Windsor. After serving them for a number of years, he assumed the sales-managership for the Ferranti Company, and was later induced to come back to the C.G.E. to take over the duties in the U.S. sales department at Head Office. Not long ago he took charge of the Toronto office embracing merchandise and apparatus sales.

M. J. McHenry.

The speaker's subject covered very broadly the problems, troubles and difficulties confronting the sales organization, and stressed the fact that each department of such a large organization as the C.G.E. was extremely inter-dependent.

His thoughts presented in a light and engaging manner, did not fail to leave an impression on his audience, and probably gave them a new insight into their responsibility and obligation as foremen to the sales organization.

"Somebody has said that a salesman is a person who makes all the beautiful promises and then puts them up to the factory to fulfill," the speaner mentioned. He did not think this statement absolutely true, and preferred to think of the salesman as a "buffer" beween the customer and head office and the manufacturing departments.

"Some customers are delightful to do business with," he said, "others are hard to satisfy and are always kicking, but on the whole he considered the C.G.E. is considered by their customers to be a mighty fine organization to do business with."

Referring to the Peterborough plant, he said, there has not been much of a movement in the past few months, mainly due to the fact that so many industrial plants are running slack. He assured the members of the association, however, that the sales organization is making a determined attempt to combat this situation and is meeting with very encouraging success, by pointing out to firms who are now experiencing a slack period that this is the time to install new equipment—equipment which will actually help to make money.

So far as the general situation in the electrical industry is concerned, conditions at the present time are by no means unfavorable.

Quoting from a current copy of the "Electrical News", he gave a few figures which exemplified the situation as it stands today in the electrical industry. "The figures are nothing short of amazing," he ejaculated, and give one just cause for renewed hope and confidence.

2,262,000 H.P.

At the present time there is under active consideration, in the Dominion of Canada, water power development of a total capacity of two million, one hundred and sixty-two thousand horse power. "This development is actually under way," he reiterated. It is a program which calls for the expenditure of $487 million.

"Of this tremendous figure, our company may be expected to get its full share of the business, he stated.

The average cost of the development of this plan runs in the neighborhood of $225 per horse power, in addition to that every horse power that will be developed will make it necessary to provide electrical equipment where this power is supplied.

"We may look into the future with every confidence that we are going to get considerable business in the coming year and in following years.

The H.E.P.C. expect an average growth in their load of about 13 per cent each year, and they are looking as far ahead as 5 or 6 years, as a means of supplying that power.

The speaker thought that as soon as the public regains confidence and the ability to think in a buying mood business will take on a very satisfactory complexion.

Continuing the speaker dealt fully with the manufacturing departments in relation to the selling organization, and mentioning the interdependance of each department said, "If the sales organization falls down the factory doesn't get business and nobody has anything to do; likewise if the factory falls down, either in the quality of the products or length of time in fulfilling orders the sales organization is confronted with a difficult task.

In conclusion Mr. McHenry broached the possibility of arranging that the Foremen's Association and the Toronto sales staff get together at a joint meeting to be held in Toronto, in the near future.

A vote of thanks was moved by S. O. Shields, seconded by William Rose.

Among the guests present who numbered about 75, were the executive of the association and A. McKenzie, head foreman, H. A. Cranfield, supervisor, and E. Rigby, superintendent Porcelain Department.

Beaverbrook Opposes Baldwin's Leadership

LONDON, England, October 30 (By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent). — Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian-born newspaper peer, was the only man at the meeting of the Conservative Party to-day who failed to express approval of Mr. Baldwin's fiscal policy when the Conservative leader was sustained by a large majority in his leadership.

Invited to speak, Lord Beaverbrook dealt with the differences between Mr. Baldwin's policy and his own policy of empire free trade. While the quota purchasing scheme might come in, it should not be pressed forward prominently as an issue, he contended. Asked concerning the party leadership, Lord Beaverbrook, who has several times been mentioned as a possible opponent to Mr. Baldwin replied he was not concerned about the leadership but was prepared to support anyone who would carry out empire free trade.

Hints In Smart Modes For Coming Season

H. R. H. KENNER IS GUEST SPEAKER AT KIWANIS CLUB

British Empire is the Subject of Splendid Address at Noon Luncheon.

CHARTER NIGHT NOV. 14.

Savo Chapel Singers Are Scbheduled to Appear in Peterborough.

One of those reare treats—the pleasure of listening to rhetorical oratory, dealing with an inspirational and enlightening subject—was in store for members of the local Kiwanis Club, following a delightful luncheon at noon to-day in the Club Dining Room at the Empress Hotel.

The speaker H. R. H. Kenner, principal of the Collegiate and Vocational Institute, whose scholarly attainment and gift of eloquent speech are widely recognised, drew a capacity audience, to whom he revealed something of the might and magnitude of the British Empire.

"The British Empire stands today, as it has long stood," he declared in summing up, "for civil and religious liberty; justice and fair play and the extension of freedom and self-government of the nations of the earth. It is the greatest secular power in the world, for good."

Tour Around World

With the aid of a Howard Vincent wall map, the speaker took his audience on an imaginative tour of the British Empire, tracing a route encircling the globe from London—the heart of Empire—to Gibraltar, Malta through the Suez Canal across the Indian Ocean to India, Ceylon to the British Protectorate of Singapore to North Borneo, Australia and New Zealand. He traced the route across the Pacific Ocean to the Pacific slopes of Canada and so across the Dominion to Halifax then across the three thousand miles of ocean back to the British Isles, after having first pointed out the British possessions in the West Indies and in West and South Africa.

"We have travelled around the world" he said, "and nowhere have we seen the foreign ensign floating above us. Yet even now we have not visited many other parts of the Empire. We have not touched Newfoundland the oldest British possession, nor the Irish Free State, one of the youngest independent states.

In dwelling proudly on the might of the British Isles, "That little gem set in a silver sea," the speaker exclaimed that God has ever chosen little countries as vessels from which he pours the wine of humanity. From Judea religion had its birth; Greece gave the world art; Rome, the laws, and the British Empire, civil and religious liberty.

Mr. Kenner was introduced by F. H. Dawson while J. B. Nelson was called upon by Carl Browne, the president, to tender a vote of thanks.

Among the guests present was Kiwanian J. Paul of the Ottawa Club, who brought greetings to his brother members from the Capital city.

Mr. Browne announced that a concert sponsored by the Kiwanians is to be given on Friday, November 28th, by the singers from Savoy Chapel, London, England, who are touring Canada by special permission of H.M. the King.

They will appear on the platform, probably at the Collegiate Institute, in their gold and red uniforms the same as they wear when singing and chanting at Royal weddings.

The Savoy Chapel singers' organization dates back hundreds of years, and the present members are worthily upholding all the glorious traditions handed to them by their predecessors.

November 14, the President also announced, will be Charter night, to which the members are urged to bring their ladies. Visiting members from other clubs of the city will also be invited

Wooded Slopes Don ated for New Convent

This fine panoramic view gives some indication of the rolling land wooded slopes which comprise the 100-acre property, which Mrs. Joseph Kilgour has presented to the Sisterhood of St. John the Divine as the site for their new convent, near Toronto, Ont. Occupying the highest elevation in that part of the country, the property's beauty is enchanced by two streams and a fish pond.

POULTRY GRADING TO AID FARMERS

Buyers Will Recognize Government Standards of Grades and Prices.

BOOST PROFITS.

OTTAWA, Oct. 31. (CP)—Growing out of a series of conferences held in Toronto etween representatives of the leading wholesale buyers of poultry and officials of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of the Department, announces that an agreement had been reached on the part of the buyers to recognize government grades as the standard for grading and the establishment of substantial price differences between classes and grades.

"The agreement marks one of the most important dvelopments in the poultry industry in many years," says a statement issued by the Department of Agriculture. The statement continues:—

"Just what this announcement means to the farmers of Canada is indicated by the fact that through the simple process of crate-feeding and properly finishing of poultry for market, from 50 to 75 cents in market value may be added to the individual bird. With some 15,000,000 birds to be marketed during the next two or three months, this means the possibility of increased cash returns to farmers of from $5 000,000 to $7,500,000.

"A significant feature of the situation is that for the first time on a Dominion-wide basis the premium which the consumer readily pays for quality in poultry is passed along to the original producer."

Officers Installed For Norwood Lodge

Wednesday evening saw the last of the I.O.O.F. installation of officers for this term, when District-Deputy Grand Master J. H. Price, together with District Committee, No. 44, were in Norwood and installed the officers of Norwood Lodge, No. 262.

District-Deputy Price also had with him a "Degree Team" composed of members of the local lodges, who conferred the "Degree of Friendship" on two Norwood members, the team receiving the hearty congratulations of all present for the splendid manner in which the work was exemplified.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to the installing officers for the excellent manner in which the installation ceremonies had been carried through.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting followed by cards.

There were eight car loads of visitors present at the meeting including Peterborough, Havelock and Pontypool.

Two members present at the institution of Norwood Lodge forty-three years ago were Past Grands Ira Cummings of Norwood Lodge and W. F. Green of Otonabee Lodge, No. 13.

"Cheerio Club" Is Formed At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Oct. 31 (Examiner Correspondence).—A chapter of the "Cheerio Club," including girls from nine to fifteen years of age, was formed last Friday evening, Mrs. W. H. Jordan kindly extending the hospitality of her home, Anne street, for the gathering.

Fourteen members of the club were present, and Mary Burnham was elected president; at a later meeting the secretary and treasurer will be elected, but for the present, and while the initial steps of organization are under way, Mrs. Jordan will act. All those present were paid-up members of the "Cheerio" exchange, and at the entertainment in the town hall on Thursday evening three girls, Audrey Garside, Mary Eakins, and Marjorie Vance, sold candy and the resultant funds, with the fees, to be sent to "Mr. Cheerio" on Friday morning, the hope being that the new chapter will be announced over CKGW at Sunday's meeting.

It is hoped, also, that the list of members will appear in Saturday's edition of the Toronto Telegram. The chapter will meet fortnightly at Mrs. Jordan's home, from 7:15 to 8:45 p.m., Friday being the evening chosen for the gathering.

A junior chapter, ages five to nine years, may be formed in the near future, and the boys are also asking that they have a share in the organization.

The responsibility for the program rests largely on the girls themselves, and the final half hour will be devoted to some form of recreation.

OBITUARY

JACK McKEOWN

Death came with great suddenness to a former resident of Peterborough in the person of Jack McKeown, of Windsor, who passed away yesterday at his home in Windsor.

The late Mr. McKeown was preparing to go hunting to-day, but in the morning told his wife he was not feeling very well and went upstairs to rest. One of the men going on the hunt called on the phone to speak to him and on going upstairs Mrs. McKeown found he had passed away with heart trouble.

The late Mr. McKeown was a construction man and had followed that business here but since going to Windsor about seven years ago his advancement has been very rapid and he was an outstanding man in his line of work.

Mr. McKeown with his family lived for a time in Ashburnham, afterwards moving to Charlotte street west where they made many friends, who will be sorry to learn of Mr. McKeown's sudden death.

ANCIENT WHITEHALL CHANGING SHORTLY

Official Character Will Not Be So Marked When Street is Extended as Planned.

LONDON, Oct. 31. — (C.P.). — Changes which Whitehall may well consider revolutionary are to take place on New Year's Day, when, by order of the London County Council, the portion of Charing Cross in line with Whitehall is to be incorporated in it. The Charing Cross numbers are from 9 to 46.

Whitehall, which now runs northwards from Parliament Street (at the Cenotaph) to the Admiralty on one side and the War Office on the other, will be extended right to Trafalgar Square. This will mean that a big re-numbering operation affecting both Whitehall and Charing Cross must be carried out.

By far the greater number of buildings in Whitehall are of course, Government offices, and as such are so well known that they have never had a number allocated to them. Whitehall, of course, will no longer retain its almost exclusively official character.

ing attitude. I took a quick look out of the window and as I did so the ship struck the ground. I stopped my engine instantly and a second crash came followed by an explosion.

Cook said he had a feeling something was happening after receiving the order to slow down as the dirigible had been running at cruising speed for such a long period.

The only thing at all unusual he had observed during the night was while he lay in his bunk between 11 and two.

Saw Gas Bags Moving

"I was quite close to the bottom of gas bags Nos. 8 and 9 and I noticed they were surging about rather more than I had noticed on other flights."

It was a matter of seconds between the first and the second times that the ship struck the ground. "The ship seemed to rebound after the first bump," he explained.

Asked what happened then, Cook said:

"I tried to get out of the doorway of the car toward the ship but it was a mass of flames and the heat was terrific so I turned back to the outboard side of the car and tried to get out, but I found I was trapped because of a longitudinal girder which had fallen across the openings. I lay down on top of the oil tank and gave things up. In a second I must have become desperate because I got up and pushed the girder to one side with the back of my hand, jumped over the side of the car and landed in some trees."

POLES ARE GUILTY ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Final Chapter of Street Battle is Closed When Two Plead Guilty.

The last chapter in the street fight staged in front of a speakeasy on Aylmer street on Sunday afternoon, October 19, in which a group of Poles are alleged to have thrown a Serbian customer out of the house and then beat him up severely, was written in Police Court this morning The charge of assault against two of the Poles was dismissed, since the Serbian could not identify them as being among his assailants.

Two others pleaded guilty of common assault and were fined $10 and costs. J. A. O'Brien, defence counsel, stated that the doctor's and hospital bills for treatment of the man's injuries had been fully paid by the Poles. Having paid their fines, the Poles graciously bowed to His Worship, and then smilingly left the court room.

The Polish woman, said to be the wife of the proprietor of the house, was fined $10 and costs on a charge of vagrancy.

Court officials breathed a sigh of relief when the cases were finally concluded, since none of the Poles could speak English and prosecution of the cases constantly held up the proceedings while every word was painstakingly interpreted to them by Abraham Low.

A local man who had pleaded guilty to stealing a wheel from a parked motor car was given suspended sentence. His counsel, J. A. O'Brien, said that the man had been drinking and his mind was befuddled when he committed the offence. Evidence as to his good character was also submitted.

DEPUTY MINISTER TAKES DRESS

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 31 (C.P.) — "I don't know what made me do it," said James H. H. Ballantyne, Deputy Minister of Labor in the Ontario Government, when interviewed this morning following his arrest last night on a charge of theft of a woman's dress valued at $15 from a downtown store.

Colored Bell Hop Is Fined $500

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 31 (C.P.)—Pleading guilty to entering Canada after being previously rejected, Henry William Naylor, 23, colored bell boy in a local hotel, was fined $500 and costs or given the option of spending the next year in the Ontario Reformatory, in City Police Court to-day. He was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Immigration Officer Reynolds of Ottawa. Naylor will also be deported.

CHORISTERS ENJOY MASQUERADE PARTY

Happy Event Held in Sunday School Hall of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

At the conclusion of the regular practice, spooky times were encountered last night in the Sunday School Hall of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church—ghosts, goblins, black cats, and dainty clowns, pierrottes, the Lavender Lady (Daisy Reid, who won the prize for best fancy costume), school urchins, overgrown bairns, Spaniard (George Coleman, Jr., won the gentleman's prize), and others handsome and ludicrous but all vieing with each other in the matter of originality. These were represented by the choir members on the occasion of the annual masquerade social.

The decorations of the hall were beautiful and elaborate, due to the ingenuity of Emma Lou Chenhall, Mary Sedgwick, Lily Kay, Adam Sands, and George Coleman, Jr., the black and gold on the walls and the table, and blue and white streamers draped from the electrolier, giving a proper Hallowee'n setting. The reception of the guests and choir was taken care of in "shocking" manner.

The menu consisted of sandwiches, pumpkin pie, and coffee, with chocolate fudge—a very enjoyable course, too! and with stunts (electric in their action), and sing-song, a delightful time was the result.

Martin B. Chenhall, the esteemed choirmaster, was at the piano, and assisted greatly in the program, glad also that his choristers can play as well as fulfill the musical duties of the sanctuary on all occasions.

"Auld Lang Syne' and "Good-night Ladies" were the finale to another happy Hallowe'en masquerade of St. Paul's Church choir.

Manitoba Would Mix Amateur And Pro Sports

IMPORTANT MATTERS WILL BE DISCUSSED AT A.A.U. MEETING

Western Provinces Would Mix Amateurs and Pros in Sport.

MAY CREATE HARMONY.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 31 — The air will likely be cleared of a number of long-standing problems relating to the government of amateur athletics before the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada is concluded here next week. A long list of proposed amendments will face the gathering of Dominion athletic rulers Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 6 7 and 8. Many matters of a contentious nature will have to be dealt with, according to John Muter, one of the Vancouver members of a committee working on the revision of the A.A.U. handbook.

A highlight will be supplied by that old hardy annual, the proposal to allow amateurs and professionals to mix in sport. From British Columbia will come a motion requesting that the clause which bars amateurs from playing with or against professionals be struck from the handbook. Support comes for Coast views on this matter from Alberta, which is proposing that the words "or against" be struck from the clause, thus permitting amateurs to play against pros., but not with them.

To Discuss Amateur Code

The Manitoba branch also is vitally interested in this portion of the agenda, as it has experienced some difficulty this year through a professional hockey player taking part in amateur football. The Manitobans will ask for complete discussion of the amateur code and the creation of harmony with the Dominion Football Association.

Chairman W. H. Kilby of the Constitution and By-laws Committee, will bring up the matter of revision of the A.A.U. constitution and by-laws by a Canada-wide committee.

British Columbia delegates will press for an amendment giving Provinces the power to reinstate athletes who were professionalized within their jurisdiction without having to go to the Dominion body. C. B. Higginbottom of the Ontario delegation will move that Canada return to the English system of measurement for track and field sports, forsaking the metric system adopted only last year. He will also recommend that bouts in amateur boxing tournaments consist of five rounds of two minutes each, instead of three rounds of three minutes each. He will propose an amendment to rules governing relays, which will allow a runner to recover a baton dropped by his teammate and continue on with the race.

Thunder Bay, with the Texas Colored Giants baseball team in mind, will propose that the A.A.U. make a ruling regarding the amateur status of all such touring teams and determines whether or not Canadian amateur teams may play against them.

A movement has been started in England to popularize tropical fruits grown in the dominions and colonies but not often seen in English markets.

"Pro" Gossip.

CANADIENS START ON ICE

MONTREAL, Oct. 31—The old battlecry "Les Canadiens Sont La" greeted Montreal Canadiens as they dropped over the boards yesterday to take the ice for the first time since they skated off last fall with a world's championship at their belts. Over 2,000 enthusiastic fans cheered the Flying Frenchmen as they breezed through a snappy workout, their initial practice of the year.

As colorful as in past years, the Canucks showed that they had lost none of the speed that helped to take them through to the world's title last spring. So brisk was the workout that Manager Cecil Hart decided to hold but one practice daily in the future. Fear that his men, appearing in mid-season form for their first work-out, would become stale almost before the season started, prompted Manager Hart to make the move. Maroons, Canadiens' intracity rivals, will continue the two practices a day they started last week.

"RED" DUTTON REPORTS

GALT, Oct. 31.—The New York Americans are now at full strength, "Red" Dutton, last year with Montreal Maroons, having reported, and the wearers of the Stars and Stripes are fast rounding into condition under the critical eye of Eddie Gerard. The Amerks now practice in the mornings, while the New Haven Eagles take the ice in the afternoon. Before their departure arrangements have been made for the two teams to play an exhibition game here on Thursday next.

EXTRA GOALKEEPER FOR HAWKS

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—The Chicago Black Hawks will carry an extra goalkeeper this season.

The extra will be Alex Wood, star of the Regina, Sask., Aces last year, who has turned pro by joining the Hawks. He will understudy "Chuck" Gardiner, regular Black Hawk goalkeeper.

Another Black Hawk innovation will be the employment of a full-time physical instructor, Emil Iverson. He will work independently of the club trainer, devoting all his time to physical instruction.

EDUCATING COLORED AFRICAN RESIDENTS

More Money Than Ever Being Spent on Schools For Colored People in the Cape.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Oct. 31 (C.P.)—That it is not in the interest of the Europeans in South Africa to allow the colored people of the country to grow up neglected was emphasized here recently in an address by S. Reagon, Provincial Council member for the Cape Flats. The whites of South Africa were worth a little more to the State than the colored race because they were better educated, he said.

It was encouraging to note that the Provincial Council in spite of general cutting of expenditure this year, were spending some $175,000 more on the education of the colored people, was the fact that not a single dissentient voice had been lifted among the Europeans on this question of increase.

The interest of the colored people in education was shown by the two biggest schools in the Cape—Batswood at Wynberg, and the Livingstone School at Claremont, Mr. Reagon said. Batswood was overcrowded in every department, though it was the largest colored school in South Africa. Livingstone, opened five years ago with three teachers, now has 11, including three B.A.'s, and at present has a matriculation class. These instances showed that they were doing their part. Last year, out of 88 candidates for the junior certificate, 50 passed, three in the first class.

20 BAGS OF LIQUOR SEIZED

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 31.—(C.P.)—Provincial police early yesterday seized a motor boat and twenty bags of liquor, valued at $1,500, at a dock near Lasalle. Two men made their escape in another boat. Police have been endeavoring to locate a cache in this vicinity and have been watching for some movement of liquor. They believe they caught the first shipment on the Detroit side of the river.

FOUR MAROON PLAYERS MAY PLAY ON WINDSOR LINE-UP

"Bat" Phillips, Clint Benedict and Abbie Cox Among Those Slated For Move.

MUNRO DENIES RUMOR.

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 31. — Word has been received here from Montreal that "Bat" Phillips will be in the forward line of the Windsor Bulldogs this season. Four regulars on the Bulldogs who play again this year, are Andy Bellemer and Stan Brown in defense and George Lever and Jack Duncan on the forward line. Several players are under consideration discussion by Herb Mitchell, Bulldog pilot, and the management of the Montreal Maroons.

Among those who may possibly come to Windsor are: Clint Benedict and Abbie Cox for goal, Roy Hinsperger, Art Wilcox, Johnny Gallagher and Tubs Moore in the defense section, and Earl Robinson, Desy Roche, Earl Roche and Huggins for the forwards. Some others are under consideration.

Waivers have been asked on Jack Arbour, but nothing definite has been announced as to a possible deal for this player.

The roster of the Bulldogs will likely be announced by the first of next week.

Denial by Munro

MONTREAL, Oct. 31.—Commenting on a despatch from Windsor last night to the effect that "Bat" Phillips and a number of other members of last year's Maroon hockey team would this year play for the Windsor Bulldogs in the International League, Manager "Dunc" Munro of the Maroons denied that any choice had been made. Archie Wilcox and Clint Benedict, as well as practically the whole of last year's Allan cup-holders, M.A.A.A., were mentioned as future members of the Windsor team.

"Although there has been discussion as to which of the twenty-four Maroons will be sent to Windsor before the season opens, no definite decision as to any player has been made" Munro said last night. "We can keep, of course, but fifteen of our present string, but the question as to who will go to Windsor, or who will stay with the Maroons has so far only been discussed" Munro stated.

Kingston Players Out With Americans

KINGSTON, Ont., October 31. — (C. P.). — Two star hockeyists, "Chummy" Lawler and Krank Bellringer left yesterday for Galt where they are trying out with the New York Americans.

Both players performed with Queen's in the Senior O.H.A. last year and the season before and previous to that starred with Kingston in the Intermediate O.H.A.

Lawler was constantly sought after last season by the Americans and near the end of the season was asked, along with Bellringer to report to the Americans, being offered a big contract.

Wednesday both players went to Galt and hope to make the grade with the professionals.

LALONDE PLEASED WITH THE SENATORS

Speed Will Be Chief Factor of Ottawa Team Again.

OTTAWA, October 31. — The speed that has carried Ottawa teams to the pinnacle of professional hockey leagues and has resulted in the Stanley Cup being won on several occasions, was noticeable last night for the first time this season, when the 1930 edition of the Senators went through their best practice of the year. Coach "Newsy" Lalonde is more than satisfied with his team, and the showing made so far in the pre-season workouts. The two newest additions to the squad, Eric Pettinger and Art Smith, who figured in the deal that sent "King" Clancy to the Toronto Maple Leafs, are fitting in well with those left over from last year.

Smith, in particular, because of his rugged style and bumping game, has won favorable comment from the railbirds, a species of hockey critics notoriously difficult to please. It begins to look as if Ottawa will have a Smith boys' defence. Art. and Alex.

Lalonde has been working one front line of Gagne, Cox and Pettinger, and another of Finingan, Lamb and Hec Kilrea. Harold Starr has been partnering Allan Shields on the second defence. Harry Connor, Wally Kilrea, Syd. Howe, and Billy Touhey have been used to sub. the two forward lines.

The Senators are scheduled to play a game in Fort Erie on Tuesday night against the Buffalo Bisons of the International League. This will be the only pre-season game played before Montreal Maroons open the league here on November 11.

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 30 (C.P.) — The amount stolen by the two bandits who raided the Bank of Nova Scotia branch at Brussels yesterday is officially declared to be $5,880.04. The announcement was made this morning by T. M. Lamont, manager of the bank.

TORONTO LEAFS MAKE DEBUT AT ARENA GARDENS

Close to Four Thousand Railbirds Watch Initial Ice Practice.

BLAIR LOOKS GOOD.

Work of Day and Clancy on the Defence Also Pleases Fans.

TORONTO, Oct. 31.—Considerable interest was displayed in the initial workout of the Toronto Maple Leafs at the Arena Gardens yesterday. Practically one-half of the seating space was occupied by interested fans, who came to see the players make their first appearance on ice this season. It is estimated that close to three thousand viewed the proceedings, and about a thousand others came in after 12.30 noon when Coach Art Duncan led the team off the ice.

The Leafs practiced for about forty minutes, starting before 12 o'clock. Owing to the fact that they had to leave Parry Sound at 2 o'clock in the morning and did not get much sleep and also because of rather a heavy P.T. drill previous to going on the ice the practice was cut short. Another practice open to the public will be held at the Arena on Saturday noon when the full hour will be used.

Blair Looks Good

For the most part, the players seemed to be in good condition, and, considering it was the first time on skates for most of them since last April, they performed surprisingly well. Andy Blair, who was previously reported to be far from ready, looked to be one of the best conditioned athletes in the squad. The lanky Winnipegger skated easily and showed as much speed as any of them and also made some real plays for his side. Much depends upon whether Blair can improve upon his work of last season, and from yesterday's display it would appear as if he was in for a good year.

The team were divided into two squads, with Frank Clancy and "Hap" Day on one defense and Art Duncan and "Red" Horner on the other. Lorne Chatbot kept goal for the Duncan-Horner combination with Joe Primeau at centre and Charley Conacher and Harvey Jackson on the wings. Howie Grant, the former Montreal amateur, also appeared on the forward line for this team and fitted in well. He has the size and looks to have the necessary speed.

On the opposing side Benny Grant was in goal, with Day and Clancy in front of him and Andy Blair, Harold Cotton and "Ace" Bailey on the forward line. "Shrimp" McPherson relieved at centre ice occasionally. No body-checking was attempted by either team.

Clancy Pleases

The fans were intent on watching "King" Clancy and the former Ottawa star was given a big hand when he appeared on the ice. He made many of his famous sallies down the ice and appeared to work well with Day, who was moved over to the left side of the defense. Day also appeared to advantage and he and Clancy should make one of the speediest and quickest-breaking defense pairs in the N.H.L.

Charley Conacher also caught the eyes of the spectators. Conacher seems to have regained his strength again after his operation in the early part of the summer and he is counted on to show the brilliance that he displayed early last season. Harvey Jackson has gained in weight and he, too, should have a good season. Jackson is a great battler and should be a good goal-getter for the Leafs.

Bailey and Cotton are the same pair of experienced and reliable forwards they always have been. Both look exceedingly fit and appear ready right now to jump into a game.

Shifty Forward

Andy Blair, stellar forward man who teams up with Harold Cotton and "Ace" Bailey on Toronto Leaf line-up to make one of the best forward lines in National League.

BOBBY McCOY WINS EXCITING CONTEST

Former Football Star Takes First and Third Falls.

TORONTO, October 31. — Bobby ("Bibber") McCoy, the chunky Holy Cross graduate in football, took the first and third falls of the main wrestling bout at Massey Hall last night from the flying Frenchman, Al Baffert, and gave as finished a display of the ancient sport as has been seen around here for some time. His speed, timing and knowledge of the holds left little to be desired; and, of course, in Baffert he had an opponent worthy of his best efforts. The result was spectacular wrestling from start to finish.

McCoy is an adherent of the flying tackle, and demonstrated it many times, sometimes successful but more often not, for, although Baffert and he were meeting for the first time, apparently word of the ability of McCoy at the spectacular flying attack had preceded him, and the Frenchman nimbly sidestepped most of them.

JUNIOR SOCCER TO RECEIVE ATTENTION OF ASSOCIATION

Must Overcome Obstacle of Difference in Provincial Standards.

MANY TEAMS IN CANADA

WINNIPEG, Oct. 31.—(Special to The Examiner. Copyright 1930)—Of great interest to followers of soccer throughout the Dominion will be the report of the Dominion of Canada Football Association on the junior situation. In a few short years, minor football has grown so large that it has been found necessary to form separate associations to control the games of the younger players.

When the association decided to foster the sport among youngsters, it was fully aware that the salvation and development of the game in Canada depended almost entirely on Canadian trained and developed players.

At the present time the biggest obstacle to be overcome is the promulgation of a uniform set of regulations to be effective in every province. No two associations play under the same rules. Some have age limits and some weight limits.

Toronto: Public schools—147 teams in three leagues with weight limits; playgrounds—65 teams divided into four leagues, senior, intermediate, junior and juvenile, all subject to weight qualifications; Junior F.A.—22 teams in three divisions about 600 players with no age or weight limit, all of which play for the following trophies—Dunlop, Love, Sherry and Carter cups.

Ontario—Outside Toronto — seven junior leagues with 62 clubs, six juvenile leagues with 28 teams; four midget leagues with 16 clubs and eight schoolboy leagues with 56 clubs. Qualification is by age.

Manitoba—One junior league of two divisions with 13 clubs, one juvenile league with eight clubs, one midget league with nine clubs and schoolboy leagues, of which the Sunday Schools operate one of 25 teams affiliated with the Junior F.A.

Saskatchewan—One junior league at Regina of seven teams; three school leagues of six teams each and one midget league of 12 clubs operated at Prince Albert.

Alberta—One junior and one juvenile league of four teams each at Calgary governed by age qualification and 30 clubs throughout the province under supervision of school authorities.

British Columbia—Junior association with 32 clubs embracing 635 players; juvenile 47 clubs with over 700 players; Sunday School F.A. with 175 teams; high school 75 teams; public schools 75 teams and 475 class teams; greater Vancouver 25 school teams and 150 class teams.

Tunney Denies Claims Of Tim Mara As Regards Dempsey - Tunney Fight

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The business relations of Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight boxing champion, and Tim Mara, New York sports promoter, especially as regards the Dempsey-Tunney fight in which Tunney won the championship, were discussed in detail yesterday in Supreme Court, where trial of Mara's $466,000 suit against the ex-champion opened. Mara contends that he had an agreement with Tunney by which he was to receive ten percent. of Tunney's share in the championship fight if he would aid in arranging the match with Dempsey. He charges that, by a verbal contract, he was to receive 25 percent of Tunney's earnings after he became champion.

Tunney answers with the claim that he made a flat offer of $25,000 to Mara if he (Mara) would use his influence with the New York boxing commission to gain permission to stage the fight in New York. The boxing commission's attitude was that Dempsey would not be permitted to fight in New York unless he fought Harry Wills.

Counsel for Mara, in opening statements yesterday, said that Tunney and Mara had been very close friends for a number of years.

Emory Buckner, attorney for Tunney denied this and said Mara regarded Tunney, who was in Miami, in 1925, according to Buckner, in which he advised the fighter to "throw away your books, your typewriter, your dinner jacket and your golf pants, and come back to New York and get a job driving a truck if you want to be a prizefighter".

Bowling
Alley Gossip
By Pin Boy

The Western Clock Co. Shop Bowling League is developing into one of the hardest hitting series on the alleys, as was evidenced on Tuesday last, when the ten teams rocked the pins with an unusual exhibition of clever bowling.

Martin's Slump.

Orval Martin's team failed to respond to his exhortations and slumped before the heavy pin toppling dished up by Harry Baptie's quintette, who took 3 games. Baptie led the attack with scores of 240, 174 and 218, while none of his opponents chalked up any outstanding totals.

The feature battle of the night was staged between Jake Beckerman's outfit and a team captained by Ab Delahaye, which resulted in a decisive three-game battle for the former. The winners displayed a consistent brand of bowling, although Delahaye's single of 272 was high. Moore made 239, 231 and 197, while Beckerman was second with 230, 219 and 169, both being on the winning team.

Ainslie dropped two games to Wyatt in a nip and tuck struggle, being handicapped by having to score a dummy. K. Robinson, for the losers, clipped off 212, 179 and 210, while the highest scorers for the winners were O'Dette and Cullen, who made singles of 237 and 231 respectively.

Piles Up 262 Score.

Cranford piled up a single of 262 for Wise against Goodson's crew, although the former lost two games. McCormick with 260 and Ross Curry with 259 were the topnotchers.

Tommy Cupoli's team bowed to Eames and his gang, who took 2 out of 3 games in a rather noisy duel. John Wyllie, for the winners, toppled the maple for a nice single of 259, while Woods was highest on Cupoli's team with 217.

Of 1230 persons who lose their licenses in England for driving motor cars while intoxicated only eight were women.

At the Theatres

AT THE CAPITOL

"MONTE CARLO."

This is one of those blithe, carefree productions that recall to mind that stock phrase of the amateur reporter, sending in an account of a special festivity and ending in with the words, "And a good time was had by all."

"Monte Carlo" is a typically Ernst Lubitsch talkie. It has the Continental touch and that engaging free and easy frankness in conversation that disarms and amuses the listener at once. The little scenes where the three gentlemen discuss love over the teacups is very good. And the various actors do a lot of laughing. They burst into peals of merriment at the slightest provocation, so that amusement tinkles in and through the production, from first to last.

It has the atmosphere of opera bouffe and musical comedy. The duke, deserted at the altar by his wayward bride to be, bursts into song as he assures the guests, just about to demand the return of their wedding presents, that he will find his errant inamorata and make her love him. The lady sings at odd and varied moments, in a lovely high voice, and so does her swain, while duets and trios make their sudden appearance at interesting moments.

The production reminds one somewhat of that engaging affair entitled "The Grand Duchess and the Waiter" with Menjou in the role of the waiter. In "Monte Carlo," the heroine is the lovely Jeanette MacDonald ,with her musical comedy technique and beautiful form and face. Disguised as her hairdresser, Jack Buchanan (Count Rudolph Farriere) makes her love him and like it, but alas, for true romance, it is only when she discovers that he is really of the upper ten that she capitulates. The action has its entertaining interludes, while the wily hairdresser pursues the lady of his heart and she runs away, but never too far to be captured. The likeable ZaSu Pitts with her perennial expression of startled eagerness, is the maid of the beautiful Countess.

With plenty of verve and dash, lots of romance and laughter and music, and set in the adventurous little principality of Monte Carlo, this talkie is good entetrainment.

Argo-Wheeler Tilt Is Feature Tangle In Interprovincial

Scullers at Top Strength For Important Game on Saturday.

QUEEN'S IN GOOD SHAPE.

Turville, Beal, Adams and Perry in Running For Jeff Russell Trophy.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 31 (C.P.) — Having completed their training for Saturday's clashes, Eastern Canada's 14 major league teams scheduled to go into action marked time to-day, anxiously awaiting the referee's whistle which will send them into gridiron struggles that will just about decide the championship aspirations of most of the teams.

The outstanding match in the Interprovincial Union brings together at Toronto, Montreal A.A.A. and Argonauts. Both teams are very much in the running for the title but defeat means elimination unless Ottawa Senators, with three straight losses representing their season's efforts to date, perform a near miracle by trouncing the Dominion champions. Hamilton Tigers, who journey to the Capital city.

Coach Bill Hughes of the Winged Wheelers has driven his team hard during the week, perfecting plays and timing. The Montrealers will field the same team that provided last week's football surprise by holding the Tigers to a tie. Inspired by this display of gridiron prowess, the Montrealers, now tied in the point column with the Bengals, will undoubtedly provide Argos with stouter opposition than the Scullers met when they beat the Wheelers in Montreal at the start of the season.

While admitting the Montrealers will prove a tough proposition, Coach Buck McKenna is confident the Oarsmen can repeat their previous victory. He intends shifting his lineup a little from previous games. "Bubs" Britton will be shifted back to the secondary defence with Bill Darling, Moe Charney and Gordon Beal, Armour Munro will pair up with Frank Turville, kicking ace, on the half line.

The Bengals have one victory to their credit over the Senators by a large score and on past performances should win quite handily. However, Ottawa teams in the past have always fought almost bitterly against Hamilton teams in the Capital city and while this year's Senatorial machine is somewhat young and inexperienced it is potentially strong and capable of surprising the fans by giving the Tigers a real argument.

Incidentally the Interprovincial Union players and fans are wondering these days who will receive the Jeff Russell trophy, awarded annually to the player voted the cleanest and best player during the season. Montreal has named Captain Bert Adams, stellar middle wing, and Gordon Perry, probably the greatest broken field runner in the game to-day. Toronto Argos named Frank Turville and Gordie Beal, clever quarter-back. The other two clubs will also name two players this week.

The University of Toronto, undefeated leaders of the Intercollegiate Union, entrained for Montreal this morning, where they meet McGill University at Molson Stadium tomorrow. The Varsity squad has been working out all week with Argos and the Varsity Orphans of the O.R.F.U.

While Varsity is expected to keep its winning record intact, McGill has been training diligently, polishing up line-plays and speeding up the tacklers and half backs. Major Stuart Forbes, coach of the Red Shirted Montrealers, has not had much luck so far this season, the team having lost three straight starts, but a victory over Varsity would recompensate for the disappointments, he says.

Stellar Clash

Queen's University, holders of the Intercollegiate crown, and University of Western Ontario, clash at Kingston in a decidedly uncertain game. The Tri-color squad is confident of victory even though Coach Harry Batstone takes the Mustang threat seriously and has driven his players through stiff workouts nearly every day.

Both Western and Queens' will be at full strength and while the Tricolor players are confident of winning, so are the Mustangs. In the previous meeting between the squads the champions won when a Western half back muffed a catch and a Queen's player dribbled it over the London goal line for a try and the Tri-colors only score.

Of the three games scheduled in the Ontario Rugby Union Senior series, that between Tiger Cubs and Windsor at Hamilton will probably hold the most interest. A victory for the Cubs will practically clinch the Western group honors, while a Windsor triumph will give several other teams a further chance.

Kitchener and Sarnia Imperials, last year's champions and Eastern Canada finalists with Tigers, meet at the Tunnel City to break the deadlock for second place. Victory for either team coupled with a Cub defeat would create a tie for the leadership.

In the Eastern group Balmy Beach meet Varsity Orphans in a game preceding the Argo-Montreal tussle. Beaches have already beaten the Orphans and are expected to clinch the Eastern title by duplicating their previous performance.

SIXTEEN UNDEFEATED TEAMS RISK RECORDS IN U. S. TILTS

Many of These Unblemished Records Due For Chipping on Saturday.

DARTMOUTH AT YALE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Sixteen undefeated and untied football teams are risking their records in games scheduled for the week-end. There are 18 other teams of more or less importance which have lost no games and have had no ties. Two of these, Duquesne in the east, and Oregon on the far cost, are to be idle Saturday.

Many of these unblemished records are due for some chipping Saturday. Here in the east, Dartmouth may be hard put to win if Albie Booth, small Yale halfback, has one of his good days.

In the south, Alabama and Kentucky, red-hot rivals for the Southern Conference championship, will meet at Lexington. Neither has been beaten nor tied. It is expected no game this season will be more fiercely fought than Saturday's contest at Lexington.

Detroit has breezed through the first half of its program with a perfect record, but meets Iowa at Detroit Saturday and Iowa is far from a pushover.

Kansas, another midwestern leader, will play Pennsylvania, which has lost but a single game, while the unbeaten Northwestern varsity plays Minnesota. Notre Dame is a third midwest team without defeat or tie and should remain in that class after playing Indiana Saturday.

Back in the east, Fordham is playing West Virginia. Fordham is the only team in the country without defeat, tie or enemy points. West Virginia's sophomore team has improved vastly in the past couple of weeks but the Rams will be wide favorites.

Western Maryland's fine young squad will risk its record against the husky U. S. Marines. Allegheny might get its first beating of the year in meeting Grove City. Last year's game was won by Grove City by a wide margin.

Cornell, undefeated and untied, and primed for action after a fortnight's rest, plays Columbia here. A Columbia victory would be a real surprise. Little St. John's of Brooklyn goes over to Scranton to play Saint Thomas.

Other undefeated and untied teams are Georgia and Clemson who play Florida and Tennessee, respectively.

Utah and Washington State, far west teams with perfect records, are to tackle Colorado Aggies and Oregon State.

Winnipeg Confident Of Defeating Regina

WINNIPEG, Oct. 31.—(CP)—Winnipeg's 145-pound edition of Yale's Albie Booth tonight had completed the process of dressing-down and polishing his St. John's football machinery and was ready to lead his huskies into playdown battle Saturday against Regina Roughriders at the Saskatchewan capital.

Slender little Tommy Mobberley, who coaches his burly Saints on week nights and personally shows them the way in Saturday conflict, was satisfied his champions of Manitoba would get past their greatest obstacle along the Western title path—Al Ritchie's Roughrider defenders.

ROAD RACES ON THANKSGIVING

Following Custom of Many Years Y.M.C.A. Planning Program For Holiday.

6-MILE SENIOR RELAY.

Thanksgiving Day will not pass without some athletic competition in the city. Following its custom for many years the Y.M.C.A. has planned a program of road races, which is intended to give all runners in the city an opportunity to show their speed. On the list is a six-mile senior relay race and a junior mile-and-a-half handicap gallop, for boys under 18.

Both races are open to all the racing talent in the city and neighboring countryside. The senior relay will be for teams of four runners. It will start from the Y.M.C.A. at 10.30 in the morning and finish at the same place.

The boys have been taking trial sprints for several weeks and are expected to be in fine condition. A large entry is looked for in the junior race which will get away at 11.15.

Entries for the races should be handed to Doug. Loomis, physical director, not later than Saturday, November 8.

QUAKERS WILL SHOW UP WELL

Appointment of Smeaton as Pilot Good Move on Part Leonard.

HAVE SMART PLAYERS.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31. (CP)—The Philadelphia Quakers, known as the Pittsburgh Pirates before Benny Leonard moved his franchise into this city apparently have a chance to go some place in the National Hockey League this season.

The players themselves believe they have an opportunity. The appointment of Cooper Smeaton as manager and coach of the team met with the approval of the performers, who were dissatisfied with conditions last year.

Smeaton, former referee-in-chief of the league, is a war veteran and knows how to handle men. He is a fighter and expects his team to fight for him.

"I know, there are better teams than the Quakers in the league,' says Smeaton, "but we are going to have a fighting combination. If each and every man will give his best I'll be satisfied."

Smeaton has retained ten men from last season's team for the time being and 36 youngsters picked up in the eastern and western sections of Canada have been brought here for a tryout and some are expected to make the grade.

Joe Miller, goal tender, Roger Smith, Herb. Drury, Johnny McKinnon, Hib Milks, Hal Darragh, Cliff Barton, Ren Manners, Bud Jarvis and Jerry Lowrey are the veterans of last season who will, no doubt, remain with the club.

SAINTS ENTER S.P.A. SERIES

St. John's Hockey Club Re-organized at Meeting Last Night.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Reorganizing for the season last night, St. John's Hockey Club, who will as usual operate a Junior O. H.A. team during the coming campaign, decided to enter the S.P.A. series. The Saints took part in the pre-season clash last year and after defeating University of Toronto Schools in the first round were eliminated by Brantford in an overtime second-round battle.

It was felt that participation in the S.P.A. series was both good training and good experience. It is likely that the team will have several preliminary workouts at Oshawa before the S.P.A. schedule opens.

At last night's meeting officers for the season were elected as follows:

Hon. President—Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave.

Hon. Vice-presidents—C. G. Graham, Col. Charles Ackerman, R. M. Glover, Hon. G. N. Gordon, E. A. Peck, M.P., J. P. Strickland, M.P.P., W. G. Morrow, Harold Morrow, George A Macdonald, W. F. Butcher, Mayor R. Denne, F. D. Kerr, E. Payne, J. Pattie, V. Tully.

President—F. D. Craig.

Secretary—B. E. Park.

Treasurer—Bert Austin.

Club Physician—Dr. Hewett.

Executive—M. Hartley, Joe Dunkerley, "Doc." Hewett, Terry Hall, and H. Ross.

While St. John's have lost Archie Weir, who is with Niagara Falls, and Gordie Guthbertson, who is attending Varsity, and Joe Dunkerley, Doc. Hewett, Terry Hall, and Leo Burke of last year's team are now over age, they have considerable material with which to rebuild as Miller, Howe, White, Calladine, Gardner, and other last year players are still available. Among out-of-town prospects lining up with the Saints are Wesley, who played in Ottawa, and Robertson, who was with Port Elgin last season.

PARASITE EATS DISEASE GERMS

Yale Professor Finds New and Effective Remedy For Infectious Disorders.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Oct. 31.—(C.P.)—Discovery of a new and effective treatment for infectious diseases, introduction into diseased persons of a parasite that literally eats the disease germs has been reported to the Academy of Medicine.

Discoverer of the new treatment is Dr. Felix D'Herelle, professor of bacteriology at Yale, who has been experimenting with the treatment for several years.

The germ eaters are known as bacteriophagi and are found in patients convalescent from disease.

He treated 10,000 cases of dysentery in Brazil and had only two failures. Dr D'Herelle said fou patients in Egypt suffering from bubonic plague were cured by injection of the bacteriophagi into the swellings. In India three years ago he treated Asiatic cholera by that method and despite adverse conditions had a mortality rate of only 8 per cent among his patients while the general mortality rate from the disease was 62.9.

"It is the specific treatment par excellence," Dr. D'Herelle said.

Unlike Conny Smythe's Maple Leafs, who are doing their training in the open at Parry Sound, Ont., the New York Rangers, under the management of Les Patrick (shown above), are going through their conditioning stunts indoors with the Toronto Ravina rink as their headquarters. The top panel shows a particularly aggressive bit of action around the goal with Alfie Moore apparently being hard pressed to keep the attackers at bay.

Young Woman's Death To Be Investigated

SIMCOE, Oct. 31 (C.P.).—Inspector Hammond of the Ontario Provincial Police, Toronto, is here making an investigation into the death of Vida Worden at the Norfolk General Hospital here last Tuesday. The circumstances of the young woman's death were reported to W. E. Kelly, K.C., County Crown Attorney, by the hospital authorities, and a request was made to the Attorney-General's Department that a special officer be sent.

A post-mortem examination of the remains has been made, and a report will be submitted to an inquest that has been commenced by Coroner W. A. McIntosh and adjourned until next Monday evening.

The remains were taken to Bowmanville for interment.

SUN LIFE DINNER HELD IN LINDSAY

LINDSAY, October 31 (Examiner Correspondence).—Twenty-five ladies and gentlemen gathered at the Hotel Benson on Wednesday night, the occasion being the annual dinner held by the Lindsay unit of the Sun Life Assurance of Canada. Mr. C. V. Sleep, unit manager, acted as toastmaster. The Lindsay unit is one of the largest, embracing Victoria, Muskoka, and Parry Sound. The main addresses of the evening were delivered by M. J. Wootten of Peterborough, maanger of the Central Ontario Division. C. Ray, F. Marshall and R. Killaly, all of Peterborough. Their addresses were along educational lines.

A number of community songs helped to make the meeting interesting.

BANNOCKBURN FIELD NATIONAL MEMORIAL

Movement to Save Historic Battelgrounds is Well Under Way in Edinburgh.

EDINBURGH, Oct. 31 (C.P.)—An appeal for $125,000 has been launched by the Field of Bannockburn National Committee to enable the committee to preserve the Bannockburn battlegrounds as a national memorial. The committee was recently formed for this purpose with Lord Elgin at its head.

The committee has obtained an option on the property, Lord Elgin states, but negotiations with regard to the question of price have not yet been concluded though it is estimated that $125,000 will cover the cost of the preservation of the historic field of Bannockburn. The Scottish banks have indicated their willingness to co-operate in the appeal for funds, according to Lord Elgin, and Lord Balfour of Burleigh has undertaken to solicit the aid of banks abroad.

SUPPER HELD IN CONNECTION WITH ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

Excellent Program Under Chairmanship of Rev. T. M. Wesley Following Dinner.

MUSICAL NUMBERS.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 31 (Examiner Correspondence).—The dinner and concert held on Tuesday of this week in connection with the anniversary of Knox United Church went over as a great and outstanding success. The dinner was served by the ladies and the tables were prettily decorated and delicious viands were in abundance.

Following the dinner an excellent program was given in the auditorium with the Rev. T. M. Wesley in the chair. The statement from the chairman that the program was 'all cream and no skim milk,' was justified for the program was well balanced throughout. The talent included some excellent local artists and Mr. and Mrs. Greenslade and a group of friends from Peterborough added not a little to the general enjoyment and to the quality of the program.

The first item was a piano duet, "Sonata in D," by the Misses Evelyn Grant and Phyllis Charlton, a well rendered selection by two talented children. Mr. Greenslade's male quartette, a remarkably fine musical organization, gave two numbers, "There are Women," and an amusing number in the pidgen English of the Chinese-American, were heartily received. Henry Batten, who is always a favorite with a Lakefield audience, sang "Lay My Head Beneath a Rose," and Mrs. T. W. Chaplin gave two very amusing readings in a delightful manner which charmed the audience, "Miss Maloney on the Chinese Question," and "Miss Edith Helps Things Along." Mrs. Braund, of Peterborough, who is not altogether a stranger to Lakefield audiences, sang "The Piper of Love," and responded to an encore. A mixed quartette, equally as well balanced as the male quartette, rang a couple of selections which were received with enthusiasm. Miss Hetherington played two piano selections which were much enjoyed.

Miss Black, who was among the guest soloists at Sunday's services, sang sweetly, "There's the same old chair still waiting," and "Little Pink Rose in My Garden." The male quartette sang, "Some Day," a sacred number, which was one of the highlights of the program.

Mr. Robinson, of Peterborough, contributed a violin solo and obligingly responded to an encore. Mr. Robinson played extremely well and is a thorough master of his instrument.

Mrs. J. R. Hull and Henry Batten sand a duet, and an encore. Mrs. Braund sang Tosti's "Goodbye," which suited her voice admirably, and in response to an encore sang the old favorite, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny."

The Misses Verna Payne and Evelyn Grant played "Diana" as a piano duet and in a manner which showed talent.

Mrs. J. R. Hull's sweet voice was heard to advantage in "The Garden of Today," and Miss Evelyn Grant played Beethoven's "Sonatina" in a brilliant manner.

The last number was given by the mixed quartette, "Summer Morning," and measured up to the others in every respect. Mrs. Greenslade, Miss Hetherington and Miss Etta Garbutt were the accompanists. A splendid orchestra entertained the audience prior to the beginning of the program.

The Rev. T. M. Wesley, in thanking all who had assisted, spoke of the financial success of the anniversary which will almost if not quite reach the financial objective. The services on Sunday were an inspiration and the concert will remain a pleasant memory as a feast of good things in its way quite as much as the dinner which was par excellence.

MASONS ATTEND DIVINE SERVICE

IMPRESSIVE ADDRESS.

HASTINGS, Oct. 31 (Examiner Correspondence).—Members of Hastings Lodge, G.R.C., A.F. & A.M., attended Divine service on Sunday evening at Trinity United Church. The members were strengthened by members from Norwood, Warkworth and Campbellford. They formed in line in front of the lodge rooms at 6:45 and marched in a body to the church.

Rev. H. J. Bell, M.A., B.D., pastor of the church, preached an eloquent sermon, taking his text from II Timothy:2, "Study to show thyself approved unto God, that needeth not to be ashamed rightly dividing the word of truth." It was pointed out that a more correct rendering would be "holding a straight course is the word of truth," indicating that falsehood or error built into any fabric would inevitably entail overthrow. The Masonic order is a great fraternal body and commendable, first because of the spirit of loyalty which unifies and binds all the brethren in a common cause; secondly because of the motto, 'hear, see, keep silence,' for the virtue of silence often protects individuals from suffering and honored names from disgrace; thirdly, because of its foundation upon a religious basis, requiring a belief in the great Architect of the Universe, and the practice of the Sacred duties of Morality. It is necessary, however, to be cautious and accept warning here, for a Mohammedan could subscribe to these requirements if allowed to place his own interpretation upon them. The necessity of definite standards is apparent, and these standards are found in Jesus Christ. In the fourth place the order is to be commended because of its tolerant attitude regarding faiths and creeds, but again a warning is in order, for tolerance towards evil becomes itself a sin, as in the case of Eli who stood condemned, not because his sons "made themselves vile," but because he restrained them not."

There is great power in unity, as evidenced by the organized power of hornets in defending their nest, or the great collective power of the multitude of blades in a steam turbine. But power of any kind wrongly used brings destruction. The brethren were, therefore, injoined to guard against wrong uses of the power of their order. It should never be used to sanction or protect wrongdoing or crime, to oppress the weak, to glorify the organizations as such, forgetting that no organization has value except as it serves and uplifts humanity. Neither should this power be used to make religion difficult for anyone. If the power be always exercised for the service and the moral and spiritual advancement of mankind, great good is bound to result.

"Onward Christian Soldiers," "God Lend Us Men" and "Keep Thyself Pure" were the hymns used during the service. The choir also rendered special music, consisting of an anthem and a trio.

On returning to the lodge rooms, the members voted a hearty vote of thanks to the Rev. J. H. Bell for his excellent address.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY FOOLS RED FOX.

Uncle Wiggily, carrying a new feather duster, which he had bought for Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, was hopping across the fields on his way home to his hollow stump bungalow. Now and then the old rabbit gentleman would stop when he got to the top of a little hill and look over the meadow and toward the woods.

"I didn't see him yet, but I think he is coming!" said Uncle Wiggily, talking to himself and smiling as he looked at the feather duster.

Then he hopped on to the next hill and looked again.

"There he comes!" exclaimed the rabbit. "There's Reddy Fox and I must go slow to give him a chance to catch up to me. Then I'll fool him. Ha! Ha! Ha! How I shall fool him!"

It might seem funny for Uncle Wiggily to go slow and give Red Fox a chance to catch up to him, so I had better tell you about it. Red Fox was a cousin to Fuzzy Fox and had come to visit this Bad Chap in his den not far from Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow. The Bob Cat, with Fuzzy Fox and Red Fox, made up a game to catch Uncle Wiggily, each Bad Chap taking a different path. But Uncle Wiggily, who was coming home from the store with the new feather duster, happened to be back of a bush when the three Bad Chaps were talking about catching the rabbit gentleman. And Uncle Wiggily heard Red Fox say he had never seen a rabbit, so he didn't know how Uncle Wiggily looked to catch him even if he should meet him.

Fuzzy Fox told his cousin, Red Fox, just how Mr. Longears looked, down to his queer little tail. And Fuzzy Fox made the Bob Cat show his silly little tail so Red Fox would see how Uncle Wiggily's tail looked.

"Oh, I can easily know that Uncle Wiggily rabbit now if I see him!" barked Red Fox, once he had seen Bob Cat's tail. "I can't make a mistake now. "I'll catch Mr. Longears and then I'll holler and you two can come to the party."

So Uncle Wiggily, knowing that Red Fox would be the easiest of the Bad Chaps to fool, had watched which way he took and then had taken the same path himself to his bungalow.

"Yes, there he comes!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily as, from the top of a hill he had seen Red Fox loping along "His path will cross mine a little farther along. We shall meet by the big oak tree and there I'll fool him! Ha! Ha! Ha!"

Uncle Wiggily hopped along. Along came loping Red Fox, but Uncle Wiggily reached the oak tree first and, hiding behind it, he fastened the feather duster to his own little, short tail.

"Now we'll see what happens," whispered the rabbit. He sat down on a log in plain view and waited for Red Fox to come up. This soon happened and when the Fox saw the rabbit's long ears, his fur coat, his tall silk hat and his pink, twinkling nose, just as Fuzzy Fox had said, why Red Fox smiled all over his hungry face and cried:

Take a look! Invited Uncle Wiggily

"I've got you! I've got you! Ha! Ha! I've got you!"

"Oh, how do you do?" asked Uncle Wiggily politely, getting up off the log. "But I think you have made a mistake. I don't know you and you don't know me."

"Oh, yes I do!" barked Red Fox. "You are Uncle Wiggily the rabbit my cousin Fuzzy Wuzzy told me about. I see your long ears, your pink nose and if you will turn around I'll see your little short tail and then I'll be sure you are Uncle Wiggily."

"Take a look!" invited Uncle Wiggily as he turned around. The feather duster was fastened to his little short tail, hiding it well. Red Fox looked and looked again, his eyes popping wide open.

"This is queer!" he growled.

"What is queer?" asked Uncle Wiggily politely.

"That tail of yours," went on Red Fox. "You are Uncle Wiggily all but the tail. No rabbit ever had a fuzzy, bushy tail like that so you can't be Mr. Longears. I must have made a mistake. I beg your pardon."

"Oh, that's all right," said the bunny politely as he wiggled the feather duster tail and tickled the Red Fox on his nose. "We all make mistakes. That, as somebody has said, is why they put rubbers on the end of lead pencils. But no harm is done. So I'll be on my way."

"Dear me! What a mistake I made!" growled Red Fox. "I say," he called after the hopping rabbit, "you haven't seen Uncle Wiggily, by any chance, have you?"

"Oh, yes, I saw him this morning," said Mr. Longears. Which was true enough for he had looked in the glass to see if his pink nose was on straight, and he saw himself. "Well, better luck next time!" chuckled the bunny uncle as he hopped to his bungalow with his feather duster tail. Red Fox shook his head wonderingly.

Havelock

Why the Leaves Fall.

In the tropical region, trees usually keep most of their leaves the year round, and this is true also of some of the northern evergreens, such as the pine, spruce, etc. But the greater number of the common forest trees that grow in temperate climes pass through the winter months without their leafy garments. There are two important reasons for the fall of the leaf. During the cold weather, when the ground is near or at the freezing point, the roots of the plant are unable to absorb much soil water, and if the broad-leaved trees retained their foliage, the leaves would give off so much moisture the trees would dry up and die. Furthermore, in countries where there is a heavy snowfall, the branches of the trees would become overburdened with snow if the leaves remained on them, and would consequently suffer injury.

Important changes take place in the cells of the leaf, before its work is over, for its valuable food materials are absorbed by the branches and roots, to be used again the following spring. Across the base of the petiole a layer of cork cells form, and at the proper time there is a break at this point. Then the leaf falls to the ground, forming, with thousands of others, a protective blanket for the roots of the tree. Even the dead leaves are useful; the rains dissolve out their mineral contents, and these help in fertilizing the soil. It is a pretty fancy that the gorgeous color of the "painted autumn leaves" are the work of the frost, but scientists tell us that the leaf turns red or yellow, because of chemical changes that take place in its cells, as it is reaching the end of its period of activity.

A novel pair of nut-crackers which has met with the approval of the Prince of Wales consists of two golf clubs with heads together.

MURRAY STREET HOLDS SUPPER

Annual Fowl Supper of Women's Association is Well Attended.

HALLOWE'EN COLORS.

The members of the Women's Association of Murray street Baptist Church were hostesses last evening at a very successful and well-attended fowl supper held in the church parlors under their auspices. Over three hundred people enjoyed a bountiful repast of delicious home-made viands at tables decorated with Hallowe'en colors and orange candles in silver candlesticks. The guests were received by the president, Mrs. F. Irons, and convenors were Mrs. R. Gavine and Mrs. W. R. Breyfogle.

The members of the society provided competent and energetic support for the arrangements. Mrs. B. Jackson, Mrs. T. Irwin and Mrs. A. Scott looked after the vegetables, Mrs H. Webber the rolls, Mrs. J. Kingsbury the coffee, Mrs. A. Wray and Mrs. H. Tewsley the pies. Treasurers were Mrs. D. A. Loomis, Mrs. W. Kidd and Miss E. Aldridge.

Ladies who were in charge of the tables, assisted by a large group of willing helpers, included Mesdames Brumwell, R. Hendry, H. Lord, Strickland, G. W. Fitzgerald, G. Post, H. Fry, L. H. Ingram, H. Campbell, J. Ward.

They Dare Not Call Him Skinny Any More

No, never again—he found a way to add 15 pounds of solid, stay-there flesh to his bones, and his sturdy, manly figure causes taunting young men to know their place—he can handle any of them now.

Skinny men and frail youngsters need and should have the weight building, vitalizing substance in McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets to develop bones, body, and mind — they put energy and ambition into weak people—they make you vigorous.

Get 60 sugar coated tablets (McCoy's) at McDermid & Jury, McDermid's, Bond's, Lynch, and Payne's or any drug store anyhere—take them as directed for 28 days—then if you don't gain at least 5 pounds get your money back.—Just ask for McCoy's.

NEW OFFICERS TAKE CHARGE OF MEETING

Wide-awakes C.G.I.T. Group at Millbrook Holds Weekly Gathering.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 31 (Examiner Correspondence).—The weekly meeting of the Wide Awakes C.G.I.T. group was held on Wednesday evening at the leader's home, with a good attendance of members, and an interesting gathering throughout.

The new officers were in their respective positions for the first time since election, the chair being taken by the president, Miss Marian O'Brian, with Miss Helen Mitchell at the secretary's table.

The discussion of business items included arrangements for the Hallowe'en social evening which the girls have been invited to spend at the home of Mrs. H. A. Earle, Fourth Line, Cavan, on Friday, October 31, cars to leave the Waverley Inn at 7:15 p.m. A new list of visitors for a shut-in member for weekly service was made out, and it was also arranged to send a shower of Hallowe'en cards to another member who was reported laid aside through ill health.

Postponement of the usual public Hallowe'en entertainment, which the group sponsors each year, was made necessary owing to the renovation program being carried out in the Sunday School auditorium of Saint Andrew's Church, the date when this event may be presented being necessarily uncertain.

During the devotional period the Scriptare lesson was read in unison, and the leader's talk centred on the theme, "Seeing Christ's Face in Others," a period of prayer closing the meeting. The usual social hour with a contest and music was enjoyed at the close.

Glee Club Reorganized.

The Glee Club, in connection with the local Continuation School, has been reorganized for another year, with the following officers: President, Jean Stinson; vice-president, Wilson Ford; secretary-treasurer, Sadie Rowland; pianist, Mary Burnham; assistant pianist, William Todd. Executive: The officers, with the addition of K. Donnelly.

The club begins its activities for the year with a meeting next Wednesday evening, November 5, at the president's home.

An association made up of practically all of the important paper mills of Brazil has agreed to operate at only 66 per cent of capacity.

BRANTFORD CHOIR RECEIVES PRAISE

Canadians to Appear in Royal Albert Hall, London, on Monday.

CONDUCTOR LAUDED.

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 31. (By Thos. T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent). — The Brantford mixed choir will appear at the Royal Albert Hall here on Monday evening.

The choir competed in the famous Blackpool musical festival on Saturday last and achieved fourth place in stern competition. They have been appearing in the northern parts of the country and in Scotland since their arrival, and their efforts have been received with great appreciation.

The Yorkshire Post, whose critic is discriminating in such matters, said the choir's performance at Leeds last night was excellent and the quality of the choir's material was well displayed. "Now and again the attack of the women might have been a trifle neater, and in the brahms the intonation was once or twice not perfect, but the general effect was excellent and the madrigal, 'Lightly she Tripped,' was quite admirably done". The Post said.

The choir was received by the Lord Mayor of Leeds, and also visited St. Aidan's Church where Dr. H. A. Fricker, now of Toronto, was formerly organist.

LOW BIRTH-RATE.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—(C.P.)—London's latest birth-rate return is the lowest on record, but there is a "vast improvement in general intelligence," according to the Medical Officer of Health of the London County Council. The environment of the child today, he adds, is incomparably better than at the time of Dickens. There are about 30,000 basement dwellings in London which are considered unfit for human habitation. Not all of these are separately occupied, and they are housing 100,000 people.

THE RETURN OF TARZAN No. 41 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

It was quite dark before La, the high priestess, returned to the Chamber of the Dead with food and water for Tarzan. She bore no light, but through the stone grating above a tropic moon served dimly to illuminate the interior. The ape-man, crouching in the shadows, came forth to meet the girl as he recognized it was she.

"They are furious," were her first words. "Never before has a human sacrifice escaped the altar. They have searched the temple—all save this room, which they fear. Already fifty have gone forth to track you down. Come, let us see how far we can go towards liberty before I must return." Silently Tarzan followed her from the grisly spirit chamber.

She led him back to a place beneath the altar room. Ten minutes they grouped their way down a secret winding passage, coming to a closed door. Tarlan heard her fumble with a key. A metal bolt gave way and they entered. "You will be safe here until tomorrow night," she said. Then she went out and locked the door behind her.

Not even Tarzan's trained eyes could penetrate the utter blackness. Cautiously he felt his way about. Finally he stopped. A distinct draft of fresh air was blowing in somewhere between the massive stones. Carefully he tested several and was rewarded. One lifted out readily. To his surprise he thought he discerned a faint glow directly ahead of him.

UNUSED GARMENTS FOR WAR VETERANS

Canadian Legion Auxiliary Making Over Garments Given By Citizens.

Anyone having unused garments of any type that might be made over, is requested to send them to the hall of the Canadian Legion.

In common with so many other residents of the city, returned men are suffering just now from the prevalent unemployment situation. The ladies of the Auxiliary to the Legion are doing their bit, as always, to help the men and their dependents. They will take garments of any kind and re-make and re-fit them to suit the needs of the men, their wives and their children.

Just now, the ladies are very busy with preparations for their annual bazaar, to be held on November 19th and 20th. The proceeds will be used for assisting returned men and their dependents during the coming winter months.

Peter DeCarlonis, fruit dealer of 416 George street, is doing his bit to help the unemployed by offering to let all who come to the store have certain goods that are left over from each day's stock.

Daily, fruits and vegetables are thrown out that are quite fit for food. A large amount of celery known as "outside" stock goes out in this way that would make excellent soup. Apples too, by the peck, are unsalable to those who demand only the freshest and finest of fruits.

Anyone who cares to call at his store may have any of this stock for the asking.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

NOT BEARS AND BULLS.

Activities of bears and bulls usually form the chief topic of discussion in stock brokers' office, but yesterday the story of a battle with a rat came in for due comment fom the clients of Biggar and Crawford's local office. Jack Baird, board man at the office, was the hero of the piece. The rat, a huge one, found its way into the piping in the basement of the brokerage office. Its squeals attracted Mr. Baird's attention.' He poured water in the pipe which forced the rat to rise. When it rose to the top he killed it with a sudden blow with a stick.

LAST DAY FOR OLD PERMITS.

The Government liquor store on George Street was a busy place to-day as many customers filed in to get their last supply of liquor on their permits. All liquor permits become void to-day, and to-morrow the customers must pay out $2 for new pasteboards before they can purchase any of the joyous liquid. It is to be expected that the sale of permits will be lower this winter, because of unemployment. Officials at the store admit that sales have dropped greatly in the past two months, and they state that the recent Government edict that no one out of work can buy liquor has long been the policy of the local store.

OBITUARY

VELVA A. TOMPKINS

LINDSAY, Oct. 31 (Examiner Correspondence).—The death occurred at Weston on October 30 of Miss Velva Tompkins, who was esteemed and respected by a host of friends in Lindsay and Peterborough. The deceased held a responsible position in the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company, eight years with the Lindsay branch and four years at Peterborough. The late Miss Tompkins had been ailing for some time, and was in her twenty-fourth year.

The funeral services were conducted by Adjutant Bond of the Salvation Army, Rev. Mr. Goldring of St. Paul's Anglican Church, and Rev. Mr. Holmes of the Baptist Church. Interment took place at Riverside cemetery, Lindsay.

CARNIVAL OF FUN ENVELOPES CITY FOR HALLOWE'EN

After Dusk Strange and Weird Forms Make Thier Appearance on Streets.

PARADE IS HELD.

Two Rangers Bands Aid in Making the Parade and Evening a Success.

"There was a sound of revelry by night...." How forcefully were the words crowded back into memory last night, by the host of jolly and grotesquely attired people who paraded the principle thoroughfares of the city in honor of the age old traditions of Hallowe'en—the night on which it is reputed, witches and gnomes appear to mingle with us, mere mortals.

Peterborough certainly rose grandly to the occasion, despite the fact that the management of The Examiner, were expending their efforts in a more practical manner, instead of going to the expense of organizing the much-looked for parade, which has for years past been one of the institutions of this journal.

Generous Response

Following on a suggestion by Alderman Fred Tuggey, that this year The Examiner should celebrate Hallowe'en by sponsoring an appeal for the less fortunate members of the community, The Examiner office was last night besieged by callers who each had something in the way of creature comforts to leave, which will be distributed from this office. It was but further evidence of the big-heartedness and generosity of the citizens as a whole—a spirit which has played a large part in creating the enviable position which Peterborough occupies among the cities of this Province.

As dusk fell, strange forms began to put in an appearance on the streets. Their numbers increased and by eight o'clock there was a motley collection of humanity, milling around on Murray street, outside the Armouries.

Weird and fantastic costumes, compared strangley with those of a more artistic and picturesque nature. The fun-makers all wore masks, or grease paint. Their numbers were made up of people of all ages, all sizes and both sexes. Some women masqueraded as men; while numerous men donned the insignia of their better halves.

Much ingenuity was displayed in some of the costumes worn, and their variety ranged all the way from comic strip characters, to "London Johnnies" complete with topper and monacle and from the romantic costume of the Spanish Buccaneer to to the "wild and woolly" outfits of the Western cowhand.

Examiner Costume

Other unique costumes of outstanding merit were those of the "coster" in his pearly suit and a young lady completely attired in a costume fashioned out of The "Examiner."

Briefly it was a very cosmopolitan-looking crowd that set off from the Armouries with a snap and verve, to the martial strains of the Peterborough Rangers Band. But what a comical looking band it was. Gone were the smart red tunics and the erect military gait and in place appeared a bedraggled and amazing assortment of humanity. Members of the drum and bugle band who brought up the rear, presented an even more comical spectacle.

Crowds of people lined the route which took the parade south on George and west on Charlotte, to the square outside the C.N.R. freight offices, where the revellers "cut loose" and danced well into the night to the music supplied from the amplifiers and other equipment of the Macdonald Tobacco Company's advertising truck.

With the dance at it's height and the street completely blocked, a fire alarm was received from the south end of the city. The most direct route for the department, lay down Aylmer street, but they were forced to detour. On arrival at Box 7 from which place the alarm had been rung in, it was found to be but a hoax. Probably it was somebody's idea of a good Hallowe'en joke, but the matter was not regarded in that light by the men on shift who had to respond.

Aid to Unemployed

The spirit of Hallowe'en translated itself into concrete form last night, when it arrived at The Examiner office in the form of several bags of potatoes, a large quantity of carrots and other vegetables, clothing, old and new, jars of preserves, cans of Carnation milk and Fray Bentos beef, loaves of bread.

DO-X Will Winter In North America

ALTENHREIN, Switzerland, Nov. 1 (C.P.)—The Dornier Works announced to-day that the giant DO-X, largest airplane in the world, would remain in North America for the entire winter after its forthcoming flight across the Atlantic to New York.

It will make flights to various parts of the United States, but its itinerary was not revealed.

DO-X WILL START ATLANTIC FLIGHT SUNDAY MORNING

Initial Lap Will Carry Giant Flying Boat to Amsterdam.

CARRIES 18 HOURS FUEL.

Schedule Calls For Stops at Lisbon, Azores, Fuel Ship, and Bermuda.

ALTRENHEIN, Switzerland, November 1 (C.P.). — The biggest airplane in the world, the Dornier DO-X, was groomed today for a start to-morrow on the first lap of a trans-Atlantic trip to New York.

Room for 100 Passengers.

The huge metal bird, which can carry more than 100 passengers, will have 20,000 liters (about 4,400 gallons) of fuel in its tanks, enough to keep its twelve engines delivering their 7,200 horse-power for 18 hours.

To-morrow at 8 a.m., weather permitting, the plane will taxi along the placid waters of Lake Constance, rising quickly and gracefully for a start to Amsterdam and its first departure from the sheltered district in which it was built.

The cruise will be about six hours' length along the route of the Rhine and thence across Holland to its chief city. The ship's longest flight until now has been of five and one-half hours and did not take the craft away from its home lake. It is possible that the ship, leaving here, will descend first at Friedrichshafen, just across the lake, in order to make its official hop-off from a German port.

Spectators may have an opportunity to see Germany's two greatest aviation achievements in the air at the same time since the Graf Zeppelin is scheduled to leave Friedrichshafen at 8 a.m. on cruise to Chemnitz.

Weather Must be Right.

Much depends upon the weather and Commander Christiansen says that he will postpone the take off if conditions are not exactly right, not only here but at any place along the route to New York. This itinerary is given as from here to Amsterdam, to Lisbon, to the Azores, to a fuel ship midway to Bermuda, Bermuda and New York.

The ship expects to leave Lisbon for the Azores on November 10, at the earliest. It probably will arrive in New York about two days later.

2 BADLY HURT BY FIRE TRUCK CHIEF JAILED

Lucan Police Head Arrested By Own Constable After Striking Car.

WAS TESTING MACHINE.

Elginfield Woman Suffers Head Injuries, Son Hurt Internally.

LONDN, Ont., Nov. 1—Harry Lankin Chief of Police at Lucan found himself in Middlesex jail today after an acciden; while driving the village fire truck late yesterday afternoon and seriously injuring two people. Lankin, who is also an official of the Fire Department, was arrested by Constable Arthur Wharton on a charge of criminal negligence, as a result of the accident which occurred on the main street of Lucan.

Testing Truck

According to the police, the Lucan Chief climbed into the fire truck, bent on giving it a test run about the village. Disaster soon overtook the heavy machine when it crashed into the side of a parked car causing grave injury to its two occupants.

The injured are Mrs. John Harris of Elginfield and her son, Russell who was driving the light car.

Mrs. Harris suffering from head injuries, while the son sustained severe internal injuries.

THREE HURT AT FIRE.

HALIFAX, N.S., November 1. — Fire which broke out last night in the basement of Fraser's Service Station, Granville Street, resulted in damage estimated at $4,000. Captain Ryan of the Brunswick Street Station, was rescued from the burning building partly overcome by smoke, and two firemen were injured by falling from the roof into an areaway. Their injuries were not serious.

PETERBORO HUNTERS PREPARING FOR GREATEST EVENT OF YEAR

Four Different Parties From This City Will Take Part In Hunt.

INTO VARIOUS SECTIONS.

Deer, bear and wolf in Northern Ontario are due to be rudely roused from their peaceful existence this coming week, when Peterborough's mighty hunter sally forth for game.

At least four different parties of Peterborough men will be in the northern woods next week, the vanguard of them having left more than a week ago. The party already in the woods of the far north consists of Fred L. Roy, Dr. F. C. Neal and J. K. Hughes.

The Ketchecum Hunt Club, the oldest in the district, is "all set" and its members have visions of reaching the bag limit during their sojourn in the wilds of Cavandish township. Those who will make the trip to the club quarters on Catchacoma Lake are: George Morrow, Manson Comstock, T. H. Hooper, H. A. Morrow, George A. Macdonald, J. W. Fraser and James Hamilton.

Leave Early Monday

The Pakesley Hunt Club will hit the roads to their happy hunting ground in the Parry Sound district early Monday morning. They will travel in deluxe style aboard a special car arranged for by James Skinner of the C.P.R. The scene at the station will resemble something of the bustle of an army entraining, since there are almost twenty men in the party, and they will be hoisting dunnage, camp equipment and ten hounds into the car. The stalwarts in the party are: George Robertson, George Paudash, Ralph Godfrey, Steve Fisher, "Dad" Fisher, Collingwood, Mark Bredin, Everett Taylor, Cloy Taylor, Jimmy Heron, Dr. Meehan, Pittsburg, Pa., Bob Manruss, Pittsburg; Lorne Mitchell, Harry Keswick, Bob Jones, Hanlan Howard, Dr. Irvine, Collingwood; Walter Evans, Mel Dobson, Walter Harvey.

A squad of hunters led by "Jerry" Young will sally from Young's Point sometime early next week to scour the country about Eel's Creek in the Stoney Lake district. The nimrods from the Point do things in style. They journey up the lake on the steamer Islanda and make the craft their headquarters during the hunt.

Fred Jopling will lead a party of hardy pathfinders in the Pakesley district also. This party will be conveyed by special car into that sectio where game is said to abound, where for the past several years the

Grenville County Overrun by Deer

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 1 (C.P.).—Deer in Grenville County are so numerous this year and have caused such havoc among farmers' crops and sheep that the Department of Game and Fisheries announce there will be a regular deer season this fall from November 5 to 20.

The districts open to shooting of deer are south of the French and Mattawa Rivers. For the past four years deer shooting in Grenville has been closed.

"We have received no requests for a deer season in adjacent counties, and we gather from this date deer are not plentiful there," said Donald McDonald, Deputy Minister. "When the season is over in Grenville County it will be closed to deer shooting for another four or five years."

HEAVY SCORING FEATURES PLAY SOCCER LEAGUES

Arsenal Retains First Division Lead By Drawing With Huddersfield.

ASTON VILLA BEATS ROVERS.

Grimsby Scores Eight Goals Against Leicester While Five Other Clubs Get Seven Goals Each.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 1 (C.P. Cable)—Heavy scoring marked a number of fixtures in English League soccer today. Grimsby Town walked off the field with the great score of eight goals against Leicester City, while no fewer than five other clubs compiled a total of seven goals each.

In the English First Division, Arsenal just held their lead in the table when they drew at Huddersfield. Aston Villa, making another bid for leadership, crushed Blackburn Rovers by five goals to two, while Sheffield Wednesday continued their strong threat for topmost honors by getting seven goals against Sunderland's two.

Manchester United won their first match this season when they defeated the strong Birmingham team. Their win brought gladness to the hearts of their faithful supporters, who have resisted organized attempts to boycott the club because of its lack of success.

Chelsea's all-star forward line clicked against Blackpool. The Pensioners won neatly by three goals to nil.

In the Second Division, Everton held their lead in the championship table. They won at Reading. Preston North-End held the runners-up position, drawing with Barnsley. An unexpectedly large deficit was that of Bury against Wolverhampton Wanderers, the former team being beaten by seven goals.

Notts County Draws.

Notts County, leading the Southern section of the Third Division, had an off day, being only able to draw at Exeter.

Lincoln City, pace-setters in the Northern Section, suffered their second defeat of the season when they were beaten at Rochdale. They do not lose their lead.

Celtic pulled off a double success in the Scottish First Division games. Not only did they beat Partick Thistle handsomely, but they robbed them of their position as leading club in the standing. Celtic's lead is only on goal average, and they are bracketted with Partick, Motherwell, and Dundee for first place on points. Motherwell and Dundee were engaged in a fight for points, and the latter won out. Rangers showed they can still play a champions' game when they defeated Aberdeen by four goals to nil.

TANK EXPLOSION BURNS INSPECTOR

BLAME STATIC ELECTRICITY.

LONDON, Ont., November 1 (C.P.). — Severely burned about the face and head when a gasoline tank exploded at 8.30 this morning at the Reo Garage, Frederick Plewes, London, an inspector of the Weights and Measures Department, was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where his condition is reported as quite serious. The explosion occurred when Mr. Plewes was inspecting the tank, believed at the time to be empty of any gasoline.

Static electricity is believed to have fired fumes of gasoline which lay in the bottom of the huge tank Exery precaution had been taken by the inspector to avoid an explosion, as five gallons of water had been poured through the container a few minutes before the blast took place.

Believing that any gasoline fumes which might have been in the tank had been emptied with the water, Mr. Plewes placed the wooden measuring stick in the inside of the tank. As he peered through the hole in the upper portion of the receptacle, the interior was rent with the explosion. Flames leaped through the hole and enveloped the inspector.

Sutherland Cuddy, another inspector, was on the scene, and immediately dragged his companion from the burning tank. He then rushed him to the hospital.

KITCHENER MAN CAUGHT FIGHTING DIES IN JAIL CELL

Police Allege Walter Hagen Was Under Influence of Liquor.

HAD SLIGHT CUT ON LIP.

Coroner Doubts if Blow Caused Death—Inquest Ordered.

KITCHENER, Ont., November 1 (C.P.).— Frank Hagen, arrested by the police last night following an altercation, died in the police cells shortly before midnight about an hour after he was taken into custody by the police. Coroner Dr. F. H. Kalbfleish was called, but was unable to determine the cause of death.

A post-mortem has been ordered immediately and an inquest will be held early next week.

Struck Passer-by.

Hagen, who was under the influence of liquor, according to the police version of the affair, was standing outside the Market Building in which the annual Rotary Carnival was being held at about 10.45. He was seen to approach and strike a man who was going into the building. The man returned Hagen's blow, hitting the latter on the lip. P. C. Howelett, who was near the scene of the altercation, placed Hagen under arrest. The other man, whose identity is not known, went on his way and was lost in the carnival crowd.

In the cells Hagen showed evidences of being sick. He vomited several times. He was later found unconscious, and Dr. Kalbfleisch was called. Hagen was dead when the physician arrived. The only mark of violence was a slight cut on his lip where he was struck.

Dr. Kalbfleisch stated to-day he did not believe the blow was the cause of Hagen's death.

Appendicitis Halts Thompson's Campaign

CHICAGO, Ills., Nov. 1.— A surgeon's knife brought a sudden end to Mayor William Hale Thompson's dramatic entry into the finale of a strenuous political campaign.

Stricken with acute appendicitis, Chicago's Republican Mayor was rushed, protesting, to a hospital at the very moment when an overflow crowd in a downtown theatre waited to hear his characteristically mordant arraignment of his political foes, in this case a member of the same party, Ruth Hanna McCormick, Senatorial nominee.

An operation was performed immediately and a bulletin issued by his secretary said there was no immediate cause for alarm.

CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES ENGAGE IN HANDCLASP BENEATH GREAT WATERS OF DETROIT RIVER

Most Rev. David Williams, Metropolitan of Ontario, Pronounces Invocation at Opening.

COST $25,000,000

Great Vehicular Tunnel Has Been More Than Two Years in Building.

WINDSOR, Ont., November 1. (C.P.) — Fitting ceremonies marked the dedication and formal opening of the Windsor-Detroit vehicular tunnel this morning. Men prominent in public life in Canada and the United States participated in the activities and thousands of people gathered at both ends of the tunnel to give expression to the spirit of good will which finds example in this, the first vehicular, under-water tunnel to connect two nations.

Dedicatory services began at 10.30 o'clock, when the Most Rev. David Williams, D. D., Archbishop of Huron and Metropolitan of Ontario, pronounced the invocation. He spoke spoke from the platform at the Windsor end of the tunnel, and his voice was clearly heard by the thousands means of telephone connections and loud speakers.

Following the invocation the Hon. Fred W. Green, Governor of the State of Michigan, spoke for three minutes from the Detroit plaza, as the large gathering at the Windsor end listened in. He was honorary chairman of the day, and introduced Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit, the acting chairman. He spoke for five minutes, to be followed immediately by Mayor Cecil E. Jackson of Windsor, speaking from the Windsor end.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenbuerg, of Michigan, spoke for seven minutes from the Detroit end, and Hon. George S. Henry, acting Premier of Ontario, followed with a seven-minute address from the Canadian end. Then Col. Hanford MacNider, United States Minister to Canada, spoke for ten minutes, after which Col. Sidney C. Robinson, M.P. for Essex East, spoke for three minutes and introduced Hon. Thomas G. Murphy, Federal Minister of the Interior, who spoke for ten minutes.

Hoover Opens Tunnel.

Shortly before noon, when the program of addresses ended, President Herbert Hoover pressed a button in Washington, which actuated the great gongs beside the speakers' platforms at both ends of the tunnel, marking the official opening of the great tube. This was the signal for prolonged cheering by the immense crowds, and aerial bombs crashed overhead and bands blared forth.

Immediately following this demonstration, the amplifiers were cut off and the crowd at the Windsor end sang a verse of God Save the King, while at the Detroit end the crowd gave voice to a verse of America. Then the amplifiers were thrown in again and the crowds joined in a verse of "Two Nations By the Sea."

Music at the Windsor end of the tunnel was furnished by the Canadian National Railways Highland band of Montreal and at the Detroit

Building Of Airships Halted In England

LONDON, Eng., November 1. (C.P. — Whatever the outcome of the inquiry into the disaster to the giant airship R-101, Britain will not build any more airships for a long time to come. The Howden Airship Station, where the Airship Guarantee Co. built the R-100, a visitor to Canada in August, is closing down at the end of November. Sir Dennistoun Burney, head of the company, explained the station was closing because the company had no orders for building, and he had no idea when, if ever, it would be re-opened.

The R-100 is at present laid up and proposed alterations and enlargements have been indefinitely postponed.

SNOW PLOWING CONTRACTS LET BY CITY COUNCIL

Unemployment Work Will Commence as Soon as Grants Approved in Ottawa.

RELIEF PROGRAM.

Thirty-two Families Are at Present Receiving Relief From City.

Peterborough, along with other cities and towns in Ontario, will receive assistance from the Dominion and Provincial Governments in giving the extra unemployment relief needed this winter. Direct notice of this was given the Finance Committee at its meeting last night, when a letter was read from J. A. Ellis, secretary of the Ontario Unemployment Relief Committee.

According to this letter, the city will be refunded two-thirds of the extra cost of relief this year, one-third being paid by the province and a third by the Dominion. Each month the city's unemployment relief bill must be forwarded to Mr. Ellis, along with the bill for relief for the same month last year. The government's two-third grant will be based on the difference.

Chairman Nagle Phelan announced that the city's relief bill from October, 1929, to October, 1930, amounted to $4,718.15.

Thirty-Two Families

At this time last year Arthur Metheral, City Relief Officer, states there were only two families which were receiving relief. Now there are 32 families being given help, which proves that the city's relief costs for the coming winter will assuredly be much higher than last.

The number of indigent patients in hospitals throughout Ontario for whose treatment the city must pay, showed a further increase when they came before the committee for consideration.

Snow Plowing

The cost of cleaning snow from the city's streets this winter will be $43 less than last. The total cost last year was $1,417 and, according to the tenders accepted by the Board of Works last night, the snow plowing will cost $1,360 this winter.

Eighteen tenders were received and the successful ones are as follows:

A. J. Blodgett, $200, District 2.
A. Deal, $200, District 3.
Joe Bennett, $180, District 4.
W. J. Collins, $275, District 5.
H. Moncrief, $245, District 6.
M. O'Brien, $129, District 7.
Fred Hines, $140, District 8.

At the request of the Utilities Commission, the City Council will forward to the Provincial Unemployment Relief committee a request to include the cost of sinking a watermain on Monaghan road, from Chamberlain street, 1,100 feet north, estimated cost to be $5,500, in the city's relief project.

As soon as word is received from Ottawa giving official notice that the city's unemployment relief project has been accepted, gangs of the city's unemployed will be put to work, Alderman Harry Huffman said.

An office will be opened in the City Engineer's office, where the unemployed will register, stating their number of children and length of time out of work. The new men will be mixed with the city's regular workmen, so that they will be trained to work efficiently. In all, it is expected that four gangs will be put to work on the laying of drains; two gangs working alternately.

DISTRESSED SHIP MAY BE ASHBAY

SEARCH CONTINUED.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Nov. 1.—(CP)—Local marine officials are investigating in an attempt to determine if the steamer reported in distress off Michipicoten Island, was the Ashbay, of the Tree Line Navigation Company, Montreal. The Ashbay, according to officials, left the head of the lakes last Tuesday night and has not been heard of since. Ray Turner local representative of the Tree Company, said he had not been advised the steamer was missing but he was attempting to check her position.

Marine men said the floundering ship described by Lighthouse Keeper Miller, of Michipicotem Island, resembled the description of the Tree Line vessel.

Coastguards Grant Again

The United States Coastguard vessel, which returned this morning from the vicinity of Michipicoten after searching the neighboring waters will return later today to continue her search.

According to Miller the distressed, vessel, which he could not determine whether it was a barge or steamer, was making snow progress towards Quebec Harbor on the Island. Her decks he said, were awash an dshe appeared to be experiencing great difficulty in bucking the heavy seas.

BENNETT URGES EMPIRE MOTTO OF EACH FOR ALL

Gives Conception of Empire Drawn Closer By Expanding Bonds of Trade.

AT LONDON DINNER.

Continues Hoping For Solution of Economic Problems Before Too Late.

LONDON Eng., Nov. 1 (CP)—"All for each and each for all". It was the famous old phrase of Dumas' Three Musketeers with which Rt. Hon. Richard B. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada last night described his conception of an Empire drawn closer by the expanding bonds of trade.

Mr. Bennett was speaking at a dinner given the visiting Premiers by the United Kingdom branch of the Empire Parliamentary Association. Prime Minister Ramsay Macdonald, describing the Imperial Conference, referred almost exclusively to its constitutional side and observed that the conference had been anything but barren of results.

Tremendous Problems

The constitutional problems were tremendous said Mr. Bennett in the developing of a closer-linked Empire. Sentiment, admitted the Canadian Prime Minister, might lead the way, but material bonds too are needed to bind us together."

"I had hoped" Mr. Bennett continued "and still hope, that we will be able, before it is too late, to develop some scheme by which we may speak, each other for all and all for each in our economic problems."

MIDLAND DOCTOR DROWNS FISHING

Falls From Launch in Heavy Swells of Georgian Bay.

ACCIDENT UNSEEN.

MIDLAND, Ont., Nov. 1 (C.P.)—A fishing trip had a tragic end yesterday, Dr. W. S. McClinton losing his life by drowning as the party was on its return from The Watches, a lake-trout fishing shoal in the Georgian Bay about 18 miles from here.

Dr. McClinton of Midland, with T. S. Sheppard and A. L. Fitzgerald of Penetanguishene, left the latter place in a lauch, intending to spend the day ffon the shoals. They fished for two hours, and were on their way home; when Dr. McClinton is supposed to have lost his footing, due to the pitching of the boat, and fallen overboard. As his companions were forward at the time, they did not see the occurrence.

Henry Calls Ferguson In London, England

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 1 (C.P.)—Sitting in his private office at Parliament Buildings yesterday, Hon. George S. Henry, acting Prime Minister of Ontario, lifted the receiver from his telephone, and a few minutes later was conversing with Premier G. Howard Ferguson in London, England. Questions of Government policy were discussed. Mr. Henry said afterwards.

"There was no difficulty in hearing Mr. Ferguson's voice," said Mr. Henry. "The conversation was carried on without any trouble. The Premier extended congratulations on the result of the by-elections, and asked for some details. We discussed other matters for a short time. Mr. Ferguson gave no indication as to when he would return home."

BROKERS' CASE READY FOR JURY

Counsel For Defense Refused By Justice Jeffery on Plea For Acquittal.

NEITHER ACCUSED IN BOX.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 1 (C.P.)—After a hearing lasting all week, charges of conspiracy to defraud the public and affect the price of stocks laid against D. S. Paterson, Austin Campbell and Edgar McLean will go to the jury to-day.

The Crown's case concluded at noon yesterday with the finish of the cross-examination by the defense of Alfred Young, accountant, the last Crown witness.

Peter White, K.C., counsel for Paterson and D. L. McCarthy, K.C., counsel for Campbell, declined to call any witnesses for the defense and neither of the accused was put in the box.

Fraser Raney, counsel for McLean, called two witnesses, one producing a graph to indicate that fluctuations on the Standard Exchange had been similar to those on other exchanges. The other's evidence concerning a meeting on Nov. 19, 1929, was not admitted.

A plea for acquittal, entered by the counsel for the three accused, was rejected by Mr. Justice Jeffrey, after some argument. Mr. White then proceeded with his address to the jury, stressing his contention there was nothing wrong in two men going into the market to buy a sufficient amount of stock to affect the price. All trading was for the purpose of making money for which exchanges existed.

He questioned the ability of anyone to commit a fraud by selling customers what they demanded or buying what they wanted to sell. The proposition was preposterous, he declared.

SALARY GRAB PROBE NEARS END.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 1 (C.P.)—Next week will see the resumption and probable conclusion of Judge J. H. Denton's enquiry into the authorship and origin of the so-called "salary grab" by the City Council. Two hectic sessions have already been held.

CAMPBELLFORD TOWN COUNCIL OUTLINES WORK

Will Submit Estimate For Work on Drains, Sewers and Water Mains.

ASKS GRANT OF $25,000.

Will Suggest Government Bear Responsibility of 50 Per Cent of Total Cost.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 1.—A special meeting of the Campbellford Town Council was called by Mayor C. H. Davidson and convened on Thursday afternoon for the express purpose of the consideration of work to be done under the government relief measure. Those present were: Reeve J. M. Bygott, Deputy Reeve N. Stone, Councillors H. N. Carr, N. A. MacColl, W. S. Wiggins and J. R. Battisby.

In connection with this scheme the government had requested that the town submit an estimate of the proposed work in detail. To secure this John Hall had gone over the situation and handed in to the meeting a report of work that could be done in the town, this work including sewer, water mains and ditching. This called for a total expenditure of $20,674 of which $11,369 will be for labor.

This proposed public work for the relief of unemployment is interesting and covers the whole town of Campbellford.

On Frank Street it calls for the laying of 405 feet of 8 inch pipe to connect with the Second Street sewer, this at a cost of $2,042. On Front Street a sewer and water main will be laid covering 550 feet, with 8 inch tile and 6 inch water main. This will connect with the Second Street sewer, and will necessitate another 110 feet more water main to River Street. This is at a cost of $3,395. On Grand Road 580 feet of 8 inch tile sewer will be laid at a cost of $842, this connecting with the Government sewer from the corner of Alma and Grand Road. On Victoria Street a sewer and water main will be laid, 1,165 feet at a cost of $4,350 and on Havelock Road, 1,600 feet of water main is proposed, costing $3,590.00. On Booth Street a sewer and water main will be laid at an estimate cost of $4,500, and on Church street is is proposed to lay 270 feet of tile drain, the cost of this being included in the Havelock Road estimate. An additional 100 feet of sewer and 545 feet of water main is proposed for Grand Road at a cost of $1,955.00.

The council discussed this report very thoroughly from all angles. In the handling of this type of work in the past it has always been the custom for the rate payers to obligate themselves for 60 per cent of the total cost, the town bearing the burden of the other 40 per cent. It is understood by the council that in the measures adapted by the government for relief work that the grant only covers fifty per cent of the towns expenditure. This would mean half of the 40 per cent obligation of the town. If this was the case it was thought that the continuance of the scheme was not worth while, and a suggestion was put forward by the council in submitting their estimate, that the government assume the responsibility of 50 per cent of the total cost of the work. This has been forwarded by mail to Toronto by the town clerk.

It was also passed on motion of Councillor MacColl, seconded by Councillor Wiggins that the Mayor be one of a delegation to go to Toronto and with F. McArthur, M.L.A. to interview the acting Premier Hon. G. S. Henry in regard to the proposed relief grant. The grant asked for is $25,000.

Canadian Educator, General Is New Union College Chancellor

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—President Frank Parker Day has just announced that the honorary chancellor of Union College for this year will be Sir Arthur William Currie, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., LL.D., Principal of McGill University (Canada) and commander of the Canadian Corps in France during the World War. Dr. Day recruited and commanded the 185th Cape Breton Highlanders with the rank of lieutenant-colonel during the war. Sir Arthur will deliver the chancellor's address at the 135th annual commencement exercises of Union College on June 15, 1931.

POLICE HUNT CAR THIEVES

Organized Gang Operate "Racket" in St. Thomas and Kitchener Districts.

ON BIG TIME SCALE.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 1 (C.P.) — The Provincial Police are hot on the trail of an organized gang of car thieves who are alleged to have been systematically operating in Western Ontario, taking automobiles mainly from Montreal, Detroit, Toronto and Windsor, changing the license plates and serial numbers and re-selling the cars to unsuspecting buyers.

A warrant was issued yesterday for a man who makes frequent visits to St. Thomas, and who, according to the police has become definitely implicated in the theft of the cars. This will make the fourth arrest since Provincial Inspector A. B. Boed and Chief Constable Gunson of Kitchener began investigations in St. Thomas.

The gang that has been operating the auto-stealing "racket" has done so on a "big-time" scale. According to Chief Constable Gunson, the previous estimate of 40 or 50 cars involved would not seem to be exaggerating, he said, and the facts in the case so far would indicate that the gang had organized a prosperous business and that they had made both St. Thomas and Kitchener their headquarters.

PRIEST SLUGGED WHILE PRAYING

Detroit Cleric Takes Up Chase Capturing Bandit When Cars Collide.

THUG OLD OFFENDER.

DETROIT, Mich., November 1 (C.P.). — Interrupted while praying at his altar by the command, "Hands up," Rev. Father Joseph Pitsonis abandoned his prayers late yesterday to grapple with a gunman in the Orthodox Greek Church on Macomb Street.

A woman entering the church screamed. The bandit slugged the priest on the head with his revolver butt and fled.

The priest gave chase. The bandit commandeered a truck in his flight. The truck collided with another at Hastings and Congress Streets. The bandit suffered two broken legs and was captured. He gave his name as Gus Pappas alias Sam Rosen. He was identified as a member of a gang of six bandit suspects who obtained $2,000 in two hold-ups last August in a hotel here.

GRECIAN PREMIER TO VISIT PHOTIIS

Event Hailed as Most Important in Eastern Christendom Since 1453.

TURKISH APPROVAL GIVEN.

ANGORA, Turkey, Nov. 1 (A.P.)—Premier Eleutherios Venizelos of Greece this afternoon will call upon the Greek patriarch Photiis, an event which is hailed here as one of the most important in eastern Christendom since the Turkish conquest of Constantinople in 1453.

This will be the first time in nearly 500 hundred years that the political leader of the Greek nation will have paid homage to the ecclesiastical leader of eastern Christendom. Observers point out that one striking aspect is that Premier Venizelos will visit the Patriarch with approval of the Turkish Government.

DRIVER BLAMED IN FATAL CRASH

STRATHROY, Ont., Nov. 1 (C.P.)—At the adjourned inquest yesterday into the death of Abraham Kamber of Sarnia, who was killed on No. 2 Highway near here on October 19, the jury found the accident was caused by the negligent driving of James Abdo, also of Sarnia, and that Abdo at the time was under the influence of liquor. At the first sitting of the inquest, Abdo swore that Kamber was driving the car at the time of the accident.

NEW PARALYSIS BREAK REPORTED

Thirty-six Cases in Ontario Listed to End of Last Week.

TORONTO HAS 16.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 1.— There were 36 new cases of infantile paralysis in Ontario for the week-ending October 25 a report issued by the Provincial Department of Health reveals this was an increase of 10 cases over the number reported in the previous week.

Of the number of the new cases reported, Toronto headed the list with sixteen new cases, York Township had four, London three, Humberstone Township and Walpole two each. One case each was reported from the Border Cities, Ottawa, Darlington, Scarboro, Owen Sound, Sunnydale, Erin Township, St. Catharines and Smith.

Up to Saturday night there have been 540 cases of infantile paralysis in Ontario this year, a considerable increase from last year.

SCOTTISH YOUTH DIES IN COBOURG

Took Seriously Ill After Riding Into Town on Refrigerator Car.

LAST WORDS FOR MOTHER.

COBOURG, Nov. 1.—Passing away on Wednesday night at Cobourg General Hospital with the word "Mother" upon his lips, death came all too soon to Thomas Boyd, aged 20 years, who was making his way from Montreal to Winnipeg, it is stated, and who arrived in Cobourg on Monday night of last week. He came to Cobourg, it is stated, riding on a refrigerator car and sought shelter at the Town Hall. The following morning he was found by officials to be seriously ill. He was attended by the jail physician, who asked for his removal to Cobourg General Hospital and this was done. As he was a Catholic, the physician also informed Very Rev. Monsignor Kelly of the boy's condition. The Monsignor gave the youth every attention and administered the late rites of the Church. It is feared that the boy suffered from lack of food before reaching here, and was no doubt weakened by exposure. He died on Wednesday night from pneumonia and peritonitis.

A coroner's jury was empanelled by Dr. Ferris to inquire into his death. It was composed of Maurice Booth, foreman, Dick Turpin, Geo. Woods, Don Crozier, Ed. Hogan, A. Parsons, E. Brown and G. Parker. Coroner Ferris presided. The jury found that death resulted from pneumonia and peritonitis.

It was recommended to have daily inspection of the Town Hall lockup.

The remains were looked after by Monsignor Kelly and after Mass at St. Michael's Church, were interred in St. Michael's Cemetery.

The young man, it is stated, was a Scottish emigrant, who had come to this country, hoping to make good here.

CHICAGO MAYOR ILL

CHICAGO, Nov. 1—Mayor William Hale Thompson was stricken seriously ill yesterday just before he was to have appeared for a noonday political address. He was taken to hospital where his secretary said he would submit to an operation for appendicitis.

VARGAS NEARING BRAZIL CAPITAL

Minister of War Recalls All Officers on Duty in Foreign Countries.

NEW LEADER WELCOMED.

RIO De Janeiro, Nov. 1 (A.P.)—A special train sped this morning over the route from Sao Paulo to Rio de Janeiro, bearing Getulio Vargas toward a frenzied welcome in the Federal Capital.

Word came from along the line that everywhere the train stopped the new provisional President of Brazil, designated for that office following the fall of the Washington Luis Government just a week ago, was greeted by thousands of admirers.

Although a drizzling rain fell here this morning, plans were made to give the new executive a hero's reception on his arrival later to-day.

New Feeling

The prospective change in Government following the victorious revolution apparently has generated a new feeling of nationality in the Brazilian press. This was shown in this morning's issues, which devoted practically all of their space to domestic affairs and virtually excluded foreign news.

Diario Da Noticias sponsored a project for a nation-wide campaign of voluntary contributions which would wipe out Brazil's foreign loans. The paper estimated that if everyone gave a sum in milreis slightly less than $3, all external obligations could be liquidated.

Correio Da Manha advocated the erection of a monument to those who died in the Revolution of 1922, saying that this was the first step in the revolt of the people which was terminated by the successful outcome of this month's revolution.

The Minister of War to-day issued orders for the return of all officers now on duty in foreign countries. This was interpreted as meaning the abolition of the Brazilian mission in Paris, which has been maintained there several years for the purpose of buying military equipment.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

THIS week's musings might better be called cullings, for that is what they really are. They are the result of a first reading of two religious weeklies which have come to me from the southern side of the international boundary.

Thinking that such cullings might be of interest to many who may never see the weeklies in question, I have adapted them to the purpose of this page, and send them out on a Canadian journey, hoping they may lead to as helpful musings on the part of my readers as they have already led to in my own case.

Every Man's Detective.

It has been said by the greatest authority in the world, "Be sure your sin will find you out."

And a very striking illustration of this fact has just been brought to light. Seven years ago a gentleman by the name of James Hammond, a member of the United States Senate, disappeared with fifty thousands dollars belonging to a building and loan association in Trenton, New Jersey.

During the past seven years he has kept on the move all the time, having been in Albany, New York, fifty times. At last he was discovered by a detective's wife, who had once been a schoolmate. Out driving with her husband in their automobile, she recognized Hammond and told her husband. The detective got a policeman and followed the former Senator into a restaurant and made the arrest.

When he was arrested he said that he had been on the point of giving himself up—so he offered no resistance.

In the police station, commenting upon the intervening seven years he said they had been worse than solitary confinement. "The highest tribunal in the world could not inflict worse punishment than I have been through."

Punishment for wrong-doing is not only written into the law of the land, but it is written into every law of our very being! Nothing can be done to alter the solemn fact that "The way of the transgressor is hard."

A Worthy Son.

Every well-informed church worker must have heard, at some time or other, of the late A. J. Gordon, of Clarendon Street, Boston. There was a time when his was a name to conjure with! Probably most people have taken part in the singing of his famous hymn:

"My Jesus, I love Thee, I know Thou art mine;
For Thee all the follies of sin I resign;
My gracious Redeemer, my Saviour art Thou;
If ever I loved Thee, my Jesus, 'tis now."

Ernest Gordon is a worthy son of such a father. I know him well. More than once he has "suffered" the word of exhortation at my lips—for I once was his minister! And with him I have had some of the most delightful intercourse. He has come to the front as a writer of religious articles of great value to the Christian Church; and as a defender of the "Faith of our Fathers," the faith that was once for all delivered to the saints he is a force to be reckoned with.

According to Ernest Gordon it seems that Professor Henri Devaux, of the Department of Sciences in the University of Bordeaux, is both a biologist and a creationist. In "Le Christianisme," Professor Devaux calls attention to the fact that in the thirty-one verses of the first chapter of Genesis the name of God is mentioned thirty-two times.

No passage in Scripture mentions God so frequently in the same space.

How different is the custom of many scientists even when dealing with origins. They move on the surface of things, dealing with second causes, and rarely, if ever, do they mention the name of God. The Word of God always takes us back to the First Cause.

An Attack of Self-Esteem.

Commenting upon the activities of the Communists in New York City, a well-known religious periodical says: "It was doubtless the work of some private mind. We are much inclined to question its being a deliberate step.

"But it is a sign, in more senses than one. It is prophetic. There is no reason to believe that America is going to be permanently immune from the serious social troubles which are afflicting the rest of the world. America has had a bad attack of self-esteem."

New York awakened one morning to discover the walls of one of its prominent churches, the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Fifth Avenue at Ninetieth Street, decorated with the words, "Vote Communist," in large red letters. This defacing of a church in New York was hailed by the Communists as a sign of the "awakening of the working masses."

Without giving too much weight to this, one of the religious weeklies, to which I have reference, goes on to say: "American Protestantism has been much on its leas. Wholesale indifference and a bad case of 'superiority complex' has bitten us. Signs are not wanting of the coming of a rude awakening."

Is It a Baptist Church?

I know the place well! On many, many occasions I have driven or walked past it. Near it is Grant's Tomb and the glorious Hudson River. At last the building was finished and ready for "divine service." The date was October 5th. It was estimated that six thousand people gathered to seek admission to the opening services of the gorgeous $4,000,000 place of worship on Riverside Drive, New York, where the Rev. Harry Emmerson Fosdick, D.D., will expound the Scriptures—to the edification of some and the exasperation and mortification of others!

Many are wondering why Mr. John D. Rockefeller, the chief patron of the enterprise, and by far the largest contributor, chose to be absent, having sailed the week before for Europe.

"In his opening sermon, Dr. Fosdick ran over again his well-known points, which have become thoroughly familiar to American audiences."

He characterized Jesus as "the first great humanist," the most "prominent psychotherapist of his day," and as one "indignantly concerned with economic ills." He then went on to picture Jesus walking through the aisles of the new church and told his congregation to reflect upon what the Lord's thoughts would have been. "Nothing matters in religion," he said, "except what makes for those things that bring a more abundant life." What the "life" is that is to be thus made "abundant" the preacher did not define.

But from the atmosphere we feel it was rather a glorified, natural life that was thus extolled.

There are those who wonder if the Communists will dare put any posters on this glorious $4,000,000 protest against materialism!

A Difference of Opinion.

The opening of this sanctuary on Riverside Drive seems to have given much food for thought.

Being what it is sometimes called an "Open - Membership" Baptist Church, baptism by immersion is not necessary for membership. In speaking of this a certain weekly says: "Only the name 'Riverside' will suggest that ancient custom which moved so many devout Christians to seek the flowing waters, often in inclement weather, that they might actually dip their bodies under the flowing stream in imitation of their Lord. For many years the Baptist Church stood forth bravely for this special rite."

One thing occurs to us in the light of the general trade depression and the consequent want wherever you care to look:

If Jesus "was indignantly concerned about economic ills," how does He view the expenditure of $4,000,000 on this ecclesiastical structure when much less might have served the purpose?

Whether he is right or wrong in so doing may be a matter of opinion—but it cannot be questioned that Dr. Fosdick has moved away from thirteenth century theology! And I, for one, find myself wondering how he feels as he preaches in a thirteenth-century Gothic structure! He may be a Modernist in theology—but he certainly seems to be a Fundamentalist when it comes to architecture, if he is not indeed a Medievalist!

One can't help wondering why the creations of men's hands are of so much more value than the creations of men's minds! It seems so contradictory to spend $4,000,000 to recreate the former while the latter—ever so much more influential—are ruthlessly cast aside as being too antiquated for this modern age of ours.

In his opening sermon this brilliant preacher dismisses Martin Luther, John Calvin, John Knox, and others, while he preaches in a thirteenth-century cathedral. The ancient cathedrals were built more for sacramental purposes than for preaching. Their modern copies are designed primarily as lecture halls.

We should say that in a very real sense modernism has retained the shell and discarded the kernel of the matter. We have a left-wing theology housed in a medieval cathedral; preaching enshrined where the mass was intended to be said; a Baptist church by a river side which does not practice immersion!

When the novelty of the thing wears off and New York takes its customary attitude to things that once seemed new and novel, it will be interesting to see what the future of this work will be. There are some things that money can't buy—not even the Rockefeller millions. At the risk of being called an "obscurantist," I still maintain that the Church has never had greater glory than when her chief spokesman said, "Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, rise up and walk."

A Regular Fellow.

He was the president of a great university. From a smart cigarette case he took a cigarette, tapped the end of it gently before lighting it. The whole procedure convinced one who was watching the performance that this widely-known man knew exactly how such a thing should be done in the most exacting social circles.

If he had not tapped it so deftly and gently, the impression might not have been so great.

One who saw it said afterwards: "We admit it showed that he knew what to do with his social play-fellows, but the performance did not impress us as indicative of strength, physical or otherwise." We just can't bring our mind to imagine Timothy Dwight or Sylvester Scovel or Henry Darling or James McCosh doing such a thing. But then they have been dead a long time.

Yes, it must be true that times have changed! But whether the change is for better or for worse may not be so easily decided! Some will say "for better," while others will say "for worse." And to know which is right puts some simple souls into a bit of a fix. To all such I pass on this story:

Small Girl: "Mother, if I grow up, will I have a husband like papa?"

Mother: "Yes, dear."

Small Girl: "And if I do not get married, will I be an old maid like Aunt Susan?"

Mother: "Yes, my dear."

Small Girl: "Well, I am in a fix."

Cheerfully yours,

Allan Fairbairn.

The Hour Of Prayer

A REAT GIVER of all that is good, Giver of only good, make us wise to discern Thy handwriting upon the tablets of stone; quick to hear the very rocks cry out "Hosanna"; alert to catch the message of love in the hard and hardening experiences of human life; sensitive to the voice within the thunder, and the presence in the cloud. Then, having learned of Thee, make us mindful to raise our Stone of Help, marking for others the House of God and the Gate of Heaven; make us resolute to face the obligations conferred by our blessings; give such enlargement of gratitude that a pillar will stand where a pillow we found. This we ask in the name of Him who is the Way, the Truth and the Life. Amen.

Sparks From Many Anvils

IT is a good and safe rule to sojourn in every place as if you meant to spend your life there, never omitting an opportunity of doing a kindness, or speaking a true word, or making a friend. Ruskin.

• • •

KIND words do not cost much. They never blister the tongue or lips. We never heard of any mental trouble arising from this quarter. Though they do not cost much yet they accomplish much. They make other people good-natured. They also produce their own image on men's souls, and a beautiful image it is. Pascal.

How To Be Miserable

IF you wish to be miserable, think about yourself, about what you want, what you like, what respect people ought to pay you; and then to you nothing will be pure. You will spoil everything you touch, you will make misery for yourself out of everything which God sends you: you will be as wretched as you choose.

No Advice Wanted

ADVISING is a very thankless work. It is so thankless that one of the wisest men I ever knew told me once that he had come to the conclusion that it was quite useless, and that the best thing to do was to leave people to take their own way. Thus wrote one of Britain's greatest editors.

A wise God shrouds the future in obscure darkness.

The Thing That's Nearest

WHEN we are overwhelmed with a sense of the complexities and perplexities through which the Church of Christ is travelling, let us address ourselves to our own little village, our own remote parish, if such be our place of work, and attend to that. For ourselves, we are not going to rest quiet while four children at least out of every five educated in our Sunday school are lost to the Church and pass away unheeded into the world. The fact should burn into every Christian soul.

Character Revealed

THERE is no kind of bondage which life lays upon us that may not yield both sweetness and strength; and nothing reveals a man's character more fully than the spirit in which he bears his limitations.

Patience cannot remove, but it can alleviate and dignify misfortune.

Grace and ignorance may be found together, but never grace and ill-will.

THE QUESTION OF DRESS

A lady's dress should be such as to please God, not laying aside taste, for is He not much more pleased when His children look well than otherwise? I have no idea that Christ was negligent of His dress. His garment was one counted worthy of casting lots for.

NEW MARKET FOR WHEAT.

There are not a few Canadians who believe that the teeming millions of the Orient offer a potential market for a goodly part of the wheat crop of the Dominion, and that in view of conditions in Europe it would be good business for the Canadian Government to investigate the possibilities in Japan and China.

A trade commission sponsored by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce is at present visiting the Orient, and it is to be hoped that while other trade opportunities are being canvassed that an effort will be made to open new avenues for Canadian wheat.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Commerce, has been impressed by the chances that are offered in that quarter of the globe, and it is expected that upon his return from the Imperial Conference he will redouble the efforts of his department to increase the sale of western grain in the Orient.

With the British Government unshakably opposed to placing a tax on wheat to guarantee Empire wheat a place in the British market and with the wheat quota plan a doubtful expedient, it is up to Canada to seek new markets for a portion of her wheat crop, and in this connection no part of the world would seem to present such attractive prospects as do Japan and China, where the present low price of wheat may greatly facilitate largely increased sales.

A HUMANE ACTION.

In requesting that Ellen Naylor, whose deportation was ordered by the Ontario Department of Health some time ago and who has been held at Montreal pending the final disposition of her case, returned to the Ontario Hospital at Woodstock, Hon. J. M. Robb, Provincial Minister of Health, has shown a humane spirit in contrast to that displayed in previous handling of this and other deportation cases.

The circumstances surrounding the deportation of two other epileptic women have aroused indignation both in Canada and the Motherland, and the publication of details of the cases in English newspapers has brought this country into disrepute.

There are two outstanding features.

In the first place, where women have been allowed to live in Canada for many years it is a harsh proceeding at the best to decide that at the late date they must be banished from the Dominion.

Secondly, when deportation was decided upon there has apparently been most callous and careless handling of the cases, in regard to the notification of the relatives here and of arrangements for the reception of these women on the other side of the Atlantic.

The whole question should be thoroughly sifted to prevent any repetition of this kind of thing in the case of other people similarly situated.

In the meanwhile Mr. Robb has very properly prevented a third victim being added to the list.

Both Mr. Bennett and Mr. Ferguson should have some very interesting things to say when they get back from the Imperial Conference as to these cases.

IMPORTING USED CARS.

There are several worth-while arguments in favor of the suggested dumping duty on imported used cars to prevent these machines from being brought into this country for re-sale.

One is that Canada already has more than enough second-hand cars of her own manufacture to dispose of without flooding the market with surplus used machines from across the border.

Another is that every imported used car lowers the trade-in value of the automobiles at present in commission in this country.

Stopping importation is therefore a matter of great interest to every Canadian who owns an automobile or who expects to own one.

It is not suggested, of course, that the proposed duty would prevent an individual from importing a used car from the United States for his own use if he desires to do so.

All that is aimed at is to prevent quantities of such cars from being brought in here for re-sale.

James R. Dixon, who visited Peterborough this week and discussed the question with the executive of the local Chamber of Commerce and Ontario Motor League, appeared before the Tariff Board early in the year and left no doubt as to what was being sought by the motor dealers he represented.

"The object," he said, "is to discourage the incentive for dealers to deal in these cars in quantities. We have no particular objection to private individuals who, of their own volition, may wish to go to the United States and buy a used car for their own use. As a rule such individual buys only one car and he becomes a Canadian owner of a used car. Later on when he comes to dispose of it, he has only one market in which he can sell it, that is the Canadian market, and from then on he will continue to deal in Canada."

FINES NOT ENOUGH.

It is evident that the imposition of fines on two Toronto brokers who pleaded guilty to charges of bucketing has not convinced the public generally that the ends of justice have been served by compelling the offenders to disgorge a portion of the money they admitted to having unlawfully retained.

When men who, under the stress of dire poverty, are foolish enough to steal are convicted of comparatively minor thefts there is seldom any question of a fine—they go to jail or to prison.

Only a few days ago in the local police court a prisoner, who had not succeeded in stealing anything, for he was caught forcing an entrance, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

The Examiner is not arguing that the penalty in his case was too harsh; it was necessary for the protection of society to give warning to others that offences of that nature will not be tolerated.

But is it any wonder that doubt is cast upon the fairness of the administration of justice when a poor man goes to penitentiary for two years for an attempted [illegible] while rich brokers, who can pay in a quarter of [illegible] dollars without turning a hair, are given their liberty on the payment of a fine after admitting that their actions had resulted in the loss of large sums entrusted to them by their clients?

The Attorney-General of Alberta is appealing against the fines and jail sentence imposed on the same two brokers in that Province on the ground that the punishment is inadequate.

The Attorney-General of Ontario, if he is responsive in the least to public opinion, will take similar action here.

NEGATIVES DO NOT HELP.

So that's off. Premier MacDonald stated as plainly as the English language could convey his idea that the Labor Government of Britain would never agree to the idea of a tariff on wheat in favor of the Dominions.

Hon. Philip Snowden, who can quite correctly be called the brains of the Government, has said the same thing: "We will not tax wheat."

Mr. MacDonald took the first occasion at the opening of Parliament to declare the policy of the Government on a matter which is supposed to be still under discussion at the Imperial Conference. After such a pronouncement, we suppose there is nothing much for the Dominion Premiers to do but pack up their bags and depart.

None of the Dominions has shown any tendency to dictate in London. The various Premiers put forward their suggestion as to how Empire trade might be developed, and that was the reason why the conference gathered.

Apart from the suggestions made by Empire Premiers to use the tariff to develop this much-desired trade, we have not noticed any definite plan made. That phrase, "We will not tax wheat," seems to have been the one and only reply of the British delegation.

If there is any other method whereby British goods can have a preference in the markets of the Dominions, and where the Dominions can have an advantage when selling in the British market, then it should be stated quickly.

Merely repeating that it cannot be done by use of the tariff is plainly negative policy, and the situation, muddled as it is in London, calls for something very positive. Otherwise the conference is going to topple over.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

of it in a trade way than Prime Minister Scullin of Australia. Australia is having a dickens of a time both as a matter of economics and otherwise. There is a crushing burden of public debt, and apart from that a difficult and troublesome political situation.

* * * *

To take the question of public debt first, an idea of its severity in Australia may be given by a comparison with public debt in Canada. In this Dominion we have, roughly speaking, a public debt of approximately three thousand million dollars, namely a Dominion debt of $2,200,000,000 and provincial public debts totalling nearly $800,000,000. In Australia, the total public debt is nearly double ours—nearly six thousand million dollars. The debt of the Commonwealth is nearly as large as our national debt, namely about $2,000,000,000, but the public debts of the individual states which comprise the Commonwealth aggregate $3,500,000,000. A plan is on foot whereby these debts will be taken over by the Commonwealth under certain compensating conditions, but the total will be the same. In short, Australia labors under nearly twice our burden of debt, although the Commonwealth population, 5,500,000, is little more than half ours, and both the natural wealth and developed agriculture and industry of Australia are tremendously less than ours.

A determined effort is planned in Australia to improve the financial public position—to tighten its belt, so to speak, to cut down its expenses drastically at the suggestion of a London expert on finance, and to make federal income and expenditure balance even at the expense of lowering the standard of living.

* * * *

The political outlook is equally troubled. There are several political parties in the Commonwealth, extending into politics in the various states. Labor is strong and aggressive, and there seems a strong Red element, tending to continual and ferocious labor trouble. A Labor Government is at present in power, but shaky. Then there is strong dissatisfaction with the Commonwealth in at least two of the states. West Australia, which includes one-third of Australia—about 1,000,000 square miles—but less than 500,000 inhabitants, wants separation, feeling that its remoteness from "the East," whence the wise men were wont to come, is hampering its development and preventing expansion commensurate with its resources. Even Tasmania—isolated, compact and sea girt—also thinks it would be better in many ways if it ran itself as a Dominion. And a similar feeling to a less extent prevails in others of the states.

It must be the earnest hope of other parts of the British sisterhood of nations that Australia will remain a political unit, and grapple successfully with all financial and political difficulties. Nations have to learn by experience and struggle, and Australia has some political advantage which no other self-governing parts of the Empire enjoy, except New Zealand. Australia's people are all of the British stock, and all speak the English language. This does not apply to Canada or South Africa, while Ireland has the tense religious division between the North and the South. The fact of a homogeneous English-speaking population gives Australia a good basis for political progress free from difficult racial or religious embarrassment.

* * * *

We have no doubt that the political genius of the English-speaking race will succeed in Australia as it does elsewhere in establishing a strong and progressive national unity. The political ideals and practice of the English-speaking peoples have never yet failed of efficiency anywhere where a large proportion of these people exist; so least of all should they fail to ultimate triumph in our great sister British Commonwealth.—Ottawa Journal.

THE SILVER HAWK

By

He tried to reason down the uneasiness the secret fears which had croaked in his ears like a flock of ill-omened ravens since that near-disaster in Edmonton. Wasn't he free again, riding the swiftest plane in three provinces, back in his mighty playground of ranges known only to himself? Hadn't he escaped clean-cut from Edmonton with his identity unknown? By a secret automobile trip, by a trackless air trail of four hundred miles, hadn't he out-manœuvred soft-Shoe and that cohort of operatives?

But Dorn felt that his brush with Soft-Shoe was only a skirmish of the battle looming upon him. Stripped of all sophistries, it was a battle over the bodily possession of a girl. The fear persisted that his enemies would discover who he was. If they did, the hunt for Aurore would narrow down, tighten down; they would concentrate on him instead of flinging their search across two provinces. He would be one man against a silent, numerous pack, lone-handed against an enemy who had money and influence in high places, and could move police in a distant city to action. He had not entirely believed Aurore's and Bergelot's warning—till he had into an actual and living enemy and thereby caught a glimpse of the host of others he had to fight. Now, in the light of what Aurore had just told him, that encounter in Edmonton was like handwriting on the wall.

As he swathed the trout in leaves and started up toward the cabin, he thought: "The way things stand now, I wouldn't have a ghost of a chance in a set-to battle. I wouldn't be fighting one or two or five men, but a dozen or more. I've got to even up those odds. I've got to be ready. When I get back to Titan Pass, the first thing for me to do is wire to Edmonton for a machine gun."

CHAPTER XIV

THE MATING MOON

After breakfast Aurore insisted on helping Dorn "portage" the bundles to the cabin, and when all of them were piled on settee and chair and bunk, she made a ceremony of guessing what was in each package before he untied it. She did not suspect that those things had cost Dorn a month's salary. He would never hint he had used his own money: but as he watched her, eagerly delighted over every pakcage, he thought: "I've bought clothes fo her. She'll be wearing clothes that I bought."

When everything had been inspected Aurore gathered up several bundles in her arms and disappeared into the tiny room, and her voice came out to him: "Jim, if you'll please go away . . . just a few minutes . . ."

Dorn sauntered out obediently, knowing what she intended. With his back to the cabin he leaned against the mossy bole of a pine and lit a pipe.

He could laugh now at remembering those hours in Edmonton when he had felt imprisoned and oppressed. Here he was free again in the largeness of a beautful wilderness. The downflow of air from the snowfields had not started yet; the atmosphere, clear and sparkling, was so still that one could hear the whistling of hoary marmots across the mainland. Up on the fiery mesa a billy-goat and lady-goat and little goatee were browsing in a patch of aromatic mountain lettuce, while the rest of the band were cooling their flanks in a snow ravine. High above a naked pinnacle a golden eagle flew in and out through wisps of circus cloud, and faintly Dorn heard its screaming chak-chak-chak. Down in the cove two harlequin ducks swam around and around his plane, inspecting with many a quack and abble-gabble this curious intruder of their ancestral solitude.

While he waited for Aurore, a yellow-haired porcupine or "Siwash touch-me-not" came grunting past, humped and surly, an ambulating prickly pear, and turned its porcine eyes upon him for a moment, and then plodded phlegmatically on; and long after it was out of sight he heard in the padded silence its ugh ugh ugh, regular and slow as the adagio beat of a metronome.

During the few days of his absence a wonderful change had taken place in the feathered kingdom. In this northern habitat where seasons were compressed into weeks, the tempo of life beat swift, especially swift and strong during this Chipewyan Moon-of-the-Brown-Eagle-Mating. All the birds were paired now, were mating and feverishly building nests, and some of the very earlist comers already were guarding their eggs against Wheeskeejaun, the robber jay.

When he heard a twig snap Dorn turned around. Aurore had tiptoes up over the moss—so softly he had not known she was about till she snapped the twig. Ten feet away in a splash of sun she stood looking at him, very grave and demure; but he knew she had deliberately stopped in that pool of sun and wanted him to admire her in her new clothes.

She was wearing the woods-suit he had bought her—trim-belted jacket and short skirt of velvety corduroy and dainty lace-boots that came nearly to her knees, with just an inch or so of brown wool sock showing between them and the hem of the skirt. Snug and warm and durable, the suit fitted Aurore's slender body perfectly, and its colour blended with the background of pine and moss.

On her breast she had pinned a nosegay of bog orchids and golden avalanche lilies.

Dorn thought: "She stopped in that sun on purpose. I've got to say somegthing or she'll think I'm a stick. And if I tell her the truth, she'll think I'm a—wolf!"

He walked up close to Aurore, looking at her from head to foot. "They're awfully pretty—and sweet," he commented, awkwardly compromising between clothes and girl.

Aurore laughed gaily. "Come, let's go tramping; I'll be guide. I oughn't to have strutted and made you perjure yourself. But do you think they'll do?"

Her question was a thrust at him for his callous remark down in his tent that first night. She was laughing at his embarrassment; she thought she had scored.

In his delibertae way Dorn caught her pointed arrow and returned it to her. "Step back a couple feet," he requested; and when Aurore obeyed, wondering, he drawled: "Yes they'll do—do fine. But do you know, on that limb above you now—if that isn't mistletoe I never saw any, and you—girl, you're standing square under it!"

Aurore glanced up. Her pretty lips parted in a gasp. She turned in confusion and fled from him.

At the south end of the island they sampled the white strawberries, but found them tart and unripe. In the open plots they tramped through patches of bluebells and larkspur and moccasin flower, and saw an old lynx wallow in a bed of evil-smelling valerian.

Aurore had told him, when he caught up with her after she fled: "This island covers only ten acres, Jim, but it's got marvels enough to last a lifetime, and here you'll find our whole northland in miniature."

As she led him on and on through the mossy wildwood Dorn was amazed at her precise knowledge of bird and animal plant. She bent down a branch to show him the nest of a rare warbler, and overhead pointed out the two birds—a plain female and gorgeous little male of red and black and yellow, twirling around a limb hunting scale insects. "That species winters in California," Aurore explained, with no air of trying to appear wise, "but no one ever knew where it breeds. Will you bring me a small camera, Jim—if you happen up this way again? I want to take pictures of it and make notes on its nesting habits.'

What To-day Means To You

"SCORPIO"

If November 1st is your birthday, the best hours for you on this this are from 7 a.m. to 8:30 a.m., from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 11 p.m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 10 p.m. to 11 p.m. and from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Business affairs will go well on this date, but trouble is predicted within the domestic sphere-family bickerings and disputes. Poor time for speculative investments. Health well maintained. A frivolous time in the evening.

Children born on this November 1st will have good-humored dispositions, and will have rather yielding natures and be changeable in their opinions. The emotional side of their natures, and their imaginations and intuitions will be highly developed. They will be warm-hearted.

You have a very well controlled nature, and you rarely let your emotions carry you off your feet. You are not heartless, but your heart must bow to the dictates of your head. Your mind is the ruling factor in your life. Your wells of sentiment have gone dry from misuse, as you seem afraid to let yourself revel in what you call foolishness. You will be more sympathetic and understanding in your human relationships after real sorrows have come into your own life—and you will not live without them. You will also learn tolerance through some bitter personal experiences. Life is going to be a hard teacher, but you will be a good pupil, and will seldom have to repeat your lessons.

You are fitted for some pursuit where you can direct or control others. You never show favoritism, but you always try to be square and just. You rule with an iron hand and a cool head. You are respected far more than you are loved, although you show the softer side of your nature within your home, or to your intimate friends. There is something of the dramatic in you, and you express a liking for grandeur and ceremony. If you had a more pronounced sense of humor, you would take yourself and the rest of the world less seriously. You do not take kindly to jokes on yourself. You have the ability to work hard and to accomplish much, and you never neglect your outstanding duties.

If November 2nd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. The danger periods are from 7 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. and from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Astrological influences on this date are of a very materialistic nature, and it will be difficult to gain the usual benefits of a Sunday. It would be advisable to spend a quiet and somewhat solitary day, to avoid trouble and quarrels. The nervous tension will pass off in time to make the evening hours of more delight and peace.

The child born on this November 2nd will have a generous, candid, ardent and high-minded disposition. Pecuniary success is indicated for it, obtained largely through its own efforts. It will carve out its own fate.

It is indicated that you are to some extent a pioneer or innovator, and that you are ambitious for advancement. You are not afraid of independent thought or action, and you are radical in both. Playing for certainties does not appeal to your sporting nature, and you would rather gamble and lose than live a less adventurous life. The act of conquering appeals to you more than the final victory, which brings boredom to one of your nature, and you are always seeking new fields of adventure. You do things impulsively and enthusiastically, and you count your costs afterwards. It can be said, however, that you are a good loser. You are not a clock watcher, and you always do more than is expected of you. Your initiative and your optimism is never cramped by worry, for you refuse to suffer from this malady of the will-power.

You choose your friends indiscriminately as far as class is concerned, and you feel at home in a palace or a hut, with a king or a beggar. You yourself are never affected, and you would not know how to put on airs. You have a forceful personality, delightful because of its naturalness and genuineness. You are thoughtful and not unmindful of the little kindnesses, which mean so much to those about you. Few people have the chance to see you ill-natured, for there is usually sunshine within your soul. You are passionately fond of children and animals.

COMMENDS WORK OF MAYOR AND COUNCIL

The Editor of The Examiner,
Peterborough, Ontario.

Dear Sir.—I am sure the citizens of Peterborough were delighted to read your article last evening regarding the decision of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited to continue their mill operations and to retain their administrative offices in the City of Peterborough.

This is a time when a word of commendation and appreciation is due to Mayor Denne and the members of his Council who have put forth every effort possible to prevent the removal of this industry from Peterborough and it is highly gratifying to all the citizens that their efforts have been successful. An industry retained is better than a new industry obtained, because a removal entails serious loss and inconvenience to many employees who own their own homes and who have established themselves in the life of our city. I am sure every citizen greatly appreciates the efforts which our worthy Mayor and his Council have put forth in this particular case.

I believe the citizens generally fully recognize and appreciate the leadership given by Mayor Roland Denne during the three years in which he has occupied the position of Chief Magistrate of our city. During that time we have not only retained our old industries but we have added the Johnson Motors, the Martin-Hewitt Containers Ltd., and The A. Wander Ltd. (Ovaltine), and our Mayor and his assistants are always active in their efforts to follow up any new opportunity to extend this list. In these times of readjustment we in Peterborough are indeed fortunate. Our business failures have been few and our unemployment problem is small compared to many other places. One of the large statistical bureaus rates Peterborough as one of two of the best small cities in Canada.

Would it not at this time be good business to ask Mayor Denne to carry on for another year? We appreciate the personal sacrifices he has already made in the service of the city, but we all know that he is interested in the welfare of Peterborough and with the knewledge that the citizens appreciate the service he has rendered in the past, I am hoping that he can be induced to continue for another year.

Yours very truly,
E. BRUCE FOWLER.

RELIC OF SLAVE DAYS.

ST. CROIX, Virgin Islands, Nov. 1.—Comparatively sound despite its great age the hull of the only remaining slave ship known to have brought "black ivory" to the coast of North America, lies drawn up on the beach. The vessel is the property of Cornelius Penthony and bears the name of the "Vigilant." She was operated under the Danish flag until slavery was abolished in the Virgin Islands in 1848. Both before and after that time she was engaged in the slave trade, landing slaves illegally in the United States territory, Cuba, Porto Rico and Brazil.

So speedy was the Vigilant that she was never captured. In 1876 the management of the centennial exposition at Philadelphia wished to bring her to that city, manned by a crew costumed as were the slavers. But it was decided that the expense was too great. The Vigilant is reputed to be 150 years old.

WILD OIL GUSHER THREATENS CITY

Clouds of Oil Shower on Abandoned Homes in Oklahoma Without Cease.

GUARDS PATROL ZONE.

OKLAHOMA CITY, November 1 (C.P.). — Roaring defiance to experts seeking to curb it, a wild gusher at the city's edge continued to-day its threat of fire disaster as it showered black clouds of oil on abandoned homes.

As workmen rushed to completion the forging of a huge steel bonnet to drop over the mouth of the spouting well, firemen announced the danger of explosion had lessened due to dissipation of low hanging clouds of gas.

As a result of their tests firemen reduced to an area 3 6 blocks square the fire zone which has been maintained since the well broke through its mastergate on Thursday night.

Nine units of National Guardsmen, together with civilians, guarded the city against the outbreak of fire. John Gordon, who conquered the "Wild Mary' Udik Well after it ran wild eleven days, has been placed in charge of the control attempts.

BOND SALES FOR THIS YEAR SHOW INCREASE OF MILLIONS

An Interesting Contrast to Stock Issues, Which Are Down Proportionately.

WEEK'S TRADING DULL.

(Special to The Examiner. Copyright 1930.)

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—High-grade Dominion and Provincial bonds were practically stationary in a stagnant bond market this week. Trading has been listless and even an improvement in the Brazilian issues failed to affect sentiment. The reason, of course, is to be found in the conditions of the stock market. With Wall Street steadily declining, bonds had to be sold to protect margin accounts and buyers were holding back looking for more attractive prices. The Canadian market, while showing slightly more initiative than New York, was nevertheless hesitant in the face of conditions across the border. High grades closed practically at the same levels as last week. Corporations were neglected. Apart from the Brazilian issues, South Americans generally, Peru, Columbias, Chilis, were unchanged. Brazil 6½s of 1957 were up from around 64 to 71-72, and the 7's of 1952 advanced from 75½-77. The bond market was simply resting on the stock market.

The trend for the month has been downward prices now having lost most of the advance of the first ten days or two weeks. Uneasiness over foreigns, with Germans and Brazils breaking sharply and reactionary stock markets halted and the advance and caused a reversal of trend.

It is noteworthy that new flotations in October will nearly triple those for October last year. Up until the middle of the third week of this month new bond issues totalled over $140,000,000 which compares with $57,316,600 in October, 1929, and $45,284,652 in October, 1928 These October figures brought sales for 1930 up to $635,053,509, an amount far in excess of 1929 and 1928 when the totals for the first ten months were $459,154,985 and $369,357,968 respectively.

While financing through the issue of bonds has shown a striking gain, stock issues have fallen off even more spectacularly. New stock issues the first nine months of 1929 approximated $234,000,000 this year over a similar period the total was only around $35,000,000.

New bond issues this week included $4,404,000 by the Province of Nova Scotia, to mature in 30 years, bearing interest at 4½ per cent. and sold to an international syndicate on a cost basis of 4.64 per cent. Saskatoon sold $643,500 twenty- and forty-year 5's on a cost basis of 5.04 per cent. and North York $305,000 ten- to thirty-year 5's likewise on a cost basis of 5.04 per cent.

MATACHEWAN GOLD STRIKE JUSTIFICATION OF FAITH

"Jake" Davidson, Who Made First Important Discovery in District in 1916, Claims Fifty-fifty Break For Big Mine in Bannockburn.

PREDICTS GENERAL ACTIVITY TO FOLLOW.

(Special to Examiner. Copyright 1930.)

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 1.—Another gold strike in Matachewan district; to the ordinary man it is merely an interesting bit of news; to the mining fraternity it brings recollection of former finds but is nevertheless to be watched carefully; to the prospector it is a spur to greater efforts—but to "Jake" Davidson it is justification of years of faith.

"I had panned gold out of gravel in dozens of places in Bannockburn, Argyle and adjoining townships, and from it's very shape knew the veins were somewhere close by," he says. "When you see jaggedy particles of gold, not rounded off as in most placers, you can be pretty sure it has not been carried far."

Jake was working just a few miles north in Argyle when the find was made in Bannockburn, and managed to secure some "good-looking ground" along the line of strike. He says he was beaten to the recorders at Elk Lake with one block of six claims. But that is another story and is not nearly finished yet, he emphatically declares.

Just Case of Luck.

Pointing out, without the slightest trace of envy, that it is merely another instance of dependency of the prospector on his luck, Mr. Davidson gives an interesting version of the strike and its finding.

"Bert Ashley, Bill Garvey and the Mosher brothers, pretty well fed up with rainy weather and lack of results and about ready to quit for the season, were camped on the interscection of the boundary lines of Bannockburn, Argyle, Montrose and Hincks. They decided one way to separate, each to follow one of the four boundary lines leading from camp.

"One went north, another south, a third west, leaving Ashley with no choice but go east. Tramping along through the mossy swamp on the look-out for outcrops Ashley noticed a bunch of yellow birch leaves a few hundred feet off the boundary line. As this usually indicates a dry spot, he pushed his way through the bush and found a small granite hill. On the side of the mound he saw some quartz, broke off a piece and put it in his pocket.

"After travelling around for a time he returned to camp and threw the quartz into the fire. Later, when it had been thoroughly roasted, he pulled it out, broke it in two, throwing half away. He pulverized the balance and, taking to a stream, panned it. Surprised to find an unusual amount of gold in the bottom, for he could see none in the quartz when he brought it in, he retrieved the discarded piece, and now that he knew the gold was there he could see plenty of it in the bare quartz.

Out at Daybreak.

"All were out at daybreak in spite of a heavy rain, and, scratching away the moss, they found all kinds of coarse gold in the quartz vein. It is one of the misfortunes of the game that a prospector will often pass right by an important gold showing without recognizing it, where, if he knew it was there, he could not miss seeing it.

"When I last saw the find, little work had been done on it. Some moss and overburden had been cleaned away and another showing which looked as though it might be a continuation had been found about 400 feet distant. I can say this much, however, that while I've seen Hollinger and many other properties in their early stages, I have never seen as much gold showing as there is in that vein There's a small high-grade mine in sight right now if they never get anything more and it's a fifty-fifty break that it will be a big mine."

Back in 1916 during the Gowganda rush, Mr. Davidson was prospecting north from Elk Lake and in Powell township, adjoining Bannockburn on the east, made what he claims to have been the first strike in Matachewan. Several other stakings had been made in the district, that of Rand, just a mile or so south of the present find, having been recorded in 1907 as a showing of asbestos, called by the Indians "dried moose meat rock." His strike later worked as the Young-Davidson, produced quite a rush.

CANADIAN RESIDENTS IN NEW YORK PLAN ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATION

Distinguished Guests From Britain, Canada and U. S. to Assemble at Luncheon.

PARADE INCLUDED.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 1—(CP)—Attended by Prince George—Constantinovitch, one of the younger members of the House of Romanoff and a distant relative of the King, the most ambitious Armistice Day program ever attempted by Canadians, resident in New York will be staged by the Canadian Club at its headquarters in the Biltmore Hotel.

Distinguished guests from Great Britain, Canada and the United States, including Capt. the Baron Marochetti M. V. O., D. S. O., Aide-de-Camp to the Prince of Wales, and many Canadians resident in New York, will assemble for an Armistice Day luncheon to be held under the chairmanship of Edwin A. Scott, President of the club.

Parade Arranged

The program, which has been arranged by Dr. Woodruff Law Post Chairman of the Armistice Day Committee, will include at parade of British and United States colors by a guard supplied by the British Great War Veterans Association, a silent period of remembrance for those who fell on the field of action, the sounding of the last post and reminiscent addresses by a numberof the guests which will be said by Rev. Henry Darlington, D.D., Chaplain of the 44th Infantry Division U.S.S., and Rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest.

Immediately following the bugler's sounding of the Last Post, Knight MacGreggor, Canadian baritone, will sing, "There Is No Death" accompanied at the piano by Gregory O'Hara the composer, who also is a Canadian.

It is expected that members of the Canadian and Irish Free State cavalry teams who will be competing in military events of the New York Horse Show will attend. An invitation was extended to both teams which are now in Boston and a reply is expected by Monday.

PRODUCE PLENTIFUL ON FARMERS' MART

Beef is Conspicuous By Its Entire Absence on Farmer's Market.

There was a plentiful supply of produce on the local market this morning, and the demand appeared to be fairly brisk.

Beef was conspicuous by its entire absence, while eggs, which were selling at 50 cents per dozen, were very scarce. On the contrary, chickens were plentiful and were bringing from 28 to 30 cents per pound.

There is still a great deal of honey in evidence, which is finding favor with the housewives and bakers as a substitute for sugar in certain articles of cookery. Clover honey was selling at the following prices: One-pound jar, 35 cents; 5-pound can, 65 cents; 10-pound can, $1.25. Amber honey, 5 pounds, 45 cents; ten pounds, 90 cents.

Other prices were: Potatoes, per bag, $1.15 to $1.25; carrots, 25 cents per peck; parsnips, 25 cents per peck; cabbage from 5 cents up; turnips, 3 for 10 cents; pumpkins, 10 cents up; citrons, 10 and 15 cents each; tomatoes, 17 cents to 35 cents per basket; celery, 15 cents per head, two heads for a quarter. Apples: Snows, 50 cts. per peck; butter, 35 cents per pound; lamb, 17 cents to 23 cents per lb.; pork, 18 cents fronts, 20 cents hindquarters.

PRINCES TO VISIT SOUTH AMERICA

Considered Probable Prince George May Accompany Older Brother.

STUDYING SPANISH.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 1 (C.P.).—The Prince of Wales may take his youngest brother, Prince George, along with him on his tour of South America early next year, it appeared today when it became known that both are studying Spanish in preparation for the trip.

The heir apparent already has some acquaintance with the language, but he is perfecting his knowledge of it. His plans are still indefinite, but it is believed that he may start the journey about January 17, and that he will be present for the opening of the British Exhibition at Buenos Aires on March 14. After that it is likely that he will visit several other Argentine cities to renew the friendship he made during his tour of five years ago.

DIVIDEND PAYMENTS SMALL THIS MONTH

Aggregate of $6,154,528 to be Paid—Not Unusual at This Time.

(Special to Examiner, Copyright 1930.)

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—Dividend payments to be made by Canadian corporations in the month of November will aggregate $6,154,528 according to an estimate made from declarations and securities selling or about to sell ex-dividend. This monthly total is one of the smallest of the year, but is not unusual at this time. Numerically there is a large list of corporations making distribution, numbering ove seventy, but most of these corporations have small outstanding capital as the larger concerns mostly make their payments with each calendar quarter.

Of the total $6,154,528, the sum of $4,432,118 is being distributed by public utilities and industrial concerns. The mines of Northern Ontario are again well represented by Hollinger, Consolidated, International Nickel and Teck-Hughes paying altogether $1,442,410.

November marks the opening of the season in which the Canadian banks pay their extras or bonuses and Imperial has the honor of being first with the regular quarterly dividend of $3 and in addition an extra of $1 a share.

WEDDING BELLS

FERGUSON-CAMERON

RUMFORD, Oct. 23.—One of the interesting weddings of the younger set of Rumford was when Miss Diana Cameron became the bride of Earl Elbert Ferguson of Peterboro, Ont., at Montreal, Que., Saturday afternoon, Oct. 18. The marriage took place at the home of the officiating clergyman, Rev. M. F. McCutcheon, the pastor of a Baptist church of that city, using the single ring service. It was a quiet wedding, the only witnesses being the wife and mother of the officiating clergyman. The bride was married in a traveling costume and this week came to Rumford to complete her duties as technician for Dr. E. M. McCarthy while Mr. Ferguson returned to Peterborough, where he is superintendent in the mill of the Canadian Nashua Paper Co. of that city.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Annie Cameron of 24 Erchles street and the late John Cameron of Scotland. She was born in Scotland but has resided in Rumford for the past eleven years. She completed her training at the Rumford Community hospital in 1925 and she is a member of the Alumni Association of the Rumford hospital and of the Clan Chisholm Auxillary. Mr. Ferguson was born in New York State but has lived in Rumford nearly all his life, he is a graduate of Stephens high school, Norwich University in Northfield, Vt. He is a member of the Strathglass Commandry, Knights Templar of Rumford and of the Shrine.

After completing her duties in the office of Dr. McCarthy the last of this month, Mrs. Ferguson will join her husband in Peterborough.

end by Faust Post American Legion band of Detroit.

The official parties from both ends of the tunnel then proceeded in busses to the international line in the tunnel where a silken ribbon had been stretched across the tube. After handshakes and a few words of welcome the bow of the silken barrier was united by thirteen-year-old Fern Martin of Windsor the original promotor of the present undertaking and twelve-year-old Virginia Bradway, daughter of Judson Bradway of Detroit and President of the Tunnel Company.

Parade into Detroit

The entire assemblage then proceeded to the Detroit end of the tube and a parade was formed with the Legion band heading the Detroit party and following a detail of police and C.N.R. band heading the Canadian section. Most of the party were in large busses and the parade moved up Woodward Avenue to Grand Circus Park and to the entrance of Hotel Statler.

At the hotel a complementary banquet was tendered Hon. Mr. MacNider. Members of the official parties were also guests.

The tunnel is one mile in length from portal and terminal are practically in the heart of the business sections of Windsor and Detroit. The roadway of the tunnel is 22 feet in width and permits three lanes of traffic. The estimated capacity is 1,000 vehicles an hour in each direction. The project has been under construction for about two and a half years and the cost is approximately $25,000,000.

Three Methods Used

Three separate methods of construction were followed. Nine tube sections, each about 250 feet in length, were fabricated on the Canadian shore at Ojibway, floated up the river to the tunnel site coated and lined with concrete and then sunk in a prepared ditch. This completed a section approximately a half mile in lenth and all underwater.

Then at each end of the tubes about a quarter mile section was cut by what is known as the shield method.

At each end was another section approximately a quarter of a mile in length which was done by the open-cut method. The steel, concrete sections were built in and the earth filled in on top.

Some ten structures have been erected at each end of the tunnel to house tunnel and Government officials and tunnel equipment.

Thirty busses will carry passengers through the tunnel between the heart of Windsor and the Detroit City Hall.

The tunnel opens for general traffic on Sunday at midnight.

HAMILTON, Ont., November 1. — Cecil J. Berry, editorial writer of The Hamilton Spectator, and his son George, aged 11, who were injured in a crossing accident last evening, were reported to be resting easily in St. Joseph's Hospital to-day.

Mr. Berry's injuries, while painful, would not prove serious, it was stated. His son is progressing favorably.

GAINS ON CANADIAN MARKETS INDEPENDENT OF WALL STREET

Have Not Yet, However, Shaken Off New York Influence—Position Improved.

Investment, Not Speculation.

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—Playing a lone hand, the Canadian stock exchanges moved independent of Wall Street this week in displaying strength for the greater part of the period in the face of general weakness in New York. This change was more due to completion of liquidation than to increased buying demand, yet sufficient buying orders were on hand to absorb what selling there was and carry prices slightly higher. It does not mean, however, that the local market have completely shaken off the Wall Street influence, but is rather an indication of an improved technical position in that securities held in weak hands have passed to stronger and reactions in future will have to be severe to bring further extensive liquidation. Movements in all security markets are not solely based on local but international conditions as well and the Canadian exchanges can be expected to reflect any drastic changes that may take place in other markets.

Accumulation of high grade Canadian securities has been taking place in the Dominion's markets for the past year and the excess of speculative commitments thrown overboard is gradually diminishing. Until the present the supply was greatly in excess of the demand and at each disturbing development stocks were pushed for sale, driving the averages down to the lowest level of the past two years. This week gave the first sign that liquidation may have come to an end. Volume was comparatively light and there appeared to be buyers for most sellers. Even though New York was on the downgrade, the activity failed to show an increase and the week was one of absorption of stocks offered for sale. Buyers were discriminating in their choice and securities having good dividend records, returning a liberal yield on the investment and for which up-to-date official information was available were in greatest demand.

Compared with a year and two years ago, participat on in the local markets is very small. People who were active participants have dropped out altogether and others who were purchasing large quantities on margin have since restricted their activities to purchases of small lots for cash. Brokerage wires which extended to all parts of the Dominion and important centres of the United States have been discontinued and of late there has been a tendency to merge houses and thus economize. The large organizations and vast machinery built to handle thousands of shares daily is no longer necessary and the stock markets have returned to what was considered normal before the general public got the idea the market was a place to get rich overnight.

Investment and not speculation is uppermost and capital is being utilized in permanent investment and not speculation.

Deflation of values since the bull campaign came to an end in 1929 has been such that values as guaged by those actively participating in the markets a year ago have shrunk to permit of liberal income yield with prices based conservatively on earnings per share. The measure upon which security prices were based in the old days has more than returned. Shares of leading corporations to-day are selling on a lower valuation than that prior to the era of speculation, if the increased equity and earning power is taken into consideration. Ten times earnings per share was the most favored yardstick for testing values in the old days. In the days when speculation was at its height stocks were found to be selling from 20 to 50 times earnings but deflation has dropped the average to less than 10 times and the same securities are not in as great demand now as the/ were at much higher ratios. The reason for this is found in the fact speculators have dropped out of the picture and left the markets to those who buy for a long pull and carefully choose the securities they intend to hold. This type of buyer has naturally increased in the past year. Corporation records show a large increase in the number of registered stockholders and the Canadian public has become real partners in Canadian industry.

Several lessons have been learned from the years of advancing prices and subsequent reactions. One being that investors must, among other things, pay strict attention to management. Recent disclosures have brought this point to the forefront. Companies that were criticized for their conservative dividend attitude a year ago are now found to be in a most excellent position while others who paid dividends to the limit of their earning capacity have since had to discontinue disbursements and shareholders are not in as good a position as theymight have been had a greater proportion of profit been placed back into the business and reserves built up to tide the organization over lean periods. Shareholders of well managed Canadian corporations have nothing to fear for the future. The present recession in business must come to an end and most corporations are in liquid position to permit of expansion at first definite sign of improvement.

The stock markets offer better opportunities to-day for the employment of funds than in some years past. Equities behind most common stocks are substantial and income returns liberal at current prices. Present valuations are no more a true reflection of intrinsic values than when values were two and three times greater. The axe has fallen and in doing so prices for high-grade stocks have been carried to levels that can only mean appreciation in years to come.

WHEAT POOL STILL FUNCTIONING DESPITE REPORTS OF BANK "CALL"

Rumors That Banks Would Seize Assets Prove Groundless—Mere Propaganda.

ECONOMIC DEPRESSION.

(By T. W. Banton. Special to The Examiner. Copyright, 1930.)

TORONTO, Nov. 1 (SNS).—I almost dream they yet will bide, Until the coming of the tide."

Not that the late Bliss Carman was thinking particularly of the world wheat situation when he wrote his well-known poem, "Low tide on the Grand Pre," any more than was that bombastic old furioso who long ago made the bold declaration about a certain "mill" that once stood on yonder hill; and if it isn't gone, it stands there still."

Yet the sentiment back of both these poetic effusions above quoted the sentiment of something lasting and permanent, might well be applied, taking advantage of the usual poetic license in such cases, to the case of the Canadian Wheat Pool, or "pools" since there are a number of them, though all working and co-operating practically under one head and guiding principle.

The point is this, that though the pools have been tried and condemned being drawn and quartered, on several distinct and separate occasions, under the auspices and by authority of certain tribunals self-constituted for that special business: still and strange to say, the Wheat Pool is still very much alive, and doing business on the old stand.

Only a week ago, a very definite and circumstantial announcement, giving exact dates and everything was made through the press, to the effect that the documents were all sealed and signed and ready for delivery the very next morning, at 10 a.m. to be precise, when the banks would make a final "call," upon the wheat pool for the moneys loaned to the said "pool" by the said banks.

By a peculiar coincidence, a precisely similar and threatening announcement was made only a few weeks back, according to which announcement the banks were to "call" the "pool," and in this instance and even gone so far as to seize the pool's assets.

In both instances, of course, complete and irretrievable disaster, and consequent collapse of the wheat pool was freely predicted, and friends, and enemies, too, were invited to the funeral.

As it turns out, on neither occasion was the bank's call on the pool made, nor were its assets and effects ever seized. On the contrary, and as before, sagely remarked, the wheat pools are still operating and doing business on the old stand.

In all of which no attempt is made to disguise the fact that the wheat pools have been badly hit in the present world-wide depression in all commodity prices.

The wheat pool shares with the rest of the world in the results of the general depression.

Nothing could be more absurd, however, than the attempt so persistently made in certain quarters, to place the responsibility for low wheat prices, and the difficulties which at the moment are facing not only the wheat pool, but all other trade organizations, of whatsoever kind, on the shoulders of the wheat pool itself.

It is perhaps even more absurd allowing for the possibility of such a monstrous absurdity, to imagine that the forcing to the wall, and ultimately destroying, by means of the calling of bank loans, or any other means, the wheat pool would in any way be a remedy for the situation which exists.

Yet there are those who do seem to imagine that by increasing the difficulties of the wheat pool, and, if possible, forcing the pool out of business, would be the panacea for all existing evils, in the wheat world or any other world.

The only direction in which the remedy for these ills ever will be found, is in a full and frank recognition of the world changing economic conditions which have brought about and resulted in the present world-wide situation.

Soft, lovely hair!

The modern artistic hair-dresser can do wonderful things with your hair. But all your hair-needs can not be supplied in the beauty shop. You must help at home. And that's where Danderine comes in. Danderine is so simple and easy to use. Each time you arrange your hair just put a little of this delicately fragranced liquid on your brush. As you draw it through the hair, Danderine removes excess oil, cleanses, brings out the natural color, gives your hair an amazing new lustre.

Used consistently, Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff, keeps the scalp comfortable and healthy; stops falling hair; helps make your hair grow long, silky and abundant. Your hair is so much easier to arrange and stays in place when Danderine is used. Waves "set" with it look nicer; stay in longer. Five million bottles used a year!

CANADA IN NEED OF HER MILITIA

Sutherland Claims With Trouble Brewing Over World Force Should Be Kept Up.

AT MILITARY DINNER.

LONDON, Ont., November 1 (C. P.). — "It is important that the Canadian Militia should be maintained in a high state of efficiency, perhaps more so at the present time than it ever has been in the past," declared Lieut.-Col. the Hon. Donald M. Sutherland, Minister of National Defence, at a dinner tendered to him by the officers of Military District No. 1 here last night.

"No one hopes more than I do that there will be no more trouble," he continued, "but if a man only uses common sense and ordinary judgment, he will see that there are no particular signs that point to world peace at the present time.

"All over the world, with the exception of the United States and ourselves ,there is a great deal of trouble brewing, and I ask you, a sensible people, should we do away with the very small force that we have at the present time?"

Try This Tonight

What do you do when a sluggish system shows the bowels need help? The best thing yet discovered for this is still a little candy Cascaret. Take one tonight if liver and bowels aren't functioning as they ought. See how quickly bad breath, coated tongue or a bilious, headachy condition is cleared up. No griping or discomfort from Cascarets. The quick, pleasant relief they always bring constipation sufferers is lasting. For Cascarets are made from cascara which doctors say actually strengthens bowel muscles. So you can take Cascarets as often as needed. 20 million boxes used yearly proves their merit.

men have secured many fine deer and bear.

Go Back of Apsley

A cozy hunting lodge back of Apsley is the destination that Tom Curvin and Sergeant Bill Wigg will lead a small party of hunters to early next week. They will be out for deer and also on the hunt for the wolves that are reported to so numerous in that neighborhood as to cause fear to the inhabitants.

After looking over the personnel of the miniature army which is leaving this district to invade the northern woods, one can easily imagine the odor of cooking venison replacing that of beef steak in the Lift Lock city in about a week's time.

Club Disbanded.

The Gold Lake Hunt Club, one of the bands of sportsmen that has hunted in Burleigh Township for many years, has disbanded, but a group of sharp-eyed nimrods will carry on the club's tradition for bagging game. This band will hike into the Cedar Lake district on Tuesday and remain until they get their quota. Among this group will be: Dr. Baker, Dan and John Holland, Hilliard Cooper, Garatt Spencer and others.

The Eagle Lake Hunt Club, which is listed in the honor roll of the district hunting parties, has disbanded this year also, but it is doubtful if some of the members will not hook down their Winchesters before the season has closed. Such famed huntsmen as Charlie Gunsolus and William J. Henry, city assessor, were listed in the Eagle Lake band.

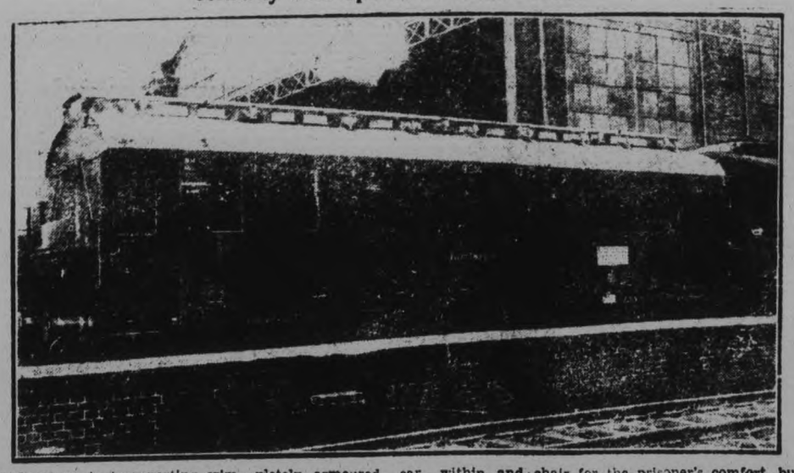
Germa ny Uses Special Prisoners' Coach



In Germany in transporting criminals from one jail to another or from courthouse to jail, a prisoner's travelling train is used. It is a completely armoured car within and without, and fitted with cells instead of the customary seats. In each cell there is a bed, wash stand, table and chair for the prisoner's comfort, but he is well beyond reach of confederates who might attempt to aid his escape.

BABY IMMUNE TO PARALYSIS

Children Under One Year Aer Safe From Scourge, Scientist Finds.

PASSES WITH AGE

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.— Children under one year of age are immune, in the majority of cases, to the attack of infantile paralysis.

This immunity is not permanent, and it is received by the newly-born infants from their mothers, who also are immune to this disease.

Thus, infantile paralysis resembles diphtheria in regard to its distribution according to ages.

PASSES WITH AGE.

Such is the gist of the discovery made by Drs. W. Lloyd Aycock and S. D. Kramer, of the Harvard Univerity Medical School, they have reported to the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research here.

These scientists say:

'Children under one year of age receive a passive immunity to poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) from their mothers."

As the child grows up, this immunity passes away. Thus, young children after five years of age are again in danger of infection with the virus of infantile paralysis.

Professors Aycock and Kramer found in their tests that 83 per cent of infant were immune from infantile parilysis at the time of their births. Also, 83 per cent of the mothers of the same babies were immune from this disease. Thus, the relationship of immunity between mothers and children was clearly established.

Critical Tests.

The critical experiments that showed these results consisted in testing the serum of the bloods of both.

Blood specimens from the bodies of the mother and babies were mixed with the virus or germs of infantile paralysis. The mixture was uncibated for two years, and kept overnight in iceboxes.

When this mixturewas injected into the body of monkeys, these animals failed to develop any attack of infantile paralysis. That mean that the disease poison had been destroyed by some substance in the bloods of the mothers and babies.

Cities Favored.

According to Doctors Aycock and Kramer, adults who live in congested large cities are more immune to infantile paralysis than are adults in rural and sparse populations.

These studies are expected to enable scientists to prepare some vaccine to prevent infantile paralysis and to cure it. Such prevention and cure is alreacy effectively done for diphtheria.

LITTLE DAMAGE CAUSED IN CITY

Few Old Fences Are Torn Down By Youths of City.

MOSTLY QUIET.

Mostly it was all quiet on the city front last night, but that's not saying what yet unknown outbreak of Hallowe'en frolicking occurred in the neighboring countryside.

There was about the usual amount of devilment and some little destruction of property, but on the whole the work of the gangs of young bloods lacked the ingenuity and ardor formerly shown by their fathers when they went out to paint the town red on Hallowe'en. No cars, wagons, or such were located this morning by their surprised owner perched up on the roof of the barn. No one was tarred and feathered, and none ducked in the river.

The present day hardier Hallowe'en spirits seem fully to have spent their time and energies in yanking down fences, pulling up board sidewalks, and hanging the odd verandah carpet on telegraph poles. Perhaps their ardor was somewhat cooled by the several extra constables who paraded streets and dark lanes, but then, if stories be true, there was "bull" behind every tree in the old days, but the job in hand went merrily ahead.

The truth is that the youngsters were too intent on enjoying themselves to turn to much rowdyism There was the big Examiner parade, and parties and dances throughout the city to which the gay folk gathered in costume to speed the happy hours of Hallowe'en.

The south-end seemed to escape scathless last night, but the other districts of the city all repored fences torn down and moved. In East City several wooden sidewalks were carted far from their original places. The trellis work on garden arbors also came for a due amount of attention. Pea shooters and tick-tacks played a merry tattoo on windows and wrecked the usual quiet of evening. But mostly it was all quiet, say the police.

DOCTOR IS HELD ON DRUG CHARGE

BONDS TOTAL $45,000.

TORONTO, Ont., November 1 (C. P.). — Dr. Edward K. Richardson, 55, homeopathic physician, was arrested last night on a charge of selling narcotic drugs.

Previously police arrested John D. "Bowlegs' Smith, on a charge of having drugs in his possession. When apprehended Smith attempted to swallow a small bottle containing 100 morphine tablets, police say.

Smith, it is alleged, in addition to being a drug addict, acted as a go-between for a physician and other addicts. Both men were released rfom cuwtody in bail bonds. Smith's being $23,000 and Dr. Richardson's $25,000.

more money, milk and bread tickets and a few orders on grocers and butchers. While not over large as to cash contributions, the collection was extremely satisfactory. We also have this morning offers for two good cook stoves and would like to know where to place them.

All evening, a steady stream of potatoes descended into the large box made ready for them at The Examiner door and an auxiliary container had to be secured later on, to hold the surplus. They came in singles and duos, trios and whole choruses, in children's small hands, placing them carefully in the box, in wrapped paper parcels borne by pretty damsels, and in little bags and baskets. One small boy proudly bore his basket into the office and deposited it carefully on the floor beside the other parcels which are piled up, waiting distribution this afternoon.

"Better Luck to Somebody" inscribed on the surface of one envelope containing a cash donation expresses the spirit with which Peterborough's citizens responded to the Hallowe'en appeal.

We might say that the supply of vegetables, although plentiful, will be far too small to go around to the many homes in which poverty lurks even at this early season.

FRIDAY NIGHT SUPPER CLUB HEARS FINE ADDRESS FROM DR. E. H. WOOD

Six Weeks Trip to England and Scotland Ably Presented.

DELIGHTFUL RESUME.

In a delightful resume, which gave evidence of a gift for keen observance, Dr. E. H. Wood, F.A.C.S., told the members of the Y.M.C.A. Friday Night Supper Club his impressions gained on a recent six-weeks trip to the Old Country.

Taking his audience figuratively speaking aboard the S.S. Duchess of Richmond at Montreal, the speaker eloquently traced the voyage down the mighty St. Lawrence.

His naive way of presenting outstanding incidents, both humorous and otherwise, gave his listeners both some thing of the thrill experienced at the outset of a new adventure.

Dr. Wood enlarging on the delights of the ocean voyage, gave a faithful description of the interior layout of the liner, telling of the various games and sports which are played to while away the time. He celebrated a birthday anniversary when two days out at sea. And an impromptu party was staged aboard in his honor. Dr. Wood passed around an autographed menu which he is keeping as a souvenir of the occasion. It bears the name of Mr. Dawson of Lakefield among numerous others, representative of all parts of the United States and Canada.

They had a daily news sheet aboard and on one occasion had a Rotary luncheon.

Dr. Wood's first impression of England, was that it is an entirely different country. Everything is in miniature, he said, in making a comparison between the gigantic freight trains familiar on this side of the Atlantic and the toy-like "goods trains" over there. The largest "goods" car, he said, had a capacity of twelve tons as compared with the maximum capacity of sixty tons here.

The journey to London from Liverpool, by train, revealed some beautiful scenery, "the little bits of fields were beautifully hedged." Little churches and chapels were also another source of amusement—bordering on incredulity.

Remarkable City

London, the doctor described, as a remarkable city, with its ever changing panorama of events and its startling contrasts.

The speaker had the opportunity of seeing little Princess Elizabeth out driving with her nurse. He also saw other members of the Royal family and was surprised at the lack of any sort of bodyguard. "I have seen the President of the United States, he said, drive around escorted by a whole galaxy of suspicious-looking individuals who were responsible for his safety."

At the Cenotaph on Whitehall the visitor was much impressed by the reverence with which it is regarded by everyone. Even the taxi drivers take off their hats as they pass it. Close by, at the Horse Guards Parade, Dr. Wood was privileged to witness a parade of four battalions of guards, rehearsing for the trooping of the colors on the King's birthday. It was an impressive and magnificent sight, he said.

Briefly speaking of the beauties of Kew Garden and other Parks, the speaker recounted his trip by motor up to Edinburgh. He saw the "Flying Scotchman"—the train which makes the non-stop journey between London and Edinburgh—a distance of 450 miles.

On his way to the north he stopped at the oldest hotel in the British Empire, where King John held his court. It dates from 1123. He dined in the room where Richard Third signed the death warrant of the Duke of Buckingham.

"It's unbelievable." That was the way in which Dr. Wood summed up Scotland, that land which gave birth to Burns and Wallace, and many other famous men prominent in history and literature.

At Edinburgh Castle there is the Scottish war memorial—an impressive piece of masonry. Not one arm of the service has been omitted from the monument, not even the animals and birds. It even includes the rats and reptiles and a space has been left on the monument in case anything has been omitted.

Aberdeen, was described as a dour place. Just like going to Portsmouth Penitentiary. It is a city made of "curling stones." He was not favorably impressed during the first few hours in the "granite city," but was grieved to leave it when the time came.

He then came down to the English Lake district, to Lakes Windermere and Grasmere. There is nothing to compare with their beauty in the whole of Canada, he said.

While in that district he saw Major Segrave's ill-fated boat, and incidentally saw a Peterborough canoe and a Strickland canoe from Lakefield.

C. A. Saimonsen occupied the chair and introduced the speaker, and afterwards tendered him a hearty vote of thanks.

A DIRECTOR'S DAY.

Just Six and One Half Minutes of Filming.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Herbert Brennon, while directing his second Radio picture, "The Devil's Battalion," recently recorded six and one-half minutes of screen entertainment in just that time. Many statisticians of the motion picture industry contend that the recording of five minutes of screen entertainment is an exceptionally good day's work for any director and cast. Mr. Brennon rehearsed his scene for days before he began filming and recording it. When this director was satisfied that the players were thoroughly familiar with what was desired of them, the cameras were operated for six and one-half minutes' period. Percival C. Wren wrote the story which is a sequel to 'Beau Geste.' The cast includes Ralph Forbes, Don Alvarado, Fran: McCormack and Otto Matieson.

OFFICIALS WILL CONTINUE PLANS TO HOLD MATCH

Plowmen's Association and Councils Want Provincial Competition to be Held Here.

OFFER GRANTS.

Attendance at These Competitions Estimated at Between 100,000 and 125,000.

J. J. Duffus and J. B. Nelson, president and secretary respectively, of the Peterborough Plowman's Association, discussed with Mayor Denne this morning the renewal of the association's effort to secure for Peterborough next year's provincial plowing match.

Both the city and county councils a year ago promised their support financially, and it is assumed that their co-operation will again be forthcoming when Peterborough bids for the 1931 match. The county council was willing to grant $1,000, and the city offered the same amount together with the cost of the banquet, which is a customary feature of the annual competition for the entire province.

Large Attendance.

The total attendance at the provincial match which was recently held at Stratford, was estimated at between 100,000 and 125,000 with an entry list of 445. Mr. Duffus remarked that Peterborough's objective would be to exceed this number of competitors. The attendance might also equal Stratford's, although it was recognized that the western section of Ontario is more populous than the east.

"I believe we would have a great many visitors from all parts of eastern Ontario all the way through to Kingston and Ottawa, and because of the interest that has been shown west of Toronto, I feel we would attract many from that part, too," Mr. Duffus said. 'It might also be arranged with the local associations in this district to hold their matches in Peterborough on the second day of the provincial week."

Mayor Denne said he believed the city would continue its encouragement of the plans and effort of the Plowmen's Association.

STUDENTS WRITE FOR CANDIDATES

Finger Prints to be Taken of Those Trying For Civil Service Positions.

THREE CASES UNCOVERED.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 1.—Impersonation of candidates in Government service examination by students well versed in the subjects to be written, has caused the Civil Service Commission to require the finger prints of candidates at certain examinations. Leo Bouchard, senior examiner of the Commission, in a public address here declared investigation had proven that in certain large centers, Montreal in particular, there had grown up a regular trade between students and candidates for various positions. Students charged from $50 to $800 for writing the examinations.

The first time finger-prints of candidates were taken and compared with those who actually wrote the examination, three cases of impersonation were discovered. A jail sentence had recently been imposed for this offense in Montreal.

Proper readjustment of the Civil Service could effect an annual saving of $75,000,000 to the country the speaker believed. Centralization of services, appointment of parliamentary undersecretaries, extension of the merit system, and rearrangement of personnel in many departments, Mr. Bouchard declared all are necessary to raise the general standard of the service and lower the total of $17,000,000 annually for 50,000 employees now being borne by the nation.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IS THE REFLECTION OF THE SPIRIT OF THE COMMUNITY.

Art Is Essential Says Hon. A. David

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 1.—"Art is essential to life," asserted Hon. Athanase David, provincial secretary, recently when he opened an exhibition of camera pictures. Dealing with photography, he said, be it of a person, an event, a scene, personality must of necessity be injected into the picture. In those camera studies before him—all of varied form and impression—there was to be found the touch of two personalities, the vivid and living personality of the sitter or the particular scene, and the personality of the cameraman who, knowing his art thoroughly, brought out all that was of the best in the human pose or lay-out of event or scenery. This was perfect photography, he emphasized.

"I visited last year's exhibition," he observed. "This year I note remarkable improvement."

GENERAL CURRIE HEADS COLLEGE

Is Appointed Honorary Chancellor on Union College, Schenectady.

SCHENECTADY, N.Y., Nov. 1.—President Frank Parker on Friday announced the appointment of General Sir Arthur William Currie, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., LL.D., principal of McGill University, as the honorary chancellor of Union College for this year. During the World War, Sir Arthur commanded the Canadian Corps in France and, Dr. Day served under him, first as commander of the 185th Battalion Cape Breton Highlanders and later as commander of the 25th Battalion. Sir Arthur will deliver the chancellor's address at the 134th annual commencement of Union College here on June 15, 1931.

General Currie took part in seventeen major battles during the World War and was mentioned in the despatches nine times. He received the following honors and awards during his service: Distinguished Service Medal (American); Croix de Guerre, Crois de Commandeur, Legion d'Honneur, and Croix de Guerre with Palms (French); Croix de Guerre, and Grand Officer de l'Ordre de la Couronne (Belgian); Commander of the Bath, Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, and Grand Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George (British), and Knight Commander of the Bath.

Sir Arthur holds honorary degrees from fifteen universities and colleges, among which are: Cambridge, Edinburgh, McGill, Pennsylvania, Dartmouth, Harvard, and State of New York.

He was born at Napperton, Ontario, December 5, 1875. After attending public school, he studied at the Strathroy Collegiate Institute and later at the Strathroy Model School. For a while he taught in Sidney and in Victoria, B.C., but finally, in 1900, he entered the insurance and real estate business which he left only when the Canadian Expeditionary Force was mobilized in September, 1914. In 1901, Sir Arthur was married to Sophia Chaworth Musters and they have one son, Garner Ormsby, and one daughter, Marjorie Chaworth Musters.

President Day of Union College was not without military experience when he resigned his position as professor of English at Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1914, to begin active service in the Canadian Expeditionary Force. While a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford University from Nova Scotia, seven years before, he had joined the "King Edward's Light Horse," and ranked as second lieutenant when in 1909 he returned to Canada to become professor of English at the University of Brunswick. During his three years there he joined and attained the rank of major in the 28th New Brunswick Dragoons.

Upon his enlistment in 1914, Dr. Day was appointed to the 85th Battalion, C.E.F., as major in 1915. A few months later he was promoted lieutenant-colonel to command the 185th Battalion Cape Breton Highlanders which he had recruited in January, 1916, in three weeks' time. After his unit had undergone a training period in England, it was broken up to fill the gaps in other battalions in France, and Dr. Day was transferred as commander of the 25th Battalion in the field. Until he was wounded and invalided to England in October 15, 1918, Dr. Day saw continuous service in France.

Colonel Day resigned from the Canadian Militia in 1919 on taking permanent residence in the United States where he resumed his duties as professor of English and Dean of Carnegie Tech. In 1927 he went to Swarthmore College as professor of English and in November, 1928, he was appointed president of Union College which inaugurated him on May 4, 1929.

Victim and Alleged Slayer

Albert Dodson, 22, is being held on suspicion of murder by the Detroit police in connection with the finding of the strangled body of 16-year-old Alice Collier (inset), the girl who disappeared from her home on August 2 and was found strangled to death on a farm near Dearborn, Mich.

SABOTAGE ALLEGED WITH DESTRUCTION OF 17 BATHTUBS

Police Puzzled Over Damage to Plumbing in Windsor.

MAY BE SPITE CASE

(Special to Examiner, Copyright, 1930.)

WINDSOR, Nov. 1.—Sabotage has broken out in the plumbing industry in Windsor with the destruction of 17 built-in bath tubs valued at more than $1,000 and heavy loss entailed by the removal and replacement of the tubs in the Royal Apartments under construction at the northeast corner of Luellette and Ellis avenues.

The building is being constructed by Cadillac Investments, Limited, and the plumbing contract is held by Arthur R. Cook, master plumber of 620 Pierre avenue, Windsor. One day last week, it was learned from city police to-day, one of the tilers installing tile in a bathroom of the block tore away the asbestos paper with which the tubs are covered to protect them during building operations, and found that someone had struck the tub with a heavy hammer, cracking a patch of enamel away from the iron base and ruining it. The other 16 tubs, all of which had been plastered into place and some of which were in bathrooms that had already been tiled were at once torn free of their coverings and it was found that all have been similarly damaged.

A week or so earlier some minor damage to fittings installed by Cook had been discover, and it is now a question whether the tubs were hammered then or later.

A night watchman employed by the owners of the building was closely questioned by police and said that he had not heard or seen anything suspicious. The loss will probably run to several thousand dollars. The tubs cost about $70,000 each, or an approximate total of $1,190, but as they were all built in and some of the bathrooms had been tiled and decorated, their replacement will cost a considerable um in excess of the actual cost of the tubs.

There is said to be some doubt as to who will bear the loss, as it is understood the question of responsibility has been the subject of discussion between sol ici tors, the plumbing contracotr claiming that he relied upon the protection afforded by the owner's night watchman to keep his installation safe.

Police are puzzled as to whether the outrage was caused by labor trouble or by some enemy of the plumbing consractor. Cook has been operating open thop some of his men being union journey men while others are non-union. It is said that the has a shrewd suspicion as to who committed the sabotage, but in the absence of proof is unable to act. Cook declined to make any statement on the matter when questioned by the Examiner this mo ning, and would no: give any hint as to whether it was his belief that the sabotage resulted from labor trouble or from enmity in the plumbing trade.

This is the first instance of sabotage reported in the plumbing industry here for more than a year, police said. For a time there was a series of such outrages, whether due to labor disputes or to enmity between members of the trade was not established.

The tubs are said to be a total loss as it is impracticable to replace the cracked off enamel.

Omemee

Mrs. Melville Earle, King St., entertained at a delightful "Tea" Wednesday afternoon from 4 to 7 o'clock. In aid of group "A" of the W.M.S. of Trinity United Church.

The rooms looked charming with marigolds and candle lighted pumpkins.

After enjoying a social time, a photo contest was introduced, adding much pleasure and merriment to the afternoon. The guests were then invited for refreshments, which had the Hallowe'en touch. Thus bringing to a close, a very enjoyable afternoon.

It is with regret that we report the departure of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Mahood and son Donald, and Mrs. Nugent (Mrs. Mahood's mother), who left for their new home in Lindsay, Wednesday. In their going, Omemee looses one of its most popular families, both in church and community work. Mrs. Nugent being one of Omemee's oldest residents.

Mr. Cyril Elliott, local contractor, is busy building a fine new barn on the farm of Mr. Grant McMann, who recently lost his barn by lightning.

Miss Faulkner of the junior room of the Public School, held a Hallowe'en concert for the pupils from 3 to 4 o'clock. The room was attractively decorated with pumpkin heads, witches, black cats and the usual pumpkin yellow and black paper decorations, giving the room quite a spooky appearance. The pupils and visitors (as each pupil was at liberty to bring a visitor— numbered from fifty-five to sixty. During the program all wore false faces. The program consisted of readings and recitations interspersed with Hallowe'en choruses, An abundance of candies and apples were passed during the hour. Every one going home real happy after such a merry time.

The many friends of Rev. A. I. Weir, will be pleased to learn of a slight improvement in his condition.

Mr. Walter Reeds of the Omemee "Egg grading station" was a business visitor to Toronto, Wednesday.

Mr. Mulholland of the Ontario Hydro Power Commission was in town on business Thursday.

Mr. I. Fee and Mr. Pogue were visitors to Garden Hill, Tuesday.

Mrs. Isiah Magee, Peterborough, visited Mrs. Howden, George St., this week.

Mr. W. L. Saunders resident engineer of the Highways Department, Port Hope, passed through town, Thursday.

Mr. R. J. Grandy, visited Lindsay, Thursday, on business.

Mr. Robt. Nugent and Mrs. Sheehy were business visitors in town, Wednesday.

Mr. Chas. Ivory spent Friday in Millbrook.

Mrs. Isaac Fee visited friends in Lindsay Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harris, who motored from Moose Jaw, Sask., are visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Johnson, en route to Ottawa, where they will make their new home. Having purchased a farm in that district.

Miss E. A. Barrass, visited friends in Peterborough, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Irwin, of Peterborough, were visitors in town Thursday.

Mr. Thos. Pogue, west of town, had a very successful auction sale, Thursday afternoon.

Mr. J. Williams visited Lindsay on business, Thursday afternoon.

Jeanette MacDonald's sister, Blossom, has been engaged for her first picturer roie. It places both sisters on the same lot.

Par has taken Blossom for a small part in "Fighting Caravans," recently returned from location for interior shots.

The lesser know of the MacDonald sister has been on the legit stage.

THEATRE NEWS

RUTH ROLAND'S FIRST TALKER

Once Risked Her Life in Old Time Serials.

A BUSINESS WOMAN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Ruth Roland hopes that the reputation she achieved in the old time picture serials will not be spoiled by her appearance in her first important talker.

People may scoff at the old time silent serials, but Ruth thinks they were fine. She thought enough of serials to risk her neck many times over for $35 a week when she first started, and did not get any more of a thrill when receiving $3,500 a week for the same stunts. Now Miss Roland's series reputation is the main concern of her life. She feels she made a big record, more especially she seldom, if ever, used a double for any of the whole-hearted risks she took.

Altogether picture works has meant so much to Miss Roland she dislikes the publicity as "a business woman rather than an actress' which has been constantly bestowed upon her. She would rather be known as "the healthiest girl" in pictures than the "smartest girl," as the exposure and injuries of her serial work left her healthy.

Love Scenes.

Miss Roland believes talking pictures have lost much of the mystery and romance that made silent pictures entrancing. Dialogue, particularly has done this. In the silent pictures the audience made up their own dialogue. In love scenes, Miss Roland says, the audience allowed its imagination to run riot. One person might imagine and enjoy imagining that the lover was saying "My own sweetheart, I love you" or another person might think he said, "Gee kid, you're swell." Most love scenes with dialogue at present are embarrassing.

Miss Roland was interviewed while posing for a sculptor who is making a bust of her for theatre lobbies throughout the country. The sculptor must have been tempted to put a feathered war bonnet upon the bust, as she told of her many daredevil stunts.

HILL-BILLIES POPULAR.

Fan Mail Only Exceeded By Amos and Andy's.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Hill-billy radio music is getting in its dirty work in the midwest and is gaining rapidly in popularity.

Pickard family, on the air twice a week, once on a commercial program, and one sustaining, have climbed from last place to second place in a few months, in the matter of fan mail Only Amos 'n Andy are getting more letters.

Remarkable is that the majority of letters are from the Tennessee and Kentucky backwoods, all writing for jobs along with their flattery.

One guy offered to come up and play the guitar for $12 a month, plus room and board.

POPULAR COSTUMES AT Y.P.S. PARTY

Fairies, Gypsies and Witches Gather in St. James' S. S. Hall.

Fairies, gypsies and witches gathered in a large company to enjoy Hallowe'en fun at the masquerade party held under the auspices of the Young People's Society of St. James' United Church on Friday evening.

Orange and black decorations, in keeping with the Hallowe'en season, were carried out in jack o'lanterns, witches and black cats.

A grand promenade opened the program, when the guests were led through the Sunday school halls and galleries, terminating in a realistic ghost walk through the "chamber of horrors," Miss Aileen Rose presiding at the piano.

Clever contests and amusing stunts followed, among which was the old but ever new, "bite the apple" contest which evoked great merriment, as did the clever rhyming "car" contest.

Games preceded the supper hour when the guests were arranged in groups of five and given a jumbled-up "T," which must be matched before tea could be served.

The menu consisted of Hallowe'en viands, brown bread and cheese, pumpkin pie, coffee and candy.

Mesdames A. Wilson, H. Fry and J. Wagar acted as judges of the many unique and lovely costumes, finding it a difficult task to make a choice. The prize for the prettiest costume was won by Miss Mildred Fife, who wore a mauve taffeta Elizabethan gown, with white wig.

The originality of the "scare-crow" costume won for its wearer, Miss Muriel Moorhouse, the prize for the best comic dress.

Other outstanding costumes were those worn by Stan Church, impersonating a young lady. "The twins" were charmingly presented by Misses Dot Drysdale and Jean Rose in their pink and blue gingham rompers and frilly caps.

Among the others were beautiful gypsy costumes, Aunt Jemimas, witches, clowns, a shy Scotch lassie with her mother, Red Riding Hood, and others in black and white, and black and orange.

The success of the evening was due in a great measure to the efforts of the social committee with Miss Jessie Martin, convenor.

The splendid program was brought to a conclusion with the benediction by the pastor, Rev. A. E. Moorhouse.

SCREEN AND STAGE NOTES

"Kismet," the First National screen adaptation of the popular drama by Edward Knoblock, had its premiere Thursday evening in New York on the Vitascope, the new wide film. Otis Skinner made his debut on the talking screen with a cast that included Loretta Young, David Manners, Sidney Blackmer, Mary Duncan, Montagu Love, Ford Sterling, Theodor von Eltz, John St. Polis and Edmund Breese. "Kismet" was first produced in 1911 with Mr. Skinner in the role of Hajj, the beggar of Bagdad, which is now perpetuated on the screen.

David Belascos "Girl of the Golden West,' now seen in a screen talking version, was first produced twenty-five years ago, with Lowell Sherman, James Kirkood, Blanche Bates and Frank Keenan in the original cast. The present version of the old melodrama features Ann Harding, James Rennie and Harry Bannister. It is the story of a girl whose love for a bandit in the gold rush days regenerates him and saves him from the noose.

"Feet First," Harold Lloyd's second audible film, had its premiere at the Rialto, New York, Thursday. Barbara Kent plays the feminine lead in this comedy, which reveals Mr. Lloyd as a clerk in a Honolulu shoe store.

The average wage of a Hollywood extra is $2.63 a week, Jerome Beatty discloses in "The Modern Screen Magazine." There are more than 17,000 men, women and children in the film city, according to this writer, competing for the 800 or 900 jobs open to extras every day. Ten dollars a day is the usual wage and out of that extras are expected to furnish a complete wardrobe.

There is very little chance that Klieg No. 159 on the Par lot and its attendant Frank Johnson, will ever part company. At least no so long as Ruth Chatterton is a Par star.

Miss Chatterton insists on all her pictures that Klieg light No. 159 and Johnson as its boss be assigned because this light and its attendant were on the job when she made her test for Par.

Marie Dressler and Polly Moran, very much attached, besides being Metro-mates on the screen, had a scene last week in their new "Reducing" feature wherein they're supposed to act as if they hadn't met for 20 years. Having been together so long, Chuck Reisner, who's directing, thought this would be a tough assignment, until both started bawling, before the camera, as if they really hadn't seen each other for 20 years.

Only prospective musical Fox has in mind is the one the Gershwins are to turn out for Janet Gaynor.

That spikes the report that Fifi Dorsay was to do "Charmaine," supposedly a tuneful interpretation of "What Price Glory." Miss Dorsay's next film is as yet unselected with the studio on a search for a suitable yarn.

Amos 'n' Andy were offered $30,000 for a week of personal appearances in February with the San Francisco Automobile Show. This is the highest offer ever made to any one act or person in show biz. Bid may even go to $40,000, according to report. Last year the Frisco show paid $25,000 to Maurice Chevalier for a week.

Constance Bennett is in the happy position these days of having more offers than she can accept. She has just signed a contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to play the lead in "The Easiest Way." M.G.M. has been looking for some one to play the part for many a day, and yesterday Pathe consented to lend her to the neighboring studio.

"The Easiest Way" created a sensation some years ago as a play when Frances Starr and Joseph Kilgore appeared in what was considered the naughtiest play of the times.

AMOS AND ANDY ADS.

Publicity Splurge on Film Cost $180,000.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Lord, Thomas & Logan, advertising agents, are understood to have been authorized by R-K-O to spend $180,000 in advertising the Amos 'n' Andy picture, which opened in 300 R-K-O houses outside of New York, Oct. 25. The money was spent in three days, two days prior to the picture's opening and on the day of the opening.

This advertising splurge in the daily newspapers will be in addition to the regular individual theatre advertisements which mention other phases of the theatres' program. Ads placed by the ad agency will deal only with the picture.

LOST HER JOB.

Marion Roberts in Jack Diamond Shooting.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Marion Roberts, 22, and supposed sweetheart of Jack "Legs" Diamond, lost her $50 line job in the new Ziegfeld show, "Smiles," after the shooting. Ziegfeld let her go because of her implication in the publicity.

Miss Roberts, despite her youth, has been around Broadway for years. She was once ordered out of the chorus of a Broadway musical by the Gerry Society when found to be only 14 years old.

"THE BIG TRAIL" GREAT PICTURE

Pioneer Days Recaptured—Villages Built For Scenes.

HIRED BUFFALO HERD.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—It was in a suite of the Savoy Hotel in London that last winter Winfield Sheehan and Raoul Walsh first discussed the making of a film, which has resulted in the Grandeur feature, "The Big Trail," which is now on exhibition at the Roxy. Hal G. Evarts, author and authority on the history of the West was engaged to work out a story that would interpret the spirit of the Western pioneers for the vocalised screen.

Mr. Walsh decided that he wanted persons who would go through their scenes naturally. For the leading role he picked John Wayne, a six-foot athlete who after having left the University of Southern California was working as a property man in the Fox studio. Mr. Wayne plays the part of a scout leading the pioneers through danger, which include redskins, rivers and thirst.

Marguerite Churchill was selected for the leading feminine role, that of a Southern girl who joins the wagon train with her young brother and sister, to seek their fortune in the glamourous West. Other characters are played by El Brendel, Tully Marshall, Tyrone Power, David Rollins, Ian Keith and supporting players, bringing the total of principals to ninety-three.

Thousands Of Extras.

The persons appearing in the picture, it is said, include thousands of extras, of whom hundreds are Indians from five tribes: Crow, Cheyenne, Shoshone, Blackfoot and Arapahoe. Many of the extrast were recruited on location. These played pioneer families, scouts, riders and hunters.

In addition the company included a production staff of 200, 22 of that number being the camermen who filmed the scenes in Grandeur as well as standard-size film.

The company traveled 4,300 miles, setting up locations in seven States: Arizona, California, Idaho, Wyoming, Montana, Utah and Oregon, as well as Yellowstone Park. On these locations the players underwent many of the rigors suffered by the pioneers who had covered that ground before them, being bufeted by storms and blizzard and being burned by the blazing sun of the prairies.

In recreating the scenes of 100 years ago, Walsh and his assistants searched months for places unmarked by telegraph poles, gasoline filling stations, advertising signs and other evidences of our present-day

Villages Built

Villages are said to have been built to reproduce the scenes of the story, corrals were erected to hold 1,400 horses, 1,800 cattle, and other live stock, including mules, chickens, dogs and pigs.

After months of preparation and scouting for location, actual filming was started at Yuma, Ariz., on April 20, the hundredth anniversary of the start of the first wagon train.

The studio and transportation organization had the job of moving from place to place enormous numberos of people, equipment and animals. The whole picture was filmed hundreds of miles from Hollywood and so it was necessary to house the players and production staff on location. Many carpenters and others were engaged in building camps: cooks and kitchen helpers were kept busy.

A herd of buffalo in Montana was contracted for and they appeared in one of the scenes of the picture, a buffalo hunt and stampede.

After four months of traveling, working and being thoroughly imbued with admiration for the pioneers who had preceded them, Walsh brought his company back to Hollywood on Aug. 20, having filmed a record of the heroism and the fortitude of the men and women who fought Indians, forded rivers, submitted to raging elements and triumphed in their undertaking of pushing the frontiers of civilization to the Pacific slopes of America.

CHEVALIER'S OUTBURST.

Theatre Episode in Paris Not an Advantage.

PARIS, Nov. 1.—A changed Chevalier has returned from American film triumphs. Temperamental outbursts mark the difference from the genial figure that charmed the French capital a couple of years ago.

Paris newspapers have remarked upon the change and comment has made Chevalier self-conscious on the stage. Series of unhappy occurrences culminated recently in Nice.

During a concert there at the Eldorado, someone in the audience broke out laughing at the wrong moment. The star walked off the stage in a huff. He returned in the auditorium and began to lecture the crowd, only to discover that the offending spectator was a shell shocked war veteran afflicted with a nervous trouble that manifested itself in hysterical laughter.

The episode has been exploited in the papers and Chevalier's public good will has not benefited.

J. Harold Murray and the Fox company. The Fox Company bought out his contract. In New York J. Harold Murray was a great success on the stage, but who among the movie fans knows him? I might say the same about Jeanette MacDonald

ARTICLES OF INTEREST TO THE FARMER

LICE-INFECTED COWS NEED SPRAY OF NON-POISONOUS DISINFECTANT

Solution Should Be Applied on Warm Day So Animals Will Not Be Chilled.

TREAT STALLS ALSO.

For cattle that are infested with lice, probably the best treatment, according to A. E. Perkins, dairy husbandryman at Ohio Experiment Station, is a thorough spraying with a non-poisonous disinfectant. The solution should be comfortably warm and applied on a warm day so that the animals will not be chilled.

Several satisfactory coal tar derivatives will be obtainable on the market, or the liquid known by druggists as "liquor cresolis compositus" may be used. Any of these may be mixed with 30 to 50 parts of water, according to directions, and applied with a sprayer.

A kerosene emulsion is also effective. This is made by dissolving a quart of soft soap or one-fourth pound of hard soap in two quarts of boiling water and adding one pint of kerosene. This is thoroughly mixed by churning or pumping through the sprayer, after which three quarts of water are added and mixed, making the emulsion ready for use.

To insure permanent results, the stalls should also be treated thoroughly with the disinfectant solution. Ten days after the first application, it should be repeated again to catch any lice that may have escaped. Up-to-date stalls and stanchions will make spraying more effective, as they are easily kept clean and have few cracks and crannies to harbor lice.

Any sprayer which is of proper size may be used. Ordinarily, a small hand sprayer of the type used to spray flies will be large enough. If a large heard of cows are to be treated, and the stalls also, a slightly bigger sprayer will likely be better.

GREAT AEROPLANES ON EMPIRE ROUTES

New England-Egypt-South Africa Service to be Opened Early in New Year.

USE GIANT MACHINES.

LONDON, Nov. 1 (C.P.)—The tragic loss of R-101 has not halted the British Government's plans for future development of air routes with heavier-than-air machines. Early in the new year the first stage of the great airway across Africa to Cape Town will be opened and giant new machines carrying 40 passengers, multiple-engined for safety, will be put in operation.

Various stages will be included in the routes. The first two stages, from England to the Mediterranean and from the Mediterranean to Cairo Egypt, are to be used both for the African airway and the Indian route; the latter has been in operation for some time. At Cairo, the junction point, one great route branches southward for the long trip down the "Dark Continent," the other reaches eastward to the Indian Empire.

From London to the Mediterranean across Europe the new Handley-Page 40-seater with four engines will be used. The Mediterranean port has not been decided on. At present it is Salonika but it is believed the Air Ministry has been successful in obtaining permission to use an Italian port.

In any event, the cross-Mediterranean flight to Cairo will be made in a new type of Calcutta machine, with four engines abreast. A new air station is being prepared for land and sea planes a few miles from Alexandria. For the Indian route, Cairo to Karachi, the Handley-Page 38-passenger machine furnished to give every comfort in a hot climate, is being used. For the Cairo-Cape Town route the Argosy, Calcutta, and De Havilland machines, all triple-engined, will be used in three stages. The first is Cairo to Khartum the second Khartum to Kisumu in Kenya, and the third from Kisumu to Cape Town.

The traveller from London to Cape Town will thus experience the comforts of five different craft on five big stages of the journey. By sea the journey from London to Cape Town takes 17 days. At the commencement of the air service the journey will take 11 days but eventually it is into effect. The fare for the entire journey, just over 6,000 miles, will be about $625. This will include hotel expenses and everything necessary. The longest continuous flight will be eight hours and the schedule will be arranged so that the passenger will practically always be able to eat breakfast and luncheon on the ground.

Within the near future the two great air routes are to be completed —London to Australia and London to Cape Town, with Cairo as the junction point.

Gov't Scores Victory On Its First Division

LONDON, Nov. 1 (C.P.)—The MacDonald Government scored an easy victory to-day in the first division of the new Parliamentary session, defeating a Labor left wing amendment to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne by 156 votes to 11.

The amendment "Humbly regretted that the Speech from the Throne contained no proposals making for the Socialist reorganization of industry, agriculture, banking and import and export trades, and for a fair distribution of the national income."

Decay in Lumber Caused by Fungi

Most stains all decay in lumber are due to the growth of fungi in the wood. These defects are spread by spores or by contact of sound wood with infected material. Dry wood will neither stain nor rot. The fact that wood has once been dry does not render it imune from subsequent infection if it again absorbs moisture; nor does drying diseased wood necessarily kill the disease-producing fungus. Methods of prevention of stain and decay have been evolved by the Forest Products Laboratories, Department of the Interior, Canada.

CROP OF APPLES BELOW AVERAGE

Yield of 3,165,93 Barrels is 20,000 Under 5 Year Mark

QUALITY BETTER.

While the total estimated apple crop of Canada for the current year, at 3,165,936 barrels, is now 20,000 barrels below the five-year average it will probably be a better crop than apple growers have enjoyed for many years.

Practically 90% of the apple crop this year is being shipped out under the new recommended rules brought into effect by the Dominion Fruit Branch this season for the first time. These rules have two distinct advantages; the number of grades is reduced to two, No. 1 and Domestic; and apples are packed by size, the spread in size within the container being limited to ¼ inch.

The uniform quality and size of apples, together with the high coloring and general attractive appearance, which prevails this year, is noticeably reviving popular interest in the "King of Fruits." Retail buyers find it particularly satisfactory to have apples of good size throughout the container, whether box, barrel or hamper.

Not only is the domestic market this year receiving a big impetus but with the export fruit regulations applying to Nova Scotia the outward movement of apples is more than 50% greater than at the same time last year. The total export in barrels to October 10th this year being 265,078 as against 157,558 last year. The export of boxed apples is more than 200% ahead of last year, the total to date being 166,865 boxes as against 64,457 up to the same date last year. year.

UNIVERSITY OPENS LITERARY COURSE

Supervised Reading For Students and Others Offered By University of Alberta.

EDMONTON, Nov. 1 (C.P.)—An opportunity to the students of the University of Alberta and also the general public to undertake a course of supervised reading is offered this year by the University's Department of English, and it is thought many people who desire to engage in good reading instead of the sort of reading being foisted upon the public by sensational writers, or worse, will take advantage of the new course. It is intended to guide people so as to enable them to follow a course of useful reading and become acquainted with the best writers of the present period. The course is open to the public on payment of a fee that is regarded as reasonable.

The lecture in reading will be given in the Arts building of the University three afternoons a week and will occupy an hour each day. They will be given by four members of the Department of English staff, and will be divided into four sections of six weeks each. Prof. E. K. Broadus will take the first six weeks of lectures, his subject being English Poetry. Then Assistant Prof. J. T. Jones will lecture on the Drama, after which Joseph Fisher will deal with Biography and Essays, and then Prof. Robert K. Gordon will lecture on the Novel.

A comprehensive list of authors will be drawn upon for the lectures, going back only to the year of 1890 and dealing with authors up to the present time.

AUSTRALIAN CRISIS AVERTED

CANBERRA, Australia, Nov. 1 (C.P. Cable via Reuters).—Acting Government heads have succeeded in reaching a compromise with the Labor Parliamentary party on the Government's economic reform proposals.

The Labor caucus which has been discussing the Government's finance proposals, has accepted a plan which is understood to provide for reduction of expenditures and an increase in taxation amounting in the aggregate to about $40,000,000 annually.

The latest survey shows that only 715 persons in the United States and Canada are both deaf and blind.

FEED HENS WELL ONE EGG WORTH THREE IN SPRING

Takes a Good Hen and Proper Care to Get Production in Winter.

WATCH THE WATER.

Feed All Grain They Will Clean Up at Roosting Time.

Winter is the most profitable time for a poultryman. Ordinarily, an egg in November or December is worth three eggs in May or June. Spring is the natural time for a hen to lay most any kind of a hen will lay at that season, but it takes a good hen and proper care to get eggs in the winter time.

In the first place, be sure that you have an adequate water supply and that it does not freeze. Whenever birds have to go without water, they are apt to become constipated, go off feed, get out of condition and go into a winter moult.

The hen's diet should be composed of both grain and mash. Scratch grains are fed primarily to supply heat and energy. The time to feed it is in the evening just before the birds go to roost. Give them all the grain they will clean up before roosting time, but do not give them any grain in the mornings. Birds with a full crop of scratch grains, or even a partially filled crop in the morning, are not apt to eat the amount of mash that a hen will eat if she is forced to go to the mash hopper when she leaves the roost. It is the mash part of the ration which supplies the egg-building materials, and the more mash we can get the birds to eat the more eggs it will ordinarily mean. A good egg mash should be kept in hoppers before the birds at all times. To give the flock an unlimited opportunity to eat mash, provide two running feet of hopper space for every ten hens.

In addition to the mash, grain and water, a flock of layers need oyster shells and a hard, acid insoluble granite grit. A good grade of oyster shells in an exceptionally cheap source of shell material.

CATTLE OUTLOOK PLEASES WEIR

Believes Shipment Sent to England Will Be Boost to Market.

SOLD IN BRITAIN.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 1.—(By The Canadian Press)—Full of enthusiasm over the prospect of establishing a steady market for Canadian cattle in Great Britain, Hon. Robert Weir Minister of Agriculture, has just returned from Montreal after a personal inspection of a test shipment of three carloads of cattle from Alberta destined for Manchester, Eng. The cattle are to be sold by auction at Manchester to British farmers who will finish them for the British market.

The primary objects of the shipment is two-fold. First it is intended to demonstrate to the British trade the type of cattle which can be obtained in Canada. Secondly it is expected the project will produce much useful information as to the most practical and economical manner of shipping cattle from Canada and of marketing them at the other end.

The objection has been raised in Great Britain that Canadian ranch cattle are too wild for handling and feeding in that country. This objection, it is felt, is more imaginary than real, and arises out of the fact that persons accustomed to ordinary farm cattle do not know how to handle ranch cattle. The shipment is in charge of a practical rancher, Shea Gilchrist of Medicine Hat, and he will be able to show the cattlemen of Great Britain that Canadian steers are as gentle as kittens if properly treated.

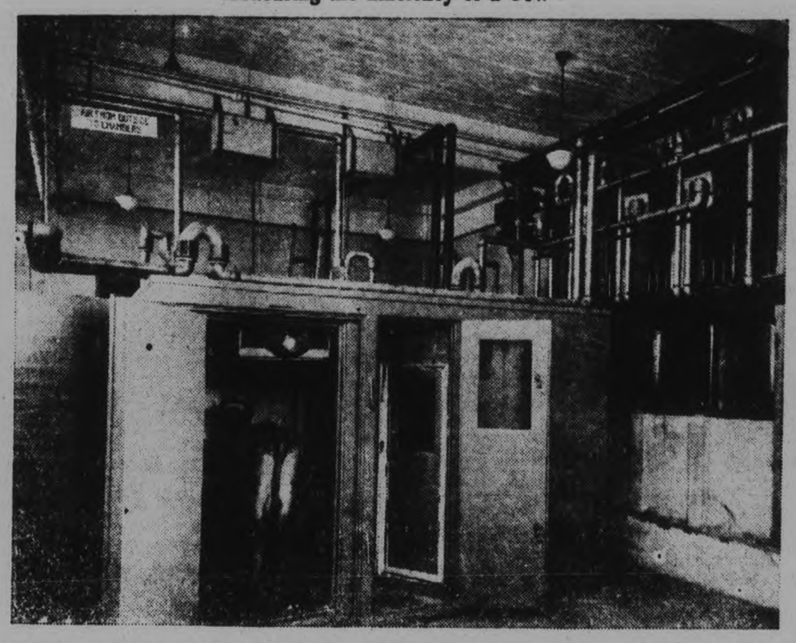
RHODE ISLAND RED BREEDER HONORED

Walter Lloyd Congratulated By C.N.E. Officials on Splendid Showing.

Walter Lloyd of 51 Victoria avenue, this city, who recently received a message of congratulation and the sweepstakes championship rosette for the best showing of R.I.R. Cockerels at the C.N.E., has had a high honor paid him by being asked to accept the position as secretary of the Rhode Island Red Association of Canada. The request came from Secretary Brooker of the R.I.R. Club of America.

Mr. Lloyd has long been considered one of the most ardent poultry breeders in this city, and captured all the prizes in his class at the local industrial exhibition. He has probably the largest stock of this breed in Canada, and is using his prize winning birds as the nucleus of his flock which he hopes to enter successfully in some of the outsanding forthcoming poultry shows.

Measuring the Efficiency of a Cow



Electricity's latest task is a boon to the dairy industry. In the laboratories of the College of Agriculture, University of California, there has just been completed a "registration chamber" in which the input-output efficiency of a cow may be tested electrically. The animals are provided with comfortable stalls in air-tight champers, an dare fed, watered, milked, and cleaned under careful laboratory conditions. The breathing of the animals is measured by an elaborate "mechanical lung" device, and a classifier, in the basement under the respiration chamber, separates the waste products. About the only thing which is not analyzed by this machine is the cow's moo. The respiration chamber contained many scientific instruments, and General Electric motors and control devices are used to operate "aspirator" and the classifier. Through the use of this equipment, scientists may ascertain what effect, if any, the use of treated water, variation in diet, and other controllable conditions may have on a cow's efficiency.

Will You Need an Income of $100 a Month?

Some one has said that the sweetest words in the English language are "Enclosed please find cheque."

How would you like to have $100 a month mailed to you regularly after you reach age 50, 55, 60 or 65, whichever you select? You would like to have it now, perhaps, and if you have the capital sum needed to buy such an income the Canada Life will guarantee it to you at once. But if you haven't the capital, you can arrange now that you will have that income later on.

Suppose you are earning $100 a month —it may be $150, $200 or more. Whatever it is there is a part of that income you want continued.

If you were not here, how much would continue? That is, how much of your income would go on, no matter if you earned a salary or drew pay or not? For many people the answer would have to be: "Not very much!"

It takes $20,000 capital well invested to bring in $100 a month. Under the Canada Life plan you do not need to save $20,000 in order to make sure of an income of $100 a month.

The Canada Life with $175,000,000 of well invested assets will guarantee to continue that part of your income you must have later on for living expenses, say $100 a month. And the Canada Life may have to start the income going at any time to you or your family. There are no years of waiting if the need should come suddenly. That is, should you become totally disabled or should you die. See what happened in the following cases:—

He was thirty years of age and everything was going well until he got tuberculosis. Then he lost his earnings, but his Canada Life Policy paid him $100 a month. Four years later he returned to work and said: "That income saved my life, gave me new courage, enabled me to pay my way, a blessing, indeed."

An old man came into our office. He was alone in life — home, family, all gone; unable even to pay his board bill. He had but one asset left, a Canada Life policy, taken years before in order to protect his family, he said. He was astonished to find that the cash value and profits were large enough to buy him $100 a month annuity for life.

Another man bought a policy which guaranteed to pay him $100 a month when he reached age 65, but he died at age 30. His widow has been drawing the $100 a month for years, and she says it seems as though he brings it to her each month.

We have hundreds of similar cases we could mention. There is but one sure way. How you can provide a similar income is told in our booklet, "Getting the Income You Want." Why not send for it now?

RAPID INCREASE IN FUR FARMING

Industry To-day Represents Capital of $16,401,453 Invested in Fur Bearing Animals.

SILVER FOR LEADER.

An important branch of the work of the Dominion Department of Agriculture about which little is heard is fur farming. The latest available figures show that the industry to-day represents a capital value of $22,980,617, of which $16,401,453 is invested in fur bearing animals.

Prince Edward Island, the province generally thought of as the leader in the industry, is fast giving place to Quebec and Ontario. Statistics place the value of fur bearing animals in Prince Edward Island at $3,676,220. Ontario comes next with $3,247,336, and Quebec third with $3,236,466. In 1926 Prince Edward Island was an outstanding leader with well over a million dollars ahead of Ontario and nearly two millions ahead of Quebec in capital invested in fur bearing animals.

A short ten years ago the total value of fur bearing animals on fur farms in Canada was placed at $4,723,105. The industry to-day represents a capital investment of practically four times as much as in 1920. As one might expect, the silver fox heads the investment list with a capital investment of $14,922,378—an increase of $10,400,000 over 1920. The next most important fur bearing animal from the standpoint of investment value is the muskrat, which in 1928 had increased from $127,921 in the preceding year to $562,749. It will be interesting to note that no record of investment in muskrat fur farms was kept prior to 1927.

With a capital investment in fur bearing animals of $328,928 the mink comes next. This is an increase of 50% over the preceding year and of $324,153 over 1920.

The otter, coyote, silver blue fox and beaver are other newcomers to the fur farming industry.

SUPPLY OF MILK IS FALLING OFF

Condition Due to Pasturage Drying Up—Cattle in Poorer Shape.

MANGELS FAIR CROP.

Weekly crop reports of the Agricultural Representatives would indicate that cattle are not in as good condition as they were a month ago, due to the pastures drying up, the milk supply is also falling off, many cheese factories only receiving milk every other day. In the Western portion of the Province Fall wheat is suffering, due to lack of rain, and considerable acreage will go into the winter with a light top. The potato yield is considerably decreased in a number of potato areas due to the dry weather of the past summer. Mangels are reported as being a fair to good crop, depending on locality, while turnips are practically a failure in the Western portion of the Province.

Hastings

There is a slight increase in the acreage of fall wheat throughout the County, and everywhere it is showing up extra well.

Victoria

Considerable cattle now being shipped $6.25 and 5.50 being paid by one buyer.

REGISTERED COCKEREL IS FACTOR IN BOOSTING YOUR PRODUCTION

First Registered Birds Appeared in 1926—Increased Rapidly.

GET BIGGER EGGS.

The introduction of the Registered Cockerel into poultry breeding work overcomes a number of very serious hazards which heretofore have been unavoidable. Some of the outstanding of these uncertainties are, first, false advertising, second, small egg lines, third, immature or diseased specimens, fourth, standard disqualifications and fifth, pedigree.

In the first instance false advertising is entirely eliminated. The Registered Cockerel is bred from birds with officially recorded production and every operation in connection with the recording of his ancestry carefully checked by a Registration Inspector. In the next instance Registered Cockerels are bred from large egg lines only. All small egg birds are disqualified and never bred under the Registration Policy. In the third instance immature or diseased specimens are rejected by the inspector. Any bird possessing a standard disqualification is also rejected by the inspector. The pedigree of a registered cockerel is authentic and reliable and accepted by the Federal Government.

As was expected, poultry registration was slow at first but rapid improvement has taken place during the last few years. The first registered cockerels appeared in 1926 and since that time the number has increased very rapidly. A large number of these desirable birds will be available for sale this fall.

It is a well recognized fact that chicks bred from hens are much superior to those bred from pullets. Every registered male is bred from a hen as pullets are never bred until they have completed their yearly record and have been registered.

Must Be 200 Egg Bird

To qualify for registration a female must lay 200 or more eggs which weigh 24 ounces per dozen or over during the year. Registered cockerels must have at least two direct lines of 200 egg females which have laid 24 ounce eggs or better in their pedigree, or in other words they must be sons and grandsons of registered hens. The sires of these registered cockerels must be registered birds or sons of 200 egg birds with eggs weighing at least 24 ounces per dozen.

The dam of the registered male must be a worthy specimen of the breed she represents so far as type and colour are concerned, she must be of good size and above all she must have constitutional vigour. The cockerel before being registered must be passed by a Registration Inspector, be at least six months of age, be free from disqualifications and possess good breed type.

Being bred from parents which inherit high production and large eggs registered cockerels possess the breeding necessary to not only increase the egg production in any flock but to insure egg size as well. Since these cockerels are bred from mature hens the buyer can rest assured he is getting birds possessing good constitution and plenty of vigour. A further guarantee of these desirable qualities lies in the fact that every registered cockerel is approved and marked by the Registration Inspector.

Parties wishing to improve production and egg size in their poultry flock should secure Registered males to head their breeding pens for the coming spring.

Poultry registration work in Canada is conducted by the Poultry Division of the Experimental Farms Branch of the Federal Department of Agriculture, co-operating with the Canadian National Poultry Record Association.

GRADING OF BEEF PROVES POPULAR

Some Dealers Attempting to Pass Off Inferior Quality.

GOV'T BRANDS RED, BLUE.

Government graded beef is growing rapidly in popular favor with consumers all over Canada, despite the fact that many unscrupulous dealers are trying to pass off pure quality cow beef under the styles of "choice" and "good."

In the city of Ottawa a recent check up by the supervisor of the Federal Beef Grading Service shows that there were only six butchers handling government graded beef in the city last spring. Thirty-five out of fifty-five meat stores in the city now handle the red and blue branded beef.

One of the devices very commonly used by dealers to work off poor beef in place of the government branded product, the Staff Supervisers report, is the use of the terms "choice" and "good." These terms are essentially relative and, applied within the class of comparatively poor cow beef which the unscrupulous dealer seeks to pass off on a gullible public, are reasonably correct. They are, however, far short of what the use of these terms in connection with the government graded product ensures.

Two Grades

There are two grades of beef branded under federal inspection and they represent the two top grades of the finest beef cattle only. The very best of beef is known by the grade "choice" and is always branded in "red." The grade "good," a beef of more than ordinary eating quality and in greatest demand by the public, is always branded in "blue."

The only beef which can be sold to the public as really "choice" and "good" is the beef which bears the brand mark prescribed by the Beef Grading Service of the Federal Department of Agriculture.

The brand mark appears on every important cut and is placed there for the protection and convenience of the consumer in buying beef.

CANADA NOW GROWS OWN GARDEN SEEDS

Cost of High Quality Certified Product Slight in Proportion to Superiority.

The demand for registered grades of Canadian grown seed of roots and vegetables is increasing noticeably, particularly in Ontario and Quebec, reports the Seed Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Vegetable growers, gardeners and farmers find that the extra cost of high quality certified seed is slight in proportion to its actual superiority. Two factors make for quality in Canadian grown seed. These are the inherent advantage of careful selection in foundation seed stock, and the important fact that seed produced in Canada is acclimated, giving maximum assurance of production results. Heretofore the most of the field root and garden vegetable seeds used in Canada have been imported from the United States and Europe. Field tests are indicating that often this important seed is of poor quality—much of it is of questionably quality.

CERTIFICATES GRANTED LINDSAY MAN

Few Cattle Moving Across Line To U.S.

The current issue of the Live Stock Market Report, issued by the Federal Department of Agriculture, provides an interesting indication of the present trend of live stock sales.

For the week ending October 3rd the movement of butcher cattle, store cattle and calves to the United States is nil, with the sole exception of 87 head of calves shipped from Toronto. For the first time in many months a movement of store cattle to Great Britain appears, the total for the week being 181 head.

The situation with respect to hogs and sheep shows absolutely no movement to the United States, indicating that practically the whole supply is being taken care of within the Dominion.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Nov. 1—At the close of this week's trading on the local egg market, supplies candled out of storage were gradually increasing from a business standpoint, and brokers reported more sales to wholesalers than previously. Of course, there had been some movement of these supplies before this week, but they did not enter into trading as an important factor until the last few days.

Receipts of new laid eggs decreased to such an extent this week that prices to shippers were increased from 3c to 5c for extras and firsts, ungraded, delivered, cases returned. The local demand for supplies was taken care of by movements of short holdings by wholesalers to retailers, which accounted for the interest in holdings offered by brokers at the end of the week.

Country shippers were offered 46c to 48c for extras, 40c to 44c for firsts, 26c for seconds and 29c to 30c for pullet extras, ungraded, and delivered. Brokers were quoting 50c for extras, 45c for firsts and 28c to 30c for seconds, graded, in free cases. Brokers also offered storage eggs at 36c for extras and 33c for firsts. Wholesalers were asking retailers 50c for extras, in cartons, 48c for extras loose, 44c for firsts loose and 30c to 32c for seconds loose, and these supplies were made up, to a large extent, of short held eggs, which explains the low prices in comparison with those asked by brokers. Wholesalers were receiving 38c for extras and 36c for firsts, candled out of storage. Prices paid by consumers for extras were from 55c to 60c per dozen.

Poultry

As the season advances, increased interest is commencing to be shown in the coming poultry season. As yet, the majority of markets have been more or less local in nature, as interprovincial trading has not yet reached any volume. From now on, however, markets will commence to adjust themselves to a more or less common basis, and already various firms are drawing up tentative price schedules for the coming season.

There is, this year, an active, nation-wide movement adopting the national dressed poultry standards as a basis of trading, and it appears probable that the great majority of the poultry purchased in the West and the majority of the poultry shipped interprovincially, will be graded according to these standards. This should provide considerable stabilization to the market, and is a movement which will receive the hearty endorsation of all concerned with the development of poultry marketing in Canada.

Butter

The butter market was steady with trading fair during the entire week, which meant prices were the same as last week and business about the same. Some sales were made at the usual 30½c to 31c for No. 1, and 29½c to 30c No. 2, but they were in the class that made the local dealers call the market slow. Buyers were not interested any more than in previous weeks, and seemed content to fill needs with storage supplies.

Cheese

Cheese prices dropped ½c to ¾c during the week, on the local market, due to a decrease in demand, which at the best was not very strong. Dealers were offering new, large, at 15½c to 15¾c; twins at 15¾c to 16c, and triplets at 16c to 16¼c, paraffined, Government graded.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, November 1. — Increase of 2,000 head in receipts of cattle for sale at the Union Stock Yards this week as compared with the week previous resulted in a slow trade in killers, which were mostly of poor quality, and despite well maintained activity in demand for stockers and feeders there was a holdover of some 500 cattle at the close of the week's trading.

With only limited inquiry for cattle to export which accounted for a little over two loads, trade in weighty steers was dull and prices weakened after Monday. Butcher cattle were easier from the start and sold 25 cents lower than last week at the top, with plain and common off 50 cents per cwt. in spots. Good steers and heifers made 6¾ to 7¼ cents per pound, with common to medium grades from an extreme low of 3¼ to 6½ cents. Butcher cows closed a shade easier than last week at 3 to 5 cents, while canners and cutters, despite a heavy run of that kind, sold steady at 1½ to 2¼ cents per pound. Butcher bulls were scarce, and few made a top of 5 cents per pound, but 4 to 4½ cents took the bulk. Bolognas were draggy at 3 to 3½ cents per pound. Baby beeves sold steady to firm on Monday and Tuesday, the odd top making 12 cents per pound and the bulk 10½ to 11½ cents, but demand was easier and prices lower on Wednesday, when few fed calves bettered 11 cents, and common sold downward to 8¼ cents per pound.

Movement of stores back to the country accounted for some 5,000 head, including shipments on through billing from the west to country points. Well over 2,000 sold on the yards, with prices holding steady up to early on Wednesday, but closing a shade easier in view of heavy offerings. Good feeders sold from 5¾ to 6 cents, with several loads up to 6¼ cents per pound in the early trading. Some common light stockers sold as low as 4 cents, and a few hundred that were neither stockers nor killers were unsold at the close.

Supply of calves for sale at 2,000 was about even with that of last week. The market was firm on vealers and easier on grassers and heavy rough calves. Good to choice veals brought 12 to 13 cents per pound, with medium kind at 10 to 11 cents. Heavy calves brought 4 to 7 cents per pound, and common grassers 3 to 4 cents.

Sheep and lamb sales totalled 10,600, or some 200 less tan last week. Lambs sold firm on Monday and Tuesday, with the bulk of the good ewes and wethers at 8½ cents per pound and bucks at the usual 2 cents per pound discount. Trade was slow on Wednesday, and lambs sold a quarter lower at 8 cents per pound for good ewes and wethers. The market closed at the decline, with buyers talking easier prospects. Sheep sold steady all week at 2 to 5 cents, according to quality.

Hogs in a light offering of 4,094 for the week were firm up to Wednesday, selling 25 cents per cwt. higher than last week's close at 10½ cents f.o.b. and 11½ cents w.o.c. The market displayed an easier tone toward the close, with bids 50 cents a cwt. lower for week-end loadings.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, November 1. — Increased hedging pressure, indifferent foreign demand, and only moderate support from local and outside interests, combined yesterday to weaken wheat prices. At the close losses ranged from ⅞ to 1 cent a bushel. Yesterday's dullness followed a day of brisk trade, Thursday, when values advanced.

Larger marketing in the country—1,775,000 bushels on Thursday — than had been anticipated brought elevator interest forward with good quantities of wheat to hedge, and it was hard to stem the downward tide. Some resting orders helped, while one prominent local house bought supplies of May wheat against sales of Chicago May. Exporters took odd lots.

Demand for cash wheat and coarse grains was indifferent.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Under pressure of heavy selling, the corn market yesterday broke through the season's low price record, and dragged down all other cereals. Oats as well as corn reached a new bottom level, unmatched heretofore on the present crop. Enlarged estimates of the country's 1930 corn production went hand in hand with reports that ideal weather had brought about rapid curing of the new corn crop, and that most of the corn would be out of the fields before the end of another week.

Corn Closes Nervous

After a tumble of as much as 2¼ cents a bushel in some cases the corn market closed nervous 1¾ to 1¾c lower than Thursday's finish. Wheat closed unsettled, ⅝ to 1¼c down; oats, 1¼ to 1⅝c off, and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 27c.

Carmel Diamond Jubilee Sunday, November Ninth

Property Transfers Over Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 1 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—With the Winter months approaching, people are settling down and getting snug for that shut-in period.

One of the local real estate agents, T. L. Diamond, reports several transfers of residences. John Russell of Seymour has moved into the Shannon house on Front street, and Hilton Beattie, who has been occupying the place, has taken up his abode on the Hastings road. P. J. MacMillan has bought the Southworth property on Rear street and will reside there in future, and Peter Johnson of Havelock has purchased the MacMillan property on the edge of town. Dave Robertson of town has bought the Longmore farm near Trent Bridge and will make that his home in future.

The Chamber of Commerce fosters both agricultural and industrial progress which are handmaids of prosperity.

HOME TOWNERS

Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous CAMPBELLFORD

CAMPBELLFORD, November 1 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Campbellford has another business to its credit with the establishment of a radio store in the Ferris Block. This business will handle the Fada radio, of which several fine models are on display. Mr. Free Clark is the proprietor.

Another business change in town is that of the Shannon Millinery Store, which, it is understood, is going out of business. At present a big clearance sale is billed to commence on November 1st.

Mr. ond Mrs. Harold Spencer spent last Sunday with Miss Leah and Mr. Thomas McKeown of Rylstone.

Mrs. J. P. Madigan and Mrs. P. J. O'Connor had as their guests on Wednesday Mrs. Hennessey of New York and Mrs. O'Keefe of Winnipeg, Manitoba.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. W. Brown is on the sick list.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Slogget, and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Finney were recent visitors at the home of Mrs. Robert Collins, Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Smith were visitors to Toronto on Friday, attending a banquet given in honor of the general manager of the Bank of Montreal.

Mr. Thomas Wootten and Miss Wootten of Wellman's Corners will be residents of Stirling for the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil O'Keef were visitors at the beginning of the week to Tweed, where they were guests of Mrs. L. LaFountaine.

Mrs. T. J. Diamond returned this week from Toronto, where she has been for the past two weeks receiving treatment in the General Hospital. She is improving slowly.

Mr. Charles Cassan of Peterborough is visiting friends in town over the week-end.

CRYING BABIES ARE SICKLY BABIES

The well child does not cry. He is laughing and happy all the time. Baby's cry of distress is the only means he has of telling the mother or nurse he is ill. Mothers, you can keep your little ones well and happy by giving them Baby's Own Tablets—the safe and efficient remedy for all childhood ailments.

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative. They sweeten the stomach; regulate the bowels and thus banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and allay the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth. They are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Dominion And U.S. Lead In Aviation

LONDON, Nov. 1 (C.P.)—Canada and Australia were declared to be the two countries in the British Empire showing the most notable advance in aviation by C. R. Fairey in his first lecture as President of the Royal Aeronautical Society.

Excluding Russia in Asia and Europe, for which territory no trustworthy available, the two Dominions and the United States lead the world in civil flying. These three countries show a rate of expansion greater than in any other part of the world.

A little known fact emphasized by Mr. Fairey is that in the British Empire and the United States the amount of unsubsidized civil flying is no less than nine times as great as the subsidized flying. Even when allowance is made for the present extent of private flying and certain flying for hire coming in the category of "joy-riding," there is evidence here that the aeroplane is becoming very rapidly an economic commercial vehicle.

Detroit Mayor Plans Moves To Give Relief

DETROIT, Nov. 1.—Mayor Frank Murphy Thursday outlined Detroit's labor policy during the coming winter while his unemployment committee considered the possibility of setting up a municipal lodging house for homeless workers.

The mayor cited the principal points of the city's labor policy follows:

1—No laborer will be laid off who is now working for the city.

2—Money now being spent for welfare doles will be paid out for jobs which will be created by Mayor James Couzens in 1921.

3—An attempt will be made to induce the Welfare Departments of the large factories to care for the families of the men they have laid off.

The Department of Public Works has been asked for $6,000 for the home to accommodate about 1800 persons for a month.

LOIS MORAN'S VACATION

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet
Or dims the radiant light.
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind,
But each shall seek the common weal,
The good of all mankind.

CAVAN.

The pioneer women of Northern Ontario have found the Women's Institute a very real source of pleasure and help, not only in getting in touch with their neighbors and affording a place where in sparsely settled districts the women may gather for help and inspiration to carry on, but it has been a means of keeping in touch with the women of Old Ontario.

Many useful bales have been shipped into that district from the older Institutes. The first of the twelve Ontario Women's Institute Conventions planned for this fall was held at Monteith on October 1 and 2. Most of the thirty-three branches in the territory concerned were represented and the delegates from Hearst in the north to New Liskeard in the south, 270 miles apart.

The members are busy throughout the year in their own communities helping each other in an almost generous,kindly spirit utilizing most judiciously trying to secure libraries, establishing community halls and in one case erecting a community Church where they had a Baptist minister last summer, an Anglican the year before and hoped for a United Church representative ext summer, besides a great variety of social undertakings and community activities with an unusual earnestness for information to be gleaned from available literature and from each other. These busy earnest women value very much the opportunity to exchange notes on what has been accomplished and methods followed and especially appreciate the opportunity to meet twih representatives of the Provincial Federation,the Departmental instruction ataff and representatives from the Administration Headquarters in annual convention.

The kindly manner in which the residents of Monteith billeted the delegates, the placing of one of the churches at the disposal of the committee, the banquet in the community hall which has been recently decorated by the Institute, together with the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Hiscock and the staff of the Academy for boys and girls, made for happiness and earnestness throughout the convention.

The reports showed a great variety of worthwhile activities, but the outstanding feature was the neighborly cheer extended to those who had met with misfortune. Children have been clothed, so that they could go to school, mothers have been nursed and their work looked after until the baby and mother were strong and well, motherless boys looked after while the father was away at work; and one delegate said, "We must share with the unfortunate as long as we have anything to give."

This same delegate expressed delight at visiting a centre where she had assisted in making complete outfits for children about twelve years ago, to find the girls now married with homes of their own where everything was neat, tidy and well managed.

Mrs. A. E. Walker, provincial president, stressed the importance of neighborly cheer, fire prevention, providing good reading material through the regular libraries and travelling libraries and intelligent support of the League of Nations.

Dr. W. E. George M.O.H., North Bay, reminded the women that the average span of life is now from ten to twelve years longer than it was fifty years ago, due in no small measure to the service of various departments of health and the earnest co-operation of organization, such as the Women's Institutes. He stressed the great importance of maternal care and the examination of pre-school age as well as the older children.

Miss E. M. Collins, who at one time conducted a very successful sewing class in Cavan, gave a most interesting address on: "Wanderings here and there in Canada," she remained after the convention to give demonstrations to groups of women in the remodelling of clothing, having taken some supplies of clothing from Old Ontario with her This feature was much appreciated and will be followed up at the other conventions in the north.

The interest in household science competitions has been greatly increased through the possibility of a trip to Toronto. G. A. Putnam, superintendent complimented the women of the north on the splendid work which they are doing along educational, social and community service and expressed gratification at the added service which the district officers were rendering as a result of increased grants.

Judging from the number of delegates in attendance who had never attended a convention before the Branches in the North believe in the principle of sending new representatives from year to year to the annual gathering. A committee of three was appointed by the individual Branch where it is isolated from the other centres and a committee of three or five from groups of two or three branches conveniently located, to approve of appeals and become responsible for the distribution of supplies as well as acknowlegement to the individual or Institute forwarding the supplies, and later to send particulars to the Branches concerned as to the distribution of the goods.

It is encouraging to the Institutes of Old Ontario to read these reports and find out how much help in the North is appreciated. It is an incentive to let nothing be wasted in our homes to gather up all discarded clothing hold sewing bees and repair them before sending to these people. Many of them in spite of handicap of poor crops, poor transportation facilities and very little to work with, are striving to make homes in that new district and send their children to school. The help sent is much appreciated and good use is made of it. The Women's Institutes constitute a connecting medium between Old and New Ontario.

MILLBROOK.

A discussion on "Character and Culture" at a district Institute gathering brought out many fine points, the amount of responsibility that should be placed on young shoulders; whether modern young folk are allowed too much freedom; how far self-respect may be learned through heredity and conscience; how to teach the proper exercise of self-will and self-control; and whether or not a young woman, or a young man, will have such a true sense of the value of moral character by the time they reach an age to take part in social functions, or go into business, that they may have the responsibility of guiding their own actions without anxiety on the part of parents, or guardians, or, failing this, must they be left largely to the teaching of experience? These were some of the suggestions that were canvassed pretty thoroughly, the time allowed for discussion being found altogether too short.

Other individual branches might profitably follow up this line of thought, including, too, the problem of the company kept by the daughters and the sons in their homes, and the kind of books read. The latter undoubtedly have a very real influence in forming character, and give a bias to the minds of the young people as they reach the age where a life partner is being considered.

"After all, education amounts to comparatively little if character is lacking," declared the speaker at the convention already alluded to; "the majority of my hearers will agree with me in this, I am sure. But will you also agree that we would be doing wisely to implant in the minds of our young people the ideal that moral character and culture of mind are more to be insisted upon in seeking companionships that may, eventually be solemnized at the marriage altar than education, fine appearance, money or social rank? There are many boys and girls coming up to manhood and womanhood, who would achieve high positions along educational lines were they not hindered from attendance in the classrooms of high schools, colleges, or universities, through lack of means, failure of health, or some other setback. But if these possess good moral character, and are doing their best against the obstacles life has placed in their pathway, growing up into a fine type of citizen in spite of handicaps, are we justified in placing them, unconsciously it may be, on a lower level, a sort of 'without the pale' so far as our school-going, getting-to-be educated young folk are concerned, I am seized of the fact that we need education, but it requires to be combined with clean, moral living, and the two together make for a fine uplift."

Giving constructive thought to the business of preparing meals for the family has been suggested as one of the 'pictures to live with' for the busy homemaker, one of whom passed on her own practice in this regard at a recent Institute meeting. This is just a part of what her paper contained:

"If on you falls the responsibility of preparing the food for your family, why not help yourself and assuredly help your home folks also, by thinking of things in a somewhat different manner —as for instance, when you are mixing bread or buns, say 'I am making wholesome food that will be good for every member of my household. The spirit of life blesses and permeates this bread so that everyone who partakes of it may be strengthened.' Or is it a salad to grace the table at the evening meal? Then think of the red tomatoes and green lettuce leaves, or the crisp stalks of celery, as materials for adding vitamins to the children's growing bodies, bringing roses to their cheeks, and the light of health to shining eyes. Would not this idea that we are 'workers together with God' in a very real sense, add to our happiness, and make us feel we are part of a constructive whole and doing our share to minister to the good of humanity?"

As a concluding thought the speaker urged a meeting devoted to recipes for well-balanced, meatless meals, yet good for a working man.

WARSAW.

One of the activities of Women's Institutes is relief work and one can hardly imagine an Institute branch which has not done more or less of this work. They may not, rarely do, undertake all the activities, and perhaps undertake very few, but in some way each branch does some of this work. It makes no matter who is in distress there is prompt action. It may be that there is objection to giving to a lazy father or careless mother but little children cannot suffer and very often a mother has become careless because she is disheartened and weak, when there are several children, and she has not what she needs for them.

Then, too, unfortunately, many women in their young days have not been taught much home economics and suffer accordingly.

During the past twelve months, Warsaw Institute members have helped several times in cases of illness; have made and donated several quilts, donated blankets, and food, collected clothing for families in need.

Fortunately, in and near Warsaw there is very little actual poverty. The assistance given has been generally some miles away, except in cases of illness or accident.

The convention at Toronto asks for reports on relief work done in the different branches and for any method by which special difficulties have been overcome. If Peterborough branches do not send in a report it will look as though Peterborough had done nothing and there has been a great deal done.

FASHION SERVICE

If you're looking for a practical smart house frock—here it is! It's just as snappy as can be.

The cape collar takes the place of sleeves. The comfortable open V-neckline is becoming too.

It's slimly shaped through the hips. The pointed seaming at the front that assumes a downward trend to round outline at the back makes the snug hipline more prominent. The skirt shows moderate circular fulness.

It's effectively carried out in a shadow plaid gingham in soft gray and blue. The bindings are deep blue.

Style No. 928 is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

It's very easily made!

Shiny finished cotton broadcloth in plain or print, rayon novelties, printed dimity and men's cottou shirting fabrics make up attractively for home wear.

Size 16 years requires 3 5-8 yards35-inch with 5¼ yards binding.

Painful Backache Quickly Relieved

"My back was awfully sore," writes Mr. Clifford Whittom, Paspebiac West, P.Q. "I took three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and they gave me great relief. If I ever need Kidney Pills again I will certainly use Dodd's. I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to all my friends and they now say that they are the best Kidney medicine."

Dodd's Kidney Pills have restored sound health to thousands of troubled men and women. Give them a trial at once. They can be obtained at all dealers.

Dodd's Kidney Pills

Naturally, people do not wish to boast of their good deeds. They need not be specifically given nor details gone into, nor names mentioned, but it is well to let others know what is being done for their encouragement, and, if there have been difficulties as there often are, how they have been surmounted is often of great aid to another branch facing similar problems.

All reports should be sent immediately to Mrs. D. D. Grant, Moore Creek. Let your light shine.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

"We always know the cheerful man by his hearty "good morning!" As well might fog and cloud hope to cling to the sun-illumined ladscape as the blues and moroseness remain in any countenance of the cheerful one with a hearty "good morning." Don't forget to say it cheerfully and with a smile. It will do you good and do your friends good. There's a kind of inspiration in every good-morning heartily and smilingly spoken that helps to make hope fresher and work lighter. It seems really to make the morning good and a prophesy of a good day to come after it. And if this be true of the 'good morning," it is also true of all kind, cheerful greetings. They cheer the discouraged one, rest the tired one and somehow makes the wheels of time run more smoothly.

"Be liberal then and let no morning pass, however dark and gloomy it may be, that you do not help at least to brighten it by your smiles and cheerful words. The cheerful are the busy; when trouble knocks at your door or rings the bell, he will generally retire if you send him word 'busy,' and a busy life cannot well be otherwise than cheerful.

Frogs do not croak in running water and active minds are seldom troubled wtih gloomy forebodings. They come up only from the stagnant depths of a spirit unstirred by generous impulses or the blessed necessities of honest toil.

What can be said by way of commending that sweet cheerfulness by which a good sensible woman diffuses the oil of gladness in the proper sphere of home? The best specimens of heroism in the world were never gazetted. They play their role in common life and their reward is not in the admiration of spectators but in the deep joy of their own conscious thoughts. Its best exhibition is in the dark background of real adversity.

Affairs assume a gloomy aspect, poverty is hovering about the door, sickness has already entered days of hardship and night of watching go slowly by, and now you see the triumph of which we speak. God bless that bright sunny face! says many a person as he recalls that one of mother, wife, sister or daughter, which has been to him all that these words have described.

The industrious bee stops not to complain that there are so many poisonous flowers and thorny branches in his road, but buzzes on selecting the honey where he can find it and passing quietly by the places where it is not. There is enough in this world to complain about and find fault with if people have that disposition. We often travel on a hard and uneven road but with a cheerful spirit and a heart to praise God for his mercies. W. may walk therein with great comfort and comie to the end of our journey in peace.

Let us try to be like the sunshiny member of our Institute who has the estimable art of making all duty seem pleasant, all self-denial and exertion easy and desirable, even disappointment not so blank and crushing, who is like a bracing, crisp, frosty atmosphere throughout the meetings, without a suspicion of the element that chills and pinches. You have known people within whose influence you have felt cheerful, amiable and hopeful, equal to anything. There is not a more enviable gift than the energy to away others to do good; to diffuse around us an atmosphere of cheerfulness, piety, truthfulness and generosity. It is not a matter of great talent and not entirely a matter of great energy but rather of earnestness and honesty and of that quiet, constant energy which is like soft rain gently penetarting the soil. It is rather a grace than a gift. Let us one and all try more and more to cultivate this grace and 'cheerfulness.'

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Alice Michaelis

VOWS.

(By Aline Michaelis.)

I will never leave you
Through the coming years;
I will never grieve you
Never cause you tears.
Hand in hand together
We shall always go,
From youths April weather
To December snow.

I will never leave you
Though life's chance and change
Should conspire to grieve you,
I will not grow strange;
Though time's tide should sweep you
Half the world away,
Still my heart will keep you
Safely, as to-day.

HONEY KRISP COOKIES.

1-3 cup shortening
1-2 cup honey
2 eggs
½ cup sour cream
1¾ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
½ cup chopped dates
½ cup nut meats (black walnuts are delicious)
1 cup Rice Krispies
Nutmeg or vanilla flavoring.

Cream shortening and honey. Add well-beaten eggs and sour cream. Sift the flour with baking powder, salt, soda and add to first fixture. Stir in dates, nuts and rice krispies. Add flavoring. Drop with dessert spoon on buttered pan about 3 inches apart. Bake in moderate oven (375 F.) for 25 minutes. Yield: 2 dozen cookies 2½ inches in diameter.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG.

That old and antique song we heard, last night.

"THE WHIP-POOR-WILL'S SONG"

(Contributed by Beatrice)

Oh, meet me when daylight is fading
And is dark'ning into the night,
When song birds are singing their vespers,
And the day has far vanished from sight.
And then I will tell you, darling,
All the love I have cherished so long,
If you but meet me at evening,
When you hear the first whip-poor-will's song.

'Tis said that whatever sweet feelings,
May be throbbing within a fond heart,
When list'ning to the whip-poor-will's singing,
For a twelvemonth will never depart;
So when we will meet in the woodland,
Far away from the hurrying throng,
And whisper our love to each other,
When we hear the first whip-poor-will's song.

And in the long years of the future,
Though our duties may part us awhile,
And on the return of this evening,
We be severed by many a mile;
Yet deep in our bosoms we'll cherish
The affection so fervent and strong
We pledged to each other that evening,
When we hear the first whip-poor-will's song.

Refrain after each verse:
Whip-poor-will; Whip-poor-will;
You hear the first whip-poor-will's song;
Oh, meet me, oh, meet me,
When you hear the first whip-poor-will's song.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The 16 ounces thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

SOCIETY ENJOYS JOLLY MASQUERADE

Junior W. A. Holds Gathering in Saint Thomas' Church Parish Hall.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 31 (Examiner Correspondence).—A delightful Hallowe'en gathering was held in the Parish hall of Saint Thomas' church on Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the senior group of the Junior W.A., with Mrs. H. W. Jordan and Mrs. J. W. Hilton as joint superintendents.

The party was from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., and was featured by a lively chase by a very realistic ghost which presented itself to the arriving young ghosts, but which failed to venture indoors to interrupt the proceedings.

Prizes were given for the best costumes, the Boy Scouts, who were the invited guests of the evening, being asked to act as judges. Marjorie Vance won first place for best fancy costume, and Bernice Smith for comic; one prize was offered for the best boys' costume, and this was awarded to Reg. Edmunds.

Two sides were chosen and continued for the Hallowe'en games and contests throughout the evening, Gertie Richards and Winnie Lord, who with Mrs. Jordan, were responsible for the program, giving out oranges, pumpkins, and other yellow cut-outs for the one side, and black witches, cats, bats, and owls to distinguish those of the other group.

For the lunch two other girls, Mary Vance and Bryar Edmunds, were in charge, with Mrs. Hilton, and the refreshments supplied, with the service given, showed how remarkably well the younger girls can manage when given responsibility for a specified task.

Next week the junior group of the W.A. will hold a similar gathering, though at an earlier hour, since the girls are from five to nine years of age.

MILLBROOK.

Mary and Dorothy Armstrong, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Armstrong, have received from the office of the Department of Agriculture, Port Hope, the T. Eaton Company's prizes for highest, and third highest standing, respectively, in connection with the South Cavan Rural School Fair.

The silver trophy, suitably engraved, and awarded to the championship pupil, is held by Mary Armstrong for the current year, her sister, Dorothy, having had this honor the previous season. This year, Dorothy has third place, and has received as her award the book, "This Canada of Ours," by J. S. Morrison and Maud Morrison Stone, both Canadians of U.E.L. stock.

Mary Armstrong had third place at the 1929 school fair, and in 1928 her sister had the second highest number of points totalled by an individual pupil, and was the recipient of the book which the T. Eaton Company awarded that season for this particular standing. Both are pupils at the Whitfield's school (S.S. No. 8), of which Miss B. Cane is the teacher this year.

Three years ago Joe Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Armstrong, Baillieboro, won the championship trophy, and has had a similar standing each year since, but as the cup cannot be given twice to the same pupil the next highest receives the award, and Master Joe is given the book for second place.

Miss Phyllis Kidd is visiting in Peterborough this week, the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Fife.

Mr. and Mrs. J. McLennan, and Mr. Hugh McLennan, of Lindsay, were guests of their cousins, Mr. A. A. and Miss Etta Needler, on Sunday, the entire party motoring to Belleville for dinner and returning to the village later in the afternoon.

A directors' meeting of the Millbrook Agricultural Society is called for Saturday, November 1, at 2:30 p.m.

APPOINTED RECTOR.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(By the Canadian Press)—The Rev. W. Chipping has been appointed Rector of St. Simon and St. Jude, Anfield, a district comprising a large part of the middle class suburban area of Liverpool.

Mr. Chipping went out to Canada as a young man and was a student at Emmanuel College, Saskatchewan. He was ordained in 1915, and for some years worked in several prairie parishes. Lately he has been an Organizing Secretary for the Colonial and Continental Church Society.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

TAKING AWAY THE FEAR OF OPERATION.

It is unfortunate that some of our older folk who have undergone operations in years past do not know of the newer methods now in use. If they could see the difference between their experience and those who undergo operations to-day they would be very much astonished.

As they remember it, operation was put off until the last minute, hoping against hope that the operation might not be necessary. Finally after the individual was weak from the prolonged illness and waiting he was prepared for operation.

He was scrubbed, painted with iodine, no food given for a number of hours, a strong purgative and an enema or injection as the final act.

By the time of the operation he was weak, in fear of operation and anaesthetic and in a poor condition mentally and physically.

To-day the patient goes into hospital and the anaesthetist examines him carefully but in an apparently casual manner; the house doctor as he makes tests states that he is just checking up things. He is given plenty of water to drink and often water and sugar injected into him. He is given hot milk or possibly a small dose of a mild sleeping drug, and he gets a refreshing sleep owing to the absence of any excitement or long suspense before the operation.

Thus as he has not been deprived of food for any length of time, he has not been worked up into a perspiration by fear or anxiety, he is not worn out before the operation commences.

What does this mean?

That there is very little, if any, shock to the system, and to the patient's mind. He hasn't lost much weight. He has not that severe nausea and vomiting that sometimes follow an operation. He hasn't the days of weakness during which he doesn't care whether he lives or not.

He thus does not have all this to look back upon in after years, and another operation on himself or upon any member of his family will not excite fear or anxiety, because he remembers how well he came through with his own.

I have spoken before about the co-operation of the anaethetist, the family physician, and the surgeon in making an operation "safe."

The scheme now is "to present the patient to the surgeon on the operating table with his mind well rested by refreshing sleep, and his nervous energy saved, by the absence of excitement and long suspense before the early morning operation."

ARE YOU USING UP YOUR NERVOUS ENERGY?

Do you feel tired? Are you troubled with headaches, a poor appetite, irritability and a lack of ambition? If so, it is probable you have been using up too much nervous energy — you have been going full steam ahead without feeding the nerves.

Nerves that have become weakened and shattered through over-work or worry need nourishment—the nourishment gained through rich, red blood. Good blood feeds the nerves and gives them greater vigour and vitality.

No other medicine has been so successful in treating nervous disorders as have Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Their sole duty is to enrich and renew the blood. That is why they are the ideal nerve tonic. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Prince of Wales Pays Tribute To Grenfell

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(By the Canadian Press)—The Prince of Wales paid a tribute to the work of Sir Wilfred Grenfell in a letter which was read by the Lord Mayor of London, recently at a meeting at the Mansion House, in support of the Grenfell Association. The letter read: "There is no doubt that Sir Wilfred is carrying on splendid work in a territory rapidly becoming an economic unit of great potential value to Newfoundland and the Empire."

Speaking of the potential value of Labrador, Sir Wilfred Grenfell said: "Labrador, once looked upon as a useless dumpheap of the world, has a fall twice the height of Niagara. All this power is boing to waste. Modern scientists say that God wastes no energy or matter. How then can we say this great land is of no value? If we do not realise it is no dump-heap somebody else will. I think that is already being found out."

Field Marshall Viscount Allenby said that a letter bearing the only address "Grenfell, of God knows where," was safely delivered to Sir Wilfred at Labrador.

NEURITIS
Read this letter!
"After a 2-year bout of running my business," writes Miss M. Partridge, Toronto, "Neuritis settled in my right arm. At night the pain seemed on fire. Really, I was at my wits' end. My friends, who knew of T-R-C's, phoned the drug store for a box. Upon my word the pain seemed to take wings. I finished the box to make sure and the Neuritis never returned. I have since found T-R-C's a great help to several business friends. All of them think T-R-C's are wonderful."
Pain and Stiffness! Aren't they what YOU want to get rid of? Use T-R-C's. Let them help your body cast out the poisons of Neuritis, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Lumbago — quickly and safely. No harmful drugs. 50c and $1 at your dealer's.

Initial Meeting of Good Templars

MOUNT PLEASANT, Nov. 1 (Examiner Corresponcence).—The International Order of Good Templars, Mount Pleasant Lodge No. 187 held its first regular meeting since its reorganization on Thursday evening with an attendance of eleven members.

During the evening two new members were initiated. The election of officers will take place on November 6 when it is expected that a large number of old members will be present.

Russian Pulp Wood Imports Investigated

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 1.—Returning from a trip to Ottawa and New York where he probed the importing conditions of Russian pulp wood, and the competition offered by the latter to Canadian wood, C. G. Piche, manager of th Quebec Forestry department, has related the great harm done to the Quebec forest industry. By letting Russian material pass through the province into the United States under the cover of favored railway rates, he said, local products were placed in most advantageous market conditions. Woods from Archangel, Mr. Piche points out, passing through Three Rivers and Sorel on these favored rates, is not quoted higher in New York than that coming from Abitibi or Gaspesia.

The main cause, however, for the low cost of Russian wood, says Mr. Piche, is the existence of conscripted labor which lowers cutting and shipping costs to practically nothing. It is reported that ships at Archangel are loaded with their wood cargoes by school boys and girls virtually working under the whip of soldiers. In one of these cargoes unloaded at New York was found a small wooden ball on on which were carved the following words in Russian: "This piece of wood could float in the tears that have been shed in bringing it to its present state," Mr. Piche concluded.

Rayon manufacturing is developing extensively in Yugoslavia.

If BABY HAS COLIC

COLIC comes suddenly. Your first intimation that something is wrong may be a warning cry in the night. If you have a bottle of Castoria handy you needn't worry, for a little of this pure vegetable remedy will soon have baby his happy self again; let him go back to sleep.

Castoria is always the sensible thing to give an ailing child. When a child is restless, fretful, with coated tongue, bad breath and lack of appetite, it is a mother's standby. Most mothers give Castoria an important place in their homes. Ready for sour stomach, constipation, or upset. When buying Fletcher's Castoria always look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. This identifies the genuine product.

The Community bridge party held yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Church Women's Association of St. John's Church with tea served at the home of Mrs. A. H. Stratton, Park street, was very successful. Twenty-five tables of cards were played and many ladies came in later for a cup of tea at Mrs. Stratton's pleasant home where Mrs. Stratton received with the president of the society, Mrs. John Comstock. A little black and orange owl on the front door extended a welcome and there were smiling moon faces over the entrance to the tea-room, while witches and black cats paraded over the yellow paper table in the bright sun-room where home-made cooking was sold by Mrs. W. J. Hopwood, Mrs. A. C. Wood and Miss Marie Campbell. The general convenor of arrangements was Mrs. C. L. Brewer. Mrs. T. W. H. Young and Mrs. H. W. Darcy had charge of the sale of tickets for a handsome afghan, made and donated by Mrs. W. E. Conway, from which a nice sum was realized, for the funds, which were augmented considerably by the success of yesterday's bridge and tea. The afghan was won by Mrs. Roy Hutchinson. During the tea hour, the Rev. Dr. Blagrave came in to spend an hour with the ladies. In the tea-room, where tall orange candles were lighted in junior silver holders on side tables and buffet, the table was presided over by Mrs. T. A. S. Hay, Mrs. W. E. Conway and Mrs. E. W. Borbridge. Assistants were Mrs. Roy Thompson, Mrs. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, Mrs. Webber Turner, Mrs. J. D. Collins, Mrs. J. Patterson, Mrs. H. A. Morrow, Mrs. A. Gibson and Miss Margaret English. The table was in a glowing yellow color scheme, with a cloth of buttercup linen to which border were attached Hallowe'en novelty cutouts. It was centered by an artificial pumpkin cleverly contrived from yellow and green crinkled paper. Lighted yellow candles were in orange paper holders. Hostesses for the bridge games were Mrs. H. W. Morphet, Mrs. T. W. H. Young, Mrs. W. E. Conway, Mrs. H. W. Darcy, Mrs. A. T. Barnes, Mrs. Wallen Stevenson, Mrs. J. D. Collins, Mrs. C. D. Hewett, Mrs. W. T. Hall, Miss S. A. Tomkins and Miss M. Rogers. Prizes for contract bridge were won by Mrs. A. Killaly and Mrs. W. J. Kent with first and second high score, while Mrs. E. B. Clegg won the first prize for auction bridge and Mrs. D. R. Fleming the second prize. The lucky number prize went to Mrs. A. T. Barnes. Among those who played bridge were: Mrs. W. H. Gibbs, Mrs. E. J. Elms, Madam Silfroy Goulet, Mrs. H. A. Morrow, Mrs. Bliss, Mrs. W. Blackwell, Mrs. W. Burrell, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Boyd, Mrs. A. E. Caddy, Mrs. W. Andrews, Mrs. W. L. Ferguson, Mrs. T. McWilliams, Mrs. H. W. Nigh, Mrs. F. Brooks, Mrs. Walter Blackwell, Mrs. F. D. Kerr, Mrs. L. J. Leclair, Mrs. J. Bell, Mrs. Dishart, Mrs. H. Beal, Mrs. W. E. Ross, Mrs. P. Bond, Mrs. W. Franks, Mrs. R. Denne, Mrs. T. W. H. A jolly masquerade dance was held last evening in the Woodmen of the World Hall, under the auspices of the Caledonian Club. The hall was gaily decorated with Hallowe'en colors, lighted lanterns and pumpkins. The gay costumes of the masqueraders lent a happy aspect to the gathering, which numbered about one hundred. Old-tyme and modern dances were the order, and everyone seemed to have a thoroughly good time. About 9.30 Mr. W. Petrie, President, announced the arrival of three gentlemen who had come to act as judges. They were Dr. J. J. Craig, and Messrs. F. H. Dawson and I. P. McNabb. They did their duty admirably well, considering the many original and beautiful costumes which were worn. A grand march was staged, and after this the winners were announced as follows: Lady's character costume, Miss Isabel Reid (Gipsy); gentleman's character costume, Mr. R. Graham (Old English Gentleman); ladies' comic, Mrs. W. Wheeler (Little Girl); gentlemen's comic, Mrs. A. Jackson (Organ Grinder); ladies' original, Mrs. R. Gilmour (Half and Half); gentlemen's original, Mr. A. Anderson (Oft in the Stilly Night). A special prize, donated by the judges, was also awarded to Mr. A. Anderson. After the judging the prizes were presented to the winners, and a vote of thanks was tendered to the judges by Mr. A. D. Clark. During the evening Mrs. G. Craig Bell of Lakefield favored the company with a comic song, entitled "I might learn to love him later on," and as an encore gave a reading, "The Poet and the Pudding," Miss P. Smith accompanying on the piano. Mrs. J. Reid and Mrs. F. Castle were convenors for the refreshments and the decorations. About midnight a dainty lunch was served. Dancing was continued until the "wee sma' hours." Music was supplied by Messrs. R. Gilmour, W. Dougal and G. G. Low. A pleasant evening was brought to a close by singing "Auld Lang Syne." The following were in costume: Mesdames R. Gilmour (Half and Half), W. Wheeler (Little Girl), W. Petrie (Pierette), F. Castle (Victorian Lady), A. Borland (Hallowe'en Clown), R. Higgins (Statue of Liberty), J. Brown (Chinese Mandarin), A. Anderson (Gentleman), R. Clyde (Flower Girl), A. Stevenson (Clown), J. Chapman (Nurse), A. Pond (Nurse), A. Jackson (Organ-grinder), J. The annual reception of the staff to the students of the Normal School was a very pleasant event of last evening, when the incoming pupils of this year were welcomed by the principal and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Bannister. The students, in charge of Miss A. L. Going, spent a lot of time and trouble in decorating the halls and reception rooms very attractively with Hallowe'en novelty cutouts in seasonal colors of orange and black. During the evening, a pleasing program, in charge of Miss M. R. Rannie, was presented, with three-quarters of an hour devoted to class songs and a little scene with a witches dances. There were also games in charge of Mr. J. A. McKone and Mr. A. E. Hagerman and the students enjoyed an hour of dancing, which is now allowed at the Normal School. Refreshments were served by members of the staff, from a table centered by a huge pumpkin and arranged with flowers and orange and black candles.

The clubhouse of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling and Tennis Club was filled last evening with a gay crowd of Hallowe'en fun-seekers at the fortnightly club dance. A number of guests were in costume, adding a bright note to the proceedings. The president, Mr. J. Fitzpatrick, welcomed the dancers and spoke briefly. The committee in charge was composed of Mr. Mark Bredin, chairman, and Mr. R. G. Sturgeon, Jr. Excellent music was provided by Mowry-Steer and their seven-piece Silver Collegians orchestra. The prizes for the special dancing events were very handsome, and were won as follows: Spot dance, Mr. and Mrs. James Matthews (gold pendant earrings and gold-plated cigarette case); lucky number dance, Miss Barbara Ackerman and Mr. H. Tudhope (Indian lucky stone ring and embossed silver cigarette box); birthday dance, Miss Eleanor Erickson and Mr. Allan Lewis (novelty plush ornaments). Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. M. Bredin, Mr. and Mrs. James Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Mason, the Misses Barbara Ackerman, Evelyn Tudhope, Isabel Fry, Eleanor Hawley, Mary Nixon, Sybil Sharpe, M. Nixon, Gwen Hewett, Helen Robertson, Velma Blackmore, Eleanor Erickson, V. Freeman, Irene Nelson, M. Grose, Isobel Davidson, Jean Fraser, Elva McIntyre, I. Brown, Ruby Jackson, L. Beatty, Clarice Blake, Blanche Clegg, Messrs. J. Fitzpatrick, R. G. Sturgeon, Junior, Allan Lewis, Harry Tudhope, Gordon Roper, D. Shaw, M. Spratt, R. Myers, F. Stannard, G. Eastwood, F. Barton, H. G. Barnett, George Robertson, H. J. Weir, Noel Rishor, W. Davidson, Ken Kingston, Douglas Hall, Desmond Marshall, M. Middleton, M. Lowden, R. F. Dawe, J. V. Fuller, R. L. Cowan.

A most enjoyable Hallowe'en party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Palmer, 287 Westcott street when their daughter, Myrtle, entertained a number of friends in a masked costume dance and also to celebrate a birthday of Mr. Leonard Knell. The rooms were decorated in orange and black, while here and there a witch, an owl, a black cat or pumpkin faces looked forth over the assembly. The evening was spent in pranks, games and dancing, after which a dainty luncheon was served including a birthday cake, with a happy ending which lasted until the early hours of the morning.

LESS FUEL FOR CAR.

LONDON, Nov. 1 (By The Canadian Press).—A small car with a Diesel engine as its power unit has recently been driven from London to Brighton and back, a distance of 112 miles, on something less than two gallons of fuel oil. As this oil is marketed at 10 cents per gallon the cost in fuel alone worked out at 18 cents for the trip.

This is an outstanding performance, first as indicating that the Diesel engine, essentially a bulky and heavy affair, has at last been reduced in weight and dimensions to car limits, and further as showing that in this small compass and in the varying circumstances set up by road and traffic conditions, it has become a practicable power unit.

BOARD DECIDES TO CHANGE NAME OF PETERBORO PROTESTANT HOME

Public is Asked to Make Suggestions of New Name For Institution.

HOLD ANNUAL MEETING.

At the annual meeting of the Board of Management of the Protestant Home, the president, Mrs. R. Neil, brought up consideration of the changing of the name of the institution, owing to new conditions.

By vote of the meeting, it was decided to change the name and the public is invited to send suggested names to the secretary, Mrs. F. M. DelaFosse, before November 12th, the date of the next regular meeting, when the names submitted will be voted upon by the Board.

Mrs. Neil also brought up the matter of a proposed annex to the home and fence about the property.

Eleven Members Present.

Eleven members of the Board were present for the meeting and twelve church representatives. The president, Mrs. R. Neill, was in the chair and the meeting, after afternoon tea had been served, was opened by prayer offered by the Rev. A. E. Thornley. Annual reports were presented by the various officers.

Mrs. R. Neill spoke of the death of the late manager of the grounds, the late J. C. Hamilton, and of his good and faithful service to the Home.

Mayor Denne seconded the adoption of reports and thanked the members of the Board for their loyal support. He also, on behalf of the Council, congratulated the Board on the work being done and spoke of the annex proposed for those who can pay small sums toward their upkeep. He asked the co-operation of all present in charity work this winter and urged them to work with the City Relief Officer, A. Metheral, so that none may be neglected. He said that the city is planning assistance for all who need it, so that all may be given a fair show. The churches, who are represented on the Charity Board, should prepare their organizations to help in this way.

The Rev. Dr. Blagrave urged that the channels of human kindness be kept open and not all the responsibility placed upon the municipality. Individual benevolence is also needed. The working out of the Old Age Pensions has made no change in number who require assistance as the vacancies seem to fill up at once.

It was moved by Miss E. Aldridge and seconded by Mrs. R. H. Parsons that the retiring directors, Mrs. R. Neill, Mrs. D. Walker Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Robinson, be re-elected. This was carried by the meeting.

Reports Read.

The report of the secretary of the Board, Mrs. F. M. DelaFosse, for the sixty-ninth annual meeting, showed 63 persons housed in the Home during the past year. There were 41 Canadians, 12 English, 7 Irish and 1 each Scotch, Welsh and German. On October 1st of this year, 39 persons were in the Home, 12 men and 27 women.

During the year quite a number of repairs were made to the building and premises and an electric ironer was installed.

The report welcomed James Hamilton to the personnel of the Board, to replace E. J. H. Vanstone, removed to St. Catharines.

Bequests during the year included a cheque for $500 from the late John Williams estate; two cheques from the estate of the late Mrs. Walsh, one for $500 for the building fund and one for $1,000 for the endowment fund; also the sum of $500, left to the Home by the late H. C. Stabler.

The report tendered the warmest thanks of the Board to the Kiwanis Club for the Christmas gift of a radio; extended a generous measure of praise to Miss Lancaster and the staff in her charge and also to Mrs. Hurry, who has helped so materially in the comfort of those who needed her attention during the past year, and thanked also the clergy, the doctors and the members of the Press, for numerous courtesies extended during the year. It referred with deep regret to the passing of the late Mr. Hamilton and spoke of the capable and efficient service rendered by his successor, D. Hayward.

Library for Men's Reading Room

Reference was made to the need, as pointed out by J. A. Aylmer at the last annual meeting, of a library of the men's reading room, and gifts of money or books toward the accomplishment of this object were solicited.

The treasurer, Miss Sara Robinson, gave the financial statement for the year. The balance in the bank on October 1st of this year is $427.25, against a balance at the same time last year, of $221.55. Expenditures, totalling $11,077.25, were as follows: Butter, $465.30; meat, $618.38; flour, bread and meal, $589.48; milk, $55.65; potatoes, groceries and provisions not above enumerated, $897.97; soap and cleaning appliances, $54.45; ice, $45; clothing, $33.67; furnishings and furniture, $601.06; electric light, $125.50; water supply, $156.22; medicine, $70.14; repairs, $988.25; fuel, $87.75; pay roll, $4,576.25; cattle feed, $345.80; farm and grounds, $22.65; building fund, $500; insurance, $526.10; advertising and stationery, $40.04; taxi service, $26.25; telephone, $51.35; petty expenses, $124.19.

Receipts were as follows: Ontario Government grant, $1,415.58; City of Peterborough grant, $1,870.50; inmates' board, $3,150.77; pensions, $3,166.85; interest, $1,630.90; donations, $67; proceeds from sales and other sources, $11.35. Total, $11,312.95.

Miss Lancaster's Report

Miss A. M. Lancaster, in her opening paragraphs, said: "This has been a year of change and movement. Six persons who began the year with us have left it to return to more. Of these, only one died in the house, the rest having been transferred to the hospital, when hospital treatment and attention at night became necessary. Then five who had received the Old Age Pension decided that they would rather live nearer town, and two departed to parts remote to be with friends and relatives. To fill the places of these, there are eleven new members in the household, so that the population remains practically the same."

Miss Lancaster went on to refer to the numerous entertainments planned during the year for the old people at the Home, by various organizations of the city, and of the great pleasure experienced at the programs over the radio presented by the Kiwanis Club. Other gifts were recorded with gratitude and reference was made to the feeling of family unity and mutual helpfulness which exists in the home.

Miss Lancaster recorded her deep appreciation of the kindness and thoughtfulness of Board members and to the "unvarying loyalty, efficiency and faithfulness of the staff, Mrs. Hurry, Miss Kidd and Miss Pue, whose labor for, and whose pride in, the Home, have so largely contributed to its comfort. The superintendent's report closed with a characteristically graceful poetical allusion.

D. Hayward, manager of the grounds, reported a large amount of produce from the garden, in vegetables whose total value he estimated at $383.50, from the field, with mangles, turnips, hay and feed estimated at $317.25, from milk and eggs produced at the Home, totalling 527½ quarts of the former at $527.50, and 315 dozen eggs at $94.50, from the orchard, with apples and plums estimated at $11.40, also a calf at $5 and 12 chickens at $15, a total during the year of $1344.15.

Notes of inspection of the Home, made by Inspector A. L. McPherson, on September 12th, showed accommodation for 45 inmates, with 11 men and 25 women in residence at that time, 15 of them receiving the Old Age Pension. In addition to the superintendant and assistant there were 4 employees, one of them a practical nurse. "The members of the medical profession practising in the city take monthly turns in looking after the medical services at the home.

"The Home throughout is in excellent condition and in fact is one of the finest homes in the province.

"The discipline and management is excellent and the general atmosphere throughout the entire institution is most satisfactory.

"The inmates seem very happy and contented and the usual provision for recreation is noted.

"The health of the inmates is good and there were no complaints as to dietary. There was one inmate confined to bed, suffering from cancer.

"The records which are kept by the superintendent were found in excellent condition.

"It is recommended that the exit leading to the fire escape on the third floor of this institution, which at present is through a window, be changed to a door opening outwards for the protection of the inmates at this institution, in case of fire."

South-End Boys Win Alex. Kay Soccer Trophy

KING EDWARD PUBLIC SCHOOL SOCCER CHAMPS

Defeat King George in Splendid Display of the Scientific Code.

King Edward 2, King George 0.

N. Jobe and A. Field Scored For Winners—Losers Rally at Finish.

King Edward school soccer teams are champions of the Public School League through the defeat of King George, yesterday afternoon, at Nicholls Oval by the score of two goals to nil. They will receive Everlasting Pencils as souvenirs and will hold the Alex. Kay trophy for the year as a memento of going through the schedule without a defeat. Prince of Wales won the cup last season.

Both teams gave an excellent account of themselves and the encounter was worth witnessing. The boys have got a proper hold of the rudiments of the code, playing their positions to perfection and tackling fearlessly which was full of tricks of many a senior game.

First Half.

All the boys reported fit and well to take part in the game which made the tussle more interesting when the teams were at full strength. Both goals were visited in relation to find the custodians clearing their charges in every attack. Although Mowry, on the right wing, for King George, worked his way inside the defense to allow Heal to have a fast drive for the corner of the upright, King George's custodian grasped the ball in time to prevent a tally. From the goal kick, Anderson trapped the ball as it landed on the ground to send his right winger into the vicinity of G. Grosse, who saved a lightning drive from the foot of Williamson, in below the crossbar. Field, King Edward, carried the attack back into the opposition goal to find the going hard. The halves closed in upon him as he tore down the field to score. Then scrimmage after scrimmage took place at the King Edward end where the East city boys did everything but score. This being accomplished by Burton and Ellis of the losers, by their method of attack towards goal and drawing the defense out of goal so that the centre man would get a chance to score. Williamson putting up a great battle to open the scoring while the King Edward half back line consolidated in close tackling to offset the aggressive tactics used. Play run from end to end at a rapid pace with the boys showing wonderful control and full understanding of the code which was accompanied by many tricks to beat the opposition. Half time—King George 0, King Edward 0.

Half Time.

A short respite permitted the coaches to tutor up their players in their shortcomings before resuming. Nice combination opened up the second moiety by both elevens which resulted in the half back lines doing a lot of necessary running. Todd, of King Edward, kept well up on the opposing full backs to harass them to gain his coveted point. Dunkley, at right half, nullified a left wing attack to lift the ball over their heads into the vicinity of King Edward goal. His pivot man accepted the pass cleverly by slamming the ball out to his right wing. He passed the sphere back again quickly to his partner to witness the opposing full back miss-kick. Reynolds, King George goalie, saved the situation by running out of his goal to pick up the ball but his clearance didn't permit him time to get back in goal to stop the opening goal. The defense men closed in on Heal. To their surprise Jobe, at inside left, jumped in between them to make sure with a quick drive for the desired spot. King George boys rallied in an endeavour to even up the count and hemmed the winners citadel with many shots that was worthy of a count. Credit must be given to the south-end boys for their excellent defensive play when hard pressed. Then a heavy blow fell upon the King George team when their full back committed an infringement outside the penalty area. Field, at centre half, landed the shot in between the sticks to get the second tally with an unsavable drive that the goalie never saw. Thereafter, King George overrun the opposition off their feet to pepper their goal with all kinds of shots. On one occasion, Burton broke right through and let Hill drive right home. The custodian being beat cleverly but the ball failed to go any further as it lay on the line until Boyler arrived in time to clear. Towards the finish the custodians had a busy time in holding their goal intact for the remainder of the period. King Edward 2, King George 0.

King George—A. Reynolds, goal; J. Jewell and R. Epps, full backs; L. Anderson, D. Worboy and F. Earl halves; L. Burton, J. Pink, S. Williamson, J. Hill and B. Ellis, forwards.

King Edward—G. Grosse, goal; C. Thompson and E. Boyler, full backs; M. Dunkley, A. Field and M. Taylor, halves; D. Mowry, J. Heal, F. Todd, N. Jobe and S. Mackness, forwards.

Referee—Jack Hodson.

WINGS DEPEND ON WHITTY TO SUPPLY PUNCH

Fourteen Major Football Teams Enter Into Crucial Battles To-day.

QUEEN'S CONFIDENT.

"Forget Sinclair's Kicking" Shag Shaughnessy Tells McGill.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 1 (C.P.) — For the third successive Saturday the weatherman has predicted much colder weather and probable snowflurries. But to-day is one day his forecasts will scarcely be heeded by Eastern Canada football enthusiasts as the 14 major league squads prepared to trot out for gridiron struggles that will either move them nearer the pinnacle of championship aspirations or in many cases send them down the ladder to oblivion for another year.

Seven games are scheduled, two in the Interprovincial, two in the Intercollegiate and three in the Ontario Rugby Football Union series.

In th "Big Four," Toronto Argonauts, with their backs to the wall, entertain an equally desperate Winged Wheel squad from Montreal, while th Dominion champions, Hamilton Tigers, invade the home of Ottawa Senators.

University of Toronto, leaders of the Intercollegiate Union, are in Montreal for their second game away from home, while the champions, Queen's University, play in their own backyard with University of Western Ontario.

Tiger Cubs, already conceded the championship of the Western group of the O.R.F.U., by their numerous supporters, meet the open-playing Windsor twelve at Hamilton. Kitchener clashes with Sarnia Imperials in the Tunnel City, while in the Eastern group, Balmy Beach can clinch the section title by beating Varsity Orphans.

The Montreal-Argo engagement is generally considered the feature contest of the day, various possibilitis exist on the outcome of the struggle, which promises to be as bitterly fought as any of the memorable battles between these two teams in the past. The oarsmen, with one victory by a small score over the Wheelers to their credit this season, will climb into second place behind the Tigers by duplicating their early season triumph. Then again should Tigers lose, a seemingly impossible occurrence, the Scullers would be on top of the heap and in an envious position for next Saturday, when they play in Ottawa.

The Montrealers are now tied with the Bengals in the point column but have played one game more than both the champions and Argos.

A victory for them, however, while practically eliminating Argos, would keep them at the top with Tigers and well in front should the Senators provide the biggest football surprise in years by downing the nearly invincible Jungle Town representatives.

Montreal will probably place reliance on the backfield trio of 'Huck' Welch, Wally Whitty and Gordon Perry to attain victory. Welch is one of the most powerful punters in the game, while Whitty is of the brainy type and also a splendid placement kicker. Perry is considered one of, if not the best broken field runners in Canadian football.

Argos' backfield is almost on a par and some believe better than the Winged Wheelers on account of the presence there of Frank Turville, a really brilliant punter and clever carrier. He will be assisted by Armour Munro and probably Bubs Britton.

On the wing line the squads appear very evenly matched with Argos offsetting the slightly superior plunging ability of their opponents with the best tackling in the Big Four.

While it is not expected in any quarter, a triumph by the youthful Senators would bring joy to every club in the union except of course to the Hamilton club. Coach Mike Rodden was disappointed when his jungle cats were held to a tie in Montreal last week and has driven the Bengals harder in practice than at any time this season. New plays and new signals will constitute a feature of the Hamilton attack against the capital city squad. The Tigers however, will be minus the services of two of their stars of the line, Alex Nenman and Gear Elford.

The Western at Queens battle may develop into the highlight of the Intercollegiate program. They appear well matched and despite assurances of victory from the tri-color camp there are many who believe the worm has turned and that the London Mustangs will continue the winning ways started last week against McGill University.

True Queen's beat the Westerners at London early in the season, but the winning points were scored by a fluke more or less, Western were unlucky against Varsity and might have beaten the leaders only one of their regular backfielders was not in uniform owing to injuries. It is on the backfield where the Mustangs are somewhat weak and in this department Queen's are as strong as any team in the union. The Tri-color expect to win to-day through Howard Carter's superiority over any Mustang half-back.

Toronto Varsity is in great shape but minus their captain and snap, Johnny Keith, who is one of the unsung heroes of the squad. In all three games which the blue and white clad Torontonians have won Keith has been the real star of the line, but few noticed the fact. He will be missed to-day against the red shirted Montreal students who have been primed by Coach Major Stuart Forbes and none other than Frank "Shag" Shaughnessy to "stop Sinclair". The latter, Varsity's kicking ace, has scored every point for his team by his powerful booting. Although the McGill threat of stopping the clever Varsity half-back appears rather weak to local fans, victory for the Montrealers will certainly be made considerably easier if they are successful. The McGill line has been polished up considerably for the match and should be able to hold Varsity in that department.

JACK CALDER, MOGUL OF PROFESSIONAL HOCKEY

Frank Calder, president of the National Hockey League, the world's major professional loop, has figured in the limelight lately over the disputed draft agreement with the American Hockey Association. But even the greatest organizations have their troubles and times have not always been so rosy with this league. It seems strange that a man who has made such a success of hockey is by profession a school teacher. He then turned his attention to newspaper work and became the sports editor of the Montreal Herald. But the most amazing fact is that man has never been known to play organized hockey. Credit must be handed to Frank Calder for his business-like handling of the N.H.L. in the lean days. The most gloomy days of this league were those of 1919 when he headed only a two-team league, Ottawa and Montreal Canadiens.

The late George Kennedy was manager of the Canadiens and Tommy Gorman was the manager of the Ottawa outfit. At this time the Toronto franchise changed hands and this deal marked the first change in the affairs of the league. The owners of the Toronto franchise had only ice privileges and a few skates and uniforms for their two grand. However, Messrs. Calder, Kennedy and Gorman were so anxious to have them that they allowed them as much time as they needed to pay for the franchise. At that time when a new club entered the league, the proceeds went to the clubs that were already in. This however, became quite an item before long. With the coming of the 1921 season hockey took a new lease of life and Hamilton bought out the Quebec franchise for the sum of $7,000. Three years later this same franchise became the New York Americans and Hamilton officials got $75,000 for their trouble. The following year the Boston and Montreal Maroon franchise were granted for the sum of $15,000 apiece. This was for the privileges of playing only.

The Detroit Olympia is said to have cost $2,400,000 which is just pin money in comparison to the $8,000,000 outlay for the Chicago Arena and it took over $3,000 before the Boston Gardens were completed. There are many who have great faith in the financial future of the puck-chasing game if the millions of dollars invested is any indication and even now the game is on the upward trend in the climb to success.

Five More 'Peg Players Desert Amateur

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 1.—Professional hockey to-day took a lusty swipe at the amateur game in Winnipeg, sending it back on its heels. In one flourish, Minneapolis Millers signed five amateurs who performed in city leagues last season. The move makes half a dozen players who have joined up with the Millers within a week.

Those who lined up with the American Association entry yesterday are: Bill Kendall, Walter Monson and Monty Muckle, members of the Elmwood forward string; Hughie Sutherlane, defense man for Winnipegs, and Archie Gray, who played defense for Selkirk intermediates. Art Pattenden, another Elmwood forward, signed with the Millers several days ago.

Departure of the new Miller quintet for the South will assure drastic changes in Winnipeg amateur line-ups. The Elmwoods are virtually wiped out by the pro. inroads, and the ranks of Winnipegs, it is expected, will be sorely depleted by the proposed European tour of 'Varsity grads. Only the Native Sons' team in senior company retains its squad intact for the coming season.

Hornsby To Play Second As Well As Manage Cubs

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Rogers Hornsby will be back at second base for the Cubs when the 1931 season opens.

The newly appointed manager of the Cubs, here to-day to make preparation for the spring training trip, emphatically denied that his active days as a major league player are over. He said he made a mistake in trying to get back into uniform too soon last season before he had completely recovered from injuries.

"That was a good lesson to me," the Rajah explained. "But I'll be back in there next year. Make no mistake about that."

Hornsby said the Cubs would depart for their camp in Cataline Feb. 12, one week earlier than last year.

HOCKEY.

AT MONTREAL FORUM

MONTREAL, Nov. 1.—Canadiens and Maroons, Montreal's two candidates for the Stanley Cup, now held by the former, continued their workouts today as the regular season drew near. Some two thousand railbirds were on hand to watch the teams, and much interest shown in the new members of each squad.

The method the teams use in getting into condition continues to vary widely. Maroons were still working out twice a day, while the Canucks, at their second practice of the season, showed so much speed and smoothness that Manager Hart cancelled all evening workouts, leaving but a single practice a day. The Canucks were all in the best of condition, with the team seeming in almost mid-season form. Maroons were also in good shape.

NO DEAL MADE FOR CONNOR

OTTAWA, Nov. 1.—Coincident with reports he would see service in Syracuse this winter, Harry Connor surprised everybody at the practice of the Ottawa Senators' hockey team last night with clever stick-handling and all-round usefulness. It is understood no deal has gone through to send him to the New York State city and, judging from his playing tonight, none will be made. Connor has been moved back to the defense, where his powerful physique and rushing ability count as assets.

HAWKS MAKE HEADWAY

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 1. — Alex Wood, new goalkeeper of the Chicago Black Hawks, reported to Coach Dick Irvin yesterday, and took part in the workout. Wood, a native of Western Canada looked exceptionally good and will be understudy for "Chuck" Gardiner. March, right winger, should be a sensation this season. He has developed more speed than ever, and in the workout was outstanding. He is a great stick-handler and is effective around the net.

The forward line of March, Somers and Arbour worked smoothly and in the scrimmage against Ingram, Desjardins and Rommes, won by 3 to 1 with Irvin acting as the referee.

THE RING

BOSTON, Nov. 1.—The powerful blows that flattened Otto von Porat and Phil Scott gave L. W. L. 'Young' Stribling, battling pride of the Georgia cane brakes, a three-round technical knockout over the rugged "K. O." Christner of Akron, Ohio, here last night in what was to have been the Argonne A. A.'s feature 10-round contest in the Boston Area.

Christner's Nose Cut

Stribling boxed a cool-headed battle with his courageous rival and came out of a clinch in the third to batter Christner's head with a heavy two-fisted barrage. One of these blows, a sizzling left hook, split Christner's nose and the injury appeared so serious that Referee Johnny Brassil pulled him away from the Southerner and assisted him to his corner. Then the official raised Stribling's arm in token of victory.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

This here Varsity football team what is out in front in the intercollegiate tangle, Mac, holds 1 record anyway. Them birds hasn't been able to carry the ball over the other fellows' line this season, and yet they are sitting on top of the world with 3 wins in a row and nary a loss. If they's anything in the history of Canadian football to equal that, Mac, I don't know when it happened. Incidentally, old-timer, judging by the whole college record this season, it would look like the rule-makers better get busy, for the defence is sneaking it all over the attack. In all the intercollegiate games up to to-day, Mac, they has been only 1 major score registered and that was hung up on a fumble. From that it don't take a expert to figger out that the game is developing into a kicking duel, and continual booting gets kinda monotonous. The rah-rah boys used to peel off some of the prettiest offensive stuff you'd want to look at, but with only 1 touchdown scored by the whole 4 of them and the season ½ over, they's something wrong with the works.

Our Collegiate lads got a firmer grip on the group leadership here last Sat. when they outplayed and outlasted a husky looking gang from Cobourg. The score was close enough in the 1st ½—thanks mainly to a little attack of sleeping sickness behind the P.C.I. goal line that give the visitors a soft touch—but in the 2nd ½ the home talent opened the throttle wide and then just coasted home. The Cobourg battlers softened visibly toward the finish, for every play found a lakeshore student laid like a carpet, or else dancing with tears in his eyes, while Mister Legon's young men was fresh as the average office boy. If P.C.I. come through this Sat. p.m. in the sand dunes at Cobourg the group title will be theirs—but a reverse means a 3-cornered tie.

Our old college chum, Mister Mickey Murray, who started his hockey career as a member of the Peterborough juniors, dropped in at his home for a few meals this week on his way to Montreal where the Providence pros is training. Mickey is a real goalie, and local fans is hoping he will be up in the big show before he hangs up the pads.

Well, Mac, the pro season will soon be under way. With all the trades and changes that has been pulled off, it oughta be quite a year, old-timer, quite a year.

Nothing more I can think of so I'll say good-nite and I'll be seeing ya subsequently.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

HOCKEY CENTRE AGAIN RETURNS HIS CONTRACT

Is Not Epxected To Be Present When American Team Opens Season.

WANTS MORE MONEY.

But Owner Dwyer Says Offer Generous Considering His Last Year's Work.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Billy Burch, veteran centre of the New York Americans, has refused to sign the contract offered him for the coming season, and the indications at this time are that Buch will not be among those present when the star-spangled team opens its season in Boston a week from Tuesday night. Neither Bill Dwyer nor Manager Eddie Gerard look with favor upon Burch's demands, and the word has been passed to Burch that he can take the contract or leave it.

Burch held out last year until after the season opened. Owner Dwyer finally signed him to a contract calling for more money than he received in the previous season, but Billy's work was disappointing. He was overweight during the early weeks of the season and this affected his playing considerably.

This year he was offered a contract similar to that of 1928-29, and Owner Dwyer insists that it is a generous offer when Burch's work last season is considered. Burch is working out with the squad at Galt, Ont., with the idea of being in shape when the season opens. if the salary squabble should be adjusted.

Only Survivor.

Burch is the veteran member of the American and the only survivor of the original squad which started professional hockey at the Garden in the Fall of 1925. A few years ago he was rated as the leading centre ice player in hockey, but last season he was used considerably as a defense man.

Manager Gerard notified Bill Dwyer yesterday that he is planning a trade of one of his veterans, but the New York owner would not name the player who is to go. It may be Burch, in view of his holdout, but Dwyer would not admit this.

(Special to Examiner, Copyright, 1930.)

The curtain has now rung down on championship competitions in Canada, for 1930 and in almost every instance the 1929 holders of the principal titles have been 'toppled from their thrones.' There were but few 'repeats". And here is the story of the results in the chief Canadian and Provincial events:

Amateur championship of Canada won by Ross Somerville of the London Hunt Club. Runner-up, J. Wood Platt, Philadelphia. In 1929 Eddie Held of New York, won the event.

Amateur Inter-Provincial Team championship. Won by Quebec team, J. A. Cameron, J. Jacques, G. Taylor, C. C. Fraser, score 634. Runner-up, Ontario, D. D. Carrick, F. G. Hoblitzel, J. B. Nash, G. Taylor jr., score 644. Ontario was the winner in 1929.

Open championship of Canada, won by Tommy Armour. Orchard Lake, Mich., after play-off with Leo Deigel, Agua, Caliente, score 277. Diegel won the event in 1929. Also in 1928, 1925 and 1924.

Canadian Ladies Open championship, won by Miss Maureen Orcutt, White Beeches, N.J. Runner-up, Miss Helen Hicks, Hewletts, N.Y., who was the 1929 champion.

Canadian Ladies Close championship, won by Miss Marjorie Kirkham of Montreal. Runner-up, Miss Cecil Smith, Toronto. Miss Ada Mackenzie, Toronto, for three years in succession, had held the title.

International Ladies Match U.S. vs. Canada (first time played) won by the United States 11½ points to 2½.

Professional Golf Championship of Canada, won by Willie Lamb Uplands Golf Club for the third year in succession. Score (36 holes) 141. Runner-up Tom McGrath (unattached) 142.

Ontario Amateur Championship, won by Jack Nash, London, Hunt, runner-up Dan Carrick, Scarboro, Toronto. In 1929 RossSomerville was the title holder.

Ontario Open Championship, won by Gordon Brydson, Toronto Golf Club, after play off with Lex Robson, Islington Golf Club and Mr. Ross Somerville, London Hunt (scores 151). In 1929 Davie Spittal, Toronto, won the event.

Ontario Ladies Championship, won by Miss Cecil Smith, Toronto. Runner-up, Mrs. E. W. Whittington, Toronto. In 1929, Miss Maud Smith was the holder of the title.

Ontario Girls' Championship, won by Miss Winifred Robinson of St. Catharines, score 166 for 36 holes. Runner-up, Miss M. Donald, Burlington, who won the championship in 1929.

Ontario Boys Championship, won by Phil Farley, Cedar Brook Golf Club, Toronto, score 148 for 36 holes. Runner-up, Jack Nash, London Hunt Club. In 1929 the championship was won by Eric Russell, Lakeview, Toronto.

Amateur Championship of Quebec, won by Norman M. Scott, Royal, Montreal, score 145 for 36 holes. Runner-up, W. D. Taylor, Summerlea, Montreal. Last year the championship was won by Gordon McAthey, of Montreal.

Open championship of Quebec, won by Albert H. Murry. Beaconsfield, Montreal after tie with Willie Lamb, Uplands, Toronto, score 138 for 36 holes. Last year the titleholder was Arthur Hulbert, of Toronto.

Ladies championship of Quebec, won by Miss Dora Virtue, of Montreal, at the 20th hole from Mme. Dagenais of Montreal, who won the championship in 1929.

Open championship of Alberta, won by Jimmie Rimmer, Jasper Park, Alta., score 149, for 36 holes. Runner-up, D. Sutherland, Vancouver.

Amateur championship of Alberta, won by J. T. Cuthbert, Edmonton. Runner-up, Morris Stewart, Edmonton, Gordon MacWilliams of Calgary was the 1929 champion.

Ladies' championship of Alberta, won by the second year in succession by Mrs. Roy E. Horne, of Edmonton Runner-up, Mrs. J Train Grain, Galgary, Mrs. Horne also won four other Western events this season.

Boys championship of Alberta, won by Amanda Charelle. Runner-up Lorne Mann.

Girls championship of Alberta, won by Miss Muriel Barrett, of Calgary. Runner-up, her sister, Miss Kathleen.

British Columbia amateur, championship, won by Fred Wood, Vancouver. Runner-up Ken Black, Vancouver, C. Hunter, University of Washington, won the title in 1929.

British Columbia Ladies' championship, won by Mrs. Vera Hutchings, Vancouver. Runner-up Miss K. Farrell, Vancouver. The 1929 champion was Mrs. S. C. Sweeney, of Vancouver.

Manitoba amateur championship won by David Arnott, Winnipeg, on the 37th hole. D. Kennedy, runner-up being disqualified for breach of the rules. A. A. Weir, Winnipeg, was the 1929, titleholder.

Manitoba Ladies' championship, won by P. B. Pellenz, Winnipeg. Runner-up, Mrs. Beairsto, Winnipeg. Mrs. Gordon Konantz, Winnipeg, was the champion last year.

Men's championship of the Winnipeg Public Links, won by Joody Palmer, of the Kildonan Club. Runner-up, Edgar Brown, Windsor Club.

Ladies' championship of the Winnipeg Public Links, won by Mrs. E. Swail, Windsor Club. Runner-up, Mrs. M. Yule, Caledonia. There were 366 players participating in these two championships, which creates a record for Canada.

Manitoba Junior championship, won by Bobbie Reith, of Winnipeg, in play-off with Dick Critchley, Winnipeg, who lost a stroke on the extra hole as the result of hitting his caddie with his ball. Bud Donovan won the event in 1929.

Amateur Championship of the Maritimes, won by Gerald Mielke, of Halifax, for the 7th time. Runner-up, Frank Mielke, Halifax. The brothers between them have won the championship every year since 1920, with the exception of 1926 and 1929. Last year, Don McNaughton of Moncton, N.B., was the champion.

Professional championship of the Maritimes won by Dyd. Lingard, of St. John, N.B., 148 for 36 holes. Tied for second place, Sam Foley, Halifax and Larry Thornton of Moncton, N.B., J. R. Williams, Moncton, N.B. won the title in 1929, but did not defend it, having removed to the States.

Nova Scotia Ladies' championship, won for the second year in succession, Mrs. D. Lee Dolan, Halifax. Score 173. Runner-up, Miss Dorothy Holmes, Truro, N.S.

Saskatchewan Ladies' championship won for the second time by Mrs. R. S. Rideout, Regina. Runner-up, Mrs. H. Gill, Moose Jaw.

Assistants championship of the Canadian Professional Golfers Association, won by Dick Borthwick, Toronto. Runner-up, Sid Dry of Montreal, scores 85 and 88. The championship was held last year by Arthur Hunt, Toronto.

George S. Lyon, Toronto, won the Canadian Seniors' championship and also the individual championship of America. The Pacific Northwest Seniors' championship was won by J. A. Byerley of Portland, Oregon. The Alberta Seniors' championship by J. H. Dowdell of Edmonton, and the Saskatchewan Seniors' championship for the second time by Gen. G. S. Tuxford, Moose Jaw. At Toronto, the U.S. Seniors won the matches both against Great Britain and the States. At Victoria, B.C., the Canadian Seniors won from the U.S. Seniors team of the Pacific Coast. Mrs. Sydney Jones, Toronto, for second time, won the Ladies' Senior championship after play-off with Mrs. A. F. Rodger, Toronto.

During the season three very important Tournaments were held at the big summer resorts at Banff, Alta., Jasper Park, Alta., and Manoir Richelieu, Murray Bay, Quebec. At Banff the Prince of Wales Trophy was won by W. J. Thompson, Toronto, former Canadian amateur champion who defeated D. Arnott, Manitoba amateur champion in the final. At Jasper Park the Totem trophy was won for the second time by the well known New York golfer and financier, Gardiner White, who defeated Fred Wood, British Columbia amateur champion in the final. The Manoir Richelieu shield was won for the second time by Hugh Jacques, of Montreal, J. W. Yuile, Montreal, Runner-up. No Western Canada championship was held this year, the Banff and Jasper Tournaments more or less taking its place.

The only 1929 champions to repeat in 1930 were Willie Lamb, C.P.G.A., championship, General Taxford, Saskatchewan Senior championship, and four ladies, Mrs. Horne, Alberta Ladies' championship, Mrs. Dolan, Nova Scotia Ladies' championship, Mrs. Ridout, Saskatchewan Ladies' championship and Mrs. Sydney Jones, the Women's Senior championship.

There is no lady golfer in Canada, who has made a better showing this season than Mrs. Roy H. Horne, of Edmonton, Alta. She won the Qualifying round and the championship in the Alberta Ladies' Provincial event at Calgary, the Edmonton City championship, the championship of the Edmonton Golf & Country Club, the championship of the Edmonton Public Course and the Erlandger cup of Edmonton. Mrs. Horne only took up golf four years ago, but has made remarkable strides in the game. She is now playing to a C.L.G.U. handicap of 6—one of the lowest in Canada. It is to be hoped next year she will come East for some of the major events.

In England Miss Enid Wilson, recently won the English championship has also further distinguished herself by at last defeating Tom Williamson, one of the outstanding British professionals. For two years she has been taking a "whack" at the redoubtable Tom, on level terms and the other day, succeeded in beating him 2 and 1. Miss Enid who drives farther than the majority of men, had a medal score of 74 from the back tees of the Holinwell course and 74 is a card that very few men attain to on a 6400 yard course. Miss Wilson, who is the daughter of a Devonshire doctor, is only 20 years of age. If the fair sex continue to improve and extend their game the next few years, as they have done the past decade, they may yet figure successfully in an Open championship. Stranger things have happened in the realms of sport as witness rifle shooting and aviation this year, where women have more than held their own, with men.

Thanks to there being two Cyril Tolleys, one the famous British amateur, and the other a professional formerly assistant at the Royal Ottawa Golf Club, there has been another matrimonial mix-up. A despatch from New York recently stated that the Cyril Tolley had been married to a Miss McMahon of that city. As a matter of fact it was the 'tother Tolley. This is the second time the Cyrils have figured wrongly in matrimonial circles. On the other occasion, it was a question of proceedings in the Divorce Court. The great amateur is commencing to think that "What's in a name?" doesn't hold so very good after all. There is a lot of unpleasantness in having two Cyril Tolleys figuring prominently in golf and incidentally getting mixed-up indiscriminately in the marital market.

ROUND TABLE PARLEY SCHEDULED IN FRENCH INDO-CHINESE GRIEFS

Special Committee Selected By High Colonial Council Will Meet This Month.

IMPORTANT DISCUSSIONS.

PARIS, Nov. 1.—France has an Indian problem of its own and like Great Britain proposes to assemble its colonial experts around a conference table. There they will thrash out the subjects of native unrest and reform in French Indo-China.

Francois Pietri, Minister for the Colonies, announces that a special committee selected by the high colonial council, which is made up of former ministers of colonies and governors, will meet some time this month. The exact date has not yet been set. Sub-committees, composed of natives for the most part, are now at work in Cochin-China, Annam, Cambodia, Tonking and Loas, five sub-divisions of French Indo-China, drawing up reform proposals for the French committee's consideration.

One of their chief problems will undoubtedly be the rice tax, cause of Communist and nationalist uprisings in Indo-China last spring which resulted in considerable loss of life and the subsequent execution of 17 native revolutionists. Unrest is particularly marked among Annamites and natives of Tonking, and Vinh-Long, Cochin-China, resulted from a coalition of communists, known as Viet-Nam-Quoc-Dan-Dang, and Nationalists, or Viet-Nam-Cong-Dan-Dang.

Native education is another important item expected to figure in the reform agenda. France spends large sums for native education and maintains numbers of elementary, secondary and preparatory schools for girls as well as boys. The policy of European education for natives has resulted in criticism from some quarters.

French Indo-China is composed of native states for which France acts as protector, and Cochin-China, a colony. It is an arrangement corresponding vaguely to British India and the Indian native states. France's policy has been to preserve the institutions, traditions and religion of the native states as much as possible within a French federation. The two dominant people in the group are the Annamites and Cambodians. The Annamites include 14,000,000 of the 20,000,000 population of French Indo-China.

Nominally, they are ruled by an Emperor, Bao-Dai, a youth who succeeded to the throne in 1925 while still in knee trousers. The Emperor administers his sovereignty with the co-operation of a resident superior, who is responsible to the governor-general of French Indo-China, Pierre Pasquier. Bao-Dai's education has been largely French.

Cambodia also has a boy king, Monivong, crowned with all the ritualistic splendor of the Cambodian court in 1928. His subjects number about 2,300,000 and his little country includes some of the richest art treasures in the Far East. French administration in Indo-China is complicated by the fact that five religions are practised there.

Naturism is the state religion of the Annamites. Throughout the peninsula confucianism is the basis for moral teachings. The official religion of Cambodia is Buddhism, and Mohammedanism and Catholicism are practised side by side, the latter the religion of 20,000 resident Europeans.

FEWER GETTING MARRIED

Marriages to date this year still remain much lower than for the same period last year. Up to yesterday this year weddings in the city numbered 176, while to the end of October last year 200 couples had trod the bridal path.

In births, October was only exceeded by June, there being 61 visits by the stork, as compared with 50 in September and 48 in October 1929. Deaths numbered 20.

CHRISTNER STOPPED BY BILL STRIBLING

Southern Heavyweight Winner in Third Round at Boston.

BOSTON, Nov. 1. — The powerful blows that flattened Otto von Porat and Phil Scott gave L. W. L. 'Young' Stribling, battling pride of the Georgia cane brakes, a three-round technical knockout over the rugged "K.O." Christner of Akron, Ohio, here last night in what was to have been the Argonne A.A.'s feature 10-round contest in the Boston Arena.

Christner's Nose Cut.

Stribling boxed a cool-headed battle with his courageous rival and came out of a clinch in the third to batter Christner's head with a heavy two-fisted barrage. One of these blows, a sizzling left hook, split Christner's nose and the injury appeared so serious that Referee Johnny Brasil pulled him away from the Southerner and assisted him to his corner. Then the official raised Stribling's arm in token of victory.

Northwestern Meets Minnesota To-Day

CHICAGO, Ills., November 1. (C.P.)—Up at Minneapolis to-day 54,000 football enthusiasts bundled up to go to Memorial Stadium to watch Northwestern and Minnesota decide which should remain in the big ten championship race.

The contest rated as the topliner of the middle-western schedule, which included two other strictly conference games, and a trio in which ten big teams were involved.

Perdue, with its remote chance of winning or sharing in the title, was at Illinois, while Wisconsin, eager to salvage as much glory as possible after its defeat by Purdue last week, was paired up with Ohio State at Columbus.

Iowa had an engagement with the University of Detroit's Titans at Detroit, and Indiana was the guest in Notre Dame's new brick bowl.

U. S. ELECTORS VOTE THURSDAY

Democrats Are Expected to Make Gains on Account of Unemployment.

5,000,000 OUT OF WORK.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 1.—(By Ken Clark, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)—The economic depression and the government's responsibility in the present situation is the national issue in the congressional election next Tuesday.

If the United States voter decides the conduct of the Republican government has not eased "hard times," he will administer a rebuke to President Herbert Hoover and the Republican House of Representatives and Senate by giving the Democratic party a victory. If, on the other hand he feels less prosperous days in the United States merely reflect a world-wide condition and the administration and congress have done what they could to improve matters, he will again give the president a majority in congress which he needs to carry on his legislative program.

5,000,000 Unemployed.

Summarized the situation presented to the voter on November four will be this "When the president took office and: the Republicans won in 1928: Industry was booming and prices for agricultural commodities were fair; there was little unemployment. Now the stock market, after the crash settles, farm products are selling for what they will bring, and there are possibly 5,000,000 unemployed in the country with winter coming on. The administration has raised the tariff wall, has established an agency for farm relief, has pressed for continued activity in business and has taken cognizance of the unemployment situation.

Basing their opinions on the tendency of the average United States voter to lay the blame for everything except the weather on the government, observers in Washington are unanimous in declaring that the Democrats will take seats in the House of Representatives and possibly in the Senate from the Republicans.

However, it is generally conceded by thinking voters throughout the country that the president has had bad luck. Sympathy for him may show up strongly on the ballots of Tuesday.

IN POLICE COURT

A dramatic note was struck in police court this morning. The court was prepared to give Frank B. Sheldon alias Gerald Hogan, of Montreal and Toronto, suspended sentence on a chargeof obtaining money under false pretences when police abruptly announced that the man was wanted here and cities throughout Ontario. It is alleged that he had passed bogus cheques on the post office and several banks in the city, and police say that several bank tellers, who were hurriedly and clandestinely brought into court for a look at the man, identified him as the cheque artist. His description is claimed to have been broadcast throughout the province for other bank frauds.

He was brought here from Toronto to stand trial on a charge of obtaining gasoline and money from J. J. Mortimer on October 1 by giving a cheque on Toronto bank where it was found he had no funds. He had faced charges of a similar nature in Toronto yesterday and been given suspended sentence, and the local court was prepared to do the same, when police disclosed their suspicions and hastily-called bank tellers are said to have identified him.

At the request of the crown he was remanded until Friday, when it was said that several charges will be laid against him.

SOUTH ONTARIO BACKS SINCLAIR

Delegates Named to Provincial Convention at District Executive Rally.

HAVE EVERY CONFIDENCE.

OSHAWA, Ont., Nov. 1.—Entire confidence in W. E. N. Sinclair as representative for the riding of South Ontario and as Leader of the Ontario Liberal Party was expressed at a meeting of the general executive of the South Ontario Liberal Association held at Brooklyn, last night. The resolution which expressed confidence in the Liberal Leader was moved by R. R. Mowbray of Kinsley and seconded by M. R. Dudley, Mayor of Whitby. It is said in part:

"The executive of the South Ontario Liberal Association expresses its entire confidence in Mr. W. E. N. Sinclair as the representative in this riding and as Leader of the Ontario Liberal Party, and expresses the hope that he may continue in his position as leader, believing as we do that Mr. Sinclair will remain the representative of this riding in the Ontario Legislature as long and as often as he seeks the franchise of the electors."

Delegates to the Provincial Liberal Convention to be held in Toronto on December 16 and 17 were named as follows, W. A. Dryden, Brooklyn; G. D. Penant, Oshawa; Mr. Cowan, Pickering; Ted Jackson, Port Perry; Wm. Gormley, Pickering; Fred Irwin, Whitby; Miss Marjorie Ross, Whitby.

LITERATURE LEADS TO LARGER LIFE

Noblest Purpose Not Entertainment For Relief, Novelist Finds.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 1.—Not entertainment, not relief or solace, and not escape from the brutalities of real life, but rather a "larger and a larger life" was the noblest purpose of literature, said Ernest Raymond, English novelist, essayist and poet, addressing the Canadian Club on the subject "Through Literature to Life."

Life consisted essentially in contact with our environment, he began. A larger life meant contact with a larger environment. For example, a tree had life, but was fettered to a very limited environment. A bird was much more alive; it knew what lay beyond the hills. So a man was an instrument alive to countless things. He was en rapport with the universe. And by far the greatest of his means of contact was the writtten word.

"For what," the speaker asked, "can equal the recorded experience of the grandest souls?" Those who had no love for literature, and did not share in the experience of the greatest and best, were partly dead without knowing it. "Literature," it was stated, "not only makes us feel about more things, but also feel much more about them. It heightens our awareness."

NEW ROAD SURFACE.

LONDON, Nov. 1 (By The Canadian Press).—A road surface which, it is claimed, eliminates all danger of skidding, is now being manufactured from Boeton asphalt, mined in the island of that name in the Dutch East Indies and a recent demonstration in the borough of Chelsea was regarded by the borough engineer and others as a success. After the road which had been treated with the material was watered a number of motor cars driven along it at high speed and brakes were applied violently but there were no traces of skids, and when the drivers tried deliberately to make the cars skid they could not do so. Its non-skid qualities are believed to be due to a natural and uniform mixture of bitumen and shells

H.M.S. PINAFORE IS FEATURE AT CAMPBELLFORD

Presented By Knox Church Choir, Peterborough, to Full House.

SPLENDID CAST.

Mrs. Ken Baker and Stanley Willis Star in Title Roles.

CAMPBELLFORD, November 1.—By the Examiner Correspondent.—Ever a feature production when played before the public, "H.M.S. Pinafore," one of the Gilbert and Sullivan comic operas that will never die, went over big last evening when presented by the choir of Knox Church, Peterborough, in the Regent Theatre, Campbellford.

Played under the auspices of the choir of St. John's United Church, Campbellford, a full house greeted with applause and enthusiasm the feature theatrical event of the season. Costumes and scenery were well chosen and in perfect order, the whole scenic effect bringing one a touch of the rolling deep. Full of humor and with the theme concentrating around the romance of an able seaman and the captains daughter, its lyrical satire and tuneful melodies transported one to a delightful land of make-believe.

The cast was most ably trained and the quality and range of voice was a feature of the production. In the leading roles, Mrs. Ken Baker, as Josephine, the captain's daughter, and Stanley Willis as Ralph Rackstraw, the sailor who loved beyond his station in life, played opposite each other with ease and precision. Lyric soprano and tenor respectively, their voices blended to perfection in duet, and were equally well balanced and harmonic in solo work. Perhaps one of the prettiest of the duets was that between these two lovers, "Farewell, My Own", which brought out the fine quality of voices.

The First Lord of the Admiralty, the Rt. Hon. Sir Joseph Porter, was taken by Herbert Hughes, and showed the ability of the character to live in his part. Portly and sedate and with all the tradition of this rank and station, he added that strain of sedate humor to the opera for which Gilbert and Sullivan are noted. And then there was the "Dear Little Buttercup," making eyes at the captain and full of sage advice. This role was taken to advantage by Mrs. H. Wood, who filled the bill as the "plump and pleasing person" for whom the captain eventually falls.

And the Captain Corcoran, Arthur Pitchford, was very much on deck. A man beloved by his jolly tars and an oath who swore but once at his crew, he pleased the audience with his true acting of the part. Then there was Dick Deadeye, deep of voice and rough of manner, extremely well acted by A. Lucas. The villain of the piece, if villain he was, he never relaxed once from the character he was portraying, and in his performance and singing proved himself an actor of no mean ability. The parts of the carpenter and boatswain were taken by James Gerard and Tom Allan respectively, and added that touch of the real sailor life that helped to make the presentation so acceptable. And supporting this fine cast was a chorus of jolly sailormen and all the devoted sisters, cousins and aunts of the Lord High Admiral, forming a background of voice and manner, that gave the play its splendid setting.

The production was under the direction of William R. Potter, who showed his skill and ability in producing such a stage classic. Well drilled and perfectly trained, Mr. Potter is to be congratulated upon the success of his venture.

Accompanying the opera was its own orchestra composed of Mrs. A. B. Kelley, piano, Alex Robertson, violin; R. M. Beach, drums. The stage committee consisted of Messrs. R. Brawn manager; Hughes, Davis and Willis. A. Pitchford was the business manager.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S RUBBER HOOP.

Uncle Wiggily was hopping along through the woods one day near a road on which many automobiles whizzed past when, all of a sudden, the rabbit gentleman heard a shout and something came crashing through the bushes beside him.

"My goodness!" cried Mr. Longears, hopping flown inside a hollow stump to hide. "I hope that isn't Red Fox trying to catch me after I fooled him by fastening Nurse Jane's feather duster on my tail so he wouldn't see what a short one I had. Yet it might be Red Fox."

But it wasn't. No bad chap came slinking along, after that crash in the bushes, to get the rabbit uncle. And as he peered from his hiding place in the hollow stump he saw what it was that had made the noise. It was an old automobile tire which some one, in a car whizzing along the road through the woods, had thrown away.

"Or maybe it dropped off some car," thought Uncle Wiggily. "The man may come along to look for it and I don't want him to see me. I had better keep hidden for a while."

So Uncle Wiggily crouched down in the hollow stump, keeping watch on the auto tire which had come to rest in a clump of ferns. After a while, seeing that no one came into the woods, Uncle Wiggily hopped out of his hiding place and went over to the tire. He saw, then, that it was an old rubber tire, not much good for an auto any more.

"I guess some one threw it away and it rolled here into the woods," said the rabbit gentleman. "If no one wants it I might as well take it home. Let me see—what would it be good for. Oh, I know, it will make a fine hoop for some of the larger animal boys to roll. Curly or Floppy Twistytail, one of the fat pigs, could easily roll this big rubber hoop."

Now that he had found a use for the old auto tire, which, like a rubber hoop, had come rolling to him in the woods, Uncle Wiggily felt almost as if he had had an adventure. And he was about to hop along out of the forest to his hollow stump bungalow when he heard some voices talking on the path which went down hill just here.

"Did you catch him?" growled one voice.

"Where is he?" mewed another voice. "Where is Uncle Wiggily?"

Uncle Wiggily looked down the hill and saw the Bob Cat and Fuzzy Fox standing in front of Red Fox.

"Why, no, I didn't catch Uncle Wiggily," answered Red Fox, slowly, waving his big, bushy tail to and fro. "I didn't even see a rabbit, though I'm sure I would know one if I saw one, for you told me what funny little tails they have. No, Uncle Wiggily isn't around."

Down the hill he rolled.

"You must be mistaken!" mewed the Bob Cat. "After we three met in the woods and decided to hunt Uncle Wiggily I saw, from a far off hill, that he was hopping along a path that crossed your path, Red Fox."

"I, too, saw Uncle Wiggily in the same part of the woods where you were, Cousin," spoke Fuzzy Fox, who was related to Red Fox. "It is strange you didn't catch him. Are you sure you met no rabbit?"

"Well," barked Red Fox, "I did see a little animal with a lot of fur on, long ears and a pink, twinkling nose. He had on a tall hat, too, a red coat and black pants."

"Why, that was Uncle Wiggily!" cried Fuzzy Fox and Bob Cat.

"No, that couldn't have been Uncle Wiggily," said Red Fox. "I felt sure it was and I made this animal get up so I could see his tail. Instead of a little stubby one, like yours, Bob Cat, he had a big, feathery, fuzzy tail. So it couldn't have been Uncle Wiggily."

"That was Uncle Wiggily, all right!" howled Bob Cat.

"Sure it was!" yapped Fuzzy Fox. "He must have stuck a feather duster on his tail to fool you! Oh, what a trick! Uncle Wiggily was too smart for you, Cousin!"

"Well, maybe he was!" barked Red Fox, lashing his tail. "Oh, but I'm mad! I'm bad! I'm sad!" he howled. "To think of being fooled by a feather duster tail! Oh, I could bite my tongue!" and Red Fox gnashed his teeth.

"It's too bad he didn't know more about rabbits," mewed Bob Cat.

"What are we going to do now?" asked Fuzzy Fox.

Just when Uncle Wiggily, at the top of the hill with his rubber hoop, happened to move, Red Fox saw him and yapped:

"There he is now! I'll get him! Come on!"

The three Bad Chaps, catching sight of the rabbit, sprang up the hill to get him. Uncle Wiggily had but a moment to think. But he knew what to do. He curled himself up inside the big, old auto tire and started to roll down hill. Over and over, faster and faster down the hill he rolled, curled inside his rubber hoop, until he rolled right past the three Bad Chaps. He scattered stones that banged them on their noses and dust flew in their eyes. And before they knew it the bunny had rolled safely to the bottom of the hill and to his bungalow.

"Fooled again!" growled Bob Cat as the three slunk away.

WHEN FOOD SOURS . . .

Sweeten the Stomach instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless liquid; pleasant, efficient and harmless. But it kills excess acids. It has remained the standard with physicians for more than 50 years.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for over fifty years in correcting excess acids. 50c bottles—any drugstore. The genuine is always a liquid—never made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips' on wrapper and bottle.

MARMORA SUPPER IS BIG SUCCESS

Ladies of Sacred Heart Church Cater to Record Crowd at Dinner.

MARMORA, Nov. 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—The goodwill towards other folk characteristic of the Christmas season at Marmora does not eclipse that shown when local religious denominations hold a chicken supper. This was once more in evidence on Thursday evening when the congregation of the Sacred Heart Church catered to a record crowd.

Too many cooks may spoil the broth but not the chicken was the discovery made by The Examiner representative who lined up in the large crowd. To single out the cooks seemed a hopeless task. Suffice it to say, all the old regulars were there and uniformity of best cooking was the result.

Four long tables in the basement of the Separate School were staffed by the following ladies: Mrs. J. E. Gehan, Mrs. J. Crawford, Mrs. D. Shannon, Mrs. E. O'Connor, Miss F. Doyle, Miss H. Gallagher, Miss H. Gaffney, Mrs. J. Finnegan, Mrs. G. Forestell, Mrs. I. McAvoy, Miss Theresa Neill, Miss Edith Callery, Miss Veronica Moloney, Mrs. B. Gaffney, Mrs. F. Paquet, Mrs. A. Shannon, Mrs. E. Shannon, Miss Dora Doyle, Miss Marguerite Doyle, Miss Edith Calleny, Miss Kathleen Doyle, Mrs. A. McWilliams, Mrs. John Murray, Mrs. E. Flynn, Mrs. W. Flynn, Mrs. C. Cook, Mrs. H. Warren, Miss Madeline Bertrand, and Miss Bernice Forestell.

An attractive bazaar upstairs did good business from the supper hour on. As in former years, the candy stall was in charge of the Sodality girls. Those on duty were the Misses K. Doyle, J. O'Neill, F. Auger, I. Doyle, and F. Doyle. A well-laden home cooking stall was under the supervision of Mesdames J. Brady and H. Auger.

The fancy stall, well stocked with garments and other serviceable articles, was in the capable hands of Mrs. E. Deacon, Mrs. I. P. Marin, and Miss Hilda Hughes. In another room a variety of games found ready patrons, and proved a real source of revenue. The fish pond made its usual appeal to the younger generation. Those in charge were Rita Deacon, Mary Murphy, Mary Brady, and Anna Crawford.

Ontario Prime Minister Cables Congratulations

G. Howard Ferguson, Premier of Ontario, who is at present in England, studying the markets for the purpose of increasing the sale of Ontario products, visited the Leicester Fruit Show.

Mr. Ferguson was evidently greatly impressed with the fine showing of the Canadian exhibit—so much so that he was interested enough to send the following cable to Canadian Canners:

"Visited Leicester Fruit Show yesterday, and saw your exhibit. Warm congratulations on your splendid display."

W. R. Drynan, general manager of the Canadian Canners, in commenting on this message, stated that their goods were growing in popularity in Great Britain, and that their sales were increasing, and that, with the close co-operation now being given by our Governments, the outlook for future export business was most promising.

JUDICIAL SALE OF HOUSE AND LOT (BRIDGENORTH) AND FARM (SMITH TOWNSHIP)

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF ONTARIO.

HEARD VS. HEARD.

PURSUANT to the Judgment dated the 17th Day of February, 1930, in this action and the Order for Sale made herein dated the 16th Day of October, 1930, there will be offered for Sale, by Public Auction, in Two Parcels, with the approbation of the undersigned Master, by W. J. Hancock, Auctioneer, at his Auction Rooms, in the City of Peterborough, at the hour of Two o'clock, on Thursday, the 27th Day of November, 1930, the following Lands and Premises being composed of and more particularly described as follows:

PARCEL NUMBER ONE: ALL AND SINGULAR that certain Parcel or Tract of Land and Premises situate lying and being in the Township of Smith, in the County of Peterborough and Province of Ontario, and being composed of the North Half of Lot Number FIFTEEN, in the Sixth Concession of the said Township of Smith.

PARCEL NUMBER TWO: ALL AND SINGULAR, that certain Parcel or Tract of Land and Premises situate lying and being in the Township of Smith, in the County of Peterborough and Province of Ontario, and being composed of Part of Lot Number SIXTY-FOUR as shown upon a plan registered in the Registry Office for the Registry Division of the County of Peterborough as Number Four for the Township of Smith, and which may be more particularly described as follows:

COMMENCING at a point in the Southerly limit of said Lot Number Sixty-four distant one hundred and ninety-six feet easterly from the south-west angle of the said Lot; thence north fifty-eight degrees thirty minutes east along the said southerly limit one hundred and thirty-eight feet seven inches; thence northerly at right angles to the said southerly limit of said Lot twenty-six feet nine inches; thence southerly fifty-eight degrees thirty minutes west one hundred and sixteen feet six inches; thence south thirty-six degrees twenty-five minutes west thirty-seven feet three inches; thence southerly in a straight line fifteen feet ten inches to the place of beginning.

The said Parcels of Land will be offered for Sale subject to reserved bids fixed by the said Master.

The Purchaser shall pay down to the Vendor's solicitor on the day of Sale Ten per cent. of the purchase money, and shall pay the balance of the purchase money into Court without interest within Thirty Days after the date of Sale. Adjustments to be made as of date of Sale. The Purchaser shall search the title at his own expense. The Vendor shall not be bound to produce any abstract of title or any deeds or evidence of title other than those in his possession or control. In all other respects the conditions of Sale are the standing conditions of Sale of the Court as modified by the conditions of Sale settled by the undersigned.

On the Premises of Parcel Number One is said to be erected a Frame House, about twenty-two feet by twenty-six feet, with Kitchen attached, about sixteen feet by twenty feet, with a good cellar and stone foundation. Also a Frame Barn, with steel roof, twenty-eight feet by forty feet, with a stone foundation, and stable underneath. This Parcel is sold subject to a verbal lease for one year expiring the Eighteenth Day of April, 1931, at a rental of $75.00 per year and taxes, more particularly referred to in the Conditions of Sale.

On the Premises of Parcel Number Two is said to be erected a Frame House, about twenty feet by twenty-four feet, with Kitchen attached. (This Property is situated in that part of the Township of Smith known as Bridgenorth.)

Further particulars and conditions of Sale may be had from Hall, Hall & Stevenson, Solicitors, Hunter Street, Peterborough, Ontario, or from Gordon & Elliott, Solicitors, George Street, Peterborough, Ontario.

DATED at Peterborough this 31st Day of October, A.D. 1930.

O. A. LANGLEY,
Local Master at Peterborough.

THE RETURN OF TARZAN No. 42 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan wedged his body through the opening. Cautiously he crawled along. The floor ended in a sudden drop. He saw a tiny patch of sky above him and as the moon topped the shaft's opening, it let a flood of soft, silvery light shimmer on a pool of water far beneath him. Tarzan had come upon an ancient well. Across this was an opening in the opposite wall.

Quickly returning to the wall he had demolished he replaced its stones. Easily leaping the fifteen feet across the well, a moment later he was running along a narrow tunnel. Then down a flight of stairs. Here he found himself in a dim room piled high with metal ingots. But for their enormous number he would have been positive that they were gold.

Now the way ran straight as a war spear. If he but knew the direction it was leading him! With increasing hopes he forged ahead. More steps now led upward. Up this winding spiral path Tarzan sped. At the end he came out upon the top of a huge granite boulder, into the fresh night air, beyond the outer walls. A mile away lay the ruined city of Opar

The ancient pile of crumbling grandeur in the distance was bathed in the soft light of the equatorial moon. "Opar," he mused. "Opar, enchanted city of a forgotten past! City of horrors and death of beauty and beasts, but city of fabulous riches!" Then he dropped his eyes to the ingot he had brought away with him. He saw that it was of virgin gold!

Who was loving, kind and true,
Whose smile was as deep as the sunshine,
That someone, dear Mother, was you.
Sweet memories will linger for ever,
Times cannot change them, it's true;
Years that may come cannot sever
Our loving memory of you."

BRITISH FLEET IN MIMIC SCRAP PROVES THRILLER

Prime Ministers See Whole Affair From Flagship's Conning Tower.

PLANE CRASHES.

Rough Weather Prevents Ramsay MacDonald Attending Spectacle.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 3 (C.P.). — Amid the mist and the rain off Portland the Premiers of the Empire on Saturday saw a war at sea. Through a thick have 15-inch guns flashed and roared as they crashed their huge projectiles through a target lying low on the horizon. Aeroplanes soared from giant aircraft carriers and swooped around the Nelson flagship of the Atlantic fleet, on which the Empire Premiers had put to sea. A minelayer strewed the Nelson's path with mines, a depth charge sent columns of water into the air, warship destroyers buzzed about discharging torpedoes, but the doughty Nelson went on her way unscathed, and from her conning tower the Premiers and their attending Ministers took in every detail of the heroic scene.

Canadians Attend.

Among those who watched were Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of Canada, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Canadian Minister of Justice, and Hon. H. H. Stevens, the Dominion's Minister of Trade and Commerce.

In actual warfare a vastly different story, with no safe and comfortable return journey, might have been told.

The naval airmen had a difficult time of it. One plane fell into the Channel. It sank, but her crew of three were rescued by a destroyer. In the boisterous weather two more crashed in landing. Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, who had planned to fly from Hendon, was advised not to make the attempt and he missed the demonstration.

WEMP BLAMES PEARCE IN PROBE

Toronto's Mayor Claims He Opposed Bill For Salary Increase.

THREATENED BY WRIGHT.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 3 (C.P.). — Mayor Kemp, under oath at Judge Denton's inquiry into civil salary increases, to-day declared the first he heard of the question was on February 19, when Controller Pearce came to his office and said to Sam Wright, M.L.A., who was in the Mayor's office at the time, "You had better see Mr. Ferguson about that matter."

His Worship swore that Controller Pearce later at that impromptu gathering in the Mayor's office, called the city solicitor in and asked him what steps would be necessary to effect a raise in salaries to members of Council.

The Mayor denied that he had authorized the drawing of a bill for the increases and said he had taken the stand that it should be opposed. He also testified that Sam Wright, M.L.A., had threatened to issue a statement against him if he was not appointed to the Transportation Commission.

Mayor Wemp informed Judge Denton before the opening of the session that to-day was the regular day for the Council to meet, and suggested that the inquiry re-open at 3 o'clock to give the Council an opportunity to pass routine business.

NATIONS MAY SETTLE PACT

France Likely Agree to Parity in Naval Tonnage With Italy In Mediterranean.

COLONY PROTECTION.

PARIS, France, Nov. 3 (A.P.) — France will agree to parity in naval tonnage with Italy in the Mediterreanean, it was said in official circles to-day, on condition that Italy will allow the French to have sufficient tonnage stationed elsewhere to protect communications with the colonies.

It is calculated here that France must have 140,000 tons for any eventualities in the Atlantic ocean while it can take care of its colonial routes with 100,000 tons.

This, it was said, was only a prospective hypothesis but might take the form of a definite proposal at an opportune moment.

Police Seize $10,000 Worth Of Narcotics

BUFFALO, N.Y., Nov. 3. (CP) Headed by Roy A. Darling of Washington, Federal narcotic agents and police of Buffalo and Niagara Falls last night smashed what they claimed was one segment of an international narcotic ring and arrested six men and two women. Details of narcotics seized were not disclosed but it was intimated the seizure was in excess of $10,000.

The raids, in Niagara Falls, culminated secret investigations over several weeks by narcotic agents assisted by special investigators for Washington.

CHINESE GOV'T IS TAKING STEPS TO OUST REDS

Over 100,000 Troops Enroute to Hunan, Now Infested By Brigands.

BANDITS UNWORRIED.

French and Japanese Gunboat Have Sharp Encounter With Communists.

SHANGHAI, China, Nov. 3. — The Nationalist Government of to-day apparently was translating into action its promise to exterminate communism and banditry from China.

More than 100,000 infantrymen were en route to Hunan to rid the infested regions of these brigands.

A squadron of bombing planes, well equipped with bombs, was despatched to Nanchang, the capital of Kiangsi, to help dislodge the Communists.

Gunboats Sent Out.

Several gunboats were en route to Tungting, and Poyang Lakes in Hunan and Kiangsi, respectively. Bandits have been active for many weeks on the shores of these important inland waters.

President Chaiang Kai-Shek, a fortnight ago, announced the government would take steps to suppress communism. That his announcement was not an idle boast was indicated by the wholesale movement of troops, planes and warships toward Kiangsi and Hunan and by statements of various Government officials on Week-end visits to Shanghai.

Authorities claimed 35,000 soldiers already had entered Hunan province through Hankow, while 80,000 had entered Kiangsi through Kiukiang, and other cities farther up the Yangste river. The troops were preparing to proceed southward in three columns, hoping to sweep the provinces clear of outlaws, the officials said.

Pillaging Continues.

Brigands continue pillaging and killing, however, apparenlty unworried by this government threat. Advices from outlying Hunan and Kiangsi

DRAGOONS HONOR THEIR NOBLE DEAD AT FINE SERVICE

B Squadron Third Prince of Wales Dragoons Holds Memorial Service.

MANY VETERANS PRESENT.

Impressive Ceremony Performed Before Cenotaph Before Parade to Church.

(Examiner Staff Reporter)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 2.—The entire populace of this community was united on Sunday afternoon, in a common act of homage and remembrance to the sons of Millbrook and district, who left the peace and security of their homes in response to the clarion call of war, in the unforgettable world struggle which was brought to a conclusion on November 11th, 1918; and who found a last resting place on the fields of France and Flanders or on some other foreign battle front.

Drawn up around the Cenotaph were members of B Squadron, in full stretch under the command of Major M. R. Sloan, a strong, detachment of ex-service men of Millbrook and Peterborough branches of the Canadian Legion; C. Company of the Durham Regiment under Major A. Thorne, O.C.; Millbrook High School Cadets, in command of Captain H. Gray, and representatives of the Peterborough Rangers, whose band was in attendance in charge of Lieut. W. H. Peryer and officers of No. 3 Company, 4th, Battalion Canadian Machine Gun Corps; also officers of other squadrons of the Prince of Wales' Dragoons.

Service at Memorial

Simplicity added to the impressiveness of the short service, which was conducted by the Rev. P. W. A. Roberts of St. Thomas' Anglican Church. Following the opening prayers, Major C. H. Stewart, O.C H.Q. wing placed a wreath at the base of the memorial, on behalf of the officers, N.C.O.'s and men of the Dragoons; while A. Gash in charge of the Peterborough detachment of ex-servicemen performed a similar act of remembrance, on behalf of the returned men.

Prayers were then led by Captain the Rev. Mr. Kingsford, chaplain of the Northumberland Regiment, who was overseas with the R.A.F., while the large crowd stood with bared heads, under the leaden sky of a November afternoon.

The Rev. Mr. Roberts in calling upon Colonel J. W. Miller, V.D., grand old veteran of the Riel Rebellion and American Civil War, expressed regret at the unavoidable absence of Colonel Chas. Ackerman and Capt. James Abraham, president of the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Legion. He later made reference to the absence owing to other engagements of the Rev. J. D.

INCREASED TRADE WITH AUSTRALIA LOOMING BRIGHT

Minister of Markets Will Visit Dominion to Continue Efforts After Parley.

WANTS WOOL, WINE OUTLET

Prominent South Africans Urging Better Trade Relations.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 3 (By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Correspondent).—Increased trade between Canada and Australia, and between Canada and South Africa, has been the subject of conversations between representatives of the three Dominions here for the Imperial Conference.

When the curtain is rung down on the Imperial Conference—it is now expected to conclude about Nov. 11—Hon. Parker Moloney, Australian Minister of Markets, will return home by way of Canada. He will continue with the Canadian Government the conversations on development of inter-Dominion trade opened in London with Hon. H. H. Stevens, Canadian Minister of Trade and Commerce, when the Imperial Conference itself opened a month ago.

Better Wool Market

The first fruits of the conversations were announcement of an arrangement whereby Australia undertakes not to dump any butter on the Canadian market. Australia hopes to secure a better market in Canada for her wool, and also an opening for her wines, giving in return preferences on Canadian manufactures.

On the Canadian side it is felt much can be done to develop inter-Dominion trade. Considerable Australian wool that now goes to Canada through New York might go to the Dominion direct. The purpose of encouraging direct shipments of Australian wool would be to give a stimulus alike to trade via Canadian ports, and to the Canadian woollen industry.

Hon. Mr. Moloney will also meet representatives of the British West Indies administration on his return to Australia.

And prominent South Africans now in London are urging the mutual advantage of better trading arrangements between Canada and South Africa. South Africa wants a wider market for her wines. She is urging that with the improving standard of living of her black population, greater opportunities will be available for Canadian wheat.

CONVICT KILLED AS FOUR BATTLE

Warden Wounded in Foiling Sing-Sing Delivery Saturday.

MURDER CHARGES LIKELY.

OSSINGTON, N.Y., Nov. 3.—Three Sing Sing prisoners were in solitary confinement to-day, facing possible murder charges. A fourth was dead, and prison authorities were conducting an investigation of Saturday night's unsuccessful attempt by the four to shoot their way out of prison.

Meanwhile keepers searched 2,230 convicts and their cells in an attempt to determine whether any others had guns. They found none, but in a cell block they discovered a hook and long rope similar to those the four men used in an effort to scale the wall.

Toronto Jews Decry Policy In Palestine

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 3 — More than 3,000 members of the Jewish community here packed Massey Hall Saturday night in a mass meeting to protest against the British Government's recently adopted policy in Palestine.

Samuel Factor, only Liberal M.P. from Toronto, addressing the meeting, said the British policy would have an echo in the form of a protest in the next session of the Canadian Parliament.

VESSEL OVERDUE IN LAKE SUPERIOR

Freighter Bradley Unreported Since Leaving Ashland Last Week.

HAS NO WIRELESS.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Nov. 3. (CP)—Reports that the Bradley of the O. W. Blodgett Line, of Bay City, was missing in Lake Superior, were circulating in local marine circles to-day.

The reports followed the statement by Lighthouse Keeper Miller of Michipicoten Island, who said he watched a craft, with her decks awash, attempting to make her way to Quebec Harbor. It was first believed the ship was the Ashbay of the Tree Line Navigation Company, but with the locking of the Ashbay yesterday, it was found the steamer had been forced to seek shelter from storms for two days.

The Bradley left Ashland sometime last week for Sault Ste. Marie and no trace of her has since been reported. The description of the lumber carrier tallies with that of the boat reported in distress by Miller, who attempted to make his way to her but was forced by the heavy seas to return to his house. The Bradley carries no wireless. It was reported at the canal this morning that she was several days overdue.

HON. CHURCHILL DECRIES POLICY ON PALESTINE

Charges Government With Reversing Trend Toward Zionism.

INTERPRETS MANDATE.

Says Britain Must Return it to League if Obligations Not Carried Out.

LONDON, Nov. 3 (C.P.)—There are four milestones or signposts in British policy toward Zionism and Palestine, and the question which has now arisen is whether they all point the same way. The first of these signposts was erected when on the 2nd of November, 1917, the late Lord Balfour addressed to Lord Rothschild the letter known as "The Balfour Declaration." "His Majesty's Government," wrote the British Foreign Secretary, "view with favor the establishment in Palestine of a national home for Jewish people and will use their best endeavors to facilitate achievement of this object."

The year 1917 marked perhaps the most dreary and sombre period of war. It was the time when many hitherto unswerving despaired of victory for the Allies. It was the moment when most resolute elements of the British Government sought to enlist every influence that could hold the Allied and associated nations to their task. The Zionist movement throughout the world was actively pro-Ally, and in a special sense pro-British. Nowhere was this movement more noticeable than in the United States and upon the active share of the United States in the bloody struggle which was impending rested a large proportion of our hopes. The able leaders of the Zionist movement and their widespread branches exercised an appreciable influence upon American opinion and that influence—like the Jewish influence generally—was steadily cast in our favor. Throughout the world of Allied nations, Jews (Zionist and non-Zionist alike) sympathized with the Allies and worked for the success of Great Britain and the close co-operation with Great Britain of the United States.

Regarded as Promise

The Balfour Declaration must, therefore, not be regarded as a promise given from sentimental motives; it was a practical measure taken in the interests of a common cause at a moment when that cause could afford to neglect no factor of material or moral assistance.

The second milestone was the acceptance in 1919 of the Palestinian mandate by Great Britain upon certain express terms. Article Two, the prime and fundamental article, states "The mandatory shall be responsible for placing the country under such political administrative and economic conditions as will secure the establishment of the Jewish national home, as laid down in the preamble, and the development of self-governing institutions, and also for safeguarding the civil and religious rights of all inhabitants in Palestine, irrespective of race or religion." The dual obliga-

R-101 STARTED ILL-FATED TRIP ON UNEVEN KEEL ENGINEER STATES

Court of Inquiry Held Tense as Ghastly Story is Unfolded.

Ship Did Not Break in Air.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 3 (C.P.). — J. H. Binks, engineer, and one of the survivors of the R-101 disaster, today told the special court of inquiry into the loss of the dirigible that the ship did not leave her mooring mast on an even keel at the start of the tragic voyage to India.

Three Tanks Released.

The engineer said that the R-101 seemed to fall at the stern as she left the tower, and three water ballasts had to be released. It is not unusual to release water ballasts, but it seemed abnormal to him to release three, although he did not think that anything was wrong except that the ship seemed very heavy.

Binks is still under hospital treatment after his escape. He gave his testimony with difficulty, and showed the stress of great emotion as he recalled the horror of the last minutes of the trip. Once during his testimony Sir John Simon, chairman of the court, halted proceedings for a few moments to allow him to regain control of himself.

Most of Binks' testimony was in the form of a prepared statement which was read to the court.

Ghastly Story.

In the plain language of the mechanic he unfolded a ghastly story such as is seldom heard at an inquiry of this kind. An atmosphere of tenseness hovered over the court as the story reached its climax of the crash and explosion.

"I turned to Artie Bell," the court heard, "and I said to him, 'It looks like it's all up, Artie.' Then the flames burst around us, and the water tanks broke. We were almost drowned, but that flood probably saved our lives."

Arthur Bell was another of the engineering crew of the dirigible. He was on duty with Binks on that last night. He also testified to-day.

Another witness was Major J. P. C. Cooper, inspector of accidents for the Air Ministry. He told the court that his examination of the wreckage gave "no grounds at all" for supposing that the big dirigible broke to pieces in the air.

Wide Trail of Damage Follows European Storm

LONDON, England, Nov. 3 (C.P.)—A wide trail of damage with several lives lost, many injured and a considerable property loss was left to-day over Western Europe and England by a storm which lashed and twisted up from the Atlantic.

The velocity of the wind varied varied from 30 to 70 miles an hour, but it was sometimes tornado-like in its actions and ripped off roofs, twisted trees from the ground, broke down tiepehone wires and turned over motor cars.

Thunder, lightning and a deluge of rain accompanied the storm, and many houses were flooded. There were enormous seas. The steamer Isle of Thanet from Folkestone to Boulogne was severely battered in its passage, its bridge partly demolished, and two seamen injured.

GREAT WINDSOR-DETROIT TUNNEL OFFICIALLY OPENED TO TRAFFIC

Three Modes of International Travel Available For First Time in History.

PRE-INSPECTION STARTED.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 3 (C.P.) — For the first time in history, motorists and pedestrians to-day had three separate modes of international travel between Detroit and the Caandian border cities.

The opening at 12.01 a.m. to-day of the Detroit-Windsor vehicular tunnel marked the second important advance in travel facilities within a year. On November 11, 1929, the Ambassador Bridge was opened. Ferries until that time had been the only means of motor and pedestrial movement across the Detroit River.

2,000 Cars Per Hour

The tunnel, with a capacity of 1,000 motor cars each way per hour and with busses operating on regular schedules, was used by several hundred persons during the first few hours of operation.

The underwater route created more work for the Immigration and Customs services on both sides of the river but presented no new problems in the prevention of smuggling of contraband. One Customs and Immigration innovation was inaugurated. During the "rush hours" United States officers this morning inspected passengers on the Canadian side in order that certain busses might proceed directly through the tunnel and to the Detroit City Hall without being stopped at the Detroit entrance.

Pre-Inspection Inaugurated.

This is the first time that pre-inspection has been attempted for bus travel, although it has been customary on trains for several years. In discussing the procedure Colonel Heinrich A. Pickert, collector of customs at Detroit, said that he is hopeful of success, but that operation of the plan depends entirely on the cooperation of persons willing to be examined by officers alien to the soil on which they are working

Asked what would be done if a person examined in Canada were found in the possession of contraband; he said that the officers could do no more than forbid them to enter a pre-inspected bus. Under the rules governing this pre-inspection only persons holding immigration identification cards may ride on the 'through' busses.

All Cars Stopped.

Other busses and all privately owned cars are stopped at the United States entrance to the tunnel for examination by immigration and customs officers in the same manner as those coming by ferry or bridge.

The opening of the tunnel was marked by a rush for honors of being "first."

In the fourth car from this side rode Ole Simgstadt, chief engineer of the Holand tunnel in New York, who was consulting engineer during the two years the $25,000,000 tube was under construction here.

HEPPLESTON, SHUTT REMANDED IN CUSTODY TO AWAIT SENTENCE; J. W. WRAY OUT ON $15,000 BAIL

Defense Counsel Asks Trial Postponement Owing to Present Public Opinion.

PRESS EDITORIALS READ.

Remaining Counts Held Over Till Stobie Forlong Officials' Trial.

TORONTO, Ont., November 3 (C.P.). — Pleading guilty to a charge of conspiracy to defraud the public, James E. Hepleston and W. T. H. Shutt, general manager and secretary-treasurer respectively, of the stock brokerage firm of Arthur E. Moysey & Company, were remanded in custody for sentence.

John W. Wray, a bookkeeper of the firm, who was charged with similar counts, was again released on bail of $15,000 to allow time for his case to be considered.

Postponement Asked

Before pleading guilty to the charge of conspiracy to defraud the public, T. N. Phelan, K.C., on behalf of Hepleston, who is jointly charged with Shutt and Wray, made application for a postponement in trial, urging that it was impossible for these brokers to obtain a fair trial in view of the present state of public opinion as reflected in newspaper editorials.

Mr. Phelan read copies of editorials from Toronto papers which, he said, expressed the feeling of the public in regard to sentences imposed in previous convictions and that this would perhaps tend to affect the opinion of the jury.

W. N. Tilley, K.C., special Crown Prosecutor, explained that he must have time to consider the question of proceeding with remaining counts against the two brokers and suggested that the matter could be held over until the trial of Malcolm Stobie and other officials of the firm of Stobie, Forlong and Company on similar charges had been completed.

ROTARIANS ARE TOLD OF CAREER OF BIRKENHEAD

Rotarian V. J. McElderry Tells Colorful Story of Great British Lawyer and Statesman.

A BRILLIANT MIND.

Rose From Nothing and at 46 Became Lord Chancellor of England.

The romantic story of the rise to fame of Lord Birkenhead, one of the greatest minds and most colorful personalities in modern British history, was related to members of the Peterborough Rotary Club to-day by Rotarian V. J. McElderry, K.C., whose recital was followed with keen interest by Rotarians.

Rotarian McElderry prefaced his address by referring briefly to the lives of Birkenhead's grandfather, an auctioneer in Liverpool, and his father, who after rising to the rank of sergeant-major in the British army, prepared himself for and was called to the British Bar.

Birkenhead's story, the speaker said, could be summed up in a sentence: "He became Lord Chancellor of England at the age of 46 years"; but back of that achievement was a fascinating history of how a young man starting with nothing, had climbed to the top of the ladder both in law and in politics. The speaker told of F. E. Smith's success in winning a scholarship at Oxford, his brilliant showing at that university, his triumph in the Guinea Gold Tobacco Company cases and other celebrated legal actions, his defence of Goudy at the Old Bailey which made him famous overnight, his noteworthy oratory attracting the attention of Joseph Chamberlain in his first political campaign, his maiden speech in Parliament which knitted together the disheartened Conservative minority and made Smith a national figure, and many other striking instances in the life of Birkenhead that illustrated his ability, the keenness of his mind and the courage and audacity which distinguished his career from beginning to end. Birkenhead always admitted that he was an adventurer and argued that every man who started from nothing and had ambition to succeed was necessarily an adventurer.

Past President Ross L. Dobbin expressed the thanks of Rotary to Rotarian McElderry, remarking that the club was fortunate in having in its ranks members who could deliver such addresses as that given to-day by Rotarian McElderry and last week by Rotarian Rev. Dr. McLean, who spoke on "Arabia."

EMPIRE TRIBUNAL WILL BE SET UP

Jurisdiction Limited to Disputes Between Govt's, Parley Heads Decide.

NON-PERMANENT BODY.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 3.—(By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Correspondent.)—A new Empire tribunal is to be established to arbitrate justifiable disputes between the Dominions. This, it is understood, was the decision of the heads of delegations to the Imperial Conference, reached at a meeting at No. 10 Downing street, this morning.

To-day's decision has to be ratified by a plenary session of the Imperial Conference but this is largely a formality.

The new Appeal Court will not replace judicial appeals to the Privy Council. Its jurisdiction will be limited to disputes between Governments. Whereas appeals to the Privy Council are largely disputes between individuals.

Consists of 5 Members.

The tribunal will be a non-permanent, special body created for each dispute and disappearing so soon as each dispute is settled. It will consist of five members appointed as follows:

(1) The first two members appointed, one by each party to the dispute, not necessarily persons holding judicial offices.

2) The second two members to be appointed, one on each side, from persons who have held high judicial offices or are distinguished jurists.

(3) The chairman, to be appointed by the first four named members, not necessarily a jurist.

The parties to the dispute may, if they desire, also appoint assessors. All members of the court must be citizen of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

PILOT GIVING 2 GIRLS A THRILL FAILS TO BRING SHIP FROM ROLL WHILE STUNTING NEAR TORONTO

H. Tegart, Tottenham, Jean and Kathleen McColl, Inglewood, Trapped in Flames.

OFFICIAL PROBE OPENED.

Fliers From Nearby Drome Succeed in Quenching Flames —Bodies Unrecognizable.

TORONTO, Ont., November 3 (C.P.). — An offical inquiry is to be conducted to-day into the air crash near here on Sunday which cost three lives. It is the general opinion of airmen that Pilot Harry Tegart, of Tottenham, Ontario, was flying at too low an altitude while stunting, it is believed, to give two girl passengers a flying thrill. No reason for the airplane's sudden crash, beyond that of stunting, could be advanced by police, Militia officials, or the eye-witnesses.

Trapped in Flames.

The two girl occupants of the passenger seat in the large Fokairn biplane, Misses Jean and Kathleen McColl, Toronto, were ardent aviation enthusiasts, and seldom missed a chance to go aloft. Like the pilot's their bodies were charred beyond recognition by the flames which covered the ship, nose to tail, almost the instant it struck the ground.

Several people about the Toronto airdrome port saw the plane in its fatal dive, but it burned fully 15 minutes before the fire was extinguished by "Red" Murray and Charlie Dingwall, two pilots who saw the machine crash in a sideslip and hurride to the spot by motor car.

Tegart, who has been known for his daring since youth, was considered an expert pilot and was employed by the Colonial Airways to fly the mail between Toronto and Buffalo To-day a pilot from Montreal will be at the controls of Tegart's mail plane.

Pilot Stunting

According to eye-witnesses Tegart had been up little more than ten minutes with his girl companions when the accident occurred. At first he performed a number of barrel-rolls at an altitude of about 500 feet. The plane, it is said, started its fatal descent from one of these rolls. It was seen to pitch in an erratic course from about 300 feet and when within 75 feet of the ground, banked steeply, side-slipped and crashed on its left side. In the next instant the craft and its human cargo were enveloped in flames from the oil, the gasoline and the body structure of the ship. The few persons nearby made futile efforts to get near the blazing craft to effect a rescue but were driven back by the flames, and the human pyre had to be left to burn itself out.

Officials Visit Scene

Coroner W. G. McCormack, police officials; Colonel D. R. Joy, District Inspector of Civil Aviation, and other officials of the Department of National Defense, visited the scene of the wreck shortly after the crash.

Col. Joy declared that while he had not received all the facts, from what he had heard "The pilot was playing the giddy goat." He expressed the opinion the Press should emphasize that stunting is the cause of virtually all aviation accidents such as this one. Col. Joy will preside at the enquiry.

The sisters, who are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald McColl, Inglewood, Ontario, had resided here for some time. Jean was a teacher in a Scarboro Township public school, while Kathleen, aged 19, five years younger than her sister, was a stenographer for a local brokerage firm.

Would Have Bennett Speak On December 2

TORONTO, November 3. — Tentative plans have been made by the Ontario Liberal Conservative Association to have Premier G. H. Ferguson and Premier R. B. Bennett make their first public statements on the Imperial Conference and Canadian and Provincial affairs in relation to the Motherland and the Empire at the ninth annual meeting of the Association to be held here on December 2nd.

John R. MacNicol, M.P., for Toronto Northwest, and President of the Association, has announced both the Canadian and Ontario Prime Ministers have accepted invitations to be present at the conclave.

CANADA MENACED BY PACT TERMS

U. of T. Professor Claims Dominion Lost Protection of British Fleet.

U. S. WOULD BLOCK PORTS.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 3 (C.P.). — Under the new doctrine of naval parity between Great Britain and the United States, Canada no longer enjoys the protection of the British fleet, Professor George M. Wrong of the University of Toronto told the Canadian Club here.

In the event of war, he said, Canada could expect little support from the British Navy, because the United States navy would be of the same strength and close at hand. This would mean Canadian ports would be blockaded and a United States army could easily take possession of the important centres of Canada. For this reason military strategists now thought Canada should declare neutrality in the event of war with the United States.

GERMAN DOCTOR FINDS STOMACH GAS REMEDY

With a simple mixture of glycerin, buckthorn bark, saline, etc., Dr. Carl Weschcke has relieved cases of gas bloating which nothing else would help. His mixture, called Adlerika, acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel while other remedies act on lower bowel only. The quick and gentle action of Adlerika for gas and constipation is astonishing. BROKERS GUILTY ON TWO CHARGES

Paterson and Campbell Granted $134,000 Bail Pending Appeal.

EDGAR McLEAN CLEARED.

TORONTO, November 3. — A verdict of guilty was brought in by the jury after deliberating three and a half hours in the case of D. S. Paterson and Austin Campbell on charges of conspiracy to defraud and affect the price of stocks at the conclusion of their trial here. Edgar McLean was acquitted on similar charges. All three have yet to stand trial on a charge of gaming in stocks. McLean was allowed bail of $25,000.

The two convicted men filed notice of appeal on Saturday and were successful in obtaining bail from Chief Justice Sir William Mulock pending the outcome of their appeal. Bail was set at $75,000 for Paterson and $59,000 for Campbell. Prior to their trial they were on bail of $50,000 each.

Frederic March, Paramount player, has purchased acreage at Westport, Conn., where he will erect a home.

The Weather

While there have been a few light showers, such as occurred last night, the rainfall as a whole is away under the average. During October it only amounted to 1.04, being less than one-half the usual amount. The month was a little warmer than usual, had fewer days of sunshine, and much less rain than average. Particularly fine weather occurred from about the 11th to 16th. According to old pioneer farmers winter never sets in until the fall rains have filled the swamps to overflowing. And these rains have yet to come.—W. P.

TELLS HOW FAT MEN CAN LOSE HALF-A-POUND A DAY

Whilst Gaining Energy, Vigor, Endurance

Here's a simple way to get rid of that corporation and quickly feel in both body and mind the joy of living.

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common-sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves. This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape, and fill you with vigor and tireless energy you'd almost forgotten had existed.

The urge for activity will be so marked that even at the end of a hard day's work you'll feel ready for any social activity or recreation—you can play as hard as you work.

And after two weeks your excess flesh starts to go—you'll know it—feel it—see it—the scales will tell the story.

As one once-corpulent man remarked —"I feel so energetic that I want to 'get up with the lark,' and I'm just as lively as a cricket."

It's the safe way, too—for every day you continue this easy method of losing unwanted and unneeded flesh, you'll gain in energy, vigor and endurance.

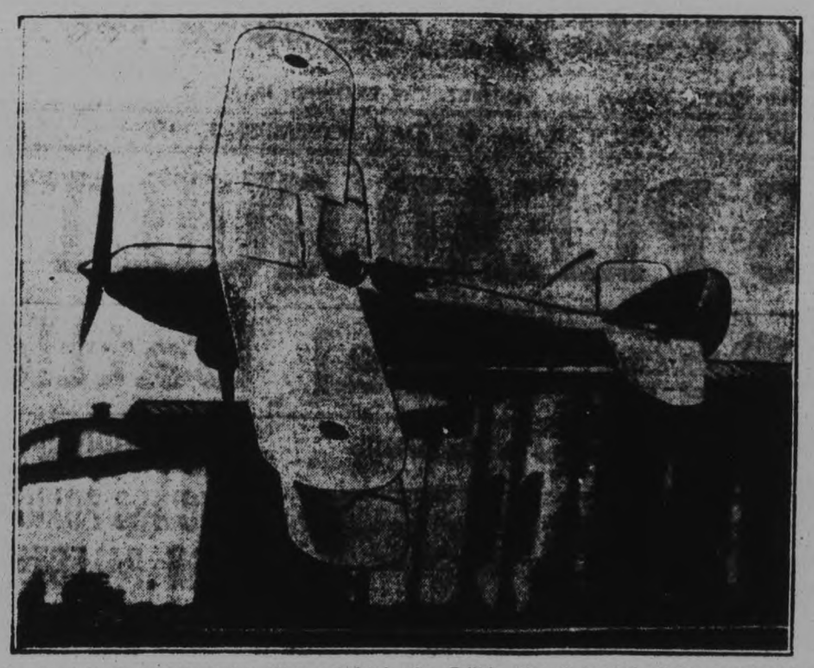
Nine times in ten obesity means inactivity—it means that your blood is starving for the six vital salts your internal organs need to keep you youthful, active, ambitious and keen in mind.

When you take Kruschen Salts every morning in a glass of hot or cold water you get these six vital salts which modern foods and cooking do not supply.

Kruschen Salts is a real system conditioner and for those who are the victims of constipation or toxemia, its daily use soon means blissful regularity.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

New Fighting Planes for Royal Air Force



The Royal Air Force of England is making important changes in the equipment of their fighting aeroplanes, it was announced recently. When completed, the British Air Force will be far advanced over all others. The Hawker Hart is one of the special types of aeroplane which will be used. It has a top speed of 180 miles per hour at 10,000 feet. Photo shows a striking view of one of the Hawker Harts in flight.

TOLEDO HUNTERS FEARED DROWNED

Dog, Paddle and Sodden Duffle Found on Shore of Koshoe Lake.

POLICE INVESTIGATING.

TORONTO, Ont. November 3 (C.P.). — Daniel Moffatt, 52, and Richrad Young, 42, both residents of Toledo, Ohio, are believed to have perished in the waters of Koshoe Lake, 33 miles north of here. Word reached here on Sunday of the disappearance of the men, the finding of a dog whimpering on the shore, and discovery of a paddle and a sodden heap of duffle.

On receipt of the word the men had vanished, Provincial Constable Charles H. Knight left for Bolger, a tiny hamlet on the shores of the lake Before departing he said there seemed little reason to doubt a double drowning had occurred.

"From my information," he said, "the Americans arrived at Ardbeg two miles south of Bolger, late last Friday, and were last seen at Bolger heading out into the lake toward their camp on its farther shore. Their canoe was heavily loaded, I am told and carried a dog as well as the two men and their duffle.

"On Saturday morning," the constable proceeded, "after twelve hours of strong wind which whipped the little lake into rough water, a guide James Brownell of Bolger, and his brothers found one paddle, the dog and the luggage on the shore. Later some one found the canoe, I am told It looks as though they have been drowned, but until I have arrived and investigated I cannot be sure.

RAMPANT GUSHER FINALLY CHECKED

Giant Nipple Anchored Over Mouth Halts Menace to Oklahoma.

RIVER IS FIRED.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 3 (C.P.) —A great iron die nipple connection late yesterday was anchored into place over the volcono-like casing of the rampant No. 1 C. E. Stout gusher of the Morgan Petroleum Company Master gates were closed and the well, a mile from the centre of Oklahoma City's busiest corner, was tamed.

But before the Stout well bowed to the will of the workers the last gesture of its fury emerged seven miles downstream in the oil-covered North Canadian River, on the south bank of which the gusher is located. Fire broke out in the stream and great clouds of black smoke could be seen for miles.

Only a small area, however, was burning, the river current checked the progress of the fire upstream, while it burned itself out in the other direction.

Duffus Inspects Plant Of the General Motors

J. J. Duffus, President and General Manager of J. J. Duffus Limited, has just returned from an official visit to General Motors Products of Canada Limited, Oshawa, where he had the opportunity of going through the entire office and plant of this mammoth manufacturing institution.

He will be glad to accompany to Oshawa any person or persons who desire the privilege of visiting the plant at any time.

Mr. Duffus says the people of this part of Ontario should be extremely proud that such an outstanding Canadian automobile concern is here in our midst.

As an evidence of how the new 1931 Straight 8 McLaughlin-Buick has been accepted by the buying public, during the month of August in the City of Toronto 114 new Buicks were sold and delivered, while a total of 116 cars were sold of all other makes in the same price class.

On account of the proximity of the factory, the outstanding quality of McLaughlin-Buick Straight 8, Pontiac Big 6, and G.M.C. Trucks together with the price range whereby the McLaughlin-Buick Straight 8 Four Door Sedan can be purchased for $1490, fully equipped and delivered to the customer and the substantial reduction in the Big 6 Pontiac, he expects that J. J. Duffus Limited will enjoy a splendid volume of business next year.

OVERDUE 3 DAYS ASHBAY IS SAFE

Officials of Opinion Michipicoten Wreck Must Have Been Mirage.

COASTGUARDS RETURN.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Nov. 3 (C.P.)—The steamer Ashbay of the Tree Line Navigation Company of Montreal, which left Port Arthur Tuesday night, and was believed to be the disabled vessel sighted by Lightkeeper Miller of Michipicoten in a blizzard Thursday afternoon, passed down through the Canadian locks yesterday. Captain A. J. Houge reported at the canal that he had sheltered from rough weather and snow for two days at Keweenaw. The United States Coastguard cutter Seminole, which had been despatched to search the waters and shoreline at Michipicoten when the Ashbay was reported three days overdue here, was recalled to the Soo when a check-up revealed that the Ashbay was safe and that no other vessels are unlocated. The opinion is freely expressed here that Lightkeeper Miller must have seen a mirage, or was mistaken in the belief that he saw a vessel with her decks awash limping toward Quebec Harbor, though he reports having put out in a small boat in a vain attempt to reach her.

CANAL WILL BE FINISHED SOON

A. B. Thompson, M.P. For East Simcoe, Writes Trent Waterway Association.

PROVIDE IN ESTIMATES.

A glimmer of hope that the Trent Canal completion will be proceeded with is contained in a letter from A. B. Thompson, M. P., for East Simcoe, received at the offices of the Trent Waterway Association Saturday morning. It reads as follows: "Yours of the 31st instant to hand. I got back from Ottawa yesterday. When there I saw Dr. Manion, the Minister, and Mr. Smart, deputy minister, and Mr. Sherwood, the engineer. They are all favorable for the completion of the canal, but they seem to think that a deputation would be of no avail, as the policy is to provide in the estimates a yearly sum of somewhere around $300,000 until the work is completed. Dr. Manion said that he would see a deputation if necessary, but there was no money available now, and nothing could be done until the estimates come up next time.

The letter is somewhat ambiguous. The present annual appropriation for the Trent Canal is in the neighborhood of $300,000, and the point arises: Does the letter intend to convey the suggestion that a further sum of $300,000 annually is to be placed in the estimates for construction work?

The present appropriation, it is learned, from officials of the Trent Waterway Association here, only provides for the cost of maintenance, and would not allow of any extensive construction work being forwarded.

Mr Thmopson, wh was present at the recent annual meeting of the Trent Waterway Association, held at Midland, sought the interview with Dr. Manion at the request of the meeting.

YOUTHS HAVE CLOSE ESCAPE

Car Driven By George Aboud in Accident on Norwood-Hastings Road.

OCCUPANTS UNINJURED.

HAVELOCK, Nov. 3 (Examiner Correspondence).—Two Havelock boys had a narrow escape from serious injury on Saturday afternoon on the Norwood-Hastings road, just about a mile out of Norwood, when the car, driven by George Aboud, turned over in the ditch. Aboud was driving south towards Hastings, at a high rate of speed, when he tried to pass a car being driven in the same direction. Before the other driver had a chance to turn out, and to avoid a pending collision, he swerved to the side. The steering gear broke, and the car, just missing a telegraph pole by a hair's breadth, went into the ditch, swung round, and came to rest on its side, half on the road, the back end in the ditch. The windshield was shattered, the steering wheel and both front wheels broken and the door smashed. The driver and his companion, Francis Voyer, both escaped without a scratch but badly shaken up. The car was taken to the garage at Norwood, where extensive repairs will be necessary to put it in running condition.

FRANKFORD L.O.L. ELECTS OFFICERS

Five Ladies in L.O.B.A. Elevated to Scarlet Degree—Open Meeting Held.

SPECIAL SPEAKERS PRESENT

MARMORA, November 3 (Examiner Correspondence). — Frankford L.O.L. 240 came to the fore on Saturday in that it is the first Orange Lodge over a very large district to have conducted its election of officers.

After the regular business had been transacted the Worshipful Master Bro. Delbert Rose called upon Wor. Bro. Edgar Morrow to occupy the chair for the election of officers. The following were duly elected:

Worshipful Master—Manley Maybee; Deputy Master—Cecil Frost; Chaplain—Rev. Doggett; Recording Secretary—Cecil Palmer; Financial Secretary—Harry Slingerland; Treasurer—Albert Caskey; Director of Ceremonies—Fred Palmer; 1st Lecturer—E. A. Gordon; 2nd Lecturer—Murney Wickens; Committee—John Rogers, George Wood, Wallace Hubble, George Frost, and Archie Rogers. Inside Tyler—Morley Wadsworth; Auditors—Harry Slingerland and Wilmot Rose.

Visiting brethren were present from Marmora and Springbrook Lodges.

Five Given Scarlet Degree.

At the same time as the Orange Lodge was in session the Frankford L.O.B.A., whose lodge room is in the same building, were also holding an auspicious meeting. Five members of the L.O.B.A., including two from Harmony L.O.B.A. 600, were elevated to the Scarlet degree in a most impressive manner. At the conclusion of the meeting the ladies repaired to the men's lodge room, uniting in an open meeting, which was splendidly addressed by the special speaker of the evening, Bro. Rev Doggett.

Wor. Bro. W. J. Cottrell, who was also present, gave a short address. Refreshments were served before the gathering dispersed.

SUCCESSFUL MATCH HELD BY PLOUGHMEN

Association Wishes to Thank All Those Who Made 1930 Event Such a Success.

The officers and directors of the Peterborough County Ploughmen's Association have now completed the details in connection with the ploughing match held on the 23rd instant which goes down in history as most successful.

Peterborough County Ploughmen's Association, and the farmers of the county generally, are heartily grateful to all those who contributed to the wonderful success of the 1930 match.

They are especially thankful to Peterborough County Council who subscribe annually the sum of $150, and to all those who donated goods and cash for prizes; to the farmers who supplied approximately twenty-five teams of horses; to Mr. Will Hayes, of Douro, and his committee for procuring and looking after the teams; to the ladies of the township who supplied delicious meals at very moderate cost; to Mr. and Mrs. Roger Maloney who so willingly gave their home and farm for the use of the match, which greatly added to its success.

The officers of the Association are as follows: President, J. J. Duffus; vice-president, H. Webber, R.R. No. 3, Peterborough; second vice-president, Howard Quinn R.R. No. 9, Peterborough; secretary-treasurer, J. B. Nelson; assistant secretary, R. R. Dixon, No. 8, Peterborough.

Directors—Otonabee: Syd. Bennett, No. 11, Peterborough, and John C. O'Brien, Indian River. Smith: Henry Coons, No. 3, Lakefield; Harry Grant, No. 2, Peterborough. N. Monaghan: R. T. Lillico, No. 3, Peterborough; E. Kelk, No. 5, Peterborough. Ennismore: Jas. Crough, Ennismore; W. D Cavenagh, Ennismore. Douro: Will Hayes, No. 4, Lakefield; Vernon Campbell, No. 9, Peterborough. ARREST SPOILS POLICE THEORY

Mythical Dual Personality Proves to be Two Men, Not Pat Norton.

GELLER, A BEGINNER.

TORONTO, Nov. 3. — Although high Toronto police officials have insisted for two months that George Geller and Pat Norton were one and the same crook, and have concentrated their efforts towards apprehension of this "master mind," the arrest of Geller in New York on Saturday has definitely split the fabulous dual personality.

George Geller is wanted in connection with the Durable Waterproof payroll hold up on Adelaide street early in September. Thinking that "Geller" was just another of Norton's many aliases, the Toronto police expected with the arrest of Geller to clear up the nine year o'' Melbourne Ont., bank robbery and murder, for which Norton has been sought since 1931. They know now, however, that Norton is still at large and that in Geller they have taken a rank beginner, 20 years younger than Norton, whom they rate as an accomplished criminal.

HOUDE ATTACKED BY TASCHEREAU

Premier Claims Montreal Mayor Has Brought City Near Disaster.

DEFENDS FISCAL POLICIES.

LOUISVILLE, Que., Nov. 3 (C.P.).—Premier L. A. Taschereau rose in defence of the fiscal policies of the Liberal party, and directed a few barbed shafts at Camillien Houde, Mayor of Montreal, and Opposition leader in the Provincial House, when he addressed an overflow meeting here yesterday, in support of Louis Joseph Thiseel, Liberal candidate in the Maskinonge by-election on Tuesday.

The Premier was bitter on the subject of Camillien Houde, leader of the Conservatives. "He tries by the disreputable means of scandal to rob our Government Ministers and candidates of a man's dearest possession, his good name, his reputation," said Hon. Mr. Taschereau.

"He wants to change the Government," continued the Premier. "Well, my friends, you can look at Montreal to see what a Houde administration looks like. In six months he has brought Montreal to near disaster," Mr. Taschereau said. "Blind pigs, prostitution and similar vices operating openly."

QUEENSBORO, Nov. 3.—The Ladies Aid of the United Church held their October meeting at the home of Mrs. Zara Bristol, on Thursday afternoon with a large attendance, there being seventeen members and three visitors present. Mrs. Fred Rollins, the president, occupied the chair and opened the meeting with singing, 'Take my life and let it be." The Lord's prayer was repeated in unison. The scripture lesson was read from Psalm twenty three, by the president. Mr. Everson reported that the light at the outside of the church could not very well be repaired and suggested the purchasing of a lantern to take its place. The matter of a supper was discussed and finally it was decided to make a canvas for straight giving instead, a number of ladies volunteered to give five dollars each. Mrs. Charles Thompson and Mrs. Zara Bristol were appointed to canvas the West and South and Mrs. John O'Rorke and Mrs. Bruce Leslie were to take the East and North. It was decided to hold the annual bazzar on Friday, November 28th. The following committees were appointed, decorating, Misses Emma Lynn, Jennie Thompson and Marion Love; for the booth, Mrs. Charles Thompson, Mrs. George Glover, Mrs. John O'Rorke, Miss Jennie Thompson and Fred Rollins; orange tree, Mrs. William Cassidy and Mrs. Harry Tokley; music, Mrs. Everson and Miss Marion Love. Mrs. Everson was given two dollars to purchase articles for the Orange Tree. The following donations were received for the bazaar, Mrs. Zara Bristol, a five o'clock tea cloth; Miss Emma Lynn, a buffet set; Mrs. Miles Dyer, a pin cushion; Mrs. Harry DeClair, a sofa cushion; Mrs. George Glover a fancy tea apron and Mrs. John O'Rorke an apron. The next meeting is to be held on November 27th at the home of Mrs. Miles Dyer. The meeting was closed with prayer by the Rev. J. F. Everson. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

Oshawa Man Arrested For Setting Mystery Fires

OSHAWA, Ont., Nov. 3 (CP.) — Henry Wilson, widower, has been arrested by Provincial Police, who believe they have solved the mystery of the numerous fires in the village of Harmony, one mile from here, during the last few weeks.

Wilson, police say, was caught redhanded in the act of setting fire to a barn located on an estate on the Kingston Highway where several of the mysterious fires have occurred. Two hours previously a fire broke out in a barn on the premises but neighbors managed to extinguish it.

Annal Masquerade Held At Stirling

STIRLING, Nov. 3.—The members of the Women's Institute held their annual Hallowe'en concert on Thursday evening in the hall when the proceeds amounted to $109.50.

An excellent program was presented, the children singing three opening numbers, "Give yourself a pat on the back", "Go home and tell your mother" and two verses of "Around the Corner," with Gerald Clute at the piano. Other numbers were: solo, Betty Conley, "The Carnival"; Mrs. F. Jeffrey and Father Farrell, "When Irish Eyes are Smiling", trombone solo, Tom Furnival, accompanied by Blanche Hadley; piano duet, Margaret Walt and Dorothy Jobblin; readings, Miss Smith and Mrs. Clark, of Belleville; Spanish folk dance under management of Miss K. Mundy, featured by A. Farrell, P. Shea, P. Bailey and E. Wright; short Hallowe'en play, 12 boys, with suitable southern melodies given by Mrs. C. Cain at the piano, Lois McIntosh uke, and Morris Bell, banjo, "The woman in the shoe" sung by Madeline and Marie Luery, a huge shoe large enough for 53 children occupying the centre of the stage, with Mrs. W. Anderson, acting as the mother; tableau, "Tenting to-night." The war-scarred soldiers were shown with their accompanying angels of mercy, the red cross nurses and the soldiers, (cadets) were John Munroe, Colin Fox, F. Gould, F. Jobblin, D. Ward, R. Clark; the nurses, Bertha Cranston, Margaret Walt and Etta Thompson; Lois McIntosh sang, 'Tenting to-night" accompanied by the guitar.

A dance was afterward held in the community hall and lunch was served.

The committee in charge of the entertainment included Mrs. A. Shaw, Miss J. Wescott, Mrs. A. Corrigal, Mrs. W. Whitty and Mrs. J. McGee. Music for the dance was supplied by Gerald Clute, R. Coulter and F. Furnival.

Noted British Soldier Succumbs In London

LONDON, England, November 3 (C.P.). — Lieut.-General Sir Edward Cecil Bethune died here yesterday. He was 75 years of age.

With Sir Edward's death another of Britain's foremost soldiers has gone. Edward Bethune entered the 92nd Highlanders in 1875. Twenty years later he was a major in the 16th Lancers. He raised and commanded Bethune's Horse in the Boer War, rendering conspicuous service as the head of this noted unit.

Sir Edward was appointed a Brigadier-General in 1905, a Major-General in 1908, and a Lieutenant-General in 1913. He was Director-General of the Territorial Force in the early years of the Great War.

PILES

Ended Without Cutting or Salves

Thousands of Pile sufferers have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves or cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation and strengthen the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist with a rigid money-back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's prescription has a wonderful record of success right in this city and McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID and guarantees to refund the purchase price if it does not end all Pile misery.

¶ The imposing bulk of the new Head Office Building of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada typifies strength and security in two forms:

¶ One—The impregnable foundations of the Company, reflected in over $600,000,000 of assets, in its enormous reserves and contingency funds, and in the ceaseless administration of its affairs which led the Canadian Superintendent of Insurance, Mr. G. D. Finlayson, recently, to commend "the enormous financial strength of this company, the efficiency and integrity of its officers and staff, and its scrupulous observance of the law in the conduct of its business."

¶ The other—The security and protection it affords to tens of thousands of women and children. To every right-thinking man, wife and children are his first thought; their happiness his first consideration; their security his first responsibility. A SPLENDID REPORT.

The splendid report given by Provincial Inspector C. L. McPherson as to conditions in the Peterborough Protestant Home must be a source of deep gratification to the staff and Board of Management of that fine institution as well as to the citizens generally.

"The home throughout is in excellent condition," reads the inspector's report, "and, in fact, is one of the finest homes in the Province."

Inspector McPherson refers to the discipline and management as "excellent," and adds that "the general atmosphere throughout the entire institution is most satisfactory."

"The inmates seem very happy and contented," he further comments. "There were no complaints as to dietary."

This warm praise from official sources is most satisfactory—it indicates that the home is not only being operated in an efficient and business-like way, but what is more important, it is being conducted in such a manner that the old people who are spending their last days there are "happy and contented."

That is indeed a consummation devoutly to be wished; it is not so difficult sometimes to conduct an institution economically and efficiently, but to provide an atmosphere that can be described as "most satisfactory" is something else again, and the management is to be congratulated upon having attained that happy result.

CELEBRATING HALLOWE'EN.

The fact that considerably more Hallowe'en damage than has been noticed in the last two or three years was in evidence following Friday night's celebration indicates that the curtailed community observance of this annual event did not engage the activities of the young people as effectively as did the more extensive celebrations staged by The Examiner in the past.

We believe that a community Hallowe'en on a fairly large scale is the best possible protection against damage to property and annoyance to citizens, feeling that the test made on this occasion in comparison with the showing made for several years previous amply justifies the conclusion that a general celebration is an effective outlet for the fun-making proclivities of young Peterborough.

Social service organizations in a number of Ontario cities undertook this year to stage such a celebration, and the same story comes from those centres, namely, that everybody enjoyed the program and there was little property damage done.

It is to be hoped that The Examiner, having on its own initiative and at a great deal of expense, paved the way by a successful series of Hallowe'en parades, the celebration of this occasion in the future will be staged on community lines with assistance from the various organizations and from the City Council.

It will be good insurance against property damage, and at the same time good fun.

HIGHWAY EXPENDITURES.

There are frequent references to the relationship between provincial expenditures on highways and the amount of revenue taken by provincial administrations from motor vehicle owners for licenses and gasoline taxes.

Figures just issued by the Citizens' Research Institute indicate that while the amount of such taxes is decidedly large, the expenditure on highways has been growing by leaps and bounds.

The total expenditure made by the Provincial Governments throughout Canada in 1928 on highways, including all classes of roads, colonization roads, bridges, ferries, etc., amounted to $61,098,645, of which $27,730,960 was from current revenue and $33,367,679 was from capital funds.

Ten years ago the Provincial Governments spent for the same purposes only $17,119,905.

On the other hand, the provincial revenue from motor vehicles in 1928 amounted to $30,035,310, while ten years ago this revenue amounted to $4,447,470.

In Ontario the report shows that while the expenditure for highway purposes increased by 377.8 per cent. in 1928, as compared with 1919, the total revenue for 1928 was a 625.4 per cent. increase over that of 1919.

According to these figures, the revenues collected from motor vehicle owners, while increasing more rapidly than the expenditures, have not yet caught up with the latter.

In our own Province in 1928 the expenditure for highway purposes amounted to $22,701,856, while the revenue paid in gasoline tax and license fees by motor vehicle owners was $10,957,427.

THE BOTHERSOME INCOME TAX.

A decision just given by Mr. Justice Audette in the Exchequer Court of Canada is not only of wide general interest but also serves to further justify the claim that the income tax levy is unfair and uneven in its application.

British Columbia has a provincial income tax act which provides for a deduction from the provincial tax of any amount paid by way of income tax to the Dominion.

The Dominion Income Tax Act has no similar provision, but in spite of that fact a taxpayer appealed to the courts to be allowed to deduct the amount paid by him in provincial income tax from his assessment for the Dominion income tax.

Mr. Justice Audette has ruled, however, that a person paying income tax to the Dominion cannot deduct the sum paid in income tax to the Provincial Government.

The decision must have caused considerable relief to the Revenue Department, for had this appellant's claim been endorsed there would probably have been a flood of similar claims based on the contention that persons in paying their Dominion income tax were entitled to deduct therefrom the amount paid in municipal income levies.

It is no wonder that the income tax in its various [illegible] not only are there Dominion [illegible] provincial tax as well, and while in British Columbia the taxpayer is relieved so far as his provincial tax is concerned of what he pays in Dominion income tax, the Dominion Government affords no such relief.

MUSSOLINI'S DEFI.

Benito Mussolini puts up the problem of peace to the rest of the world. There is no hypocrisy in the address of the Italian dictator on the occasion of the commencement of the ninth year of Fascist rule in the nation. Calling upon his followers and the youth of the land, the Duce asks their support in the supreme struggle for national existence. Even those who are not in agreement with the policy of government set up in Italy must admit Mussolini has placed the question of peace in the laps of the others. Do they want peace? Italy is ready for peace. Do they want war? Italy is equally prepared for that.

Pointing the finger of criticism at France, he mentions the batteries and armaments bristling up along the Alpine frontier dividing the two nations. Forts and guns have been placed to offset any advance by the Italians into France, and also to provide splendid covering fire for preparatory advances in Italian territory by French troops. On the other side, the Jugoslavians have been restless. They seem to be just waiting for the leash to be freed so they can attack the Italians. Mussolini knows the situation quite clearly and he has prepared his Italians for the eventuality.

And what a wonderful thing is youth. The dictator grasped that knowledge during his march on Rome in October, 1922. Taking young chaps and putting them in black shirts and instilling them with loyalty to Italy and Fascism, he has built up an army of men fired with national ambition for Italy. He is continuing to do the same thing. Young boys are taught Fascism in the schools. They grow up in the party. When they come of age, they are loyal to Mussolini and to Italy. The foundation of the idea is deeply laid. No wonder Mussolini looks to the future of Italy with confidence.

Naturally, Mussolini has many enemies. These are within and without his own country. All of them are banded together to attack him through Fascism. By keeping up a determined propaganda against anything of a Fascist nature, they also spread ill-will for the Duce. That is something else he knows and takes measures to guard against. And because he realizes there is trouble brewing, Mussolini does not speak dove-like words of peace. Rather, he just ups and tells the world Italy is ready any old time the others want to come along in attack. He believes the best defense is in the offensive.

The unfortunate part of the whole affair is that some other country is liable to itch to teach the Italianns a lesson. Or Mussolini may throw caution to the winds and start out to show the world that Italy can acquit herself with success in a battle. Whenever a person starts to strut around with a chip on the shoulder, there can usually be found another strutter to attempt to knock off the chip.—Border Cities Star.

MR. CHURCHILL'S CONVERSION.

Critics of the Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill—and Heaven knows they are legion—will smile ironically when they read of his address to his constituents at Epping, Essex, this week.

"The times have changed," Mr. Churchill observed, "and I admit that I have changed with them," thus being consistent, at least, in that he has a lengthy record of view-shifting. However, reasonable men will say that only the fool refuses to change his ideas when he is shown that the ideas are wrong, and compliment the former Chancellor of the Exchequer on his frankness.

Mr. Churchill was discussing, of course the question of protection. A few years ago he was one of the few leaders of the Conservative party who favored free trade. Indeed he described himself as a tariff anomaly in the Conservative group. "The time has come," however, Mr. Churchill now lets it be known, "when all the duties, imposed at different times for different reasons, should be regularized and fitted into a general tariff on the importation of foreign manufacturel goods. This step is necessary as the limits of direct taxation have been reached."

* * * *

You will notice that Mr. Churchill specifies "manufactured goods." Apparently he shares the traditional British opposition to taxing food, as suggested by Mr. Bennett in the Empire reciprocal tariff plan he presented to the Imperial Conference a few weeks ago. If this is the case, of course, his attitude is practically on all fours with that of the Labor administraton. Mr. MacDonald and his colleagues are striotly against the imposition of taxes on foreign food in order to provide preferences for Canada and other nations of the British Commonwealth. Though recognizing the desirability of doing something to encourage greater trade within the Empire, they cannot bring themselves to believe that they would be justified in establishing food duties against the world and then giving the Dominions a reduction. This could only mean, British free traders say, higher food prices in Britain, a country which must import most of its foodstuffs.

* * * *

Despite the apparent deadlock now existing, a Canadian Conservative paper insists that "Mr. Bennett's Empire policy will yet prevail." It says that the present British Government is practically on its last legs and that the pending general elections in the Old Land should return a Conservative administration to office. It is hardly correct to assume, though, that Mr. Baldwin, if he were returned to office, would go the whole length suggested by Mr. Bennett. And yet if a Conservative administration were unwilling to accept the food tax idea advocated by the Canadian Prime Minister, how could the reciprocal preference plan be worked out?

From one standpoint it is unfortunate that views and expressions of the Dominion statesmen are being turned into political issues in Great Britain and used, for party purposes, in by-election campaigns. However, perhaps that is the only way in which the idea can be drawn directly to the public's attention and some decision secured. It is generally admitted, of course, that one of the chief things holding Great Britain back to-day is an unwillingness to desert traditional ideas. Free trade has been a national fetish so long in the island that it is difficult for political leaders to get away from it. They are afraid of the electoral consequences. And yet every man who considers the present situation, serious in the extreme, must admit that some change is necessary if Britain is to survive the economic depression and keep her world place.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Make it a safe and sane hunt. Carelessness in the woods almost invariably causes disaster.

Definite word from Ottawa that Peterborough's relief program has been passed is awaited before the work gets under way. Other municipalities are anticipating a favorable answer and starting their construction work.

THE SILVER HAWK

By

WILLIAM BYRON MOWERY

Farther on he stood on a log and peeped into a humming bird's nest, no larger than a quarter, with eggs the size of buckshot. Then he lifted Aurore up his hands under her arms, so that she, could see; and as he held her he recalled that when he was matching wits with Soft-Shoe in that hotel room he had intimated he would sell Aurore for a price.

The fox den that she took him to was littered about with squirrel tails, half-eaten lemmings, the feathers of a luckless foolhen, and a dozen carp. Thesen last were a puzzle to Dorn; he had seen foxes flip trout out of mountain torrents, but for all his woods experience he was stumped to explain how the vixen could catch lake fish. But Aurore explained: when the big lake-bottom trout came out to feed at night they chased the carp schools close in shore and the vixen caught them by wading into the shallows, standing still, and grabbing them when they nosed past her legs.

Aurore added: "I watched her and the cubs yesterday, Jim, for the longest time. She's a vivid orange-red, but she must have had a black prince for a —a consort, this spring, because two of the cubs are crosses and two are coally-black little things."

Dorn suddenly asked: "You spied on a den of wild foxes! Where did you learn to do that? And about these carp and all those other things you've been showing me—that's something you never got out of a book; something no white man ever taught you——"

"Down at Titan Pass there's an old Indian, an old Mountain Beaver. He was our guide when Dad and I came here. He taught me." She laughed. "I guess he caught me young, Jim; I guess he wanted to make me into a regular Indian——"

"Old Luke!" Dorn interrupted. "Luke Illewahwacet! Old Few-of-Words. That's who you mean?" And when Aurore nodded, Dorn had a sudden thought: "I can trust old Luke with the secret of Aurore being here again. If I needed help he'll be an ally. And a good one!" And as they went on from the fox den, he thought: "No wonder you gave Kansas the complete slip that night in the cedars! I used to be pretty fair myself at stalking through the bush, but you make me feel like an elephant crashing along beside you. . . ."

Long afterward Dorn remembered that tramp with Aurore as the four happiest hours of his life. This was the season of the year—this Moon-of-the-Brown-Eagle-Mating—which had been the most precious memory of his long exile. During those six years he had longed to see another April in his native mountains; and though he had returned weeks ago, his work had engrossed him, and it seemed to him that not until this morning, here in the heart of this lonely wilderness, had his old aching wish really come to pass.

There was another and a subtler reason why those hours were sunlit to Jim Dorn—an influence which Kansas Eby shrewdly had noticed. It eemed to Dorn that whenever he was with Aurore he caught her infectious sunniness. He liked Kansas Eby for that same trait: but in far more superlative degree Aurore had power to charm away the blue devils haunting his bleak background. She was a fire to warm his hands at. In moments of introspection he wondered whether life with Aurore McNain—intimate and long-continued—would change him and teach him happiness.

But old Bergelot's 'Can never" rose between him and the prospect. And other shadows walked with Dorn that morning. He had taken Aurore's burden upon himself: she could be happy because her fears and trouble had shifted to him. He did not know who might be waiting for him at Titan Pass or what might happen to him before this very evening fell.

Several times during their tramp Dorn suspected that Aurore had a secret purpose in leading him on and on through her wildwood. It was true enough, plain enough, that she found the most eager kind of delight in the little mysteries of her island, and wanted to share them with him; but he wondered whether she was not desperately trying, by his means, to avoid the "long talk" she had promised him.

When they started back toward the cabin, and when she said, "There's one thing more, Jim, I want you to see," he knew that she was staving off, to the moment of his leaving, any talk about herself, her trouble, what she had fled from.

Fifty paces inland on the west side of the island a diminutive spring welled up and cut a three-inch channel down through the moss to join the lake. It sparkled and purled over its granite pebbles and cascaded down its four-inch overfalls with a sound as sharp and clear as the tinkle of glass oscilla. From the lake edge Aurore led Dorn up toward the spring, making him creep the last few yards on hands and knees. He wondered what all the caution was about. As they lay on either side of the streamlet and looked into the crystal basin, he saw what.

A tiny trout, no longer than Aurore's little figner, had forged his way "up-river" past all those tremendous overfalls and rapids, and had preempted that spring as a habitation. He saw an incautious wave of Dorn's, and darted to haven under a bracken frond. Presently when they lay very still he came out again, lordly as a great bass in a lake, and sailed serenely around his domain—master and over-lord of all the wrigglers and pollywogs and eft-things of the tiny pool.

Aurore glanced across the basin, and her brown eyes were laughing. "Isn't he cute, Jim? He's a baby rainbow. I feed him a couple mosquitoes every morning. Look at him strutting, Jim! Majesty— will be majesty even in a hatful of water!" She added in a moment, "Shall we go on?"

"No. I've got to be leaving in a little while."

He noticed Aurore start, and he knew she realized he wanted to have at least a few minutes' talk with her before he left. She looked away from him and plucked abs ractedly at the wolf-feet of the moss. Dorn caught the fragrance of crushed mint where she lay. Her eyes, he decided, were deep warm brown, with a hint of pansy-purple at the bottom of them and infinite moods slumbering in their depths. Studying the delicate profile of her nose and her exquisite lips and that aggressive small chin, Dorn considered: "How little I know about the external things of her life. Just her name and a few fragments about her girlhood. And yet I know her better than any person I ever met."

He lit a pipe, meaning it as an hour-glass to measure the time he could stay. When it was finished, this holiday would be over and he would leave her and start back to Titan Pass.

For some time after he had been aware of a subtle change in their intimacy. After that incident of the mistletoe Aurore had been shy toward him, and she was a little estrained still. He thought, "She must at least have realized that I'm a man and she's a desirable girl". There was no distrust of him; none of the cold, hard suspicion with which she had gauged him that first night down in his tent. On the contrary, he felt that her restraint, witnessed by putting the stream let and the basin between them now, was for his sake—a recognition of the fact that he was a man and she a desirable girl.

Dorn wanted to tell her that he felt he was building up a beautiful comradeship with her, that it would have seemed an ugly thing to wreck or even endanger that relation on the submerged rocks of sex. But better than telling her would be to live it in all his acts toward her. So he said nothing.

It was plain to him—watching her, studying her face—that she knew she ought to tell him now about her trouble, and yet was shrinking back from it. While his pipe burned out he debated with himself whether or not to demand that she keep her promise to tell him. At last he said gently: "I know what you're thinking about, Aurore. You would rather not tell. I don't care to lie; of course I'd like to know. But that is wholly up to you. You must have a good reason for keeping it——"

"Yes, I do have good reason. And it's not that you'd stop coming here and looking after me if you knew. You'd never do that. You'd see this through."

"Then what is your reason?"

Aurore answered without looking up: "I'll tell you, Jim: I want—I want to keep your respect as long as I can."

"To keep my respect!" He was so startled by the bitterness of her low golden voice that for a moment the meaning of her words was lost on him. Then he realized that Aurore was touching upon the thing which old Bergelot had warned him about. She was accusing herself of something which was justification, source, and reason, of that "Can never."

He looked at her steadily a few seconds and said sharply, "I don't believe that!"

The tears suddenly sprang into her eyes; and Dorn knew that his words of faith in her, beating down her own assertion, had overwhelmed her.

She did not answer him. When he realized how desperately she was guarding her secret, he came to a decision. Compassionate toward her, self-denying in the face of his desire to know, it was characteristic of Dorn.

He arose and knocked the ashes out of his pipe, and gave Aurore his hand to rise. "Will you go along with me to the cove? I have to leave now."

They walked together under the great pines to the other side of the island. As Dorn pulled on his gauntlets, he said to her: "I want to say just one thing, Aurore, and then we'll not recur to this matter again—until you want to. What you told me, about losing my respect—I don't believe that. The mere fact that you had the bravery and the honesty to say it, proves it isn't true."

But Aurore would not have it so. She said bitterly: "I'm sorry you think that, Jim, You—you have an awakening ahead of you." And she turned away and left him.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

A Thought

LOOK THROUGH CLEAR GLASSES

The following from the New England Pilot applies in Canada as well as the United States:

"Last year everybody looked through rose glasses. This year everybody looks through blue glasses. If you look through clear glasses you will see that most of our 30,000,000 families are working and earning and spending nearly as much as last year, although 1929 was abnormally high, and that business in general is over 90 per cent. of what it was then."

What To-day Means To You

"SCORPIO."

If November 3rd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a.m. to 9:15 a.m., from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. The danger periods are from 11 p.m. to noon, and from 10 p.m. to 11:30 p.m.

Fate will not leave you to yourself on this date, and she has promised to help to fill your cup with happiness, and to swell your coffers. A cloud darkens your pathway, but it will have the proverbial silver lining. Good for travel and marriage?.

The child born on this November 3rd will have an anxious nature, and will desire to please the world. It will be conscientious, sincere and sympathetic. It will be a little timid about asking for its just deserts, and will be too easily crushed by adverse circumstances.

You have a very "touchy" nature, and you inconvenience and often irritate your friends by compelling them to handle you with gloves. Your sensitiveness and irascibility is due to your extreme self-consciousness, and you imagine the eyes of the world are focused on you, and that poisoned darts are aimed at you, when they are not. Although you expect a delicate touch and a gentle tongue from others, you do not reciprocate in this respect, and you are rather brutal, especially in the bluntness of your speech.

It is very difficult for you to place yourself in the other fellow's boots, and you cast judgment without a fair jury and trial. When all is well, you are an entertaining, cheerful companion, and you seem to enjoy life more than the average being. You are either up in the clouds or completely in the dumps, and it seems difficult for you to navigate along a peaceful level. Your work is much affected by your moods and emotions, and you cannot be depended upon to maintain your "can be" efficiency. It is difficult for you to admit your own faults, and you go on blaming circumstances and innocent bystanders, when the trouble begins at home. You have the ability to make friends but you cannot hold them, because of your temperament. You want to be loved, and people do love your best self. Strive to confine your weaknesses, and you will find yourself a popular and much sought after being.

HALLOWE'EN VANDALISM.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir: Would you kindly bring before the Council and people in general, that it is about time this rowdyism was stopped on Hallowe'en night. There must be some great mothers in this city—not all by any means—who have brought up their children to have no respect for other people's property, and who are no credit to any law-abiding citizens in the community in which they live.

Money is not picked up so easily that a person has to throw it away repairing damages after children, as well as grown men, have deliberately destroyed the same. Yours truly,

NORTH-ENDER.

A WORD TO MINISTERS.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Ministers everywhere are wondering why there are so many empty pews. There's a high calling, do they ever stop to think that they as well as their congregation often come short of the glory of God? When from their pulpits they scold the people, exhorting them to come more often, were they not deafened by the clang of their own voices, they would hear the echo coming back, "It's your own fault!"

People everywhere are starving for the sincere milk of the Word. The Lord's commands to you are 'feed my sheep.' Are you doing it? If great feasts of the Bread of Life were prepared and given to the people each Sabbath there would be fewer empty pews, there would be no need for urging the people to come.

In some of our churches the few faithful souls who still believe in going to church are kept anywhere from one hour to two hours so much time is taken up with form that long before the sermon ends may become weary, fall asleep and so miss the best part of the sermon.

From a Weary Church Goer.

WHAT PADDINGTON MEANS

To Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir.—Hallowe'en saw the results come in to London from the suburban riding of that great city called South Paddington. The result was a signal victory for Beaverbrook and Rothmere's Empire Crusader policy of interEmpire Free Trade.

That means little to the Dominions which have already repudiated Empire Free Trade, but the defeat of the Baldwin candidate means a lot. It means the defeat of Mr. Bennett's policy as well as of Ramsay MacDonald's policy of the quota. Of course, one swallow does not make a summer nor one raisin a cake; but one defeat right under the nose of the Conference means much.

It looks more and more as if the policy of dictating to any part of the Empire what it must do to be saved is not going to work and that if we are to have an Empire it must be a voluntary one.

However, the "people" over there are likely voting haphazard as they usually do here, and it is doubtful if the masses at the polls or elsewhere have the least idea of what an Empire really means. Like our Trent Valley Canal, the Empire has no one to give it a lift.

I did not get my prophecy about Mr. Bennett or Mr. Bull having to back down nicely in print when along came the newspapers with Mr. Bennett's backdown. He has adopted as his motto, "All for each and each for all." His election motto was "Each for each and each for all"; quite a different and quite an impossible thing.

SAG IN ACME GAS.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 3.—(C.P.)—Reacting to a declaration of the dividend and bonus, Imperial Oil moved to a high of $19.20 and was up nearly two points from last Saturday at $18.50 at noon, providing the only strong spot in an otherwise dull and somewhat easier session on the mining market to-day.

B. A. Oil and International Pete responded with fractional gains to $15.25 and $14.85, respectively. Gordon and Acme Gas were off a couple each and balance of the lower-priced oils held unchanged.

International Nickel firmed a quarter to $18 and Noranda 10 to $15.80. Sudbury Basin was up 4 to 70. Majority of Base Metal stocks failed to put in an appearance prior to noon. Sherritt Gordon off 3, and Ventures down a cent, displaying the only other movements.

With the exception of Lake Shore, up a quarter to $21.25, and Sylvanite, up a cent or so to 60, the gold section was irregularly lower in tone. McIntyre dropped 25 to $17.75 in one sale. Dome was off 5. Hollinger 10, Big Missouri 2 and Kirkland Lake Gold, Siscoe and Bunker Hill from a fraction to one cent each.

BALLOONISTS ARE FORCED TO LAND

Detroit Party Have Narrow Escape When Bag Leaks Gas Over Lake.

NORTH BAY, Ont., Nov. 3.— (C.P.)—A party of six Detroit balloonists, was forced to make a landing near Powassan, fifteen miles east of this city, their destination.

They started at Detroit at eight o'clock yesterday morning and while sailing over Lake Nipissing found their bag leaking gas. Fearful of a forced landing in the water they manipulated the balloons to effect a safe land drop.

Elmer Piper, Powassan, went to their assistance and helped transport the party and the deflated balloon to Callandar, where they entrained at midnight for Detroit. The trip had no significance other than that the balloonists set out to reach North Bay within a set time. Actual flying time to Powassan was eight hours.

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

The wheat market was dull and featureless Saturday, and while there was not a great deal of pressure in evidence, prices were lower throughout and on the extreme dip were about one cent under the close Friday night. During the last hour Chicago turned strong, with the deferred months particularly getting above the previous close, and this pulled Winnipeg up from bottom levels with shorts covering. Export business overnight was reported as practically nil and there certainly certainly nothing reflected out of this market, as export and seaboard houses were doing nothing. Outside of a little demand from shippers to complete cargo loading over the week-end, the demand for cash wheat was poor and spreads were inclined to be easier, being ¼ off on 1 hard, and as much as 1 cent off on some of the off grades. There was no change in the flour situation, which continues very quiet.

Since August 1st, Canada has exported in the form of wheat or flour, three months, 87,000,000 bushels. On the basis that the 1930 wheat crop was 375,000,000 bushels, and adding the carry over of 129,000,000 bushels, the surplus still remaining in Canada to be sold during the remainder of the year is around 300,000,000 bushels after allowing 115,000,000 for domestic consumption, feed and seed. This creates a very heavy situation as this country will be up against severe competition from the two southern hemisphere countries after the turn of the new year. The news from both Argentine and Australia is mostly favorable and present weather conditions are satisfactory. All American markets will be closed next Tuesday, it being election day in the United States.

Coarse Grains.—These markets were all weak with very little going on. There seems to be no demand for anything, and cash markets are dull and featureless.

VARGAS IS MADE NEW PRESIDENT

Brazilian Leader Claims He Will Dissolve Congress at Once.

SELECTION APPROVED.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, S.A., Nov. 3. (CP)—The path of revolution lead to-day to the Presidency of Brazil for Dr. Getulio Vargas, insurgent Generalissimo and head of the country's Liberal alliance, Chief Opposition party.

His inauguration as provisional President to-day, just one month after inception of the revolution which nine days ago brought deposition of President Washington Louis, precedes by less than two weeks the day when Dr. Julio Prestes, now a refugee in the British consulate at Sao Paulo, was to have assumed office for a regular four year term.

Dr. Vargas, who opposed Dr. Prestes in the National elections claimed that the election of his opponent was fraudulent and that his ballots cast for him were not counted.

Asked whether he would govern as a Dictator Dr. Prestes replied that he would be President "with discretionary powers." And said that he would dissolve Congress at once for an indefinite term as soon as he assumes office.

Captain Tavora and other revolutionary leaders all have approved Dr. Vargas' selection for the presidency and have approved his programme which is largely that of the Liberal alliance.

Rio de Janeiro newspapers have asked that a popular fund be raised to-day off Brazil's foreign debts. Money is pouring into the fund daily.

OILS SECTION LITTLE FIRMER

Follow Imperial's Lead in Toronto Exchange Trading To-day.

CURB LIST STRONG.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 3 (C.P.). — Marked appreciation in the shares of Imperial Oil was the only highlight in an otherwise drab market on Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. Imperial came out stronger, and at one time showed a gain of between two and three points when it ran up above 19. The rise, of course, was consequent upon decision of the directors made public Saturday to pay a bonus of 50 cents share in addition to the regular quarterly dividend. Imperial's action benefited the entire group, other members firming fractionally though with no increase in turnover.

The list as a whole was firm but it was a lifeless market. Only a few of the better-known issues made their appearance, and numerous of these had only a few transactions recorded at midday. Nickel, Norands, Brazilian, Ford, C.P.R., Bell Telephone made small gains. Massey-Harris strengthened again and to-day was up a point. Twin City and United Fuel Preferred made gains of a point.

MARKET SIDELIGHTS.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 3. (Special to Examiner.)—Imperial Oil due to declaration of a dividend and bonus, was a bright spot in an otherwise dull mining list to-day. First enthusiasm regarding the possibility of organized action for stabilization of copper appears to have died out for the present with the more important copper producers established at slightly higher price levels. Golds are still a firm section but lightness of general participation is holding up market recognition of important events taking place in that industry.

Possibly one of the first moves as a result of the international conference of copper producers but more likely due to relatively low nickel sales of the past months which have resulted in accumulation of metal sufficient for immediate needs international nickel, according to Sudbury advices, laid off six hundred men from the Frood mine early to-day. Nickel's third quarterly report is anticipated about the middle of the current months.

Nickel Survey.

Canadian Mining Journal, in their issue of Oct. 31, 1930, has made a very complete survey of the International nickel picture with special emphasis on the mining, Milling and refining aspects. The survey is well illustrated with various views of plants and equipment in the Sudbury districts. Further word is received of an interesting discovery of gold in the township of Lee, situated to the northwest of Kirkland lake and adjacent to the Seselkinika district on the west claim holders are said to have reported their find to operators of mines in the Porcupine camp and a quiet investigation is being made before any announcement of details. McIntyre is understood to be among those interested.

A surface crew has been engaged in opening up the Reid discovery near Hawk Junction, which is under option to a Detroit group. A thorough sampling of the property has been carried out during the last couple of weeks under the direction of the syndicates engineer.

Preliminary reports, still unconfirmed, state New Abana will probably involve an increase in capital from 3,500,000, to 5,000,000 shares, by creation of an additional 1,500,000 shares. It is understood there are still approximately 200,000 shares in the treasury so that the company would have a total of 1,700,000 shares which might be offered to shareholders at 20 or 25 cents a share. Unsubscribed stock would probably be under written by the group now in control and the company guaranteed of between $340,000 and $350,000 which with to liquidate debts and complete construction and development.

JUDGE WILL TRY J. H. BALLANTYNE

Suspended Minister Claims He Meant to Pay For Dress Later.

TORONTO, Nov. 3. (C.P.) — Electing trial by Jury, James H. H. Ballantyne, suspended Ontario Deputy Minister of Labor, was commited for trial by Magistrate E. Orde when he appeared in the police court to-day on a charge of stealing a $15 dress from a local lingerie shop. Bail was renewed at $300.

Ballantyne was arrested last Thursday evening after he was alleged to have removed a woman's dress from the store to his car. He claimed he had meant to return to pay for the dress later, as he intended it should be a surprise for the woman with whom he had been shopping.

After being granted trial by jury, Ballantyne through his counsel Arthur Roebuck, changed his request and asked that he be tried by a judge. This request was granted and he will now appear before Judge Denton, on November 12th.

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

Canadian business appears in a more favorable light than that of the United States and Canadian people are more cheerful in the opinion of F. S. Allen and Crawford Hill, members of the New York house of Appenzellar, Allen and Hill. Mr. Allen states Wall Street to-day is pessimistic, that pessimism the natural reaction to disappointed hopes built up when the wave of optimism was broadcasted earlier in the year. Sentiment in Canada he finds more healthy. Wall Street does not now hold out any hopes for a strongly progressive market this year, but the belief is that if fourth quarter earnings at least do not show a decline the way will be clearer for an improvement in 1931. Mr. Allen believes Canada will be among the very first nations to show a stepping up of industrial acticity, even leading the United States in this respect. This country had not been over expanded to the same extent, Canada's shelves are clearer and her whole machinery better tuned.

Exchange Holiday.

To-morrow, election day in the United States, will be a holiday for the New York stock exchange with the Canadian markets carrying on business as usual. Anticipation of a change in the complexion of progress had caused some selling of stocks in New York prior to to-day's opening. Until a week ago Wall Street had not given much thought to the election as a market factor, but the bears have seized upon it as the one of opportunities for depressing prices on the theory that the market may be disturbed. With no elections facing the Canadian markets and the exchanges open three should be no disturbance here unless it is a reflection of what takes place market wise in New York. Next Monday, Thanksgiving Day in Canada, will be a holiday in the Dominion and in consequence the Canadian exchanges will remain closed on that day.

New Market Plan.

A new plan, having for its purpose the helping of floor men to find the market for any particular securities, has been adopted by the Toronto Stock Exchange. In future when by and ask prices are posted, the number of the representative on the floor will be posted on the board as well. A floor man looking the market for a security can look at the board and will have before him the bid and ask price together with numbers that will indicate who wishes to buy or sell the same security. The number will conform to the phone and call number for the parties used on the exchange and there will therefore be no trouble in locating either the buyer or seller.

The special disbursement by Imperial Oil had a salutary effect market wise on the shares of Canadian oil companies. While Imperial stood out with an advance of over two points at its best, practically all members of the group firmed. The market as a whole boggy prices showing little if any variance from the opening. What news did come out was of an encouraging nature. Apart from the Imperial Oil announcement. Carloadings showed an increase and the report of the retail trade for different cities throughout the Dominion was satisfactory. With New York closing Tuesday, traders were prone to suspend operations until the middle of the week.

Spurned as Son-in-Law, Youth Goes Mad; Kills Finacee, Her Father; Then Suicides

Edmonton, Alta., November 3. — (C.P.) — Two persons were shot to death, and a third committed suicide near Sedgewck, Alta., Saturday night. Word of the tragedy reached here to-day.

Joseph Ward, 38, son of Mr. and Mrs Matthew Ward, suddenly went insane, slew his former fiancee, Miss Helen Hiller, and her father, Andrew Hiller. He then swallowed a fatal dose of poison.

Young Ward had left the Sedgewick District, a fortnight ago, when the elder Hiller refused to countenance a marriage between the young man and his daughter. He returned on Saturday morning, and after remaining in hiding throughout the day, appeared at the Hiller home in the early evening.

"Stick 'em up," he is reported to have called as he entered the Hiller home, carrying a .22 rifle. He shot down Andrew Hiller.

After silencing the girl's screams with a cry of "It's all right!" he shot her.

Mrs. Hiller, who was in the room, and who had witnessed the death of her husband and daughter, stole quietly away without having attracted the attention of the slayer.

When she returned to the scene with neighbors, a few minutes later, they found Ward had calmly prepared a dose of poison, and swallowed it. His body was near that of his former fiancee.

Many Homes Are Made Cheery By Donations

Many a home in the city was brightened over the week-end by the generous response made by citizens of the city and district to The Examiner's Hallowe'en appeal. Meat (bought with money donated), vegetables of different sorts, sugar and other eatables was distributed on Saturday to as many houses as could be supplied by the quantity received. Milk and bread tickets were also given out, as long as the supply lasted, as well as a large quantity of clothing received.

Those who donated would have been well repaid could they but see the smiles come to many an unhappy face and hear the downright chuckles of merriment with which the children in several homes reached out for the bags of potatoes and other things, when they realized that they meant a large and substantial Sunday dinner.

Anyone who doubts the presence of genuine poverty and need in our midst would do well to take a hand in such a distribution of food stuffs.

STRONGER THAN A FIRST MORTGAGE

IT would be difficult to find a more amply secured investment than the first mortgage bonds of The T. Eaton Realty Co., Limited.

The $12,000,000 bond issue is a first mortgage on over $27,000,000 of property and of this over $14,000,000 is land exclusive of buildings.

In addition, the mortgaged properties provide rentals more than sufficient to pay all interest and principal, and these rentals are a direct operating charge of The T. Eaton Co., Limited.

These features make the bonds an even stronger security than a first mortgage and, at the current price of 97.00 they yield 5.26 per cent.

DEPARTMENT OF TRADE AND COMMERCE
OTTAWA, CANADA

November 1st, 1930.

To Retail Merchants,
Everywhere in Canada.

Yours is a Grave Responsibility!

Some day soon you will be called upon by a commercial traveller who is going to do his best to sell you some foreign-made goods.

To avoid generalizations, and to get down to a typical concrete case, let us suppose you are a grocer, and that the traveller wants to sell you some well advertised line of canned vegetables. Your stock of canned vegetables will soon need replenishing in any event; you have occasionally had customers enquire for that particular brand, so you would anticipate no difficulty in selling it; and the price quoted you is one that appears to offer you a satisfactory margin of profit. What are you going to do about it?

Before answering that question, just remember please that in succeeding days you will have many other commercial travellers call upon you, trying to sell you foreign-made pickles, foreign-made salad dressings, foreign-made biscuits, foreign-made cheese and a host of other imported products—some under brand names made familiar to your customers through advertising, and all at prices that give you a chance of increasing your margin of profit. So again I ask what are you going to do about it?

Admitting for the sake of argument that you enhance your reputation for enterprise if you are always able to supply your customers with any brand they choose to ask for, is it wise of your customers to be spending their money for foreign-made foods instead of Canadian-made foods? And if it isn't, is it wise of you to make it easy for them to do so?

With a few exceptions, nearly all Canadian-made foods originate on Canadian farms. The more your customers favour Canadian-made foods, the busier Canadian farmers will be producing the materials from which those foods are made. And the busier Canadian farmers are, the better it will be for all other classes, including of course your customers, whose prosperity rises and falls with the prosperity of the farmers.

"Quite so," you may say, "but I have to buy a lot of imported merchandise in any event. I have to buy oranges, and lemons, nuts and raisins, tea, coffee, cocoa, spices, and scores of other things. A little more or a little less is not going to make a particle of difference to Canada's prosperity one way or the other."

You may think it won't, but just let us look a little more closely at those items you have mentioned. Granted you have to stock oranges, lemons, nuts and raisins—all imported—in order to give your customers the service they demand of you, does it necessarily follow that just because the other articles are also of foreign origin, there is no room for intelligent discrimination in your purchasing of them?

In Canada's interest, is it not better for you to stock tea that has been blended and packaged in Canada, by Canadian labour with Canadian materials, than tea that has been blended and packaged in some other country? Isn't it better to stock coffee that has been roasted and ground in Canada, than coffee that comes into this country all ready prepared? And if, when stocking merchandise that is necessarily made out of foreign materials, it's better to stock brands that had been packaged or otherwise prepared in Canada, how much more important it is when stocking merchandise like canned vegetables, that could be made just as acceptably out of Canadian materials, always to give the preference to the brand that is produced in Canada throughout?

When a customer asks for an imported brand, that you know is no better than—perhaps not as good as—a Canadian brand of the same thing, at an equal or lower price, what are you going to do about it—enter into a friendly argument to show her the error of her way, or follow the course of least resistance by giving her what she wants?

Let us suppose that all your customers began buying foreign-made foods and that you, with no thought of the consequences, ceased stocking Canadian-made foods in order to cater to the changed demand. And let us further suppose that your competitor across the street began doing the same thing at the same time for the same reason, and that the movement spread to other towns and cities till it became general right across Canada. Wouldn't the food factories of this country soon have to close up? And with their closing, wouldn't our farming industries suffer a severe blow? And with our farmers in the doldrums wouldn't it be only a short time before your customers began to buy less, and to go in debt with you for what little they did buy?

So again I ask you what answer are you going to give that commercial traveller when he comes in to book your order for a line of imported canned vegetables? It's worth a lot of very careful thought, isn't it?

Very sincerely yours,

H. H. Stevens

Minister of Trade and Commerce.

The Junior Hollowe'en party at the Young Women's Christian Association was a jolly event of Saturday morning in the big "Y" gymnasium. Over three hundred juniors were present for a program of Hallowe'en games, broom relay races, apple bobbing and apple and pie plate contests. The Junior Dancing Class presented a witches' dance and later distributed little fortunes after a recital of Hallowe'en readings by Mrs. Hazel Davidson McClelland. An underground parade was held to discover the retreat of the witches and goblins, much to the enjoyment of the children. Great variety and originality was displayed in the Grand March of costumes. The judges were Mrs. H. Wightman and Mrs. W. F. Butcher who presented the prizes to Elsie Chambers, as a Fairy; Shirley Fitzsimmons, as a Hallowe'en Girl; Evelyn Hill, as Red Riding Hood; Harry Lambert, as a Black Mouse; Barbara Blackwell, as a Tulip Girl; Marilyn Munro, as a Hawaiian Girl; Reta Sproul, as a Hallowe'en Girl; Dora Doukas, as a Greek Guard, and Violet Stanley, as a Rose Girl. QUALITY PRINTING With Quick Service

FASHION SERVICE

It's one of the most effective interpretations of the season in Peyton's dark green crepy woolen in a shadow check pattern.

A narrow belt with green enamel buckle places emphasis on the natural waistline.

The scalloped hipline is smart, agreeing with the scalloped line of the shoulder yoke. The skirt is circular with just enough fulness to make it gracefully comfortable for school days.

Style No. 907 is designed for the miss of 8, 10, 12 and 14 years.

Brown and white tweed of lightweight texture is very fashionable in a tiny checked pattern.

Wool challis prints, wool jersey, rayon novelties, covert cloth, linen, cotton broadcloth prints and tweed-like cottons are very smart for classroom and sturdy as well.

Size 8 requires 2½ yards 39-inch.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

There are some very attractive new aprons being shown now which would make lovely Christmas gifts. Have you noticed them? It will soon be time for the bazaars, then I suppose we will see them out in full force.

• • • • • • •

Aprons that are dark and inconspicuous when worn with woollen frocks or which are developed in colors to match dresses are marked with a certain note of novelty.

• • • • • • •

These aprons are just the things to don when preparing the evening meal or when it is necessary to wear an apron after the morning house dress has been changed for the afternoon gown.

• • • • • • •

It is rumored that Dame Fashion shows signs of restoring the once smart black silk apron popular when black was the color above all others that was in vogue for silk frocks, and the aprons matched the gowns.

• • • • • • •

Today silk aprons to match silk dresses are smart! If a woman makes her own silk frocks, she can have an ensemble very easily by using a piece of the goods for the apron.

• • • • • • •

If the frock is bought ready made the color will probably not be difficult to match if done at once, as colors of one season are generally found to be of the same tints and tones in gown and yard goods.

• • • • • • •

Embroidered aprons can be handsome, especially the silk gown with designs wrought in colors. A soft texture taffeta apron in black, dark blue, green, brown or one of the prevailing hues of the year embroidered in gay colors makes a Christmas gift that would be welcomed by any person.

• • • • • • •

Wash silk can be the textile, or any of the various rayons or artificial silks that have the effect of genuine silk, or again the aprons can be of linen or a fine cotton material. Plain flat colors should be chosen for the stitching will supply design and as much gay color as one likes to use.

• • • • • • •

Piping in a contrasting color gives a dainty finish to edges. For instance a dark blue apron piped with red, and worked in red, or several colors having red dominant, is very smart.

• • • • • • •

If the apron is to match a frock use one of the colors featured in the trimming, for the piping and chief hue in the embroidery. Or the embroidery can be in the colors of more than one frock, and so make the apron appropriate in its color scheme for each dress.

• • • • • • •

Now is the time to be thinking of starting Christmas gifts, so don't delay until December when everyone begins rushing!

Flour Cargo Leaves Lakehead For London

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Nov. 3. — The ocean-going steamer Elfstone of the Crete Shipping Company, London, Eng., after loading 1,850 tons of flour here will clear to-day for Aberdeen, Dundee and Leith. The trip will take over three weeks to make, with one stop at Halifax for coal. Captain Long, R.N., for the past ten years a Mercantile Marine skipper, stated that the cargo is in the nature of an experimental shipment, forecasting what may be a regular schedule trip when the St. Lawrence deep waterway is accomplished.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

WATER AND WEIGHT.

Some years ago three stout women sat at the same table as myself at a seaside resort. It was the morning meal—breakfast—and they all talked dieting and reducing. One weighed 250, another about 275, and the third 300 pounds.

The first two certainly did not overeat at this particular meal, but drank one to two cups of coffee, and the heaviest one decided to eat nothing whatever, but simply drank three glasses of water, "as water did not put on weight."

I cannot understand why so many people think that water will not increase weight. Why the largest percentage of practically every food is water, often running from 70 to 95 per cent.

Of course, water will not put weight on everybody, because some of our thin friends drink eight to ten glasses a day and do not increase their weight one single pound. But this is because their particular tissues, due to the type of glands functioning in their body, will not hold much water whereas in the majority of overweight folk, the tissues will hold a large amount.

You can get some idea of this from seeing how much more you perspire when you are carrying extra weight as compared to the amount when you are at normal weight.

Remember, water is good for all of us; there never has been any question about that. However, there is no question also that in the majority of overweight individuals a decrease in liquids will reduce the weight just as surely as a decrease in the starches.

The second big mistake made by overweight individuals is their habit of eating a light breakfast, and a light lunch, and then feeling free to eat one large meal in the day, that is the evening meal.

You can see what happens. On the light breakfast and lunch they have done the work or the play of the day and they are real hungry for the evening meal. A large meal is eaten, and then no possible chance given it to be used up in work or play, as the evening is spent sitting at home or elsewhere.

A good breakfast, a medium-sized lunch, and a light evening meal is the sensible method to follow, in reducing weight.

THE GIFTS OF LOVE.

These are the gifts of love:
More gladness for the Earth,
More trust in heaven above,
More tenderness, more mirth.

Love comes with laden hands
Bringing us priceless things,
A heart that understands,
A faith that soars and sings!

Love has no doubts or fears
To mar its joys complete,
No fierce distrust that sears;
True are its thoughts, and sweet.

These are the gifts of love:
Clear looks and honest praise,
And tranquil hours that prove
How blessed are love's ways!

Whalers Are Leaving For Antarctic Waters

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Nov. (By The Canadian Press). — There has been a steady exodus of whalers to the Anarctic from Table Bay docks recently, and in a short time the port will be cleared of foreign whalers. The 1929-1930 Anarctic whaling season, which ended during May, was the most extensive and ambitious in the history of the whaling industry. During the season 2,532,455 barrels of oil were obtained, an increase of 55 per cent. over the previous season. The Norwegian share of the total was 1,720,775 barrels and that of other vessels 811,680 barrels.

Three Norwegian and three other shore whaling stations were in operation during the 1929-1930 season, and 28 Norwegian and nine other floating factories and 130 Norwegian and 53 other whalers employed in whale catching. The latter totals are double those of the previous season. The Norwegian share of last season's work was approximately $35,000,000. According to the Norwegian "Journal of Commerce," between 11 and 12 million kroner (approximately $3,250,000 has been spent on building new whaling ships in Norwegian yards during the present year. This total includes the annual refitting of ships.

PLANS PREPARED FOR "Y.W." DRIVE

Campaign For Funds Officially Opened at Meeting This Afternoon.

A meeting of the Finance committee of the Y.W.C.A. was held Friday to make final arangements for the launching of the annual financial campaign.

On Monday afternoon members of the Board of Directors and committee members met at the Y.W.C.A. and the campaign was offcially opened. The Association is 93 p.c. self-supporting and appeals during the next week to the citizens of Peterborough to contribute the 7 p.c. budget diffence or $2,000.00 to the work of the local Y.W.C.A. Peterborough is proud of its financia lrecord as well as its splendid program of activities which are planned to meet the needs of every girl.

A year ago sixteen business men, representing various walks of life conducted a thorough and disinterested survey of a western Ontario city, of organizations serving the youth of their community and reported that the commission was of the opinion that the Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. are the agencies which can best contribute to the character building of future citizens.

Peterborough Y. W. C. A. has a splendid building, trained leadership and a program based on the four-fold development, spiritual, intellectual, physical and social and trains for service.

The Young Women's Christian Association during this next week offers a splendid opportunity for everyone to contribute to its work.

Oratory Contest Is Planned For School

ROSENEATH, Nov. 3.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—A meeting of the school trustees and teachers was held in the town hall on Wednesday evening, to make plans re the public speaking contest for County of Northumberland. All schools that took part in the school Fair at Roseneath have the privilege of entering the preliminary contest held in the hall here on November 25. Teachers and pupils are already enthusiastic over the coming event, so when the date for judging arrives, those in charge will find their task as judges rather difficult.

Fair Improvements

A meeting of the Roseneath agricultural society was held in the town hall to settle the financial business, protests etc., of the recent Fall Fair. Two protests were discussed and settled.

The president, F. J. Slade, Secretary C. W. Varcoe, Treasurer Andrew Brown, directors and all officers in charge extend a heart vote of appreciation to the public and to those who brought their exhibits, for coming to the Roseneath Fair on October 17, under the disagreeable condition of the weather. Mr. Slade was highly pleased over the success of the event and hoped everyone would continue to keep up the good work and not get discouraged just because this year was a rainy day. In spite of the wet day the receipts totaled $1400.

William Taylor was appointed to oversee the work in having the race track enlarged, along with other necessary improvements on the fair ground.

Some of the work will be done this fall.

Mount Pleasant

A pumpkin pie social was held in the Women's Institute Hall on Hallowe'en night under the auspices of the Women's Institute.

Although the attendance was not as large as usual, owing to similar gatherings being held on the same evening, a good time was enjoyed by all present.

A splendid program was given with the president, Mrs. G. Shield presiding: Opening, Auld Lang Syne; Community singing; instrumental, Verna Gardiner; recitation, "Friday Afternoon in a Primary Room", by Mrs. Hubert Lowes; solo, Juan Shield; mouth organ solo, Mr. Garnet Shield with Mrs. Shield at the piano; recitation, Mrs. Thos Graham.

The interior of the Hall presented a very inviting appearance with streamers of orange and black, pumpkin faces alight, and the different booths decorated.

The fish pond in charge of Mrs. Melville Jones did a flourishing business so long as the fish lasted.

Mrs. E. McLean was in charge of the candy booth, which after a short time was relieved of its contents.

The fortune telling booth created much interest and merriment and the fortune-teller within was kept busy until a late hour, as was also her attendant, Mrs. Hubert Lowes, who served cake and a cup of tea to the many who were anxious to have their cups read and hear their future.

Games were enjoyed throughout the evening after which punpkim pie and coffee were served.

Cavan

Messrs. T. Lang and Wm. Tinney, shipped truck loads of hogs to Peterborough on Thursday and Friday. The price paid was ten and a quarter.

Miss A. Kelly and her nephews, Messrs. Kelly and Joe Munroe, of Toronto, were visitors in Cavan, on Wednesday.

Mrs. Albert Elliott has returned after visiting her daughter, Mrs. Howson, and other friends in Toronto.

Mrs. Margaret Staples is visiting her granddaughter Mrs. Darling, Peterborough.

Mr. Wm. Tinney, was a visitor in Peterborough, on Thursday.

Miss B. Touchbourne and Mr. E. Touchbourne visited Mr. and Mrs. Melville Elliott, Orange Corners, on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Touchbourne Peterborough, visited his mother, Mrs. Touchbourne, Ida, on Sunday.

Mrs. R. M. Howden, spent the week-end with Mrs. Lowes, Princess St., Millbrook.

The W. A. of St. John's Church, Ida, held a very successful sale and afternoon tea at the Parish Hall, on Wednesday afternoon.

Vegetables, baking, fancy work and plants found ready sale.

Afternoon tea was served, Miss Jean Lough and Mrs. Borden, pouring tea.

A social time was enjoyed as the wares for sale, were looked over and disposed of.

Over eleven dollars were added to the treasury of the W. A. Their objective being the re-decoration of the church. These sales are held semi-annually, fall and spring. Each member brings anything which she has a surplus of, or any article which she cares to prepare. Each person comes prepared to buy as well as sell.

The sale provides an opportunity for the ladies of the church to enjoy a social time together as well as add to the church funds.

Captain's Pet Dog Has a Tragic End

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 3.—A touch of sadness marked the return of the "Lady Somers" to Montreal under the command of Captain B. W. C. Manning recently.

Many Canadian travellers who have visited the tropics, either aboard the "Lady Hawkins" or "Lady Somers" will remember "Perk," diminutive Dutch dog, mascot of both ships in turn and constant pal to Captain Manning. Perk is dead.

This gay little sailor, who seldom missed a meal, lived the life of a true seaman, interspersed with what thrills he may have got from the carresses of passengers.

One dark night, according to accepted theories, Perk ventured too near the rail which protects passengers, but offered no protection for his tiny body. It was a wet night. Perk's favorite deck was slippery. A slight heave of the ship and the little chap skidded off into space and into tropic waters.

Unless a hundred miles or so is not too long a swim for a little dog, Perk is lost and gone forever. The inquest leaves a finding of "death by misadventure on the Spanish Main."

PLAIN COOKIES

½ cup butter
1¼ cups sugar
1 egg
½ cup milk
3 cups flour
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
4 teaspoons baking powder

Cream the butter. Add the sugar gradually, then the beaten egg. Sift the flour, baking powder and nutmeg together and add, alternately with the milk, to the first mixture. The mixture should be just stiff enough to roll nicely. If it is too soft add a little more flour. Roll to one-third inch in thickness. Sprinkle with granulated sugar. Cut into shape with a cookie cutter. Place on buttered or floured tins and bake in a hot oven until nicely browned. A raisin or walnut meat may be placed on each cookie before baking, if desired. Yield: Three dozen large cookies.

'Tree of Liberty' Uprooted in Dundee

DUNDEE, Scotland, Nov. 3 (By The Canadian Press).—Dundee's "Tree of Liberty," dating back to the French Revolution, is no more. It had stood four-square to all the winds that had blown for more than a century, but recently it was ruthlessly uprooted from its place in Belmont Grounds, where it was planted by sympathizers with the revolution.

The tree marked the day when even in Dundee there were strong and fierce believers in the revolution. It was originaly planted in Dundee's High Street by these enthusiasts to mark the success of the French anti-Royalists. The provost of that day, Alexander Riddoch, was himself a bitter anti-Revolutionist, but for all that he was made to dance round the tree chanting "Liberty, equality, fraternity."

NOTED FLIER'S FATHER DIES.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., November 3—The death of William Kingsford-Smith, father of Charles Kingsford-Smith, conqueror of both the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans, was announced yesterday.

The famous flier's father was confined to his bed after the excitement and strain incident to Kingsford-Smith's flight across the Atlanic last summer.

"If a dove from on high . . . had descended upon me, I could not have been more surprised."

This gentleman has had a Policy with the Confederation Life Association for fifty years and, although the policy is a "straight life," we wrote and told him that he did not need to pay any more premiums, but that he would still continue to receive dividends. Read his letter:

Confederation Life Association,
Dear Sir:

Your welcome letter with enclosed cheque at hand, showing, without mistake, that your Company is headed by white men, that in my notion have earned the very highest of recommendation. If a dove from on high had descended upon me, I could not have been more pleasantly surprised, and all that is in my power to do is to return my sincerest THANKS, which is only a very small per cent. of what I feel.

Very respectfully yours,

Write for particulars of the Confederation Series of Low Cost Policies, which may be had with Total Disability and Double Indemnity Benefits, and which participate in profits. Use the coupon when writing.

HON. CHURCHILL DECRIES POLICY ON PALESTINE

tion, no doubt replete with difficulties, was deliberately accepted by Great Britain. Upon this obligation the Permanent Mandate Commission of the League of Nations, surveying the problem ten years later, made in 1929, the following pronouncement: Firstly, "That obligations laid down in the mandate in regard to the two sections of the population are of equal weight." Secondly, "That the two obligations imposed on the mandatory power are in no sense irreconcilable." The two obligations are indeed of equal weight but they are different in character. The first obligation is positive and creative; the second obligation is safeguarding and conciliatory.

Our mandatory obligations towards the Jews throughout the world who helped us, and towards Palestinian Arabs who were the conscript soldiers of our Turkish enemy are both binding and we are bound both to persevere in establishment of the Jewish national home and in safeguarding the civil and religious rights of Arabs. Merely to sit still and avoid friction with Arabs and safeguard their civil and religious rights and to abandon the positive exertion for the establishment of the Jewish national home would not be a faithful interpretation of the mandate.

"When it is asked," says the White Paper of 1922, "what is meant by the development of the Jewish national home in Palestine, it may be answered that it is not the imposition of a Jewish nationality upon the inhabitants of Palestine as a whole, but the further development of the existing Jewish community, with the assistance of Jews in other parts of the world in order that it may become a centre in which Jewish people as a whole may take, on grounds of religion and race, an interest and pride. But in order that this community should have the best prospect of free development and provide full opportunity for the Jewish people to display its capacities, it is essential that it should know that it is in Palestine as of right and not of sufferance. That is the reason why it is necessary that the existence of the Jewish national home in Palestine should be internationally guaranteed and that it should be formally recognized to rest upon the ancient historic connection."

Discrepancy in fact and in spirit is obvious. British obligation is not limited to the inhabitants of Palestine. It must also compromise further external obligation. The duty of the British Government cannot be discharged merely by a convenient administrative treatment of a local situation.

There is no use at this stage in examining whether the obligations which Great Britain has contracted by the Balfour letter and the Palestine mandate were wise or unwise. The sole question is whether they are being fulfilled. If it is held by impartial opinion that they are being fulfilled, or that they are incapable of fulfillment, or that our latest Government has neither the will nor the means to persevere in their fulfillment, there is one relief and one relief only which can be sought.

No one could claim that the British nation is bound for all time, irrespective of events or of their own physical and moral strength to pursue the policy of establishment of the Jewish national home. But from the moment that we recognize and proclaim that we have departed from these undertakings and are regarding the Zionist cause as a mere inconvenient incident in the Colonial Office administration of Palestine, we are bound to return our mandate to the League of Nations and forego the strategic moral and material advantages arising from the British control of, and association with the Holy Land.

DRAGOONS HONOR

Paterson, chaplain to the Prince of of Wales' Dragoons; the Rev. J. Riddell, pastor of Millbrook Presbyterian Church and Rev. W. W. Jones, pastor of Millbrook United Church.

'It is now two years since I last met with you here before the cenotaph" said Colonel Miller, "but this monument still represents the boys who died overseas."

He wondered if the sacrifices made in those distant lands, was still fresh in the memory of all gathered around, at the service. He thought they were, adding that it was impossible to ever forget the response which Canada made to the call from the Motherland. Ours is the duty to carry on, in that spirit of sacrifice and courage, ever continuing to recognize the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man.

The service at the memorial concluded, with the sounding of the last post followed after a minute's silence by the reveille, by Lieut. Peryer.

Parade to Church

The parade then reformed into column, and marched by a circuitous route up King street to St. Thomas Anglican Church. The order of the parade was as follows:

R.S.M. J. Playford, South African and Great War veteran; Peterborough Rangers Band; Millbrook and Peterborough War Veterans; Prince of Wales' Dragoons, with the following officers: Major M. R. Sloan, O.C.B. Squadron, Millbrook; Major C. H. Stewart O.C. Headquarters; Major Frank G. Stinson, O.C.C. Squadron; Captain E. G. Johnston, O.C.A. Squadron; Captain Cutmore, paymaster; Captain and Adjutant H. G. Mason; Lieut. A. F. Johnston; Lieut. R. J. Payne; Lieut. Stewart; Lieut. R. B. Shaw and Lieut Hughes. Followed by Captain H. J. Devey and Lieut. L. C. Gilders, representing No. 3 Company, C.M.G.C.; a detachment from the Durham Regiment under command of Major A. Thorne, Lieut. D. Fowler and Sergeant Major W. M. Theobald, M.M., were also on parade with this unit, and the Millbrook High School Cadets who made a very smart appearance under Captain H. Gray, also on parade with this unit were Lieut. Bruce Dawson, instructor and Lieut. G. Gray. The cadets are winners of Earl Jellicoe's sword, for the best small senior Empire unit in the N.R.A. competitions and members of the team won their decorations.

The ex-servicemen formed the largest unit in the parade, and medals were in great evidence. Among the veterans were included: J. Mackness of Peterborough who claims the distinction of being the only veteran in this district who served in the South African campain with the Royal Canadian Rifles. There were several other South African campaigners in the parade but Mr. Mackness said that from conversation he had had with him they had all served with units from Great Britain. This veteran was also wearing the Long Service decoration.

Of the Riel Rebellion survivors, there were four present including Colonel Miller; Edward McUry who served in the North West in 1885 and has the long service medal. He is caretaker of the Millbrook Armouries; Ira Nattress of Millbrook veteran of '85, and Sergeant E. J. Waterman of Peterborough who was wearing the Riel Rebellion, Long Service, Great War and Victory medals.

Among the other South African war veterans was L. Fildes and R. S.M. J. Playford of Peterborough.

The Cenotaph

The cenotaph which stands in front of the Town Hall, is a fine example of the sculptor's art, and consists of a column on the top of which is the figure of a soldier. He is standing at ease, in an attitude of sorrowful contemplation and thoughtfulness, as if pondering over the overwhelming sacrifice of manhood, which was the price of victory.

On the front of the monument is inscribed: The Great War 1914-1918. To honour the courage and devotion of our heroes who made the supreme sacrifice. Their name liveth for evermore. Erected by the municipalities of Cavan and Millbrook."

At the Church

St. Thomas' Church interior with the beautiful reredos of carved oak, and the artistic stained glass window, which was lighted by amber coloured lights, concealed high up in the roof of the sanctuary, and which gave a magnificant sunset effect, lent additional solemnity and reverence to the scene. The body of the church which will accommodate 400 people was comfortably full, about one third of the space being occupied by those participating in the parade, the remainder being taken up by relatives of those who paid the supreme sacrifice and by general members of the public. Many people made the journey from Peterborough and all were deeply moved by a sermon of unusual depth and sincerity, which was preached by Capt. the Rev. A. G. Emmett of St. John's Church, Port Hope, whose theme was "The Great Adventure."

The Rev. Mr. Emmett was for over three years on active service, as Chaplain to the First Brigade, and on several occasions gave spiritual comfort and advice to the members of the 2nd Battalion—"The Iron Second."

"It would be superfluous on an occasion such as this to express anything of one's personal feelings" said the Reverend speaker in opening. "In the task of everyday life there is no greater privilege and joy that can come to an overseas padre than the privilege of addressing the boys in khaki once again."

In launching into his sermon the preacher asked, "Who are the great adventurers?" and proceeded to explain that they are the Ernest Shackleton's, the Percy Scott's, the Edith Cavell's, the ancient Greek Argonauts, the Livingstone's and the General Gordons and the nameless legion of that great host of the world's mighty ones.

Throughout the world's history, he continued, men have ventured into the unknown. They interpreted life as being purposeful; interpreted life so that the incident we call death was the least important.

He thought that this kind of spirit was one of the greatest acts of faith possible. No one knows what the next second is going to bring forth and yet by the means of faith and a purpose in life these great adventurers, left the world much better for there having passed through it.

The preacher in speaking of the importance of games as a means to an end, mentioned that the average life of an athlete is short, but that such men had really lived. He thought that every man should take part in games and athletics, which is an invaluable means of character building, teaching all the lessons of self control. That is to say that games are a means to a definite end, not an end in themselves. "I don't live in order to play" he said, "but play games in order to live—to live more truly and to work more purposefully."

What is life. Those heroes say that life is something more than experience, that life is one continuous grand adventure into the unknown. All the benefits and preorogatives which we enjoy today have been bequeathed to us by our fathers. It is a gift from yesterday and every act we perpetrate with a view to tomorrow is a sheer act of faith.

"There is no adventure calling for a higher degree of courage and power than the great adventure of life" said the Rev. Mr. Emmett, in exclaiming that, "it is worth while to play the hero because it is not easy. It is worthwhile to say I am going to follow that worthwhile Captain Jesus Christ.

"It means sacrifice to follow Christ" he said in conclusion, 'but if you take up the challenge you will have helped to make the world a better cleaner and a purer place and we have Christ's promise that he will take our gifts and will bless them with the impartation of His whole being and spirit."

The lessons were read by Captain the Rev. Mr. Kingsford, while the service was conducted by Rev. P. W. A. Roberts.

As the congregation filed into the church at the opening of the service, Miss M. Collins the organist, played the March from Eli's Costa, and was at the consol during the service. The surpliced choir led the singing, their voices rising in impressve harmony, above those of the congregation who sang with them a number of hymns appropriate to the occasion, and including: "All Hail the Power"; "God Send us Men Whose Aid 'twill Be"; "Onward Christian Soldiers"; "Unto the Hills" and "The National Anthem".

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Rapid shifting of the character of Argentine wheat crop advices chiefly governed the course of wheat values Saturday, with the market here scoring a late upturn. Final reports current were that one-third of the wheat acreage of Argentina was affected by rust and that crop complaints were increasing. Earlier wheat prices tended downward, influenced by word that Argentine rust danger was diminishing and that with a fortnight of favorable weather the damage from rust in Argentina would be negligible.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, at the same as Friday's finish to 3-8c higher. Corn closed 1-8c t, 5-8c off, oats 5-8c to 1 1-8c down, and provisions varying from a shade decline to a rise of 2c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Nov. 3. — The egg market remined firm here during the latter part of last week on top grades of fresh eggs. Less than carlot prices for new-laid eggs were quoted at 53c to 54c, fresh firsts 45c and fresh seconds 30 cents a dozen. Prices to retailers remained unchanged.

Receipts last week were 11,462 cases, the majority being American eggs passing through here for export.

The butter market was slightly down last week and Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery butter, in carlots, was quoted at 29½c to 29¾c a pound, while to retailers solids were 32c and prints 33c. Receipts were 4,469 boxes.

The cheese market here last week lost one cent and Ontario cheese was 14c to 14¼c and Quebec 13½c to 13¾c a pound. Receipts were 19,587 boxes.

The potato market was unchanged.

Exports of cheese from here to Europe last week were 57,685 boxes, the best of the season. Cheese exports for the season to date were 723,636 boxes.

Also exported last week were 7,774 cases of eggs. These were, with the exception of 100 cases of Canadian eggs, all American eggs going through here in bond. The 100 cases of Canadian eggs were the first shipments of the season.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, November 3. — Wheat prices moved through a dull and inactive trading session on Saturday to close 1⅛c to ¾c lower. Local traders refused to get excited and exporters failed to show any interest. The lack of support caused the weakening values.

The November future finished the abbreviated session 1¼c lower at 70¼c; December was ⅞c down at 70⅝c; and May off ¾c to ⅞c at 76¾c to 76⅛c.

Offerings were light on the cash wheat market and trading was slow, with prices unchanged. Coarse grains were featureless and values were fractionally lower at the close.

Two Boxes Gave her Quick Relief

"I was very sick with a bad pain in my back," writes Mrs. T. Cherepak, Broad Valley, Man. "I tried a lot of different medicines but they did not help me much. Then one of my friends told me about Dodd's Kidney Pills and I thought I would try them. After using two boxes I felt very much better and now I am never without them and shall recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to others."

P.C.I. Captures Interscholastic Football Honors

Wins From Cobourg 6 to 2

Belleville Collegiate Will Be Likely Opponents For Central Ontario Championship.

CLOSE GAME AT LAKESHORE.

Garnet and Grey Make Gains From Beginning of Second Period.

Once again the Peterborough Collegiate rugby squad have battled their way through to a championship. Amid the sand dunes on Lake Ontario's strand Coach Ernie Legon's garnet-and-grey sweatered huskies repeated on Saturday afternoon the success of many former P.C.I. gridiron teams by defeating Cobourg Collegiate's favored twelve 6 to 2. The snarply-contested victory made the fifth straight for the Petes and gave them a clear title to the group championship.

Now Coach Leogn will begin grooming his squad for further fields to conquer. A short decisive series with the eastern group winners—likely Belleville Collegiate—awaits the P.C.I. team with the championship of the Central Ontario Interscholastic O.R.F.U. League and the right to continue on into the Provincial playdowns at stake.

Saturday's struggle was the season's best. Peterborough although always out in front never had a lead sufficient that it could not be wiped away by a single major score. Cobourg rose to heights undreamed of in their sorry display of the previous week by their determined efforts to speed their way to that victory-making try.

Even In First.

It was touch-and-go in the first quarter. Both teams were depending on line plunges and the contest during the early part was the old army game of two bucks and a kick. The Garnet and Grey made the first yards at the start of the second canter and then Joe Dunkerley romped around the end for a long forty yards. From there Gordie Young booted a placement kick neatly between the goal posts for three points. Later P.C.I. plunged their way to near the Cobourg posts and again Young tried a placement kick. It went astray, but was good for a rouge. "Army" Armstrong's big boot was responsible for another single point, when he wafted the pigskin to the Cobourg deadline.

A pretty forward pass and some P.C.I. interference put Cobourg in scoring position in the third quarter for the first time and Johnson's rouge put them on the score sheet. In the final quarter, Cobourg unloosed an aerial attack with Bobbie Cooper hurling forward passes unerringly. This culminated in another rouge. Joe Dunkerly intercepted one of Cooper's forward tosses and Armstrong laid his foot to the ball again for another kick to the deadline, which closed the scoring for the game.

Again it was shown that P.C.I.'s wingline is almost impregnable. Cobourg battered away at that line more than half the game, and then realized that no plunger on their lineup could smash his way through. It was then that Cooper started flinging his forward passes. The winner's line was just as effective on the offensive, opening the holes and affording Armstrong great protection on the kicks.

Effective Player.

Dunkerly on his day's work was the most effective ball carrier on the field, and his tackling was also deadly. Young, Mackey, and Fraser worked well on the halfline with Richardson as a powerful relief man. Young got few opportunities to show his heels in open field running, since the Cobourg kicks were short and allowed the tacklers time to flock around him.

Armstrong, Lord, Preston and Linesen plowed for yards on plunges and they along with Macdonald were outstanding in breaking up Cobourg plays. Wagar and Ward again displayed keen tackling ability.

For Cobourg R. Cooper, sturdy quarter back, was by long odds the shining light. His forward passing was nothing less than sensational, and had one not been intercepted might have carried his team to victory. Dufton and Johnson teamed up nicely with him, and the outside tackled well.

Peterborough had a big edge on their opponents in kicking. Armstrong furnishing the best punting enjoyed by a P.C.I. this season, and his boots consistently outdistanced those of Johnson, the Cobourg punter.

Rely On Bucks.

At the start a strong wind was blowing the length of the field and Cobourg kicked off with the wind at their backs. The heavy sand seemed to slow up the P.C.I. plays. Both teams relied on bucks which failed to make large gains. Cobourg secured possession at midfield when one of Preston's passes went astray and they kicked to P.C.I.'s 20-yard line, carrying play for the first time into that end of the field. After Armstrong had punted back to midfield, Cobourg selected to pull a fake kick but Johnson was thrown behind his line of scrimmage. Peterborough was handed the ball on Cobourg's failure to make yards.

After two plunges made yards for P.C.I. at the start of the second quarter, Joe Dunkerly skirted the end for a forty-yard run being grassed on Cobourg's 15-yard line. Two plunges carried the ball over in front of the posts and Young kicked a placement kick. This gave P.C.I. three points.

Cobourg's kick was run back fifteen yards to P.C.I.'s 50-yard line. Preston and Dinesen bucked for yards and then Armstrong and Dunkerly collected ten more. A trick play caught Cobourg offside and the Peters were presented with a ten-yard advance by the referee. Armstrong's boot went out at Cobourg's 15-yard line. P.C.I. got a break when Johnson hit one of his own outsides and they were presented with the ball.

Young attempted another placement kick, which was blocked, but bounced for a rouge. P.C.I. then opened another bucking attack mixed with end runs that again put them in scoring position and Armstrong kicked to the deadline, adding another point.

At this point R. Cooper hurled his first forward pass for a fifteen-yard gain. After an exchange of kicks, Cobourg had possession on P.C.I.'s 40-yard line. Young took Johnson's boot on his own three-yard line. P.C.I. gained yards twice and then lost possession on interference on their twenty-five yard line. Johnson kicked for a rouge, Cobourg's first score.

Play remained at centre for the remainder of the quarter. At its close Cooper threw another beautiful forward pass for a twenty-five yard gain.

To start the final stanza Johnson's kick landed deep in P.C.I. territory. After Armstrong's kick back to centre, Cooper hurled another forward pass for a big gain. Johnson's kick was taken on P.C.I.'s five-yard line. Cooper ran Armstrong's punt back twenty yards through tacklers to P.C.I.'s 20-yard line, from where Johnson kicked for a rouge.

Young tossed a forward pass to Wagar for a 20-yard advance. Preston and Armstrong slammed through for yards. After Armstrong's kick Cobourg gained yards, and then Dunkerly intercepted Cooper's forward toss at midfield and ran eight yards Armstrong kicked a mighty boot that went for a rouge.

Another kick by Armstrong went far behind Cobourg's goal line but Cooper ran it out. Armstrong intercepted another one of Cooper's passes as the final whistle blew.

The teams:

Peterborough Collegiate — Snap, Macdonald; insides, Waddell and Clayton; middles, Armstrong and Lord; outsides, Ward and Wagar; quarter, Preston; flying wing, Dunkerly; halves, Mackey, Young and Fraser; subs, Richardson, Dinesen, Gordon, Sloane and Breckenridge.

Hamilton Tiger Cubs Squelch Windsor 14-2

HAMILTON, Nov. 3.—With a pair of sure-catching backs and sensational kicking by one of them, youthful Jack Tierney, the Tiger Cubs would not be denied in their O.R.F.U. senior group game here Saturday and they wound up the encounter with Windsor Ambassadors on the long end of a 14 to 2 count. Teamed up with Tierney, Zon Kenney scintillated at catching the ball, running it back and on forays through the line. These two were easily the best men on the field. To the portside booter, Tierney, fell the glory directly and indirectly, of earning all of Hamilton's points. Incidentally, in the registration of the total points of both teams it is believed that a record for Canadian football was established, there having been no less than three safety touches scored. It was by this means that the Border City team earned its two points in the first quarter.

PANTHERS NO MATCH FOR SARNIA SENIORS

Imperials Remain in Running By Scoring One-sided Victory.

SARNIA, November 3. — The Kitchener-Waterloo Panthers were no match for the Imperials on Saturday, and were defeated 25 to 1. With their backs to the wall the locals set out from the starting whistle to vanquish the Panthers and they made it apparent that they would make few mistakes. Hugh Stirling outkicked Peters by far and Norm Perry on the half line repeatedly outsmarted the tacklers to make long gains. On the line Sarnia had the Panthers stopped almost completely. Offensively and defensively the Sarnia line outclassed that of the Panthers. Sarnia made yards twelve times on plunges to the visitors' four.

McGILL TIES VARSITY IN HARD FOUGHT GAME WHICH FINISHES 7—7

Toronto Squad Lucky To Stave Off Defeat in Montreal Tussle.

CRUMBLES IN SECOND.

Queen's Triumphs Over London Mustangs in Close Battle.

MONTREAL, November 3. — Varsity ran into a flock of unexpected trouble here on Saturday when McGill, whom everybody expected to see scrambled like an omelette by the Blue squad, not only held them to a 7-7 tie, but came within a goat's whiskers of beating the league leaders. There was no scoring in the first period, but McGill scored a touch on a Varsity fumble in the second period and converted it. That and a kick to the dead ball line sent the Red squad to the resting room leading 7 to 1 at half-time. In the third period Varsity made things sizzle, but they could not get a break, so the third-quarter score was still 7 to 2, and McGill looked all over the winner.

However, in the final period the break came when Doherty dropped the ball when tackled hard near his own line while he was running out a punt. With the ball only fifteen yards out Varsity hurled Fitzpatrick and Sinclair at the line. Fitz. got over but his toes were tossed into touch by a McGill tackler. However, he gained yards on the play and gave his team three cracks at the McGill line. Two plunges failed. Then they gave the ball to Jimmy Sinclair. He just did manage to battle his way over the line with the touch that tied the score 7 to 7. Bell had a chance to sew the game up for Varsity if he could make the convert, but his effort was a complete fizzle. It was awa yoff line and lamentably weak. McGill had a royal chance to win the game for themselves in the last minute of play when they caught Varsity short from penalties and worked the ball to Varsity's 30-yard line on a successful onside kick.

Saved Old Game.

However, Lovering's punt for a point landed in Bell's arms at Varsity's goal line and he plunged out to safety and saved the old ball game. McGill's superb showing on Saturday was due to the almost faultless work of Hammond, Doherty, Lovering, and Young behind the line. They caught and held-everythnig but the one Doherty dropped and that error was the one that cost them the game.

The running of Hammond and Doherty was exceptionally good. Both were tricky. Young was one of the most valuable men McGill had. Master was th best line buckler.

For Varsity Jack Sinclair as usual worked well but his wings were not able to stop the McGill backfielders from running most of his punts back.

Fitzpatrick turned in a smart game when he was injected into the lineup in the second half. Ferguson bucked well and Gooderham and Jimmy Sinclair shone as tacklers. It was a hard fought game in which McGill looked even better than Varsity taking it all around.

DROPS CLOSE BATTLE.

RICHARDSON STADIUM, Kingston, November 3. — Despite the numerous fumbles and offsides, Saturday's battle between Queen's and Western provided plenty of thrills and good rugby for the small crowd. Queen's emerged on the long end of a 3-0 victory, all points being scored from Carter's kick sover goal line.

For Queen's Carter, Gilmore, and McKelvey stood out, while for Western Paterson gabe an excellent exhibition of punting and Bryant made their only worth-while gains through scrimmage. Their famous line failed to make much impression and was continually being thrown for losses.

Oshawa Blue Devils Beat Niagara Falls

OSHAWA, Nov. 3. — The Oshawa "Blue Devils" retained their hold on first place in their O.R.F.U. intermediate group on Saturday, when they defeated Niagara Falls 16 to 0 in the first game that the two teams have met in this season. The game which was played at the Motor City stadium attracted only a fair crowd.

The visitors were not able to put the punch into their playing that was required to keep the "Blue Devils" in check and on several occasions seemed to be lost and did not know just what to do. There were a few times when they had possession of the ball near the "Blue Devils'" touch line, and could have made from one to three points on kicks at least, but failed to try booting at the opportune time. Oshawa were heavier than their opponents from the Falls and had little difficulty in making their extra weight felt. The visitors had a well-developed line interference, however, and many times prevented gains by the local line plungers.

TAG DAY.

Havelock W. I. Gather $25.78 For Children's Aid Society at Peterborough.

HAVELOCK, Nov. 3 (Examiner Correspondence).—The annual Tag Day in aid of the Children's Aid Society was held here on Saturday all day, under the auspices of the Women's Institute.

This year the taggers did not meet with the same generosity as in other years, due in part perhaps to the general business depression throughout the world. The sum of $25.78 was collected and will be forwarded to the Shelter at Peterborough.

HASTINGS.

Mr. L. Hill was in Peterborough on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Waygood motored to Toronto on Sunday.

Mr. H. Chapman was home on Sunday.

The card party under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League was well attended, Mr. E. Fanning winning lucky chair prize writing paper and quill.

SKIING POPULAR.

LEIPZIG, Nov. 3.—Skiing is gaining rapidly in popularity in Germany. Germans not only vie with Norwegian masters at winter sports resorts, but "dry" skiing on sand hills has become a craze here.

At the Leipzig Fair, water skis were shown, and also skis on rollers. An air ski, on the glider principle, it is claimed, can smash all the present records.

OSHAWA COLLEGIATE ELIMINATES LINDSAY

Scugog Interscholastic Squad Bows to Motor City Crew 12-1.

LINDSAY, Nov. 3.—One of the lightest teams to ever represent the local collegiate in the interscholastic group was put out of the running here Saturday afternoon, bowing to Oshawa by 12 to 1. Lindsay's lone point came on a kick to the deadline by Smith, centre half, but in the last quarter the locals staged a wild passing attack that brought them to the one-yard line and from here McLean went over, but he stepped off the field before he crossed the line and the touchdown was not allowed. The Motor City team scored their points on a touchdown by Peterson, a convert by Hare, a rouge by Johnston, and a touchdown by Hicks.

For Lindsay, Marley and Reid were most effective, and the standouts for the winners were Peterson and Hicks.

MONTREAL CREW START SCORING ARGOS EVEN UP

Kicking Gets Big Time Teams Only Points in Game's Early Stages.

10,000 FANS WERE OUT.

Turville Outkicks Whitty and Welch in Aerial Duels.

TORONTO, November 3. — Argonauts advanced another step in their quest for an Interprovincial Union football championship, when they practically eliminated the Winged Wheelers of Montreal, at Varsity Stadium on Saturday afternoon by winning a hard-fought contest 5 to 3.

The Double Blue squad swept to victory in the final quarter of the game. With approximately 12,000 excited fans looking on, and the long shadows of twilight stealing over the field, F. Turville, Argos' powerful booting half-back, punted the necessary points to overcome M.A.A.A.'s lead and supply the winning margin for the Carsmen.

It was a thrilling finish to a game that was grimly fought from beginning to end. It was not such a personal triumph for Turville as Argos' victory over Montreal here last season, or the 2 to 0 win in Montreal here this fall. Turville's kicking accounted for four of the Carsmen's points, and Armour Munroe booted the other, but the laurel of victory must be equally distributed among several of their teammates. As a team, Argonauts showed a fine battling spirit and gave a performance rarely rivalled by any Double Blue squad here in recent seasons.

"Wally" Whitty and "Huck" Welch shared the kicking duties for Montreal, the latter's long lifts being used to advantage when the wind favored Argos. Whitty gave a much better performance than he did here a year ago, but on the day's play the kicking laurels went to Turville. Turville also contributed his share to the spectacular features of the game. On at least two occasions he prevented Montreal from scoring by catching the ball deep behind his own goal-line, and threading his way among the pursuing tacklers to run it out of danger. Wally Sheppard, the clever quarterback of the visitors, who played back with Perry for the catches, performed brilliantly at times in running back the ball and equalled Turville's display on one occasion, when it appeared certain he would be downed behind his own goal posts.

MADOC LODGE ELECTS OFFICERS

Sister Lottie Smith Named Noble Grand of Oakdale Rebekahs.

JEWEL PRESENTED.

MADOC, Nov. 1.—(Examiner Correspondent.)—Oakdale Rebekah Lodge of Madoc, held their installation ceremonies on Friday evening, October 24th, with Mrs. Alberta Farrell, D.D.P., of Stirling in charge. With the assistance of an excellent staff of Officers, Mrs. Farrell installed the following officers for the ensuing year:

Noble Grand, Sister Lottie Smith; Vice-Grand, Sister Mabel Stockloser; R. S., Sister Eliza Moon; F. S. Sister Eliza Parks; Treas., Sister Anna Smith; Con., Sister Flossie Stewart; Warden, Sister Mildred Broadworth; R.S.N.G., Sister Verna Tanner; L.S.N.G., Sister Evelyna Bird; R.S.V.G., Sister Mabel Conley; L.S.V.G., Sister Alice Rogers; I.G., Sister Ivah Sills; O. G., Sister Georgina Roberts; Chap., Sister Nina Embury; P. J. N. G., Sister Annie McBain; Pianist, Sister Myrtle Kincaid.

A very pleasing event took place when Mrs. Farrell was presented with a gift of Silver Spoons as a memento of her visit to Madoc Lodge. The address was read by Sister Alice Watson and the presentation made by Sister Jennie Morrison. While taken by surprise, Mrs. Farrell made a few remarks thanking the Lodge for their kindness.

One of the pleasing features of the evening was the presentation to the Retiring Noble Grand, Sister Annie McBain, of a Past Noble's Jewel. The presentation was made by the installing officer. During the evening the recipient thanked the members of their kindness during the year and for the help they had given her during her term of office.

After the installation ceremony, Lodge was resumed with the new officers in charge. Speeches were given by several members and visitors from Stirling Lodge.

Lodge was then brought to a close. Refreshments were served and a pleasant social time was spent.

The Anglican Young People's Hallowe'en Frolic was held in the Guild Rooms, which were gaily decorated with Hallowe'en Colors of Orange and Black, pumpkin faces, black cats, etc. The guests were received by a Gipsy Count and a Gipsy Fotune teller, and also by the President of the Society, Miss Freda Avery and her assistants.

After a hearty sing-song, games, fortune telling, and dancing filled in a much enjoyed evening which was enhanced by a very realistic Ghost story told by twilight by Mrs. Reynolds.

Candy, apples and dainty refreshments were served by the Young People, and a hearty "Three Cheers" were given for Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds for the good time given to all in the evening's entertainment.

A general parade of costumes resulted in the prizes being awarded to: ladies, Miss Eleanor Aylesworth. Gentlemen's, 1st, Ted Hardwick; 2nd, Red Hart. Children's, Lorraine Avery, Jean Nickle, Jean Whytock, Harley Smith, Edgar Avery, Orley Bennett.

BALMY BEACH TIES UP TITLE SWAMPING VARSITY "ORFUNS"

Crushing Attack Headed By Giant Teddy Reeve—Fumbles in Plenty.

PENALTIES ARE FEW.

Toronto, Nov. 3. — Contrary to expectations, University of Toronto 'Orfuns' failed to make much of a stand against Balmy Beach on Saturday afternoon in the deciding contest of the O.R.F.U. Eastern Senior Group, played at Varsity Stadium prior to the Montreal-Argonaut game. The East-Enders had no trouble in winning the game by 22 to 4, and keeping their unbeaten record intact, to capture the group honors and qualify for the O.R.F.U. senior finals.

The Old Gold and Blue players left no doubt of their superiority. They took advantage of frequent fumbles on the part of their opponents, played much better football in every department of the game, and convinced the large gathering of fans that they have a team of championship calibre, and one that will make a strong bid for the Ontario Union title this fall. From early in the first quarter, when Teddy Reeve percolated through the Collegians' line on two successive rushes to score a touchdown, Balmy Beach took command of the game, and Coach Lou Carroll's students were never in the picture. The 'Orfuns' were guilty of much bad football. They fumbled a tthe most inopportune times, showed a woeful lack of experience at other times and failed to give their opponents more than a good workout. Had Balmy Beach extended themselves to any extent they could have piled up a much larger total of points.

OTTAWA SQUAD CRUMBLES UNDER VICIOUS ATTACK OF TIGERS

Senators Hold Hamilton in First Half and Then Fade Away.

TIMMINS TO THE FORE.

OTTAWA, Nov. 3—Identical football tactics by which they have marched to two consecutive Dominion championships Saturday carried the Hamilton Tigers to a 10—1 victory over Ottawa Senators in the Big Four engagement here. The same battering-ram, third-period attack that has spelled disaster to so many other teams was brought into effect at Lansdowne Park, and by that medium the Hamiltonians chalked up their margin of victory.

It was almost a case of "youth will be served," but not quite. Coach Andy Davies sent out a youthful red-shirted squad to do battle for Ottawa, and they did their part nobly. Holding Tigers to 2—1 at half-time is an accomplishment in itself. They fought every inch of the way, carried a dogged attack to the mighty Bengals and were not a beaten team until the final period ended.

Two singles in the first period put the visitors out in front and the locals replied with a solitary counter for the only score of the second session. It was in the third quarter, however, that Tiger supremacy was asserted.

Good kicking, and a touch of hard luck had kept the home team right on the enemy's heels for over half the period, and then penalties to Brassington and Forster weakened the Senators badly. Tigers were in possession on their own 30-yard mark when the march of triumph commenced. Timmis took yards twice; Beano Wright moved the sticks a third time; Gibb made it four in a row, and Timmis and Small combined to negotiate the distance for the fifth consecutive time, planting the ball on the Ottawa seven-yard line.

DAIRY BOARDS

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 3.— At Saturday's meeting of the Belleville Cheese Board, 917 boxes of white were boarded and all sold at 13½ cents.

NAPANEE, Nov. 3.—At Saturdays session of the Napanee Cheese Board there were boarded 115 white and 330 colored cheese and all sold at 13½ cents to the usual buyers.

MADOC, Nov. 3. —At Saturday's meeting of the Madoc Cheese Board, 259 white cheese sold at 13½ cents. One hundred and thirty-nine sold to Hodgson and Rowson, and 120 to Cook. Last board this year.

More than 4,000 diamond workers are unemployed in Amsterdam.

R.M.C. Intermediates Win Handily From 'U'

TORONTO, Nov. 3.—The strong Royal Military College team trounced the University of Toronto Thirds 23 to 1 in an Intercollegiate intermediate football fixture at the stadium on Saturday morning. It was the fourth straight win for the Cadets, giving them a clean sheet on the season's games. They had won the group championship last week and Saturday's contest was a mere formality.

The British post office has a surplus of $30,000 000.

McTIER CUP GAMES.

(Special to The Examiner. Copyright, 1930.)

SYDNEY, N.S., Nov. 4th (SNS) — Caledonia fifteen, holders of the McTier cup, emblematic of the Eastern Canadian British rugby championship, indicate they will give all challengers a run for their money this year. Seemingly more formidable an array than ever, the Glace Bay (N.S.) aggregation only Saturday clinched their tenth consecutive Cape Breton League title.

The champions, on paper, are more formidable, showing a brilliant scoring punch. In seven games Caledonia have registered 109 points and have registered 109 points and have been scored upon for just two unconverted tries and a placement goal, exactly nine points. They have not lost a match this season.

U. N. B. in fewer games, five in number, have put up a stout barrier, having their defensive record unblemished with not a point tallied against them. On the other hand, just 50 points have been secured by the Red and Black collegians, winning all five. It is hoped that the collegians will make up for their lapse of last year, and bring the honors back to New Brunswick.

Still there is another barrier as yet unpassed. The winner of the semi-final in the Maritime Provinces must defend against the challenge from Upper Canada where English rugby is making wonderful strides. With the championship of Quebec Province nearing determination very shortly and the Hamilton team in Ontario apparently in fine position to represent that province against the winning aggregation in Montreal where the Quebec McTier rights are being decided, the winner of Caledonia U. N. B. will soon prepare for the invasion from the northwest.

Hamilton's fine triumph in Ontario stamps this fifteen as worthy contenders for the trophy. In capturing the Ontario crown they scored 118 points to their opponents' nil, best record of all teams reckoned in the running this year.

This is the first year four provinces have been represented in McTier cup play and has added much interest. The Quebec teams, like Hamilton, are conceded very strong, and indications are that the historic trophy may find a resting place in Upper Canada for the first time, when the smoke clears away from the rugger gridiron of the east later on this fall.

With Montreal A. A. A. McGill, Westward and Vickers staging a regular dog-fight for the right to carry Quebec colors into the semi-finals against Hamilton All-Blacks, the race is attracting keen attention. As this is written it is likely that M. A. A. A. will win the coveted honor. The Ontario-Quebec game is tentatively slated for Thanksgiving Day in Montreal.

Meanwhile, Hamilton's great rugger machine is tapering off for its clash further east by stirring tussles with Lansdowne of Toronto, formerly the Toronto Irish.

With such bitter competition staring each contender in the face, 1930's McTier tests will easily prove the most successful waged in the history of the trophy.

Leafs Open Season On Wednesday Next

TORONTO, Nov. 3. — More than 4000 enthusiasts witnessed the Maple Leafs go through their second public practice of the training season at the Arena Gardens on Saturday, and the two squads staged a 40 minute game that greatly pleased the fans. There was no change in the two line-ups, but the Whites, composed of Benny Grant, Duncan, Horner, Primeau, Conacher, Jackson and McPherson, defeated the Blues by 7 to 4 and the showing of the youngsters made a big hit with the crowd. The players have found their skating legs and Coach Duncan permitted them to open up with a little more bumping than had been the case previously and there was more excitement but no casualties of any consequence At the conclusion of the drill the fans showed their appreciation of the clever display of the players by a great round of applause as they skated off hte ice

This will be the last public practice for at least a week as Wednesday the Leafs open their pre-season exhibition tour with a game against the London Tecumsehs at London, and follow this up with games at Windsor and Fort Erie on Friday and Saturday They will return home next Sunday, and brush up for the opening of the league season a week from Thursday.

Educational Fund For Feminist Use

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Establishment of a $350,000 educational trust fund for strictly feminist purposes was announced recently by Dr. Robert L. Kelly, executive secretary of the Association of American Colleges. The fund, Dr. Kelly said, "is intended to serve as a nucleus in assisting young women of Maine and New Hampshire to secure a college education under conditions that will not be discriminatory, and will guarantee them facilities equal to those provided for men Should no college be found which conforms or is willing to conform with the requirements of the fund, he said, the trustees may decide to establish a college in maine or New Hampshire which would carry out the intentions of the donors.

The names of the donors of the trust fund, organized in connection with the Old Colony Trust Company of Boston, were not disclosed by Dr. Kelly. Additional contributions to the fund are expected by the trustees, he said.

New Train Whistle Wails Warning Down Right-of-Way, Not To Sides

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 3.—Speeding locomotives in the quiet of the night — screeching whistles — interrupted sleep—

This soon may be a thing of the past as the result of successful tests with a new train whistle, built like a megaphone, which throws sound directly down the right-of-way so no one else close to the tracks can fail to hear it. On the other hand, the whistle diminishes sound on either side of the track. The new warning device has been designed and built by employees of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad. Officials and mechanics have spent several years perfecting it.

Work was started by C. T. McElvaney, for years superintendent of machinery on the Katy. His son, C. T. McElvaney, Jr., now general roundhouse foreman at Dallas, continued the experiments and through his efforts the whistle has been perfected to a point where tests now are hailed as successful.

McElvaney's whistle, which has been placed on two fast passenger train locomotives on the Katy line, has an amplifier and sound director which looks much like a headlight. Warning notes are produced by six pipes, with low and high notes so blended that they produce a maximum of annoyance.

Getting steam from the steam dome to the whistle without too much condensation during cold weather is one problem still being studied and experiments will be carried out this winter. Because of softer tones and the fact that sound will not be heard all over the countryside the whistle is expected to benefit not only train passengers, but also thousands who live along the right-of-way, especially in large cities.

EIGHT UNITED STATES TEAMS DEFY DEFEAT

Only a Handful of U. S. Grid Squads Keep Record Intact.

SOME SCORELESS TILTS.

Notre Dame, Northwestern and Marquette Victors in Middle West.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Out of the shock and clamor of November's first big football battles there emerged yesterday the all-conquering colors of a handful of mighty teams.

Notre Dame, Northwestern and Marquette in the Middle West; Utah Washington State and Oregon on the Far Western side of the country; Fordham in the East and Alabama in the South—these eight were left unbeaten and untied among the country's major colleges.

The first Saturday in November proved the graveyard of the hopes of such powerful elevens as Kentucky, Clemson, Cornell, Detroit, North Dakota and Kansas, all of which went down to defeat for the first time this year.

Two other strong aggregations Dartmouth and Georgia, victorious in all their previous starts, suffered the ignominy of ties as the unusually large total of twenty games throughout the country ended in deadlocks, eleven of which were pointless.

Scoreless Games

Dartmouth and Yale, Georgia and Flordia battled all afternoon without scoring a point in two of the biggest games of the East and South. In the Middle West two leading intersectional engagements, Pittsburg-Nebraska and Chicago-Princeton wound up in nothing but goose eggs while a similar fate overtook the Wisconsin-Ohio State affair.

Harvard fared no better than Yale and Princeton, thanks to a disconcerning 13-13 tie with Little William and Mary of Virginia. Syracuse after rolling up 16 points in the first quarter, found itself tied by Brown on the last play of the game, when Gurll dropkicked a field goal from a dificult angle 35 yards away.

The eight star members of the unbeaten brigade all won decisively with the exception of Oregon, which was idle.

Notre Dame set the pace with a 27-0 romp over India, after being held without a score for the entire first half. Fordham hammered out an 18-2 decision over West Virginia to compile a record of 15 games in two seasons without defeat. Kentucky's hitherto unbeaten eleven went down by a 19 to 0 county before Alabama. Washington State marched another step nearer the Pacific Coast Conference crown by beating a stubborn foe from Oregon State 14-7. and Utah, champion of the Rocky Mountain group, again outclassed its opposition in a 39-0 walloping of the Colorado Aggies. By overwhelming Minnesota 27-6, Northwestern tied for the Big Ten lead with Michigan with three victories and no defeats apiece.

The University of Texas, after being beaten by Rice, proved that there is nothing certain about football by crushing Southern Methodist, 25-7 in the only Southwest Conference game scheduled.

Among the notable achievements of the day were Pennsylvania's victory over Kansas, 21-6, Columbia's 10-7 upset of Cornell, Iowa's 7-3 success against Detroit and the 20-7 triumph gained over Carnegie Tech by New York University's young team.

Southern invaders did well in the North Duke's 12-6 win over Villanova and William and Mary's tie with Harvard more than outweighing the defeat of Mississippi College by Colgate, 34-0.

Leo Martyn's aggregation, with a brand-new lineup, was sadly off form and dropped two games and pinnage to Art Thomas' Big Five, who bowled with one dummy score. Last year's runners-up have also taken a new name, being the Lucky Strikes, and include Leo Martyn, Bud Weese, Walter Firth, Vince O'Connell, Bill Prindible, and Fred Hickey. The Big Five lineup is the same as last year.

The champion Bowlrites also have some new faces, Vince Anthony having lined up the following: L. Anthony, Shiner Johnston, Cecil Shaughnessy, Bill Sweetman, and Frank Woods. The Bowlrites took four from the Cogs, a new team this year.

Joe Marsden, who has joined forces with Harry Ranger's team, along with Bill McGee, from last year's Supremes, showed that he has lost none of his form and took premier honors for opening night with a tot of 753. Rangers broke even with the Canadians, Harold Delahaye's bunch when the latter capped the last game by a wide margin to take that game and pinnage. Al. Delahaye helped his team's cause with a total of 737, hitting off 292 in his last effort.

Another new entry, the Belmonts, under the direction of Tommy Holyman, went down under a barrage of strikes at the hands of the Westclox, whom Tommy Ciopoli is handling this year. Tommy had a good score with 675.

In the other fixture the two dark horses of the league, the Brintons and The Examiner, battled to an even break in a manner that bodes ill for future opponents.

K. of C. ALLEYS

The feature battle at the K. of C. Alleys last week was staged on Saturday night when an all-Italian team representing the Circolo Columbo Club (Columbus Circle) of Toronto invaded the local bowling mart and locked horns with a team captained by Tommy Cupoli. For an hour and a half the alleys echoed to one of the noisiest duels of the season, which was featured by a great deal of outstanding pin scuttling but when the smoke of battle had cleared away the local sons of the Papal State were 196 pins in the lead in total pinnage.

The visitors were treated to a sumptuous chicken supper by the Peterborough team, with Tommy Cupoli being master of ceremonies which brought a perfect evening to a close.

The following are the scores:—

The knights of the polished alsles performing in the Wednesday Night League at the K. of C. alleys have been chalking up some very creditable scores and every one of the league battles has been featured by close competition. Last week Primeau squeezed six points from Condon's gang in an exciting battle, Ab Delahaye paving the way to victory with a triple of 652. Mel Starr on the losing side collected 614 in three games.

Kelbrick's gain of 8 points from Hickey puts his team in first place. Leo Martyn hammered the pins for an exceptionally good score when he made 338—187 and 222 for a total of 747. The losers were handicapped in having to bowl a dummy. Malane was the best on the latter team, making 206, 197, and 222.

MONTREAL CLUB'S CHANCES FOR GROUP TITLE BANISHED AS RESULT OF WEEK-END TILT

Gordon Perry and Wally Whitty Feature Players of Saturday's Game.

EASY WIN FOR TIGERS.

Player Rossiter Suspended By O.R.F.U. Officials For Attacking Official.

TORONTO, November 3. (C.P.) — A number of surprises occurred in the games played in the Eastern Canada's three major leagues on Saturday and to-day new squads hold some of the high places in the league standings, while others had their championship aspirations knocked sky-high.

In what was generally rated the headliner of the program, Toronto Argonauts defeated Montreal A.A.A. 5 to 3, after one of the bitterest gridiron duels fought here this season. The triumph gave the winners a strangle hold on second place and almost completely crushed the title hopes of the Winged Wheelers. The latter arrived here with a clever tie to their credit with Hamilton Tigers, Dominion champions, earned the previous week. On the basis of this performance it was generally considered outside of Toronto that the Montrealers would win. However, local supporters were confident the double blue team would come through with a victory, and they did, but not until they had come from behind and played spectacular football in the last quarter to overcome their opponent's lead.

Gordon Perry's really brilliant broken field running and Wally Witty's splendid kicking in the first three quarters kept their team very much in the running. But when these commenced to tire and the wily Argo coach, Buck McKenna, ordered Frank Turville, his kicking ace, to again take up the punting burden in the final spasm, the Wheelers simply could not b the seemingly irristible attack la hed by Argos, and gradually weakened to let the winners score three single points for victory.

"Argonauts are now in second place in the "Big Four" standing, replacing the Wheelers who dropped to third place. The Scullers will resume training to-morrow for their game next Saturday with the Ottawa Senators, who have yet to win a game this season.

Hamilton Tigers inflicted the fifth straight defeat on the youthful Ottawa twelve, but the Senator youngsters had thrown a score into the Tiger camp by holding the Bengals to a two to one count up to half time. A converted touchdown and a rouge assured the champions of victory in the second half, the final score being 10-1, but Ottawa's splendid showing was one of the day's high spots. Tigers had already beaten them by a one-sided score in Hamilton and with Coach Mike Rodden injecting new plays and new signals into their system the Jungle Cats were expected to have an easy day of it.

McGill University provided the highlight of the Intercollegiate race, by holding the leading undefeated University of Toronto aggregation to a seven-all tie. Not only did the Montreal students hold their oppnents to a tie but they threw a large sized scare into the Varsity camp by leading at half-time by seven to one as the result of a rouge and converted touchdown. Both scores were the result of Varsity misplays which the Red men were able to capitalize on for the first time this season. It was the first point they had garnered in their four matches.

Varsity came back strong in the second half and scored a touchdown which was converted to knot the count. McGill had the ball on Varsity's 35 yard line in the dying moments of the game, but Bill Loverings kick for the winning point fell a yard short of the Varsity goal line.

While McGill were holding Varsity on even terms, Queen's University moved closer to the leaders by defeating Western three to nothing. As was expected the superior punting of Howard Carter, stellar Tricolor backfielder, brought victory to Queen's who did not appear to have any noticeable advantage over the Mustangs in any other department of the game.

Clinches Title

Balmy Beach clinched the eastern group title of the O.R.F.U. senior series by beating the Varsity Orphans 22 to 4. The Beaches have won three straight and will meet the winner of the western section in the final here on Thanksgiving day.

Sarnia Imperials convincing 25 to one triumph over Kitchener-Waterloo, a team that had beaten them just the week previous, was probably the feature development in the western loop. The victory kept Sarnia in the race but they are still two points behind the leading Hamilton Cubs. The latter maintained their position at the top of the standing by defeating Windsor at Hamilton 14 to 2.

The game at Hamilton was of the peppery variety, so much so that player Rossiter has been suspended by the O.R.F.U. executive for attacking Fred Barlett, one of the officials of the game.

While there was but one serious casualty in the major leagues, several crept into the minor league sport. At Hamilton three players were hurt. J. Clement of the Windsor O.R.F.U. team suffered concussion of the brain when he tripped and fell. Concussion was also suffered by Cecil Arnold of Dundas playing in the game against V.Y.C., when he was accidently kicked on the head. Roy Lennan 18, sustained a fractured leg in the tussle between Delta Grads and Victorias, inter-scholastic teams.

Play-Off Struggle Here Next Saturday

The first game of the play-offs between P.C.I. and Belleville Collegiate, western and eastern champions of the Central Ontario Interscholastic football group, will be held here next Saturday. The game will be played in James Stevenson Park, starting at 2.30.

INTERMEDIATES DROP 19-9 TILT

Locals Put Up Real Struggle From Start to Finish But Are No Match For Opponents.

NO EFFECT ON STANDING.

The P.C.I. Intermediate Rugby squad wound up its playing schedule for the season, when the husky Bowmanville outfit met them at James Stevenson Park, Saturday.

The locals finished on the short end of a 19-9 count, but put up a real struggle from start to finish.

As Oshawa had cinched the group title by previous wins, the outsome of the game had no effect on the standing but both teams went at it hard from the first.

The Bowmanville lads meant business and before the game was very old they were five points up as the result of a touch down which was not converted.

Their second try came as the result of a clever forward pass, giving them a total of ten points. Before the final whistle, the visitors gained their third touch of the game and their other four points were kicks to the deadline.

Williams, their speedy and tricky half man, was their greatest threat, and he had the Petes weary trying to follow him around the field.

The Garnet and Grey team put up a great struggle but were unable to cross their opposite line for a major score. However, they kicked a nice field goal ,and Tranter and Marsh did some high class punting for the other 6 points.

Every player on the local squad played a hard game, but probably Mel Robinson stood out as the most consistent ground gainer. Robinson hit his line hard and accounted for several gains.

Ross and White on the half line played a steady game and Thirnbeck at Quarter handled his team well, and Reynolds at outside did some high-class tackling.

Italian Horticulturist Offers Solution For Unemployment For Virgin Islands.

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, Nov. 3.—Professor Albert Rossio, Italian horticulturist now visiting the Virgin Islands, has offered a solution for unemployment.

"Transform your islands into a great flower garden," he says. "Soil and climate are similar to that of the famous 'Blue Coast' from which the perfume manufacturers of France obtain their flowers, erect a perfume plant and then, having free trade with the United States, you may successfully compete with French perfume, against which a high tariff is placed."

The idea is novel to St. Thomas land owners, the greater portion of their holdings being at present mere grazing land for cattle. Formerly, however, this land produced sugar, coffee, and indigo, but agriculture was practically abandoned when St. Thomas became a great distributing point for European and American merchandise.

Tiny Wire Measures Air Weight As New Aid To Weather Experts

PASADENA, Calif., Nov. 3—Compressed air and a fine, electrified wire are the simple tools used by Dr. Robert A. Millikan to discover a new aid to weather forecasting. They measure the weight of the atmosphere, he informed the National Academy of Sciences here, more accurately than the barometer. He presented them not as a substitute for barometers, but as a supplement.

They record the smashing of tiny molecules of air by cosmic rays, an invisible form of radiation coming from all directions in space, and one of the least understood of recent scientific discoveries. The method of recording these collisions with an electroscope was not originated by Dr. Millikan, but he used the instrument to find a practical use for the rays. In doing this he made an unusually sensitive electroscope.

It is a flattened sphere of steel, somewhat smaller than a football, air tight, its walls about one-fifth of an inch thick. It sprouts a metal tube through which its interior mechanism is viewed with a microscope. Cosmic rays drive completely through this steel shell. Inside they pierce air compressed to 450 pounds to a square inch—air packed tightly so it has a lot of molecules close together as targets for the rays.

When a cosmic ray hits an air molecule it knocks out a small piece, called an electron. The rays are so minute that they miss most of the molecules in ordinary air. But at 450 pounds pressure they strike about seven times as many as in open air, giving enough 'hits' to make a readable record. The air that is smashed up becomes electrically conductive. The scientific term for this is ionization. Across these conductive air layers inside the steel shell the electrified wire slowly loses its charge. As its charge drops the wire moves slowly across a scale, and reading on this scale gives the volume of cosmic rays. The wire is quartz covered with platinum and too fine to be seen in the elestroscope without a microscope.

Deported Girl's Case Stirs Many Protests

BOLTON, Lancashire, Eng., Nov. 3. (OP)—Miss Alice Barton, formerly of Hamilton, Ont., who was deported to England as an epileptic and a public charge, has arrived here and, in the words of local journalists, is "broken in health and with a hopeless outlook for the future." An enquiry into her case is being prosecuted and a local protest against the treatment accorded by Canada to Mrs. Alice Ainsworth and Miss Barton is being organized.

Miss Barton was transferred from a liner which docked at Liverpool to the train by ambulance. She is penniless.

SEYMOUR EXHIBITION BOARD SETTLES AFFAIRS FOR YEAR

Some Dissension Arises Over Oshawa-Campbellford Game Played During Exhibition.

ACCOUNTS NOT IN.

CAMBPBELLFORD, November 3 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent) — A meeting of the directors of the Seymour Agricultural Society was held Friday evening in the Public Library, Campbellford, when the business of clearing up matters in connection with the Campbellford Fall Fair was gone into. In the absence of the president, the vice-president, Dr. S. L. O'Hara, occupied the chair.

Although the financial report was not available owing to many of the accounts not being rendered to the secretary and the government grants not being in, it is expected that the fair board will show an even sheet this year. It is interesting to note however that the total prize list expenditure was $1,488.20, and the gate receipts $1,206.

In reference to the lacrosse game that was staged between Oshawa and Campbellford as a feature of the fair, the question was asked in open discussion if the local team had been paid for their services.

T. J. Horkins, chairman of the Sports Committee replied to this query by explaining the situation which seems to have caused some dissension. He said that at a meeting before the fair P. Morgan, a member of the sports committee had approach the Campbellford team and that they had agreed to accept for their services a supper, which was valued at $15. Afterwards the boys said that they would rather have the money, which was found satisfactory by the committee. There the matter rested until a bill from the club was received for $30. This matter had been discussed and a compromise had been made for $20, when however a cheque for this amount had been tendered, okayed by the chairman of the Sports Committee. Acceptance had been refused.

Mr. Horkins stated that he thought that the local team did not come prepared to meet Oshawa, drawing the attention of the meeting to the fact that goal tender did not even wear pads.

Mr. Morgan said that the chairman had stated the situation correctly, and the secretary, N. Stone, verified the fact that the cheque had been tendered by him and refused.

After some discussion it was agreed on motion of A. Hume seconded by John Locke, that the matter be left in the hands of the committee with full power to act.

Bert Third opened a discussion by asking the board why it was that on a certain day before the fair the Sports and Grounds Committees had supposed to meet at the fair grounds and only Mr. Horkins had been present.

Objected To Field.

Mr. Horkins replied to this statement saying that the trouble started over the fact that the lacrosse boys had objected to the condition of the field and had stated that they would not play unless it was fixed. He had guaranteed the officials of the club that the grounds would be fixed but had not stated by whom. When the power grader was on the field, it therefore continued with the levelling of the lacrosse pitch. This was done, he said, to keep the peace, and further offered an apology to the Grounds Committee if he had gone over their heads in the matter, but said that he had taken Mayor C. H. Davidson, who himself was a member of the Grounds Committee, to see the result and it had proved satisfactory.

Mr. Third stated here that his committee had done all that it had been asked to do, but objected to others stepping in and doing the work that was allotted to the committee.

Mr. Horkins replied to the effect that the grounds certainly wanted fixing, and congratulated the Grounds Committee for the fine shape they were in now.

Dr. O'Hara, who is chairman of the Grounds Committee, left the chair and spoke on this matter. He said that he thought that it was not right that one committee should conflict with another. He had intended and made arrangements to fix the grounds because it was his job, but resented another committee or member of the Sports Committee and taking the work out of his hands. One instance of this was the fact that he had hired a man to cut the weeds, but before it could be done a member of the Sports Committee had told another man to do the job, with the result that he had to cancel the agreement with his man. This he thought was very unfair.

Dr. O'Hara thought that this sort of thing was belittling the committee, and went on to say that in his opinion there had been too much talk on the streets. His committee had done all that it was asked to do, but thought that when the work of the two committees overlapped that the Grounds Committee should be consulted.

Mr. Horkins replied to the effect that he was sorry that the incident had happened. He had refused to interfere with the ring, which was the concern of the Grounds Committee, but he did promise to see the grounds fixed, although he had not given orders for it to be done.

After these explanations however, the misunderstanding which had arisen between the two committees were satisfactorily settled and the routine business continued.

Accounts Paid.

On motion all accounts were paid, and the prize list paid in full.

Secretary Stone brought to the attention of the meeting the fact that one man had attended the fair with many Cheviot sheep, a breed that was not listed in the prize list, and recommended that this class be added next year. This matter wes gone into very thoroughly and a motion made to stay this year to the prize list. An amendment however, proposed by T. R. Kerr and seconded by P. Morgan, that the said exhibitor be paid the sum of $10 was made and carried.

Dr. O'Hara addressed the board in reference to the Carriage Horse class. He drew attention to the fact that the list read that the minimum height of a horse should be 15-1 hands, and in the single horse in harness class it read that a horse must be 16 hands and over. He recommended that this latter class should read 16 hands and under.

A motion was also passed by the board to the effect that all judges were highly satisfactory.

The matter of the completion of the leveling and finishing of the grounds was brought forward, it being the general opinion that it would be better to fix them up properly this year in readiness for next year's fair. On motion of Bert Third, seconded by W. J. Abernethy, it was agreed that Mr. Third, with the Grounds Committee, should approach the Seymour Township Council and ask for the power grader, to enable them to carry this scheme through.

Another matter that was discussed was the advisability of more accommodation for cattle at Fair Grounds. This was thought to be necessary, and it was moved by A. Hume, seconded by T. R. Kerr, that a committee comprised of John Locke, chairman, T. J. Horkins and William Duncan be appointed to look into the matter and report to the annual meeting in regard to lumber, etc.

On motion the meeting was adjourned.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have catarrhal deafness or head noises go to your druggist, and get 1 oz. of Parmint (Double Strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water, and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little, and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

HALLOWE'EN QUIET.

Campbellford Children Parade Streets in Costume But No Damage Reported.

CAMBPBELLFORD, November 3 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent) —Friday was children's night, and the Hallowe'en spirit pervaded the sphere of the youth of Campbellford.

Dressed in a variety of costume, the canvass for apples and candy was made in regular style, each little group working on their own beat. It was a pity that no organized parade was made, as some of the costumes were worthy of note.

However, all the children seemed to enjoy the fun of getting away from their normal selves and living for one evening in a land of make-believe. Several private parties were staged which kept many of them off the streets.

No damage so far has been reported and for another year residents of town will remain undisputed owners of their gates and fences.

BANK ADDITIONS.

Canadian Bank of Commerce Alter Interior For Convenience of Customers.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent) CAMBPBELLFORD, November 3 —Some interior changes are being carried out in the Campbellford branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, which will add to the business conditions of the concern, and comfort of the customers.

A small booth has been erected inside the barrier, constructed of oak, with glass sides and door and fixed with writing table and chair complete, which will be for the use of those customers who need privacy in the examination of their safety deposit boxes. To gain easy access to this booth a door is being cut in the barrier at the far end of the bank and in close proximity to the compartment, to be made of the same material and with glass window.

Also, to add to the privacy of the manager's office, a glass partition is being erected from the present level of the enclosure to the ceiling, thus making it sound proof, and on the lower portion of the outside windows of the same office a net screen will be placed to afford protection from the view of the public outside.

COLDS

Look out for them in bad weather

Exposure to cold and dampness gives colds their start. Fortify your system at the first sign of a cold with Grove's Laxative BROMO QUININE Tablets. They contain both the quinine tonic and laxative necessary to check colds.

SECRET SOPH-FROSH BATTLE ALLEGED STAGED AT O.A.C.

But All is Quiet and No Protest Has Been Lodged—No Hazing.

KNIFE IS DRAWN.

Special to The Examiner. Copyright, 1930.)

GUELPH, Nov. 3 (SNS).—Echoes of the famous Edward Beddoes hazing case were revived as the result of the alleged successful secret initiation of freshmen students at the Ontario Agricultural College recently.

The alleged proceedings amounted to little more than a thorough administration of time-honored initiation stunts, but, due to a misunderstanding, the affair threatened to assume serious proportions.

One student, who is said to have thought he was the sole object of the seniors' invasion, is alleged to have shown a knife, but when assured that the visit was planned for the initiation of all freshies, he took it in good part and submitted to the "medicine" with the rest.

Following the Beddoes affair in which the young Englishman was put in a high pen, hauled into town on an old cart, pelted with sundry fruits and then auctioned off, six students were found guilty of assault in police court and allowed suspended sentence.

Hon. John S. Martin, then minister of agriculture, immediately put into effect an order prohibiting all hazing at the college. Initiation ceremonies have since been tame affairs; carried out under that supervision of Dr. G. I. Christie, principal.

It was rumored that several students would be put on the mat for last Friday night's alleged affair but this has been denied. Dr. Christie denied knowledge of the initiation when interviewed. "Nothing has been brought before the faculty," he declared. "If there was anything serious we would have known about it. But we have not been notified of any damage or trouble of this sort."

A senior corroborated the information about the initiation. "Yes, we got them," he admitted.

"Where did it occur?" "In all the freshmen residences. We got them all."

"What did it amount to? Did you haze them?"

"It didn't amount to hazing," the senior stated, declining to supply further details.

Questioned about the alleged knife incident, the senior said: "I saw him with it. He thought we were after him but when we told him we were getting everyone, he joined in and had as much fun as the rest."

The affair has been kept quiet in college circles, all parties apparently being satisfied that the historic custom was carried off without unpleasantness.

Lakefield

The tie between Dominick White and Robert Nicholls for the athletic championship of the Lakefield High School was broken on Thursday when the former won the pole vault competition.

Eleven tables were played at the A.Y.P.A. card carty on Thursday evening. Mrs. Armstrong, of Toronto and Mr. John Allen, won the first prizes and Mrs. Stenner and Mr. Lake the consolation prizes.

The annual bazaar season is looming up with the St. John's Guild on December 4 and the Regent Street Ladies' Aid on December 5.

Mrs. Freeburn, of Buffalo, was called to the village this week owing to the death of her sister, Mrs. J. Mahood.

Miss Isabel Black, of Peterborough, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hull for the week-end.

Mrs. D. Sloan, of Peterborough, was the guest of Mrs. F. J. Tate this week.

Miss Dunne was called to Toronto on Tuesday, owing to the serious illness and subsequent death of her father.

Mr. John A. Mahood, of St. Catharines was called to the village this week by the death of his mother, Mrs. James Mahood.

Mr. P. H. Fisher, of Hamilton, was in the village this week in the interests of The Legionary. Mr. Fisher is an old Lakefield boy and has many friends in the village.

MORATORIUM TALK WIDELY DISCOUNTED

London and Washington Agree There is No Need for Change in Existing Situation.

BERENGER WARNS FRANCE

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Careful readers here of the moratorium rumors and the discussion arising from them see the American administration at Washington and the present British Government actually in entire agreement.

Washington says the United States is not planning a debt moratorium and that nobody has asked one. London says it has no knowledge that Washington is planning a moratorium, that it has not asked for one and will not ask for one under existing conditions.

However, the British say that if Germany postpones payments a new situation will arise which might affect their present position. There can hardly be anything confusing in this.

France Firm Against Changes.

Paris, Oct. 27.—Any doubt regarding the French attitude in the international discussion of a five-year moratorium for war and reparation debts has been definitely removed by the unmistakable manner in which the suggestion has been thrown down here. Yesterday's coldness has given way to-day to a clear rejection of the scheme. Some influential commentators say France desires neither a moratorium nor a revision of war debts.

It is not surprising that the Paris and provincial newspapers entered the debate with the full force of their logic, but nearly all the writers interpret moratorium reports as a German manœuvre to prepare the way for revision of the Young plan. The readers are warned that a moratorium would leave France in a much worse position.

The conservative Journal des Debats, which reflects the governmental point of view, asks this evening if Germany after obtaining a moratorium could be relied upon to prepare for future reparations.

"All German parties desire just the contrary," continues the Journal des Debats. "What Germany is pursuing with a stubbornness she is at little pains to conceal is a complete revision of the whole Young plan. If Berlin succeeded in achieving her avowed purpose we would find ourselves in this position: We have evacuated the Rhineland; we still would have to pay the United States and we would receive from Germany only what Germany decides to pay us. If we are mistaken we shall be the first to welcome a change for the better in the present trend."

Berenger Warns Against Moves.

With even greater clarity Henri Berenger, former Ambassador to the United States and negotiator of the Mellon-Berenger debt agreement, writing for the Agence Economique et Financier, warns the government not to permit itself to be outmanœuvred at Washington by Dr. Hjalmar Schacth or any other interested persons.

"We must not confuse the responsible government at Washington," says M. Berenger, "with half a dozen irresponsible economists and bankers of New York who have never changed and have never ceased to mislead France and inspire the imaginations of some of our politicians with ideas absolutely contrary to realities."

"Observe with vigilance, therefore, any moratorium campaign in Washington or elsewhere of Dr. Schacht or any one else."

M. Berenger then recalls the advantages won by France in 1926 and asks what interest France would have in troubling the waters or permitting them to be troubled. Financial developments since then, the former envoy points out, have clearly shown the wisdom of France settling her war debts with the United States and Britain in 1926 and stresses how much more difficult a settlement would have been after the Wall Street slump last year and the grave depression in Great Britain. In conclusion M. Berenger rejects the moratorium idea in these terms:

"France asks neither a moratorium nor a revision. These are terms which reflect neither security nor confidence. France does not need them and even distrusts them. Her business is settled and honorably settled. She has no desire to unsettle it nor to see it unsettled. She desires only that each one shall honor his signature as France has always honored hers.

"The Treaty of Versailles and the Young plan suffice for her. She will not permit the weakening of any international contracts which will in turn lessen respect for payments or menace the stability of peace."

CITY CHURCHES

GEORGE STREET UNITED.

Rev. J. E. Millyard, in his sermon on Sunday morning to the members of the Women's Missionary Society of George St. United Church, and to its affiliated societies, Young Women's Auxiliary Twilight Mission Circle, Fidelis Mission Band, said that women all down through the ages had done great things for the church, and that he considered it a great privilege to welcome to the service and to speak to so many members of these societies.

He took his text from Matthew, twenty-sixth chapter and thirteenth verse, 'Verily I say unto you, Wheresoever this gospel shall be preached in the whole world there shall also this, that this woman hath done, be told for a memorial to her.'

The woman referred to was Mary, the sister of Martha and Lazarus. She had anointed Jesus with a very precious ointment at a semi-private banquet at the house of Simon the leper. This act of Mary's was not original, it did not require much courage and it might not have resulted in the words used by Jesus had it not been for the unsympathetic comment from Judas Iscariot, who said, To what purpose is this waste? It might have been sold for much and given to the poor. Judas Iscariot was a great man to sell. He sold his soul to the devil. "What a tragedy it is when a man figures everything in dollars and cents." He told the story of a man who asked him to see a beautiful picture he had lately acquired and instead of mentioning the fine points of the picture he spoke of the cost and what price he might sell it for. That man is of the same type as Judas Iscariot who also said, That ointment might have been sold and given to the poor. John tells us Judas did not care anything about the poor. His plan was only graft. Jesus did not even admit that these claims were the highest. He said, "Let her alone. She hath wrought a good work upon me."

The speaker said, "Let us turn from thoughts of Mary to women all down through the age who have done great things. I want to divide my thoughts under three headings (1) Women and Christ, (2) Women and the Church, (3) Women and the Future."

Women and Christ.

If Christ were to come into the world to-day He would treat women the same as men. The custom in eastern countries has always been to treat them as inferior. The Jews treated them with more consideration than other nations—but they were not supposed to talk to any woman, even though she might be a near relative, in public. When Jesus came he treated women the same as men, and they responded to this treatment. There is no record of an unkind deed or word spoken of Him by a woman and I do not think he would have been crucified had the law been in the hands of women. Women have proved their moral and religious superiority. They are more susceptible to religion.

Women and the Church.

On the day of Penticost when the church was born we hear of women in the church. People often quote Paul as being opposed to women's place in the church but they are either very stupid or negligent in regard to his meaning. The words they refer to were spoken at Corinth where there were over 1,000 immoral women. Paul honored women, and often spoke of them as performing remarkable services, as, for example, Pricilla, who earned his everlasting regard.

Women have always given their devotion to the church and in the Sunday services they usually outnumbered the men in the ratio of two to one.

Their organizations are a mighty factor in church work. The Ladies' Aid Society accomplishes a great work in the church. The Women's Missionary Society meets regularly, takes up a systematic study of the missionary work, and in the United Church of Canada last year raised a budget of nearly a million dollars. Women certainly play a large part in church work and add a great deal to its prosperity.

Women in the Future.

When the war broke out women were given a great opportunity to better themselves, and ways opened up which never before were thought possible. A bill went through the Canadian parliament giving the women of Canada the franchise and they are using their power trying to remove every living injustice to women for the betterment of the world abroad.

In conclusion, he spoke of the question as to women taking a place in the courts of the church, and said while he believed a woman's highest work was that of wifehood and motherhood, he thought that we should given woman the place their talents and consecration deserved woman's chief interest will always be in making a home, but other opportunities are opening before them, and he prayed that they be fitted for their new duties in life as well as the old-fashioned duties and to bless all women connected with the church.

ELEVEN PUPILS PASS LIFE-SAVING TESTS

Royal Society Examinations Held in Y.M.C.A. Pool on Saturday.

Eleven pupils passed successfully the various examinations of the Royal Life Saving Society held on Saturday afternoon, J. C McClenaghan of the Y.M.C.A. being the examiner, having been appointed by the Ontario branch of the R.L.S. for the month of November.

Three small children, Lily Long, Dora Doukas and Frederick Fowler are the youngest members in this city to have passed the difficult Proficiency Test which requires one hundred and fifty yards breast stroke and fifty yards back stroke, also a dive from surface of the water and bringing up a weighted object, the three methods of release and four methods of rescue in the water, towing the victim thirty feet, rescue and release drill on land and Schafer method of resuscitation. Beverly Cowell, who is a little older, also passed this test.

Five Bronze Medallion candidates, Leone Kingdon, Dorothy Allen, Jean Howson, Mrs. Hemphill and Mrs. Grant passed this very difficult examination which is similar to the Proficiency Test with the towing of the victim 60 feet, also to pass this test a complete knowledge of the R.S.L. handbook is required. Edith Long, an eleven year old candidate, unable to authentically hold the Bronze Medallion because she is under age, took the test and passed all requirements splendidly.

Hazel Schiarizza, the only silver medal candidate on Saturday afternoon, passed the extremely difficult test very successfully. The examination consists of six tests: To carry a person by the second method of rescue a distance of 20 yards; to swim cautiously a distance of 600 yards with clothes on, three different strokes; to undress on the surface of the water; to dive for a heavy object and break to land; two dives, one spring board and one balcony dive and also perform three tricks.

The final R.L.S. examinations will be held on Friday evening at 8 p.m. when four silver medallion candidates will take the test. Some junior members will take the Proficiency and Bronze Medallion tests.

A French and a JJapanese gunboat experienced sharp attacks from a battery of particularly hard-hitting communist cannonaders a few miles above Kiuklang Saturday, but escaped without casualties.

Despatches from Hankow said the Communists were reported to have evacuated Nanchowting, Northern Hunan, permitting two unidentified United States missionaries, a man and a woman, to escape to Yochow, where 14 other United States missionaries, and several Europeans are refugees.

THE RETURN OF TARZAN No. 43 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The sun was just rising as Tarzan, with infinite labor and at considerable peril, descended the great cliffs. Far beneath him he saw smoke arising above the treetops. "Man!" thought Tarzan. "Perhaps the fifty who went forth to track me down." He set off at a rapid trot across the valley. Cautiously he approached the tiny camp-fires.

Squatting about were his black Waziri warriors. He called them in their own language: "Arise, my children, and greet thy king!" With exclamations of surprise and fear the warriors leaped to their feet. Tarzan dropped lightly from an overhanging branch into their midst and they almost went mad with joy to see him still alive.

Tarzan related his adventures and told them of the yellow metal he had found. Also of his plan to return and bring away some of the vast treasure. So, when dusk fell on the desolate valley, they marched back to Opar. By midnight they had returned, each carrying a load of two gold ingots. At the end of thirty days they entered their own country.

Here Tarzan bade them break camp, leave the stacked gold and return to their native village, their wives and children. "And you, Waziri?" they asked. "I shall remain here a few days, my children," he replied. When they had gone, Tarzan gathered up two of the gold ingots, sprang into a tree and ran lightly to a clearing, deep within the jungle.

INDIAN RELICS AID TO HISTORY

Excavation at Site Near Brantford Enrich National Museum

POTTERY-ARROW HEADS.

OTTAWA Ont., Nov. 3 (C.P.) — Excavations on the site of an old Indian village 12 miles south of Brantford, Ont., have yielded a store of relics which enrich considerably the growing collection in possession of the National Museum and at the same time make a contribution of no small importance to what is known of the aboriginal inhabitants of this country before the coming of the white man. W. J. Wintemberg, Assistant Archeologist of the Department of Mines, returning to Ottawa over the week-end, brought to light the centuries-old residue of a long-forgotten people during the course of nearly one month's work in the neighborhood of Brantford.

The relics, comprising fifty-one boxes, that range from fragments of pottery to arrow-heads and bone-awls, have disclosed to the researcher many elements of pre-European culture on this continent and have also aided the task of piecing together the few scraps of knowledge which the investigators possess in regard to an early race of Indians, the Attibendaronks. Mr. Wintemberg, who has had a lifetime of experience in delving into the little-known past of Canada's pre-historic inhabitants, inclines to the theory that the Attibendaronks were the common origin of the Hurons, on the one hand, and their hereditary enemies, the Senecas, Onondagas, Mohawks, Iroquois and Cayugas on the other.

Y.W.C.A. WEEK'S ACTIVITIES.

Finance Campaign.

This week the Y.W.C.A. is appealing to the citizens of Peterborough for financial help to the extent of $2,000.00. The Y.W.C.A., as a community centre for the girls and women of Peterborough and District, promotes many branches of service for which there is no income, and it is for these activities and certain overhead expenses, new equipment, and repairs that the Association appeals for subscriptions. The Y.W.C.A. is the largest International organization standing back of girlhood to build for character. Everyone should have a share in promoting the Y.W.C.A. work. All who would like to contribute, even in the smallest way, are asked to leave their donations at the Y.W.C.A.

Life-Saving.

The public are invited to the Life-Saving Examinations being held at the Y.W.C.A. Pool on Friday evening. These tests exhibit an interesting program of swimming as well as demonstrate the skill and technique needed to pass the examinations. Four members will try the award of Merit Examinations, one of the highest tests of the Royal Life-Saving Society.

Junior Campers.

Junior Campers who have holidayed at the Y.W.C.A. Camp, Ingleside, are organizing a Junior Campers' League and will meet for meeting and supper on Wednesday, 4.30 p.m. Supper fee 15c. Come and enjoy a Camp get-together.

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

THANKSGIVING DINNERS.

A. O. Kidd, a former resident of this city, who retired from the contracting business to live in the country, is now down in the vicinity of Port Hope, where he has gone in on quite an extensive scale for raising turkeys. Of the 468 birds which he has on his farm, 100 are under sentence of death for Thanksgiving, while a further 300 are putting on flesh in anticipation of the fast approach of the Christmas season.

FIRE AT MOUNT ST. JOSEPH.

The entire equipment of the Peterborough Fire Department was rushed to Mount St. Joseph shortly before seven o'clock on Saturday night, to combat a fire which had broken out on the north side of the mansard roof, presumably from a spark thrown out by the chimney.

Owing to the quick response made by the Fire Department under Chief Gimblett, the fire was got under control before it had a chance to cause any extensive damage. Some good work was also performed by the janitor, who used a hand extinguisher, prior to the arrival of the brigade.

A GOOD CHOICE

Mowry-Steer and their Silver Collegians Orchestra were signally honored by being engaged to play for the Tau Delta Eta Sorority dance at the University of Toronto on Saturday evening last. This is the first occasion on which a Peterborough orchestra has played for a dance engagement at Toronto.

OFF TO DUFFERIN TRACK

Eddie Jones left this morning for Toronto with his three horses "Rio Grande," "Nellie Dearing" and "Lu Grattan"; Jim Sutherland will take his "Minnie Patchen" and "Lena Direct"; and Doc Kane will have charge of Dick Walsh's "Dr. Hal," "The Midget" and probably "Bud Wenger." The season's races at the Dufferin track begin next Saturday and Monday, and will continue on both days of the weekends until New Years.

CARS COLLIDE ON CHARLOTTE.

Two cars were damaged in a collision on Charlotte street near the C.N.R. tracks late Saturday afternoon. Harry Dugan, 273 William street, was driving one and W. G. Shiner, 311 Frederick street, the other.

Mr. Shiner was driving east on Charlotte street in a line of traffic and Dugan, driving a car owned by B. R. Strano, was proceeding west. The cars collided in the centre of the road, both being damaged along their right side by the impact.

COLLISION ON WATER STREET.

At 8.20 this morning two cars collided at the intersection of Water and McDonnel streets. C. W. Woodcock, 84 Hunter street, was proceeding west on McDonnel. As he drove across the Water street intersection he was struck by a car driven by Oliver Ludgen, 191 Antrim street, who was going south on Water street. Ludgen's car is alleged to have skidded 65 feet after the brakes were applied before striking Woodcocks car, which received heavy damage.

INDIANS ATTRIBUTE MURDERS TO GHOSTLY, SACRED, WOLF-MEN

Ojibways in District Three Brutal Murders Took Place. Refuse to Kill Animals.

A GREAT SUPERSTITION.

(Special to The Examiner. Copyright, 1930.)

PICKEREL, Ont., Nov. 3.—Following up the story of three brutal murders which have taken place in this town, and attributed to a maniacal ghost slayer, a new superstition has arisen amongst the Indians here. They believe the killer is a wolf-man, in some ghostly form.

For wolves are sacred to the Ojibway Indians of Canada. Even now, in Parry Sound district, the Indians have refused to kill these animals which are more plentiful, and more daring than they have been for years. They see in these wolves the reincarnation of their ancient ancestral warriors.

When no mortal looks, and when all the world is dark, these wolves rear up on their hid feet, their snouts shorten, their legs lengthen, their hair creeps up to the top of their heads. They become men—wolf-men—such dread beings as set the death at the backs of lonely travellers.

This spring at South Parry, on a lonely stretch of C. N. R. right of way, where wolves are wont to lurk, they struck down a friendless Pole. He went to a pauper's grave, unwept, unknelled, unnamed.

Early Sunday morning, hands that were no hands at all, but the devilishly disguised paws of wolves, reached out of nothing to strike down a 22-year-old youth, fresh out from Finland, with ambition in his heart—Kieza Vilhelm Elomoa. The sleepy happiness in his eyes as he died, was, say the Indians, the magic of the wolf-men. For was not his head so battered in that his living for some hours after was, according to the Crown Attorney, the "living on of a dying loon or mangled cat?" They struck down, so wonderfully, that he died with a smile on his lips, and a look as though he were asleep.

Kovila and he, with the backs of their heads caved in and their brains scattered, had their blood so drained from their bodies that they had none left wherewith to bleed at the autopsy.

Strange and wonderful are the ways of the wolf-men. They chase frantic deer on to station platforms and kill and devour them under the startled eyes of waiting passengers and road-employes. No real wolf would do such a thing say the Ojibway of the Pickerel Reserve.

But wolf-men did this last spring on the lamplit platforms of Pickerel station. They howl outside of churches on Christmas Sunday. They follow hearses and funeral corteges that carry to the last resting place the bodies of brave Indians.

They protect the widowed wives and fatherless children, if those children be girl children. If they are male they must surely die.

It is no good for the police of cities and towns to busy themselves with the death of the two Finlanders, or the death of the nameless Pole, the Indians believe. It is no good for the station agent at Pickerel to oil his revolver and put in fresh bullets. It is no good for section men to avoid the death-marked section of the right of way; it is no good for wives to pray, priests to invoke behind locked doors. The wolf-men laugh and bide their time until moon and stars demand more blood.

There is a whitened spectre loosed in the Northland so say the wise men of the Ojibways of the Pickerel Reservation near Parry Sound, where three men, two lately, and one a year ago, have met violent and mysterious death with a smile of peace and happiness on their lips.

SALMON CANNERS HAVE GOOD START

Short World Pack Big Boost to Great B. C. Industry.

HOME SALES HIGH.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Nov. 3 (C.P.) —Increased consumption of canned salmon in Canada and the maintenance of export trade abroad will enable British Columbia's record salmon pack to be marketed in normal way this year, packers here said to-day. A world pack, short by more than a million cases from the average production, is also a helpful factor, it is stated.

Since the new pack year opened on July 1 figures gathered by the industry indicate that companies have sold half as much salmon in Canada alone as in the whole of the previous year. These sales, too, were made before the usual Canadian buying of salmon is underway. With the Dominion Government appropriating $25,000 to add to $25,000 raised by the packers themselves for domestic advertising purposes, it is expected that the Canadian demand alone will be increased so much as to limit the amount of first grades available for export.

ELECTORS IN U.S. WATCH 5 STATES

Control in House May Be Decided in Indiana, Kentucky, Illinois, Missouri, Ohio.

BULKLEY, IS KEY.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 3 (By Ken Clark, C.P. Staff Correspondent) —When the congressional election returns begin to come in to-morrow night, those from Indiana, Kentucky, Illinois, Missouri and Ohio will be watched with particular interest. These are doubtful states having a considerable representation in the House of Representatives, and their selections among the candidates may mean the difference between Republican and Democratic control of the House.

In the Hoover landslide of 1928 many of the independent voters in these states threw their strength to the Republicans, Prohibitionists especially casting their ballots against the party headed by Alfred E. Smith, wet New Yorker. Indications are there may be a change of sentiment this year.

For example, after the elections of 1926, Ohio, birthplace of prohibition, was represented in Congress by two Republican senators, 19 Republican Congressmen and 3 Democratic Congressmen. To-day a newspaper poll gives William M. Bulkley, wet Democratic candidate for Senator, a majority of from 300,000 to 400,000, and it is assumed if he should win he would carry with him to Washington more Democratic Congressmen than went there after the Hoover triumph.

NEW TERROR OF SEAS.

NANTES, France, Nov. 3.—A new terror to deep-sea fishermen of Brittany has appeared in the form of an invasion of belugas, or white whales, 12 to 18 feet long, which tear the nets to pieces. The national equipment bill provides for speed boats suitably armed to hunt them down, but these craft exist only on paper.

The fishermen ask that they be supplied with machine-guns and depth charges, but Minister of Marine Dumesnil observes that such measures would destroy the shoals of fish as well as the belugas. He suggests shotguns, which, if they would not do much harm to the belugas, would at least frighten them off.

A REAL SCRAP.

During the making of the barroom brawl in Pathe's "Her Man" nine ex-pugs and ex-bartenders, working in the picture, had to receive hospital treatment. It came about when E. B. Derr, Pathe producer, gathered the men around him and said:

"Were going to have a fight in this picture and it's got to be a good one. If you boys want to put up a battle I'll give you $50 a day and guarantee you three days' work. Otherwise, you get two days at $7.50, the regular pay for extras."

Mr. Fish's Family Affection Produces Scientific Results

ITHACA, N.Y., Nov. 3. — Mr. Fish, Grandpa Frog, Brer Possum and all the animals have good scientific reasons for their actions in care of their young which are sometimes said to resemble family affections. The causes of these animal exhibitions of "parental care" have been analyzed by Prof. H. D. Reed of Cornell University. He finds that among fish this care is always some action that insures oxygen to the eggs. Even when Father Catfish goes hungry while holding the eggs in his mouth, it results in providing them with the precious oxygen.

Parental care among fishes is noticeably exhibited in waters where the oxygen supply is scanty. Amphibians, such as salamanders, sometimes curl around the egg cluster. But it is probably not a protective gesture. Merely the parent is supplying moisture. The amphibians seem to show considerable concern for their eggs, but really they are doing simply the double job of supplying both oxygen and moisture.

Snakes are a higher order of life than either fish or amphibians, yet they haven't a bit of family affection. The reason is that their young need no care whatever, being virtually equals of the old folks at birth. Next come the mammals, which seem at times even to grieve over loss of their young. Young mammals must live on their mother's milk, and Dr. Reed thinks this greater parental care accounts for the higher family organization exhibited. The seeming grief of an animal mother deprived of her young may be due merely to the discomfort of her unrelieved milk supply.

CANADIAN ACTION RAISING TROUBLE

Deportation of Two Women Probably Heard in House of Commons.

THIRD CASE FOUND.

LONDON, England November 3 (C.P. Cable). — The question of deportation of alleged epileptic sufferers from Canada, three of whom are now back in England after long residence in the Dominion, will likely be raised in the House of Commons by Albert Law (Labor), who is senior member of Parliament for Bolton, Lancashire.

In a speech at Adlington on Saturday night, Mr. Law described the deportation of Miss Alice Barton and Mrs. Alice Ainsworth, former Bolton women, as a policy of "soulless economy." He said he intended to raise the matter in the House of Commons. Mr. Law protested against the Canadian authorities sending women to Borton without first officially communicating with the Bolton authorities.

Mrs. Ainsworth has been back in Bolton for some time and is in an institution. Miss Barton has just arrived back at Bolton and is alleged by Bolton newspapers to be "broken in health and with a hopeless outlook for the future." Both the women came from Hamilton, Ont. A third case has been discovered at Bristol following agitation over the two other cases. Mrs. H. J. Vowles is reported to be in a Bristol poor-law institution following deportation from Canada, where she lived for more than 16 years.

BOYS BREAK INTO C.P.R. BOX CAR

Youths Plead Guilty in Police Court and Are Remanded For Sentence.

GUILTY OF HOUSE-BREAKING

Two English immigrant boys, John Smith, 17, and Arthur Stone, 16, pleaded guilty in police court this morning to stealing a case of canned salmon and a case of soap from a C.P.R. box car. The box car was on a siding behind Kinnear's warehouse, and the boys broke its lock and carried away the two cases. They were arrested on Charlotte street a few hours later, but they had already opened the cases and eaten several tins of choice sockeye. They were remanded for sentence.

Charged with breaking into the residence of John Casey, Otonabee township, with intent to commit an indictable offence, a young Finnish immigrant with an unspellable and unpronounceable name pleaded guilty. He was remanded until Saturday for sentence and will likely be deported.

It is alleged the man carried a heavy stick studded with nails beneath his coat when he broke into the house, and that he meant to use it as a weapon if he were interfered with. The Casey family were absent from the house yesterday when he forced his entrance. On their return he refused to leave the house, and Provincial Constable Dave Sylvester was called.

Two local men pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a public place on Saturday evening. It was the first offence for one and he was fined the usual $10 and $4.50 costs, but it was the second time for the other and he was rapped $50 and costs.

This Generation Won't Notice It But The Old World Is Warming Up

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3. — The world is growing warmer. That scientific fact, however, need not agitate those who dread scorching summers like the 1930 record-breaker.

Dr. J. W. Humphreys, physicist of the weather bureau, says the trend is toward a hotter earth — but the warming-up process is so slow there is no cause for fearing the heat will torture this generation or several to come. In fact, Dr. Humphreys says, next summer may be delightfully cool. It may, of course, be hotter than the average summer, but it's a good bet it will be considerably cooler than the recent season, the hottest in 70 years of official weather recording.

"There is evidence, however, that the world as a whole is very slowly growing warmer," he said. "The evidence is that glaciers in all parts of the world have been on the average slowly retreating since the culmination of the ice age, and they are still slowly retreating.

"We do not know, of course, the precise date of the ice age," he continued. "We do know that the ice sheet left Stockholm, Sweden, about 9,000 years ago and left Niagara Falls about 25,000 or 30,000 years ago."

There always will be temporary flurries of high or low temperature for a season, for a year or for a period of years, but the average over any consecutive period of 20 years is practically the same as over any other 20 consecutive years of which there is official record.

Disastrous Fire Hits Battle Harbour

FIRE THREATENS WIRELESS MAST HALTING DETAILS

Last Message Said Many Buildings, Including Grenfell Hospital, Burning.

FISHING PLANT IN PATH.

Steamer Rushed From St. John's to Give Assistance if Possible.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., November 4 (C.P.) — A disastrous fire is feared to have occurred at Battle Harbour, Labrador, where several buildings, including the Grenfell Hospital, were last reported to be burning down. Communication with Battle Harbour was impossible last night, when the last message to come through it said the wireless mast was in danger of destruction, although it was hoped to save the station.

Many Buildings Afire.

The firm of Baine Johnson's, which has extensive fishing premises at Battle Harbour, were informed that their shop, office building, dwelling, and the Grenfell Hospital, all situated close together, were burning down. No further particulars were available here this afternoon. The steamer Sagona has been rushed to Battle Harbor to give any assistance possible.

YOUTH ADMITS SHOOTING TWO

Wrested Pistol From One of Pair Who Were Forcing Him to Take Liquor.

SHOT IN SELF DEFENSE.

CHICAGO, Ills., Nov. 4 (C.P.).—A confession that he killed two men in a fight to resist their efforts to make him drink a glass of liquor was made to-day, police said, by Edward Kotowski, 21. He surrendered, claiming self-defence.

Kotowski, according to Police Lieutenant James Burke, said he shot to death Frank Smurlo and William Sierza in Sierza's beer flat last Sunday, after the two men had carried him up the stairs and attempted to force him to take a drink. Previously, while passing the place, Sierza invited him to drink, but he refused.

Menaced By Pistol.

'Drink, or we'll blow a hole in you," Kotowski quoted Smurlo as saying, moving menacingly toward him. As he spoke, Smurlo, Kotowski said, pointed a pitsol which the young man wrested from his grasp and fired, killing him. Meanwhile Sierza, Kotowski added, had started to fire with another weapon, but he too was fatally wounded.

Kotowski fled from the scene and remained at liberty until he walked into a police station accompanied by his father early to-day.

TWO LOST IN WOODS ARE SAFE

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Nov. 4 (C.P.)—H. B. Adams of Kendaleville, Ind., and his daughter, who had been lost in the bush near Lake Achigan, 41 miles north of Soo since Sunday noon returned to their camp late last night under the guidance of a caretaker of one of the nearby cottages who had been searching for them. They had suffered considerably from exposure, but are not in serious condition.

3 Premiers Made Freemen of London

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 4. (By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Correspondent). — In the old Guildhall, with its five centuries of stirring history, the Prime Ministers of Canada, Australia and New Zealand to-day became Freemen of the City of London. Premiers R. B. Bennett, J. H. Scullin and G. W. Forbes were declared in the ancient formula to be "men of good name and fame."

"They do not desire the freedom of the city whereby they will defraud the King or this city of any of its rights, customs and privileges" so ran the declaration of the compurgators. "They will pay their scot, bear their lot and so they all say."

Gunmen Kill Victim Lying in Hospital

NEWARK, N.J., Nov. 4 (C.P.).—Two gunmen last night entered Newark General Hospital and shot to death a patient who had given his name to hospital authorities as Joseph Caruso.

The men walked past an information booth while an attendant was busy, ascended to the second floor, entered the patient's room and fired three shots. Then they escaped.

The victim was admitted to the hospital last night, treated for a scalp wound, and told he could leave. He refused to depart, however, and hired a private room.

C. N. R. EARNINGS OFF $40,000,000 THORNTON SAYS

Drastic Economies in All Departments Will Offset Total to $30,000,000.

ON INSPECTION TOUR.

Sluggish Movements of Wheat Blamed For 50 Per Cent. of Drop.

TORONTO, Nov. 4.—Gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways system will be $40,000,000 less this year than in 1929, but drastic economics in all departments of operation and in capital expenditure will offset this to the extent of about $30,000,000 it was revealed here yesterday by Sir Henry Thornton, president of the system.

Sir Henry, who stopped off here on his way to look over the Grand Trunk western lines of the system between Detroit and Chicago, estimated that at least 50 per cent. of the drop in gross earnings was due to the sluggish wheat movements this year and the remainder to the falling off in general business due to the world-wide economic depression.

The large savings effected, he indicated, were largely achieved by putting off construction work and other new operations not immediately essential. He compared the railway to a man who put off buying a new car until his income improved, but he emphatically declared that the economics were not working hardship on anyone or bringing damage or irreparable desrepair to the railway's properties.

Not Organic Condition

"There is no good kidding ourselves. Business is bad," he remarked. "But it is not an organic condition, particularly in Canada. The best we can do is to carry on as normally as possible, at the same time avoiding expenditures which could just as well be made at a time when the tide of business is more favorable."

FAMOUS SOPRANO IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Dame Nellie Melba Too Sick to Leave Liner at Australian Port.

NOTED OVER WORLD.

FREEMANTLE, Western Australia, November 4 (C.P.). — Dame Nellie Melba, famous operatic soprano, arriving here aboard the liner Cathay to-day, was so ill that her physicians forbade her landing.

The prima donna, whose home is in Coldstream, Victoria, has been indisposed for the last four days, it was said. She is 64 years old. Dame Nellie Melba (Helen Porter Mitchell) was born in Richmond, near Melbourne, Australia, in 1866, and took the pseudonym of Melba after her debut as Gilda in "Rigoletto" in Brussels in 1887.

Her success as a vocalist was instantaneous. She first appeared in New York in 1893 and thereafter sang in the United States frequently Her greatest success probably was in 1903 when she returned to Australia and sang before heads of the Colonial Governments and immense audiences.

Her repertoire included leading French and Italian roles. She has been the recipient of numerous gifts and decorations from sovereigns and others. She was created a Dame of the British Empire in 1918 for her war work.

S. MONAGHAN IS ASKED TO JOIN WITH PETERBORO

Would Have Municipal Allegiance Changed From Northumberland and Durham Counties.

PROBABLY TAKE VOTE.

Business and Social Associations Are With Peterborough, Not Cobourg.

South Monaghan township was invited yesterday to transfer its municipal allegiance from the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham to Peterborough.

This proposal which has been mooted from time to time was formally presented to South Monaghan's council by a Peterborough deputation composed of Warden Hawthorne, Reeve John McIntosh of North Monaghan, Reeve Fred McIntyre and Deputy-reeve Alex Houston of Otonabee, County Clerk E. M. Elliott and also E. A. Peck, M.P., county solicitor.

At the conclusion of a general discussion of the idea, Reeve Wood and members of the township council stated that they were inclined to favor entering the Peterborough community and would seek the opinion of their ratepayers probably at the January elections.

It was pointed out by the Peterborough deputation that South Monaghan is included in the federal riding of Peterborough, although it is linked with Northumberland in the provincial alignments. Geographically, South Monaghan is virtually a part of Peterborough county, with the provincial highway on its western boundary and the road from the Locks bridge to Benafort at the eastern end of the township now designated as a county road. This brings South Monaghan only seven miles from the city, convenient both for personal and municipal business.

Tax Rate Might Be Lower.

Another advantage was the prospect that the township's tax rate would probably be lower in the Peterborough group than as present with Northumberland and Durham. Mr. Peck expressed his opinion that if the people of the township declared themselves in favor of the change by a sufficiently large majority there would not likely be any opposition from the United Counties.

Although South Monaghan is not a large township, it is comprised of good farm lands and its farmers rate high on the whole both in agriculture and financial standing. Rice Lake cuts it off from the rest of Northumberland county, and its municipal attachment to the "Little Parliament" at Cobourg may not be easily severed in sentiment.

On the other hand the business and social associations with Peterborough, the municipal intercourse with Otonabee and North Monaghan, the common political interests in the federal field, these and other considerations may persuade the property owners of the township to cast in their lot with Peterborough.

Warden Hawthorne plainly intimated that South Monaghan would be made welcome in the Peterborough household, and also expressed the belief that the township would not regret this step.

ELECTION SCRAP ENDS IN DEATH

Democratic Challenger Shoots Negro When He Goes For His Gun.

BAIL ALLOWED.

DANVILLE, Ky., Nov. 4. (C.P.) — election quarrel at Turkey Pen precinct here to-day, resulted in the fatal shooting fo Ed. Doneghy, a negro, by Joe Hayden, 60, a white Democrat election challenger. Doneghy was killed, when he visited the precinct to "straighten out" a trivial disagreement as to negro voting at the booth.

Hayden was arrested by Sheriff James Bean, made bond a few minutes later, and returned to the election booth to continue his work. He claimed that he shot in self defence.

The negro, witnesses said, directed his attack at Hayden. The row became heated, and Doneghy reached for his hip pocket. Hayden fired four bullets into the negro's body, and as he fell, witnesses said his hand clasped a pistol.

BOTH U.S. PARTIES FEEL CONFIDENT OF WIN AT POLLS

Democrats' Hopes of Gaining Necessary 54 Seats Looms Bright.

NATIONAL ISSUE LACKING.

Forecast Uncertain Due to Apathy and Sullenness Among Voters.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Nov. 4 (By Ken Clark, C.P. Staff Correspondent).—As the people of the United States went to the polls to-day to elect the 72nd Congress the question as to whether the Republicans would maintain control of the House of Representatives crew. Upon the basis of rival claims it could be maintained with some confidence that the Democrats will take from the Republicans the necessary 54 seats and rule the House for the next two years. Democratic headquarters in Washington made last minute prediction of a gain of 65 seats. Republican headquarters agreed that some seats would be lost to the grand old party but insisted they would emerge to-night with a majority of half a dozen representatives.

Results Uncertain.

Observers were generally agreed the result could not be forecast with any surety for the reason that during this campaign the voters have shown a mixture of apathy and sullenness. They will not say how they are going to vote. Democrats assume this argues dissatisfaction with the Republican Government. The attitude of the electorate no doubt partly reflects its disappointment over the fact that things are not going so well as was expected when Herbert Hoover and a Republican Congress went into power in 1928. But it may be largely attributed to the lack of any general and rousing national issue. Aside from the record of the Hoover administration in economically stressful times prohibition is the most-talked-of matter and that subject divides both Democrats and Republicans.

Results began to dribble in early this morning from eastern districts of small population. The first to report was New Ashford, Mass. In the Senatorial contest there, William M. Butler, President Hoover's campaign manager in 1928, defeated Marvus A. Coolidge, no relation to the former President, and a Democrat, 29 votes to 4. There are only 35 voters in Ashford, and they cast their ballots virtually at a crack at dawn.

STORMS AGAIN HALT DO-X.

ALTENRHEIN, Switzerland, November 4 (C.P.). — A new storm apparently developing over Holland late to-day again threatened plans for to-morrow's hop off of the giant plane DO-X on the first lap of her trip to the United States.

Late weather reports will be waited before a definite decision is reached as to whether the plane can get away to-morrow morning.

Youth May Recover After Hanging Self

CORNWALL, Ont., Nov. 4 (CP) With a wide leather belt fastened about his neck, John Lalonde, 20, hung from a rafter in his father's barn for close to half an hour in a suicide attempt and is alive to-day with a fighting chance for recovery. When cut down by a brother, who went to the barn to ascertain why John had not appeared for the evening meal Saturday only a spark of life remained. He was sped by automobile over the 25 miles from the Lalonde farm to Cornwall and placed in the hospital where he regained consciousness Sunday night.

The youth is in a sorely weakened condition but physicians say a desperate will to live, which he now manifests, will likely pull him through.

No reason for the attempt to end his life has been given by the youth.

STUDENTS RIOT 42 SUSPENDED

Princeton Action Follows Dragging of Statue Through Streets.

FOUR DROPPED FOR YEAR.

PRINCETON, N.J., Nov. 4 (C.P.)—Their conduct described by the Dean as being beneath Reds or gangsters, forty-two Princeton University undergraudates have been suspended for participating in the riot last Wednesday when a statue of "The Christian Student" was pulled from its pedestal and dragged through the streets.

The names of those suspended were not given out by Dean Christian Gauss, who announced the suspensions. Four, said to have been the ringleaders, were dropped for a year; two until the end of the Christmas vacation; five for one month; three for two weeks; fourteen for one week and fourteen for an indefinite period.

Aftermath of Rally

The riot was an aftermath of a football rally in Alexander Hall, designed to arouse enthusiasm for the Princeton-Chicago game last Saturday, which ended in a scoreless tie.

"Let us call spades, spades. If it is ever fair to descend to using the word, I believe this act "rocking the buses" will be characterized by every Princton undergraduate in his senses as an act of downright muckerism. It is the first time I have ever had to feel thoroughly ashamed of a group of Princton men," the Dean said.

MALLORYTYTOWN BARN BURNS

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Nov. 4. (CP) —Fire originating in a barn last night destroyed the farmhouse with outbuildings near Mallorytown of William Donovan, the heavy loss being partly covered by insurance. Livestock were successfuly removed from the barns but crops and implements were lost.

LABORITE PARTY SEEKS CONTROL OF STATE BANK

Would Go to Country on Policy of Nationalizing Commonwealth Institution.

WANT EARLY DISSOLUTION.

Scullin Fears For His Retrenchment and Economic Rehabilitation Plan.

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 4 (C. P. Cable, via Reuter's). — The Labor Party is moving towards political control of the Commonwealth Bank. The text of the decisions reached at the important caucus of the Labor Party at Canberra was published here to-day, revealing the bulk of the Labor Party are in favor of forcing early dissolution of Parliament so the party may go to the country on a policy of nationalizing the Commonwealth Bank and employing the resources of that institution to finance general Government activities.

Scullin Fears For His Plans.

It is this policy that has aroused Prime Minister James Scullin, now in London, to cable to acting Government heads an expression of his deep concern. Premier Scullin, head of a Labor administration, fears that such a policy as that formulated by the party caucus would make it impossible for him to carry out the policy of retrenchment and economic rehabilitation which he undertook following the investigations of Sir Otto Neimeyer, public finance expert.

The most important sections of the Labor policy relating to finance are:

(1) That the Commonwealth Bank be required to create sufficient credit for the following purposes:

(a) To finance the requirements of the Commonwealth Government in connection with all services covered by Parliamentary appropriations;

(b) To meet the proportion of internal loans maturing during the financial year which is not otherwise provided for;

(c) To provide for the financing of State and Commonwealth work programs up to a limit of £220,000,000.

(d) To provide financial accommodating through the Commonwealth Bank and trading banks for State financial institutions and for productive purposes of primary and secondary industries:

(e) The ultimate amount of credit issued under this head to be determined by the effect upon commodity prices.

(2) Credit under various heads to be made available at an interest rate not exceeding five per cent.

Exchange Pool.

(3) An effective exchange pool to provide Australian Governments with first claim on Australian funds in London. The external exchange rate to be so fixed as to give primary producers the full benefit of exchange premium on their exports, to compensate for dimmished market prices.

The whole policy is directed towards dissolution of Parliament in order that the Government may go to the people early next year on a policy of nationalizing the Commonwealth Bank. Labor has been in office since October, 1929.

Federal Cabinet Increases Relief Sought by City

Expenditure For to Aid Unemployment is Not to Exceed $80,000—Paving and Storm Drains Program is Approved Up to $23,802.

MONEY BE SPEND BY CORPORATION BERORE MARCH 31 75 UNEMPLOYED MEN WILL BE ADDED TO CITY'S PAYROLL

Extension of Time Will Be Sought by the Council and Also Change in Program as First Outlined—40 Cents Per Hour is Being Paid On All the Jobs.

Some twenty of Peterborough's unemployed married men went to work yesterday for the city, and this morning the number was increased to thirty. The men are engaged in digging a storm drain on Princess Street, clearing out and walling the Downie Street Creek near McDonnel Street, and in laying a storm drain on the north end of Armour Road.

This is all part of the unemployment relief scheme developed by the City Council in conjunction with the Dominion and Provincial Governments. Late on Saturday word was received from J. A. Ellis, secretary of the Ontario Unemployment Relief Committee, giving approval of Peterborough's relief scheme. More than $80,000 will be spent in the program, because not only did the Dominion Government approve the building of storm drains, but also included the paving and laying of storm drains in East City.

Mr. Ellis' letter was as follows:

"The Government has approved of the following works being undertaken by your municipality — storm drains, $56,198; paving and storm drains, $38,640; total, $94,838; allowed $80,000.

"The grants will be based on expenditures not exceeding the $80,000 above mentioned.

"No payments can be made in respect of expenditures made by your Corporation after March 31, 1931, for direct relief or on account of the construction of the works before set.

"You will note that the list of works and amounts approved, varies somewhat from that which you left with me. It was found necessary to make some reductions, because of the large number of applications for relief which have been received and the large amount involved.

"The amount of $80,000 which you have been allowed can be expended on any of the works mentioned above, so that you can drop any you think it inadvisable to proceed with in view of the reduction made in what you asked for."

Going to Toronto

S. R. Armstrong, City Clerk, will wait on Mr. Ellis in Toronto to-morrow and endeavor to get the cost of laying a water pipe 1,100 feet on Monaghan Road added to the city's relief scheme. This work is requested by the Utilities Commission. Also Mr. Armstrong will ask that the time limit for completing the work, now set for March 31, be extended in the case of Peterborough. He will point out that the city intends getting as much work as possible completed now and throughout the winter in order to give the men work, but that it would be impossible to have the paving started by that time.

Alderman Harry Huffman, chairman of the Board of Works, said today that he expects that 75 unemployed men will be added to the payroll. The men are being paid the usual city rate of 40 cents an hour.

However, they will not be employed steady. Since in order to increase the number of men benefiting by the scheme the gangs will be working every other week. This means that a man will work a week and then be off a week.

In some cases men on the Board of Works' gangs who have had steady employment all summer will be replaced by unemployed men who are in dire circumstances. It has been found necessary, however, to maintain experienced city workmen with the new men.

Preference to Married Men

Married men will get the preference always, he said. The men register at the City's Engineer's office, giving address and length of time in city, married or single, number of children, former place of employment, and length of time out of work.

All the work planned by the city was especially directed to giving as many men as possible work. Cost of material in the work makes up only a small percentage of the whole, so that practically all of the $80,000 will go directly into the pockets of the city's unemployed.

Besides this, Alderman Huffman pointed out that the work was all needed and will make the city almost free of floods and remove the spring water from the streets which formerly created a great nuisance.

Hugh Robertson, of the Dominion Employment Bureau here, said that the city's total unemployed has not increased in the past months and remains at about 400. He believes that the city's unemployment relief program will greatly reduce the needy cases. Mr. Robertson is firm in his opinion that condition in Peterborough are much better than in other Ontario cities.

ALD. F. TUGGEY FAILS A SECONDER FOR HIS MOTION

When Salary Motion is Introduced No Comment is Made By Other Members.

DECORATE FOR CHRISTMAS.

Parks Committee is Asked to Board Up Certain Rinks For Hockey Purposes.

That all the city's machinery is running smoothly was the only conclusion reached after seeing the ease and despatch with which the City Council transacted its business at the meeting last night.

The only event to mark the unbroken calm of proceedings was Alderman Fred Tuggey's motion to rescind the bylaw allowing members of the Council $5 for attending meeetings of the whole Council. The motion fell flat. No one seconded it or commented on it.

The city's streets will be decorated with the usual colored lights for the Christmas season and a lighted tree will be placed in Confederation Square. Alderman R. Cotton was instructed to look after the installation of the lights.

Rinks for Hockey

A deputation of four East City men waited on the Council requesting that a section of the rinks in the city be boarded up so that the boys can play hockey without endangering other skaters. The matter was left with Alderman Stocker, chairman of the Parks Committee to arrange and the Council will endeavour to secure the use of the Quaker Oats rink, which it is understood, will not be used by that company this season.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion was given a grant of $50 to aid them in their relief of the unemployed members of the Legion and their families.

The Peterborough bantam ball team, Provincial champions, will be banqueted. Arrangements for the banquet were left in the hands of Alderman G. A. Macdonald, chairman of the Reception Committee.

JOLIETTE POLICE CAPTURE THIEVES

Twelve of Fifteen of Gang Arrested After Operating For Months.

TOOK OVER $40000.

JOLIETTE, Quebec, Nov. 3. — The Joliette police to-day were satisfied they had rounded up a band of thieves who, operating in the neighboring district for several months, robbed stores and other establishments of at least $40,000. The gang, composed of fifteen men, twelve of which have been arrested, is said in addition to have plundered this district, to have conducted a series of raids in St. John's, Quebec, Waterloo, St. Hyacinthe and Sherbrooke, cities and towns over one hundred miles from here.

Chief of Police Emery Durand, and Captain Vincent, gave out the information yesterday that the twelve men had been arrested.

The number of factories and plants using electricity for motive power in the Union of South Africa is now 3,000.

Unemployment Aid Delegation Appointed

CAMPBELLFORD TOWN COUNCIL WILL BE PAID

By-law Receives Consent of Whole Council at Meeting Monday Night.

PETITION RECEIVED.

Delegation to go to Toronto Wednesday Regarding Unemployment Relief.

CAMPPBELLFORD, Nov. 4 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—By the unanimous vote of the Campbellford Town Council, a by-law was passed at the regular session of that body held last evening in the Public Library, Campbellford, authorizing a remuneration be paid the Mayor and Council for services rendered. Mayor C. H. Davidson occupied the chair, those present being Reeve J. M. Bygott and Councillors N. A. MacColl, W. J. Abernethy, J. R. Battisby, J. O'Sullivan and W. S. Wiggins.

The by-law, which was presented by Mayor Davidson, who relinquished the chair for the occasion, calls for the annual payment of $200.00 to the Mayor, to be given in quarterly sums, and the payment of $5.00 per meeting to the Reeve, Deputy Reeve and all councillors attending the regular or special meetings of the Council. This payment will commence on December 15, 1930.

The motion, which was seconded by Councillor MacColl, went into open discussion.

Mayor Davidson, speaking for it, stated that as far as he could judge it was the opinion of the majority of the public that the Council should receive some recognition of their services. They gave a great deal of their time to the general public in performing their duties as councillors. This also applied to the Mayor who was often called upon to head benevolent subscriptions, and often was money out by holding office. He thought that a great many of the men who would do good work in office would not spend the time for nothing.

When questioned if he thought it was wise to bring the matter forward so near the end of the present Council's term of office, the Mayor said that the time to do it was now, and that if the people did not want the present Council in they could easily put it out.

The by-law was read three times, passed, signed and sealed and the yeas and nays called for by Councillor Wiggins, which showed that the measure passed with the sanction of the whole body present.

Petition Read.

A letter was read by the clerk from the Town Clerk of Carleton Place, Ontario, which asked the Compbellford Council to fall in line with a proposal that they were submitting to the Government in regard to the dependents of all those who were convicted under the Liquor Traffic Act. It was felt that the Government should shoulder the responsibility of the support of all who were deprived of their bread-winners instead of the towns and municipalities having to bear the burden. On the motion of Councillor Abernethy, seconded by Councillor O'Sullivan, it was decided that a similar motion as that sub-

PROVIDENCE, R.I., November 3 (C.P.).—A British auxiliary schooner, believed to be the Mazel Tov of Lunenburg, N.S., and believed to contain liquor, was brought to this port this morning by the coastguard cutter Tucker. The Tucker picked the craft up off Gay Head, Mass.

Federal officials ashore said they had not arrived at a decision on whether to proceed against the schooner since it was understood that the captain has protested that he was exercising his rights of shelter in coming into United States waters because his craft was disabled.

Ship Sets Record In Welland Passage

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Nov. 4. (CP)—The package freighter Georgian, under command of Captain Hudson, continued to make records on the Welland ship canal. The first steamer to pass through the new waterway when the northern division was unofficially opened for navigation at Port Weller, she was also the first boat to pass through the twin flight locks at Thorold and yesterday she set a new record when she clipped four minutes from her own time and negotiated the passage from Thorold to the end of the breakwater in Lake Ontario in three hours and six minutes.

NEW ARRIVALS BEING MISLED

Brig. Gen. Hughes Claims Immigrants Being Told There is No Presbyterian Church.

BLAMES UNITED CHURCH.

OTTAWA, Ont., November 4 (C.P.). — The need for some one to shepherd Presbyterian new arrivals in Canada was urged by Brigadier-General W. St. Pierre Hughes, Superintendent of Penitentiaries, addressing a gathering at which 200 Presbyterians were present from Ottawa and district, to further the campaign for bigger financial support for the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

General Hughes said that some sort of organization was necessary to deal with new arrivals "if only to assist them in tearing up tickets which tell them there is no more a Presbyterian Church in Canada."

The speaker told of a number of Presbyterian families who on arrival were "handed written information that there was no more a Presbyterian Church," and were "asked to affiliate themselves with the United Church, into which the Presbyterian Church had been swallowed up."

THORNTON SHOWS TAXES C.N.R. PAID

Claims Sum From 1926 to 1929 Was Only $3,000,000 That Paid By C.P.R.

REFUTES CRITICISM.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 4 (C.P.) — Challenging the statement which he said had been made from time to time, that the Canadian National Railway fed on the public exchequer and was exempt from taxation, Sir Henry Thornton, Chairman and President of the system, told members of the Toronto Board of Trade Club that from 1926 to 1929 the railway had paid in Federal, Provincial and Municipal taxes $18,709,000. This amount, he said, was only $3,000,000 less than paid out by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The difference in the figures, Sir Henry stated, was largely explained by the fact that the former Intercolonial and Transcontinental Railways were Government Railways and as such, paid no taxes.

Alluding to some of the intimate problems of the company, Sir Henry refuted criticism that an undue amount of capital expenditure had been carried on in the C.N.R. system during the past eight years.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating," he said, "and in 1922 we had a net revenue of less than $3,000,000, while in 1928 that had grown to more than $50,000,000.

Continuing, he referred to the present business situation, stating that Canada was old historically, but not industrially. She had all the basic requirements of a great nation and could not be held back.

SUGGESTS GOV'T CUT EXPENDITURE BY DOLE REVISION

Would Reduce Production Costs Enabling Goods to Compete in World Markets.

STIMULATE NEW INDUSTRIES

Claims Arrangement of Agriculture Could Absorb 500,000 Workers.

LONDON, England, November 4 (C.P.). — Far-reaching plans to reduce Great Britain's number of unemployed by 1,000,000 in the next twelve months have been presented to the Government by Right Hon. David Lloyd-George and his Liberal colleagues, who have been in conference with Labor Cabinet members during the Parliamentary recess.

The Liberal plans contemplate the elimination of what Lloyd-George and his associates call the "refractory million" or the approximate number of British workers—between 700,000 and 1,000,000—who represent the "excess above the numbers nominally in course of transfer from one industry to another, which has been persistent since the war."

Four Schemes Outlined

The authors of this plan, who have given it the title "How to Tackle Unemployment," have formulated their program, in effect, as follows:

First—Reduction of production costs to a level which will enable British goods to compete successfully in world markets. This, the plan proposes, should be a reduction of roughly 10 per cent., varying in different industries. The Government, it is proposed, should set an example by cutting its own expenditures 10 per cent, partly by "drastic revision of the dole."

The plan's second proposal is for Government stimulation of new enterprise and industry to absorb those thrown out of work by rationalization of older industries.

Third—The Liberals suggest encouragement of agriculture could absorb 500,000 additional workers, and meantime 150,000 could be employed in reconditioning land, and building equipment.

Fourth—An intensified and accelerated program of national developments and reconstruction is proposed, "So that those thrown out of work are given useful and healthful employment, instead of being kept in idleness."

LADY STOWAWAY CAUGHT ON LINER

Found on Levithian, Woman Claims Her Mother Lives at Chatham.

LANDS AT NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Nov. 4 (C.P.)—After a 91-mile tramp over English highways in high-heeled slippers and sheer silk hose, walking up a gangplank and stowing away on a homebound liner looks easy.

Mrs. Irene Albro, 31, of Pontiac, Mich., daughter of a Chatham, Ont., woman, who said she has a daughter, 16, was brought to port on the S.S. Leviathan yesterday after such an experience—one of two women stowaways on the vessel.

While walking from Cornwall to Southampton she resolved to stow away on a liner. She procured a visitor's pass to the Leviathan at Southampton and on the second day she made her presence known.

Mrs. Albro told ship's officers she was born in Canada but her husband was an American citizen. She said her mother, Mrs. John Weygent, lived at 13 Alexander Avenue, Chatham, Ont.

DURING WORLD WAR.

R.S.M. Jack Playford of the 3rd Prince of Wales' Dragoons, who was on parade Sunday with his unit at Millbrook, can claim an experience probably not often duplicated in the British Army.

He is an old Imperial having served with the Sussex Regiment in the South African campaign. Living in this city at the outbreak of the war, and being on the Imperial reserve he was immediately recalled to join his unit in England, and served with the Royal Army Service Corps. Getting a "blighty" at the battle of the Marne, he was sent back to Canada; but had only been in this city for five days when he re-enlisted with the 93rd Regiment and served in France until the Armistice with the 2nd Battalion.

He possesses the South African medal, the Mons Star with bar, and what is most unusual, two sets of the Great War and Victory medals. One set having been issued for his services with the Imperial Forces and the other set in recognition of his services with the Canadian expeditionary Force.

Settle Diversion Question.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 4. (CP)—The United States has only practically valueless navigation rights on the river where it runs through Canada itself, under an 1871 treaty, declared B. K. Sandwell, Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada, and well-known economist and novelist addressing the Young Men's Canadian Club here on the St. Lawrence waterways.

Canada should not give that country any rights on the Canadian section of the proposed development until settlement of the question of diverting water from the Great Lakes system is reached, nor should Canada bear more than one-third of the cost of the project, he said.

BUSINESS MEN IN HASTINGS ORGANIZE LOCAL ASSOCIATION

A. J. McKenty is Elected First President of Organization.

SUGGESTIONS MADE.

HASTINGS, Nov. 4. (Examiner Correspondence).—There was a large turnout at Lynch's Hall on Monday night for the purpose of forming a business men's association for Hastings. Hastings at the present time has no organization of any kind to work in co-operation with the village council in matters that are of particular interest to the village.

Chas. P. Doughy was the prime factor in having the meeting called, and in opening the meeting he explained the lack of any organization amongst the business and professional men of the village, and that now was the opportune time for them to get together when other towns and villages are going after Government grants to aid the unemployed, why not get some for Hastings. There are a great many ways in which the money could be used, such as erecting water tanks on the north and south sides of the river for the benefit of better fire protection. Another thing would be to secure a suitable piece of land that could be converted into amusement park of some kind, which would provide some kind of accommodation for the growing tourist traffic.

After Mr. Doughty's opening remarks, the meeting went into discussion on the main topic before the citizens of Hastings at the present time—that is the Hydro question.

Reeve Dr. Wilson and councillors J. J. Collins, W. M. Fowlds, R. C. Doxsee and Clerk Alex Wilson, were all present at the meeting and gave short addresses outlining what the Council have done on the Hydro question the past year. At the present time they have an appointment with the Hydro in Toronto on Wednesday when the Council is going up in a body and Mr. C. R. Fowlds of the Fowlds Co., Ltd. is going with them.

After a thorough discussion on Hydro the following officers were elected:

President—A. J. McKenty.
Vice-President—A. V. German.
Sec.-Treas.—Chas. P. Doughty.
Executive committee — J. F. McCarthy, L. E. Kelley, A. Parker, W. A. Lawrie, W. M. Fowlds, A. Wilson, Dr. Wilson and T. A. Coughlan.

A motion was made and carried that the executive make a canvass of the business men of the village to make sure that they get 100 p.c. membership, then a small fee can be set.

During the meeting some very good suggestions were brought out, one in particular being that the merchants get together and in some way try and induce the people from the country to drive into Hastings on Saturday night and do their buying, not going to other nearby towns and just buying what they have to in Hastings.

The Council will report to the Business Men's Association the outcome of their trip to Toronto re the Hydro.

LEADERS EXHAUSTED.

WALTHAM ABBEY, Essex, Eng., Nov. 4. (CP)—A warning that "the next election, which may come at any time, contains the disastrous possibility that the result would bring no great change in parties, but would leave a much longer spell of deadlock uncertainty" was given here by Right Hon. Winston Churchill, the former Chancellor of the Exchequer.

"Another Parliament as futile and as hopeless as this one would be with us" said Mr. Churchill. "It would be a Parliament born tired and born to become a spendthrift—as this one. The three big whales—Baldwin, Lloyd George and Macdonald—who have been busy fighting each other, are in a somewhat exhausted condition now, and each of the whales is being attacked by two sharks. Kipling Scores Gov't Upon Wreath Laying

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 4.— Rudyard Kipling, poet and author, struck a popular chord in the hearts of many Britons with a powerful poem, "Memories," bitterly attacking the Labor Government's proposal to lessen the number of official wreath-laying ceremonies at tombs of unknown soldiers.

The bitterness, fighting power and vigor, characteristic of Kiping's finest work, were regardel by critics as evident in the poem, published in the London Daily Telegraph. Some declared the verses might some day rank with his famous "Recessional."

LANCASTER STATES RUMORS UNFOUNDED

Road Contract on Peterborough-Tweed Highway Not Let to Hamilton Construction Company.

Street rumours that the contract for the construction of the five-mile stretch of the Peterborough—Tweed highway from the city to Shearer's cheese factory had been let to the Brennan Construction Company of Hamilton could not be verified locally this morning. This link is known as the "block road."

T. P. Lancaster of Havelock, member of the Legislature for Peterborough county, informed the Examiner that the Brennan Construction Company's tender was the lowest of those received by the Department of Highways, but he could not say definitely that the contract had been awarded. Mr. Lancaster stated that the Rayner Construction Company of Toronto had received the contract for the three-mile diversion east of Norwood, and although the work has been started the complete route of this section of the highway has not been definitely determined.

The Suburban Area Commission is maintaining that reach of the Norwood road from the city to Shearer's corners, but east of that turn the Department of Highways has charge of maintainance.

Mr. Lancaster told the Examiner that Havelock has forty-five men employed in laying cement walks and drains to relieve unemployment in the village. A grant of $3,000 for this work was received from the government's fund.

Limitation of the heights of buildings in London, where the tendency is toward higher structure, is recommended in a combined report by a London Society, the Royal Institute of British Architects and the Town Planning Institute.

TRUCE REACHED IN BREAD WAR

Price for 24-oz. Loaf Fixed at Ten Cents After Having Touched a Low Mark.

SIX CENTS

HALIFAX, N.S., November 4.—Following a "price war" waged by the bakers of Halifax for nearly three weeks, a settlement has been reached and the retail cost of bread is now fixed at 10 cents after having made swoops from 12 to 13 down to 6 cents a loaf—less than the charge in 1914.

The following statement was given out on behalf of seven leading bakers who finally reached an agreement ending the price slashing.

"The price cutting of bread indulged in by the bakers of Halifax during the past few weeks and which has cost them many thousands of dollars, is over.

"It apparently originated when the price was reduced two cents by the majority of the bakers on October 6 last.

"Some of the bakers felt that such a large reduction in the face of actual costs was not justified, and in an endeavour to get what they deemed was a reasonable reduction, the game started. There seems to be in the minds of the public a great uncertainty as to what bread really costs the bakers.

"At the present price of flour, bread costs the bakers of Halifax from 9 3-10 to 9 6-10 cents per loaf; this for bread of good quality, full weight, wrapped, and including delivery charges. The price of 9 cents to dealers and 10 cents to consumers leaves practically no margin of profit to the manufacturer, but it was felt in view of a certain amount of unemployment the bakers should do their part in reducing the price of their product to the lowest possible figure.

"A fair price for bread to-day, consistent with a reasonable profit to the baker, would be 9½ cents and 10½ cents, but such a price is impracticable due to the fact that we have no smaller coin than one cent.

"All differences having been amicably adjusted, the price of bread on Monday, October 27, will be 9 cents to dealers and 10 cents to consumers, until the price of flour advances, necessitating an increase."

SPEAKING OF HOLIDAYS.

The approach of Thanksgiving, which brings a promise of a brief holiday for most people, means nothing to the manager of Biggar and Crawford and his assistants, who will be obliged to work on account of the fact that the New York stock market remains open—Thanksgiving Day in the United States coming considerably later than in Canada.

Due to the fact that the dates of national holidays here and south of the line do not coincide, the stockbrokers' offices remain open on the King's Birthday, Dominion Day, Thanksgiving Day, and on various other civic and national holidays. The fates hit them the other way also, for on such days as Independence Day, and Columbus Day, the Toronto Stock Market carries on as usual.

His arm shattered one of the windows, but he was apparently unhurt, and not unduly concerned by the incident, in which he narrowly escaped injury.

CHICKEN THIEF GIVEN ONE YEAR

Prisoner Caught in Port Perry Chicken House Claims He Was on Surprise Party.

MAGISTRATE UNCONVINCED.

TORONTO, November 4 (C.P.) — Surprise parties were the order on an early morning at Port Perry recently.

Roland Jamieson was given one year because he was found with a chicken.

The story of his counsel, J. E. Harris, of Port Perry, before Second Divisional Court at Osgoode Hall yesterday was that Roland and his brother Frank were planning a surprise party upon Farmer McGlynn.

Chief Justice Latchford suggested it was a surprise party on the chicken.

Appeal Fails.

The net result is the appeal failed, and Roland Jamieson goes down for breaking into the poultry house of Peel brothers.

Chief—What time was it?

Mr. Harris—Two a.m.

Chief—What doing?

A.—Visiting a man.

Q.—At 2 a.m.?

A.—No, my Lord; they went there having had a couple of drinks, in the spirit of a lark.

Q.—Not a chicken?

A.—They took a chicken.

Mr. Justice Fisher—They were disturbing the sleep of another chicken.

Mr. Harris—Frank Jamieson took the chicken and is willing to plead guilty.

Chief—To breaking in?

A.—To stealing.

Q.—There were some interruptions?

A.—Yes.

Q.—By an irate chicken raiser?

A.—Yes.

Q.—There was a tussle?

A.—Yes, by three other men.

Chief Justice—That is rather unfortunate for your client. The appeal failed.

CAMPBELLFORD TOWN COUNCIL WILL BE PAID

mitted by Carleton Place be drawn up and forwarded.

In regard to the matter of the unemployment relief the clerk read a telegram from J. A. Ellis, secretary of the Unemployment Relief Fund, asking that a delegation wait on him at Toronto on Wednesday to discuss the estimate that was ubmitted last week.

This matter was discussed by the Council, especially in regard to the extra expense that will be incurred if the work is done when the ground is frozen, and suggestions put forward for the delegation to consider when they meet the Government representative in Toronto.

On motion of Councillor MacColl, seconded by Councillor O'Sullivan, a delegation consisting of Mayor Davidson, Reeve Bygott, and Councillor Wiggins, was appointed to attend the interview in Toronto in reference to the work for the unemployed in Campbellford.

Mrs. Hollings addressed the Council asking that a sewer and water main be laid into her property by the gravel pits. She stated that she was one of two residents of the street, the other one being unable to sign a petition. This request had come before the Council before and had the sympathy of that body, and it was decided on motion that this request be referred to the Road and Bridge Committee, with the suggestion that the matter be held over until the delegation returned from Toronto.

The petition of John A. Mitchell, asking for a water main on the Havelock Road, was declared by the clerk as being defeated, there being nine votes against it and seven for it, and on the motion of Reeve Bygott, seconded by Councillor Wiggins, the petition was filed.

Doubly Taxed

J. Farrell appeared before the Council to ask that his tax on the frontage of his property on Front street be remitted. This was for a water main for which he was already paying a tax on the Rear street frontage.

Speaking on this matter Councillor O'Sullivan thought it was an injustice that Mr. Farrell should be doubly taxed for the same property, and the whole council was in agreement. However, the qucation was a matter of law, and on motion of Reeve Bygott, seconded by Councillor Battisby, Mr. Farrell's request in regard to the matter of the double assessment of the water main be left with the town solicitor to investigate and to give his expert opinion at the next meeting of the council.

The accounts to the amount of $1,429.16 were presented and passed, and on motion the council adjourned.

HALIBURTON MAN BURNED TO DEATH

When Residence on West Guildford Road is Destroyed—Living Alone.

LINDSAY, November 3. — George Windover, living about two miles from Haliburton village on the West Guildford road, was burned beyond recognition on Friday night, when fire starting about 11.30, as far as can be learned from an overheated stove, gutted the dwelling in which he was living alone. Information received from an eye-witness of the affair was to the effect that Windover had been living alone for about a year-and-a-half. For the past two months he had been occupying a house built by Mr. Stevens, Great War veteran. There is no water supply near the house, and the building was doomed from the outset. On Saturday morning the charred remains of the dead man were removed to the Coroner's office by Provincial Constable Warren.

Among his relatives are three daughters, Mrs. A. McDonald Mrs. Robert Carr and Mrs. J. Drummond of Peterborough.

The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon to Haliburton cemetery. Local officers of the Salvation Army conducting the service.

HAVELOCK

Mrs. Harry Burnett and children of Smith Falls are the guests for a few days of friends in the village.

Mrs. Douglas Hutchinson and children Shirley and Marilyn have returned from a two weeks visit with Toronto friends.

Miss Annie Carr of Peterborough is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carr.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whaley and family of Peterborough were Sunday visitors with Mrs. Whaley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Barnett.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Clarke spent Sunday at their home in the village. The many friends of Mrs. Michael Barnett who has been ill at her home will be pleased to hear that she is making a good recovery.

The condition of Miss Annie Voyer who has been very ill at her home here continues unchanged.

His Grace Bishop O'Connor of Peterborough will administer the Sacrament of Confirmation to nine candidates at the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel on Sunday morning next immediately after the regular parish Mass at eight-thirty.

Mrs. Petres Kilail of Toronto is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Aboud.

"The Columbia" After Landing on Tresco Beach

DOPE IS SLOWLY S APPING VIRILIT Y OF BLOOD STOCK

Skilled Administrator of Stimulants to Race Horses is Seldom Caught.

NEED PROMPT ACTION.

(By Douglas Eppes. Special to The Examiner. Copyright, 1930.)

TORONTO, Nov. 3.—Though the Canadian racing season closed without any similar official disciplinary action against horsemen as is revealed by a cable this week from England, stating that two trainers had been "marked off" because their horses showed traces of lead, it would be idle to suppose that doping is unknown in our turf world. In fact, on the contrary, the writer maintains that so general is the practice of giving giving horses shots of something to speed them up, that our turf authorities—as is the case with those who govern the sport in the United States—are loath to start an investigation into a pernicious custom that is slowly but surely sapping the virility of the blood stock on this continent.

There have been instances in recent years in which track veterinarians have reported to the stewards their suspicions regarding the drugging of certain horses, and it is in the records that these horses have been refused permission to start, their owners or trainers have been ruled off. But the truth of the matter is that only in flagrant cases, in which the wild behavior of the horse has attracted widespread comment, has official action been forthcoming. In other words, the unskilled administrator of a speed ball, or an injection, or a powder, has been penalized; whereas the trainer or owner or stableman who knows how to stimulate a racing thoroughbred without betraying his hand escapes scot free.

Pick "Hot" Horses.

To-day, the racing public goes into the paddock to pick out the "hot" and "cold" horses, a sad commentary on our racing. When the discerning turf fan notes a horse sweating profusely, the pupils of his eyes dilated, and a wild look in them; when he observes the quickened respirations of the drugged animal, he decides that this horse is 'being sent' as the track vernacular has it. And that is the horse for his money. There may be, and, in all probability, there are several other animals in this particular race in like physical condition, which, however, only causes the speculator to deduce that these also are out to do their best. But so far as the 'cold' horses are concerned—that is to say those steeds that are standing quietly and betraying no outward sign of having been 'doctored' he eliminates them further from his consideration. At times, he is wrong; but more often he is right, even though his selection may have fallen on the wrong 'hot' horse.

Not all horses that have been given a noxious drug betray symptoms such as described above. True, the majority do, but there are horsemen who have special 'tonics' that reveal no visible effects after administration.

A Toronto breeder, who is more interested in the showing and hunting field than in the racing game, told the writer that he had had an unfortunate experience with a mare he had purchased from the race tracks for mating purposes. She had been accustomed to dope for a long time, he averred, and it took him close to three years to rid her system of the poison. Another evil side of the doping practice is that race mares, who have been victims to it, often throw first foals that are puny and unfit to make a living on the track or off it.

Runs Better "Cold."

I knew of a case in which a man claimed a horse that had been stimulated every time the former owner thought he could win a purse and a bet with it. The man I am speaking of decided to run the horse 'cold' and to his surprise the animal finished well up. He won his next start, and as long as the horse remained in this owner's possession he never was given anything to increase his speed. Which goes to show that, in some cases, horses do not benefit by inward assistance. But sad to relate, so many horsemen are welded to the hypodermic and bottle plan of training that they have recourse to it every time they send a horse to the post to win.

How can the pernicious practice be stamped out? I imagine that the English stewards have shown us the way, and if our turf authorities also were to notify all owners and trainers that they reserve to themselves the right of examining the winner of any race, the dope brigade would have to disband or be ruled off.

OBITUARY

MRS. JAMES MAHOOD.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 4 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late Mrs. James Mahood took place on Friday afternoon from her late residence on William Street, and was attended by a large number of friends and neighbors. Rev. W. J. Creighton officiated at the service, which was very simple but profoundly impressive.

Mr. Creighton spoke of the valuable services of the deceased in the organizations and work of St. John's Church. Her death leaves a gap in the ranks of the active church workers, which it will be difficult to fill.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. Thomas and James Watson, John Blakeley, S. E. White, A. Davis and Mr. Scott (Peterborough). Interment was made in Hillside Cemetery.

Elizabeth Anne Balsdon was the elder daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Balsdon, and spent her life in Lakefield. She was married to James Mahood about thirty-five years ago, and had three sons and one daughter. Her eldest son, Sherman, was killed in action in France in August, 1918, and another son, James, died in early childhood; John of St. Catharines and Miss Mae survive. Mr. Mahood died in March, 1928.

For years Mrs. Mahood was the faithful and efficient teacher of the primary department of St. John's Sunday School. She was a past president of the W.A. and an active member of the A.Y.P.A. and of the Women's Institute. She was known as a kindly neighbor, a faithful wife and a devoted mother, one who enjoyed the activities of the village and church, playing always a useful part until her health failed.

TORONTO POLICE WANT TWO THUGS

Arrested in New York Two Wanted For Homicide and Robbery.

COLLECTION OF TOOLS.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Nov. 4 (C.P.)—Elmer J. Gilleg, Detroit, and Sydney Harris, Toronto, wanted in Canada for robbery and homicide yesterday were held without bail when they appeared for preliminary hearing on charges of being fugitives from justice.

Further hearing was set for November 6th.

Both were arrested in a furnished room on Saturday. Baggage found in the room contained what detectives described as an unusually complete collection of burglar's tools.

In addition to the charge of being fugitives from justice which both face, Harris was charged ith breach of the Sullivam law in having concealed arms in his possession and Giller with the possession of burglar tools.

Giller is wanted in London, Ont., for homicide in connection with a robbery at Melbourne Ont. and is said to have escaped from prison in 1921 at Lansing, Mich. Both men are wanted also for payroll holdup in Toronto when they are alleged to have taken $1,500.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Nov. 4.—Cheese and potatoes were lower and butter and eggs remained unchanged on the produce market here yesterday. Trading was light.

The cheese market was lower with asking prices for Ontario cheese being 14c and Quebec 13½c a pound. Receipts totalled 857 boxes.

A general decline featured the potato market. New Brunswick Green Mountains, ex-track, were $1, while Cobblers and North Shore Mountains were selling at 90c per 80-pound bag. Prince Edward Island Cobblers were selling at 95c a 90-pound bag.

The butter market was quiet and unchanged with Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery quoted at 29½c to 29¾c a pound, in cartons, while to retailers, solids were 32c and prints 33c a pound. Receipts were 54 boxes.

Prices on the egg market were steady. Less than carlot prices for fresh extras were 53c to 55c; fresh firsts, 45c and fresh seconds 30c to 32c a dozen. Receipts were 272 cases.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, November 4. — Wheat was under moderate selling pressure most of yesterday's session, and the market uncovering little in the way of support, sank to sharply lower levels. Both November and December futures broke below the 70c mark while May approached within a fraction of the 75c level. Slight recoveries occurred from time to time, but headway was not easy, and the market closed with net losses of 1½ to 1¾ cents for the day.

Export business, so far as the local shipping trade was concerned, was very disappointing, and total sales over the week-end and during the morning were small. Foreign cables showed weakness abroad.

With the exception of No 2 Northern, which was sought by millers and shippers, demand for the various grades of cash wheat was meagre. In the coarse grains market, all commodities were liquidated in sympathy with wheat.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Nov. 4.—Receipts at the Union stock yards yesterday were: 5,034 cattle, 942 calves, 978 hogs, 5,819 sheep and lambs.

The cattle offering is some 1,300 lighter than last Monday. Opening trade was slow on anything but good to choice butcher cattle and baby beef. Buyers are paying steady prices for the best with a few choice steers and heifers sold early at $7.40 per cwt. and baby beef brought $10 to $11.50. Common cows sold at $2.50 to $3.50. Stockers and feeders are bringing steady prices ranging from $4.50 to $6.25, according to quality. Very few common killers sold up to 11 o'clock.

The calf market is weak with prices at the opening being 50c cwt. lower than last week's close. Choice vealers are selling at $12 a cwt. and grassers are selling as low as $3.50 cwt.

The lamb market is unsettled with bids down 25c cwt. from last week at $8 cwt. for good ewes and wethers. Only a few fancy lambs sold at $8.25, but the bulk is unsold at 11 o'clock. No sheep sold up to that time. Bids on hogs are lower at $9.75 cwt. ot $10 cwt. f.o.b. and $10.75 to $11 w.o.c., for bacon. No sales up to 11 o'clock for hogs.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4. — Wheat, corn, oats and rye, each yesterday broke the season's low price record. March and May deliveries of wheat, May and July deliveries of corn, and all deliveries of oats and rye, were the star performers in the record breaking. Liberal receipts of wheat and corn together with heavy selling on the part of holders of rye, had a notable bearish effect, the buying demand being thin on account of a general holiday to-day.

Primary arrivals, both of domestic wheat and corn were shown to have increased rapidly in the last few days. The total for wheat yesterday was 1,858,000 bushels, against 1,291,000 bushels a year ago. Private crop estimates issued here indicated that the acreage of winter wheat seeded this fall in the United States would show less of a decrease than expected, the aggregate being 41,611,000 acres compared with 43,690,000 acres seeded last fall.

Norham

NORHAM, Nov. 4 (Examiner Correspondence).—A jolly evening was spent on Wednesday night in Norham church hall when the Young People's organized class staged a Hallowe'en social.

The President Mr. Gordon Mitchell officiated as chairman for the evening.

The following programme was given:

Singing, Maple Leaf; reading, Miss Edith Brenton, solo (in costume), Mr. John Rintoul; recitation, Miss Edna Evans; instrumental trio (banjos and guitars), Misses F. Lean, Dora Palmateer and Lucille Palmateer; words of welcome, Mrs. Clare; recitation, Miss Helen Runnells; duet, Messrs. John Rintoul and Frank Muggridge; address, Class Loyalty, Rev. D. R. Clare.

A Hallowe'en contest was won by Mrs. Isaac and Wesley Clare (Srs.) and by Austin Huycke in the Junior group.

An apple-eating contest with apples suspended by strings caused a great deal of merriment and was won by Austin Huycke. Also eating a biscuit and whistling afterwards, caused a hearty laugh. This was won by Clarence McCaig.

Two fortune-tellers behind a curtain carried on a flourishing business.

A hearty lunch, in which pumpkin pie was a main item was served.

Shower

On Thursday evening a large number of friends from Norham and Warkworth, met at the house of Mr. and Mrs. John Diamond to do honor to their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. William Honey, who returned on Thursday last from their wedding trip to Banff and other western points.

After an hour of social intercourse Mr. and Mrs. Honey were asked to sit down near a table laden with parcels, which were presented to them from friends of the Norham church and community.

Mr. Honey responded for his bride and himself in a few well chosen words.

After the parcels were unwrapped lunch was served.

Personals

Rev. D. R. and Mrs. Clare attended the Teacher Training class in Campbellford United Church on Tuesday evening.

Rev. and Mrs. George Williams of Toronto and Rev. Fred Lane of Canton visited Norham parsonage on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. J. Diamond spent a few days in Toronto this week.

Miss Marguerite Huycke, R.N., of Toronto is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Huycke.

On Friday morning, Mr. and Mrs. F. Huycke, accompanied by Miss Marguerite Huycke, motored to Ottawa, where they will visit their daughter. Miss Winnie Huycke nurse-in-training in the Civic Hospital.

Mrs. David Evans visited her sister, Mrs. Clysdale, Westwood, this week.

Mrs. Windover (Sr.) was the guest of Mrs. David Cryderman, Morganston, on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Windover and Mrs Ella Campbell motored to Peterborough on Thursday.

Home Cooking Sale Successful Affair

HAVELOCK, Nov. 4.—(Examiner Correspondence). — Havelock Girl Guides held a bazaar and sale of home made cooking on Saturday afternoon in Mr. Leeson's new store, when a very large number of friends took advantage of the opportunity to procure something baked by some of the excellent cooks for which Havelock is noted. Some very pretty articles of fancy work were also disposed of, and the handsome sum of $44 was realized. It is understood this is to go towards the purchase price of Guide uniforms. Regular meetings are held every Friday evening at 7.30 o'clock sharp at the Havelock Mission Hall. Mrs. Jean Moore, captain, is in charge.

After the Danish three-master schooner Doris recently went ashore at the mouth of the Tees and the crew of nine was taken off by the life savers of Hartlepool, England, the captain stated that he had dreamed that the vessel would be wrecked.

HELP THE Y.W.C.A.

The Young Women's Christian Association is this week making its annual appeal to the citizens of Peterborough for $2,000 with which to balance its budget.

When it is realized that in spite of the heavy cost of the many services provided by the Y.W.C.A. for the benefit of Peterborough's girls and young women the membership comes as close as this modest sum signifies, to being self-sustaining, it becomes evident that it is being operated on a most efficient basis and that full value in the line of services may be expected from the donations which the public at this time is being asked to make.

The value of the Y.W.C.A. as a community rallying point for girls and young women is so widely recognized that it does not seem necessary to do more than mention it in urging a hearty response to the present campaign.

Those who are in a position to assist, no matter how little, in the financing of this most praiseworthy institution will find a subscription to the Y.W.C.A. a worth-while investment, paying dividends in the form of a happier, healthier and better informed womanhood, surely a work to be encouraged and supported.

The Y.W.C.A. helps the community; at this time the community should show its gratitude by helping the Y.W.C.A.

CANADIAN GOODS.

In continuing his series of advertisements appealing for a greater sale of Canadian products throughout the country, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, makes a special plea to the retail merchants of Canada to do their part in encouraging the sale of Dominion products.

Undoubtedly the retailers are in a position to greatly stimulate the buying of Canadian-produced goods if they believe that it would be in their interest as well as in the general interest to do so.

They can—if they see fit—cut down their own purchases of foreign goods, replacing the importations with Canadian-made or Canadian-grown products, and at the same time they can increase interest in Canadian goods by giving them prominence on their shelves, in their window displays and through their advertising.

The Minister of Trade and Commerce instances the case of Canadian foods and their sale by grocers.

"With a few exceptions," he points out, "nearly all Canadian-made foods originate on Canadian farms. The more your customers favor Canadian-made foods the busier Canadian farmers will be producing the materials from which those foods are made. And the busier Canadian farmers are the better it will be for all other classes, including, of course, your customers, whose prosperity rises and falls with the prosperity of the farmers."

Mr. Stevens has given the retailers as well as the buying public something over which to think.

CANADIAN LITERATURE.

This week, under the sponsorship of the Canadian Authors' Association, is to be known throughout the Dominion as Canadian Book Week, and Canadians who buy and read books are asked at this time to give more than the usual attention to literary works of Canadian origin.

The effort deserves to succeed, for Canadian writers in many fields are now turning out some decidedly worth-while books that command respect on their own merits and not simply because they are the work of Canadians.

Nobody proposes, as the Ottawa Journal points out, that a worthless book should be purchased by a Canadian for the reason that it was written by another Canadian.

There would be no logic in such an appeal; nor would Canadian literature receive any lasting benefit therefrom.

The fact simply is, that Canada's literary expression is showing a splendid development, and that not only in the realm of fiction but in history, biography, poetry, essays and the science Canadian works are attracting widespread attention.

Canadians who read—and fortunately the percentage is fairly high—should acquaint themselves more fully with the literary products of their own country, and there is no more suitable time to begin than this week when Canadian books are being featured throughout the Dominion.

STRICTER INSPECTION NEEDED.

While circumstances in connection with the deportation of several women who had been for many years resident in Canada are such as to arouse general indignation, the publicity given this whole question of deportation may in the long run prove beneficial.

It will, in the first instance, result in more humane treatment for others who may find themselves in danger of being banished from this country, and it should serve at the same time to warn immigration officials that more care must be paid to the inspection of immigrants.

There are cases that cause general wonder at the apparent laxity of the authorities at ports of entry.

In police court here yesterday a Finn, whose very appearance suggested that his mentality was of a very low type, and told the court that within the past two years he has twice entered this country, coming out early last year, returning to Finland when he become ill, and eventually landing back in Canada this year.

This man, who pleaded guilty to breaking into an Otonabee home, will be recommended for deportation on the completion of his three months' reformatory sentence, and everybody who observed him in the courtroom was amazed that a person of his type should be twice passed by immigration authorities as a desirable, new citizen of this country.

Having regard to the experience immigration officials have gained in sizing up new arrivals in Canada, it is surprising to learn that an immigrant of this kind has succeeded on two occasions in running the gauntlet.

With over 3,000 deportations reported this year, it is evident that there has been a lack of intelligent inspection at ports of entry.

EMPLOY LOCAL LABOR.

There will probably be some sympathy felt for the attitude of unemployed workers of Cornwall, who took offense at the importation of a group of foreign laborers from Montreal by a firm which had taken a contract for work on the addition to a local factory. But few will condone the method of demonstrating their protest which was employed by an element of the Cornwall men, who set upon the Montrealers, whom they greatly outnumbered, and drove them away with physical violence and injury. The Cornwall police promptly laid charges against leaders of the demonstration, and the law had to take its course in the matter. The incident was not a fortunate one, and the action of the mob, while not inexplicable, human nature being what it is, was un-Canadian in every sense of the term.

While the wrath of the multitude descended upon the astonished heads of the imported laborers, it was no doubt against the contracting firm in question that it was essentially directed. And it must be admitted that the latter's action would seem, on the surface, to be ill-advised. As far as possible local labor should have the preference in all such cases, and at least in instances where the need is largely for unskilled workers the local men, however small the community, should fill the bill as readily as laborers from the larger centres. In times of scarcity of labor, firms often import men, usually of foreign extraction, from other centres in order to avoid paying very high wages, but at present this factor should not apply, since with general unemployment local labor is in no position to demand high rates of pay.

It should be the care of the municipal authorities to see that their own people are given the preference in work progressing under their jurisdiction. In times of economic stress these questions loom with much sharper importance, but the principle of local labor for local works is applicable at all times, and if consistently applied would tend to further stability and uniformity of development throughout the land.—Brantford Expositor.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE.

There is some point to the claim of the Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George that his party remnant does not reflect the proportion of the popular vote in Great Britain, as polled on May 30, 1929. At the moment the Liberals can only muster 58 members in the British House of Commons; the Labor members number 288; there are 261 Conservatives; and there are five Independents and two Irish Nationalists. (The 261 Conservatives include Vice-Admiral E. A. Taylor, the Empire Trade member who was elected in the South Paddington by-election.)

Following out the hint of Mr. Lloyd George about the inequality of representation, the total vote of 1929 follows: the Conservatives had 8,591,052 votes and elected 260 members; the Labor party polled less than the Tories and secured 8,331,480 votes to elect 289 members; the Liberals scored no less than 5,257,536 ballots to gain just 58 seats in the House.

So the Laborites got one seat in Parliament for every 29,000 votes polled by them in the general elections; the Conservatives got one seat for every 33,000 Tory votes; but Mr. Lloyd George and his Grit henchmen had to amass 90,000 votes for every single seat. So Mr. Lloyd George claims, every Liberal member of the House of Commons represents as much volume of popular opinion in the Old Country as do every three Laborites or every three Conservatives. And when the Georgian oratory gets under way a rather pretty point can be made of the situation. Of course, it does not get him anywhere in so far as actual progress in the House of Commons is concerned. But it makes quite a wonderful chord on which to strike when appealing for popular support and the chance to try what both Conservatives and Laborites have failed so conspicuously to do—to relieve unemployment.

And Lloyd George intends to harp upon that string throughout the session. He gave fair warning in his address in the Commons. He twitted Premier James Ramsay MacDonald on busying himself with less important things like the naval conference and the imperial economic conference. In the meantime, according to the Little Welshman, Mr. MacDonald has allowed the unemployment question to dawdle along without any serious effort being made towards finding a solution. It is a pretty good political cry and Mr. George does not miss many bets, even if his following in Parliament is but a sorry remnant of former days of power. And, if the opportunist from Wales thinks he sees a good chance to win in an appeal to the country, he is in the strategic position of being able to throw his force into an alliance with the Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, to oust Mr. MacDonald and precipitate a vote. Whether he could pick up the more than 3,000,000 votes separating the Liberals from both the Laborites and Conservatives would be another matter. The little papers placed in the ballot boxes would decide that interesting point.—Border Cities Star.

CHAPTER XV.

HENRY CARTER-SNOWDON

Dorn dropped down upon Titan Pass from the west. It was not wisdom to come out of the north and betray the direction of Aurore's refuge to any suspicious eyes that might be watching the Silver Hawk.

Skimming low over the Western Titans he banked twice above his island, lit, and taxied in to the mooring between the boulders.

Old Luke Illewahwacet was waiting for him at the water's edge.

"How'" Dorn greeted him. "What wawa new? Badegg 'breeds keep gone, huh?"

He took out his billfold and paid old Luke for his faithful watching. From the haggard look of the old Indian's eyes he knew Luke had "slept on foot" those four days and nights.

Luke nodded to his question about the 'breeds. But as he stepped into his birchrind canoe to go home and get some sleep, he jerked a thumb over his shoulder toward the tent.

"Two men . . . they say they good illicums to you . . . they waiting there."

"Friends of mine?" Dorn asked, suspicious. "Who are they?"

"Un't know," Luke grunted, shoving off. "One man he look like hiyu chief; big somebody him."

Two men. That was no terrific odds, if they were enemies.

Dorn slipped his automatic from jacket pocket into the pocket of his leather wind-splitter where it would be handy, and started up the path to his tent.

He was in a savage mood. For two hours he had been hearing Aurore's voice as she told him, "Then you have an awakening ahead of you," and he was in a mood to welcome enemies.

Two men came out to meet him. At sight of them Dorn's eyes hardened and his fingers tightened upon the automatic.

One of the men was Soft-Shoe.

The other . . .

Dorn looked at him steadily as the pair congronted him, and he realized that not only had his enemies tracked him down but that here he was face to face with his chief foe—the embodiment of the power and the money and the purpose behind his hunt for Aurore McNain.

One April seventy-odd years ago, five years before the American Civil War began, seven white men and a Blackfoot meti started up the Fraser River into the Siwash wilderness then called New Caledonia, on a trip of tremendous significance in the history of the Pacific Coast.

They were miners, buffalo hunters, trappers—men typical of that era when bison herds thundered over the Great Plains and the hard-riding Sioux was a terror in the land.

They had spent one season along the lower reaches of the mighty Fraser, "hawking" flour gold from sandbars and mud flats. They had wondered where that flour gold came from. They had seen the Squawmswaps and Chilcoots bring nuggets big as hens' eggs out of the interior. The 'breed had roused their imagination with the story of a fur-trading trip he had once made into the Fraser headwaters: of creeks running over golden beds, of a lake whose sands were glittering yellow and whose pebbles were pure gold. Working their tom-rockers and sluices, the men had turned their eyes northeast-day-dreaming of a rich mother-lode somewhere on up-river; and when April came around they set off to penetrate that wilderness and find that fabulously rich gold field.

Their leader was a masterly Californian, a nameless Argonaut who had wandered up-coast keen for new adventure. The second in command was "Hell-Roarin'" Carter, a lad of twenty-three, a lusty, laughing giant with the sunset in his hair and fire in his belly and a character as sterling as the gold he hankered for.

Up past the grinning totem poles of hostile Siwash villages, on north to the great bend of the Fraser, following the river east and south to its headwaters, the two cedar canoes pioneered; and they came at last into their El Dorado—the region known as Golden Cariboo; and along a stream called Massacre Creek or Millionaire Creek they staked themselves claims, the cream of the cream, where a man could stir the pea gravel with boot-toe and pick up nuggets with thumb and finger.

But on the very day of their discovery he Siwash trapped them in a narrow gorge and rolled a boulder slide down upon them; and only the leaders escaped —"Californy" and "Hell-Roarin'" Carter.

Without muskets or food or boat, the two indomitables started back to Fort Vancouver, running a seven-hundred-mile gauntlet of hostile tribes, following the river trails afoot, stealing canoes and shooting down stream at night, till they reached the coast and spread word of their stupendous discovery and led the Cariboo Rush back over the trail they had blazed.

After partnering together several years 'Californy" and Carter went out to Vancouver, split a poke of three millions, and drifted apart. "Californy" married a Boston girl stranded at a Grey Nuns' mission on the Fraser; and took her name—McNain. Their sons built roads and surveyed for railroads in the new-born province; and one of their grandsons, Roger McNain, scientist and engineer, was the father of Aurore.

"Hell-Roarin'" Carter took his pick of hat famous shipload of girls whom the authorities brought over from England. His oldest son, a shrewd hustler in on the ground floor of a booming region, multiplied his inheritance several times over in lumber, coal mines, and Victoria real estate; but the old sterling character was lacking. His father's name wa- too plebian for him so he added his mother's name to make it Carter-Snowdon; and marrying late in life, he selected one of his sons after the fashion of primogeniture to inherit the entire family fortune and keep those ramified monopolies intact.

This Henry Carter-Snowdon, grandson of "Hell-Roarin'" Carter, was the man whom Jim Dorn confronted outside his tent as Titan Pass.

Carter-Snowdon was now in the prime of his early forties, tall and splendidly built, though a trifle ponderous—a man of exceptional powers, physical and mental. Quietly dressed in gray tweeds, he gave little sign of his vast wealth. In his younger manhood he had been splashy with money and inclined to speak broadly of mistresses; but now he had outgrown the ostentation and had learned that in a province where the sturdy British element was strong and the moral code high, this talk of "affairs" was frowned upon by his own social circle and by the public at large.

He was the last of the old "Hell-Roar'n'" Carter stock. His three brothers, one older and two younger, and all of them childless, had gone to France early in '15, not to return. It was during the summer and fall of '16, when the Canadians were showing their fine worth at Cambrai and along the Somme, and British Columbia regiments were being used as spearheads of those fierce thrusts, that Carter-Snowdon achieved two long-standing ambitions—the merger of a huge sweep of coal and iron mines, and the establishment of a steamer line which carried the products of his vast timber limits to China, Japan and Australia.

Since then, with his schemes for exploitation of natural resources rolling on their own momentum, he had been reaching out into other fields for power and dominance. Before the Canadian Parliament passed it: act prohibiting Canadians from assuming British titles of nobility he had tried to buy knighthood; he had offered a staggering sum to have those three letters in front of his name, but he had been pointedly refused. He had tried to break into Dominion politics and had been crushingly defeated. The one thing that he wanted as he grew older was public esteem; and when he discovered that he could not buy it with money or show of philanthropy in his province, he set about to achieve it by other means.

Vaguely Dorn remembered having seen a newspaper picture of this man confronting him, but he could not recall where or in what connection. In his cool estimate of his enemy there was something of admiration. This big stranger was at least a human being, susceptible to emotion; not a cold-blooded alley-wolf like Soft-Shoe.

The latter stood a respectful pace to one side of his chief. His jaw was bandaged where Dorn's knuckles had laid it open.

"Your'e Dorn the cartographer," the big stranger stated. "My name is Carter-Snowdon." He reached out his hand, and his clasp seemed friendly enough.

The name was allDorn needed to place him. It awoke a score of memories. In his wander days he had worked in a Carter-Snowdon shingle factory and had bummed many a ride on "C-S" narrow-gauge railways. Here was the man whom hundreds of straw bosses walked in fear and trembling of.

Dorn thought: "He's the H.C-S. that Aurore sent her message to. It's his power and his money that's behind this hunt for her."

Carter-Snowden went on: "You escaped from Edmonton rather cleverly. But my man here remembered seeing a news picture of you. Some airplane rescue down in the Lillooets, I believe. He reached through back files in the library and identified you by that means"

Dorn knew it was a reference to the morning when Kansas had crashed on a mesa and he had made a pack-chute jump and pulled Kansas from the wreckage before the gas tank exploded. A news plane had come out from Victoria and taken pictures of that wreck, and the papers had played up the story.

"I presume you know why I came to see you, Dorn."

Though there was a noticeable condescension in Carter-Snowdon's tones, he spoke quietly, decently. He seemed to want a peaceful settlement. At any rate he had not brought along a squad of policemen or tried to force negotiations at the muzzle of an automatic. Dorn thought a moment before he replied. He wanted to answer decency with decency. All the king's proverbial horses and men could not swerve him from his sense of fair play.

He thought: "Maybe I can come to an understanding with Carter-Snowdon. Maybe I can smooth out Aurore's troubles for her."

He answered: "You want to know where Miss McNain is. She came to me for help. Under the circumstances I gave her help. I have reasons to believe she did nothing illegal. If you can prove to me you've got a right to know where she is, I'm ready to talk to you."

His words caught Carter-Snowdon by surprise; he whirled on Soft-Shoe.

"I thought you told me this fellow knew all about her——"

"I didn't pry into her trouble," Dorn interrupted, nettled by "this fellow." "Since she's a girl I gave her the benefit of the doubt. But I'm giving you also a chance to put up your side of it."

"You're giving me a chance." Carter-Snowdon was half-amused at the words—at the equality implied by them. Then he sobered. "She's my ward. Our families were connected some years back. When her father died, I took her over."

"You say she's your ward. Then you can explain what made her pitch off as she did."

Carter-Snowdon thought for a moment, Dorn watching him. "I rather believe it is just a cheap bid for notoriety. She plans to stay out of sight awhile, then come back with some sensational story; kidnapped, held prisoner by the Indians—some narrative of that sort. It's been done before. She's young, flighty; inclined to ape others. You understand I don't want anything like this connected with my name."

Dorn knew the explanation was a lie from start to finish. Vividly he remembered Aurore's fear when she stood under the electric torch of his tent. That terror was real; it had shaken her like an aspen leaf. And she had been glad that her trouble was not mentioned in the papers he brought her! Even weightier proof with him, when he recalled their tramp a few hours ago—how she had showed him not the sensational but the quiet, unobtrusive secrets of her island—he knew a notoriety stunt would be abhorrent to her very nature.

He demanded: "I asked, what's she done? I don't care to listen to falsehoods about her. Have you got any right to know where she is?"

Carter-Snowdon reddened at Dorn's nailing his lies, and unthinkingly admitted his lie by snapping, "I don't consider it's any of your affair, my man."

The domineering tone angered Dorn. He knew now that Carter-Snowdon's apparent friendliness at firs was based on the belief that the mere utterance of his name would overawe a cartographer, and that a good-sized bribe in addition would settle the matter quickly and discreetly.

It was Dorn who flung down the gage of battle.

HIGHWAY No. 7.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir:

There are two calamities about to fall on our fair county, namely, that a highway is going to be built through here and that it is going on the proposed route of the Block Road.

All the people of the county are kicking over the route agreed upon. Surely the county has lots of road to keep up without buying more and yet a few narrow-minded people think that the highway should go the Block Road. The boundary is the right road and I think it should be a better place than through woods, fields and marshes.

The boundary is straight, plenty wide enough, a shorter route and with no railway crossings. At the present it is in a bad condition and something will have to be done with it before long.

Douro and Dummer have no railroads. Otonabee and Asphodel have two. Wouldn't it be a help to these two townships to have a highway near? Now, I can't see why the boundary wouldn't do, and if it were put on this bad road instead of the good county road it would satisfy most of the people of the county instead of a few. DOURO AND DUMMER.

A Thought

GENTLENESS.

True gentleness is stronger than violence, and the kindly word is usually more than a match for the angry one. Looked at from the broader point of view we find that the fighters have a way of obliterating themselves, while the meek inherit the earth. The fighter may be strong and skilful, yet sooner or later he will meet his match, and when the generation of fighters has gone, their place on the earth will be occupied by the men who prefer peaceful pursuits. Are you a fighter by nature and practice? Lay aside the sword and try the other weapon, "a soft answer", and watch the result. We venture to say that it will surprise you by its effectiveness. But you had better be prepared to keep it up, for sometimes one soft answer may only arouse your adversary's suspicion, and it may take a little while for him to realize that you really prefer peace to a fight. But when he realizes it it will take much of the fight out of him.

What To-day Means To You

"SCORPIO"

If November 4th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. to 11:15 a.m., from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 11 p.m. to midnight. The danger periods are ffom 7 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. and from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Vexing incidents are forecast for this date, and your innermost feelings will be harrowed. Do not be discouraged if Fate seems against you, and remember "The gods help those who help themselves." Contention with relatives.

Children born on this November 4th will have quiet and unimpulsive natures, persistence and determination. They will be skilful and dexterous with their hands, and should be fitted for some trade. They will be friendly and sociable in manner, and will easily make friends.

You venture through life with a faltering, timid step, and you seem afraid to thrust your mind into the conflict. Your superior mental gifts should yield you self-development and happiness, but as it is they do neither, because you do not know how or dare not use them. Life is like the sea on a cold morning, not so bad if you plunge bravely in. Hesitancy is often your undoing. You need some one to push you over the brink, for necessity always brings your latent abilities to the fore. When in a corner you are a magnificent fighter—a lion, not a rabbit. No one is more anxious to achieve success than you are, but you do not have the state of mind that alone can ensure it.

You have a very credulous nature, and a very plastic one—you always reflect the color of your associates and environment. The attraction of opposites is true in your case, and you always choose positive types of people for your friends. As a result, you are somewhat at their mercy, and you do not seem to mind being led around by the nose. You are usually very sweet-tempered, and are too unselfish for your own good. You have no physical fear, but your mental and moral courage is below par. It takes very little to make you happy and contented, and your life will not be a spiritual failure. Your material ambitions are modest ones.

TORONTO LIST IS IRREGULAR

Price Fluctuations of Narrow Character Due to Closing of American Markets.

OILS REMAIN FIRM.

TORONTO, Nov. 4 (CP).—With all American stocks and commodity closed to-day, the market on the Toronto stock exchange floundered around in a state of apathy; price fluctuations were of a very narrow character and the turnover was one of the smallest in many a session.

Oils were a firm centre and North Star, one of the less prominent issues came to the fore and advanced nearly 2 points during the course of the first hour; profit-taking, however, carried it back 1 to stand at 9 nearing noon. Imperial gained a ¼ to 18½, while International Pete and British American went unchanged at 15 and 15⅛ respectively.

International Nickel lost a small fraction amid one of the smallest turnovers this year. It was 17⅛ on about 500 shares.

The rest of the list was irregular; Ford was up an ⅛ to 20¼; Canada Dredge lost 1 to 25; Brazilian declined an ⅛ to 25¾ while Consolidated Bakeries took on ⅛ to 9. Both Steel of Canada issues, preferred and common, were unchanged. Bell Telephone was off a ½ point to 147½.

NO TRADING LEAD ISSUES

Changes Few and Far Between In Dull Session on Standard Exchange To-day.

NORANDA EASES.

TORONTO, Nov. 4 (CP).—Changes were few and far between in an extremely dull session on the mining market during the forenoon to-day. Many of the more important issues failed to put in appearance and movements that did appear had a slightly easier tendency.

International Nickel and Noranda both eased a small fraction to $17.50 and $15.60, respectively, and Hudson Bay was down 5 to $4.70. Sherritt Gordon and Ventures firmed a cent or so apiece but Falconbridge, which is planning to take over the properties of Sudbury Nickel and Copper, was off 5 to $1.60.

In the gold section Granada dropped 5 to $1.30, Mining Corporation a couple to 93, Vipond a point to 90, and Howey a fraction to 16. Oils, with the exception of Ajax, off 5 to $1.35, were unchanged.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

Wood, Gundy and Company, state experience has shown that during periods of business recession securities of many fundamentally strong companies—whether or not they are noticeably affected by general business conditions—may be purchased bat prices more advantageous from the buyer's viewpoint than the prices which normally prevail for these securities. They gint out there are few companies, even among the most outstanding and successful corporations, who e records of earnings for any period of fifteen or twenty years show uninterested increases, during times of business recessions even the most capably managed enterprises are subject to economic conditions beyond their control. Wood, Gundy express the opinion the present time offers many buying opportunities and have forwarded to clients a list of first mortgage bonds and preferred shares which they recommend for purchase.

Savings deposits of the Canadian chartered banks in the month of September increased almost $69,000,000 over those for the month of August. This is the second monthly increase since last March, the decline which set in August was only slightly something over $2,000,000 but it put a check to the downward trend. The greater total of savings makes available more credit for industry and commerce, an increase of $69,000,000 in deposits means a possible expansion of credit of approximately $690,000,000 it only remains for an effective demand for this available credit to be instituted. Notes in circulation show a falling off from August and an even greater contraction from September of last year, indicative of both the reduction in the amount of purchasing and the fall in prices. Call loans are down both in comparison with August and with September 1929 and current loans in Canada are also reduced.

The greatest tonic for frazzled nerves, run down constitutions, business depressions, hard times, is old King Sol himself. So long as the sunshines there is stirred in the human breast a feeling of hope, an urge to action. Canadians who are prone to develop themselves in a pall of gloom—their number fortunately is comparatively small—would do well to compare our position with that of other countries, other parts of the empire. Britain's condition has been diagnosed and discussed so often before the public, there is no need to say further. But there are few who realize how fortunately situated Canada is compared with the Australian. Fallen commodity prices have hit the Australian even harder than the Canadian. Unemployment is more widespread and what is more serious, the government has resorted to borrowing from the banks to such an extent as to cause concern in banking circles. Australian banks have been forced to not only shut down on the government, but to restrict credit generally in order to maintain reserves. On this continent there is credit enough, the trouble is to create a demand for it. A new development is announced in the despatches to-day, which state there has been such a widespread movement to export capital as to call forth the denunciation of the acting prime minister on the lack of patriotism.

NEW GOLD CLAIMS.

TORONTO, Nov. 4—(Special to Examiner.)—The regular monthly meeting of directors of International Nickel Company of Canada has been called for Tuesday of next week, November 11. On this occasion two important topics will be dealt with by the board, one of these being the earnings statement for the third quarter ended September 30 and the other dividend action. In circles close to the company it is anticipated the regular dividend will be declared for the final quarter of the present year though there is no secret made of the fact the disbursement was not earned in the third quarter.

Though most parties having secured groups, have left the scene of the new find in Pascaliz and Louivcourt townships, Quebec, to the east of Siscoe it is understood funds are now being arranged for further surface work on the Smith McLeod property on which the original strike was made. Prospectors Airways retains important interests in practically all the groups staked. Mining Corporation and Ventures are mentioned as being among those whose representatives secured ground in the vicinity of the find.

Visitors to the district believe there is little likleihood of the Sullivan gold property being developed in conjunction with Siscoe. The latter company is enjoying good progress and will probably need full mill capacity to handle its own ore. Timmins interests are reported to have looked over the Sullivan carefully dewatering the shaft which is down about 100 feet, but results of the deal, if any, have not been learned as yet.

Rumors of joint development of the two properties is due to the fact Noah Timmins and Thayer Lindsley recently agreed to take up substantial blocks of Siscoe stock.

The property which Acme Gas and Oil has acquired in New Mexico consists of three blocks of land believed to lie along the strike to the northwest of the Hobbs High Structure. Total acreage involved is approximately 3,000 acreas all of which were state leases obtained outright and subject only to a one eighth royalty. The production horizon in the field varied from 4,000 to 4,150 feet, although in the northwest section it is believed that production may be secured at higher levels. Two wells are now being drilled in the immediate vicinity of the Acme holdings, one on each side.

It is not the intention of Acme to start work there until after the Oklahoma well is finished. This well was closed down temporarily at the end of last week due to danger of fire as a result of the drastic performance of No. 1 C. E. Stout which got out of control and sprayed a large part of the city and surrounding territory. At the time work ceased the well stood at 5,795 feet. It is expected by the company's engineers that production would be reached around 6,500 feet.

Motorist Kills Deer On Road At Mitchel

STRATFORD, Ont., Nov. 4 (C.P.).—Perth County residents do not have to go to northern haunts in search of deer. While driving along the highway a short distance from Mitchel yesterday, a two-year-old buck bounded over the fence from the farm of John Morenz and ran directly in front of a car driven by Frank Regan of Logan. The animal had its two hind legs broken and had to be despatched. There is no bush within ten miles of the farm, and where the animal came from is not known. The game warden of the district was notified of the killing.

TORONTO, Ont., November 4. — (C.P.) — On the ground that there was not sufficient evidence to warrant a conviction, Robert Sommerville and his son, John Sommerville of Owen Sound, were yesterday freed on charges of assault, with intent to rob, which the two faced at the county police court before Magistrate William Keith.

The two men were taken in custody at Owen Sound on the night of October 2, following a fracas at the Kallen Hotel, near Richmond Hill, and brought to Toronto by Chief Syd. Barraclough, the next day. The two men, while denying any assault, admitted visiting the premises mentioned.

Total sales of the Co-operative Wholesale Society of England for the last fiscal six months amount to $215,000,000.

"HI-Y" CLUB RE-ORGANIZED

Objectives For Coming Year Set Forth at Regular Supper Meeting.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The Hi-Y Club, under the leadership of James McClenaghan, held a re-organization supper meeting last evening, at which plans for the forthcoming season were discussed, and an objective was set to raise the sum of $50 from the sale of Christmas cards, to help in paying the expenses involved in bringing boy delegates to the International convention next year.

The Y.M.C.A. Boys' Department as a whole is also out to raise a further sum of $75 to promote the 'Y' work among boys of other lands.

The following were elected to office in the Hi-Y Club for the ensuing year: President, Nelson Stanger; vice-president, Allan Holmes; secretary, John Mark; treasurer, Reg. Kingdon.

The schedule will follow a series of vocational guidance talks. It is a program which is particularly suitable, as the members of this club are High school students on the threshold of a business or professional career. It is hoped to secure the services of many prominent citizens to address these meetings which will be held each Monday evening.

Delegates Appointed.

Al Holmes and Mel Hunter were appointed delegates to attend the Employed Boys' and Hi-Y Club convention to be held at Kitchener over Thanksgiving.

The program consisted, last night, of an educational "movie" show, through the courtesy of H. H. P. Johnston, district manager of the Bell Telephone Company. The reels shown were entitled "The Triumph of Engineering," "Behind the Lines," etc., and gave some idea of the intricate working behind the telephone system.

Canadian Golf Play To Be Held at Mississauga

TORONTO, Nov. 4 (By The Canadian Press).—The executive committee of the Royal Canadian Golf Association has decided to hold the 1931 Canadian open championship over the course of the Mississauga Golf Club, Toronto, B. L. Anderson, secretary of the association, announced yesterday. The date will be about the middle of the latter part of July.

The Canadian amateur championship will be held over the Royal Montreal Golf Club course at Dixie, Montreal, and the interprovincial match for the Willingdon trophy will be held over the same course.

The Mississauga course is the most picturesque in this part of Canada and is of ideal contour for a large gallery to watch the play. A great deal of each match can be seen with glasses from the clubhouse.

BENNETT MAY VISIT PARIS.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 4. (C.P.) — Premier R. B. Bennett of Canada, will probably visit Paris after the Imperial Conference has concluded, to discuss trade matters with the French Government. A number of members of the Canadian delegation here, however are planning to sail for Canada on the steamship Duchess of Atholl, leaving Liverpool Nov. 7.

Members Build Own Tabernacle

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

The wheat market was a dull draggy affair Monday and after holding steady and little changed during the 15 minutes prices gradually sagged until they were 1½ to 1¼ cents under the close on Saturday. At the start there was some buying that was credited to Chicago, and was understood to be spreading, but after this demand was filled there was very poor support until prices went into the daily bids which again brought in a little support but the rallies were only slight and were difficult to hold. Export business over the week end was very small, only an odd load or two being confirmed out of this market while sea-board reported very little doing in any direction In the local cash market there was a little demand for two Northern from shippers and millers and some lots of this grade traded at 1-8 to 1¼ better. Demand for other grades very quiet with spreads generally unchanged while offerings were only moderate. There was no change in the flour situation which continues extremely quiet. Liverpool closed ¾ to 1 1-8 lower, and Buenos Aires was 5-8 lower at mid-day. On passage supplies of wheat and flour decreased 1,432,000 bushels with the world shipments 15,747,000 last week. The Canadian wheat visible decreased 358,000 bushels, while the U.S. Visible decreased 2,192,000 bushels. The American private crop reports issued yesterday morning were about a stand off both on the Corn crop and the winter wheat acreage and conditions. Broomhall reported that great Britain might possibly be prepared to offer the dominions a wheat quota of 55 per cent which is estimated would be equivalent to ten percent increase over the present practice. The weather in Western Canada is fine and wheat deliveries on Saturday were 1,608,000 bushels, as compared with 788,000 a year ago. Winnipeg futures closed practically on the bottom, showing losses of 1½ to 1¼ cents.

Coarse Grains.

These markets were very weak, all grains making new low records for the whole year. Scattered liquidation was in evidence with practically no demand from any quarter. There is very little going on in the cash markets, but an odd car of Oats and Barley is changing hands for feeding purposes.

Liverpool due 1 cent lower based on Winnipeg.

GROW COTTON IN OLD ONTARIO

Tobacco Raiser's Trial May Create New Industry in Norfolk County.

NEVER TRIED BEFORE.

VITTORIA, Nov. 4.—Norfolk county, already famous for natturing tobacco—an industry which this year added several million dollars to Ontario's coffers—bids fair to become the foster-mother of another southern plant through the pioneer efforts of Thomas W. Bullock who recently harvested Ontario's first cotton crop.

True, it was an experiment. Ten or twelve plants were sowed through curiosity and left largely to fend for themselves. But they grew to a fulsome height and each plant bore several balls which opened up, revealing snowy-white contents in proud proclamation to the world of the achievement. The success which attended Mr. Bullock's experiment opens up the possibility of cotton growing as a commercial undertaking in southern Ontario. In fact, it is Mr. Bullock's intention to experiment next year on a larger scale, keeping detailed record of costs to compare with the revenue per acre of tobacco.

Coming here five years ago from Granville county, North Carolina, Mr. Bullock was sufficiently impressed by two years' experience as a tobacco curer, that Norfolk county was "a mighty good place to settle down."

But his southern experience taught him the large yield per acre from cotton. "So I got a few king cotton seeds from my brother, and set them in the greenhouse late last March," he said. "About June 8, I transplanted the seedlings into a light, sandy soil—practically the same as we grow tobacco on."

Before the first frost most of the balls had matured and some two dozen opened, showing puffs of cotton as large as a peach.

"It had never been tried here before, but the cotton grew so well I intend to try again next year and be more careful," Mr. Bullock declared. Once it matures, the frost cannot hurt it. Down south they pick cotton up until Christmas.

"Do you think cotton growing in Ontario could be developed into a profitable industry?" he was asked. "We have wonderful land for it here, but the season is mighty short. There would be a chance if we could get it out earlier—properly, you should not transplant cotton. I might not have as good luck another year," he replied.

"Cotton might be more profitable than tobacco. One can grow larger quantities to the acre and almost any one can raise it. Anybody who can grow corn can grow cotton. But with tobacco you have to know how."

HOSPITAL BOARD ELECTS OFFICERS

Scores of Sick Who Should Be Given Better Chance Cobourg President Says.

REVENUE IS $20,979.42.

COBOURG, Nov. 4.—(Special to the Examiner.)—"Throughout the County every month there are scores of sick people who should be given a better chance of recovery, and they would get that chance if they were sent to our hospital, but they do not come because churches, lodges, institutes and municipal councils are not living up to their opportunities and duties," John D. Hayden, president of the Cobourg General Hospital told the Hospital Board at its annual meeting.

Whole hearted appreciation of Mr. Hayden for the work he has been carrying on in the past and preceding years was voiced by members of the board who voiced by members of the board who re-elected him president for the ensuing year. Harry Field was voted to continue as secretary-treasurer, and other directors re-elected were A. J. Gould, J. T. Field, Judge L. V. O'Connor, Dr. G. M. Ferris, Rev. Monsignor Kelly, A. R. Willmott, Rev. F. C. Harper, and A. C. Hodgetts.

Revenue for the past year totalled $20,979,42, of which $850.79 constituted gifts from summer visitors.

A new feature of the hospital is the issuance of a birth certificate given to each mother leaving, and it states the hour of the child's birth, day of month and year. These certificates bear the corporate seal of the hospital and a serial number, and will be issued also upon request to those whose babies were born in the past years.

Bowling
Alley Gossip
By Pin Boy

All team managers in the City Bowling League are requested to give Walter Firth, league secretary, a list of the players on their respective teams before the next games on Thursday night, also the prize money.

Sixteen teams of men, composing Group 4 of the C.G.E. Shop League, hammered the maple last night at the Duffus Academy in their regular weekly battles, but with the exception of several new low singles set up by the Test men, nothing unusual was noticed.

Handicapped by a dummy the Machine Shop stacked up against Test No. 2 and walloped them for a 6-2 victory. Ashmore and Rightmier with 243 and 273 respectively were the high single artists, while Fraser for the Testers was well up with a 246 single.

Test No. 3 team are headed for the cellar position if last night's performance is any indication of their ability. They dropped 8 points to Test No. 1 and only one player, Wyllie, was able to exceed the 200 mark in any one game. Schmidt with 242 and Hadlock with 238 were high for the winners.

MANUFACTURERS' LEAGUE

The Tombstone Polishers from East City, hooked up with the Sealright team last night in the Manufacturers' League and wrestled their way to a 4-4 tie in a scrimmage that was just as close as the score indicates. Jack Billingsley for the former team carried off high single honours with a score of 268 and Ellison, bowling for Sealrights, collected 617 in three games.

The Martin-Hewett entry in the league stepped out last night and garnered 8 points from the Brinton Carpet in a decisive manner, and appear to have the strongest line-up in the league. G. Voke knocked over 285 and 670 to take both high single and triple while his team-mates, Stanburg and Gordon, made 636 and 636 respectively.

The Merchants Press shut out the Quaker Oats to add 8 more points to their total. Ossie Johnson for the Printers gave his teammate, Sedgwick, a close run when he toppled 290 pins in one game, just 2 pins short of the league record held by the latter. Sedgwick also holds the high three record of 742 made last week.

The first night of battling in the City League uncovered some classy bowling and the high scores set up should stand for some time. Joe Marsden, as usual, came through to batter the wooden bottles for a triple of 753, while Ab. Delahaye made a single of 292. The Canadiens took the high team total score when they collected 3,174 pins.

NOTICE OF GIRL'S DEPORTATION NEVER SENT RELATIVES M.P. FINDS

Both Federal and Provincial Govt's Relied on Other—Neither Acted.

RIGHT NOT EXCEEDED.

HAMILTON, Nov. 4. — C. W. Bell, M. P., for West Hamilton, reported to Mayor Peebles to-day as to his inquiries into the deportation cases. Mr. Bell stated that several facts had been established by his investigations. It was found to be true that Mrs. Ainsworth's people had been notified of her impending deportation, but in the case of Miss Barton no such notice had been sent.

No Co-operation

There was no co-operation between the Federal and Provincial Departments, Mr. Bell found, and in the case of Miss Barton each had relied on the other to deal with her relations, and no action had been tagen by either in that direction Mr. Bell's report is as follows:

These deportations were both undertaken at the instance of the Provincial Government of Ontario. It is said that the reason for this action arose through overcrowding of the public institutions, which made it imperative that room be obtained for afflicted persons who were Canadian-born residents of this province.

"In the case of Mrs. Ainsworth, it appears that notice was given her realtives of intended deportation, but in the case of Miss Barton, no notice was given. The statement of Miss Barton's relatives that they knew nothing of the intention to deport her until they received her letter written on shipboard appears to be absolutely true.

Right Not Exceeded.

"So far as the legal right of deportation goes, it does not appear to have been exceeded, as the records show in both cases that the persons dealt with were unfortunately afflicted from childhood. Knowing that there was some dispute about this in the case of Miss Bartin, I have given particular attention to the records of her early medical history and they leave no doubt on that score.

"I find that it is the practice of the Federal Department of Immigration when anyone is deported to put the deportee in charge of a transportation company whose duty it is to transport the deportee across the ocean and to remain continuously in charge until an agent of the company meets the boat and conveys the deportee to the institution to which he or she is destined. In the case of Mrs. Ainsworth the agent whose duty it was to have met Mrs. Ainsworth is said to have failed to do so; instead of getting her to her destination she was left where she disembarked. This is being investigated in England but will take some time.

Jail's Population Decreased by Eight

Eight prisoners from the county jail are enclosed in new surroundings to-day. Shackled in pairs, the men were placed aboard a train yesterday under the watchful eye of the Provincial Bailiff, and several guards, and carried to Guelph Reformatory, where they will serve their sentences. Most of them will be in Guelph for two years.

The crowded conditions which have existed at the local jail for several months were considerably relieved by the large shipment of prisoners. Last week news sifted out of the county "bastille" that the place was filled to overflowing.

FOREIGN POLICY UPSETS SESSION

Franch Parliament Suspended By President Until Procedure Agreed On.

GOV'T ATTACKED.

PARIS, France, Nov. 4.—(A.P.)—The French Parliament reconvened to-day and soon after the sitting was suspended amid confusion as debate on opposition criticism of foreign policy got into its stride. The Opposition had been caught off balance by the insistance of Premier Tardieu that the debate be started immediately and Francois Albert, an Opposition deputy, began an attack on the Government.

As he began talking about internal politics, the Government supoprters with much clamour demanded he be brought to order.

Amid the confusion, President Bouisson suspended the sitting during which the Opposition sought to agree on a procedure to be followed.

Previously Foreign Minister Briand, wose policies are under fire, had received an ovation from the Chamber.

The debate ended when the Chamber finally adjourned until Thursday.

CANUCKS HONOR SIR C. SAUNDERS

Stevens, Guthrie and Dupre Attend Service at Westminser Abbey.

INSCRIPTION PRESENTED.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 4. (By Thos. T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent).—Three members of the Canadian Cabinet, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Hon. Hugh Guthrie and Hon. Maurice Dupre, to-day attended service at Westminster Abbey marking the grant to the abbey of a suitable inscription upon the grave of Admiral Sir Charles Saunders, Companion-in-arms of General Wolf, hero of Quebec.

The Abbey choir sang the Canadian Boat Song and led the congregation in singing "O Canada." The service was conducted by the Dean of Westminster, Very Rev. W. Foxley Norris.

Asking the Dean to accept the inscription, Hon. Mr. Guthrie said, "At this distance we do not regard the conflict on the Plains of Abraham as a great victory but rather a great milestone in the annals of our country."

Admiral Sir Cyril Fuller was present on behalf of the Royal Navy, General Sir Walter Braithwaite represented the army and Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton represented the Canadian forces.

The inscription was provided for at the expense of five prominent Canadians—E. W. Beatty and W. E. Meredith of Montreal; Dr. Clarence Webster, member of the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada; E. R. Peacock and Sir Campbell Stuart, the latter two having been in London for many years.

Admiral Saunders had a highly important part in the Quebec campaign of 1759. Conveying General Wolfe and his troops from Louisburg to Quebec with great seamanship and administrative skill.

FARM WORKER GIVEN 5 YEARS

Pleaded Guilty of Giving His Employer's Son Poison in Chocolate Bar.

IN JAIL SINCE JULY 12.

STRATFORD, Ont., Nov. 4 (C.P.)—Robert Freeman Listowell, farm hand, was sentenced this morning to five years in Portsmouth Penitentiary on a charge of administering poison to Gordon Jackson of Listowell, in July of this year. Young Jackson is the son of the man with whom Freeman had been employed for years.

The attempt on Jackson's life was made by placing strychnine in a chocolate bar which Freeman gave to the boy. Immediately after doing so Freeman was seized with either great fear for what he had done or with regret, and when Jackson took sick the accused insisted on calling a doctor.

Freeman had previously pleaded guilty to the charge and had been remanded for sentence. He has been in jail since July 12, and this time will apply on his sentence.

TRENT RIVER.

The members of the Efficiency League held a jolly Hallowe'en party on Friday evening, a number of those present being in costume. Miss Bessie Inkster as Sir Walter Raleigh won first prize while Miss Mary Brown as Grandma also received a prize. Bill Liberty and Carl Ellis won prizes for best dressed gentlemen. Games were played and a short program was given when Gerald Buchanan and Milton Hawley gave readings. Refreshments were served during the evening.

The sum of $150 was realized from the Fowl Supper held on Wednesday evening at the United Church.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Donaghy, of Colborne, were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Brown and family, Browning Avenue.

Mrs. C. Davidson, of Toronto, and Mrs. Oscar Mason, of Norwood, were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. William Preston, Havelock Road.

Queen's Freshman Wins Plymouth Car

(Special to The Examiner.)

KINGSTON, Nov. 4.—Ross McChance, St. Thomas, a freshman in commerce at Queen's University, drew the lucky ticket for a Plymouth car put up at the Kiwanis Exposition and Carnival here. He will use it till Thanksgiving, when he will drive it home. As the family drive a Hudson, it is likely Ross will have the machine for pleasure while at Queen's. He invested fifty cents and drew the prize, though others had as high as twenty in the washer from which the drawing was made.

REPORTED GOLD FIND MAY BRING PLACER GOLD RUSH IN ONTARIO

One Discoverer Reported to Have Realized $100 Worth From First Pan.

SEARCH FOR MOTHER LODE.

(Special to The Examiner. Copyright, 1930.)

TORONTO, Nov. 4 (SNS).—All hail to an old-fashioned placer gold rush.

Such a thing is quite within the bounds of possibility in Ontario next spring.

Placer gold in commercial quantities is reported to have been discovered near the scene of the strike in Bannockburn Township, Temagami reserve. It is the first find of the kind in the history of Ontario mining.

Reports that placer gold had been found have been revealed by H. C. Rickaby, government geologist. In a paragraph of a supplementary reporthe says:

"Prospectors working in the townships of Hincks, Argyle and Bannockburn claim to have panned gold in many places in the sands and gravels of the creeks. No doubt, next summer will see an extensive campaign of prospecting in this area, which is geologically favorable for gold deposits."

One of the discoverers of the field is reported to have recovered several hundred dollars' worth of gold from his first pan. In addition to the placer gold a gold vein of promising proportions is being traced.

Finds of placer gold have been confined in Canada to British Columbia and the Yukon. Placer deposits have also been associated with mountainous country. Near the Bannockburn gold field, Ontario reaches its peak. Maple Mountain, highest point of the province, rises 3,000 feet above sea-level and commands the whole Temagami country.

If the placer feature of the new mining field develops there will be a search next year for the mother lode source of the pay dirt in the creek-beds before glaciers started their work of mixing up the earth's surface. The mother lode may be a mile or two or a hundred miles away. It may have been destroyed entirely by the action of the glaciers.

All the promising country around Bannockburn has already been staked, Mr. Rickaby reports.

DRAMATIC CLUB PRESENTS PLAY

"It Pays to Advertise" Staged in Town Hall at Millbrook.

WELL RECEIVED.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 4 (Examiner Correspondence).—Sparkling wit, cryptic sayings, situations ridiculously complicated, advertising that glared from bill-boards, sandwich men, and big posters, with an ending that left everyone concerned quite happy, were the highlights in the play, "It Pays to Advertise," presented by the Orono Dramatic Club in the Town Hall, Millbrook, on Thursday, October 30, under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A. of Saint Thomas' Anglican church.

Music while the audience was gathering, and between the acts, was provided by Mrs. L. H. Winslow, whose popularity at the piano, extends over a wide district.

Cyrus Martin (Donald Robb), who controls the soap trust and is very wealthy, disappointed that his only son, Rodney (C. Allen), after completing his college course, is apparently making no effort to amount to anything, conspires with his secretary, Miss Grayson (Nora Gibson), with whom Rodney is in love, to bring about an engagement between the two and then quarrels with his boy, refusing the parental blessing upon a marriage 'with a mere stenographer,' orders him to leave home, and succeeds in rousing the lad to a determination to go at something for himself and so make good.

As a result of the "Thirteenth Soap Company—Unlucky for Dirt," comes into being, with Rodney, Miss Grayson, and Ambrose Peale (Neil Porter), the latter a 'live wire' in all the latest advertising methods, making up the company, which, though threatened many times with absolute failure, eventually becomes a pronounced success.

Convincing proof of the value of advertising is afforded as the duel proceeds between Cyrus Martin, wedded to the old school of conservative publicity, and the "Thirteenth Soap Company," which is decidedly modern and follows the plan of having its product conspicuously displayed from every possible place and angle.

Situations that are extremely funny frequently occur during the three acts of the play as the story runs its course, but eventually Rodney's father is bowled over when he learns that George Bronson (Melville Staples), acting as agent for the firm of Marshal Field, of Chicago, has actually brought an offer of a quarter of a million dollars for the trade-mark of the Thirteenth Company alone, and an order for thousands of cakes of the soap. So Rodney makes good, without aid from his father. Peale, who is apparently strung on wires, takes all the credit for the success finally achieved, and further surprise comes as a climax when the marriage of Rodney Martin and Miss Grayson is announced as having already taken place.

Other characters who enter into the story of the play, in which every part was taken without lapse of memory and with remarkable ability, are the Comptess de Beaurien (Velma Neil), whose speech and gestures are decidedly Parisien, and who is finally foiled in her attempts to 'put over' the smart schemes by which she had hoped to gain money; Ellery Clarke (Milton Morris), son of Cyrus Martin's great rival in the soap business, effiminate in manner, and foppish in apparel; William Smith (Adolph Henry), and Mr. McChesney (Fred Blackburn), who are concerned in the business deals; Johnston (Richard Brown), the butler at the Martin's home, and Marie (A. Hogg), the maid.

The Orono Dramatic Club is a branch of the Agricultural Society, and keeps constantly in practice, reading at least one new play each winter, the choice from which characters may be made being a wide one, since the membership of the club is large. The A.Y.P.A. served lunch to the visitors before they left for home on Thursday evening.

COLORFUL SCENE AT MASQUERADE

Delightful Frolic Held Under Auspices of Christian Endeavor Society.

AT HAVELOCK

HAVELOCK, Nov. 4.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A delightful Hallowe'en frolic was held in the basement of Knox church, when the Christian Endeavor assembled for the annual celebration of the feast of All Hallows Eve. Many and beautiful were the costumes, many of which were original. Great credit is due to those who went to so much trouble to make this a real Hallowe'en evening. Witches, goblins, ghosts, and comic costumes in great variety were there, and old and young had a most pleasant evening. Alma Clarke was awarded first prize as a clown. Willies Poste sas Mephiste was awarded a prize. Frank McLaughlin as a clown also received a prize. Campbell Rowat and Harold Kennedy as Amos and Andy were also awarded prizes. Mrs. Russel Green took first prize for fancy costume. A spelling match, the leaders of which were Mr. Jamieson and Mr. Veale was won by Mr. Veale's side. Both these gentlemen won prizes in an apple contest. Mrs. S. McGill contributed a solo and Mrs. Dewey as a witch entertained the young folks by reading cups. Altogether a very pleasant time was had by all present.

Hallowe'en Dance.

Havelock Agricultural Society held a very successful Hallowe'en dance in the town hall on Friday evening last, when old and young, from far and near assembled there for a delightful frolic. This dance is now a regular seasonal affair, but this year instead of being under the auspices of the Women's Institute, the young fellows of the village held the dance. The hall was beautifully decorated with the Institute colors, orange and black, and made a most effective setting for the many and beautiful and original costumes in which the numerous guests arrived. Music was supplied by the Jack Marshall orchestra from Peterborough, which proved equally good for round and square dancing.

Mr. Otto Patterson had a booth in the hall and served a buffet lunch to any one desiring to partake of refreshments.

Prizes were given for the best costumes in fancy and comic class, and were awarded as follows: Best fancy costume, Miss Josie Anderson, as Indian Maiden. No men in fancy costume so this prize was not claimed. Best comic costume, Mrs. T. P. Lancaster as a witch. Best comic costume, awarded to Mr. Fred Wrightley, as Jiggs. An extra prize was awarded to Miss Marguerite Roche as a Red Cross Nurse. The dress parade was held at eleven o'clock, after which dancing was resumed and continued until 2 a.m. The sum of eight dollars net was gained for the treasury, by this Hallowe'en dance.

Harvest Dinner.

Beautifully decorated with harvest fruit and vegetables, the dining room of St. John's (Anglican) church presented a gala appearance on the occasion of the annual harvest dinner, under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild. Long tables covered with snowy linen, and bowls of flowers, were stretched the full length of the room, and were twice filled with eager diners, most of whom knew from past experience, the treat in store. Hot potatoes and vegetables, roast beef, roast pork and gravy, pie of all kinds, cakes, jellies with whipped cream, hot biscuits, and all kinds of goodies went into Mrs. R. Jones was convenor, and the making a sumptuous supper, was assisted by all the other members of the guild and some of the juniors. Those who looked after the guests were as follows: Mesdames Lancaster, Cooke, Sanderson, Davies, Rice, Williams, Cummings, Dickenson, Watson, Bush and Poste. Mrs. Harry Roche is president of the Guild.

ADVERTISED IN PRESS

Mrs. Workman Left Husband's Home With John Croft in Summer of 1925.

COBOURG, Ont., Nov. 4 (Special to Examiner)—The case there is no precedent in Ontario to guide him, Mr. JJustice McEvoy reserved judgment yesterday in the divorce action brought here by John W. Workman against his wife, Mabel Workmen, both formerly of Cobourg and Brighton.

Mr. Jusice McEvoy who is presiding at fall assizes here, declared there there is rule regarding substitutional service and declared that the practice might easily become disastrous.

The point was made by his lordship when counsel for plaintiff Smith of Trenton, advised that action was unsounded that defendant could not be located and that service had been made by advertising in the Toronto Star by order of the master.

"I think the court must be suspicious and absolutely on the alert regarding every divorce in this province." Mr. Justice McEivoy declared in referring the statement of plaintiff's counsel who was protesting that there was no indication of collusion.

"Do you think I am silly enough to believe that story of yours of intending to go away to London and circumstances preventing you so that you returned to your home and found your wife in company with John Croft. That is an old story. His Lordship told the plaintiff as the latter in the witness box described events leading up to securing of evidence.

The story of the divorce action is one of a younger man, John Croft of Cobourg, who had been boarding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Workman in 1924 and 1925 and who went away with the wife of the plaintiff in the sumemr of 1925 after evidence for divorce action had been secured. The action was not made until act of parliament made it impossible for Workman to bring action without appeal to Dominion Parliament.

MRS. P. S. EWING.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, Nov. 4. — The death of Mrs. P. S. Ewing occurred Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Ewing was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Israel Humphries, and had been an invalid for many years, being confined to her bed for nearly seven years.

Deceased, who was sixty-five years of age, was of a most patient and cheerful disposition.

Besides her sorrowing husband, she leaves to mourn her loss, two daughters, Clara, of Toronto, and Nell, at home; also three sisters and one brother: Mrs. O. A. Prall, Brooklyn, N.Y., Mrs. Annie Boyce, Napanee, Mrs. J. F. Stewart, Brockville, and J. A. Humphries, Toronto.

The funeral service was held Monday afternoon, from the family residence. Interment at Warkworth cemetery.

Presentation Made To Omemee Family

OMEMEE, Nov. 4 (Examiner Correspondence)—On the evening of October 31, about twenty friends of Reeve and Mrs. L. A. Southworth and daughter Jean met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Earle which was gaily adorned with Hallowe'en decorations. After a pleasant social time was spent an address was read by Mr. L. Curtis and a presentation made by William Earle, Jr.

Reeve Southworth although taken by surprise responded with a suitable reply. Mr. Southworth who has been reeve for several terms, and an active worker in the Anglican church will be very much missed in church as well as community. Mr. and Mrs. Southworth and daughter Jean are removing to their new home in Cannington.

DIAMOND WEDDING.

Lakefield Couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Kemp, Spend 60th Anniversary Quietly at Home.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 4. (Examiner Correspondence)—Mr. and Mrs. John Kemp celebrated their diamond wedding on Sunday very quietly at their home on Clementi street.

Margaret Jane Wilson and oJhn Kemp were married in Lakefield sixty years ago and have lived in or near the village all these years. Their only son Herbert, also a resident of Lakefield is in the hospital in Peterborough recovering from an operation and their three daughters, who reside in Rochester were unable to be present, but their friends and neighbours called and offered felicitations. This is the second diamond wedding to be celebrated in Lakefield the first being Mr. and Mrs. S. Edwards on November 18th last.

All Records Broken By Rubber Factory

BOWMANVILLE, Nov. 4—Existing production speed records recently were broken in the Goodyear factory here, according to A. M. Hardy, plant superintendent.

The factory received, states Hardy, an order for a conveyor belt approximately ¼-mile long and weighing 5¼ tons, for urgent delivery to a customer at a point 250 miles from this town. Despite the fact that vulcanization alone required 42 hours, the belt was delivered 72 hours after the order was received.

Y.M.C.A. Launches Big Programme For Season

WEMP, PEARCE DIFFER AT PROBE ON SALARY GRAB

Mayor Swears He Took Part in Salary Increase Conversations.

FURTHER LIGHT EXPECTED.

Costroller Claims Wemp Was First One to Broach Subject.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 4 (C.P.) — Further light is expected to be shed to-day on the origin and authorship on what has become familiarly known as the "salary-grab" by members of the City Council when Judge J. H. Denton resumes the sitting started yesterday into activities among members of the civic administration prior to the formulation of a bill passed by the Ontario Legislature which authorized the increase.

Testimony Conflicting

Monday's sessions were marked by conflicting testimony on the part of Mayor Bert S. Wemp and Controller Claude Pearce as to who asked City Solicitor C. M. Colquhoun to draw up the "Grab" Bill to be brought down in the Legislature.

The Mayor denied he took any part in the discussion of salary increases at the much-talked-of conference in his office on Feb. 19, and maintained the meeting was entirely between Sam Wright, M.L.A. for Toronto-Dovercourt, and Controller Pearce.

Continuing his testimony, Mayor Wemp declared he was busy signing letters and had only overheard Pearce inform Wright, during the course of their 30-minute conversation in his office, that 26 members of the Council were "lined up" in favor of the increase.

The first intimation he had had of the movement under way for increases, the Mayor proceeded, was when Pearce came to his office uninvited and had at once commenced talking to Wright, who was already there, pressing his claims for an office to the Toronto Transportation Commission. During this conversation, witness stated, Controller Summerville had walked in and out of his office several times.

Even after Pearce and Wright had conferred in his office, the Mayor said, he had seen the city solicitor come into his office and had heard him discuss legislation he had not known that the meeting was the occasion of Colquhoum drawing up a bill similar to the one later sponsored in the Legislature by Wright.

Pearce Differs With Wemp

In contrast to the Mayor's testimony, Controller Pearce declared the Mayor had a definite part in the movement for higher wages from the time it started. He said it was Mayor Wemp, who, complaining at the major part of his salary being expended for election purposes, had first opened the question of salaries during a discussion on the city estimates early in February.

It was the Mayor who had summoned him and Summerville to Mayor Wemp's office on Feb. 19 for the conference with Wright. Pearce said. He swore that both the Mayor and Summerville had taken part in the conversation with Wright concerning the necessary legislation which would give the council power to pass a by-law authorizing the increase in salaries.

Alderman William Stewart testified that Fred G. McBrien M.L.A. for Toronto, Brockton, a previous witness had said the Wright bill originated in Mayor Wemp's office on Feb. 19. McBrien, testifying at the earlier sessions had said Wright asked him to draw up an authorizing bill some hours before the huddle in the Mayor's office.

GRAND JURIES ARE DEFENDED

Mr. Justice McEvoy is Presiding at Fall Assizes of United Counties.

ONE CRIMINAL CASE.

(Special to The Examiner)

COBOURG, Nov. 4.—Refutation of the criticism levelled at grand juries was made yesterday by Mr. Justice McEvoy, who is presiding at the fall assizes being held here for the United Counties of Durham and Northumberland.

"I am pleased to know and to speak of the worth of the grand jury. It is the safeguard and check of the rights of every subject" Mr. Justice McEvoy declared. "There is the criticism of its work, but I believe such a body is necessary.

"When an accused is first arrested, the Police Magistrate must first decide whether there is enough evidence to commit for trial, and after that the grand jury must decide whether there is enough evidence to convict. Actually then, the accused has two chances for freedom before he comes to actual trial."

Members of the grand jury at the fall assizes now open, and before which only one criminal case is being heard, are Charles Bolster, Cobourg; Wesley Bradburn, Cartwright; Maurice Booth, Cobourg; Lisgar Clarke, Cobourg; Frederick Clarke, Cavan; H. N. Carr, Campbellford; Lavergne Fallis, Cavan; Warren Free, Murray; Ernest W. King, Port Hope; W. J. Latimer, Brighton Twp.; A. McCarthy, Port Hope; J. F. Wolfrain, and Fred S. White, Port Hope.

The Grand Jury exercised great care before deciding whether to return a bill in the case of Lloyd Ames, Brighton, who faces two serious charges arising out of the same alleged incident. The hearing of the Crown's evidence was begun by the grand jury about 2.10 in the afternoon, and two hours later, Mr. Justice Wright adjourned the court until Tuesday morning, the jury not yet having reached a decision.

Nelson Grows 13 Feet in 90 Years

The famous Nelson column in Trafalgar Square, London has "grown" 13 feet 4 inches in the ninety years it has been erected—at least that is what Mr. Larkin, well-known English steeplejack, would have us believe. The steeplejack measured the column recently and compared its height with the figures in the official records in the British Office of Works. The difference was 13 feet 4 inches. The British Government is investigating, and if any suspicious characters are seen in the vicinity with any kind of fertilizer, they will probably be arrested.

BELLEVILLE Y'S MEN'S CLUB VISITS PETERBORO AND TWO CLUBS REVIEW THEIR PAST SEASON'S ACTIVITIES

Local Club Contributed $1,000 to the Y.M.C.A. Building Fund.

BOWLING LEAGUE STARTS.

International President Newton Thompson is Present at Meeting.

Adequate evidence that the Y.M.C.A. occupies a vital place in the life of this community was affected in full measure last evening, when a program which signalizes the opening of the winter season was launched, backed by all the intensity of purpose and young manhood.

Down on the bowling alleys, the Y league got away to a good start, upstairs in the dining-room the Hi-Y Club was reorganized, an objective was planned and the schedule for the winter season drawn up, while downstairs in the boys section the "Y's Men's Club," were hosts to their brother members from Belleville.

The Y's men's banquet formed the most important item on the program, and the members listened intently to an encouraging and inspirational address from their International President Newton Thompson, after they had done justice to a banquet prepared and served by the lady workers of the "Y."

Approximately twenty-seven visitors from Belleville were present along with their president Elmer Watson. They were intermingled with the Peterborough men, and gathered around the gaily decorated tables, in the half light cast by the shaded lamps and candles, and soon broke down barriers of reserve which existed among them, making the room echo and re-echo to their laughter and chatter; their merry banter, and lusty choruses sung to the accompaniment of the club pianist George Nichols.

Harry Tudhope, president of the local club was in the chair. Gathered around him at the head table were members of the executive including Ray Brown, vice president, A. V. Lillow, second vice president, Walker Jones, treasurer, executives of the Belleville Club and Norman Edwards of Belleville, Lieut-Governor of the Eastern Ontario district of the Association. Wm. Stewart, secretary of the club was not present, having left the city recently.

One of the obligations which belongs to the Y's Men's International, explained Mr. Edwards, is to hold a conference semi-annually. The object of the meeting last evening, being a get-together to review the work of the past year, and to give a means that the clubs may work for their mutual benefit.

Review of Year's Work.

Mr. Tudhope reviewing the results of the past years work, so far as the local club is concerned, spoke of the boxing activity which they sponsored last fall and which concluded in January. This branch of their work had not been so successful as in previous years. The most important and certainly the hardest effort they made was in the financial campaign for the additions to the existing building. They were successful in raising a sum of $1,000. Several picnics were held throughout the summer, four delegates were sent to the International Convention at Wilkes Barre, Pennsylvania, and the sum of $300 clear profit was made at Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, where the clubmen ran a bingo game. Their equipment was kindly loaned by the Rotary Club.

A. Walters who tendered a report of the year's work, on behalf of the Belleville Club, proved that they have also been very active along somewhat different lines. A successful play was staged last winter—so successful that it will be again presented this season, while their service work centred around the junior boys activities. They closed the year with a large Hallowe'en party, which was instrumental in providing an outlet for the jubilant spirits of the youngsters, without any wilful damage being perpetrated around the city. They also had a financial campaign, which was a success and have inaugurated a scheme whereby they defray part of the membership fees in the Y.M.C.A. for needy boys and in the Y.W.C.A. for the girls. A basketball and hockey team and a bowling team was run, and proves that the Belleville men are not backward in the field of sport. They now have under way a campaign in which they are collecting tinfoil, in an effort to raise money for hospitals.

Constructive Criticism

Mr. Edwards, in a brief address, offered his congratulations to the members of both clubs, and made special mention of the work performed by Mr. Tudhope of this city, and A. Walters and Bob Brown of Belleville. He drew attention to some fine work which is being done by other clubs, taking as an example, St. John's Club, N.B., where they have guaranteed the sum of $6,000 to finance a boys' camp.

He thought that Eastern Ontario could go further, although he did not desire to leave the impression that he was criticising the work already accomplished in this section. It was simply a matter of facing the question fairly and asking, "are we doing enough."

Newton Thompson

The International President Newton Thompson, spoke in a similar strain, telling his audience of the convention he had attended at Halifax two weeks ago and of the district convention at St. John, N.B., where the fellows are out to raise $6,000, for the upkeep of a camp they have established for boys. It is known as the "Y's Men's" cabin and toward the end of the summer season, after the boys have had full use of the it is rented to other organizations. Each member of the St. John Club owns a share in the "cabin." It is run on a business like basis and promises to return a good dividend. He spoke of similar activity in other sections of Eastern Canada, and urged his hearers to try and live up to those standards.

The speaker then launched into the details of the program as mapped out by the International Council, and said, "It is up to the service clubs of the Y organization to justify their existence."

On November 28-29-30 this year there is to be a regional conference of the Association at Montreal, which will embrace the Peterborough, Belleville, Montreal, Sherbrooke and Quebec clubs. He asked that the two clubs represented before him should send delegates to the meeting. "We must get to business, we have passed the foolish stage now," he ejaculated.

Mr. Thompson further spoke of the World's Alliance Convention which will be held in Cleveland in August next—a convention which has not been held on this continent for the past 75 years and which will probably not be held again in this generation. In this connection he made an appeal that each of the clubs, in common with all the clubs of the association should endeavor to raise $100 each to help defray the cost involved in attending the convention by overseas delegates, who will be coming from Esthonia, Czecho Slovakia, Japan, China and Australia, etc.

"Remember," he said, "the International Association is more concerned with the intensive development of the clubs, instead of extensive development."

The president of the local club in thanking the speaker for the message he brought to them, promised that the various matters called to their attention should receive their earnest consideration.

During the course of the evening a splendid program of music was contributed to by Harold Howard, who sang "Marching for the Dear Old Country" and a pianoforte solo by Jack Marsh both of Belleville and a pianoforte solo by A. Collison, organist of Murray Street Baptist Church.

View Extensions

Following on a suggestion by G. H. Roper, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. the visitors were taken to view the work already completed on the extensions to the building, and were favorably impressed by the signs which give promise of a splendid monument to the efforts of the Y members and citizens of Peterborough in general, who made such an undertaking possible.

Even at this stage some idea can be gained of the spacious dimensions of the new swimming pool, whose sloping floor has now taken shape, while the lower course of the ground floor is already laid in Longford stone taken from the quarries near Couchiching, and which matches the stonework on the old building. Deviating slightly from the original plan, it was explained, that at the east end of the swimming pool arena is to be built an enclosed gallery, with glass windows from which swimming events may be watched. This little room will also be used as a retreat for the chess enthusiasts.

Spacious boilers and water tanks are now on the site, ready for installation, while part of the flooring over the swimming pool is also in place. Above the pool will be situated the new bowling alleys, and a layer of cinders will be placed between the floor space to deaden the sound of the swiftly-rolled bowls and the click of the pins.

LAKE OWNERSHIP PROVING PUZZLE

Right to Land When Water Drained Off Put in Court's Hands.

3,900 ACRES RECLAIMED.

OTTAWA, Nov. 4. C.P.) — "To whom does the bed of a lake belong when the water is drained off?"

This is the question the Supreme Court of Canada was called upon to settle when the case of the King against W. N. Fares was heard. Judgment was reserved.

The case involves certain lands which were formerly the bed of Rush Lake, in Saskatchewan. The lake was partially drained by the Canadian Pacific Railway in straightening its line and some 3,900 acres of land were reclaimed. Smith and Fares were the owners of certain lands bordering on the former shore of the lake.

Since the draining took place, the Dominion Government granted some of the reclaimed land to soldier settlers. Smith and Fares complained that this grant interfered with their riparian rights and asked for the cancellation of the grant in so far as it cut them off from egress to the shore of the lake.

They obtained judgment in their favor in the Exchequer Court and the case was appealed to the Supreme Court by the Dominion Government.

Thirty Arrests Made In Big Narcotic Ring

SYRACUSE, Nov. 4 (C.P.)—Thirty arrests in seven cities, and a seizure of drugs valued at $25,800 were reported by Federal officers who for six weeks have worked under cover, in an effort to smash what they described as an "international drug ring—one of the biggest and most powerful in the United States."

The secret Government agents caused the arrests in this city, at Buffalo, Niagara Falls, New York, Utica, Albany, Troy and Schenectady. The coup was said to have been engineered by narcotic officials at Washington and New York.

HOW TO STOP FOOD SOURING IN STOMACH

Avoid Gas and Indigestion.

It is gas, formed by fermenting food, that after meals bloats your stomach, causing sourness, heartburn, dullness, uncomfortable fullness and pains of indigestion. Drugs, stomach tonics, and artificial digestants fail to give satisfactory relief because they have little or no effect on the stomach acids that have been proved to be the real cause of gassy stomach and practically all indigestion. Instead an absolutely pure anti-acid or neutralizing agent should be used after meals to neutralize this dangerous acid in the stomach, and undoubtedly nothing could be better or safer for the purpose than Bisurated Magnesia. This you can obtain from any good drug store in either powder or tablets, and in most cases a teaspoonful of the powder, or four tablets taken with a little water after meals will be sufficient to instantly neutralize excessive acidity of the stomach, stop and prevent premature souring and fermentation of the food and permit a normal, painless digestion of whatever you have eaten. Try this simple prescription and be delighted with your entire freedom from indigestion.

CANADIAN CHOIR HIGHLY PRAISED

Brantford Singers Make Debut in Royal Albert Hall, London.

FAIR ATTENDANCE.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 4.—The Canadian choir of Brantford won through on its merits when it made its debut in London at the Royal Albert Hall last night. There was a fair-sized attendance in the huge building, which only artists of long-standing International repute can hope to fill.

The audience, which included many Canadians, evidently withheld judgment until it was able to weigh with accuracy the choirs abilities, but as the singers warmed up to their work, so the listeners clearly showed their appreciation and the evening wound up in an atmosphere of genuine enthusiasm.

COUNCIL ISSUES WRIT

OSHAWA, Nov. 4—The City of Oshawa has issued a writ for $182 against T. A. Garton, proprietor of the Garton Bus Co., operating between Bowmanville, Oshawa and Whitby, for the collection of mileage tax. Municipalities have the right by bylaw to tax bus companies at a rate of one-tenth of a cent per passenger per mile for every mile busses are operated through the streets of the municipality. The Garton Bus Co. has consistently refused to pay this tax and the sum of $182 represents the arrears in taxes for the number of miles which the company has operated through Oshawa from April to September inclusive.

Probe On Girl's Death Postponed To Nov. 12

SIMCOE, Ont., Nov. 4 (C.P.)—An adjournment for nine days was made at the inquest scheduled here last night into the mysterious death of Vida Worden, young Houghton township school teacher, who died at the Norfolk General Hospital here on Tuesday last, allegedly as the result of a serious operation.

In announcing the decision to postpone the date of the inquest even further, Coroner Dr. W. A. McIntosh stated that the report to be prepared by a pathologist in Toronto had not yet been completed. The date for the hearing was set as Wednesday, Nov. 12.

No further light has been cast upon the death of the girl, although two persons, whose names were not revealed were represented by counsel at last night's session.

RYCKMAN VISITS SOO

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Nov. 4 (C.P.)—Hon. L. B. Ryckman, Minister of National Revenue, and Acting Minister of Finance, who has been touring the West gathering information in connection with the tariff changes proposed for the next session, arrived in Soo last evening and will leave for Sudbury to-day.

EFFORTS OF REDS FAIL IN SUDBURY

Special Police Sworn in Foil All Unemployed Demonstrations.

LEADERS URGE IN VAIN.

SUDBURY, Ont., Nov. 4. (CP)—A threatened demonstration on the part of local unemployed, failed to materialize last night. The cause for apprehension was aroused by a meeting here yesterday afternoon at which leaders of the local branch of the Communist Party exhorted a crowd of about 300 men and women to form an Unemployed Workers' Union. It was understood that plans had been made for an organized parade and a march to the city hall last night where certain demands were to be laid before the council.

Fearing a repetition of the recent disturbances in Port Arthur, the authorities hastily prepared for any semblance of trouble. A number of special constables were sworn in and other measures taken to meet an emergency.

Why BOVRIL prevents that Sinking Feeling

Why is it that one has such a fine feeling of buoyancy after drinking a cup of Bovril? Modern research has shown that in addition to proteins of exceptionally high food value, beef has certain unique powers of stimulating cellular activity—that is to say of stimulating vitality.

Bovril is the concentrated essence of this "vitality power" of beef. That is why Bovril is such a powerful stimulant and sustainer, why, in fact, "Bovril prevents that sinking feeling."

POOL AGREEMENT PROVES BINDING

Ruling by Judge Wearing Affects Farmers Over Ontario.

SIMILAR TO WESTERN CASE.

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 4—County Judge Joseph Wearing ruled that contracts entered between farmers and co-operative marketing pools were legal and binding in an interesting judgment handed down yesterday. His Honor based his decision partly upon that given by the Saskatchewan Appeal Court in a similar case connected with the Prairie Wheat Pool, holding that the agreement was not illegal under the Combines Investigation Act.

Judge Wearing's decision is expected to have far-reaching effects in that hundreds of Ontario farmers belong to these co-operative associations. Under signed agreements they are bound to sell their produce only to the pools and become liable if they sell to outsiders.

The particular case heard by Judge Wearing was a seventh Divisional Court act at Dorchester, brought by the United Farmers' Co-operative Ltd., which carries on business as broker in the Toronto Livestock Exchange, against James Baskerville, a West Missouri farmer. Damages of $1.00 were assessed.

BALE DESPATCHED BY CAVAN SOCIETY

W.M.S. and W.A. of Cavan United Church Holds Combined Meeting.

CAVAN, Nov. 4 (Examiner Correspondence)—On Thursday afternoon the W.M.S. and W.A. of Cavan United Church held a joint meeting in the basement of the church.

The joint devotional exercises for the W. A. and W.M.S. were taken by Mrs. J. E. Whitham, who read a scripture lesson appropriate for the Thanksgiving season. The opening hymn was "There's a story to tell to the Nations."

Mrs. Swain led in prayer. The president, Mrs. Matchett then took charge. The roll call was answered by a verse of scripture bearing on prayer.

Next meeting, the roll call topic will be worship. The report of the missionary bale was given.

This bale was taken to Peterborough and left with the supply secretary, Mrs. Bookhout.

The officers' report were given and adopted.

Leaflets on Peace were read by Mesdames Perrin, Staples, Matchett, Keegan and Whitham. Mrs. Snyder read a paper on Thanksgiving.

Mrs. D. J. Hunter, read an interesting article concerning China, where the girls are doing much to show the fruits of Christian teaching. Mrs. Byers read a clipping on Corea and Mrs. Snider a leaflet illustrating "Christian Stewardship."

The collection and thank-offering amounted to $14.35 with other thank offering envelopes to be handed in.

A motion was sponsored by Mrs. Swain and Mrs. Snider that we use the Study Book on Japan.

Mrs. Matchett closed the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. D. J. Hunter, president of the W.A. opened the meeting by using a responsive reading, "Thy Kingdom Come."

During the business session, plans were completed for the fowl dinner on Thanksgiving evening.

It was announced that the .Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Church, Peterborough will preach in the morning on Sunday, November 9th and the Rev. Mr. McDonald of Knox Church Peterborough in the evening.

The play, "The Road Back," is being prepared by Cavan Dramatic Club and will be presented Thanksgiving evening. The music before the play and between acts will be given by Mrs. L. H. Windsor and some of her pupils. The roll call was answered by a scripture verse.

The treasurer reported that twenty-five dollars had been contributed to the Thank offering taken at our anniversary services on Sunday, October 12th and some extra dishes purchased for use at the dinner. Also the treasurer was authorized to pay all bills in connection with the dinner.

The meeting closed with the mispah benediction after which the lunch committee served lunch. There were 21 ladies present.

WEDDING BELLS

MALONEY—HOLLAND

One of the prettiest weddings of the season took place in St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, on Wednesday, October 29, at 9 a.m., when Margaret Catherine, Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Holland became the bride of Herbert Maloney son of Eugene Maloney, both of Ennismore.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a gown of pink satin ornamented with rhinestones, princess bodice and long flowing skirt. She wore a light fitting black velvet hat, taupe fox scarf, with black satin slippers and carried a bouquet of ophelia roses. Her only ornament was a beautiful necklace, the gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Helena Holland, sister of the bride acted as bridesmaid, and looked lovely in a poudre blue flat crepe dress with deep hem of chiffon lace. Her hat was of black velvet with slippers to match. She wore a red fox scarf and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Harry Maloney, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man.

Mass was celebrated by Rev. J. V. McAuley, assisted by Rev. J. F. McGuire of Hastings, cousin of the bride and Rev. Father Maloney of Peterborough, cousin of the bridegroom.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where dinner was served to more than sixty guests. The reception room was attractively decorated for the occasion with baby mums and ferns and streamers of pale pink and white satin ribbon, a madeira tablecloth with contrasting serviettes to every plate, with a handsome set of pale pink dishes.

A very enjoyable evening was spent in dancing after which Mr. and Mrs. Maloney left by motor for London, Windsor, Detroit and other American points. On their return they will reside in Ennismore.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts.

The bridegroom's gift to the bridesmaid was a necklace of sapphires and pearls, and to the best man engraved gold cuff links.

W.A. PLANNING PAINT CHURCH

Other Business Transacted at Regular Meeting of Warsaw Church Society.

CHILDREN HOLD PARTY

WARSAW, Nov. 4. — (Examiner Correspondence)—The regular meeting of Warsaw United Church Women's Association was held at the parsonage on Thursday afternoon.

If weather permits the outside of the church is to be painted this fall. The ladies decided to pay the amount allotted by the parsonage committee on the parsonage furnace. The flower baskets are to be filled with artificial flowers during the winter.

Mrs. George Taylor gave a piano selection, "Cathedral Bells."

The next meeting, the last Thursday in November will be at Mrs. Digweed's home. The main business will be the election of officers.

Refreshments were served by Mesdames Wilkinson, Arthur Edwards, David Taylor and Stuart Clysdale.

Hallowe'en Party.

The senior and junior classes of Warsaw school held a Hallowe'en party on Friday afternoon. There were songs and recitations, fortune telling by Kenneth Jakens; he gave an apparently blank slip to each, which when held over a lamp showed a written fortune.

A fish pond was supplied from which each child drew a verse, grave or gay.

For some games all repaired to the basement where there were apple games, climbing the golden stairs and black magic. There was a peanut scramble and candles were distributed.

Jean Munro was chairman. Many of the childdren and Miss Cameron came in costume for the afternoon. Mr. Sloan and Miss Cameron supervised.

The money for the school and pupils from Norwood fair came on Friday.

Large Congregations At Centreville Services

BAILIEBORO, Nov. 4.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Rev. Vesey of Toronto delivered most impressive and instructive sermons to large congregations at the annual anniversary services at Centreville Presbyterian church on Sunday morning and evennig. At both services the auditorium was filled to capacity.

Excellent music was provided by the choir, while Mrs. McKee Bingham of Millbrook was the special soloist for the event.

A thankoffering was asked for and was liberally responded to.

On Tuesday evening the annual fowl supper will be held in the hall, when George Street United Church orchestra will provide the program.

A patent dress shirt has been brought out in London with sides of the stiff front unattached to the body of the shirt so that the wearer may put his hands underneath to insert the study.

"Do Not Hesitate to Try It"

"Your Vegetable Compound is a good medicine. Anyone who is in poor health should not hesitate to try it. When I was taking the Vegetable Compound I tried the sample Liver Pills I found in the package. I have taken them every night since and I can feel myself improving. I am so thankful for the good they do me that I have told several women about it."—Mrs. G. W. Posliff, 263 Huron St., Stratford, Ontario.

THE ORIGINAL — The Rexall Stores — CANADA'S FAVORITE DRUG STORES — ONE CENT SALE

WHAT IS A Rexall ONE-CENT SALE?

IT is a sale where you buy an item at the regular price, then another item of the same kind for one cent. As an illustration: The standard price of Klenzo Dental Paste is 50c, you buy one tube at this price and by paying 1 Cent more, or 51 cents, you get two tubes, and save 49 cents. Every United Drug Co. article in this sale is a high quality guaranteed product, just the same as is sold every day at the regular price. No limit—buy all you want, but on Thursday, Friday and Saturday only!

1¢ SALE — ONE CENT SALE — 1¢ SALE

A PROFIT-SHARING METHOD OF ADVERTISING

THIS sale has been developed by the United Drug Co. as an advertising plan. Rather than spend large sums of money in other ways to convince you of the merit of these goods, they are spending it on this sale in permitting us to sell you two full size packages of high quality merchandise for the price of one, plus one cent. It costs money to get new customers. But the sacrifice in profit is justified, because we know the goods will please you.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Potter of Toronto, formerly of Peterboro, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crilly, Hunter [illegible]

Mrs. G. Gatford of 277 Rubidge street entertained at her home for a very successful afternoon tea held there under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of All Saints Church. The guests were received by Mrs. Gatford and the president of the society, Mrs. F. H. Dawson. Mrs. J. Beddison acted as treasurer. Mrs. J. R. Runnett was in charge of the tea room and the ladies were ushered by Mrs. S. Dunnett. Tea was poured by Mrs. S. A. Harris and Mrs. J. M. McCulloch at a table prettily arranged with yellow chrysanthemums. The rooms were decorated appropriately to the Hallowe'en season. Assistants were Mrs. H. E. Connelly and Mrs. Stanley Harris. A sale of home-made cooking was in charge of Mesdames Justin and Bowler.

The pupils of St. Margaret's School at Kirkfield celebrated Hallowe'en in a most enjoyable manner on Saturday night. The pupils and guests of the evening had dinner in the attractively decorated dining hall with prettily arranged tables. After dinner the boys and girls, in masquerade costumes of fancy and comic type, played games and also presented a program of vocal and instrumental music, folk dances, readings and an act by the senior students, who gave the Witches' Scene from "Macbeth." The program and the splendid ability demonstrated by the students as much appreciated. Guests present included the Rev. P. J. Kelly and the Rev. V. J. Gillogly, of Victoria Road, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Knox of Toronto, Mr. J. O. DelaPlante of Peterborough, Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. Lunan and Mr. Mitchell, of Kirkfield, Mr. and Mrs. McDonald of Fenelan Falls. The program opened with a welcome song by the juniors, followed by a piano duett, a dance, a violin solo by Patricia Whitten, the Lancers, danced by the Midgets, a reading by Mary McIlroy, the Wodden Soldiers' dance by the boys, and a Hallowe'en song by the Babes of St. Margarets. At the close, favors were distributed to the guests. A second event of the past week at the school was a field day of sports with a program of running races, jumping and a relay race. The feature was the series of pony races contributed by the smaller boys. The prizes were distributed by the Rev. P. J. Kelly of Victoria Road.

The Toronto Globe carries the following interesting account to-day of the work of Miss Katherine E. Wallis, who is exhibiting some of her pieces during the next fortnight at the Women's Art Association galleries on Prince Arthur avenue, Toronto. During her stay in Toronto, Miss Wallis is the guest of Mrs. Thomas and Miss Frances Campbell at 91 Bedford road. The article follows: "To be the first Canadian woman to be made a Societaire of the Societe Nationale des Beaux Arts, is an honor which Miss Katherine E. Wallis, noted sculptor, bears very modestly, but withal, very proudly. Miss Wallis has been in Canada since the early summer and is in Toronto now in connection with an exhibition of her work, which opens in the Women's Art Association galleries on Prince Arthur Avenue and continues for two weeks. Last evening when she talked with The Globe at the home of her hostess, Miss Frances Campbell, on Bedford Road, she admitted that it was rather an honor to be the first Canadian woman to receive the coveted bronze medal. 'At least, so far as I know I am the first—there may have been others,' Miss Wallis hastened to add. Upon The Globe's request, Miss Wallis produced the medal itself, lying in its scarlet-lined leather case, and bearing in relief the heads of two of the founders of the society—Puvris de Chavannes and Meissonnier. She also had a photograph of the remarkable work which was placed in the 1929 salon, and which brought the well-merited award. "La Lutte Pour la Vie,' which Miss Wallis admits is far the most important piece of wood carving she has done, will be shown in Toronto. For years, she said, she had had the idea for it in her mind, but was busy with other works, and let it go on developing. Finally, she commenced it, and the finished work justifies in no small measure the time spent on it. Her exhibition in Toronto this year will not be as large as her last, held in 1930, but Miss Wallis pointed out that was due to the tremendous amount of time spent on 'La Lutte Pour la Vie,' and also because much of her recent work was for orders. The exhibition will include a number of reliefs and some paintings, in addition to her sculpture. In commenting on the scope and success of the work of the Women's Art Association and the charm of its galleries on Prince Arthur Avenue, Miss Wallis became reminiscent and recalled her first visit to Toronto as a child. 'I stayed in that very house,' she remarked, and added with a smile and a shake of her head, 'Now it must be very old!' Toronto has much of her work in private collections, but the only piece available to the public is her 'Mercury Charmed by its own Invention,' a lifesize figure in stone, which has a place, unfortunately, all too obscure, in the Normal School. Montreal Art Gallery has a splendid representation of her work, among which is the "Fawn's Head," which was presented to the gallery by Mr. Arthur Browning, and which was reproduced in the last issue of 'Passing Show'."

FASHION SERVICE

915

Look how attractively the kilted plaits are arranged? They are set on the bodice that joins the skirt in tricky pointed outline. It gives it distinction and individuality.

The simple long-waisted bodice belts its waistline at normal. The sleeves show smart detail in slight fulness toward the wrist.

Plain blue crepy woolen is charming trim against the wine-red crepy woolen with dark blue dots used for the original Paris model.

Style No. 915 is designed for girls of 8, 10, 12 and 14 years.

Wool jersey, covert cloth, featherweight tweed, rayon crepe, linen, tweed printed cottons and wool-challis prints are smartly appropriate.

Size 8 requires 1½ yards 54-inch with ⅜ yard 35-inch contrasting.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

The secret of a successful jelly—making it to have sufficient pectin in the fruits to make them stiffen. Green or unripe fruit has more pectin in it than fruit past it prime.

• • • • • • •

Some fruits, however, have so little that it has to be increased by combining other fruit with the main one.

• • • • • • •

Some people say they do not seem to get it just right and want to know the time for cooking and how much sugar to use for a bushel of grapes etc. The trouble with grapes is because they are using all ripe fruit. It is important to have some green ones in with the ripe fruit.

• • • • • • •

Wild grapes make the best jelly. This is partly because the grapes vary from fully matured ones to those that are absolutely green; and partly because of the thickness of the skins which provide better jelly-making elements than the inside part.

• • • • • • •

Ripe grapes will require some apples mixed with them to supply pectin if the jelly jells. If apples are sour, such as crab apples, ½ cup of strained unsweetened juice to 1 cup of unsweetened juice of very ripe grapes is sufficient. Never use the juice of sweet apples.

• • • • • • •

Grapes do not require washing. The added water that clings to them is undesirable. The grapes are strained through a cloth which eliminates dirt, leaving pure juice only. Put any quantity of grapes to be made into jelly, into a preserving kettle over a low fire, to each four quarts of grapes add ¾ cup of cold water. Omit the water if the grapes have been washed.

• • • • • • •

Press the grapes to crush them out of the skins. Simmer until the juice have been extracted, continuing to press the grapes occasionally so that the juices cover them.

• • • • • • •

Strain into a jelly bag, or press in a fruit press until all juices are extracted. In either case a small quantity only can be done at one time. If a jelly bag is used, keep renewing the quantity in it as the juice drains off, and let the last amount drip all night.

• • • • • • •

Measure the juice and allow pint for pint of sugar. That is for each 2 cups of juice allow two cups of sugar. Add the apple juice if needed, and allow equal parts of sugar. Put the unsweetened juices in the preserving kettle and bring to a boil. Continue boiling vigorously for 20 minutes.

• • • • • • •

Skim off all scum as it rises. The sugar should be heating in the oven during this time, and be added at the end of the 20 minutes. Stir vigorously until the sugar is dissolved. Boil without stirring for 5 minutes longer, skimming off all the scum. Pour immediately into heated jelly tumblers each having a few scrapings of paraffine in it.

• • • • • • •

Allow to cool gradually. When cool the paraffine will have risen to the top and sealed the jelly air tight. Put the tops on glasses and set on shelves in cool preserve closet.

Warns All Past 40 To Heed These Signs

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Alice Michaelis

Hearthstone.

To-night the first fire of the Autumn glows
Upon our hearth; the dancing flames release
Imprisoned sunlight from the logs; light flows
In ruddy streams, and heat's swift waves increase
Till arden Summer days seem here again
As when the world was brimmed with bloom and song.
Without ,the pallid year is on the wane,
Yet here, like butterflies, bright memories throng.

But not alone the hearthfire, brave and gay,
Brings Summer to this place where we rejoice,
For here is love, that does not pass away,
Love lights your eyes, love thrills within my voice.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

EMOTIONS MAY CAUSE GALL-STONES.

When a professor from Canada goes over to Germany to lecture on the effects of the emotions upon the various organs and cells of the body, we should all be thinking about our own bodies and what our emotions may do to them.

It has been amply demonstrated what fear, anger, joy, or sorrow can do to the heart's action, and likewise to the digestive system.

And now research men are showing us that the liver, the formation of bile, and the materials making up the bile may be affected by the emotions.

You may remember that the liver has been blamed, and rightly so, for making people lazy, making them lack courage, giving them not only a yellow appearance, but making them "yellow" from the standpoint of courage.

This has proven to be due to lack of exercise in the majority of cases, the liver not getting the movement, the "squeezing" necessary for a good blood circulation within it; which would help it to make bile, and pour it out into gall-bladder and into intestine.

However, research men now tell us that sluggishness of the liver, thickening of the bile, and the actual formation of gall-stones may be due to emotional disturbances. Now what can be done about this, so that this sluggishness of the liver, thickening of bile, and formation of gall-stones can be avoided?

The most sensible and effective method would be to play or exercise regularly in buoyant company. This would be doubly helpful in that the liver would get stirred up by the exercise, and there would not be as much chance for the depressing emotions to affect the system.

There is no question but that the old-fashioned high corsets were a factor in causing so many cases of gall-stones to occur in women—four times as many as in men. Evidently another factor, that of anxiety, worry, or grief which unfortunately are more common to women than men, may likewise have been a cause.

We cannot all avoid emotional disturbances despite our health, or religious convictions, but everyone of us can see that the liver gets a little exercise daily by bending exercises, with knees straight, or by deep breathing exercises which sends the floor of the chest down against the liver

PRINGLE HOUSE IS DEDICATED

Impressive Ceremony Marks Opening of New Edition to Hatfield Hall.

AT COBOURG

COBOURG, Nov. 4.—(Special to the Examiner.)—Singing the processional Hymn, "For all the Saints who from their Labors rest," as they wound from the main building of Hatfield Hall School to the new addition directly opposite, the procession of girl students in uniforms and white veils, and the clergy in the scarlet colored hoods and cassocks of their college and degrees, presented a brilliant spectacle at the decidation by the Bishop of Toronto, of the "Clive Pringle Memorial House," the gift of Mrs. Clive Pringle, to Hatfield Hall in honour of her late husband, Senator Clive Pringle.

The procession began at All Saints' Chapel and was led by the blue-uniformed girls of the student body, behind whom came the clergy, each of whom wore colorful hoods and cassocks. His lordship, the Bishop of Toronto, wore the scarlet cassock and gold embroidered white stole of his office, and was preceded by Rev. Canon Brain, who bore the gilt episcopal staff.

Following the dedicatory sentence, Canon Brain, read the 27th Psalm, whose opening words, "Except the Lord build", are the translation of the school's motto, "Nisi Dominus Frustra."

His Lordship expressed the hope to the gathered guests that Mrs. Pringle's example would inspire many others to give of their abundance to the great philanthropic work which is to-day in such need of friends.

Following the ceremony, tea was served to the school's guests in the lounge of Hatfield Hall.

Clergy taking part in the proceedings included, Rev. Dr. Boyle, president Board of Trustees and rector of St. Peter's, Cobourg; Rev. Canon Oswald Rigby, of St. Mark's Port Hope; Rev. Dr. Blagrave, St. John's Church, Peterborough; Rev. F. G. Orchard, Headmaster, Trinity College School, Port Hope; Rev. A. G. Emmett, rector of St. John's, Port Hope; Rev. E. R. G. Adye, rector-designate, All Saint's Church, Whitby; and Rev. W. R. Tanton, of Trinity United Church, Cobourg.

Applicants for an automobile driving license in Great Britain are now required to sign a declaration of physical fitness.

HOW TO REDUCE VARICOSE VEINS

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first-class druggists and apply it night and morning as directed, you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a harmless, yet most powerful germicide; and two ounces last a very long time. Indeed, so powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic cases of piles are often entirely absorbed and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. McDermid Drug Co. Ltd., Bond's Drug Store, McDermid & Jury sell lots of it.

LaBarba Outpoints "Kid" Chocolate in N.Y. Bout

CUBAN FIGHTER DROPS DECISION

Coast Featherweight Wins By Large Margin in Boxers' Second "Go."

VICTOR ON POINTS.

Madison Square Garden, New York, Nov. 4. — Fidel LaBarba, curly-headed Italian warrior from Los Angeles last night burst the bubble of invincibility that has surrounded Kid Chocolate in the featherweight division for the past two years and whipped the ebony flash from Cuba rather decisively in a torrid ten-round battle.

Once before LaBarba, former king of the flyweights, and the dazzling "Keed" boxed ten rounds in New York and the decision, amid considerable protest, went to the battling bomb-bomb. Since that night, almost two years ago Chocolate has come on to great things, boxing light weights on a basis of equality, while LaBarba has busily gone about cleaning up the remainder of the 126-pound division.

So last night they met again this time as the foremost battlers of the feather weight class, although another holds the championship. And for the second time this year Chocolate left the ring a beaten battler. The decision of Referee Arthur Donovan and two judges was unanimous in LaBarba's favor.

LAKEFIELD TO ENTER O.H.A.

Hockey Club Will Have to be Re-organized Following Resignation of Dr. M. P. Kennedy.

SOFTBALL FIXTURES.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 4 (Examiner Correspondence).—With the coming of frost there is a suggestion of hockey, but so far there has been nothing definite done. After eight years' faithful and efficient service as manager, Dr. M. P. Kennedy has resigned as the president, which means a re-organization of the hockey club. A rumor has drifted about regarding Lakefield entering a team in the Trent Valley League, but this is merely rumor, as no invitation has been received or asked for; Lakefield's geographical position makes the village rather isolated for the constant interchange of sporting fixtures possible with the group of small towns to the south-east.

It is highly probable that at least one team will be entered in the O.H.A. this season as usual.

Softball Games

In spite of Hallowe'en and its attendant activities, social and otherwise, a good crowd witnessed the double-header ball game in the Rink on Friday evening. The first game was between Harrisons and the Sugar Bowl, two teams which fought to a finish for the City League Championship last summer. The summer's decision was reversed on Friday night as Harrisons won easily, due perhaps to their flapper short-stop and third base, who combined the charms of young ladies with a snappy brand of ball. The Sugar Bowl team is practically the Bridgenorth team which won the Rink Company's League for two seasons, but Harold Dormer, Connors and Bradshaw were not playing on Friday and their absence was felt by the team.

The line-up was as follows:—

Harrisons—Montgomery, p; White, c; Calladine, 1b; Sturgeon, 2b; Dorrington, 3b; Smith, ss; Wilshaw, ss; Haas and Corbett, field.

Sugar Bowl.—Forsyth, p; W. Mahood, c; Frick, 1b; Gillespie, 2b; Creighton, 3b; B. Mahood, ss; G. Dormer, ss; Dallin and McWilliams, field.

Score by innings:—

Harrisons	4011013—10
Sugar Bowl	0000031— 4

The second game saw two old rivals again playing with the same friendly spirit which is characteristic of both teams. Lakefield and Selwyn have played off for the finals many times, and Friday's game had decided bearing on the standing of the teams for the first half of the league. It looked like Selwyn's game until the last of the fifth, when Lakefield made ten runs and though Selwyn in the seventh scored six it was not enough, and Lakefield won by two runs without playing the last of the seventh. There were no home runs during the evening, but both games were worth seeing. J. R. Hill was plate umpire and L. Sabatino at bases.

The line-up was as follows:—

Selwyn.—W. Elliott, p; G. Nicholls, c; E Graham, 1b; D. Darling, 2b; C. Fitzgerald, 3b; M. Wilson, ss; H. Oliver, ss; W. Shearer and A. Wilson, field.

Lakefield—E. H. Northey, p; R. Payne, c; H. Stabler, 1b; H. Hamblin, 2b; V. Lancaster, 3b; N. W. Kyle, ss; J. Langley, ss; L. Lawless and F. Payne, field.

Score by innings:—

Selwyn	40120 06—13
Lakefield	3002,10.0x—15

The standing of the league at present is:—

	Played.	Won.	Lost.
Harrisons	3	3	0
Lakefield	4	3	1
Selwyn	3	2	1
Sugar Bowl	3	0	3
Canada Cement	3	0	3

BID FAIR TO DO COMEBACK

LESTER PREPARES FOR A "COMEBACK." JERWA AND BEATTIE OF VANCOUVER ALONG WITH EDDIE RODDEN OF LONDON ARE AMONG THE STAND-OUT ROOKIES—1928 WAS THE LAST WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP THE RANGERS HAD. THEY WILL MAKE A BIG BID AGAIN THIS YEAR.

New York Rangers, champions of the National Hockey League in 1928, bid fair to do a "comeback." They failed to head off the mighty Boston Bruins in the last two campaigns, but it is a greatly strengthened line-up that Lester Patrick is leading his season, and there is reason to hope for better results. All of the 1929-30 regulars are available, and in addition the New York management has secured the services of "Deacon" Waite of Boston; Peters, Philadelphia defense star; Gene Carrigan of Springfield; Alfie Moore, Cleveland's brilliant goalkeeper; Jerwa and Beattie of Vancouver, and Eddie Rodden who played the centre-ice position for London last year. With the arrivals of the sensational Cook brothers, Bill and "Bunny", all the candidates have "checked in," and they will be rushed through strenuous practice drills at the Ravina Rink. Bill Cook, as usual, is in great condition, and he was apparently playing as well as he ever did, which is saying a lot, when it is considered that he is the best right wing in hockey. Leo Bourgeault and "Ching" Johnson, aided by Peters and Siebert, the Kitchener product, were impressive on the Ranger defense. All are fine checkers, and they are clever puck-carriers. Selbert, however, will remain with Springfield for another season, as he is still a youngster, and will benefit by experience. Manager Patrick had no statements to issue but he did infer that he knows nothing about the reported trade of Bourgeaul for Martin Burke of the Montreal Canadiens. This deal was suggested last winter, but no agreement was reached.

BLACK HAWKS STRENGTHENED AT FORWARD WING POSITIONS

Chicago N. H. L. Team Counts on Former Saint Paul Players.

GARDINER BACK.

CHICAGO, Ills., November 4. — Fortified by more experience and several exceedingly promising young recruits, the Chicago Black Hawks threaten to become a serious contender in the approaching National Hockey League race. Major Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the young team which surprised the loop by winning second place last year, has spent liberally during the summer shopping season and believes that, with the right number of so-called breaks the Hawks will be in the thick of the championship struggle from the first game.

New and promising talent has been obtained for the wing positions, one of the big weak spots in last year's combination, and several veterans, injured toward the end of the 1929-30 campaign, have reported back in excellent physical condition.

"Chuck" Gardiner, one of the best goalkeepers of the league, will be back, and Alexander Wood, former Regina amateur, will be carried along with the team for emergency and understudy purposes. Gardiner had a few bad games last season at the start and Wood may be used in his place if the same situation comes up this season.

"Taffy" Abel, the Black Hawks' 224-pound star; Marvin "Cyclone" Wentworth, a sick man most of last season's promising rookies, and "Duke" Dutkowski will be the Black Hawks' defence line and should be stronger than formerly.

Much of the power of the centre line depends on the comeback ability of Vic Ripley. Ripley had a bad year last season because of illness and a general run-down condition, but has reported back for training with more weight and far better health to cheer the Hawks. He will work with the old Black Hawk line—Tommy Cook, high point scorer for the Hawks last year, who has increased his weight, and Art Somers, one of the most aggressive players in the game.

Boadway Out of Football For Season

NEW HAVEN EAGLES ARE EASILY BEATEN

Pringle, Former Marlboro Player, Prominent as New York Americans Win.

KITCHENER, Nov. 4. — The New Haven Eagles proved no match for the New York Americans in the opening hockey match of the local season, an exhibition tilt played at the Queen street arena last night, and as a result the 'farm" team took an 8-4 beating at the hands of the National League representatives from New York. Fifteen hundred fans were attracted by the contest, which proved to be a free-scoring tilt, featured by the playing of Worters in the American goal.

At no time during the entire game, with the exception of the early stages of the second period, were the Eagles within striking distance of their classy rivals who opened up with two goals in the first stanza, after which they were never headed.

For the Americans, Worters in the net and Norm Hines, Patterson and Burch turned in great exhibitions. The forward line, comprising Emms, Neville and Carson, last year with the Windsor team in the International League, also went well, while on the defense Simpson and Brydge were a tower of strength. McVeigh, Hughes, Dutton, Sheppard and Pringle, all showed plenty of class, the last named accounting for a pair of goals.

O.H.A. BULLETIN.

Nominations for office in the O.H.A. close on Saturday, Nov. 8. The annual meeting will be held Saturday, Nov. 15, at the Royal York Hotel, beginning at 10 a.m. Delegates will be tendered a luncheon by the O.H.A. at 12.30.

OBSERVE TERCENTENARY.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 4.—Scientists from all parts of the world will observe the tercentenary of the first use of quinine here, October 31 and November 1, at Shaw's garden. Dr. George T. Moore, director of the garden, has found that quinine was first used as a medicine in 1630.

President A. R. Van Linge of the Niederlandsche Kininefabriek at Amsterdam and Dr. M. Kerbosch, director of the government cinchona plantation in Java, who directs production of virtually the world's supply of the bark from which quinine is extracted, will be speakers.

All automobiles, homes and buildings in Carcag were ordered painted by the prefect of police for the proper observance of the hundredth anniversary of the death of Simon Bolivar, Venezuela's liberator.

VARSITY-QUEEN'S FIXTURE AT TORONTO IS HEADLINER ON INTERCOLLEGIATE BILL

'COLLEGIATE CHATTER.

Twin City Seniors Agree to Carry on in O.R.F.U. Schedule.

TORONTO, Ont., November 4 (C. P.). — Most teams remaining in contention for Eastern Canada's three major league titles resume training to-day for the games of Saturday which will see more teams definitely eliminated from the championship race.

One outstanding exception to the general trend is Hamilton. The personnel of the famous Tigers has been cut down to 16 players, owing to injuries suffered by Ray Boadway and Ernie Rohmer, two wing line stars, woh are reported out for the balance of the season.

Other members were somewhat battered in the clash with the Senators at Ottawa last Saturday, and it has been deemed advisable to give the squad a complete rest until Wednesday. Saturday the Bengals entertain the only team to mar their perfect record this season. Montreal A.A.A., who held them to a tie score recently. By defeating the fast tiring Tigers, the Winged Wheelers can get back into the running again, for second place.

Argos commence limbering up tonight for the more rigid training to come later in the week. The Big Four schedule brings them against the Senators in Ottawa, who appear to be improving fast judging by their fine showing against Hamilton when they lost by 10 to 1 after holding the crushing Tigers to a two to one count at half-time.

A victory for the Scullers will leave the destiny of the Big Four tiltie in doubt until the final game of the season between Tigers and Argos here on November 15, the latter are one point behind the Jungle Cats in the standing.

The headliner in the Intercollegiate will find Queen's University battling the undefeated union leaders, University of Toronto, here. Varsity defeated the Tricolor champions at Kingston two weeks ago quite decisively, but are likely to find themselves opposing a different team on Saturday.

Queen's have lost but one game, having defeated University of Western Ontario twice and McGill University once. The latter provided the surprise of the Intercollegiate schedule last Saturday by holding Varsity to a tie and they may continue to upset calculations when playing against Western Mustangs, who travel to Montreal this week.

Teams of the Western Group of the Ontario Rugby Football Union are furnishing one of the best races in the history of Canada's oldest football organization.

Cubs Lead Parade.

Hamilton Tiger Cubs are leading the parade at present by two points over Sarnia Imperials, the present champions of both groups. The Tunnel City squad seems assured of victory, as their opponents of to-morrow, Windsor Ambassadors, have practically declared their intention of defaulting unless the game is played on its original date of November 8. The games were advanced for fear of a tie for the leadership between Sarnia and Hamilton. If this developed O.R.F.U. officials planned to have the deadlock broken by a "sudden-death" game on Saturday, the winner qualifying to meet Balmy Beach, Eastern Section winners, at Toronto on Thanksgiving Day.

The Cubs are also scheduled to play their final game to-morrow, travelling to Kitchener for a tussle with the Panthers of that city. If the Cubs win it is all over as far as Sarnia's chances are concerned, but Kitchener has upset the team already this season, and appear to have a line up quite capable of doing it again. The Panther protest of Windsor's victory over them in the Border Cities on Oct. 25, has been disallowed. A decision in their favor would have kept them in the running with the game against the Cubs possibly causing a three-cornered tie if Kitchener and Sarnia both won their concluding games. The Panthers protested this disallowing of a touchdown which they scored against Windsor, and which would have given them victory.

London Picks Team To Meet Maple Leafs

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Manager Roy Brothers has selected his starting line-up to face Toronto Maple Leafs in the opening exhibition hockey game of the season at the London Arena on Wednesday night. Len Grosvenor will start at centre, with Leroy Goldsworthy at right wing, and Archie Briden at left. "Toots" Holway and Leo Reise will be the defense, with "Bord" Norfolk in goal. The second front line will include Oliver Reinikka at centre, Leo Quenneville at left, and Alvin Groh at right wing.

MARITIME HORSE RACING REVIEWED

Nine Track Records Lowered During Successful Season —Forty-seven More Heats Than Previous Year.

HALIFAX, N.S., November 4 (Written for the Canadian Press by James W. Power). — The 42nd annual review of harness racing in the Maritime Provinces shows a successful season and marks an increased interest in the ownership of horses, with more of them being raced than for some seasons, and a more than usual number of early meetings held at tracks in smaller places. The speed, however, shown by some of the money winners at these meetings, with competition with other meets and other causes, was responsible for lessening of entries at some of the later meets. Nevertheless, such brought about hotly contested events, with many hard stretch drives and close finishes to thrill the spectators.

Fredericton, Woodstock, St. Stephen, Charlottetown, and Halifax had their usual excellent meetings in fair weeks, and the first two named their customary summer heats. A great addition to the harness meets was the opening of the new track at St. John, N.B., with its $100,000 plant and many modern improvements. New England horsemen came for the opening of the track, and a great feature of the event was the banquet tendered the horsemen by the management, at which Lieut.-Governor, Premier, and other notables were present. Cape Breton, the home of the Community horses, held more than the usual number of meets, and with the numerous importations, had large fields and splendid sport. North Sydney, with its improved track and plant had four meets, twice as many as any place in the Maritime Provinces, while Glace Bay had two meets, and others were held at Sydney and Inverness. Truro, Antigonish, Selmah, and Sherbrooke (with its ¾ mile track), had two meets, while New Glasgow, Middleton, Tatamagouche, and Amherst had meetings.

In Prince Edward Island, Georgetown had two meets, New Annan, Summerside, St. Peters, and Montague each had good racing. In New Brunswick meetings were held at Campbellton, Bathurst, Sackville, Moncton, and Port Elgin, while matinee or—half-mile heat races were held at a number of the places mentioned above, and also at Aylesford and Parrsboro in Nova Scotia, Shediac in New Brunswick, and Cape Traverse, North Tryon, and Souris, Prince dward Island. There were also several match races in the closing months of the season.

Horsemen from New England, including such well-known reinsmen as W. R. Fleming, "Rod" Hanafin Pierce Chappelle, John Willard, George Reed, Charles Mason, Walter Gibbons, Monte Gerow, "Dutch" Lee, Johnson, Wathen, Piper, Colwell, and others participated in the Provinces in the races of the Maine and New Brunswick Circuit, and Gerow also went to Prince Edward Island.

TUNNEY SUIT MAY BE THROWN OUT

Billy Gibson Escapes When Plaintiff Fails to Prove Charges.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The complaint against Billy Gibson, co-defendant with Gene Tunney in Timothy J. Mara's suit to take a $500 000 slice out of the former champion's bankroll, was dismissed yesterday and Supreme Court Justice Peter A. Hatting took under advisement a motion to throw out also the suit against Tunney.

Gibson was eliminated immediately after Mara's lawyers rested their case Counsel for the guardians of Gibson, who has been declared incompetent to handle his affairs, moved to dismiss the complaint on the grounds that the plaintiff had failed to prove a case against him, and Martin Littleton, Counsel for Mara, announced he concurred.

Emory R. Buckner, Chief Counsel for Tunney, then moved the case against his client also be dismissed, citing common law whereby, he said, if a case against a co-defendant in a suit of indebtedness be thrown out because of failure of proof, then there must of necessity be no case against the other defendant.

Deportations Need Touch Of Humanity

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 4. (CP)—Addressing members of the northwest Toronto Liberal-Conservative Association here last night, Hon. L. M. MacAulay, provincial secretary, speaking on the subject of three women recently deported from Ontario to England on account of epilepsy said: "When people are in Canada as long as those to whose cases our attention has recently been drawn, I think the letter of the law might and should give way to humanity."

The speaker pointed out, however that the immigration law contained certain restrictions with which people must comply or be liable to deportation.

Interviewed after the meeting the Provincial Secretary said the matter of deportation in so far as the province was concerned, was in the hands of Hon. Dr. J. M. Robb, Minister of Health, under whose jurisdiction are Government institutions.

KELLOGGS TO ERECT PLANT IN DOMINION

Company Plans to Aid Unemployment Situation—Power Plant Part of New Addition.

The Kellogg Company of Canada will build a new power plant to cost in the neighborhood of $150,000. Work will be started this fall. Announcement was made to this effect today by Eugene H. McKay, of Battle Creek, Mich., director of the company, who was sent to London by L. H. Brown, president of the parent company, to make a survey of the London plant. Mr. McKay was accompanied to London by engineers and architects of the Albert Kahn Company, of Detroit, who assisted him in the survey from a technical stadpoint.

The new power plant will be large enough to take care of future developments of the company. It will be built south of the present Dundas street plant and will face on King street, so as to give room for new factory additions, which the company anticipate making in London. The power plant will be the most modern of its kind that can be constructed. There will also be ned and modern coal shutes to handle the fuel; new sidings will also have to be built.

"It was not the original intention," said Mr. McKay to-day, "to erect this power plant until next year, but Mr. Kellogg has felt very strongly that the company should do all it could to assist the unemployment situation in the present crisis. As a result, some of our building projects in Battle Creek have been advanced and we are following the same policy in London."

J. R. McKinley, the local manager, has been urging the company to start work this fall on some of the company's building programs and has been placing the needs of the London plant before the directors.

FIRST GAME OF THE SENIOR INTERSCHOLASTIC PLAY-OFFS WILL BE PLAYED ON SATURDAY

Coach Legon Has His Squad Out To-day For Heavy Practice.

FOR DR. NEAL TROPHY.

Opponents Likely Will Depend on Forward Pass to Make Their Gains.

Arrangements have been made by Coach Legon to have his P.C.I. Senior gridders meet Belleville in the first game for the Central Ontario Championship this Saturday, in Peterborough.

The arrangements were completed yesterday, and Belleville, who are carrying the banner of the Bay of Quinte Group will clash with the local Garnet and Grey team at the James Stevenson Park, Saturday afternoon, commencing at 2.30 p.m. sharp.

Belleville are sure to present a strong line up as they have defeated such teams as Trenton High School, and also Albert College, with whom P.C.I. battled for the honors last fall.

Attacks Unknown.

Nothing definite is known concerning the attack of the Eastern champions, but it is rumored that they will depend heavily on the forward pass to give them many large gains.

The local boys, however, are by no means unfamiliar with this form of attack, having used it to advantage on many occasions themselves, and also having had it attempted against them by practically every team in the group. Cobourg Collegiate used this form of attack several times in their futile effort to stem P.C.I. in Saturdays game at the lake front.

The homesters laid off yesterday after the heavy going in the sand at Cobourg, but Coach Legon will have his squad out to-day for a heavy practice. Wednesday and Thursday will also be given to scrimmages and the team will rest Friday, in preparation for their most important game to date.

It is of greatest importance that the boys be in tip-top shape and get away to a good start in the first game as a loss in their own park would seriously cramp their chance of retaining the Dr. Neal Trophy, as it is generally conceded harder to roll up the points when on a foreign field.

Legon Clan Intact.

With the exception of Pete Gordon, inside wing man, who will be out of the game for some time as a result of an arm injury received a week ago, the Legon clan will have a full line-up, ready for Saturday.

Jack Richardson, who has been bothered with a sprained ankle and was kept out of the Cobourg game on that account, will be ready for duty in his accustomed place on the half line, teaming up with Gordie Young, who has been the mainstay on the half line this season.

The rest of the team, led by Vern Armstrong, at middle wing, are sure to put up a royal battle for district honors.

Football fans are well advised to see these teams in action and are assured of a high class exhibition of the pigskin game.

BOWLING GOSSIP.

The Y.M.C.A. Bowling League got away to a start last night, with games between George Street Church Alerts and the Northern Lights.

On Wednesday evening the Wreckers from Murray Street Church will trundle against the Olympics, while on Friday night the Rurals will clash with the Y's Men.

Boxing Instruction Meeting On Friday

Do the boys at the "Y" wish to take up boxing instruction this winter? A meeting has been called for 6.45 Friday evening to decide this question.

Doug Loomis requests that all interested in the art of self defence, be on hand to hear a proposition which will be put forward by Gord Garwood, an old pro boxer from Winnipeg.

DEFENSE PLANS IS BIG PROBLEM TO RANGER HEAD

Club Well Equipped With Forwards But Show Weakness on Back Line.

JOHNSON RETURNS.

Frank Peters and Bill Regan Named as Relief Players By Manager.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Nov. 4.—(CP)—A problem in defense faces Lester Patrick, manager of the New York Rangers, in preparations for the coming national hockey league season.

The Rangers are well equipped with good forwards, but they have shown a lamentable weakness on the back line. Big "Ching" Johnson, who was out most of last season with an injury, furnishes one question. He was far from his best form when he did get back in the lineup late last season and there is some question as to whether he can regain the peak.

When the Rangers returned a few days ago from Toronto to finish their training at Springfield, Mass., Johnson and Little Leo Bourgeault were named as Patrick's first line of defense. Frank Peters, purchased from the Philadelphia Arrows, has been selected as one relief man, and Bill Regan, formerly of the Boston Tigers, probably will get the other job, although he did not shine when he came up last year.

John Ross Roach, litle Ranger goalie, also had a bad season, but it is unlikely that either of the two minor league stars, Andy Aitkenhead from Springfield or Alfie Moore from Cleveland, will displace him.

Patrick already has settled on the nine forwards he expects to carry with the Rangers, selecting three newcomers from a large selection of amateur and minor league candidates for positions on the New York team and its Springfield farm. Bill and Bun Cook and Frank Boucher, who form about the best trio any major league can boast again will make up the Ranger first line of attack.

Final Examinations On Friday Evening

The final examinations for the senior group in life saving tests staged under auspices of the Royal society, will be held on Friday of this week in the Y.W.C.A. pool, at 8.30 o'clock. The examinations of last week were also held in this pool.

Scout News and Notices

John T. Hornsby, District Scout Commissioner, a few days ago received a communication regarding the second annual Rover Scout Moot, to be held in Toronto, on November 8, 9 and 10—the explanatory letter follows:

"The second Ontario Rover Moot is to be held in Toronto on November 8, 9 and 10, with headquarters at King Edward Hotel, when Rovers from all over the Province and representatives from several other Provinces will be on hand to discuss problems of Rovering and gain new ideas for carrying on of their Crews back home. The general committee headed by E. Neil Macallum, of Toronto, has been working hard to make the program attractive, educative and entertaining.

Many Rovers Expected.

"It is hoped many Rovers, Scouters, and any others who wish to attend this Moot will be able to do so, and make known to their leaders their intention.

For those desiring billets, arrangements are being made by the committee in Toronto for accommodating same. Further information on the Moot may be had from A. E. Paddon, Jr. Rover Moot program secretary, 330 Bay Street, Toronto.

Moot Program.

"Following is a short summary of the program for the three days:

"Saturday—Registration at 1 p.m. Moot opens officially at 2.30, with the main topic. Hiking, Rambling, and Camping.

"Saturday evening—Moot dinner, 6.30. The speaker will be Rev. Ernest E. Long, of Tillsonburg, Ontario. Subject, The Rover Scout Vision. Get-together party. Arthur Hubert Richardson will give a talk on Trees and Leaves.

"Sunday Morning—Church service.

"Sunday afternoon—Sightseeing trip around Toronto.

"Sunday evening—Rovers Own and discussion on Religion in Scouting.

"Monday—Discussion topics, Crew meeting demonstrations, games and question box. Moot adjourns around 4 p.m. on Monday afternoon."

The Moot is open to all Rovers, Rover Leaders, Scoutmasters, older Scouts and any outsiders who are interested in boy's work and who might be prospects for leadership in this branch of the Boy Scout movement. It is hoped one or more representatives from Scout Troops in Peterborough will avail themselves of this opportunity to gain advanced knowledge of Scoutdom. Information can be obtained by writing to A. E. Paddon, Jr., The Boy Scouts' Association, 330 Bay Street, Toronto.

Ottawa Senators Will Meet Bisons To-night

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 4 (C.P.) — Fourteen players, Manager Dave Gill and Coach Newsy Lalonde were in the Ottawa Hockey Club party which departed last night for Fort Erie, where they play Buffalo Bisons in an exhibition game to-night. This will be the Senators' initial test of the season, and the squad is in great condition for the brush with the International leaguers.

With their National Hockey League campaign opening slated for one week from to-night, when Montreal Maroons invade the local auditorium, this game is expected to serve as a tightener, and to put Newsy Lalonde's charges right on their toes. The Ottawa coach will give every man a chance to get into action and the showing they make may have much bearing on the selection of the team for the Maroon inaugual.

LIPTON LAUDED BEST OF LOSERS

To Be Presented With Loving Cup By New York Friends.

ANNOUNCES CHALLENGE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Sir Thomas Lipton, perennial challenger for the America's Cup, arrived here on the Leviathan yesterday morning with the statement that he hoped and expected to challenge again in 1932 for the elusive yachting "mug."

Here primarily on a business trip, Sir Thomas will be presented with the "Americans' Cup" by admirers throughout the United States who consider him worthy the title of the world's best loser.

Back in the United States a little more than a month after his fifth attempt to lift the America's Cup failed at Newport, Sir Thomas declared himself highly optimistic over the chances of success in his next challenge.

Lipton Optimistic.

"I intend to have my designers construct a boat which will be equal to the defender," he said, "and am highly optimistic over the next effort that I will make.

"Charles E. Nicholson, designer of Shamrock V, will likely be commissioned again to design the new boat but it is improbable that Captain Heard will be retained as professional skipper."

Sir Thomas said he had not yet decided whether to race his Shamrock V against the United States yachts which are expected to invade British waters next summer.

The Irish sportsman was met by a special committee representing Mayor Walker, who will present him with he "Americans' Cup," before his return home for Christmas. Two secretaries and a valet accompanied the baronet who appeared in fair health and good spirits.

GLICK GETS AWARD AFTER CLOSE BOUT

Perlick Makes Great Showing in First Appearance to Toronto Fight Fans.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 4 (C.P.) — Ten rounds of rousing milling between Henry Perlick, of the Perlick Twins of Kalamazoo, Mich., and Joe Glick, Brooklyn, featured the Shamrock Athletic Club's weekly boxing show here last night.

Glick, veteran of many a ring battle, was given a split decision by the three judges, apparently on the strength of the only knockdown. This came in the opening round.

Claiming he had never won or lost a bout on a foul, Perlick declined to accept the referees' offer of victory on a foul in the fourth and continued, never complaining, when Glick, struck him low several times afterward.

COUNCIL VISITS NEW FACTORIES

C.G.E.'s New Building is About Ready For the Workmen.

MAY HOLD OPENING.

Citizens may have an opportunity soon to view the new building erected this summer at the Canadian General Electric Company's plant by the T. A. Brown Construction Company, and other vast improvements made recently at this, the largest electrical plant in the British Empire. Representatives of the City Council, including Mayor Denne, Aldermen Huffman and Stocker, and City Clerk Armstrong, visited several of the city's new factories yesterday afternoon, and while at the C.G.E., Mayor Denne suggested to E. G. Patterson, general manager, that a civic reception be held in the new building to allow the citizens a chance to learn the extent of the building program completed this year by the company. Mr. Patterson said that the suggestion would be fully considered and, if practical, the civic reception would be held shortly.

To the uninitiated the new building can be likened in size only to one of those giant new airplane hangars, views of which one sees in news pictures at theatres. The building is 400 feet long and 180 feet wide, and is the last word in modern factory construction. Its walls are not masonry but great banks of glass, and its ceiling, too, reminds one of a florist's green house. Light, the same bright, clear sunlight of outdoors, reaches every inch of the great building's interior. It is scientifically ventilated also, and fresh air, raised to the proper temperature, fans the workman's cheek.

After a short tour of the C.G.E. plant, the council members visited the Martin-Hewitt's Company's plant, where corrugated paper boxes are made at so many hundred per minute. The Martin-Hewitt plant is busy, as it has been since the day it started manufacturing, and the great machinery for the making of their products roared unceasingly during the aldermen's tour.

Then the new A. Wander Company's Ovaltine plant was visited. The interior of this beautiful plant is now getting its finishing touches, and painters, plumbers, electricians and interior decorators have taken full possession of the place.

A live mine was picked up in the nets of the trawler Companion, of Aberdeen, Scotland, while fishing in the North Sea.

Canadian Poetess visits Jack Miner

Miss Molly Bevan, Canadian Poetess, whose tuneful verse appears each month in the Blue Bell, the Bell Telephone Company of Canada's Employees' magazine, recently paid a visit to Jack Miner at his bird sanctuary near Kingsville.

These two people, kindred spirits, greatly enjoyed an hour's converse about the birds and the wild life of Canada's great out-of-doors. As Miss Bevan said:

"Every good Canadian has heard of Jack Miner's Bird Sanctuary and the unique work he is performing in protecting the wild life of our country. His guiding principle seems to be Love—love of the out-of-doors with its teeming life—love of children and their frank trust—love of home and of the homely virtues, and, above all, love of God."

HALLOWE'EN FROLIC HELD BY C.G.I.T.

Mrs. H. A. Earle of Fourth Line, Cavan, Hostess at Jolly Affair.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 4 (Examiner Correspondence)—The true Hallowe'en atmosphere was much in evidence on Friday evening when the members of the Wide Awakes C.G.I.T. group were entertained at a very jolly party at the home of Mrs. H. A. Earle, Fourth Line, Cavan.

As the cars loads of masked and costumed guests arrived, two fearsome figures met them at the gateway, pointing to the back of the house as the way of entrance. arrival at the place indicated meaning acquaintance with a very active ghost who, in its own peculiar manner, acted as guide through the dark and devious path of sheds and cellarway, before the brightly lighted room upstairs was reached. The letting off of firecrackers was also incidental to the "spooky" journey, and frequent screams gave evidence that 'that eerie feeling' inseparable to Hallowe'en was being instilled in large doses.

Mrs. Earle was assisted by her daughters, Misses Marian and Martha, both of whom belong to the Wide Awakes group, in extending a warm welcome to the guests, several of whom were so well disguised that guessing their identity was a first, and interesting, pastime.

The hall, and large rooms of the comfortable and hospitable home were attractively decorated with boughs of evergreen from which peeped forth faces of witches, hobgoblins, black cats large and small, bats, and owls; lighted candles were everywhere; orange shades were on the lamps, and long, 'frilly' orange streamers floated from doors and archway.

The fun of finding out 'who's who' having been completed, masks were removed and appropriate games and contests followed. Adding variety to the pleasure which the entire evening afforded, a brief program was introduced, Miss Jean Burnham reading a sketch, "Ssh, It's Hallowe'en"; Miss Dorothy Hall recited, "The Earl King's Daughter" (Sir Walter Scott), with "The Naughty Boy" as encore; and the group leader outlined "The Hallowe'en Quilt," illustrating the contribution made by various nations to the customs at this particular season.

Community singing from the C.G.I.T. song book, with Miss Dorothy McDowell at the piano, in which all had a part, relieved the tension incident to a period devoted to the telling of ghost stories, when the lamps were turned low and candles were burned down almost to the holders.

The invitation to adjourn to the dining-room for supper, which the hostess presently extended, brought many exclamations of surprise and pleasure as the beautifully decorated tables came into view, centred with black and orange runners, bearing the traditional emblems, and lighted by tall candles in harmonizing shades.

At the conclusion of the very delightful hour spent about the supper tables, Rev. Mr. Jones, on behalf of the guests of the evening, expressed to Mr. and Mrs. Earle, and their family, the gratitude and appreciation felt for the generous hospitality which had been enjoyed, Miss Marian O'Brian, president of the C.G.I.T. group, seconding the motion, which was heartily endorsed.

The leader of the group also spoke briefly, the girls having been entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Earle on more than one previous occasion of which the most enjoyable memories are retained, and a pleasant surprise was prepared for Miss Burnham when Rev. Mr. Jones speaking for Mrs. Jones and himself, as well as the girls, added some very earnest words of appreciation of the work being done from week to week in the C.G.I.T. meetings.

Before the good-nights were spoken, Mrs. Earle extended an invitation for another visit, and all joined in singing, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows," and then a big circle was formed, "Blest be the Tie That Binds." Concluding, the girls sang "Taps," without which no C.G.I.T. group gathering considers itself properly dismissed, and with many personal expressions of the pleasure which the evening had afforded, the guests left for there several homes.

LONDON, Nov. 4 (By The Canadian Press).—A gallant attempt to retrieve their position is to be made by the villagers of Reed, near Burnley, Lancashire, who have been rendered workless by the closing of two cotton mills. A suggestion by the village schoolmaster, D. Creears, who is chairman of the parish council, that the mills should be taken over by the residents has been received with enthusiasm, and, following a meeting of 600 people, a committee of six, headed by Mr. Creears, was set up to fully investigate the possibilities of forming a self-help manufacturing company.

Three prominent manufacturers in the district have been interviewed regarding capital needed for the re-starting of the mills.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE LITTLE BOY.

Once upon a time Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrel boys, scampered very fast to Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow. Running up the steps Johnnie scratched with his paws on the door and Billie, thinking to help Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, dusted off the porch rail with his big, bushy tail that was like a brush.

"What's the matter, boys?" asked Mr. Longears as he opened the door and saw the squirrels on the steps. "What's all the excitement about?"

"Well, I guess you'd be excited too, Uncle Wiggily, if you saw a little boy digging up all the nice nuts you hid in the ground!" chattered Billie.

"And taking them away!" added Johnnie. "He's a little boy but he is bigger than we are so we don't care to do anything to him, even if we could."

"We could bite him, but only just a little 'cause he's a little boy," said Billie.

"Or we could tickle him with our tails," added his brother.

"Dear me! This is very queer!" said Uncle Wiggily coming out on the porch. "You say a little boy is taking away the nuts you hid?"

Oh! I've found nuts! he shouted.

"Yes," answered Billie. "You know this is the time for us squirrels to gather the hickorynuts, walnuts and beechnuts that fall off the trees. There are so many nuts we can't carry them into our hollow tree house at once, so we dig little holes in the ground, put nuts in the holes and cover them up. Later on we go back and dig up those nuts."

"But we'll never dig up a lot of 'em," chattered Johnnie sadly. "For that little boy got ahead of us. What can we do, Uncle Wiggily?"

"Show me the place where you hid the nuts," said the rabbit.

With Johnnie and Billie scampering on ahead, Uncle Wiggily followed the squirrels to an open place in the woods where grew many nut trees. Near this clearing in the forest stood a house; a house of real folks.

"The little boy lives in that house," said Johnnie, pointing to it with his tail.

"He's out doors most of the time," added Billie. "He's a nice brown little boy, and we like him, for he played around in the woods and sang. Yes, Johnny and I liked the little boy until he dug up the nuts we hid. And now—well, he doesn't seem so nice."

"Perhaps he didn't mean to take the nuts," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, yes he did!" cried Billie. "You should have heard him laugh every time he found a new place where Johnnie and I had buried the nuts. We've got to do something about this."

"That's right!" chimed in Johnnie. "We don't want all the nuts taken away. We might give the little boy a few, but he has taken nearly all of them."

"This is a new adventure for me," said the rabbit gentleman, as he twinkled his pink nose. "I must think about it. Though I can understand the talk of the little boys, I cannot make them understand my talk. And I hardly think, Billie and Johnnie, that any little boy would know what you are saying when you chatter as you do."

"Then we can't ask him to give our nuts back," said Billie.

"No, not exactly," Uncle Wiggily answered. "But let's wait here a while, hiding in the bushes, but where we can watch the little boy's house, and we shall see what happens."

Uncle Wiggily and the squirrels did not have long to wait. Pretty soon out came running the little brown boy. He was very happy as he skipped over the dried leaves on the ground and played tag with his shadow among the trees.

Then the little boy picked up a stick and began digging in the earth. He gave a jolly cry.

"Oh, I've found more nuts!" he shouted. "I wonder who put them in this little hole and covered them so carefully?" Uncle Wiggily, knowing boy talk, told Billie and Johnnie what was said.

"Tell him they're our nuts!" whispered Billie.

But Uncle Wiggily did not have to do that. He couldn't have done so, anyhow. All of a sudden out of the house came the little boy's Daddy. The little brown chap ran to his father and said:

"See the nuts I dug up out of the ground! I found a lot more, too. They're up on the porch. I thought nuts grew on trees."

"So they do," said the little boy's father. "But after the nuts fell off the trees, some squirrels buried them in the ground. You have taken the squirrel's nuts that they want to eat this winter, Sonny Boy."

"Oh, I didn't know the nuts belonged to the squirrels!" cried the little brown boy. "I'll put them all back again!" He ran to the porch, gathered up the nuts there and scattered them over the ground. "Come, Squirrels!" he called. "You may have your nuts again!"

"Now everything is all right!" said Uncle Wiggily to Billie and Johnnie, and the squirrel boys were very happy.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

Wooler

On Friday night, October 31, Hallowe'en party was held in the United church parlors under the auspices of the Mission Circle. The dress parade was most exciting and the novelties of dress were of the best type. The worthy judges were Mrs. Clayton Maguire, Miss Marjorie Mabee and Harry Crews. The prize to the best dressed couple under twelve was awarded to Lois Sharpe and Doreen Steinburgh. The best dressed couple over twelve, Jean McColl and Elsie Ruttan. The best dressed single girl under twelve was Irene Tackabury; the best dressed girl over twelve years was Mabel McColl. The funniest dressed couple under twelve, Inez and Frances Vosburgh; over twelve was Amos and Andy, Vera Arthur and Florence Crews. After the prizes were given with Mrs. L. H. Rowe at the piano another parade of prize winners showing their prizes, was most interesting.

William Orvis, the chairman of the evening announced a few numbers on the program. A talk by Pearl Cole; solo by Grace Mutton; reading by Edith Austin; recitation and encore by Lulu McColl; a Hallowe'en exercise by pupils of Stone school house; a few remarks by the president of the Mission Circle, Mrs. Alden Arthur. Then the pop-corn and homemade candy was much enjoyed by a large gathering. The parlors were fittingly decorated with yellow and black crepe paper and a profusion of black cats added to the attractiveness.

Honorable George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, will officially open the highway between here and Trenton on Thursday, November 6 at 5.00 p.m. All men prominent in the affairs of the province, will deliver addresses and it is expected that Hon. Mr. Cook will give an address dealing with the inauguration of the electric lighting system, which is now being turned on in the community. A banquet will be given in the church parlors at 6.30 p.m. followed by a concert to be given by the talented members of the community who are determined to make this one of the biggest affairs in the history of our town.

At night there will be a dance in the town hall. Trent Band will assist in making the evening musical.

Rev. A. Poulter has been a leader in the teachers' training school held in Campbellford every evening of this week.

Rev. A. Poulter, Mrs. Poulter and Mrs. S. L. Terrill attended the missionary meeting at Brighton in St. Andrew's church on Thursday. Mrs. J. McGillivary of Toronto, who just recently returned from the mission fields in the Orient, was the guest speaker of the afternoon and in her sweet unassuming manner interested her audiences and brought the conditions of the Orient home to us as missionary workers.

Duchess' $500,000 Jewels "Double" As Earrings, Brooch And Necklace

PARIS, Nov. 4.—A practical duchess, Loelia of Westminster, wife of one of England's wealthiest peers, possesses a coronet of diamonds and platinum valued at more than $500,000 that can be taken apart and worn as separate necklace, brooch and pair of earrings. It was designed and made for her in the Due de la Paix and is quite the last word in ensemble jewelry.

Three large diamonds, two almond-shaped, form the central stones of the diadem. The almond-shaped pair can be attached as pendants to the brooch, which is formed by the peak of the headdress. All three large stones were in the possessions of the Duke of Westminster at the time of his marriage about 18 months ago to Miss Ponsonby, who is the daughter of the treasurer of the King of England, Sir Frederick Grey Ponsonby.

The outer rim of the diadem takes off to form a necklace of more than fifty stones alternating round and elongated jewels. The earrings, which can be detached from the central motif of the coronet contain each 22 elongated diamonds and five round stones. The ensemble rivals anything in the possession of the sovereigns of Great Britain and is guarded and insured by international insurance agents.

Following the chicken supper which was so great a success on Thursday evening the congregation of the Sacred Heart Church held an enjoyable euchre party on Friday and this event was also successful. Prizes were won by Richard Maloney and Mrs. A. Eggleton. The drawing for the chiffonier was won by Clarence Gladney while the blanket was awarded Miss Dorena Gehan and the box of candy went to Harold Doyle.

"YOUR SCALES NEED FIXING"

Said a Fat Woman—Indignantly

"Better get these scales fixed," exclaimed a rather stout, fashionably dressed woman in a drug store the other day—"they make me weigh 12 pounds too much."

"All of which goes to show," remarked the good-natured druggist, "that women take on fat so rapidly that they don't realize it."

"If that woman doesn't watch out," he continued, "when she comes in two weeks from now, the scales will be wrong about 20 pounds."

"Is there anything that will take off fat outside of three or four hours of strenuous exercise every day?" asked a scholarly looking man who was buying a tube of ointment for his lame knee.

"Not many things," answered the dispenser of drugs, "but lately there has been a big demand for a combination of vitalizing mineral salts that many of my fat customers are enthusiastic about.

"It is called Kruschen Salts and it must do the work for I can see for myself that many of them are losing weight."

"It's an inexpensive way to take off fat," continued the drug store man, "for one bottle, even with big doses will last one person for 30 days."

"Never heard of that treatment," said the scholarly looking man, "but I haven't any fat to lose anyway."

"I've heard of it," chimed in a well-built middle-aged man who had just come in. "I was 15 pounds overweight—was getting fat—and I give Kruschen Salts credit for ridding me of the unwelcome excess baggage."

"They'll have your picture in the paper if you aren't careful," said the druggist laughingly.

"No they won't," replied the well-built man, "but I'm not backward about saying a good word for a good product, and I can say in all sincerity that Kruschen Salts are good. Not only did they help me to get down to normal weight, but they keep my bowels and kidneys in good condition and I'm more vigorous and active than I have been for years."

"That's good enough for me," said the scholarly looking man.

"Glad you came in," said the proprietor. "I'll tell my fat customers what you said."

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

LAKEHEAD CITY MAY KEEP POLICE

Deputation to Gov't Will Urge That Mounties Be Left For Winter.

SITUATION STILL SERIOUS.

PORT ARTHUR, Nov. 4. — The permanent location of a detachment of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police here, will be urged upon the Dominion and Provincial governments by Mayor George Gibbon and D. J. Cowan, local member of Parliament, who left to-day for Ottawa and Toronto.

Twenty-five members of the R.C.M.P., were brought here from Regina, following alleged Communists' riots recently, and Mayor Gibbon, believing the situation still serious, will urge upon the government authorities that the detachment of the famous force be kept here permanently, or at least during the winter months, at government expense. "The Communist threat is directed at the state rather than the city," declares the Mayor, "and precautions against it are a national obligation."

The R.C.M.P. detachment was brought here following a riot in the downtown section of the city two weeks ago, when several hundred unemployed men, alleged to have been led by Communists, mauled police officers severely, and threatened to loot stores.

There has been no trouble since the arrival of the men from the west.

ACTION RESULT OF INTEREST TO INVENTORS OF DOMINION

Must Manufacture Sufficient Quantity of Article Patented to Satisfy Public.

IN MONTREAL CASE

(Special to The Examiner.)

Montreal, Nov. 4.—A decision of great importance as affecting inventors in every part of the Dominion was handed down in the Superior Court here on Saturday when Mr. Justice Duclos, in dismissing an action by Joseph E. Brissette against Alberic Gelinas and Henry Deguisse ruled that everyone holding a patent on an invention must satisfy the reasonable needs of the public relative to the patent, by manufacturing a sufficient quantity of the article patented.

The action was accompanied by a petition for a writ of injunction restraining the defendants from persisting in the manufacture of an article of which Brissette claimed to be the creator and sole author. The article was a radiator appurtenance for which Brissette holds a patent from the Dominion Government. The defendants were manufacturing the article and had done so for several years, he said. He asked for $13,799 damages.

The defendants in defence alleged that Brissette, who was formerly in their employment, made all the tools pertaining and necessary to the manufacture of the article in their establishment.

His Lordship in handing down judgment found that the plaintiff had failed to justify his claim by not fulfilling the conditions of his patent.

LIFFORD LINE.

Mr. Ed. Wetherilt was a business visitor to Toronto on Thursday.

Mr. Archie Staples is completing his season's threshing on Lifford Line this week.

Mrs. Cairns spent last week, the guest of friends in Lindsay, combining pleasure and business.

Mr. and Mrs. Logan, of Pontypool, visited last week with the latter's sister, Mrs. Lowery, and other relatives on the line.

A special feature of the regular Sunday afternoon service at Ballyduff Presbyterian Church was the christening of four children: Glen Willis Whiteside, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Whiteside; Dorothy Pearl Farrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Farrow; Georgie Mary and Biltmore Adrian Berry, children of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Berry.

Mr. Norton Mills and Mr. Wilfred Mulligan were business visitors to Lindsay on Friday.

The United Church at Janetville will hold their special anniversary services on Sunday, November 16th. The ladies of the church are planning to hold a bazaar on the Friday previous.

Miss Myrtle Lemay, of Toronto, motored down and spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. W. Whiteside.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Staples visited Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Peel at Port Perry last week.

Jane Mills, Aileen Peters and Lawrence Staples, of the Lindsay Collegiate, spent the week-end with their respective parents.

Mr. Norton Mills motored to Bobcaygeon on Saturday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Victor Grandy and sons, of Fleetwood, after receiving a message that his brother, Mr. Albert Mills, was in a very critical condition.

THE RETURN OF TARZAN No. 44 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Fifty trips Tarzan made before he had buried all the gold within the secluded amphitheatre of the great apes. So densely was it surrounded by tangled vines and creepers of huge girth that not even Sheeta, the leopard, could worm his sinuous way within. Nor Tantor, the elephant, with his great strength force the protecting barriers.

Then he set out to revisit his cabin before returning to the Waziri. All was as he had left it. He went forth to hunt, intending to feast in comfort and spend this night on a comfortable couch. Roaming along the banks of a river, he stretched himself to rest upon the soft grass. Far to the south he heard a familiar sound—he could not mistake it.

It was the passing through the jungle of a band of great apes. He listened; they were coming his way. Tarzan melted into the branches and waited to inspect the newcomers. Presently a chattering, hairy face appeared among the lower branches opposite. Tarzan could hear his words. The scout was telling the other members of the tribe that the coast was clear.

Nearly a hundred apes followed their leader. Tarzan recognized many members of the tribe. It was the same into which he had come as a tiny babe! Many of the adults had been little apes during his boyhood. He wondered if they would remember him. Tarzan walked to the end of an overhanging branch, in plain view of them. The quick eyes of a female caught sight of him first.

WEDDING BELLS

MICHELS—HUGGINS.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place on Thursday, October 30, at 4.30 p. m. at Knox Manse, when Mary Lucinda, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Huggins became the bride of Raphael Michael Carl, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence F. Michels.

The bride wore a poudre blue ensemble suit of pussy-willow silk with eggshell trimming, hat and hose to match, with black kid pumps.

The bridesmaid, Miss Pearl Huggins, sister of the bride, wore a dress of brown silk crepe with shoes and hose to match. Jack Edwards acted as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Michels will reside in Peterborough.

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENTS.

Several improvements have recently been introduced on King's Highway No. 28, the most outstanding being the erection of an automatic "wagger," warning motorists at Kendry Railway crossing. It is a sign of the familiar "Stop, look, listen" variety, and is illuminated at night.

Large signboards have also been placed on the hills between Port Hope and Peterborough, warning automobile drivers not to overtake traffic on hills.

In places one may observe that deep ditches at the side of the highway are being filled in, by the simple expedient of using as a filling several of the large stones and pieces of rock, taken from the fields of neighboring farms and levelling them down with a top dressing of earth and gravel. They are improvements which should go a long way towards minimising accidents.

25 CASES SET DOWN.

Twenty-five cases are scheduled for hearing at the Division Court, which opens on Friday before His Honor Judge L. V. O'Connor.

Sixteen of the actions involving claims under $100, will be heard on Friday, and owing to the fact that Thanksgiving Day comes on Monday this year, the remaining claims of over $100, will be heard on Saturday.

Bachelor Round Table Shaken By Desertion

With the recent marriage of King Boris of Bulgaria, the Knights of Single Blessedness received a severe blow, but they still have some staunch supporters in men like the Prince of Wales, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, etc. Grant Mitchell, another confirmed bachelor, is passionately fond of children, and Harris Fisher has painted portraits of more than 15,000 women in thirty years, but neither of them wish to become benedicts. George J. Nathan, H. L. Mencken's confrere, has for years been a close friend of Lillian Gish, but he remains a staunch bachelor. However, if the Prince of Wales and other prominent bachelors would suddenly decided to get married, the Knights of Single Blessedness will probably be disbanded. The royal example would without doubt, prove too much for them.

STUDENTS MAY OUST EDITOR

Executive Passes Ultimatum As To What Toronto Varsity Paper May or May Not Print.

CHANGE ADVOCATED.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Nov. 4.—A definite ultimatum as to what the editor of The Varsity, the Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Toronto, may and may not do and print, was passed last night by an unanimous vote at the joint executive meeting.

Definite laws are laid down as to what sort of news he is to publish, and what he is to avoid, and it is particularly stressed that the paper is not to be conducted as a downtown paper is, and matter given space on its news value purely. It is suggested that matters which may put the University in an unfavorable light be suppressed

The report of the special committee that is to meet the Board of Governors to decide on financial support of The Varsity, urges that the compulsory fee be not taken off as the paper is an essential part of the University.

Criticism of the Present editor is seen in a statement that the policy of The Varsity "is at present out of harmony with the desires and opinions of the majority of the student body, and that a change should be made."

A change in the method of electing the editor is also advocated whereby, instead of his being elected by the men working on the newspaper, every man in his final year has the right to submit his name to the joint executive.

SUBSTANTIAL PROGRESS MADE

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov. 4.—With approximately 40 percent of the work of constructing the telephone line from the New Brunswick border to Cape Breton completed and a large portion of the program in New Brunswick carried out, substantial progress is being made in completing the western link of a telephone line that will connect the North American continent with Ireland.

Hundreds of men have been employed in the undertaking in the Maritime Provinces and several hundred thousand dollars have been paid out to Maritime workmen since last March when the work was begun.

Dr. Frank B. Jewett, president of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, announced in California that experts were designing the cable to be laid from Newfoundland to Ireland, and it was learned from authoritative sources that engineers were plotting the route of the Cape Breton-Newfoundland link in the chain. Necessity for the telephonic cable was emphasized by the somewhat "unreliable" radio phone service.

Work in this province on the 100-foot right of way and placing of the creosoted poles is completed between Amherst and New Glasgow and will be pressed forward by large gangs of men until weather halts operations, which will be resumed as soon as conditions permit in the spring.

KIDNAP SUSPECT IS QUESTIONED BY THE POLICE

Body of Clarence Raidle, Illinois Youth, Found in Charlotte Park.

FOUL PLAY BELIEVED.

Lloyd Winslow Held in Connection With Kidnapping of Galva Banker.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 4 (C.P.) — Police to-day were questioning Lloyd Winslow, arrested here for the kidnapping of Earl Yocum, Galva, Illinois banker, in connection with the death at Charlotte, Mich., of Clarence Raidle, Wewanee, Ills., youth.

Raidle's body was found in a park at Charlotte late yesterday, covered with blankets in the tonneau of his automobile. He had been dead several days when the body was discovered. The first assumption of authorities was that he had been a victim of a home-made exhaust heater in his car.

Detroit police, advised by Sheriff Horace Loorn, Charlotte, of Raidle's death, learned that Winslow and Raidle were friends in Kewanee. They immediately questioned Winslow and reported that he told them he would "tell everything" when Sheriff Charles Nash of Henry County, Ill., arrived and he learned definitely what charges had been placed against him.

Raidle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Raidle, live in Charlotte, and they said they had received word last week from a friend of their son in Kewanee that he planned to drive to Charlotte for a visit. They heard nothing from him, they said, and did not know of the son's arrival in Charlotte until advised that his body had been found.

Winslow, arrested yesterday for Illinois authorities as a suspect in the Yocum kidnapping, awaited the arrival of Sheriff Nash before deciding whether or not he would fight extradition. Police said they learned he had planned to cross over into Ontario.

Recently returned to Canada from Europe to take his place among Canada's first singers, Hyde Auld, baritone, will be the soloist with the Canadian National Railways' All-Canada Symphony Hour broadcast on Sunday, November 2. He is a native of Guelph.

SOCIETY HEAD GIVES ADDRESS

Packed Auditorium Greets Mrs. Janet MacGillivray in Trinity United Church.

ON FOREIGN MISSIONS.

The auditorium of Trinity United Church was comfortably filled last evening to hear an address by Mrs. Janet T. MacGillivray, Dominion President of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church, who has recently returned from the Orient, where she visited all the foreign mission fields of the United Church.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. David Wren, who also later introduced the speaker in a very graceful manner. Mrs. S. D. Carver, President of Trinity W.M.S. presided and associated with her on the platform was the speaker of the evening and Mrs. S. H. Moyer of Springville, President of the Peterborough Presbyterial.

Before Mrs. MacGillivray's address Miss Alma Blanchard rendered a beautiful solo, "Watch While I Sleep, accompanied by Miss Mabel Cleary, organist of the church.

The interesting speaker gave a summary of her journey in China. After completing a visit to South China, the party composed of Miss Harvie of Montreal; Miss Arnup, head of the General Board of Foreign Missions, and Mrs. MacGillivray left Hong-Kong for the trip up-stream to Kong-moon. The steamer with no outer lights allowed, was closely guarded against bandits. The party spent a day at Kong-moon City, which is typically Chinese with its noise and dirt. Here they were warmly welcomed by people of the Christian Church, Hospital, Nurses Home and Day School for girls. They ended their day by a feast at a Chinese restaurant, where they were treated royally, the Chinese coming down to the train, bidding them good-bye and "Come again."

Another day they journeyed by passenger junk to Shek-Kei. Here there is a fine hospital well equipped but sadly in need of a good doctor. A young woman evangelist is also much needed here to go into the country with Miss Carroll and help organize the young people in the little churches and stimulate the women and mothers by teaching them how to live better lives.

The next week was spent at Canton and we were taken by Dr. Jessie MacBeen to Hackett's Medical College. Here we spoke to about one hundred young women, most of them in the midst of their medical training, and the rest taking the nursing course.

One morning we started for the Union Normal School, carried in chairs across trails and over embankments—narrow and slippery. Another day we visited the University, where Dr. and Mrs. Cadbury had charge. Here we met the Chinese Vice-President, who had just returned from a conference of pacific relations, and a number of others of the Chinese staff, men and women. We got a vision of the greater things that are helping China establish herself even amid the unsettled conditions that the military hold over the heads of the common people.

Mrs. MacGillivray gave a very graphic description of her journey up the Yangtze, which lasted two weeks. The river was at low water, dark and muddy from Hankow to Ishang and once they found themselves stranded on a sand bank in mid-stream.

The speaker also described the visits to Kialing and Loochow, ending at Chungking. In the great province of 65,000,000 people there is no way of modern travel known below Chungking. Here we were carried in sedan chairs. The party stopped at Foochow. This is the greatest centre of the opium traffic in Szechuan province and the whole city shows its curse. At Chingtu we met Dr. Reta Kilborn, her daughter, Nurse Cora, and Miss Wellwood, who are working well nigh to the breaking point..

At Hankow they visited the Lutheran Mission Home, proceeding to the Shu-Szi where they were delayed two days. Here, while waiting, they took little sumpan to shore and were very interested in the habits and customs of the natives.

At Ischung, 1,000 miles up, the real beauty of the river begins. The banks become hilly and rocky and we passed through some of the great gorges. The rocks often tower hundreds of feet above the river. Often temples crown their heights; on Wind Box Gorge is a temple in memory of the Emperor of the Kingdom of Shu.

The great crying need of this country is for more workers, nurses, medical doctors, and the cry is: "Oh! you in Canada who have so many and to spare, what a magnificent job awaits you."

Mrs. Moyer pronounced the Benediction. There were present representatives from the W.M.S. of the United Church in the city and surrounding district.

Teachers Are Vexed At Reduced Status

LONDON, Nov. 4.—(C.P.).—London's teachers have been notified by the London County Council that on April 1 next the grade of the schools will be reduced with consequent reduction of salary, and the teachers are protesting against this. The notification has been sent to 171 head teachers.

At a meeting of the London Teachers' Association where the proposed change was discussed a resolution was passed on behalf of the 16,000 members expressing the view that no down-grading had been considered. The mover of the resolution said the whole question of grading must be altered and the salaries of the head teachers must be stabilized. The London area should have special consideration, he declared, owing to the peculiar circumstances which had brought about the transference of large masses of the population to outside areas. More than 100,000 children had left the London County Council schools and gone to schools outside the boundary. It was unfair that head teachers, through no fault of their own, should lose status and salary.

One speaker said whether the teachers liked it or not they were going to be rationalized as other people had been rationalized. The treasury had said that they could not afford the money and salaries would have to be out. The resolution was carried unanimously.

Shampoo the CUTICURA way
What a delightful and healthful shampoo it gives! Anoint the scalp lightly with CUTICURA OINTMENT; then make a strong suds with CUTICURA SOAP by dissolving shavings of the SOAP in hot water. Wet the hair thoroughly, then shampoo with the suds and rinse, several times, finishing with tepid or cold water. MADMAN RUNS WILD NEAR CENTERVILLE

Deadlock Is Looming in U.S. Senate

DEMOCRATS NEED TWO MORE SEATS TO EFFECT TIE

Wins Expected in Kentucky and Minnesota Where Republicans Are Trailing.

HOUSE RESULTS INDEFINITE.

Only 25 Seats Needed to Put Democrats in Control, 33 Gained.

(By Cecil B. Dickson)

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The Democrats were driving toward a possible tie in the United States Senate on election returns this afternoon, and appeared headed also for something approximating a tie in the House.

Forcing into Republican Senate strongholds, Democrats already had captured seats in Ohio, Kansas, Massachusetts, South Dakota, Oklahoma, West Virginia, Colorado and Illinois, and lost but one—in Iowa.

Leading In 2 Doubtful Seats

They needed the two remaining doubtful in Kentucky and Minnesota—to bring the Democratic Senate strength to 48, exactly one-half of the total membership, and they were leading in both of those disputed states.

Such an outcome would leave the line-up of the new Senate: 48 Democrats, 47 Republicans and 1 Farmer-Labor. The single Farmer-Labor Senator, Shipstead of Minnesota, usually votes with the Republicans on matters of organization. The Democrats had gained control of 33 House seats, now Republican. They needed only twenty-five more to obtain the upper hand, having retained all but one seat held in the present Congress.

Democratic nominees were leading in about the requisite number of districts on the early afternoon returns, but there was no definite indication who would nose out ahead.

DEPORTATIONS RAPPED BY TRUTH

Weekly Review Urges Imperial Conference to Investigate Practises.

ACTION SEEMS ONE-SIDED.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 5.—(By Thos. T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent.)—Truth, weekly review, today suggested the Imperial Conference should give attention to the practice surrounding deportations of the indigent and afflicted. So far as the Dominions and the United Kingdom are concerned the present practice seems one-sided, the Review asserted.

Regarding what it terms the case of the unfortunate Hamilton women (two women sufferers who resided in Hamilton, Ont., many years, are now back in England) Truth asks what would be said if any Canadian in receipt of public assistance here—and no doubt some could be found—were similarly dealt with.

"Thank goodness we are not likely to retaliate by treating the indigent and afflicted that way," Truth added, "but we have another class from the Dominions who certainly ought to be got rid of. Why should this country be made use of as the happy hunting ground for sharps and swindlers who, because they come from Canada or Australia or some other part of the Empire, cannot be got rid of?

"As the Prime Minister suggested last week it seems about time the United Kingdom claimed something of Dominion status on her own account. After all we have more than an adequate supply of native-born rogues."

Couple Found Dead In Suicide Pact

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 5—A man and woman were found dead in a boarding house here to-day, the victims of poison which police said they had drunk in a suicide pact.

The man was identified as E. H Miquette 42 but there was not means of identifying the woman, who was said to be about 28 years old.

A note left by Miquette, according to police, indicated that they had taken their lives because her marital obligations were an obstacle to their happiness.

CHATHAM MAN UP FOR MURDER ON NOVEMBER 12

Held in County Jail Following Fatal Shooting of His Wife.

RESULT OF QUARREL.

Cracknell Begged Captors to Allow Him to Take His Own Life.

CHATHAM, Ont., Nov. 5.—Thomas Cracknell was arraigned in the county police court here this morning on a charge of murdering his wife Alice. He was remanded to the county jail until Nov. 12 for preliminary trial.

The charge reads: 'Did murder Alice Campbell by shooting her with a shot gun, contrary to section 259 of the Criminal Code."

Cracknell, it is alleged, shot his wife at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Clarke, Harwich township, near Guilds, where the woman was employed as a domestic.

He attempted to shoot himself but was overpowered by two men who witnessed the shooting. While awaiting the arirval of the police, Cracknell is said to have begged to be permitted to finish the job and kill himself.

Separated From Wife.

It appears that Cracknell and his wife, who have resided in the Bothwell district have been separated for some time. Late yesterday afternoon Cracknell who planned to go to the northern lumber camps for the winter, visited the Clark home and urged his wife to return to him. "He remained in the house chatting and did not appear to be angry," said Mrs. Clark to-day in an interview. "After supper Mrs. Cracknell went to wash the dishes and my daughter helped her. Cracknell followed her and an argument started. My little girl came and told me Cracknell was choking the woman. I stopped him

LIBERAL DOOM SEEN IN QUEBEC

Houde Claims Huntingdon Victory Bad Augury For Gov't.

TIDE IS TURNING.

MONTREAL Que., Nov. 5 (CP)—In a statement on yesterday's provincial by-election in which the Conservatives retained one seat, Laval Two-Mountains won Huntingdon from the Liberal party, and reduced the majority of the former Liberal Member in Maskinonge, Camillien Houde, Leader of the Opposition at Quebec, to-day said that the victory of the Conservatives in Huntingdon spelled the doom of the Liberal Government's administration in this Province.

In retaining Laval Two-Mountains in the Conservative column Mr. Houde said that this fact only would have considerable effect on public opinion. He minimized the Conservative defeat in Maskinonge, there he said we "substantially reduced the Liberal majority" this indicated that the electional tide was turning towards the Conservative party in this Province, the Mayor said.

BIG FLYING BOAT MAKES FIRST LAP OF ATLANTIC TRIP

Twelve Motored Seaplane DO-X Reaches Amsterdam Without Mishap.

FOLLOWED RIVER RHEIN.

Carried 16 Passengers on Trip Starting From Lake Constance.

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Nov. 5. — (AP) — The huge Dornier flying boat DO-X arrived at Amsterdam at 4:50 p.m. (11:50 a.m. E.S.T.) five hours and 2 minutes after the take-off from Altenrhein, Switzerland.

The big ship completed this first leg of her projected flight to New York without mishap, flying through clear weather all the way.

Followed River Rhein

She followed the Rhein into Holland, passing en route over Mayence, Mannheim, Worms, Cologne and Wesel.

The plane had been scheduled to start shortly after 8 a.m., but the low temperature delayed preparations and necessitated a longer warming up, so that it was 11.27 a.m. (5.27 a.m. E.S.T.) before the ship nosed into the wind and rose gracefully from the somewhat choppy surface of the lake.

Start Delayed by Storms.

The plane was captained by Commander Friedrich Christiansen, who hoped to stop at Amsterdam and Southampton before flying to Lisbon, from where the trans-Atlantic flight will be begun probably about November 9. The start of the plane from here was delayed since Sunday morning because of adverse weather conditions.

Three Atlantic stops en route from Lisbon to New York are planned, the first at Horta, Azores Islands group, the second at a fuel ship midway to Bermuda, and the third at Bermuda, the object being to demonstrate possibilities of the machine and a safe scheduled voyage rather than to make a speed record.

There were only sixteen passengers aboard for the trip to Amsterdam, although the craft can carry 150 or more without difficulty. Maurice Dornier, of the Dornier Works, is going to Lisbon by train and will board the plane there, while Claude Dornier, his brother, will board the plane at Amsterdam.

HENRY IS UPHELD IN BANK'S APPEAL

Hearing Continued Into Numerous 1931 Assessment Appeals.

PROPERTY ESTIMATES.

That increases in land assessment made for 1931 taxation by City Assessor W. J. Henry on property occupied by stores on the west side of George street between Hunter and Charlotte streets averaged 10 per cent. and one lot went as high as 36 per cent, was the testimony given yesterday afternoon before the Court of Revision by T. C. Ephgrave, contractor. The Court, under the chairmanship of W. F. Johnston is considering the appeals of the stores, which they claim they have been overcharged on their 1931 assessment.

Judgment was reserved in all the cases until Thursday, when more will be heard.

In the case of the Bank of Nova Scotia, the Court announced yester-

Marauder Ransacks Home In North Woods

PARRY SOUND, Ont., Nov. 5 (C.P.)—Taking advantage of the absence of her husband, at work in the fields, an unidentified man yesterday entered the farm home of Mrs. J. Donaldson at Waubamick, intimidated the woman and was ransacking the home when the husband appeared. On hearing Donaldson approach the home, the intruder dashed from the building and disappeared in the dense bush surrounding the farm. Mrs. Donaldson said the marauder was gathering food and anything else within his reach when her husband appeared, while she cowered in fright in a corner of the room. Donaldson reported to the police at Parry Sound to-day, giving a description of the man.

100 Men Trapped in Burning Tunnel As Gas Explosion Shakes Ohio Mine

ATHENS, Ohio, November 5 (C.P.). — A gas explosion swept through the Sunday Creek Coal Company Mine Number 6 at Millfield near here, this afternoon. One hundred miners were reported to be trapped in the workings.

The mine was on fire.

Three hundred men were in the mine when the explosion occurred. About half this number was brought out, many of them injured and suffering from the effects of gas.

Some of the trapped men were said to be sealed behind the bar a mile inside the mine.

When the explosion shook the surrounding region, scores of women and children flocked to the mine mouth. Calls went out immediately for mine rescue cars throughout the eastern Ohio coal field, and doctors, nurses, and ambulances were summoned from a wide radius.

Among those trapped in the mine are W. E. Titus, president of the Sunday Creek Coal Company, Peter McKinley, former Sheriff of Athens County, and Howard Upson, both mine superintendents, and Hubert Loncaster, a civil and mining engineer of Nelsonville.

The mine is a shaft operation.

DEFICIT LOOMS FOR AUSTRALIA OF $40,000,000

Impossible to Balance Budget in Remaining 8 Months, Lyons States.

TRADE REVIVAL NEEDED.

May Be Able to Redeem Undertakings After Present Measures in Force Year.

CANBERRA, Australia, Nov. 5. (C. P. Cable via Reuters).—Australia finds it impossible to balance her budget within the remaining eight months of the fiscal year, Hon. J. A. Lyons, Acting Treasurer, announced in the House of Representatives, today. After the most careful survey he said, new taxation and reduction in public expenditures had been decided upon which would result in a reasonable deficit of between eight and ten million pounds, roughly $40,000,000 to $50 000,000.

Want Trade Revival

The Minister however expressed confidence that, given a revival of trade and a restoration of confidence, the Commonwealth would find itself able to redeem its undertakings after the present measures had been in operation for a full financial year.

New taxation is expected to produce an additional £3,700,000 this year while public economies are expected to realize £3,880,000, a total benefit of 6,880,000 (roughly $34,400,000).

The government's financial proposals, Mr. Lyons stated, include—

A supertax of 7½ per cent. on all incomes from property valued at more than £100.

A 15 per cent. increase in the tax on earned incomes of more than £500 per annum.

A supertax of 10 to 15 per cent. levied on the salaries of Ministers of the Government, Members of Parliament and civil servants.

New customs and excise duties are estimated to yield an additional £2,000,000 within the present fiscal year.

Deficit May Be £12,000,000.

If trade continues to lag and unemployment consequently increased, it was possible the country would face a deficit of between £12,000,000 and £15,000,000 when the financial year closed, Mr. Lyons pointed out.

But with a restoration of confidence and revival in trade and employment, it was reasonable to estimate the deficit would not exceed £8,000,000 to £10,000,000, he added. A most careful survey of the financial position showed it was impossible within the remaining eight months of the fiscal year to so reconstruct the budget that a balanced ledger could be secured.

The most that could be achieved without undue sacrifice was to plan the budget on such a basis that when it operated on a full financial year the Commonwealth would have redeemed its undertakings, he declared.

Bank Bandit Suspect Allowed $15,000 Bail

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 5 (C.P.). — Erie Hugill, arrested at Windsor recently and wanted at Agincourt, Ont., on a charge of robbing a bank, appeared in County Police Court to-day and was committed for trial and bail set at $15,000. Harold Jeffries, teller of the bank which Hugill along with another companion is alleged to have robbed identified Hugill as the man who entered the bank. Hugill, through his counsel, Frank Regan, elected trial by jury.

King Will Be Heard In Canada, Nov. 12

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 5 (CP) His Majesty, King George V. will address the Indian Round Table Conference in London on Wednesday, November 12, and his speech will be heard in Canada at 6 p.m., Eastern Standard Time on that day. King George's speech will be brought to Canada by the Canadian Marconi Company and will be distributed through from coast to coast over the broadcast transmission system of the Canadian Pacific Railway Telegraphs. The address of the Right Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister, will also be heard, following the speech of the King.

VISITING HUNTERS CROWD LINDSAY

Nimrods, Many From Across Border, Gather to Invade Haliburton County.

DEER BELIEVED SCARCE.

LINDSAY, November 5 (Examiner Correspondence) — The howling of hound packs on the main street, as well as the presence of carloads of hunters, was a feature here yesterday This town was the gathering point of scores of men garbed in hunting outfit and carrying rifles on their shoulders, preparatory to their invasion of the County of Haliburton.

A feature of yesterday's activities was the presence of many hunters from across the line, principally from Ohio and Pennsylvania. The presence of cars bearing U.S. license indicated that the State elections and the tightness of the money market will not deter a goodly number from enjoying the season's hunt

Haliburton has long been known as the hunter's paradise, but this year it is believed the deer will be rather scarce, due to the great destruction wrought by wolves.

An old hunter in discussing the deer question yesterday, gave it as his opinion that the wolves were not alone responsible for the scarcity of deer. Unscrupulous hunters, he declared, had a good deal to answer for in this respect In proof of his contention he instanced the work of hunters on a ranch or estate near the shores of Balsam Lake. This property, he stated, had been protected for the past twenty years, but hunters had allowed their dogs to round up the deer, with the result that last year fully forty deer were wiped out This year he was not able to see one deer on the plans but came across two cripples

Goldfish Sardines Banned in Hamilton

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 5. (CP) In spite of lack of privacy, the life of a goldfish has hitherto been regarded as one of luxury and ease. To-day an incident occurred in this city to put an end to this belief. A complaint was laid before the S.P.C.A. that goldfish were being treated cruely in a local store.

Filled with visions of innocent fish being filleted alive or deprived of their daily diet of succulent ants and flies the Inspector sped to the spot in question.

He found that it was a question of overcrowding. The unfortunate fish literally had no room to turn around. The proprietor promised to provide a larger tank.

U. S. WETS' GAIN LITTLE AFFECT ON PROHIBITION

Where 18th Amendment in Spotlight Wet Sentiment Predominated.

32 SEAT BOOST IN HOUSE.

Future Action Lies Concealed in Minds of Party Leaders.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Nov. 5 (By Ken Clark, C. P. Staff Correspondent).—Where the prohibition question held the spotlight in the Congressional elections yesterday, Wet sentiment predominated, save for one notable exception. This was in Pennsylvania. There Gifford Pinchot, who was conceded election to the Governorship over John M. Hemphill, his Wet Democratic opponent, may one day be the leader of the Dry forces in the United States.

Rhode Island, in a referendum, declared itself three to one against the Eighteenth Amendment. Illinois and Massachusetts expressed themselves similarly though not so strongly. In the latter State William J. Buetler, candidate of a Dry administration for election to the Senate, lost to the Wet Democrat, Marcus A. Coolidge.

Wet Victorious in Ohio

In Ohio, Robert M. Bulkley, Wet Democrat, took the Senatorial seat. Ohio is the birthplace and deathplace of Wayne B. Wheeler, once Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, and traditionally a Dry State.

Anti-prohibitionists claimed a gain of 32 seats in the House of Representatives. The balance in the Senate was maintained, with the result that the position of Congress upon prohibition is not greatly altered. The drys in the House have still a predominance over the wets of 2 to 1. Of 96 Senators, only a score could be counted upon to openly support the wets. One acquisition to the wet ranks is James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, whose triumph over Ruth Hanna McCormick may be attributed in some degree to the equivocal stand taken by the woman candidate on the prohibition issue.

The anticipated pronouncement of President Hoover's Crime Commission on prohibition is now awaited with the keenest expectancy. Mr. Hoover and his Republican cohorts went to victory in 1928 after the Republican candidate for the White House had designated prohibition as "a noble experiment."

Wavering Of Drys.

Whatever interpretation may be placed upon the wet and dry results in yesterday's election, and observers agree it indicates at least some wavering in dry sentiment, there is no doubt that both Republican and Democratic parties looking toward the Presidential election of 1932 must carefully weigh the expression of opinion. Some suggestion is made that the Democratic platform in that year will contain a wet plank. However, the re-election of Senator Thomas J. Wash in Montana, Carter Glass in Virginia, and other outstanding dry Democrats, must be placed in the balance against Bulkley's triumph. The Democratic south remains bone-dry.

Yesterday's result will have no immediate affect upon the prohibition situation in the United States, and what may be done in the future lies concealed in the minds of party leaders.

HUNTERS' BODIES ARE NOT FOUND

Constable Returns After Dragging Lake Koshoe in Vain.

VICTIMS HAD 2 NAMES EACH.

PARRY SOUND, Ont., Nov. 5 (C.P.)—Provincial Constable Knight returned here to-day from Bolger, where he has been conducting a search for two missing hunters, said to be known as Daniel and Richard Kane, of Toledo, and also Richard Moffatt and Daniel Young of Toronto, Ont. It was first thought the two men had been drowned, but dragging operations by police at Lake Koshoe failed to reveal any trace of their bodies or equipment.

Police investigations have disclosed that the men were apparently known in Toledo under the name of Kane and in Toronto as Young and Moffatt, while in the neighborhood they were known by both names.

ENGLAND WINS 7-3.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 5 (C.P. Cable) —England defeated Scotland in an Interleague soccer football match at White Hart Lane to-day by 7 goals to 3. The score at half-time was 3 goals to 2 in England's favor. Twenty-five thousand people saw the match.

Traffic Is Held Up And Farmer Injured By Naked Maniac

George McGregor, 35, of Campbellford, Became Violently Mad Yesterday Afternoon on the Provincial Highway Near Centreville.

GOOD SIZED CROWD IS HELD AT BAY BY MAN TRAFFIC OFFICER HORNICK MAKES ARREST

Stones Are Hurled at Passing Motorists and at Least One Man Narrowly Escaped From the Clutches of the Maniac —John Earle, Farmer, Hit By Stone.

A madman, naked and with froth dripping from his mouth, paraded the Provincial Highway twelve miles south of Peterborough for an hour and a half yesterday afternoon, terrorizing the quiet farming community and passing motorists.

Before he was overpowered by Highway Patrol Officer Ted Hornick and Allan Gray, of Peterborough, after a fierce grapple, the maniac had broken the glass in more than a dozen cars and severely injured an aged man.

Still naked and insanely battling his captors, the madman, with hands securely handcuffed behind his back, was rushed by car to Peterborough and locked in the police cells. A few hours later, robed only in blankets and with handcuffs on his wrists and ankles, he was conveyed by two Provincial constables to the Whitby Hospital for the Insane.

From letters in his pocket the man was identified as George M. McGregor. During one of his quiet moments, while still naked, he sat in the cells, and told The Examiner that he had farmed in Saskatchewan for nine years and had recently visited relatives in Campbellford, his old home. He is about thirty-five years of age and of powerful build.

Tore Bed Clothes.

It is thought that McGregor spent Monday night at a friend's home here. While in bed, police state, a fit of madness came over him, and he tore the blankets and mattress to ribbons.

Some time yesterday he set off in the direction of Port Hope and walked or secured rides from motorists as far as the point where the Millbrook road joins the Provincial Highway.

It was here at about 2.30 in the afternoon that his madness first became noticeable. He stood at the intersection of the two paved highways shouting to motorists and waving his arms grantically.

Two women first answered his summons to stop. When the man dashed insanely at them, they started their car and escaped.

Chased Motorist.

Later a man halted his car near McGregor and offered him a ride. The madman dragged the motorist from the car. Pulling a penknife from his pocket he began chasing him around the car. The motorist ran away. McGregor then threw stones at the empty car, smashing all its windows.

By this time warning of the maniac had spread along the road, and motorists were stopping their cars a distance from him or speeding by.

Walking over the crest of a hill, 150 feet away, McGregor sat down in the centre of the highway and removed all his clothing. Naked and raving mad he then paraded the highway, throwing stones at every passing car.

Crowd Afraid.

Nearly half a hundred men gathered in the vicinity and stood watching the madman's antics from a safe distance. None was brave enough to venture near him, and he broke windows in all the cars packed nearby.

It was then that McGregor injured John R. Earle, aged 74, who was returning to his home near Ida from doing jury duty at Cobourg. The old man was standing on the road near his car when McGregor made one of his furious rushes. The bystanders scattered in all directions. Mr. Earle was left behind alone. He

J. R. MARSHALL IS APPOINTED TO BOARD VACANCY

Vacancy Caused By Death of Joseph John Filled By Board of Education.

HALLOWE'EN DAMAGE.

Ventilation in Collegiate Institute and Vocational School Discussed.

John R. Marshall was the unanimous choice of the Board of Education at last night's meeting, and will succeed to the office held by the late Joseph John. His nomination was moved by Frank H. Dawson and seconded by E. F. Reid, the appointment being ratified by the Board without any discussion.

Dr. J. J. Craig, chairman, after making sympathetic reference to the lamented death of Mr. John, pointed out that Mr. Marshall is without doubt a worthy man and well qualified to take care of the duties required of him. He had no doubt that the appointment would receive the approval of the ratepayers, as their confidence had been expressed in him at the polls in the New Year, when he received 1557 votes. There were five members to be elected to the Board, and he had taken sixth place among the candidates.

Ventilation in Collegiate

James Dutton, chairman of the Property Committee, brought to the attention of the Board a matter which he described as one of great urgency. It was the question concerning the ventilation of the Collegiate and Vocational Institute auditorium, where there is a very wide divergence of temperature. He mentioned an instance where a short time ago the temperature in the auditorium was 82 degrees, without the furnaces going; in the cellar the temperature was 68 degrees, while in

FIRE DESTROYS BARN AND CROPS

Thomas Leveck, Residing Near Thomasburg, Suffers Heavy Loss.

CAUSE UNKNOWN.

THOMASBURG, November 5 (Examiner Correspondence). — Heavy loss was sustained by Thomas Leveck on Monday evening by a fire of unknown origin, which destroyed the barn, along with eighty loads of hay, a large amount of straw, part of last year's grain, and all this season's grain, a number of hens, and a quantity of new harness.

First intimation of the fire was received when the telephone aroused the family from sleep at 8.30 o'clock The eldest son was at a neighboring farm, and had seen the blaze, which lit up the whole sky.

A great many people lent their assistance in fighting the fire, but by the time it was first discovered it had gained a solid hold, and little could be done.

The cattle and horses were in the pasture. Had the wind been at all boisterous there is no doubt that the fire would have spread to the house and other buildings. As it was, men had a busy time in keeping the roof of the house soaked with water, to prevent flying sparks catching the shingles.

Guy Fawkes Day

By children and grown-ups also, to-day in the Motherland is being celebrated, to the tune of jumping jacks, to the flare of giant and multi-colored sky rockets, catherine wheels and other devices of the pyrotechnical art. It is Guy Fawkes day—the day on which effegies of that arch conspirator — are burned throughout the land; the day on which in accordance with age-old custom the cellars of the Houses of Parliament are still searched in remembrance of that night long ago, when on November 5, 1605, the gunpowder plot was discovered, on the day which Parliament was to meet under King James I.

To warn of coming volcanic eruptions, a volvanometer, whose thermostat when heated to a certain degree tells of danger, has been installed on Mount Pelee.

NEW YORK STATE GOES DEMOCRAT BY RECORD VOTE

Roosevelt Returned to Governorship on Margin of 725,000—Sets History.

Mrs. R. M. Pratt Victorious.

Republicans Retain Control of Both Legislative Wings on State Gov't.

(Associated Press Staff Writer, Deming Seymour)

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 5.— New York State democracy had a new happy warrior today, and the State had a Governor re-elected to office by the largest plurality it ever gave an executive.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, who called his friend and predecessor Alfred E. Smith "the happy warrior" in nominating him for President, warranted that title himself as he surveyed radiantly the 725,000 vote margin by which he was returned yesterday to the Governorship.

Beats Smith's Record

His victory was of a decisiveness unmatched in state political history. Until yesterday the record plurality for a candidate for Governor was the 385,000 by which Smith beat Nathan L. Miller in 1922.

Nor was it the fruit alone of Democratic strength in New York City which usually piles up totals for the party's candidates against deficits upstate. New York City gave Roosevelt 550,000 of the lead he accumulated yesterday over Charles H. T. Tuttle, Republican, but another hundred thousand and more of the plurality came from the Republican territory upstate—a circumstance almost without parallel in the Empire State.

With him in his state-wide sweep Roosevelt carried the entire Democratic ticket. Although by margains somewhat smaller than his, Herbert Lehman was re-elected Lieutenant Governor over Senator Caleb Baumes, Republican, Morris Tremaine won a second term as comptroller over the Republican Daniel H. Conway and John J. Bennett, Democratic nominee was chosen as Attorney General over Isadore Bookstein by pluralities ranging from 350,000 to more than 600,000.

The complexion of the State Legislative bodies, however, was affected less and that of the New York delegation in Congress not at all by the landslide for the Democratic state ticket. The Republicans retain control of both Legislative wings of the State Government.

Democrats Gain 6 Seats

In the State Assembly the Democrats made a net gain of six seats, but remained in the minority. They will hold seventy seats in the next Legislature to eighty for the Republicans. In the last session sat eighty-six Republicans and sixty-four Democrats.

In the State Senate the Democrats gained one seat—in Oneida county—and will have twenty-five votes to the Republicans' twenty-six as against a Republican predominance of twenty-sexen to twenty-four in the last Senate .

Republicans and Democrats both held their identical seats in the National House of Representatives, and in the next Congress as in the last, the Republicans will have twenty members from New York and the Democrats twenty-three. In all but two districts incumbents were re-elected, and in those two Republicans won after defeating incumbents of their own party in the primaries.

Mrs. Ruth M. Pratt, Republican, representative from the seventeenth New York district was pressed closest for re-election. She bested Louis Brodsky, Democrat by a scant six hundred votes in New York's silk-stocking sector—a margin, the narrowness of which, she averred, was due to the presence in the fight of Heywood Broun, newspaper columnist and socialist nominee.

Rep. Fiorello H. Laguardia, Republican won in his twentieth district; Bertrant H. Snell, Republican, was re-elected from the thirty-first, and Walter Graesham Andrews, who defeated Chairman S. Wallace Dempsey of the House Rivers and Harbors Committee in the Republican primary, won in the fortieth.

Blaze on Britnell Bros.' Farm Occurs During Threshing Operations.

SPARK IS BLAMED.

LINDSAY, Nov. 5 (Examiner Correspondence).—A destructive fire occurred on the farm of Britnell brothers, Mariposa township, on Monday afternoon when the large barn with season's crop and farm implements, together with a threshing machine, the property of William Teel, of Victoria Road, were destroyed.

Threshing operations were in progress when the fire broke out, caused, it is thought, by a spark from the threshing machine. The flames spread with great rapidity, and the threshers could do nothing but prevent the flames from spreading to other property.

The Messrs. Britnell carried insurance on their barn, but it will not nearly cover the loss. Mr. Teel also had a little insurance on his threshing outfit.

LEGAL ACTION IS THREATENED BY THE COUNCIL

Havelock Ratepayers Faced With Election Problem Following Recent Changes Made.

OVER DRAIN WORK.

Construction Not Being Done in Honest, Straight-forward Manner is Alleged.

HAVELOCK, Nov. 5 (Examiner Correspondence).—Havelock ratepayers will be faced with an election problem, when if the ratepayer who cast aspersions on the present council, clerk, and bosses on the village drains does not retract his statement that there is graft among the village fathers.

At the regular meeting, held in the council chamber on Nov. 3, Reeve Anderson expressed his indignation at the charges by a party unnamed, that the work being done at present was not being managed in an honest, straight-forward manner.

The statement had been made in the hearing of a witness who would testify if necessary, that the clerk had appropriated a portion of the grant to his own use. It was also said that one of those employed on the drains, had been given leave of absence on Friday afternoon, to allow him to go to Peterborough to purchase the liquor requirements of the gang. This man's pay was said to be going on just the same. The Reeve investigated the allegation and found that one man had been off the job on Friday afternoon. It was said that he had worked his way as brakeman on C.P.R. to Peterborough, on the day mentioned.

The Reeve notified the man who made the charge of misappropriation that he expected an apology, and that if one were not forthcoming by Monday night, Nov. 3, he would instruct the solicitor for the village to take legal action again the man. The apology had not been made, and the Reeve informed the Council that unless some action were taken to deal with the man, he would tender his resignation immediately.

After a great deal of discussion, it was decided to notify the man that unless he apologized for the statement by Wednesday, Nov. 5, the matter would be put in the hands of the village solicitor to deal with.

Some correspondence was read and ordered filed.

Unemployment Issue

Mr. T. P. Lancaster, M.L.A., was present and spoke regarding a recent conversation with Mr. Ellis of the Unemployment Relief Committee. He stated that the government would not make a further grant to the village for school purposes. He stated that requests for grants for relief purposes were piling up every day. Mr. Lancaster explained the forwarding of the grants as usual as being on the understanding that the pit closets in the school be kept clean and sanitary until next spring, when further measures will be necessary to insure the grants to the school. Mr. Barrie of the Public Works Department, gave permission to have the sewage disposal system connected up

COBOURG WILL VOTE ON HYDRO QUESTION

Proposal Is That Town Buy Three Utilities and Create Commission.

COBOURG, Nov. 5 (Special to The Examiner).—Ratepayers of Cobourg will vote next month on the purchase of the local Hydro, gas and water systems from the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, it is indicated by the action of the Town Council. Mayor A. R. Willmott has appointed a committee to prepare details preparatory to submitting the proposal to the taxpayers. The committee comprises Reeve Mrs. E. K. Macdonald, Deputy-Reeve R. Pratt, and Councillor H. Maguire. The proposal that the town buy these public utilities and create a commission was defeated by the citizens on December 9 of last year.

Car Crane Rescues Dobbin From Well

A large gallery of interested spectators gazed in wonderment recently, when a five-ton wrecking crane from the J J Duffus, Limited, automobile workshops was pressed into service on an errand of mercy.

A horse on the farm of N. Watkins, of South Monaghan, had ventured on the planking above the yawning chasm of a deep well, four feet in diameter. The planks gave way and poor Dobbin, slipping down hind first, became tightly wedged. An urgent call was despatched to Peterborough for the wrecking truck, all other methods of rescue having failed, and on arrival the Duffus mechanics removed the iron pump, fastened a strut chain around the horse's middle, after having first padded his body, and windlassed him from his precarious position with the aid of the 5-ton crane.

The well is 15 to 20 feet deep, and is cribbed with stone

DEPORTATIONS TO BE WATCHED

Robb Claims All Future Cases Will Get Full Consideration.

GOV'T INITIALLY TO BLAME.

BLIND RIVER, November 5 (C. P.). — Further deportation to their native lands of patients confined to mental institutions in the Province will not be authorized until every case had been fully considered on its merits and passed upon following a thorough examination by a competent physician.

This policy will be followed by the Ontario Government in dealing with such cases in future, according to Hon. J. M. Robb, Provincial Minister of Health, in discussing the cases of three women recently to come under the deportation order.

Dr. Robb was the honor guest at a banquet here given by citizens of Blind River to mark his elevation to the rank of Cabinet Minister.

Dominion Government to Blame.

The Minister of Health took the ground that responsibility for the situation that had arisen lay in the first instance with the Dominion Government, under whose direction, he said, administration of the country's immigration laws was carried on. He declared that about one-third of the occupants of the mental institutions in the Province were of foreign birth At the same time, he said, there was a large waiting list of Ontario native-born, who because of overcrowded conditions, were unable to obtain admission to these institutions for treatment

Dr. Robb maintained that the Province should not be called upon to assume the responsibility of caring for those who had contracted diseases before coming to the Province. He felt, however, that too strict observance of the letter of the law might lead to hardships, which a more humanitarian viewpoint might avoid.

BRENNAN COMPANY IS GIVEN CONTRACT

Hamilton Construction Company to Assist in Building New Highway.

Street rumors that the contract for the construction of the five-mile stretch of the Peterborough-Tweed Highway from the city to Shearer's Cheese Factory had been let to the Brennan Construction Company of Hamilton, were verified by T. P. Lancaster, of Havelock, member of the Legislature for Peterborough County, in a 'phone conversation with The Examiner yesterday afternoon This link is known as the "block road."

Mr Lancaster, referring to a paragraph in yesterday's issue of this paper, headed "Lancaster States Rumors Unfounded," said that in his previous statement he had apparently been misunderstood The contract is let to the above named company, and the equipment is now being brought into the district to go right ahead with construction.

TESTIMONY ENDS ON SALARY GRAB

Strangest Kind of Judicial Hearing, Comments Judge Denton.

CONTRADICTORY EVIDENCE.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 5.— Verbal tilts between lawyers and witnesses, much contradictory evidence and the partial alteration of their former testimony by two members of the Ontario Legislature Sam Wright and Fred G. McBrien, marked the conclusion of Judge J. H. Denton's inquiry into the Toronto City Council's self-voted salary increase.

"This has been the strangest kind of judicial hearing, if such it can be called, that I have ever heard," said Judge Denton as he brought the investigation to a close.

"The only thing judicial about it was your Honor's demeanor," remarked Peter White, K.C., special counsel for the city.

McBrien Changes Evidence.

Recalled to the stand Mr. Wright and Mr. McBrien underwent examination on their evidence offered at the earlier hearings. Mr. McBrien changed his evidence about buying papers on Feb. 19, a fact by which he had previously fixed the date of an alleged interview with Mr. Wright concerning the bill later introduced in the Legislature by the latter to authorize the aldermanic increases. Mr. McBrien formerly said he bought all his papers that day at the Legislature. Yesterday he admitted buying one downtown.

Mr. McBrien underwent a severe cross-examination at the hands of Joe Singer, K.C., counsel for Controller Claude Pearce. Pressed closely by Mr. Singer, Mr. McBrien stoutly maintained it was "common gossip" at the City Hall prior to March 10, a month before the increasing by-law was passed, that a conference had been held on Feb. 19 in the Mayor's office.

A strong denial, supported by the testimony of his wife, was entered by Sam Wright against Mr. McBrien's assertion that he, Mr. Wright, had come to his office on the morning of Feb. 19 and had asked that an enabling bill be drafted.

FALL PLOUGHING WELL UNDER WAY

Farmers Taking Advantage of Fine Weather For Drainage Work.

HOG DEMAND STRONG.

TORONTO, Nov. 5. (C.P.) — Fall ploughing and other late seasonal work is well advanced in most parts of Ontario considering the lack of moisture, according to the weekly report of the Provincial Agricultural Bureau. The report states that from 75 to 80 per cent. of the fall ploughing has been accomplished in some parts of the province while in some districts only about 50 per cent. has been done.

In Eastern Ontario the report says there appears to be increased interest in drainage and many farmers are taking advantage of ideal weather conditions to clean out and open up satisfactory ditches.

Commenting on the hog market, the report says there is a strong demand for hogs, sows and weanling pigs, which are bringing possibly higher prices than conditions warrant.

To prevent adulteration of gasoline the Peruvian Government is requiring that kerosene be colored blue, and tractoline, which is the kerosene used for tractors, amber.

FIRE PROTECTION FOUND APPALLING BY COBOURG JURY

Protection For Ontario Hospital and House of Refuge is Scored.

GRAND JURY REPORTS.

Jury Speaks Highly of the Management of Two Institutions.

COBOURG, November 5 (Special to The Examiner). — Lack of fire protection at the Ontario Hospital and the House of Refuge is appalling and the present conditions constitute a menace to life and property, although the attention of the proper officials, including the Fire Marshal of Ontario, has been called to the situation and nothing done, the Grand Jury reports to the Hon Mr. Justice McEvoy, who presided over the Fall Assizes held here this week for the United Counties.

"We," the Grand Jury report, "are very much appalled at the lack of fire protection at the Ontario Hospital and at the House of Refuge. We understand that the water pressure is far from being efficient, and is practically useless: under present conditions it is a menace to life and property.

"This should be attended to without delay, as at other times this same recommendation has been brought to the attention of the proper officials, and nothing has been done The Fire Marshal of Ontario also knows of these conditions.

"We urge that this should be attended to without delay. We cannot but emphasize the grave responsibility in this matter."

Excellent Management.

The Jury speaks highly of the management of both institutions Of the Ontario Hospital it says: "We found accommodation for 420 patients, and at the present time 405 were in the institution. There were 24 day and 5 night nurses. This Institution is well kept, everything is in splendid condition."

High praise is given to the man-

AT IVANHOE

(Examiner Correspondence)

IVANHOE, Nov. 5. —Anniversary services were held in Beulah United Church on Sunday Nov. 2 at 10.30 and 7 p. m. At both services the church was filled to capacity. Rev. Joblin of Rawdon was the speaker for the day and gave two very impressive sermons. His morning text was from I Cor 14:8. "For if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself for the battle". His evening sermon was based on Prov. 4:23. "Keep thy heart with all diligence for out of it are the issues of life." Special music was furnished by the choir assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Haggerty, A. MacMillan, Mrs. Jas. Martin and A. Fleming.

The trustees asked for the sum of $200.00 to meet the expenses of the church and this amount was exceeded. Total reaching $230.00.

Moving picture theatres are now playing to capacity

Dixie Presents Her Favourite COFFEE

. . . you, too, may serve this delicious blend

THE Old Maxwell House in Nashville, Tennessee, won fame for its hospitality in the Sunny South. And the greatest aid to its reputation was a delicious blend of coffee.

This coffee, produced by an expert, was the result of many tests and re-tests. The final achievement was a blend that gave the utmost in flavour — full-bodied, delicious, delicate.

Its Reputation Spread

From Nashville the fame of Maxwell House Coffee spread abroad. Now this same blend is offered to you in Canada—vacuum-packed—ensuring the same freshness when opened as if it had just been ground. Your grocer has Maxwell House in the blue tins.

Air-tight Tin Ensures Freshness

Maxwell House Coffee tins are vacuum-sealed. The coffee is the same as when it left the roaster. All of its original aroma is there because vacuum sealing makes the tin air-tight and prevents any chemical action. Fresher than coffee packed any other way and even one day old. And the tight lid keeps it better after you open it.

BRITISH NAVY CAMPBELLFORD ROTARY THEME

Rev. Dr. E. Smith Gives Graphic Description of Naval Work During World War.

Thanked By King and Queen.

Only Presbyterian Minister to Command One of His Majesty's Ships.

CAMPBELLFORD, November 5 — By Examiner Staff Correspondent — An informal talk on his experiences as an officer of the British Navy, by the Rev. Edwin Smith, M.A., PD.H., F.R.A.S., of Warkworth, was the interesting feature of this week's Rotary Luncheon at Campbellford, staged in the St. Lawrence Hotel on Monday. In the absence of the president, H. N. Carr, the vice-president, N. Alex MacColl, occupied the chair.

In addressing the club, Dr. Smith gave the members their choice of subject, which fell to the British Navy. As an introduction, the speaker stated that he had commanded from one to twelve of His Majesties ships, and that he was the only Presbyterian minister to have that honor. He had also had the privilege on one occasion to command a Canadian guard of Honor for the King and Queen and had received the Royal pair on the deck of one of his commands when he was thanked for his services.

Dr. Smith explained the great part that the British Navy played in the war. Besides the transportation of troops from the British Isles, it had transported over ten million other troops from all parts of the world to the theatres of war, and then had supplied them with food and ammunition. All this had been done in the face of the German submarine menace. In addition to this all the supplies for the British Isles, which can only feed itself for four months of the year, had to be brought in and much of the food for France and Italy was transported to those countries. All this was only one part of the work of the navy the speaker said, and stated that had the navy lost control of the seas for one week the war would have been lost to Great Britain.

Dr. Smith continued by saying that he volunteered three times for service in the navy before he was accepted. He had been in the ministry for twenty five years and was forty six years old, ten years beyond the age limit. Eventuallyl he was accepted and sat for his Navy Graduating Examinations after six weeks brushing up and passed with a mark of 99.95 per cent on all subjects.

The speaker received his first command, a destroyer, in 1916, having the task of patrolling one hundred miles of the East Coast of England in the Dogger Bank area. This he did every day for one year, irrespective of weather conditions. He then was promoted to the command of the channel Squadron at Dover.

The next adventure that Dr. Smith took part in was when he was given the command of twelve destroyers for the purpose of throwing a smoke screen between the Belgium coast and a monitor that was bombarding it with two 15" guns. This venture was frought with many dangers, the speaker explaining how the Germans would reply to the British fire through the smoke screen with their 16-inch guns and how his ships were continually in the line of fire. This bombardment was chiefly at Zeebrugge and was carried out to prevent the Germans from launching their submarine against the Allies. It was during these operations that Captain Boyd was the official flying observer for the squadron, and used to fly over the enemy lines daily giving ranges and disposition of troops. Dr. Smith had this command for five months.

He was then asked by the Admiralty to train 120 ships in time sailing from Dover to the Belgium coast.

This stunt was for the landing of troops at Newport, a surprise landing, to get behind the German lines. This practising took three weeks wo perfect, and then the stunt was called off, and the speaker stated that it was afterward found out that the enemy had got wind of the preparations and that the place of landing was fully fortified, and would have resulted in the complete annihilation of the landing force.

Then came the next command when Dr. Smith volunteered to clean the Dogger Banks of the Germans. He was given the command of twelve fishing vessels manned by their own crews and mounted with two guns and one naval gunner a piece. In this scrap they were successful, with the result that two millions dollars worth of fish were landedin Grimsby in one month. After this adventure, Dr. Smith had the honor of receiving their Majesties the King and Queen on his ship at Grimsby.

Thus the speaker conclued, was ninety per cent of the naval work of the war done by men of the merchant service and dug-outs.

CAMPBELLFORD Y.P. INVITE BURNBRAE

Two Organizations to Hold Joint Meeting at Campbellford on Nov. 17.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 5 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The weekly meeting of the Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was held on Monday evening, with Frank Roe in the chair. W. A. Newcourt acted as pianist for the evening.

The meeting opened with the singing of a hymn, scripture reading and a prayer by Mr. Newcourt, after which the business period was commenced. It was decided at this time, on motion of the meeting, that the Young People's Society of Burnbrae be invited to visit Campbellford on the evening of November 17. It was also understood that some members of the Campbellford society would attend the rally, to be staged at Keene on November 7.

The Literary Committee had charge of the program and the convenor, Annie Parks, occupied the chair for this portion of the program. The topic, "The Spread of Christianity by St. Paul," was read by Margaret McGregor, and a talk on this subject was given by Mr. Newcourt.

After the collection and the singing of a hymn, the meeting closed with the Benediction.

Gain

Vigorous Health . . . this Easy, natural Way

WHEN you wake up in the morning feeling as if you had done a whole day's work, the cause is frequently constipation. Languor, nervousness, bad breath and headaches are other danger signals you should watch for.

Nature provides a simple remedy even for chronic cases. Not with harsh, habit-forming purgatives, but just by adding to the diet natural grain roughage in the form of Quaker natural Bran.

Quaker natural Bran tastes good sprinkled over other cereals. Muffins made with this bran, either plain or with raisins, are delicious. Various other appetizing ways of serving are given in every package.

Quaker natural Bran does not irritate because made of soft Ontario winter wheat. It is thoroughly sterilized but not cooked. Physicians will tell you that natural, uncooked bran is the most effective laxative cereal.

BRAN MUFFINS

2 cups Quaker Flour, 2 cups Quaker natural Bran, 1 cup Sugar, 2 tablespoons Molasses, 1 teaspoon Baking Soda, 1 cup Seeded Raisins, 1 Egg, 1 teaspoon Salt, 2 tablespoons Shortening, 1¼ cups Sour milk. (Sweet milk may be used if 3 teaspoons of Baking Powder are used in place of the Soda.)

METHOD—Mix shortening thoroughly with molasses and sugar. Add egg well beaten, then milk, salt, flour, bran, soda, and floured raisins. Bake in well greased muffin tins in a hot oven 10 to 15 minutes.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Nov. 5.—Prices on the butter market were ¼ of a cent lower here yesterday. Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery butter was quoted at 29¼c to 29½c a pound. A sale at 29¼c a pound was reported. Receipts were 165 boxes.

The cheese market was slightly easier with Ontario quoted at 13¾c to 14 cents, and Quebec at 13¼c to 13½c cents a pound. Receipts totalled 4,225 boxes.

The egg market was steady. New laid eggs best quality, were quoted at 53 to 55 cents, fresh firsts were 45 cents, and fresh seconds 32 cents a dozen. Receipts were 2,280 cases, of which the majority were American eggs passing through here for export.

The potato market was unchanged.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Nov. 5.—According to a prominent, local poultry dealer, farmers who expect to receive higher prices than those quoted for their fatted stock, etc., are due for a disappointment. This authority points out that last year Canada exported 674,900 pounds of live poultry to the United States, and of this amount Ontario was represented by some 618,000 pounds, of 90 per cent. On top of that the Dominion sent $150,000 worth of dressed poultry across the line. Now, that market is not open to Canadian producers as the Americans have placed a high tariff against imports.

This year there will probably be an additional 4,000,000 pounds of poultry in this country, and this must be absorbed by the home markets, which means a very troublesome time for the dealer, continued the local merchant. The storage stocks last year were far above requirements and with conditions such as they are this year it simply means that the farmer will have to take lower prices and the dealers will have to sell for less. Feed is down in price, other commodities are down, and as poultry is always considered more or less of a luxury, it is one of the first lines affected in times of retrenchment.

Lower Prices Help

The only thing that will save the situation for the producer and the dealer is a lower scale of prices, which will stimulate consumption, stated the dealer. Holding back stock is not going to make the market any stronger. It might raise prices for a day or so, but piling shipments in to dealers at the last minute, or when shippers think the market is right, will overload the market and naturally force prices down.

Turkeys and Geese

This same dealer stated that he and many others would continue to pay only nominal prices for geese and turkeys, though Thanksgiving was only a few days away. He said it would not do to quote prices when the demand was so uncertain, so they would pay what the receipts were worth on day of arrival.

Eggs

Quotations on the local egg market were unchanged yesterday, but once again attention must be drawn to the wide spread in prices to retailers by wholesalers. The lower prices in the spread are for short held supplies, while the higher prices are for new-laid eggs. Retailers were asked 57c for extras in cartons, 55c for extras loose, 48c for firsts loose, and 37c for seconds loose, new-laid. But fresh, short-held supplies were quoted at 52c for extras in cartons, 50c for extras loose, 44c for firsts loose, and 32c to 35c for seconds loose.

Egg Prices

Brokers were asking 51c to 52c for extras, with an occasional sale reported at 53c; firsts, 45c to 46c; and seconds, 30c, graded, in free cases. Trade was good and receipts were cleared without much trouble.

Country shippers were quoted by wholesalers, 46c to 48c for extras, 40c to 44c for firsts, 26c for seconds, and 29c to 30c for purlet extras, ungraded, delivered, cases returned. Retailers were offering country shippers 50c for new-laid extras, and selling them to the consumer for 60c per dozen. At this season of the year the retailer is active as a direct buyer from the shipper.

Butter

The local butter market was weaker yesterday with sales reported at 30¼c to 30¾c for No. 1 and 29¼c to 29¾c for No. 2. Business was slightly better at these prices, which meant that buyers were interested if the offering was cheap. No. 2 butter has been sold at lower prices than those quoted and No. 1 has been purchased at 30c, but not for good quality. Local retailers have been asked to pay 33½c to 34c for No. 1 prints, and 32½c to 33c for No. 2 prints, but large establishments have been buying solids at lower prices.

Cheese

The cheese market was lower than previously at 15¼c to 15½c for new large, 15½c to 15¾c for twins, and 15¾c to 16c for triplets. Prices to retailers for new cheese were unchanged at 17c for new large, but old cheese was lower at 24c for large and 24¼c for twins. New Stiltons were steady at 20c per pounds, but old Stiltons were lower at 25c.

TEAM RUNS AWAY FARMER INJURED

Thos. Adams, Queensboro, Has Ribs Broken When Wagon Rack Falls on Him.

(Examiner Correspondence)

QUEENSBORO, Nov. 5.—On Monday morning while Mr. Thomas Adams and one of his daughters were busy removing a heavy rack from a wagon to which a team of horses were attached, the team took fright and ran away throwing Mr. Adams violently to the ground, the rack landing upon his chest and breaking several ribs. He also received a deep wound in the side of his forehead and as a result will be unable to work for some time.

FOR YOU AND YOURS

What Would You Do?

A home, a family, perhaps a business of your own. Possessions you have gathered around you as the natural reward of years of building and endeavor. Viewing them you feel a natural pride and security.

Yet, like a bolt from the blue, may come the hand of fate knocking at your door. A sudden crisis with its dread possibilities of loss. It may be that such a possibility sounds fantastic, yet if it happened, what would you do? Would you face a bad situation with the knowledge that your backing of investment and protection is secure? This is a question you alone can answer.

Our representative will be glad to explain the many benefits of Mutual Life Insurance. A postcard brings him to your door.

THE COST OF ELECTIONS.

Official reports of the election expenses of the four Ottawa candidates—two Liberals and two Conservatives—show that in the last Dominion fight they spent a total of $38,431.

That figures out at the rate of about $9,600 per candidate and at a ratio of 80 cents for every vote cast, all of which goes to show that to engage the attention and secure the support of electors in these modern times is a rather expensive operation.

There should really be no need of such extensive expenditure if the people generally took the trouble to interest themselves in political developments in the off-season—that is, between elections.

If they read the political news in their favorite daily journal as religiously as they do the sporting news and the crime features, there would not be the same necessity of endeavoring to enlighten them during political campaigns, and candidates would not find the process of seeking a seat in Parliament such a decidedly expensive operation.

The worst of it is, that in spite of the outlay on political propaganda during election campaigns, the speaking tours, the newspaper advertising and the extensive use of radio broadcasting facilities, there still remains a by no means small proportion of the electorate which is utterly indifferent in regard to the issues.

Just at present the Conservative general staff has an advantage in one respect over its opposition in that it is continuing the circulation of a monthly publication, used undoubtedly to advantage during the last campaign, and giving a review in each issue of latest political developments.

This publication, going out each month to electors in all parts of the Dominion, is likely to do much to keep the recipients in touch with current events in the political arena.

THE ARTIFICIAL SILK INDUSTRY.

According to a special writer of the New York Sun, who has been studying the tariff changes made at the special session of the Dominion Parliament, the export trade of the United States in so far as artificial silk fabrics is concerned is likely to be marked.

The writer says:

"A mill owner of New England came to Montreal a few days ago with a grievance and a tale of woe. He was the head of a concern manufacturing artificial silk and he had specialized in women's stockings. During the last two years the entire output of one of his mills had been exported to Canada with a reasonable profit to himself and his partners. By efficiency of management and mass production he had been able to quote a lower price for his product than could the Canadian manufacturer. He almost controlled the supply of cheap grade stockings which retailed in department stores at about 60 cents a pair. These he supplied to the stores at $2 a dozen, absorbing the old duty of 35 per cent. and underselling the home producer. His exports last year amounted to nearly 150,000 pairs and he had made plans to increase this amount to at least 250,000 pairs.

"Mr. Bennett has put a spoke in his wheel. While the duty on artificial silk stockings of all grades remains as before, Canada has tacked on an extra protective duty of $1.25 a dozen pairs. Now the New England manufacturer says that while on the expensive lines of silk and artificial silk hosiery it might be possible for the United States manufacturer to absorb this $1.25 a dozen surtax and still compete in the Canadian market, there is no chance of doing so on the cheaper grades."

It would seem that the Sun's representative is right when he says that the new duties will materially cut down the imports of artificial silk fabrics from the United States and stimulate Canadian manufacture of these products.

Already the Granby silk mill, at Granby, Quebec, has announced that it is enlarging its plant by 42 looms and installing other machinery, and a new industry is to be established at Drummondville, Quebec, for the manufacture of artificial silk hosiery, while over a score of inquiries have been received from American firms seeking sites in Canada for the establishment of branches for the manufacture of silk products.

Before the change in the tariff Canada was importing six pairs of stockings for every pair manufactured here, while in other artificial silk products we were importing $12,864,718 worth, as against a production of $6,258,556 in Canadian factories.

It is the expectation that these figures will soon be reversed as a result of the increased protection afforded—and the New York writer is under no illusions apparently as to the effect upon United States export trade to this country.

LOAN COMPANIES.

Congress of the United States, we note, has been asked to give approval to a 42 per cent. rate of interest on loans to poor people. The Bowman bill, which awaits consideration, would establish 3½ per cent. a month as the maximum legal rate on loans of $300 or less. Indulge in a little mental arithmetic and you will discover that this works out at the yearly rate we have mentioned above. Naturally, the American Association of Personal Finance Companies, sponsors of the bill, prefer to have it discussed in terms of 3½ per cent. a month. Nothing was said about 42 per cent. until the People's Legislative Service, at Washington, called the public's attention to the extent of the demands being made by loan companies. There is a wide difference of opinion about the benefits of the law. One group holds that it checks the loan sharks who would be charging from 100 to 240 per cent. interest and that 3½ per cent. a month is quite reasonable when applied to small personal loans. The other group contends that such rate is outrageous and that any money lender who exacts it is himself in the loan shark class. It is interesting to note that Mr. Leon Henderson, director of the Russell Sage Foundation's Department of Remedial Loans, is an advocate of the proposed legislation. He presents figures to show that 3½ per cent. is justified by the cost of doing business in small loans and by the necessity of attracting capital to the business if poor people are to be able to get them. And he regards the bill as a philanthropic proposal. "At different times," says Mr. Henderson, "they have attempted in the United States to put the legal rate all the way from 6 per cent. to 60. But the question is what rate will supply the capital, because people are going to have loans. Last year we had about $2,500,000,000 in sums of $300 or less and about $1,500,000,000 was borrowed at an average cost to the borrower of about 30 per cent. and the other billion at a minimum of 180 per cent." Opponents of the measure have called it everything from "commercial cannibalism" to "a vicious damnable method for blood-money gatherers to pilfer the pockets of the poor." The extent of the operations of loan companies is only partially revealed by the statement of Mr. Henderson, reproduced above. A survey has revealed that 80 per cent. of the population of the United States has to employ with regularity some form of small loan credit.—Hamilton Spectator.

SCHOOL DAYS—THEN AND NOW.

No one who has driven along country road or paved highway near the hour when classes are opening or closing for the day can have failed to encounter gay companies of boys and girls sauntering along to the Little Red School House—or the high school with which most towns are provided. Memories need not go back very far to a time when an earlier generation trudged just as merrily on roads seldom "improved" and never paved, because the day of automobiles was but at dawn. If one lived a mile or so from the school one was considered as being almost next door to it; two or three miles was an easy tramp twice a day with lunch pail swinging nonchalantly.

Winter made but little difference, although sometimes the smallest youngsters would get out of their depth in the snow, their short legs unable to conquer the drifts. Going to the nearest collegiate for the country boy or girl usually meant just a longer walk than to the rural school, or a daily trip by bicycle if the distance warranted; perhaps in cold weather an arrangement to board in town.

The point of it all is that it was taken for granted there might be certain inconveniences attached to the business of getting an education, some physical discomforts on occasion, but anybody who spoke of hardships was reminded of a still earlier generation, the company of the pioneers, who knew real hardship, to whom education was a luxury won by the fireside, the light of candles and a stubborn will.

Certainly we have come ahead a long way to a time when a not inconsiderable number of those who must travel a few city blocks to the collegiate drive their own automobiles. Perhaps it is a natural consequence of the modern ways of living, an inevitable development of the demand for speed, comfort and luxury. We should not like to suggest that the youth of to-day are softer physically than their predecessors, because all the evidence is to the contrary, but it may be their family and social environment has impressed them with the idea that most things desirable in this world can be had with not much effort on their own part.

So we have the case of a modern boy driving to classes in his own motor car, concerned with finding a parking place, his school work sharing interest with the extensive and elaborate social life of such an institution. The Journal cannot believe it is right and proper that this practice should be encouraged. There are many good reasons why a collegiate student should not itake his car or the family car to school with him. There is set up at once a distinct line of social demarkation between those who drive and those who walk or use street cars. Just as certainly there is instituted a spirit of envy of those who drive by some who do not but would like to. Even if "Keeping up with the Joneses" must be accepted as quite a widespread adult practice, it is unfortunate, to say the least, if in the schools, which ought to be the very cradle of democracy, there should be permitted to grow up the idea of display, of material competition, of an extravagant attention to physical comfort.

Perhaps there is a tendency nowadays for boys and girls too early to become young men and young women, interested in a great many things which have nothing to do with the acquiring of an education, or preparation for normal adult affairs. In the specific instance under discussion here we believe it would be better for all concerned if students who have cars, or the use of cars, were to leave them at home in school hours. It may be a small matter, but it is likely to have an effect on the mental outlook of a body of students and to stir up feelings not conducive to discipline and harmony. It is improbable that a boy in his 'teens would drive up to his place of employment in his own car. After all the collegiate for most is but a stepping stone to a job and should be taken quite as seriously.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

"Red" agitators have failed to organize an unemployed workers' union in Sudbury. Most Canadian workers are too intelligent to be deceived by Communist propaganda.

The United States elections are over, with the result that radio reception will be cleared of the political static of the past few weeks.
